THE ACE OF HEARTS.

Some years ago the Mississippi River was famous for its floating palaces, as the large steamers plying between New Orleans and the ports above were call-ed. Now the railroads have driven nearly all the fine boats off the river, and left the field to the freight boats. whose accommodations for passengers are by no means palatial.

The former class of steamers were in many respects delightful, but they never ceased to be objects of dread to timid prople, for if the racing, which on that stream was reduced to a system, did not result in the loss of the toot, there was sure to be one or more encounters between the more lawless portion of the travelers, in which pistoi-bullets would fly rather too thick for the comfort of steady-going people. The cause for such disturbance was generally a quarrel over the gaming-

The regulations of the boat usually required that all such amusements should be conducted in a room provided for that purpose in the officers' cabin, situated on the hurricane deck, but the sporting gentlemen were by no means careful to observe this rule, and the gaming was mostly carried on at the dining table, to the annoyance of twothirds of those on board.

Many professional gamblers used to make these boats their home, traveling back and forth on them, fleecing all who were foolish and verdant enough to fall into their hands. So well, in-deed, was the system managed, that the various members seemed to have their different steamers marked out for them by common consent, so that no one would trespass upon the domain of the other. Of course these men were warm friends of the officers of the boat, who were either too sincere in their friendship to put a stop to the practice, or too much afraid of the gamblers to care to provoke a quarrel with them; for, in those days it was a common affair for such men to resent a fancied insult with a pistol-shot.

One of the most remarkable men of this class was Daniel Sturdivant, a Frenchman, the son of a broken-down scion of nobility, who had settled in New Orleans before the transfer of Louisiana to the United States. Sturdivant had been raised a "gentleman" by his aristocratic father, but, on coming of age, and finding his fortunes very bad, had taken to cards to better them. His success in the field was so them. His success in the field was so great that he was induced to continue it, until at the time of which I write he was one of the most notorious gamblers to be found between St. Louis and New Orleans.

He was a man of fine personal appearance, and of great physical courage; and as a gambler he was most expert and successful. There were dark stories of deeds he had committed while under the influence of play and liquor; and it was said by some that he had killed half a dozen men in his life. No one dared to speak of these stories openly, for no one cared to bring upon himself the anger of such a man. There were few who knew him that really cared to play against him, but they learned that a refusal to do so might involve them in a quarrel with him; so they rarely declined an invi-

About twenty years ago, at the time of which I write, he had attached himself to one of the splendid steamers plying between New Orleans and Vicksburg, and had publicly announced his determination to shoot any man who encroached upon his scene of operations. Of course this left him in undisputed possession of the field, and he reaped a golden harvest during the n ne years he conducted his operations

It was my lot at the time to be compelled to make very frequent trips between New Orleans and Vicksburg, and I preferred the steamer of which Sturdivant had taken possession, inasmuch as it was not only the most comfortable but also the swiftest, and time was of the utmost importance to me. It was known that at times I carried large sums of money, and I was always apprehensive lest Sturdivant should ask me to play. I made up my mind to refuse him, and if he attempted to draw me into a quarrel, to shoot him without mercy, as I knew that the only chance of my life lay in getting the advantage over him. Strange to say, he did not make any such proposi-

It is now argued that the new revision of the Bible is an admission that the old Bible was not the word of God. If this be true and the old book had no divine origin, what has been done to prove that the new one is any more the word of the Almighty than the former, and what is to be done about the thousands of poor devils who have been everlastingly damned for not believing in it? Confidence in the good book has now been shaken, and the beginning of troubles over these wholesale erasures and alterations is at hand.

NUMBER 16.

About Babies. There is no subject that has been longer before the people in this country than that of "Babies." Although very young when first born the sub-ject itself is a very old one and has been discussed more or less in every household, and in many an orphan asylumns also. There is nothing new, particularly, to be said of babies. They are all about alike up to a certain age and then they branch off in all direc tions, and seem to take on an individuality that passeth all human understanding. It is seldom you find a new born baby weighing less than nine pounds. If its actual weight is seven pounds, by jerking the scales up pretty sudden-like you can bring the indicator down to the nine-pound notch, without injury either to the scales or the baby. Having been a baby ourself we feel at liberty to speak freely and without fear of contradiction. After the baby has been weighed it is a good plan to feed it especially if it makes an audible sign that it is desirous of some thing which at just that moment it does not seem to possess. You catch our meaning. Every time a baby cries stuff it. Of course it is hungry. (We say "it" because it's more convenient.) After stuffing it, feed it more, so it won't cry. But if should break out again, presently—and it always will—be sure to feed it. Of course the nourishment will run over, after the baby has been filled up much above the ton-sils, but that's nothing. Your whole aim is to keep it from crying, and every time it cries you know it must

From the day of its birth to the date. of its first tooth you will learn a great deal about babies that you never knew before. And after its first tooth has developed you will learn a good more. O, how proud you are of the first tooth. And, O, how, in less than a week, you will canter up and down the house, spill the paregoric, and pray for the last tooth to come and give you a rest. And how you will budge Sam out of bed at the witching hour of two A. M., for this and that, and how he will delight to kick himself out and run his nose against the edge of the bedroom door, and plant his feet on a stray tack standing on its head, andstub his tenderest toe against the chair.

