Pounds of Pork to a Bushel of

The mode of fattening hogs in Kentucky is thus given by a farmer

in that State, and at the same time shows the number of pounds of pork made from a bushel of corn: "For years we have fattened hogs in considerable numbers that weighed on an average 150 pounds on the 1st of September. They were then taken from the gleaned wheat-field and clover pastures and penned in a lot of six acres of standing corn, where they had access to pure water.

After cosuming this we husked corn from the shock, never allowing the hogs to be without corn lying by them more than six hours at a time. By the 1st of December we market the hogs, which at that time are one year old, and average 300 pounds gross weight. By a calculation of the num-ber of acres of corn consumed by the hogs, and taking what we think an average of the field in yield, and gathering a measured load, we determine approximately the amount of corn consumed, and dividing this by the number of hogs fed, we find 15 bushels to have increased the weight of the hogs 150 pounds each on an

Corn.

He broke off again, for a woman's voice had begun to sing, "Home, Sweet Home." It was a voice so think of nothing but Nilsson, whom he had listened to a few months before, in Paris. He hung on every word until the first verse was finished, forgetting even Spencer. Then, in the interval that followed, before the singer began again, he drew a long breath of relief, and remembering himself, looked at his friend.

particulars of their sad story. I didn't mind being hungry myself, dition, and also partly by the change from the cold without to the heat of the library.

In a little while Spencer returned, and by that time Fred had recovered, and was sitting on Mowbray's knee, eating warm bouillon. "Ellen is conscious," said Harry. "Your mother and sister have turned me out of the room: they are feeding her as you are feeding Fred. Ah! Mowbray, how shall I ever thank you?"

Mrs. Mowbray would not hear of Ellen going away, even the next morning, but, insisted on nursing her back to health and strength, in which task her daughter Florence assisted. A strong friendship sprung up between the two girls, as strong as that which, day by day, cemented the two young men together. For Spencer was now always with the Mowbrays. He still kept his bachelor lodgings, the rest of the day was devoted to his friends. : A mutual attachment arose between . him and Florence, while Mowbray and Ellen became not less

The two young men laughed, and the girls looked as if they would sink through the floor; but Fred's advice was taken nevertheless, and the weddings were celebrated before the violets bloomed. Fred thought it very "jolly" still.

The Cost of a Train. At the time when the first open court of law was established in Russia, a lady, dressed with the utmost elogance, was walking on the Moscow promenade, leaning upon her husband's arm, and letting the long train of her rich dress sweep the dust and dirt of the street. A young officer, coming hastily from a side street, was so careless as to catch one of his spurs in the lady's train, and in an instant a great place was torn out of the costly but frail material of the dress.

"I beg a thousand pardons, madam," said the officer, with a polite bow, and then was about passing on, when he was detained by the lady's husband. "You have insulted my wife."

"Nothing was farther from my in-tention, sir. Your wife's long dress is to blame for the accident, which I sincerely regret, and I beg you once more to receive my apologies for any carelessness on my part."
. "You shall not escape so," said the

the rules of the service, and I shall receive punishment." "Pay the two hundred rubles and you are free." The quickly changing color in the young man's face betrayed how in-

"I shall insist upon it." The course the affair was taking seemed to have become painful to the lady's husband. He spoke with his wife urgently, but, as could be seen by the way she held up her head and the energy with which she shook it, quite uselessely. The judge was just going on to further consideration of the case, when a loud voice was heard from the audience:

Thereupon the prince held out two notes of a hundred rubles each, and coming close up to him, whispered a few words very softly. There was a sudden lighting up of the officer's face. He immediately took the two notes, and turning toward the lady, handed them to her with a polite

Mr. Emerson concluded that here was something which at once required looking into. Why were the flies lousy? The fly seemed to take his position very coolly, and extending his proboscis, began to sweep it over his body as if he had just alighted. A glance through the microscope, however, showed that the operation was not one of self-beautification, for wherever the lice were there the trunk "Sir, I am the Prince W-, and

