THE WILLOW TREE. BY I. D. S. My tuneful harp I will not hang

Upon the willow tree, But will forever sing the song Of life and liberty.
While others bow to earth's control

And fear the tyrant's rod, I'll raise my voice and feast my soul
Through nature up to God.

I only ask to understand The laws by which to rise, And then assert my just demand

To soar into the skies.
I will maintain my sared rights
To join the heavenly spheres, While others cling to vain delights
And dwell in doubts and fears.

Hy God is wisdom, knowledge, power, He's loving, kind and true; He gives me lessons every hour— His books are ever new.

He leads me forth in all his fields
And tells me to be free;

The poorest gems which nature yields
Are all designed for me.

No vale of tears can intervene,

To raise a horrid gloom, Nor fabled hell, to change the scene And point me to my doom. No heathen gods nor human strife Can thwart the eternal law,

Which to obey is endless life And pain for every flaw. There is a light in every soul, Unerring and divine,
Tho' clogged and dimmed by earth's control,

Still faintly must it shine; It points to something still above ar in the eternal world, Where peace, and harmony, and love, In glory are unfurled.

There is a true, unerring voice, Which is forever nigh, It bids the obedient soul rejoice— Alas! Why will ye die? Though craven souls may cringe and wait

The tyrant's fell decree,

Far nobler prospects elevate The spirits of the free. Then break the bonds of earth's control!

Arise and stand creet,
In God-like dignity of soul
And noble self-respect.
And then, with philosophic claims,
To happy realms above, Eternal progress be our aims, Our watchword, truth and love. We'll trim our lamps and make them shine

To light us as we go; There's naught too sacred or divine For mortal man to know. And songs of joy shall fill our hearts With tuneful melody; Nor will we ever hang our harps Upon the willow tree Beggars reaped no harvest from his purse or kitchen, and match-makers could make no impression on his bachelor heart. Peter Buskirk saw through the latter as well as the former, and buttoned up his pockets as hastily in the presence of bewitching crinoline as that of a seedy gentleman with a folded document in his breast pocket. They needed clothes, and were fond of dainties. They were proverbially extravagant. Should he marry one, she would spend his money while he lived and squander it after he was dead. And, with this awful terror before him, Peter steered clear of the shoals of matrimony.

There was one inconvenience in this bachelorhood, however. That was the housekeeping; for it involved a servant—some one to make beds, wash dishes, cook and iron. In short, the servant of all work was always the bane of Peter's life-eating and drinking in a manner which kept the master of the house in a continual ferment; wasting butter and fuel, and each change in the kitchen's encumbrance being followed by the mysterious disappearance of towels and napkins and such small ware. There was no rest for good Mr. Buskirk. He tried Betty and Dinah and Mary and Ann, and then in despair, flew to a certain Mrs. Brown, the giver of tea parties innumerable, to ask advice. "Servants are plagues," she said.

"Eat you out of house and home," said Peter.

"Not to be relied on for honesty," said Mrs. Brown. "Thieves, ma'am; thieves!" said

"Ah," said Mrs. Brown, "a gentleman has no time to watch them. Now,

I should advise marrying, Mr. Buskirk." "Marrying!" "Yes, sir; a wife can manage such things much better. Besides, if you choose a smart, capable woman, she will keep an eye on the servant. It would be much more economical to "Economical!" yelled Peter, "my good lady. Eco-I-oh, goodness! Feathers and flowers, laces, silks, and rings, and—and ice cream and things

"But if you could find an economical woman, Mr. Buskirk?" "Ah! if I could find a mermaid." "One who never wasted a penny "She does not exist, ma'am."

However, economy forbade him to refuse an invitation to dinner; and whon, a week after. Mrs. Brown sent her compliments etc., Mr. Buskirk donned his Sunday suit and went over to Peach House at five precisely. The parlor was full of ladies; ladies in silk and muslins, with crinoline and flounces. Most of them Mr. Buskirk knew well, and he looked about in vain for a stranger. Mrs. Brown's note had said: "Mrs. Barlow will be with us." But which was that economical widow? Probably that lady in green silk near the piano. He could not remember her face.

Suddenly Mr. Buskirk's doubts were set at rest. Mrs. Brown ejaculated: "Dear me, where is cousin Betsey? Mr. Buskirk, you must be introduced to Mrs. Barlow," and at these words something small and flat emerged from between two portly dames, and stood before him. It was a very short and slender little woman, with a remarkably pretty face. She were no hoops and her dress cleared her ankles. The sleeves were close, and the skirt had three breadths in it. The dress itself was of very plain brown merino, and she wore neither brouch nor bow, only a white linen collar. Peter looked approval. Several of the ladies exchanged glances, and a faint giggle was heard; and as though by common consent, the two were left tete-a-tete in a corner.