Iowa Battle-Flags.

For some time it has been a serious question how to preserve the battleflags of Iowa regiments used during the late war which were hung away in the arsenal. They were rapidly going to decay. They were mere shreds and tatters, torn by bullets, stained with blood, and so brittle that a puff of air would tear away shreds of them. Mrs. Gear, wife of the Governor, solved the problem. She procured white tarlatan, spread it on a table. laid over it a flag, placing the shreds in their original position, and then carefully stitching them to the tarlatan. After this was done, which in many cases was a labor of many hours. another piece of tarlatan was laid over the flag and the two pieces of tarlatan were quilted together. The tarlatan is cut the full size of the flag as it was originally, but in some cases there is not a piece of the flag left twelve inches square, some of them are mere strings.
yet every one of the more than 100 have been thus carefully restored and preserved. Every day, from morning until nearly dark, Mrs. Gear, assisted by other women, could be seen at the arsenal, busy with needles, for weeks doing this patriotic work, Mrs. Gear taking to herself twenty-five of the most shattered fragments. Some of the flags have their staffs shot off at both ends. Other States may profit by this plan of Mrs. Gear and thus preserve their battle flags in a durable, attrac tive manner.

Don't be Afraid of Work. Don't be afraid of killing yourself with overwork, my son. Men seldom work so hard as that on the sunny side of thirty. They die, sometimes; but it is because they quit work at six P. M., and don't get home until two A. M. It's the intervals that kill, my son. The work gives you an appetite for your meals; it lends solidity to your slumber; it gives you a perfect and grateful appreciation of a holiday. There are young men who do not work my son-young men who make a liv ing by sucking the end of a cane, and who can tie a necktie in eleven differ ent knots, and never lay a wrinkle in it; who can spend more money in a day than you can earn in a month, son; and who will go to the sheriff's to buy a postal card, and apply at the office of the Street Commissioner for a mar riage license. So find out what you want to be and do, son, and take off your coat make success in the world. The busier you are, the less evil you will be apt to get into, the sweeter will be your sleep, the brighter and happier your holiday, and the better satisfied the world will be with you.-Burlington Hawkeye.

Learning in Youth. Daniel Webster once told a good story in a speech, and was asked where he got it. "I had it laid up in my head for fourteen years, and never had a ton. chance to use it till to-day," said he. My little friend wants to know what good it will do to learn the "rule of three," or to commit to memory a verse of the Bible. The answer is this: "Some time you will need that very thing. Perhaps it may be twenty years before you can make use of it in just the right place; but it will be just in place some time. Then if you don't have it you will be like the hunter who had no ball in his rifle when the bear met him." "Twenty-five years ago my teacher made me study surveying," said a man who had lost his property, "and now I am glad of it. It is just in place. I can get a good situation at a high salary." The Bible is better than that. It will be in place as long which was near and broke the handle. as we live.

In the Republican of March 12 we gave a comparative table, showing by counties the total number of liquor dealers and the amount of tax collected from them in this state for the years 1879 and 1880. From statistics recently compiled in the auditor general's office we make the following table, which does not include Delta county, the same not having been returned for 1880; but we learn unofficially that there were 34 saloons in that year against 33 in 1879 Taxation was increased about one-third by the act of 1879, and the means of collection were made more stringent, which resulted in a heavier revenue and a reduced number of liquor-sellers, as soon as the law began to work:

Harper's Weekly has been sending a special correspondent out to examine the condition of the water supply at Croton Lake and finds that the water that New York people drink is seasoned by the offal from three or four slaughter houses, the sewerage from three or four villages, besides numer ous privies, barns and other establishments that stand along the beach of the lake and the tributary creeks. The correspondent does not wonder at the peculiar odor that arises from the water when it reaches New York.

Mr. Editor:-In last week's Rec-ORD is the following paragraph: "On "Monday the resignation of Senators "Conkling and Platt, of New York, "were officially announced in the Sen-"ate, and all because Conkling could "not manage the appointment of Uni-"ted States officials in New York to "suit himself. The general opinion of "the country at large is, that he has "made an 'ath of hith thelf.' and will "never recover. The New York Leg-"islature is in session, and it is thought "that those wise ones expect that body "to re-elect them, and return them to "the Senate, but it is to be hoped for "the best interests of the Republican "party and of the country, that that "body contains good sense enough to "refuse to do anything of the sort."

If the editor of the RECORD will give me permission, I will make a few comments upon the above quotation:

"Because Conkling could not manage the appointment of United States official in New York to suit himself." I do not think the facts connected with said resignations will warrant such a conclusion, as I have yet to learn that Mr. Conkling interfered with more than one appointment in the State of . New York, that of Mr. Robertson; and the resignation referred to took place before any official action was taken upon his nomination, either by the Committee on commerce or by the Senate, hence Mr. Conkling did not know that Robertson's nomination for collector at New York would be confirmed, and his rejection by the Senate would not have been so great a surprise to the country as was the confirmation of Stanley Matthews for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court.