The lice disappeared into the trunk, and the fly was eating them, He took the paper into the house and waved it around, taking care that no flies touched it, went back to the microscope and there found animalcules, the same as on flies. He had now arrived at something definite; the animalcules floating in the air, and the quick motion of the flies gathered them on their bodies, and the flies then went into some quiet corner to have their dainty meal. The investigator goes on describing how he continued the experiment in a variety of localities, and how, in dirty and bad-smelling quarters, he found the myr-iads of flies which existed there literally covered with animalcules, while other flies, captured in bed rooms, or ventilated, clean apartments, were miserably lean and entirely free from their prey. Wherever filth existed, evolving germs which might generate disease, there were the flies covering themselves with minute organisms,

Some farmers have adopted the plan of turning their hogs into the orchards when the worm eaten fruit begins to fall freely. These devour the fallen apples, and the wormy apples than the hogs can eat, sometimes a flock of sheep are turned in for a day or two at a time. In orchards that are not very extensive, the fallen fruit may be picked up daily, and when enough have been gathered to make a few barrels of cider, it is made, and vinegar is made of it. If bands of hay ropes, be placed around the trunks of the trees two or three feet from the ground, the worms will go under them to form their cocoons, and many can be destroyed by removing the band once in 10 days.

"You have lost all trace of them?" "All." The speakers were two young men, who sat in a sumptuous library that looked out on the Fifth Avenue of New York. Hector Mowbray, the host, had inherited a handsome for-bachelor. "My dear old mother is still alive and keeps house for me; why do I want a wife?" he said. His companion was a year or two younger, but looked care-worn and older. He and Mowbray had become acquainted, only a few weeks before, but their natures were sympathetic, and they were now fast friends. "Yes! all," continued the guest, after a pause. "I came home to find my roof-tree literally desolate. My father, from whom I had parted in anger, God forgive me! was dead; so was my mother; and my darling sister, with my little brother, had disappeared-gone, no one knew where." "Could nobody give you any clue?" "Only the slightest. We had no near relations. My father failed, in the great crash, a few years ago, and died soon after. My mother followed him, broken-hearted. My sister, thus left alone, decided to go away to some place where she was not known, and there try to earn a livelihood. She left Boston, and came on here. That far I have been able to trace her. She stopped at a cheap hotel, down town, for the first night, but went away the next morning, with little Fred, for a cheaper lodging. I have called in the detectives, not only here, but in all our great cities, but to no purpose.

Every trace of her is lost." The last speaker, as he finished, buried his face in his hands. After a moment, however, he looked up, and resumed the conversation.

"You never knew my sister," he said, "or you would not wonder at my emotion. If ever an angel lived on earth it was Ellen. She had one of those rare, sunshiny natures, that win and keep all hearts. She was as beautiful as she was accomplished. My father idolized her. When I ran away from home, six years ago, mad with thirst for a roving life, she was just sixteen, a reputed heiress, and the worshiped pet of society. Think of the difference now! Even if alive, she is struggling somewhere for mere bread, probably; stitching her life out for a bare subsistence. Perhaps

It was the same old tale so often told, and so constantly recurring. No money, no friends, vain efforts to find employment, and at last absolute starvation. "We haven't had a bit to eat since night before last," said the poor little fellow. "We had no place to sleep in to-night. We found an empty shed, when we were turned out of doors, a week ago, because we couldn't pay rent any longer; but we were turned out of the shed too to-day. Sister had her guitar still, for she would never part with it. You see it was given to her by brother Harry, before he went away; and with all his wild ways he was always good to her. So to-night she said she'd sing to her guitar, and beg in that waywe never begged before—and, perhaps God would put it into the hearts of some kind people to take pity on us. said the brave boy, "but I couldn't bear that sister should be so. It made her so weak, you know; that's why she fainted. I-I," and putting out his hands as if to support himself, and with a strange, wild look of terror on his face, the lad also swooned away, overcome partly by his famished con-

If one goes to sleep on the left side, the operation of emptying the stomach of its contents is more like drawing water from a well. After going to sleep, let the body take its own position. This last. is a frequent cause of death to those who have gone to bed well, to wakeno more, we give merely as a private opinion. The possibility of its truth is enough to deter any rational man from a late and hearty meal. This we do know with certainty, that waking up in the night with painful diarrhœa, or cholera, or bilious colic, ending in death in a very short time, is properly traceable to a late large meal. The truly wise will take the safer side. For persons who eat three times a day, it is amply sufficient to make the last meal of cold bread and butter and a cup of some warm drink. No one can strave on it, while a perseverance in the habit soon begets a vigorous appetite for

The Election of Hayes & Wheeler Claimed

ONE VOTE!

