A STORY OF THE SEA.

They lived in a cottage by the seaside, in the State of Maine. The mother was a sad, pale woman, whose of her by a great wave of sorrow which swept over the little home two years ago. This sorrow was this:

A boat was hastily unchained, and a half dozen brave men started out toward the wreck to do what could be done to save the drowning ones of the ship. Among these bold fishermen was Adam Ramsey, the father of Katie and her brothers. They went out with the shout, "Courage, my boys!" ringing from the shore.

Warm fires were kindled in every cettage, awaiting the drenched forms to be gathered out of the sea.

Clyde bore his fainting mother home, and with his strong, hopeful words tried to ease her sorrow, though his own heart sunk in grief. Through all the long night that followed—when the sea called wildly around the house—the poor woman lay in her little room, shuddering at every sound. A raging fever came on, stealing her

After several months she was able to get about the house again, but was not like the same woman. In those must be a brave woman, and learn this well, to do when I am gone away." So she learned to sew for dear little Dot, to make her own clothes, to take care of the house, and to prepare their simple meals; yes, and Katic was only twelve years old then, too.

ternoons, when her mother would wish to sleep, the little girl would start out with Dot for a ramble over the cliffs. The little fellow would be wild with delight, and, catching at a bright flower or a pink-tinted shell, look up into his sister's face with a shout of joy; but, seeing how sober the girl was, would clasp his chubby hands about her neck, saying, "Laugh, Tatie, laugh!" But Katie could not laugh, and there, away from all other eyes but those of the child, she would weep her heart out for the lost ship, and the father who never returned.

"Wh'ow cwy, Tatio?" little Dot would say, and poor Katie, listening to the sad sea sobbing on the rocks below, would answer, "Dottie's papa is drowned in the deep, deep sea," and the children would weep together as to told of the graves the waves were whispering about down there on the beach.

Nearly two years had passed since that drealful wreck. A long line of green mounds in the churchyardsome with no names upon the white head boards-had mossed over, while white faces in many a darkened home stood as tomb-stone over the graves deep in the heart.

One day Clyde returned home to find his mother very sick. She had fallen into one of those fainting spells so common to her since that night, and Katie could not leave her to go for help. She had worked hardbrave little maiden-and had brought her to, as she whispered to Olyde in the kitchen, but found that she was unable to speak or move when she got her to bed.

When he entered the room, she life seemed to have been drowned out stretched out her arms to him, dropped them upon his neck, and looked up with a smile. The wind and sea were out again, angry and loud. At each sound she shuddered, but the smile did not leave her face. Her eyes held an unearthly light. She gers on all the window panes, the fisher-folks heard a crash, and saw the in one of those low, long sobs of the was so great that I awoke. But I dim outline of a vessel wrecked upon sea when the tide goes out, her life presently fell asleep again, and dreamrent out gently with it.

Two days later another grave was added to "the line of the wreck;" for there she belonged only a little later. in the wood brought out and suspend-Katie began to feel now what it was to be left alone, as the head of the house. Clyde-great, strong heart-took the trembling girl in his arms as if she were a child, on that first sad night in their desolate home, and soothed her into quietness. "Do you think, Katie," he said at last, very low-for his own voice choked—"do you think you can keep. house for Clyde, even if ma has gone?". "I will try," was all she could say, as she hid her brown eyes so full of tears, on her brother's bosom. "Bless you! bless you! my brave little girl," he answered. Katie felt stronger for those words.

She thought over all her mother used to say when "she should be gone,' and she knew their meaning now. She made up her mind to be all she had hoped for.

Well, at first it was too sad! Often when she had made ready the meal the empty place would look so heartbreaking that they could only sit and

By-and-by they grew more used to the change, and the house became more cheerful. Katie did all she could to make it look bright to Clyde and welcome him warmly when he came home from his work. After supper she would draw out her little work table, and sit reading or talking to him all the long evening, till he blessed her in his soul for her little wo-

Often when she knew the night would be wild she would plan something in the day to make the time pass more swiftly, that he might not be reminded of their sorrow. It was such an evening that they sat busily engaged in a new story which Katie had borrowed that day. There was a knock at the door and Clyde rose to open it. Katie, thinking it one of the neighbors, read on without raising her eyes, intending to stop at the end of the verse she was reading:

The door stood open, but no word was spoken. "What could it mean?" and Katie looked up.