"Pleasant day," said Peter, to commence the conversation. "Pleasant day, but cold." "Ah, yes; but I dislike cold weath-things,' "My case exactly," said Buskirk.

"It's astonishing how things cost. Now, there is butter—say a pound a fortnight."

"Oh, I never eat butter-it costs too much," said the lady. "Ah! and sugar, tea and coffee." "If you indulge in such luxuries, what can you expect?" said Mrs. "They are artificial wants altogethsaid Mr. Buskirk. er, so they are," "But then, habit is second nature." "Extravagant habits ruin many," said Mrs. Barlow. "Oh! I shudder when I look at those flounces. Such a waste of material." "I've often thought so," said Peter. "And don't you wear them?" "I," said Mrs. Barlow. "I have my senses, sir. I've no wish to die in a work-house. I've had this dress ten years." "Indeed!" said Peter. "And I suppose some ladies buy one every "Every ten days," said Mrs. Bar-"Oh, I blush for my sex, Mr.

It was a very inexpressible courtship. He gave her not a present. She expected none. He took her nowhere save to church, where neither of them ever saw the plate, and both were happy. At last he proposed. She blushed and hesitated, and begged time to consider. At last she said: "I am afraid to say yes, Mr. Buskirk. I like you, but you are so terribly extravagant. You drink tea and coffee and eat butter, and really, I should fear coming to want, indeed!" "I! Why, I'm the most economical soul living," said Peter. "Extravagant people always think that," said the lady. No, I'm afraid to say yes, unless, indeed, you were to make your property over to me, so that I could be sure that you would not ruin yourself. Of course that is impossible, and it would be such a care, that really, I could scarcely desire it, even for a gentleman I so much respect."

And the economical relict blushed and hesitated. It was Peter's turn to pause and consider. He went away to do so, and returning suddenly to his house, found his rushed back to the Widow Barlow's. "My money would be safer in your moan.

"What a treasure you are, my dear. The washing, I suppose? My mother always washed on Monday.' And away he went, content with himself and all the world. At six he returned. Horror of horrors! there were ladders against his house, and men upon them. Had there been a fire? He rushed up, breathless. "What is the matter? Who are thieves! oh. I must be dreaming."

"Yes, dear. Don't you know the Dutch proverb, 'a coat of paint pays itself?'

Peter breathed again.
"But the awful expense," he said. "Dear, dear, you should have consulted me? He stumbled into the house, and over the form of a man kneeling in "Who are you?" he said. In reply the person produced a card, on which was printed: GILT & BINDER, UPHOLSTERERS. "And what are you doing!" gasped

Peter. "Measuring the hall for a new oilcloth, sir," said the man. Peter staggered on.

A woman was making up a carpet in the front parlor; another was arranging curtains. He rushed up stairs.

There sat another woman at work. Again he gasped the question: 'Who are you?' "Mrs. Buskirk's regular seamstress, please, sir," said the woman. "And where is Mrs. Buskirk?" "Here, love," said a voice. And there entered from an adjoining room, a lady dressed in silk, and in expensive crinoline, with bracelets, brooch, ear-rings, and a little lace cap worth a small fortune. "The furniture is ordered, and the painters are here, and I've engaged all the servants, Mr. Buskirk," said the lady; "and cook wants to know whether you like beef under or well done. In such things you shall have your choice always. There was no time to make a pudding to-day, so we must have ices. Strawberries, too, are only two shillings a basket." "Mrs. Buskirk, have you gone crazy, or am I dreaming?" cried Peter. "I am wide awake, at all events," cried the lady. "I've starved long enough, and worn that brown merino until I hate it. I always was fond of dress—" "Fond of dress!" repeated Peter; 'and loved good things?" "Loved good things," repeated the spouse; "and now I am married I mean to have them." "But if-I had-known-I-" began Peter. "Wouldn't have married me, I suppose," said the bride. "Well, my cousin, Mrs. Brown, told me that, you know.'' Peter looked at her. The truth was plain at last. He tried to speak, but could not. He stared at his lady for five minutes by the clock, and then rushed out of the house, muttering,

"Taken in! taken in!" It is said Peter Buskirk never recovered the shock. Against his will he lived luxuriously ever after; and his wife astonished the neighborhood by her magnificent attire and grand parties. But nevertheless Peter himself expired in less than a year; and the last words on his lips were said to be, "Taken in! taken in!"

The Great Bells of the World.