Congress Claimed by the Republicans.

Michigan Republican by 18,000 to 20,000.

Election news this morning acts as a tonic. See him now!

Yesterday the Republicans of the country were despondent, and believed Tilden and Hendricks to have been elected, but a change has now come over them, and they feel confident that Hayes and Wheeler are elected by one vote, with North Carolina, which gives ter votes, doubtful, being claimed by both parties. The Inter Ocean of this morning sums up the result as follows:

"He laughs best who laughs last." There is a good prospect, as we write, that Republicans will have the best laugh yet over the election. There is much room for hope that we have carried at least a sufficient number of States to give Mr. Hayes a majority. Indeed, the Chairman and Secretary of the National Committee boldly claim the election.

Though we are not ready to declare that it is a foregone conclusion, the prospect is certainly one that is verey encouraging. The doubtful States of Florida and Louisiana are claimed by the Republicans with great confidence; while North Carolina, heretofore given to Tilden, is said to be in doubt. The Associated Press dispatches from these States claim Democratic majorities, but it should be remembered that these dispatches are sent by persons for the most part strongly in sympathy with the Tilden cause, and are, therefore, rather unre-liable. Still we can readily perceive that in case of a close vote in any of these States it must necessarily be some time before positive information Go can be obtained.

The chances, as we write, however, are considerably, not to say largely, in favor of the Republicans. Wisconsin, Nevada, and Oregon, heretofore in doubt, seem to be undeniably for Hayes. The following is the complextion of the vote, according to our latest advices:

THE NEXT CONGRESS.

The Inter-Ocean says that the election returns on Congressmen are not sufficiently full to be decisive of the question whether the Republicans have secured the next House of Representatives. The following gains may be set down as reasonably certain: New York, 4; Pennsylvania, 7; Illinois, 6; Massachusetts, 4; Iowa, 1; Tennessee, 1; Arkansas, 1; in all, 24. I'wo years ago the Democratic candilate for Governor, Chamberlain, carried the county by 32. The Republicans have made a clean sweep in the Muskegon, Mich., Nov. 8.—Returns from seventeen towns in this county give the Republicans the county by over 500 majority. The entire county ticket is elected with the exception of sheriff. Stone, for Congress, has 400 majority over Morris. The Republican gains in the city are the largest ever known.

LANSING, Mich., Nov. 8.—The Reoublicans of Ingham County elect their county ticket, excepting Clerk, and both Repersentives in the State Legislature. This (the Sixteenth) Senatorial district, elects a Republican State Senator, Porter K. Perrin, and the Sixth Congressional District elects Mark S. Brewer, Republican.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 8.—Later eturns indicate that the majority for Hayes in this State will be from 15,-0.00 to 20,000. Croswell's majority that has commanded a high price. for Governor will be somewhat less. The Legislature will have a Republican majority of about 50 on joint ballot. The Republicans have cer- producer nor impoverish the purchaser. ainly carried seven out of the nine Congressional districts. The Democrats re-elect Williams in the First District by about 1,200 majority. The Eighth District is claimed by both parties. Wayne County elects the entire Democratic ticket, with the exception of Durfee. Rep., who is elected Judge of Probate, and possibly Coats, Rep., Sheriff.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Nov. 8 .-The election in this city yesterday, was attended with little excitement, and passed off very quietly without any disturbance whatever. It was a complete Republican victory, the majority for Hayes being 410, a gain of nearly 100 over the election of 1872. The majority for Governor is 391, and for Congressman, 393. There are also good majorities for Sheriff, Prosecuting Attorney, and other

MARQUETTE, Mich., Nov. 8 .-Marquette gives Hubbell, Rep., for Representative in Congress, 576 maj., and Breitung for State Senator, over 500. We elect both Representatives to the State Legislature. Two years ago the country went 117 Democratic. We now have a Republican gain of

The following paragraphs we find in an exchange, and copy them to show how Michigan stands at the Centennial Exhibition:

Hall will probably close this week. It has been a great attraction, and the exhibit of Michigan fruit has done much to produce the most favorable impression as to Michigan as a fruitproducing State. It is no disparagement to the displays from other States to say that Michigan fruit stands No. I for the important qualities claimed as essential to good Northern fruit, while every State has made a good display according to climate, soil and situation. The situation of Michigan in regard to the Great Lakes is such as gives her a pre-eminence in the production of fruits, which her various exhibits, since the foundation of the State Pomological Society, have made manifest to the world.