Ah! did her eyes cheat her? Was she dreaming? Surely she must have gone to sleep over the story, and this was what it turned to. She saw Clyde stand there, with his arm dropped by his side in wonder, looking at some one in the doorway. It was Adam Ramsey! She turned icy cold. The lamp reeled red before her, her arms reached out toward her father and she knew no more. When she came to herself again. she was in those dear, strong arms, too weak and happy to say anything. She heard the strange story of those two years, in which she had mourned

she was comforted in the thought. There was a great stir in the little fishing town when the strange news was told-that Adam Ramsey was alive. own lips how those brave men perished. So Katie went on, making home happy and bright. Her father was very proud of her, and called her his 'little housekeeper."

Katie never would leave her father and Dottie. After many years a bold young fisherman, whose heart was tender and good, made her his sweet, happy bride; but she did not leave their old home—the cottage by the sea—and when a year later the old man was called to his rest, she felt that she had always tried to be true to her trust.

Historical Phenomenon. Just before Major Andre's embarkation for America, he made a journey to Derbyshire, to pay Miss Seward a visit, and it was arranged that they should take a pleasure ride to the Park. Miss Seward told Andre, that besides enjoying the beauties of the natural scenery, he would there meet some of her most valued friends, among them Mr. Newton, whom she playfully called her "minstrel," and Mr. Junningham, the curate, whom she regarded as a very elegant poet.

"I had a very strange dream last night," said Mr. Cunningham to Mr. a butcher's cleaver; but the panting Newton, while they were awaiting to-Jap had sovered the stick in about gether the arrival of the party, "and t has haunted me all day, seeming, unlike ordinary dreams, to be impressed very vividly on my mind:"

"I fancied to be in a great forest. The place was strange to me, and while looking about with some surprise, I saw a horseman approaching at great speed. Just as he reached the spot where I stood, three men rushed out of a thicket, and seizing his bridle hurried him away, after closely searching his person. The countenance of the man was very interesting and impressive one. I seem city, among thousands of people, and that I saw the same person I had seen ed to the gallows. The victim was young and had a courtly bearing. The influence and the effects of this dream are somewhat different from any that I ever had." Presently Miss Seward arrived with the handsome stranger. Mr. Cunningham turned pale with a nameless horror as he was presented to Andre, and at his first opportunity said to Mr. Newton:

"That, sir, was the face I saw in my dream.'

Superiority of the Eves of Man.

Of all animals, man enjoys the most perfect and capable eyes. With a large globe preserved in its form by a dense, thick, resistant coat or tunic, to which suitable muscles are attached for the most delicate and extensive movements-with an optical apparatus for collecting the rays of light and forming sharp, distinct images of surrounding objects, and last and most important, a nerve membrane, of a cup shape, safely lodged within, endowed with the marvelous and exclusive power of perceiving light and sending to the brain reports from the vast universe around us, why is this not the most God-like gift confided to living creatures? In this great perfection the eyes only exist in the higher animals. As we descend in the scale it becomes more simple and less complete, till we come to the mere eye dots in the lowest creatures, composed of a speck of pigment and a nerve fibre, and capable only of distinguishing light from darkness. Leaving these rudimentary eyes out of view, let us come to eyes that see images. Of these there are three distinct forms of arrangement. The simplest and most imperfect are the so-called compound eyes of insects, crabs, etc.

A Corpse in the Air.

The Paris correspondent of the Philadelphia Press writes: "One of the strangest and most horrible of sensational incidents took place the other day at Puteaux: A party of children who were playing in the environs discovered floating in the air, and partly entangled amid the branches of a tree, a white parcel upborne by means of some twenty or thirty little red toy baloons, which were attached to it. The attention of the police being called to this singular object, it was brought down and the package opened, which proved to contain the corpse of a new-born infant. Investigations into the matter brought to light the following facts: The child was that of a poor toy-maker and his wife. Just after the confinement of the latter, the husband had died suddenly; and all the household goods and chattels had been seized for rent. The unhappy woman was driven mad by this accumulation of misfortunes; she killed her infant, and then went out and threw herself into the. river, leaving behind her a written paper, in which she declared a great age, being about six feet in any vacancies at present, but then the plows may be started, but not intention of committing suicide, and diameter. The way in which the Japs managed the pile-driving, brought many a burst of laughter from the by-standers. They had a portable tripod, about twenty feet high, with two fixed pulleys under the apex, from which was suspended by a grass rope a cylindrical iron hammer, weighing three hundred pounds. Six Japs on each side of the machine seize a grass rope which passes over one of the pulleys, the foreman stands at one side, holds up his forefinger, closes one eye, and then, apparently not satisfied with this, picks up a short stick, holds it in a vertical position between his two forefingers, sights the pile with it, and at last winks with both eyes, as a signal to the workmen that the ceremony of Japanese plumb-bob-bing- is concluded, whereupon the hammer moves up and down very rapidly, driving the pile an inch into the earth at every descent, until it is time for the foreman to do a little more plumb-bobbing. One pile struck a rock, and while everybody was wondering how things were to be managed, one of the gang ran off and brought back something that had teeth like a saw, but which was shaped like