The great bell of Moscow, called the Tsar Kolokol, or King of Bells, is the largest in the world. It is 19 feet 3 inches high, and measures around its margin 60 feet 9 inches. It is estimated to weigh 443,772 pounds, and the metal in it is valued at more than $300,000. The bells of China rank next in size to those of Russia, but are much inferior to them in form and tone. In Peking, it is stated by Father Le Compte, there are seven bells, each weighing 120,000 pounds. One in the suburbs of the city is, according to the testimony of many travelers, the largest suspended bell in the world. It is hung near the ground, in a large pavillion, and, to ring it, a huge beam is swung against its side. A bell taken from the Dragon pagoda at Rangoon, was valued at $80,000. Among the bells recently cast for the new Houses of Parliament, the largest weighs 14 tons. The next largest bell in England was cast in 1845, for York Minster, weighs 27,000 pounds, and is 7 feet 7 inches in diameter. The Great serving maid selling drippings to a Tom of Oxford weighs 17,000 pounds, man. He dismissed her at once, and and the Great Tom of Lincoln 12,000 pounds. Kissing .- A Michigan Man's Opinion.

As the Beecher trial brought out a great many remarks about kissing, I have ransacked old papers and books innumerable to find out about the sweetest thing in life. So here is what I have found out, and what I know about kissing. Webster says a kiss is a salute with the lips. I am of the opinion that Webster never kissed a pair of rosy lips, from his very prosy definition. One's pen can-not describe the delights of a kiss, nor one's tongue express the ecstacy they feel when they first pressed the red ripe lips of their sweetheart. Would you, could you say that the kiss Katie gave you when you asked her to be your little wife, was a "salute with the lips;" if you should you ought to be hung by the neck till dead. And the ladies, the dear ladies, don't they enjoy kissing? You bet; and they like a moustache to come in contact with their lips, too, the sweet fully appreciates it too:

There's something in a kiss, Though I cannot reveal it, Which never comes amiss, Not even when we steal it. We cannot taste a kiss,

And sure we cannot view it; But is there not a bliss I am well convinced there is A certain something in it; For, though a simple kiss,

We wisely strive to win it.

Yet there's something in a kiss, If nothing else would prove it It might be proved alone by this:
All honest people love it. They tell me when you kiss a Cassopolis girl she holds still till you are through, and then gets mad and says,

"I should think you'd be ashamed of vourself." and then submits to a great many more without a murmur. A Buchanan girl (bless them all), smiles, blushes, and as a general thing says nothing, but some of them will say, "Please put that right back, immediately, sir, in the very same place where you got it." Of course we do it, and then she will sweetly hold up

On earth is this— A kiss to part forever And there's lots of other kind of kisses that are not to be despised. Kissing babies I don't like, therefore I can't do the subject justice. I don't like to see two girls kiss each other, it don't look right—it don't. Josh Billings says two old maids kissing each other looks like "two old flints trying to strike fire." Correct, Josh. Another chap who has got a new wife says "a pair of sweet lips, a pressure of two delicate hands and a pink waist ribbon will do as much to unhinge a man as three fevers, the measles, a large sized whooping cough, a pair of lock-jaws, several hydrophobias, and the doctor's bill." Yes,

My soul is trembling on thy breath; One kiss and thou may'st taste it; Soft, dearest, soft, it murmureth, "Take not my life away," it saith "Taste all, but do not waste it."

That tells the story and tells it truly. Never be in a hurry when you go to take a kiss; it spoils it; take it easy and make it last as long as possi-

A Burning Rock.

A very singular phenomenon is described as follows by the Charlotte, N. C. Observer: The family of Mr. J. G. Freeland, who lives seven miles from this city, on the North Carolina Railroad, bore witness, on Friday last about midday, to a singular sight. Some members of the family were standing on the porch, when, casting his eyes forward, he saw a bright light of an egg shape, spring up from the ground about two hundred yards from the house, on a small eminence close to the railroad. He called the attention of the other members of the family to the sight, and they watched it until it reached the size of a half-bushel measure. After burning this way for a while, the light suddenly went out, and those Garden soil will always pay for who had seen it ran to the spot where it had been seen. There they found a rock, as they could tell from one side of it, was a white flint. It was very black on one side, and was too hot to be handled at first. When it had cooled it was taken up and broken readily in two. It was found very brittle, and could be taken in the hand and mashed up as can a piece of charcoal. The facts are undeniable, and can be easily established. There

As the Centennial approaches, all sorts of devices for saving time and money are in order. With a view of facilitating rapid transit, a Pittsburg man has invented an apparatus for taking passengers on and putting them off without stopping the trains at way stations. The candidate for a ride to Philadelphia is placed upon a platform, where he waits like a mail bag to be taken in. As the train approaches, a machine like the top of a table, working on an elbow-like joint, reaches out suddenly, strikes the awaiting traveler in the middle, he falls forward on the table, and before he is aware of it, the conductor is holding him by the collar, while the train clerk goes through his clothes for his ticket or cash fare. By the time the traveler has recovered his breath he is fifty miles on his journey, and the parlor car porter has blackened his boots and dusted his clothes.