We understand from the above that the writer wishes to convey the impression that it was not on account of the appointment in question that Mr. Conkling resigned. Truly, we never Post and Hattie Hahn; glass water heard of any other difficulty with Mr. | pitcher, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. does he find his great offense? "The general opinion of the country at large." I think this language is a little too strong, because it is well known that a large and respectable minority all over the country approve of the course taken by Messrs. Conkling and Platt, and very many others who are not in sympathy with their ants and wax tapers, Mrs. O. W. Hasresignation, do not accuse them of stu-selman, Indianapolis; satin sofa pilpidity or stubbornness, nor of lacking good sense. Why not state facts and say—the general opinion of the Bolters, weak and vacillating Republicans, and all others who think it is proper to remove honest and efficient public officers simply to make places for partisan favorites, &c. We have yet to see the Republican paper, except the Inter-Ocean, or a quotation from one, that sustains Mr. Conkling. Are they all bolters, weakkneed and vacillating?]

"The New York Legislature is now in session, and it is thought that those wise ones expect that body to re-elect them and return them to the Senate." What those Senators expected when they sent in their resignation is of but little consequence, and though their re-election looks at present somewhat doubtful, yet it seems very probable that they will be candidates for re-

"But it is to be hoped for the best interests of the Republican party and of the country." Do you think it is a fact, Mr. Editor, that the best interests of the Republican party would be subserved by the retirement from public life of one of its most efficient, active and successful leaders, one who has been closely identified with its success and triumphs for the last twenty years, and who was one of the most important factors which contributed to its success in the last Presidential campaign? Will the best interests of the country be promoted by the retirement of one of its purest, most brilliant and active statesmen, a man who, after a score of years in public life, is not So many of the young Swedes are | charged, even by his political opponents, with dishonesty, and one upon whose garments the stain of no Credit Mobilier scandal, whisky fraud, nor Star Route swindle can be found?

[Granting that Mr. Conkling is all that, no man charges him with corruption in office, yet we do claim that the party and country will both be benefited by the retirement of such a man, if at the same time the most aristocratic, childishly arrogant, sullen man in the whole public service, a man who can be in the United States Senate four years and not be at any time upon such speaking terms with the President as to allow him to perform any kind of business with him, and the same with the Republican Cabinet; who has com- zette. menced the same course with the present President, not having spoken to him since seeing him riding in a carriage with Carl Schurz; who stopped speaking to the Secretary of State fifteen years ago, and has not yet renewed his acquaintance; who, because a man cannot be driven to vote in a convention as Mr. Conkling says, must be forever his enemy, may at the same time retire. The country will be benefited by the election of a man who will not get into such a pout that he can go for years an obstruction to busifor so trivial an offence as the dictation of the appointment of one officer, and when no objection to that officer's ability or fitness for the office can be made, will desert his post and turn the did Mr. Conkling. "That that body contains good sense," &c. This part of the sentence seems to infer that should the Legislature of New York elect those men to the Senate it would be an evidence of its lack of good sense, if even a minority of the members of said Legislature favored such re-election it would be because of their lack of good sense, in short, that all those who think the best interests of the country would be promoted by their re-election are devoid of good sense. The phrase is an insult to the intelligent citizens of New York, and to the gentlemen whom they have elected to serve them in the Legisla-party into the hands of the enemy, as

The unanimous confirmation of Judge Robertson by the Senate is not a bad measure of the opinion of that body in regard to the matter in question. The almost unanimous voice of the Republican press of the country ought to be a fair index of the feelings of the party in the matter, and that is that Mr. Conkling had better enter the practice of his profession, and the result of the election in the New York Legislature next Tuesday will be a good indication of what the citizens of New York think about it, as the members are now at home for the purpose of interviewing their constituents. Among the "cross roads editors" mentioned above are those of the New York Tribune, Geo. Wm. Curtis, Chicago Tribune, Cincinnati Inquirer, New York Herald, New York Post, Chicago Times, Albany Evening Journal, Utica Journal, at Conkling's own home, which says: "A display of spite that degrades the office of Senator to the level of a mere broker of patronage;" Milwaukee Republican, Cincinnati Gazette, Boston Journal, and others of like character.]

being killed by the cars last week. As he was crossing the railroad track he noticed a freight train coming from the west. He noticed the engineer on the freight train making motions as if to warn him of danger. When on looking east he discovered an express train but a few feet from him. The doctor barely escaped being hurt by the engine. A number of cars were standing on the side track on the east side and near the crossing, obstructing the view towards the east. It is quite dangerous, as the cars run with great speed through the center of our village. There should be a flagman stationed at the crossing to warn people and signal the fast trains.

The meat market firm of Bremer & Finley have dissolved partnership, the firm name now being Finley & Wasson. I understand another meat market firm is about to start into business by the firm name of Bremer & More.

The grocery dealers of Three Oaks keep an eye open for business. They are learning the names of farmers who buy cheap groceries at cheap prices of itinerant peddlers. These same farmers, when they have any produce to sell, go to the grocerymen to sell, and expect the grocerymen to buy at the highest market prices. The farmers should support the business men who buy their produce. This is fair and just, as the grocery merchant has his rents and expenses to meet. If the farmers will look at the matter in the right light they will be convinced, and know that the interchange of commodities between the farmers and responsible dealers near home who buy their produce is the right and true principle of trade, and tends to foster trade and build up the villages, which tends to enhance the price of real estate in the village and country alike.