Some time ago, says the Norristown (Pa.) Herald, Jacob Klinck, a farmer near Fox Chase, was sawing down a large chestnut tree when the teeth of the saw came in contact with some metallic substance. Fearing something explosive, he directed the workmen to saw on the other side of the tree. They did so. After the tree had been felled, a gold watch, two gold pencil-cases, and a gold chain were found embedded in the wood, eighteen inches from the surface. They wrapped in a soiled sock, the tree was sawed off very close to the ground, and they had evidently been hidden at the junction of two roots and the wood had grown over and enclosed them. The watch was old-fashioned, having a case which could be detached, and was inscribed with the date 1740. One of the pencil cases was provided with a pen: The other had only a pencil and was minus the seal. The chain was long and was intended to pass around the neck of the wearer. There was also a watch-key, which, however, did not fit the watch. The tree had attained articles in question were buried during the war of the revolution. FEMININE CRITICISM.—Two young

Railroad Meeting in Buchauan.

A large and enthusiastic railroad meeting was held in the Collins & Weaver Hall in this place, an Wednesday, March 15th. About six hundred persons were present, and among them some of the most wealthy in the county.

Hon. E. M. Plimpton was appoint ed Chairman, and Messrs. C. E Reeves, of Benton Harbor, John G. Holmes, of Buchanan, and Fred Mc-Omber, of Berrien Springs, Secretaries.

Upon a call for the report of the committee appointed at the last meeting, Hon. L. P. Alexander read the following articles of association drafted by the committee:

Be it known to whom it may concern That we whose names are hereto subscribed have and by these presents do organize ourselves into a corporation for the purpose of constructing operating and maintaining a railroad pursuant to the act entitled "An act to revise the laws providing for the incorporation of railroad companies, approved May 1st, A. D., 1873, the same being No. 198 of Session Laws of the State of Michigan for the year A. D., 1873, and to that end and for that purpose we adopt and subscribe the following articles of association: ART. 1 .- The name of this corporation shall be the Berrien County and Indiana Narrow Gauge Railroad Company. ART. 2. - The said corporation shall continue for the period of nine hundred years.

ART. 3.—That the gauge of said railroad shall not exceed three feet and six inches. ART. 4.—That the length of said railroad proposed to be constructed within the State of Michigan, as near as may be, is thirty miles.

ART. 5.—That the capital stock of said corporation shall be three hundred thousand dollars, consisting of three thousand shares of one hundred dollars each.

ART. 6.—That there shall be a board of twelve Directors and their names and place of residence are as follows: H. C. Morton, Samuel Mc-Guiggin and Henry Williams, of Benton Harbor; Thomas Marrs, Berrien Center: F. M. Gray, James. M. Platt and James Graham, of Berrien Springs; Wm. Pears, L. P. Fox and George H. Richards, of Buchanan; and Solomon Rough and Charles F. Howe, of Bertrand. Michigan, to a point on or near the State line or boundary between the States of Michigan and Indiana. ART. 8.—That said Railroad shall be constructed upon a line to be selected and found most eligible for the building of said Railroad, commencing at the village of Benton Harbor, thence in a southerly direction, through the township of Benton, thence to cross the St. Joseph River at such a place as may be determined. thence to within three-fourths of a mile of or as near as is practicable to the Village of Berrien Springs in the township of Oronoko, and through the townships of Oronoko and Buchanan to the Village of Buchanan, thence to the township of Bertrand, and through and across said township of Bertrand, in the county of Berrien and State of Michigan, to a point on the State line or boundary between the States of Michigan and Indiana. ART. 9.—That each of the associates shall subscribe their names hereto, and also their several places of residence, and opposite their names the number of shares of capital stock they severally subscribe.

ART. 10.—That the directors shall provide by law, the manner in which other persons may become holders of the stock not herein subscribed -- that the contract of such other persons shall be substantially as follows:

"We the undersigned do each respectively subscribe the number of shares to the capital stock of the Berrien County and Indiana Railroad Compaquest, not to exceed, however, ten

ART. 12.—It shall not be lawful for the Directors of said Railroad Company to let any contract for constructing the railroad authorized by these Articles of Association to be constructed, or to incur any indebtedness except for procuring subscriptions for stock, donations of right of way and depot grounds and bridges, surveying and locating the road, and othor incidental expenses, until five thousand dollars per mile, in good and responsible subscription to stock, has been secured to the company.