-Elmira Advertiser.

In speaking of the Massachusetts law making it necessary that "a dozen eggs weigh one and one-half pounds," Max Adeler says: "We approve of this. The hens have too long had their own way in this business of laying eggs, and they have constantly defrauded the public. It is high time that this outrage was crushed, and we are glad that the Legislature of Massachusetts is going to do it. If free American citizens are to be imposed upon with impunity by debauched and corrupt chickens, the Government, for which William Penn fought and John Hancock died, is a disgraceful failure. Hereafter Massachusetts hens will either have to lay two-ounce eggs or emigrate. The people will submit to their tyranny no longer. They have borne the yolk until it has become unendurable. They denounce the present prices for the present eggs as eggstortion; and of hens they demand a reform, with the determination to draw up this chicken bill, and pullet through the Legislature.'

The Purification of Smoke.

An apparatus for washing smoke, and sodepriving it of its character as a nuisance, is in operation at a factory at Menilmontant, Paris. A fine shower of water traveling in the direction of the smoke, and at five times its velocity, is projected into the chimney, where it mixes with the smoke, taking up the soluble gases and precipitating apply over the part effected, and if and disposes of their produce, which the impurities carried up with the any portion becomes dry, patch it smoke by the draught. Mulching Transplanted Trees and Shrubs.

We moved last spring a large sized Seckel pear tree, ten feet high, and had come trouble in carrying it safely through the drouth. Blossoms appeared in profussion, which of course, dropped off, and it was decidedly a sick patient for many weeks-no leaf appearing and the signs of life very small indeed. There was no absolute wilting of the bark, but it became black in many of the branches. - It is now out in full leaf and vigor, which we attribute, first, to vigorous pruning back, and secondly, to mulching the surface with stones, grass, etc., and washing freely with soap. This mulching, while admitting air to the roots also prevented baking on the surface, and third, washing the trunk and branches with strong soapsuds, helping materially to restore the languid circulation. Mulching around newly transplanted trees and shrubs, for which stones will do as well as anything, would save many a tree and plant. If not absolutely required by a prevailing drouth as in case of our Seckel pear tree, it tends to preserve an equable temperature of soil and protect somewhat against the results of sudden changes of weather.

-Journal of the Harm. Loss From Shrinkage.—It is said that corn loses one-fifth and wheat one-fourteenth by drying. From this estimate it seems that it would be more profitable to the farmer to sell unshelled corn in the fall at 74 cents per bushel, than to keep it until spring and sell at $1; and that wheat $1.25 in December is equal to $1.50 the succeeding June. In cases of potatoes, taking those that rot and otherwise lost, together with the shrinkage, there is little doubt that between October and June the loss to the owner that holds them is not less than 33 per cent.—Exchange.

deep, even if done with a trenching spade; but remember at all times to keep all the good or surface soil at the top, and not bury it at the bottom. Clay soils are especially benefited by trenching, and for a dry, hot summer, a clay soil trenched is superior to any of the lighter texture.

A RECIPE TO CURE BURNS.—Take large handful of sweet clover, a piece of mutton tallow as large as a goose egg, if you have it-if not. lard will answer, and simmer them together, and then strain; then add half as much bees' wax as tallow, and half as much resin as bees' wax, and melt together, and you will have an excellent salve for burns, as also for many other purposes. GRAHAM GEMS.—One and a half pints milk and water; three tablespoons yeast, stir very stiff with Graham flour; a half teaspoon of salt. Set in a warm place in winter. In the morning add half an even teaspoon of saluratus, dissolved in warm water, and two tablespoons of molasses. Heat the gem-irons before using, putting them in to a hot oven. It is necessary they should bake quick. One or two eggs improves them. CHICKEN SALAD.—Boil a chicken; do not chop very fine; cut up one bunch of celery in pieces the size of a cent; to make the dressing, mash smooth the yolk of a hard boiled egg, one full teaspoonful of salt, one or two tablespoonfuls of made mustard; stir in slowly four tablespoonfuls of sweet oil then two tablespoonful of vinegar; pour over the chicken and VEGETABLE SOUP.—Take four potatoes, three turnips, one carrot and three onions; cut them into small pieces and put them into a stewpan, with a quarter of a pound each of butter and ham, and a bunch of parsley; let them remain ten minutes over a brisk fire, add a large teaspoonful of flour; mix well in, moisten with two quarts of broth and pint of boiling milk; boil up, season with salt and sugar; run through a hair sieve; put into another stewpan and boil again. Skim and serve fried bread PUDDING SAUCE.—Take the whites of two eggs, well beaten; add to them the juice of one lemon, with the peal grated, and four tablespoonfuls of boiling milk. Stir in one tablespoonful of pulverized sugar.