What has Michigan proved? This International Exposition, although far from showing the full resources of Michigan, has succeeded in proving: First, her pre-eminence in the production of timber, lumber, and the various articles of furniture and building material which are made from good timber trees. Second, her preeminence in the production of fruit, wool, wheat and grasses. Third, her pre-eminence in inventions of machinery and the production of choice flour. Fourth, her superiority in copper, iron, slate and other minerals. Fifth, her superiority in educational facilities. Sixth, her pre-eminence in benevolent institutions. In all these respects Michigan has earned a proud distinction, which amply compensates for the little outlay which these exhibits have cost.

PERRYSBURG, Nov. 1, 1876. ED. RECORD :- November opens upon us with skies as sunny and air as balmy as June, and we sit with raised windows and open doors, while we take more pains to keep cool than warm. I see by the RECORD that even in South Western Michigan you have been visited with snow more than once this fall. We have seen nothing nearer to it than two or three white frosts. It is an unusual sight to see green fields and leafless trees at this season. It is uncommon, I think, that we witness so sudden as this year, the transition from orchards and forests in full verdure to the leaflessness of winter. One or two heavy frosts, a heavy rain, a wind, and what a few days before "stood dressed in living green" are gather leaves for the compost heap, but not for the herbarium. The usual reign of gold and purple has not been seen in the forests this year. One week before election and the air is full of great expectations. Both sides claim enough—there is no lack there. And it is not the habit to be over modest in putting forth these claims in strong words. Somebody will be disappointed, it is evident, and not a little, if one half of what is vaunted is believed. But it isn't as though it were the first time. There is a party that has become used to defeat, so that they can be disappointed and defeated once more without total destruction. Were overthrow annihilation we should be sad even in our rejoicing, for we believe in competition. We think it far safer to let be preserved a wholesome balance beween parties. So that while we hope Hayes will be elected, and expect he will be, we have no objection to the cry of "Reform." Though we do not believe in the typical Tilden Reformer, such as we saw emblazoned on a transparency, in Toledo, yesterday. A plug-ugly and ku-klux, with plug nose and pipe in mouth, and pistol and bowie knife ready for the death of the opposite party. Let them cry for reform and have it, but by the regular means and under hetter influences. The fallacy is that mere change will make reform, and reinstatement of the Democratic party will insure it. Some are deceived by that pretence, and we only await next Tuesday's result, I trust, to prove the illusion is not too general. It may be wide enough to do great good and no harm.

The harvest is now about gathered, and the general concession is, it is better than was expected. Nearly all kinds of farm products are reasonable in price. Potatoes are the only one And when these are sold on the street for 50 cents per bushel, none can complain. It does not overpay the Apples, just in this vicinity, were a thin crop, but never lower in price, owing to plenty in districts not remote. The only disability of the poor now is a lack of all the employment they could wish, at liberal wages, such as would furnish them abundant means to buy. All the influences of the times tend to retrenchment, economy of means, so that what people have, if it is not large, will serve them as well as possible. The margins for waste or extravagance and free expenditure fail. And doubtless with the most salutary effects upon all classes. Economy is a virtue we learn, few come by it naturally, or will know how to practice it, till compelled to find the way.

People are generally willing that the Presidential election shall come, and be past, hoping that beyond it times will be brighter. Time and ability that are lavished upon its objects will have others no more practical but a little more personal to attend to. Talk may settle down to work, such as will bring food and fuel for winter.

People are thinking also, that after the Centennial, the tendency will be towards a more equable distribution of what money the people have. All centres there now, absorbing much that otherwise would be expended for other and home purposes. The hope is that accumulations there will tend to diffuse themselves again. It will be so more or less, no doubt, and then The fruit exhibition in Agricultural the general good effects of the knowledge gained through that means will begin to be felt.

Yours truly, J. K. DEERING.