In witness whereof the parties hereto affixed their names and place of residence, and the number of shares (and amounts) which we have in good faith taken in said company, this fif-teenth day of March, A. D. 1876. On motion the above articles were adopted by the convention. Mr. Thresher, being called upon, made some remarks in favor of the narrow, as opposed to broad gauge. He also stated that already parties in this place had been enabled to secure a reduction of seven dollars per carload on freights shipped over the Michigan Central Railroad, in consequence of the projected new road. Stock was then subscribed to the amount of $12,000. Meeting adjourned to meet again at seven o'clock.

7 P. M.—The Chairman read from the statutes showing that it is necessary that at least $1,000 per mile be subscribed and 5 per cent. of that amount actually paid before any legal organization can be formed. Moved that a committee be appointed to nominate persons to act as Directors. Carried. The Chair appointed as members of such committee Messrs. H. C. Morton, Moved that the directors be authorized to select persons to solicit the subscription of capital stock. Carried. Moved that the name, Berrien County and Indiana Narrow Gauge Railroad, be reconsidered. Carried. Moved that the name, Berrien County and Indiana Railroad, be adopted. Carried.

Mr. Thresher offered the following to the legal limit of the circulation resolution. which was adopted: Resolved, That the company shall pay no money to any officers while the road is under process of building. Additional stock to the amount of $1,900 was subscribed.

Meeting adjourned, and the directors proceeded to draft a Constitution and By-Laws.

> A streetyped resolution adopted at all the meetings of the inflationist. whether in State conventions or at ward clubs is to the effect that the notes of the National Banks shall be withdrawn, and legal-tender greenbacks issued in their place. That is a fundamental principle in that party, on which there is no difference in sentiment. Has the proposition any subtantial basis of justice, and to what extent?

> If the National Banks are to be allowed permanently to issue banknotes redeemable in Government legal-tender notes which are redeemable in nothing, then there is a show of good sense and sound policy in having all the currency issued directly by the Government. If the United States are to have a permanent paper money, redeemable at no time or place or in any form, and such paper is to be a legal tender, there can be but little occasion or propriety in having the banks issued paper money redeemed in the irredeemable legaltenders.

> The whole business of having banks issuing their paper to the extent of $300,000,000, or at any extent, with no other redemption than other paper irredeemable in anything, is illegitimate. It is a bastard kind of banking; an entire departure from all the principles of responsibility, of stability, and of directness; a system of paper drawn in the name of fictitious persons, and passing on the credit of the endorsers.

Marsh, the principal witness against Belknap, the late Secretary of War, who was impeached by the House for bribery, has been hurried off to Canada, and now no testimony can be procured for Belknap's trial in the Senate. Neither can the grand jury of the District of Columbia bring an indictment against the derelict official. The Democratic house has decided not to divulge any of the testimony in its possession to the courts by a vote of 130 o 75, a strict party vote, the leading Democrats in Congress justifying their action by speeches, and the Republicans advocating the use of this testithe country is to rest permanently on a paper basis, would be to instantly mony by the U.S. courts in order to bring Belknap and his guilty confedcrates to justice. Quite a debate grew up on the use of this testimony by the court, from which we quote: "Mr. Lamar said that there should not be any exhibition of party feeling or excitement in the prevalence of such solemn events as were throwing their shadows over the house. It seemed to him that the voice of faction should at last be hushed. He regarded this mandate, or summons, or subporna, issued to members of the committee by the supreme court of the District of Columbia as an outrage on the privilege of this house. He did not say the object of this court was to hush or suppress investigation. The question was one purely of parliamentary privileges. He regarded it as a violation of the privileges of the Llouse for the court to issue a summons to a member and order him to bring along with him the records of the House, and to remain in court and not to depart until allowed by the court or District attorney. Mr. Blaine-Does not the gentleman from Mississippi sec, and does not the whole country see, that, having possession of the evidence on which an indictment can be found, and having in its possession every paper in the case, the House puts itself behind its technical privilege and throws itself across the indictment of Belknap, and that to day it stands as an obstacle, and sole obstacle, to the indictment of the late secretary of

Mr. Blaine-It is nothing but that. Mr. Lamar-It is anything but that. The question is simply whether this House will permit its records to be at the beck and call of the district court. There is no doubt but that when the investigation is completed it will be within the discretion of the House to permit the courts of the country to come and get evidence, but not pendente lite while the investigation is going on, and while the committee is taking further testimony.