CALVES' OR PIGS' FEET BLANC Mange.—Boil one set of feet in four or five quarts of water without salt. When reduced to one quart, strain: add one of milk, using any flavor that is agreeable. Then boil the whole fifteen minutes, and seventeen, strain and boil into moulds.

To CURE A SCALD.—Take the superfine clum flour and lard, and rub together to the consistency of a salve;

The expected universal hegira to he Centennial has not yet taken place, the attendance of people paysing 50 cents apiece to see the great Exhibition having, on no day, since the opening, exceeded sixty thousand. The affair is, however, in everything foreign manufacturers who, have brought it to its present near degree of completion.

The Detroit Post thinks the delegates chosen to the Republican national convention from Michigan stand Blaine 16, Bristow 4, Conkling 1, and Hayes 1. The Tribunc thinks the delegates about equally divided between Blaine and Bristow, and the Free Press and Adrian Times claim for Blaine 12, Bristow 9, Hayes 1. The press throughout the State manifest great satisfaction in the fact that an unpledged delegation will go to Cincinnati.

Peter Cooper has declined the presidential nomination tendered him bythe Greenbackers at Indianapolis. Senator Booth, whom they nominated for Vice President, is said to have intimated that it is his intention to ignore his nomination entirely. Before they made these selections they tried to get the consent of Judge David Davis and Ex-Governor William Allen to accept the place at the head of the ticket, but in vain. If they cannot get any one else to accept, there is our Moses, of Detroit, who will be Yesterday a large number of State Conventions were held, as follows: The Democratic Convention, at Lansing; the Alabama Republicans, at Montgomery; the California Democrats, at San Francisco; the Illinois Republicans, at Springfield; the Kansas Republicans, at Topeka; the Minnesota Republicans, at St. Paul; the Missouri Republicans, at Jefferson City; the New Hampshire Republicans, at Concord; the Colorado Democrats, at Pueblo. To-day the Kentucky Democratic Convention is being held at Louisville.

In view of possible contingencies at Cincinnati is it wise in preferring one of several distinguished Republicans to permit zeal to run away with discretion? One may be called to support the candidate selected by the National Convention who is not the one preferred. The friends of some of the gentlemen go so far as to de-clare that if any other than their own candidate is nominated the Republican party will go to the wall. If either of those others should be nominated at Cincinnati, such a prediction would be a bitter pill to swallow, unless, indeed, these indiscreet political prophets propose to aid in its verification by voting with the Democracy.

A Washington dispatch to the Chicago Tribune says that Secretary Chandler has been arranging the documents from the records of the Interior Department, proving that Jacob Thompson, the last Democratic Secretary of the Interior, in 1860, abstracted $7.00,000 of the public moneys, thus helping to plunder the National Treasury, so as to help the secessionists destroy the Union; that Thompson is still living, and is rich. and ought to be made to repay the amount out of which he swindled the Government; and that, if the Senate holds that if it has jurisdiction in the Belknap case, and can impeach a man after he is out of office, he will the impeachment of Thompson. DemCABINET CHANGES.

On Monday, President Grant sent o the Senate three nominations of considerable importance, two of them being changes in Cabinet officers, and the other an appointment of a new Minister to England. Edwards Pierre-pont, of New York, present Attorney General, was nominated for Minister to England in place of General Schenck. Judge Alfonzo Taft, of Ohio, present Secretary of War, was nominated for Attorney General. J. D. Cameron, of Pennsylvania, is nominated for Secretary of War. Respecting these nominations, the Inter-Ocean has the following to say:

"The changes in the Cabinet anes W. Field called the convention nounced this morning will somewhat rder, and Dick Travellick made a surprise the country, though they are in every way desirable. Mr. Pierrepont, though in most respects an excellent officer and a gentleman who will be satisfactory as Minister to England, has not exactly fulfilled the expectations of Republicans in the office of Attorney General, and retires from that position without the regret though with the respect of his party friends. Mr. Taft, in succeeding to the place, enters upon duties much more in accord with his tastes and education, and, it cannot be doubted, will make a most efficient head of the Department of Justice. Don Cameron, who takes the War portfolio, is an energetic and active Republican, the son of the Senator from Pennsylvania of that name, and well and fa-vorably known. He is a prominent railroad official, and is at this time, we believe, President of the Northern Central Company. Pennsylvania has not been represented in the Cabinet for some years, with the exception of the short service of Secretary Borie, and it is proper that this great State should be thus recognized by the President. We predict that Mr. Cameron will give satisfaction in his new position, and prove the wisdom of General Grant in selecting him for the place. Of course it will be seen by numerous suspicious gentlemen that thi move is one of political significance and has some deep design on the coming Presidential nomination at Cincinnati; but all such insinuations are idle and unworthy of consideration The President has seen proper to reconstruct his Cabinet, as he has right to do, and its construction in this seems one likely to result favora-

We have most lovely weather, continual sunshine, very hot days but cool nights.