Mr. Isaac Smith is making brick very fast this weather, 11/2 miles south of Three Oaks. I repeat that we want a flour mill in Three Oaks, also a foundry, a tailor, manufacturers to work up our timber into plow beams, clothes pins, &c. Any man who wishes to engage in and give him an introduction to our fat President, who will introduce him to the best looking council of men in Michigan, and they will no doubt escort the stranger around and show him the great advantages our village possesses. By the way, there were 37 books on Decorum bought in this village this spring, so that should any strangers call on us they would find the system of etiquette and good behavior almost perfect, especially with the Common Council.

where the coming annual meeting of the Young People's Association should be held. After an elapse of two weeks there appears in the Niles Republican of the 19th an article, from the pen of a person named George A. Lambert, who endeavors to controvert the statements which I made, by saying "That the truth (of my article) was very different from anything which he stated." What were the facts which are not true? First—That a paper was circulated, concerning the place of holding the annual meetings of the Association. Second-That a meeting was held, of the members of the Association, to consider the recommendations from the Executive Committee; that such meeting was not a general one, ard was not attended by a majority of the members. Third-That a meeting of the Executive Committee was held and no quorum was present; that the entire proceedings were without the presence or sanction of the President of the Association, and that only those members of the Executive Committee who favored changing the place of meeting from Berrien Springs to Niles. were notified that such a meeting was to be held, although other members of the committee were present at the meeting held but a few moments before. Fourth - That results of the

It was not a spirit of antipathy which actuated me to bring forward the true inwardness of this scheme, but a desire to uphold that which is right and just, and when the truth is presented for the purpose of informing the citizens (especially the young people) of Berrien county, the originator of this plan comes before the public with all the boldness of truth in language remarkable for its vindictiveness against the "suburban editors," characterizing the citizens of Berrien Springs as being selfish and mean, insinuating that the statements made by me are untrue; that I am unhappy and need the solace of his exhalted spirit, and "ought to be sent to the asylum for the mendacious." With the impudence of a bombast, the raillery of a satire, he closes this, the greatest effort of his life, by comparing Berrien Springs to hell, informing his country cousins that he has eaten at the seventh table, washed it down with cold coffee, and was "merry at the misery of others."

Your attention is called to the paper, or resolutions which were signed by President, Secretary, and five members of the Executive Committee, which recommended to strike out the words "county seat," in Section XIV, constitution, and insert the words "at such place within the county as shall be assigned by the Executive Committee at paper was first handed to me to sign, I declined to do so, but being approach-Yesterday two tramps came along ed a second time, I was urged to sign the track of the M. C. R. R. Meeting it, which I did, after having been assured that it was not to effect the coming annual meeting, but was simply essential to have a recommendation from the committee before it could come before the Association constituthey had only water enough to last tionally. As additional evidence that such was the understanding, I append the following from a gentleman who was present, and whose veracity is unquestionable:

> BUCHANAN, Mich., May 25, 1881. I was present at the semi-annual meeting of the Young People's Picnic Association, held at Niles on the 24th of Feb., and heard all the discussion relating to the amendment to the constitution, changing the place of the annual meeting. I understood from the remarks of Mr. F. T. Plimpton, that he signed the recommendation for such amendments with the understanding that no action should be had in the matter until the regular annual meeting. He voted and protested against the adoption of the amendment. J. F. JORDAN.

Secondly-The meeting which was held was not a general one. Section X, constitution, provides that any amendments must be "adopted at the general meeting." What is that general meeting? Where fourteen are to gether out of several hundred? No; but the annual meeting is certainly implied. Again—Mr. Lambert states that two and the chairman is a legal quorum. Section XII, constitution, reads: "A majority of the member of any committee constitute a quorum." Was there a quorum present when the

He says: "There are of the Executive Committee, ten members, a majority of whom constitute a quorum," and consisted of "Higman, St. Joseph; Colman, Benton Harbor (he probably forgot to mention, by Wm. Hurley, proxy.); L. S. and J. H. Gillette, Bertrand; Nichols, Berrien Springs; Lambert, Niles; Graham, Berrien Springs, by G. M. Dudley proxy. Seven in all. Mr. Graham refused to ratify the act of Mr. Dudley, in casting his vote or representing him by proxy, which leaves six. Was the President there? I say he was not. Mr. Lambert knew that he was not. when he incorporated his name in his letter. I challenge him to prove it by referring to F. D. Nichols, Secretary, which leaves five, not a quorum. Was the meeting of the Executive Commit-

Does not this indicate that this entire programme was concocted with the intent of forcing it through, whether lawful or not? Will the citizens of Niles uphold a person who assumes to be the exponnent of justice, who, instead of raising to the sublime heights of equity, descends into the pit of unfairness for the purpose of succeeding in carrying out some visionary plan? Would it not harmonize the members of the Association, the conflicting doubts as to where this meeting shall such business in Three Oaks, if he will be held, for the President to call a and have them decide the question, so that its decision would settle the difficulty in an equitable manner?