Sidered in order.

New Mexico was no exception to Such a proposition was monstrous and ridiculous. Mr. Blaine said he agreed with Mr. Lamar that while the affair was in limne it would be improper for a court to interfere. But that was not the case here. The question was whether the House would permit the testimony and papers in the hands of its committee to be sent to the court. The House could refuse it, or could send it. "And now," he said, impetuously, "I dare-I dare that side of the House to refuse it." [Applause on the Republican side, and great excitement. Mr. Lamar continued his remarks. which he closed by offering a resolution reciting the history of the case, declaring the mandate of the court to be a breach of the privilege of the House, and directing members of the committee to disregard such mandate.

The question was raisof the tax on circulation, would rened here as a question of privilege on der the issue of such notes possible the part of a member of the House and profitable, and would remove the who had received a judicial invitation now insuperable obstacle to the reto aid in the indictment and punishsumption of specie payments by priment of a criminal. It was an extraordinary case, and one without precedent, and against precedent. He Congress or out of it, hard-money asked whether there had ever been any such proposition as had been suggested to the House, condemning the sworn executor of the laws because he cie-payments by the issue of notes had directed his subordinates to enredeemable in coin, instead of the force these laws. The grand jury present illegitimate notes redeemable was sworn to indict men guilty of in irredeemable paper. In such a crime within their jurisdiction, and case the evil of the legal-tenders the House and committee had no right to embarrass the grand jury in the execution of the laws of the land. Mr. McCreary reminded his colleague that the committee had in its possession a contract which must be value in coin. In a few years they an indictment of this offender, and that that contract was probably the very thing that the grand jury wanted to get hold of. Mr. Clymer remarked that that contract was between Caleb P. Marsh and John S. Evans, and that the secretary of war knew nothing of it when it was made, nor for years afterwards. It is now quite evident that the Democratic leaders in Congress only instituted the impeachment movement against Belknap to make a lot of cheap political capital, and when they found that Marsh and all the parties implicated in the secretary's crimes were Democrats, it was concluded to drop the impeachment. So we infer from the following dispatch:

Washington, March, 8 .- In pursuance of the new Democratic tactics the judiciary committee reports that it cannot, for want of evidence, present articles of impeachment against Belknap. It thinks, however, that sufficient evidence can be obtained if the House will pass the bill granting general amnesty, in advance, to all Belknap's accomplices, numbering perhaps, one hundred more or less. and nearly all Democrats. ### Our Proposed New Sister.

At every session of Congress a bill is presented to admit the territory of New Mexico into the union on an equal footing with the present States. It is reported that a greater effort will be made to accomplish this object during the present session than ever before. A formal introduction to our proposed new sister State may be con-

the rule that the least promising sections of the country were settled first. Nearly a century before the Puritans landed on the barren coast of Massachusetts, some Spanish cut-throats, tired of the swamps and alligators of Florida, found their way to the spot where Santa Fe now stands. They remained there because they had no means to get away, and for the additional reason that they enjoyed the society of the natives, who were indolent, blood-thirsty, and revengeful.

Little progress has been made in this desert country in the long period from 1536 to 1876. There are no railroads or canals; and for the matter of that there is no great need of any. The people do not travel. They have little or nothing to send out of the country, and they are quite too poor to purchase anything from abroad. In no portion of the country is labor so poorly remunerated as there. The principal occupation is raising stock, for which there is no demand, except on the Mexican border, where they are stolen. The people are chiefly mixed races. and combine in their character most that is evil in the Spaniard and Indian. The population of the territory appears to be decreasing. In 1860 it was- 93,516, while in 1870 it was only 91,874. It will be remembered, however, that a part of the territory was given to Colorado.

According to the census of 1870. there were 48,836 persons over 10 years of age who could not read, and 52,220 who could not write. At that time there were 1.877 pupils in some sort of schools a portion of the year. The entire circulation of periodicals in the territory is limited to 1,525 copies. In 1870 there were 40 poor teachers in the territory, many of the foundation of any proceeding for | whom received the princely salary of $10 per month.

In 1873 a system of public schools was established. At last accounts there were 133 schools: Of these 10 were instructed in English, 111 in Spanish, and 12 in both languages. By law the official language of the territory is English, though the proceedings of the legislature, the testimony and pleas in court, are in Spanish. If an English-speaking witness is called in court, his testimony must be interpreted into Spanish. Most of the members of the last territorial legislature could not read the official journal of the body to which they belonged. In most respects New Mexico resembles one of the foreign possessions of Great Britain.