We have the brightest prospect for an abundant harvest ever gathered in this State. The wheat and barley are very heavy and will be ready for harvest in about three weeks. Clover cutting is going on rapidly. We cut from three to four crops a year of Alfalfa Clover.

The peaches, almonds and apricots are half grown, and we shall have an abundant fruit crop all over the State. The mines are yielding large returns of the precious metals; business is brisk, and altogether, prosperity is in our beautiful golden State.

The Chinese immigration is the worst feature of all here, and is causing serious trouble. Large meetings are held to devise some way to drive the Johns from our coast. Dens of gambling and prostitution among them are routed. The people are in dead carnest, for they are a curse to any community.

John and James Painter, old citizens of Weesaw and brothers of Jerry Painter (an old reliable citizen of Weesaw) both live here; also A. J. Painter, older brother. The boys are doing well and like it here. I see them every week. A. J. Painter got very badly gored in the right arm by a wild cow he was leading. He is better now and around again.

Sheep shearing commenced seven or eight weeks ago. The wool clip is very heavy but prices low and unsatisfactory. Good wool sells for from twelve to sixteen cents per pound.

We have fresh vegetables all the year round. The markets are filled with strawberries, at a "bit" a pound now. Plenty of cherries, cucumbers, &c. Our whole city is one vast flower garden. This is the greatest country for flowers in America.

Here we have no cold, pelting snow storms. We have not seen one flake of snow this winter. Here we do not have to lay up food for stock, but they live on the green pastures all the

A suit involving the question whether railroad companies are liable for injuries to drovers on freight trains caused by the company stop-ping cars on bridges without warning or protection from danger, has been commenced in the district court at Iowa City. The plaintiff is T. J. Patterson, of Warren county, Iowa, who was injured on a freight train of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad. The caboose car stopped on a bridge some 40 feet high over a railway, when Patterson stepped off to look after his cattle, and, the night being dark, he walked off and fell, crushing in his skull and breaking his limbs fearfully. He has been under the doctor's treatment ever since, and is slowly recovering. Not being able to settle with the railroad company, he has commenced suit against it for $15,000 damages.—Lansing Republican.

A Widely Applicable Remedy. Few remedies are applicable to such a wide range or disorders as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and this not because it has special properties adapted to the cure of each-such a pretence would be manifestly absurd, -but on account of its wonderfully improving effect upon the general tone of the system, and its alterative action upon the organs of nutrition, secretion and discharge. Besides its well known properties as a remedy for intermittent and remittent fevers, dyspepsia, constipa-tion, torpidity of the liver, general debility, urivary and uterine difficulties, it invariably proves to be highly serviceable in overcoming anomia, hypochondria, rheumatism, insomnia, and many other disorders and disabilities originating in poverty or impurity of the blood, nervous weak-

RACE. - FOUR MILES, SINGLE HEAT.—A lively race took place on Front street, Wednesday morning, which was the occasion of some mirth. The facts of the case, as near as we are able to learn are as follows: A man named William Smith, who has been caring for some horses on the Park grounds for some time, met a Mr. Weed of Galena, Ind., some time since, who owned a valuable horse and represented to him that he was taking care of a fine lot of horses in this place and had contracted for more, and that he was doing an extensive business and wanted a partner, as he had more business than he could attend to himself. Smith finally induced Weed to take a half interest in the business and give a bill of sale of a half interest in the horse and some other stock in payment therefor. Smith brought the horse home with him and kept it here until yesterday, In the meantime, Weed discovered that he had been "coopered" just a little, and proposed to withdraw from the turf business and take his stock with him: but Smith would not agree to this, but proposed to allow him to withdraw for the other half of the horse. Weed, however, did not agree to this, and, yesterday morning, went to the stable, took the horse out, put a man on his back and started him for Indiana. To Pathmasters, BUCHANAN, May 22, 1876. I wish to say to the pathmasters of this township that your warrants are already made out, and when copied will be ready for distribution. One or two days will be sufficient for that, so you will get them this year earlier than ever before. They will be found at the township clerk's office. The roads have been badly dealt with the past winter, and will require a good deal of repairing. If the water could only be kept out of the roads, and made to run in the ditches at the sides, much damage would be avoided. I hope, gentlemen, you will all give a good account of your work this summer, on the highways. I noticed the condition of the roads very closely last fall. In some few of the districts the pathmasters deserve great credit even praise—for their efficiency in working the roads. In many districts the roads were made as good, perhaps, Buchanan Manufacturing Co. held a as the bad weather would permit, and meeting, on Monday evening, for no particular fault could be found. the purpose of organizing a rifle club. But in a few districts scarcely a trace But in a few districts scarcely a trace Every man who can shut one eye and of road work could be found. It was look over a rifle barrel with the other, a shame to find so little done where so much was needed, and might have been performed. I shall call no names this-time, but shall watch you closely this summer, and require a close account of you next fall. The Commissioner will aim to perform his duty equally over the township without respect to localities, but don't run to him to repair every mudhole eighteen inches wide. Calculate on the road work as far as you can. Where plank is wanted, causeways to be made, ditches cut, or bad hills graded, he will be around. If there is any property not assessed in your districts, assess it yourselves and put it on your warrants; also every man over twenty-one and under fifty, one day, poll-tax. Be sure and notify every man liable for a highway tax, when and where you want him to work, and report him to me next fall if he don't come up to the scratch. Yours Respectfully, D. Fisk, Commissioner.