In the interests of the future welfare of this organization, in the good which it has accomplished by bringing the young people of our county together that they may become better accquainted with each other; that the intellectual, social and moral influences it affords, I appeal again to the young people, the "suburban editors" and "city editors," to the citizens of Berrien county, to sustain the Pres- | the post office room.

Very respectfully. F. T. PLIMPTON, Member Executive Committee.

EDITOR ERA.-So much has been guessed at, so many conflicting state ments made, so many hard names have been called, and such manifest wrath exhibited in speaking of the suggested change in the place of holding the August meeting of the Young People's Picnic Association, by parties in all parts of Berrien County, that, as the RECORD has it, "they appear to have forgotten where the next meeting is to be held."

My impression has been that the article like "Cream Balm" has long matter needed no agitation, but certain parties have taken such pains to mislead the people as to the real condition of affairs, that it is time some one to believe they will make the most of who knew told the truth in regard to some features of the matter. have given it a trial, and all recom-

In last week's Niles Republican ap-pears a communication signed by "G A. Lambert, Member of Executive Committee," which contains some startling statements, which were apparently written for the benefit of those who were not present at the meeting in Niles in February, and tends to leave an incorrect impression. In referring to this matter, I propose to confine myself to facts, leaving the funny business to others.

As to the legality of the adoption of the amendment to the constitution making it the duty of the Executive Committee to designate at the February meeting the place of holding the next meeting in August, I do not think a question is raised. Did that Committee do any thing of the kind? If they did not, must the meeting next August not be held at the place designated before the constitution was altered?

Mr. Lambert says: "There are of the Executive Committee ten members, a majority of whom constitute a quorum." So far correct. He then goes on to say: "That portion present consisted of Higman of St. Joseph, Coleman of Benton Harbor, L. S. and J. H. Gillette of Bertrand, Nichols of Berrien Springs, Lambert of Niles; the vote Graham of Berrien Springs was cast by G. M. Dudley of that village, as his proxy."
By that way of figuring, there would certainly be a quorum present. But Mr. Lambert's memory has evidently been overtaxed. The fact is J. H. Gillette left the hall before this alleged meeting was held, and the vote of Graham was not cast by G. M. Dudley, nor by any other person.

There were present, Hurly, who said he represented Higman and Coleman, L. S. Gillette, Nichols and Lambert, and no other members of the Executive Committee. Count them and see if you can discover a majority of the members of that committee. Further on he draws on that same memory of his, and relates the following: "The result of the vote on the prop-except in four or five points. The fac was, Lambert asked Hurly "Shall the next August meeting of this Associa-'Yes." L. S. Gillette said "No." Nichols said "No" and Lambert said "I should remark yes." Graham did not vote by Dudly, his proxy, Dudley did not vote, did not have any proxy and could not vote. The President was not present. Such was the alleged decision of the Executive Committee to hold the next meeting in Niles-without organization, without a chairman, without a quorum, and certainly without effect. As to the superior advantages of Niles as a picnic place, I have nothing to say; the people know well enough what they are.

The subscriber does not believe that President Gillette, or the members generally of the Executive Committee will recognize the abortive action at that alleged meeting of that committee. Further than that, deponent believes that the next meeting of the Young People's Picnic Association of Berrier County, will be held on the first Wednesday of August, 1881, at Barnard Grove, Berrien Springs.

MASTER ARTHUR ROE had the misfortune to have his arm broken Monday afternoon.

MR. FRANK HONIKER, an old resident of this place, later of Jackson, Mich., died at the residence of Mr. Isaac Brown, his son-in-law, in this place yesterday morning, aged 69 years.

THE soda water business is now in its prime. Messrs. Weston and Severson have each put their fountain in working order and are prepared for 'Trs said that the C. W. & M. Co will accept the $85,000 already subscribed and the right of way, and commence work on the extension to the lake, providing people are not niggardly about donating right of way. SINCE the last issue of the RECORD we are informed that the annual meeting of the Pioneers' Association of Cass county will be held in Cassopolis June 15, instead of 22, as was announced in that number of the RECORD.

CLINTON COUNTY farmers complain of sheep killing dogs.—Buchanan Rec-Over this way the farmers complain of dogs killing sheep.—Dowagiac Times

Two more picnic parties took the benefit of the narrow gauge railroad train trip to dinner and returned with it to the grove on L. P. Fox's place, a distance of about four miles as the road runs, Saturday afterneon, remaining until evening.

THERE was a pleasant social gathering at the residence of J. D. McCord, at which ice cream and cake and a social chat were the leading attractions, last evening, for the lenefit of the Presbyterian church.

THE Grange picnic held yesterday in Berrien Springs was not very well attended. The weather was hot and the roads extremely dusty, so the greatest pleasure was to be found in staying in the shade and away from the roads.

THE Berrien Springs papers appear to have found something fearfully nasty that they don't dare to talk about in plain English, and so contain sidewise hints about it every week. Either speak out or keep mum is the best way in such cases.