Most of the rivers of New Mexico are long, crooked, aquatic frauds. They contain some water during most portions of the year, but they run through canons so deep that it is impossible to get at it, even if one was in danger of dying with thirst. They do not have fall enough to run mill-wheels, but too much fall and too little water-to enable them to be navigated. They are so crooked that in crossing them one is likely to find himself on the side he started from. They decrease in size the further they fl w, owing to the dryness of the air and soil.

In the last census reports no cotton, flax, hemp, silk, hops, sugar,, sweet potatoes, honey, or beeswax were credited to New Mexico. It produced about 100 pounds of butter to each eight inhabitants. Sage hens and buzzards are the principal kinds of poultry. The former steal their nests, and the latter steal the eggs in them. Almost the only manufacturing done is the making of "fire-water," which is sold to the Indians. New Mexico is not in debt, because nobody will lend it money. It is very rich in land, having four square miles to every three inhabitants. It is also rich in undiscovered resources, if anybody can find them out.-Chicago

New York Lotter in Philadelphia Times. The House Marsh Lives in.

Curious to know in what peculiar kind of a frontier hut or tent an Indian-post trader is wont to domicile himself, I made a journey to No. 30 West Fifty-seventh street, the house of Marsh, "who turned Belknap up." No. 30 is the house nearest Fifth avenue of three which form a brick brown-stone oasis in a waste of open

It is three stories and a French roof in height; constructed of Philadelphia brick, from the second story up, with a deep trimming of brown stone with a bowed parlor window, and fluted columns, supporting a stylish balcony. The English basement, and the swell Mansard roof complete the picture. The interior of the house has been furnished with that elegant taste which characterizes the man of money who has had a running picket fire of education poured into him, and who has enjoyed a panoramic smattering of foreign travel. .

THE PRIEST SAID 1 MUST DIE.

Dr. Bowyer, Dear Sir:—Having suffered for years with Rheumatism, and having about five weeks ago had an unusually severe attack, so that I was unable to get up or move without the most excrucisting path—my physician told me that I must die. I accordingly called in the plest. who also said I must die; but a neighbor told me of your KING of PAIN, and induced me to try it, and it soon relieved me, and in three days I was able to be around, and now am well. I would freely recommend your medicine to all who are afflicted with that painful disease. I believe it to be all, and more than you have recommended it to be. Yours with respect,

LORENZ SCHREINEH, Cleveland Ohio.

Dr. Bowyer, Dear Sir:—About the last of September my family were all taken down with Diphtheria. First my little son Matty, for whom I called in a physician who prescribed for him, but he suffered very much for some time and then died. Afterwards the rest of my children were taken down with the same disease, and wore very bad, and hearing throug a friend of your KING of PAIN I administered it to them, and it has wonder fully cured them all, for which I an very thankful.

I would further say that I have been afflicted with Rheumatism for a long time, for which I used your medicine, and it gave me relief almost instantly.

PATRICK FARRELL, Cleveland, Ohio.

Frazier's Root Bitters. The Best Blood Purifier and Strengthening Medicine the World Produces. They are now used by Millions of Pcople in America, also have found their way to Foreign Lands. The result is Good Health, Strong Constitutions, and Freedom from Disease.

A CARD FROM Dr. FRAZIER.

Having suffered more or less for years with Weakness of the Lungs, and a crouthous disease which appeared on my face in pimples and blotches, and after dectoring with the best physicians, and trying many kinds of advertised remedies (including Sarsaparille,) without inding any permanent cure, I experimented by compounding roots, using ton medicine thus obtained. I fortunately discovered a most wonderful Blood Searcher or Medical Bitters, which not only gave me great relief, but after a few week's time effected a radical cure. I then prepared a quantity of the Root Bitters, and was in the habit of giving them away to the sick. I found the medicine possessed the most wonderful healing virtues, effecting cures of all diseases originating from bad blood or weakness of the system, as it by magic. Multiplied cures increased the demand, and the name of Frazier's Root Bitters has now become a househeld word all over the land.

in answer to orders from all parts of the Union, the packages which make countless numbers sharers in this great blessing that came to my knowledge through the visitation of disease,