A special to the Chicago Tribune from Washington, under date of Nov. 5th says: Some of the prominent Post office officials are of the opinion that the Post office Commission now investigating the subject of railway mail transportation will recommend the re-establishment of the fast mail trains, and will support the recommendation by evidence of their necessity. It appears that the testimony taken in nearly all of the Western States is singularly unanimous in favor of the restoration of this system. It is certain, however, that none of the railroads will restore these fast mails unless increased compensation

"A gambling room over Nelson Terry's saloon in this place, which was occupied on Sunday afternoon by a number of very prominent men, was entered by the wife of one of the party, and the room was accordingly soon emptied. She took up the stakes and secured them, and then broke the windows and made things lively in general. . A Niles correspondent to the Deroit post says:

The liabilities of the Michigan Woolen and Knitting Company, of this city, whose suspension and assignment has already been announced, are as follows: Liabilities unsecured, $10,355.69; secured, $19,180.04; liabilities to 75 employers rated in assignment as preferred creditors, $1,795.68. The assets are not yet estimated. The suspension, it is hoped, will be but temporary, and other parties may "set the mill a grinding. She was two years old and valued at $5,000. No insurance. The crew were taken off by the lifeboat. The wind is howling furiously and the waves are boisterous. The bark Two Fannies arrived from Escanaba with 820 tons of iron ore on Saturday."

In the Pioneer Press of St. Paul, Minn. we find a very complimentary notice of Rev. D. R. and Mrs. M. S. Mansfield, formerly of this place, in connection with the first Methodist Church of that place, also stating that he would no longer labor as a Methodist for the reason that, in order to do so, he would be obliged to discard his former ordination vows and submit to the re-imposition of others, this he said he could not do, feeling that they were sacred as any,

THE strongest argument which can be urged against the advisability of adminis tering such corrosive and nerve-destroying poisons as arsenic and quinine for intermit tent and remittent fevers, is the vastly superior sucess in the prevention and cure of such diseases of a medicine which is the very antipode of composition and the results wrought by it. Such a medicine is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a purely vegetable preparation, which not only eradicates with wonderful promptitude every trace of fever and ague, and kindred types of malarious disease, from the system, but is a certain preventive of all maladies begotten of miasma-tainted air and water. These results mineral antifebrile remedies do not effect with certainty, and their continued use entails highly consequences pernicious to the system.

The Bitters, on the contrary, and only afford speedy relief, but establish health on a permanent basis.

In demonstrating the fact of her mar velous development, Nebraska only need appeal to her population-record. At the beginning of 1856, the Territorial census exhibited a total of 10,710; and for the close of 1875, the State records a total of 258,912—being an increase of for the period of twenty years of 2,324.52 per cent. In 1810, the population of Illinois was 12,282, and in 1830, 157,445, which was an increase in twenty years of 1181.92 per cent. These figures show the two States on the first period of growth. Starting almost from an equal base, and running over twenty years, the ratio of increase in Nebraska is nearly double that in Illinois, Take a later period in the history of Illinois — 1850 to 1870, which almost corresponds in time with the Nebraska period — and the populational increment is from 851,470 to 2,539,891, or 198 per cent. against the 2,300 per cent. of Nebasaka. Statists and political economists have regarded the growth of Illinois with wonder. The record of the State has been quoted as the most cogent example of American resource and wealth. In what is Nebraska less than her elder

There is a "national selection" in mi gration as well as in other matters. When men move they reason and select the fittest place. Only compulsion could drive the crowd of emigrants to infertile landsto lands where soil and climate are not propitious. The "star sprangled banner" floats over twenty-three degrees of latitude on this continent — twenty-three degrees, excluding the polar region we have acquired from Russia. There is room and verge enough; and yet, as pointed out by Dr. Butler, in his "Characteristics and prospects of Nebraska," "the westward spreading population has chosen a Ceutral Belt, no more than five or six degrees in width, those nearly corresponding with the latitudinal length of the State of Illinois, which lies between 36 deg. 56 min. 42 deg. 50 min." In days gone by, when civilization had just begun to dawn upon the human race, Chance reigned predominant in the affairs of men. The god-Chance prescribed. Armies fell, and were shorn of glory in one day, while wealth and opulence crowned the victors. Men rose from the very haunts of poverty, and by a lucky stroke of the sword gained honor and riches. But time has wrought a material change He no more struggles in blood for wealth, when a more pacific opportunity affords itself. For instance, $12, $6, or $3 gives an equal chance for the good round gifts of $100,000, $50,000, $25,000, etc., to those who may feel inclined to invest in a bona fide and legitimate enterprise like the "Kentucky Cash Distribution Company," of Frankfort, Ky. During thunder-storm last Friday evening, a remarkable electrical phenomena was seen at the white fisheries on Stony Island. The men were making a haul, when suddenly the beards of the crew grew luminous, so their faces became visible in the darkness, and as the captain expressed it, they "spit fire," for when they spat, the saliva was so charged with electricity as to seem like a streak of flame. On various projections at the fishery were great balls of "St. Elmo's fire." The whole display lasted for about two hours.— Wyandotte Courier.