THE Buchanan Reporter of last week tells about some of the citizens of Lake township using the Prosecuting Attorney's name in connection with tar and feathers. James, here is an opportunity to rise and explain.-Journal. A later issue of the Reporter hastens to the rescue of James, and rises to explain that James was not so much at fault as the Reporter reported. On account of the excessive dry weather it is feared that the supply of flowers for decoration day will not be very plenty. The committee desires that all who have flowers will be as liberal in donating them as possible.

Please leave them at the old school house, on Second street. MONDAY was about the quietest circus day we have ever seen in Buchanan. It didn't happen to be the kind that draws a crowd. The advertising was not very extensive, but those who attended report that they had a good performance.

Last evening the track layers quit their day's work on the Dunbar farm. within a mile of the township line, and expect to cross into Oronoko by Saturday. Several thousand dollars of the donation will then be due, and those who gave the notes may expect to be called upon for it.

By reports lately received from Ben ton Harbor, it looks now as if the cloud had passed away, and that the citizens of that place would succeed in their great undertaking in raising the required amount neccessary to secure them the north and south railroad. The last $5,000 is always the hardest to get in such cases. Brick are now being drawn upon the ground for the new building at the wagon works that is to accommodate the iron workers. It is to be 109 feet long, of the same width as the old building, and two stories high. This will make one continuous building 237 feet in length.

STILL the war on the subject of the young people's picnic wages. The suggestion of Mr. F. T. Plimpton, in his communication, that a meeting of the Executive Committee be held, and the question of location of the meetings be decided, and stop quarreling about it, appears to be a good one.

Two men from Berrien Springs, who have been engaged to work in this place with their teams, were considerably troubled Monday to find a place to board. They complained that the boarding houses were all full, houses all full and no chance to rent, and they must either board at some country place, buy a house and turn some one else out, or not come.

THE Free Press correspondent at Berrien Springs says that thousands of acres of wheat had been plowed up in this county and Cass. The Niles correspondent to the same paper says that not 100 acres have been plowed up in both counties, and both make great emphasis on their "personal observation." Personal observation from this point leads to the belief that they have both been mistaken in their lives.

A NEW DEPARTURE.—"If the mountain will not come to Mahomet, Mahomet must go to the mountain." If the mass of the people will not come to the people. Therefore, Providence permitting, there will be a short preach ing service on the public street, in front of J. H. Roe's store, next Sabbath afternoon at six o'clock. Good music: Everybody invited.

MR. J. E. DEMOTT, a well-to-do farmer of Niles township, was arrested last Saturday, charged with having sold in the market of Niles the carcas of a hog that had died of disease. He is under bonds in the amount of $500 to appear for examination in Niles. June 4. Some of the friends of Mr.

DeMott represent to us that this prosecution is a matter of spite work of the complaining witness, and that such will be shown when the examination comes off.

Two German ladies were here on Saturday last who reside near Buchanin. They stated that one of them sold 25 dozen eggs in Buchanan for 9 cents a dozen and her butter at a shilling a pound. The other got 10 cents a dozen for her eggs here and 16 cents a pound for her butter.-Niles Mirror. . Pshaw! Mr. Cook, that's nothing

J. B. Wells took a load of wheat to Niles Saturday, and all the combination there would give him was $1.07, and the market here was $1.10 all day, and one load sold for $1.101/2, and today $1.23 was paid. Butter and eggs! Small business to make so much blow about.

KILLED .- A man who was traveling west on the Michigan road with a team, one of which was a stallion, stopped for dinner by the road side, about a mile east of the McMullen corners, south of this place. While he was leading this stallion to a grazing plat the horse jumped upon him and tramped him under foot, and so injured him that he died in a short time afterward. After this the horse became so unmanageable that the owner found it necessary to shoot him. The name of the victim was Washington Benson, of Porter, Cass county, who, with his family, and accompanied by a neighbor. were going to Iowa to seek a home.

THE FAIR .- It is proposed to hold an Agricultural Fair in this place this year, and a meeting of the citizens of Buchanan and vicinity will be held in Rough's Opera House for the purpose of discussing the question, to-morrow, Friday, evening. There is no reason hold of the work with the vim that characterizes the citizens of this place in such matters, and we are confident that they will. It is now thought that the last three days in September will be the proper date for the fair; but that will be one of the questions for discussion at the meeting.

THE St. Joseph Herald says: "Mr. Merrison has just let the contract to H. Kingsley for the largest brick build ing in Berrien county, 62x154 feet, two stories high, into which machinery for the manufacture of paper will very soon be placed. It is the intention to make Morrison's paper mill among the first of its class in Michigan."-Niles Republican. The writer of the above ought to come to Buchanan and take a squint at the surroundings, before he talks so confidently about the largest building in Berrien county. The Rough Brothers' new building is two feet longer and two feet wider than the one mentioned, and has two and one-half s ories and basement. Try again.