Rot Bitters are strictly a Medical Preparation, such as was used in the good old days of our ferefathers, when people were cured by some simple root or plant, and when calomel and other poisons of the mineral kingdom were unknown. For Scrofula, Consumption, Ecuptions, Rhonmatism, Fita, Heart Disease, Dizañuess, Liver Complaint, Kidney and Urtnary Diseases, Fever and Ague, Dyspepsia, Lost Vitality, and Broken Down Constitutions, these Root Bitters are universally admitted to be the most wonderful discovery in the world. Their scarching, healing properties ponetrate every portion of the human frame. For weakly, nervous young men, suffering from loss of menory, etc., caused from abuses in early life, and to delicate females, these Root Bitters are especially recommended. No other medicine will cure Scurvey, Syphilis. Salt Rheum, Boils, Tetter, Ring Worm, White Swellings, Sore Byes, Running of the Ears, Ulcers, Fever Sores, Catarrh, Cancerous Formations, Dropsy, Eryspleas, Pimples, Firsh Worms, Pustules, Blotches, and all skin Diseases so quickly as the Root Bitters. Root Bitters strike at the very foundation of disease by cleansing the blood, and strengthening the system; hence they must reach all diseases by purification and nourishment. No medicine ever had such a success. It is my desire that the medicine were had such a success.

medicine ever had such a success. It is my desire that the suffering all over the world should receive the beuefit of my remedy, and particularly such persons as have given up all hope of ever being cured.

Root Bitters are sold by Druggists and at Country Stores at El per bottle, six bottles, $5. My large circular filled with certificates of wonderful cures sent free.

Mr. Frank Lister, having taken exceptions to, and considered himself injured by, a local in last week's Reo-ORD, in which his name was mentioned, we promised him space in our columps to set the matter aright. He has handed us the following "obituary," which we publish in conformity to the promise made him, hoping he will feel better now, and consider himself raised "to the high moral standpoint" he is striving to attain:

DIED-In this village, March 2d of injuries received from a "fall," Frank Lister. His trust was in himkelf, and his hope of "victory" bright. It is not uncommon for men to erect monuments to mark the spot wherein shall rest their "mortal coil" after spirit has "winged its way to But for a man to write his own obituary, just when and how he died, is certainly very rare; but such is the privilege I enjoy. My friends will, however, see at a glance that I am not physically, hut morally, dead, from which death I hope to have a phoniz-like resurrection, and with an occasional 'kick' from the press, rise from my ashes to the high moral standpoint of a "respectable cur."

Prompt Reinforcement. When the physical energies are overinsked or flag through weakness or disease, they need prompt reinforcement. Renewed vigor is most speedily supplied through the medium of a tonic stimulant, and among medicinal resources of that class, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters assuredly deserves a prominent place. Weakness, whether constitutional or arising from disease or over-fatigue, cannot be better compensated for than by a resort to this prime strengthening cordial. The enfeebled invalid, the convalescent and the aged and infirm find that it is an unfailing source of vigor and comfort. Its combined tonic and alterative properties also constitute it an invaluable remedy for indigestion, weakness of the organs of urination constinution, torpidity of the liver, and many other irregularties, and disabilities and render it an invaluable protection against malaria, as well as dis-orders of the stomach and bowels. mch

THE practice of indiscriminate drugging can hardly be too severely condemned. The effect of all such amateur doctoring, is to unduly stimulate organs of the body for a while, after which they are left worse than before. Relief for the lungs is of different nature, and is always again, by leaving them stronger for the rest it gives. Why suffer the tired feelings, the fever and irritability that every form of lung and throat disease, however trivial, is sure to give when the magic aid of HALL'L BALSAM dispels these miseries, and leaves one fresh and free for the duties and delights of life? Sold everywhere. Price, $1.00.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER now stands among the first, similar purpose. The testimony of gal D. Farmer, aged respectively 78 our physicians is conclusive as to its value; and we are personally acquainted with scores of cases where it has been used with the best of results. It will restore gray hair to its original color, and leaves it glossy, and in a healthy condition; while, for heads troubled with dandruff, or any disease of the scalp, it acts like a charm in cleansing them. Try it, and you will not be disappointed. — Lowell Courier, May 2, 1868.

It was purchased in Scotland by one of his ancestors, and has been handed down from generation to generation till it found its present owner. Mr. Knox's mother recently returned from New York and brought with her this family souvenier ..... Wednesday evening, about 6 o'clock, as an extra freight was coming into the depot, Arthur Palmer, brakeman on the train, fell between the cars after having set the brake. When he reached the ground one leg lay on the rail, and the wheel of the car being unable to revolve, on account of the brake, he was pushed along in this position about 70 feet. The limb was cut through to the bone by the friction, a deep cut on the hip, besides fatal internal injuries. He has a wife and family in Jackson. Since writing the above we learn that the unfortunate man is dead.