Blood and Liver Diseases.

By R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Author of "The People's Common Sense Medical Ad-

A healthy liver secretes each day abous two and a halt pounds of bile, which contains a great amount of waste material taken from the blood. When the liver becomes torpid or congested, it fails to eliminate this vast amount of noxious every part of the system. What must be the condition of the blood when it is receiving and retaining each day two and a half pounds of poison? Nature tries to work off this poison through other channels and organs—the kidneys, lungs, skin, etc., but these organs become overtaxed in performing this labor in addition to their natural functions, and cannot long withstand the pressure, but become vari-

The brain, which is the great electrical center of all vitallity, is unduly stimulated by the unhealthy blood which passes to it from the heart, and it fails to perform its office healthily. Hence the symptoms of bile poisoning, which are dullness, headache, incapacity to keep the mind on any subject, impairment of memory, dizzy, sleepy, or nervous feelings, gloomy forebodings, and irritabillity of temper. The blood itself being diseased, as it forms the sweat upon the surface of the skin, it is irritating and poisonous that it produces brown spots, pimples, blotches, and other eruptions, sores, boils, carbuncles, and scrofulous tumors. The stomach, bowels, and other organs, cannot escape becomming effected, sooner or later, und we have, as the result, costiveness, piles, dropsy, dyspepsia diarrhæs. Other symptoms are common, as bitter, bad taste in the mouth, internal heat, palpitation, teasing cough, unsteady appetite, choking sensation in throat, bloating of stomach, pain in sides or about shoulders or back, coldness of extremities, etc., etc.

Only a few of the above symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time. The liver being the great deparating, or blood-cleansing order of the system, set this great "housekeeper of our health" at work, and the foul corruptions which gender in the blood, and rot out, as it were, the machinery of life, are gradually expelled from the system. For this purpose, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pur-gative Pelletts, is pre-eminently the arti-

The End of a Fast Life.

A New York paper of April 26 contained the following item: "Adolphe

Lemoyne, Jr., who dropped dead in the bar-room at 59 South Washington square, on Monday afternoon, died of Bright's disease. He was a son of Adolphe Lemoyne, merchant, of 20 Exchange place. Young Lemoyne was a handsome fellow a few weeks ago, but dissipation told heavily upon him. He chose to be an outcast. He pawned all he had, down to the clothing he needed for every-day wear. On Monday afternoon he received two dollars at a pawn shop on Sixth avenue, and parted with two pairs of pantaloons. Soon afterward he went to the bar-room in which he died, and.

taking a seat at a table, said that he was ill. He called for a glass of water, and after drinking it fell backward from his chair and expired. He was thirty-five years of age." Becoming an outcast from home and society for the sake of the miserable slow poison called whisky! Pawning the covering of the body, in order that the soul might be dyed blacker in sin, and the mind sink deeper in degregation! Turning his back on God and the world, to fall down in adoration before that most horrible of idols, the whisky bottle! Dying in a bar-room where, instead of the sympathetic tears or sighs of loved ones, the curses of unfeeling strangers for dying there, probably following him to the grave! Going down in the grave in the early prime of life, all his opportunities wasted, when there is so much to be done in the world, for the world's advancement, and so comparatively few to do it! Do you not shudder to think of it, young man? Is there not some-thing appalling in the spectacle of this strong man, of fine fortune, many friends, and all the opportunities that these bring, becoming a miserable slave to his passion for drink, and allow that passion to absorb every fine feeling of his nature, every noble ambition of heart and mind, and finally his very life. Here we have the terrible power that the demon of intemperance slowly but surely obtains over his victim will exemplified. "He chose to be an outcast!" Why? because he was treated unjustly at home or in society? No. Because he was unfitted in disposition for the associations of home or society? No: Because of any sore spot in the heart or deficiency of mind? No. Then why did he choose to cast himself out from the companionship of his equals, the delights of home.

and the enjoyments of society? Because mind, and heart, and will were subservient to his passions for drink.