THE worst frauds upon the newspaper and advirtising fraternity are the patent medicine men, and the most cheeky of all these is one in New York State, who has some great professor find a comet and forthwith sends an account of his great discovery, being sure to mention his medicines in the account, to all the papers in the country and asks them to publish it, and we are sorry to announce that about one publisher in three is just fool enough to do so. In this way this man sponges out of the publishers several thousand dollars worth of advertising that he is too penurious to pay for. If one of the publishers who noticed this comet were to ask him for a bottle of his medicine, they would be apt to receive the reply, "Yes; for a dollar," and that ought to be the reply they should send him. BERRIEN SPRINGS, May 20, 1881. EDITOR RECORD:-In your issue of May 19, I notice in your columns an article from the editor, that states that the census of the township was so reported that the report does not show that there is any village" etc. All a mistake. The report on the schedules at the close of the enumeration of the village reads as follows: "Here ends the enumeration of the Village of Buchanan." The fault lies with the Department, and it may be that they seek to blot out the village, having an eye on that $3,000 business.

Very Respectfully, ENUMERATOR.

NILES is getting to be quite a stir ring little town, especially on Sundays F'rinstance: Last Sunday a foot-race was billed, and about 400 people wended their way to the fair ground to witness the esthetic spot. Doc. Bonine's boy, Fred, Charley Smith, a son of his father, and his father a butcher, were the contestants. The stakes were $25. and the distance 100 vards. Bo9 made it in 10¾ seconds. Smith didn't. Hank Wheeler, a popular beer jerker, was timer, while the betting was principally confined to deacons, lawyers and doctors. Over $400 changed hands, a crowd from Buchanan losing heavily. One of our townsmen, who was there and strayed in under the impression that it was a camp-meeting, got excited, bet and won $16. Where's the missionaries.—Downgiac Times.

FROM nearly all parts of the county are coming objections to the suggested removal of the Young People's Picnic. By the resolution passed at the meeting at Niles, in January, the Business Committee must decide at that (the January) meeting where the summer meeting shall be held. The Business Committee made no such decision, and so it follows, that the meeting of the Young People's Association next August can be held at no other place than Berrien Springs. Will Dalrymple B. Mirror please digest this fact.—Era. GALIEN ITEMS.

Rather Severe on the Cincinnati, Wabash and Michigan Extension.

Speaking of the difficulty experienced by Elkhart in raising the money necessary to secure the extension of the Cincinnati, Wabash and Michigan railroad, the Chicago Times says: "For more than a year the contribu tion-box has been passed arcund in Indiana and Michigan to raise funds with which to extend the Cincinnati. Wa bash and Michigan railroad to the lake The managers now announce that $15. 000 is required. In view of the march of improvement throughout the West, this petty scheme has become a laughing stock. Give the Grangers a rest."-South Bend Register.

Cretone at Highs is the cheapest. THE OSBORNE SELF BINDER. BUCHANAN, MICH., May 24, 1881.

I bought an Osborne Self Binder last year. I cut 80 acres of wheat and 18 acres of clover seed, and it did the best work for me that I ever had done. I tried to rake the stubble, and gave it up. It didn't pay for the trouble. The women folks thought that we had no harvest last year, because we had no hands to board besides our own family. I think the Osborne Self Binder is the best reaper that is now made. Respectfully, WM. ROUGH.

BUCHANAN, MICH., May 17, 1881. Last year we bought one of the Os-borne machines. Our driver never drove a binder before. Had no bother in any way. It makes the bundles uniform in size. We cut wheat in all kinds of conditions—some that was badly straw-fallen, and some that lay on the ground, and the machine elevat ed and bound it successfully. Everything worked to our entire satisfaction. It is a lighter running machine than many others. I think it the nearest to perfection of anything yet offered to the farmer. I can recommend it to any farmer who thinks of purchasing a Self Binder. I say, farmers, buy the Self Binding Osborne Machine. ANNA TICHENOR, ORVILLE KIDWELL.

MR. J. IMHOFF, Sir:-In reply to your inquiry how I like the Binder I bought of you last harvest, I will say that I cut sixty acres with the best satisfaction that I have ever done a harvest. It seemed more like ordinary farm work than harvesting, and the women were more than pleased with it, as they had no more to do than vhen we were plowing corn. Yours Respectfully,

F. R. HARDING.

PORTAGE PRAIRIE, Mich., May 23, 1881. In reply to your inquiry regarding the Osborne Self Binder we would say, that we bought an Osborne last year, and cut 133 acres, and have cut 22 acres per day and done the best work of any binder we ever saw. If our crops were good this year we would have bought another Osborne. We think the Osborne is the best binder in the market, and would recommend it to the farmer for light draft and ease of management. Haven't been bothered in any way whatever in doing our harvesting. GEO. W. HEINTZELMAN, G. W. HERROLD.

In the following case is an instance where a patient with the assent and sympathy of his physician, refused strong drink to the very verge of death. Trusting in God he fought his battle through, and conquered. The facts are condensed from a narrative in a recent address of a member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. A reformed drunkard, after sixteen years of faithful adherence to his pledge, was attacked with pyemia, or decay of the blood, probably the slow growth of seeds sown during his early excesses. The physician who was called to him was well aware that wine and malt li-

The physician was in a distressing dilemma. To withhold the liquors, and probably lose his patient, seemed almost like committing a crime against a human man's slower ruin. The physician was a Christian man. He asked for guidance from Him in whose hands are the lives of all men, and decided at last to dispense with all alcoholic stimulants, and use only simple nutrients and correctives. he replied:

"No, no; if this is the passage from life to death, I am happy. Once I was dying a drunkard, and that was misery unspeakable."