Cant. M. C. Barnes, of the Daisey Lee, met with a severe accident Thursday afternoon. He was engaged in launching the tug which had been in dry dock for some time past undergoing repairs, and was standing near the pilot house, when the tug as she moved toward the water careened the wrong way, throwing overboard the captain, who struct against a piece of timber in such a manner as to fracture two, and probably three, ribs on his left side, midway between the breast and back bones. All of the eleven ribs on that side, we understand, are more or less injured. Dr. Scott, the attending physician, thinks that the Captain may have sustained other internal injuries. Capt. Barnes has the sympathy of a host of friends, who hope he will speedily recover from his injuries. The tug was damaged to the extent of about $200.

Truth.

There is something so irresistible in truth, that it at once convinces the understanding, and forces a passage to the heart. From the St. Louis Globe, The Successful Physician.

There is probably no man to whom the community owe so much as to the honest, fair-spoken physician, who does his actual duty both to himself and to his patients. Really skillful physicians are not so numerous that their virtues need no mention, and hence the advertisement of Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, may well claim the reader's attention. Dr. Pierce is a type of a class of men who obtain success by careful and well directed effort, not attempting too much, or creating false ideas as to abil-ity. The only reliable physician in these days of complicated disorders and highpressure living is the "Specialist," the man who understands his one branch of the business. Such in his line is Dr. Pierce. For the benefit of his readers he has written a "Common Sense Medical Adviser," which is well worth reading by those who need such a work. With strict business honor, high professional skill, reasonable fees, and a large corps of competent assistants, Dr. Pierce will doubtless make his name familiar as "household words."

Dr. Price's reputation has been acquired candid, honest dealing and years of successful practice.

My practice, not one of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, witl ars of experience and evidence to sustain it, does not tear down, makesick to make well; no harsh treatment, no irifling, no flattering. We know the cause and the remedy needed, no guess work, but knowly of gogained by years of experience in the treatment of thronic diseases exclusively; no encouragement withouts prospect. Candid in our opinion, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything, or to cure everybody, but do claim to reason and common sonse. We invite the sick, no matter what their allment, to call, investigate before they abandon lione, make interrogations and decide for themselves. It will cost nothing, as consultation is free. Visits madoregularly.

How He Wound His Watch.

The Virginia City (Neveda) Enterprise relates the following: "A day or two since Mr. Shaw, timckeeper of the Consolidated Virginia Mine, found a watch lying in the snow, where it had evidently been dropped by some one working in or about the mine. Mr. Shaw wrote a notice to that effect, posting it by the side of the window to which the men came to give in their names when going on or coming off their shifts. Several men called and described what was, according to their ideas, a 'valuable watch,' nearly all making it gold, with a fine chain of the same metal. Some set a number of beautiful pieces of gold quartz into the links of the chain. At last a little Frenchman came to the wirdow and said: "You find one vatch, Mistair Shaw?" "Yes, Sir," said Shaw. "Have you lost a watch?"

"Yes, sare, me can describe him ver' perfectly.' "Well, what was it like?" "My vatch he was a silver vatch." "Very good. What kind of cases?"

"Vell, he have he's face wide open." "What kind of chain?" "One little brass shain?"

"What kind of key was on the chain?" "Vell, no key be on ze shain. He have no key at all—I wind him by zee The watch was a stem-winder, and the Frenchman had given a perfect description of it, even down to 'zee

When "Spivins," now of Mounds-ville, W. Va., was city editor of the Wheeling Register, he wrote one even-"To-day is the anniversary of the death of Louis Phillip." When the proof came up the name read "Sam Phillips." "Spiv." thought a mere note of the mistake would be sufficient, and so he wrote on the margin: "Who the h-ll is Sam Phillips?" Next morning the item came out: "To-day is the anniversary of the death of Sam Phillips. Who the h-ll is Sam Phillips?" Spiv. didn't say a word about it to anybody.

A Scotch lady gave a pointed reply to a minister who knew he had offended her and expressed surprise that she should come so regularly to hear him preach. Said she, "My quarrel's wi you, man; it's no wi the gospel.'

A CHINAMAN SIGN.—An enterprising Chinaman of Gold Hill, Nevada, recently mounted the following sign, handsomely painted, on his newly es-INSTRANCE tablished wash house: "Ab Charlie; washing done dam cheap." Virtuous public opinion soon obliged him to take down the sign and put up one with less scripture in it.