His heart and mind told him the path he was pursuing was the broad

THE PRIEST SAID I MUST DIE. THE PRIEST SAID I MUST DIE.

Dr. Bowyer, Dear Sir:—Having suffered for years with Rheumstism, and having about five weeks ago had an unusually severe attack, so that I was unable to get up or move without the most excruciating pain—my playsician told me that I must die. I accordingly called in the priest, who also said I must die; but a neighbor told me of your KING of PAIN, and induced me to try it, and it shows relieved me, and in three days I was able to be around, and now am well. I would freely recommend your medicine to all who are afflicted with that painful missays. I believe it to be all, and more than you have recommended it to be Yours with respect.

LORENZ SCHREINEH, Cloveland Ohio.

Dr. Bowyer, Dear Sir:—About the last of September my family were all taken down with Diphtheria. First my little son Matty, for whom I called in a physician who prescribed for him, but he suffered very much for some time and then died. Afterwards the rest of my children were taken down with the same disease, and were very bad, and hearing throng a friend of jour KING of PAIN I administered it to them, and it has wonderfully cured them all, for which I am very thankful.

I would further say that I have been afflicted with Rheumatism for a long time, for which I used your medicine, and it gave me relief almost instantly.

Frazier's Root Bitters. The Best Blood Purifier and Strengthening Medicine the World Produces. They are now used by Millions of People in substance, which, therefore, remains to poison the blood, and be conveyed to America, also have found their way to Foreign Lands. The result is Good Health, Strong Constitutions, and Freedom from Disease. A CARD FROM Dr. FRAZIER.

Having suffered more or less for years with Weakner Having suffered more or less for years with Weakness of the Lungs, and a scrotilous discuss which appeared on my face in pimples and blotches, and after dectoring with the best physicians, and trying many kinds of advertised remedies (including Sarsaparilla,) without finding any permanent cure, I experimented by compounding roots, using the medicine thus obtained. I fortunately discovered a most wonderful Blood Searcher or Medical Bitters, which not only gave me great relief, but after a few week's time effected a radical cure. I then prepared a quantity of the Boot Bitters, and was in the habit of giving them away to the sick. I found the medicine possessed the most wonderful healing virtues, effecting cures of all diseases originating from bad blood or weakness of the system, as it by magic. Multiplied cures increased the demand, and the name of Frazier's Root land.

creased the demand, and the name of Frazier's Root Bitters has now become a household word all over the land.

The largest and shrowdest dealers in medicines in all the principal cities applied for the agency, and I was induced to establish a labratory for preparing my Root Bitters in Clereland, from which I am now sending out in answer to orders from all parts of the Union, the packages which make countless numbers sharers in this great blessing that came to my knowledge through the visitation of disease,

Root Bitters are strictly a Medical Preparation, such as was used in the good old days of our ferefathers, when people were cured by some simple root or plant, and when calomel and other poisons of the mineral kingdom were unknown. For Scrottla, Consumption, Eruptions, Bhenmatism, Fits, Heart Discuse, Dizziness, Liver Complaint, Killney and Urinary Discuses, Fover and Agne, Dyspepsia, Lost Yitality, and Broken Down Constitutions, these Root Bitters are universally admitted to be the most wonderful discovery in the world. Their searching, healing properties penetrate every portion of the human frame. For weakly, norvous young men, suffering from loss of memory, etc., caused from shusses in early life, and to delicate famales, these Root Bitters are especially recommended. No other medicine will cure Scurvey, Syphilis, Sait Rheum, Buils, Tetter, Ring Worm, White Swellings, Soro Eyes, Running of the Ears, Ulcers, Faver Sores, Catarth, Cancerous Formations, Dropsy, Eryspelas, Pinples, Firsh Worms, Pustules, Blotches, and all skin Diseases on quickly as the Root Bitters. Root Bitters strike at the very foundation of disease by cleansing the blood, and strengthening the system; hence they must reach all diseases by purification and courishment. No medicine over had such a success. It is my desire that the suffering all over the world should receive the benefit of my remody, and particularly such persons as have given up all hope of ever being cured.

Root Bitters are sold by Druggists and at Conntry Stores at 31 per bottle, six bottles, 85. My large circular filled with certificates of wonderful cures sent fco. G. W. FRAZIER, 316 Eric St., Cleveland, Ohio.