"I had no appetite; Holloway's Pills gave me a hearty one"

"Your pills are marvellous."
"I send for another box, and keep them in the house"
"Dr. Holloway has cured headache that was chronic."
"I gave one of your Pills to my bake for chelera merbus. The dear little thing got well in a day."
"My nauses of a morning is now cured."
"Your box of Holloway's unmuniferent due of noises in the head. Trubbed some of your Oluthreat behind the ears, and the noise has let?"

'Send me two boxes. I want one for a poor family "
'I onclose a dollar; your piles is 25 cents, but the medicine to me is worth a dollar."
"Send me five hoxes of your pills by return mail, for Chills and Fever"
I have over 200 such testimonial as there, but want of space compels me to exclude.

For Cutaneous Disorders, And all eroptions of the skin, this Cintment is most invaluable. It does not head externally alone, but penetrates with the must scarching effects to the very root of the oril.

Holloway's Pills Invariably cure the following diseases: Disorder of the Kidneys. In all diseases affecting these organs, whether they secrete too much or too little water; or whether they be afflicted with stone or gravel, or with aches and pains settles in the loins over the regions of the kidneys, these Pills should be taken according to the printed directions, and the Olntment should be well rubbed into the small of the back at bed time. This treatment will give slmost immediate relief when all other means have failed.

For Stomachs out of Order. No medicine will so effectually improve the lone of the stomach as these Pills; they remove all acidity occasioned either by intemperance or improper diet. They reach the liver and reduce it to a healthy action; they are wonderfully efficacious in cases or spasm—in fact they nover fail in curing all disorders of the liver and atomach. HOLLOWAY'S PILUS are the best known in the world for the following diseases; Ague, Asthma, Billous Complaints, Blotches on the Skin. Bowels, Consumption, Debility, Dropsy, Dysentery, Erysipelas, Fomile Irrequiarities, Forers of all kinds, Fits. Gut, Headache, Indigestion, Inflammation, Jaundice, Liver Complaints, Lurbago, Piles, Rieumatism, Rotention of urine, Sorofula or King's Evil, Sore Throats. Stone and Gravel, Itic Douloureux, Tumors, Ulcers, Worms of all kinds, Weskness, from any cause, etc.

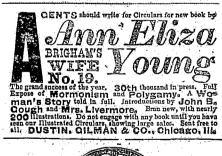

IMPORTANT CAUTION. None are genuine unless the signature of J. HAYDOOK, as agent for the United States, surrounds each box of Pills, and Cintinent. A handsome reward will be given to any one rendering such information as may lead to the detection of any party or parties counterfeiting the medicines or vending the same, knowing them to be suprious.

WHAT IS VEGETINE

It is a compound extracted from barks, roots and herbs. It is Nature's Remedy. It is perfectly harmless, from any bad effect noon the system. It is nourishing and strengthening, It acts directly upon the blood. It is quiets the nervous system. It gives you good awest, sleep at night. It is a great panacea for our aged fathers, and mothers, for it gives them Nature's sweet sleep,—shas been proved by many an aged person. It is the great Blood Purifier. It is a sootling remedy for our children. It has relieved and cured thousands. It is very pleasant to take; overy child likes it. It relieves and cured thousands. It is very pleasant to take; overy child likes it. It relieves and cured the VEGETINE. Give, it a fair trial for your complaints; then you will say to your friend, neighbor and acquaintance, "Try it; it has cured me."

RELIABLE- EVIDENCE.

The following unsolicited testimonial from Rev. O. T. Walker, formerly pastor of the Bowdoin Square Church Boston, and at present sattled in Providence, R. I., must be deemed as reliable evidence. No one should fall to observe that this testimonial is the result of two years' experience in the use of VEGETINE in the Rev. Mr. experience in the use of vaccation in the Walker's family, who now pronounce it invaluable;

PROVIDENCE, R. I , 164 Transit Street. H. R. STENENS, Esq.: II. It. STERNERS, ASQ.:

I feel bound to express with my signiture the high value I place upon your VEGETINE. My family have used it for the past two years. In nervous debiil y it is invaluable, and I recommend it to all who may need an O. T. WALKER, Formerly Pastor of Bowdoin Square Church, Boston.

The Best Evidence.

The following letter from Rev. E. S. Beat, Pastor of the M. E. Church, Natick, Mass., will be read with inter-est by many physicians; also those suffering from the same disease as sufficted the son of the Rev. E. S. Best. No person can doubt this testimony, as there is no doubt the curative power of VFGETINE. NATICE, Mass. Jan. 1st. 1573.

NATICK, Mass, Jan. 1st, 1873.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—We have good reason for regarding your YEGENINE a medicine of greatest value We feel assured that it has been the means of saving our son's life. He is now seventeen years of age; for his leg, caused by scorfalous affection, and was so for reduced that nearly all who saw him thought his recovery impossible. A council of able physicians could give us but the faintest hope of his ever rallying; two of the number declaring that he was beyond the reach of human remedies, that even amputation could not save him, as he had not vigor enough to endure the operation. Just then we commenced giving him YEGETINE and from that time to the present he has been contounally inproving. He has lately resumed studies, thrown away his crutches and cane, and walks about cheerfully and strong.

Though there is still some dischargs from the opening where his limb was lanced, we have the fullest confidence that in a little time he will be perfectly cured.

He has taken about three dozen bottles of VEGETINE, but lately uses but little, as he declares he is too well to be taking medicine.

Respectfully vonra Chronic Diseases

Respectfully yours, E. S. BEST, MRS. L. C. F. BEST.

Head, nerves, kidneys, bladder, womb, and blood. Affections of the urinary organs, gravel, scrofula, rheumatism, catarrh, asthma, bronchitis, dyspepsia, &c. Dr. Price's reputation has been acquired candid, honest dealing and years of successful practice. My practice, not one of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, with arts of experiment and evidence to sustain it, does not toar down, make sick to make well; no harsh treatment, no trifling, no flattering. We know the cause and the remedy needed, no guess work, but knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment o Obronic diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our opinion, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything, or to cure everybody, but do claim to reason and common sense. We invite the sick, no matter what their ailment, to call, investigate before they abandon hope, make interrogation and decide for themselves. It will cost nothing, as consultation is free. Let us think of quietly enlarging our stock of true and fresh ideas, and not, as soon as we get an idea or half an idea, be running out with it into the street and trying to make it rule there. Our ideas will, in the end, shape the world all the better for maturing a little.-[Mathew Arnold. A strain of gentle music, or the rippling of water in a silent place, or the odor of a flower, or even the mention of a familiar word, will sometimes call up sudden dim remembrances of scenes that never were, in this life; which some brief memory of a happier existence, long gone by, would seem to have awakened; which no volunary exertion of the mind can ever recall.—Dickens.

There is an excellent cement which ought to be used by every one. This cement is good for family jars and social cuts. It heals wounds and leaves no scars, mend life, binds enemies together, mends damaged reputations, and is splendid for hurt feelings. This universal cement is love. Love is a thing to be cultivated, as you would a solitary stack of wheat, supposing that there was not another grain of wheat in the world.—Golden Rule.

Beware of snarling dogs. There are plently of these about; they are generally very small creatures, but they more than make up for their size by their noise. They yap and snap without end. They find fault with anything and everything. When they dare they howl and when they cannot do that they lie down and growl inwardly. Beware of these creatures. Make no friends with an angry man; as well make a bed of stinging nettles or wear a viper for a necklace. Perhaps the fellow is just now very fond of you, but beware of him, for he who barks at others today without a cause will one day howl at you for no thing. Don't offer him a kennel down your yard unless he will let you chain him up. When you see that a man has a bitter spirit, and gives nobody a good word, quietly walk away and keep out of his tack if you can. Better go a mile around than get into a fight; better sit down on a dozen tracks with the points up than get into dispute with an angry neighbor.