His wife entreated him with tears, but Accomplished Beerists.

A Pomeranian Lieutenant of Landwehr cavalry and a Silesian student, giants in stature and bulk, stalked into Landvogt's restaurant in Berlin, one aft rnoon in March, and called in stentorian tones for respective mugs of Pilsener and Munchener beer. Of the foaming contents of these vessels they promptly disposed by the so-called "cow-swallow" method. When they called for their bill some three hours and a half later, it was found that the Pomeranian Lieutenant had absorbed sixtyseven pints of beer, while his Silesian fellow soaker had only succeeded in furnishing accommodation for fifty-four.

The Traitor's Reward.

A vivid account of the career of one of society's notorious evil-doers, by G. Lippard, closes with this warning picture: There was a day when Talleyrand arrived in Havre, hot foot from Paris. It was in the darkest hour of the French. revolution. Pursued by the bloodhounds of the reign of terror, stripped of every wreck of property or power, Talleyrand secured a passage to America in a ship about to set sail. He was going a beg-gar and a wanderer to a strange land to earn his bread by daily labor.

"Is there any American gentleman staying at your house?" he asked the landlord of his hotel. "I am about to cross the water, and would like a letter to some person of influence in the New

The landlord hesitated for a moment, and then replied: "There is a gentleman up stairs, either from America or Britain, but whether American or Englishman I cannot tell."

He pointed the way, and Talleyrand—who, in his life, was Bishop, Prince, Prime Minister—ascended the stairs: a Prime Minister—ascended the stary; a venerable supplicant, he stood before the stranger. He poured forth his story in eloquent French and broken English. "I am a wanderer—an exile. I am forced to fly to the New World, without a friend or a hope. You are an American? Give me, then, I beseech you, a letter of introduction to some friend of your so that I may be enabled to some

The strange man rose. With a look Talleyrand never forgot, he retreated toward the door of the next chamber, still downcast, his eyes still looking from be-neath his darkenedbrows. He spoke as he retreated backward; his voice was full of meaning.

"I am the only man born in the New World that can raise his hand to God, and say—I have not one friend—not one —in all America."

Talleyrand never forgot the over-whelming sadness of the look which accompanied these words.
"Who are you?" he cried, as the strange man retreated toward the next

"My name"—with a smile that had more of mockery than joy in its convulsive expression—"my name is Benedict

The granger was old and kind of dried up, and he had never known what dried up, and he had hever known what it was to have a wife, much less a daughter. He mistrusted the young lady in the seal-skin sack had made a mistake, but, instead of stammering, and hemming, and hawing, he came gallantly up to the scratch, and, throwing both arms around the fair creature, he made up his mind to be a father to her or die in the attampt. Milk and Lime Water. Milk and lime water are now frequently prescribed by physicians in cases of dyspepsia and weakness of the stomach, and in some cases are said to prove very beneficial. Many persons who think good bread and milk a great luxury, frequently hesitate to eat it for the reason that the milk will not digest readily sourness of stomach will often follow. But experience proves, says the Journal of Materia Medica, that lime water and milk are not only food and medicine at an early period of life, but also at a later, when, as in the case of infants, the functions of digestion and assimilation are feeble and easily perverted. A stomach taxed by gluttony, irritated by improper food, inflamed by alcohol, enfeebled by disease, or otherwise unfitted for its duties—as is shown by the various symptoms attendant upon indigestion, dyspepsia, diarrhea, dysentery, and fever—will resume its work, and do it energetically, on an exclusive diet of bread and milk and lime water. A goblet of cow's milk may have four tablespoonfuls of lime water added to it with thin cream; the lime settles, leaving the pure and clean lime water on the top. WHEN his cousin, Charlotte Dunne, was married, Jones said, "It was Dunne before it was begun, Dunne while it was being done, and not Dunne when it was

It mostly happens, when people live much together, they have come to have certain set topics, around which, from frequent dispute, there is which, from frequent dispute, there is such a growth of angry words, mortified vanity, and the like, that the original subject of difference becomes a standing subject for quarrel, and there is a tendency in all minor disputes to drift down to it. Dr. Johnson saw this clearly with regard to married people when he said: "Wretched would be the pair, above all names of wretchedness, who should be doomed to adjust by reason, every morning, all the minute detail of the domestic day." But the application should be much more general than he made it. There is no time for such reasonings, and nothing that is worth them. How Grant Went to West Point. A Columbus (Ohio) letter to the Cincinnati Commercial relates the following entertaining story on the alleged authority of a Republican ex-Congressman of that State, who says that Gen. Grant told it to him just before his first nomination for the Presidency: "When I was a boy," said Grant, "living in Georgetown, my mother ran out of butter one morning, and, needing some before it could be had at the store, she sent me over to the next-door neighbor's to borrow some. Well, I was just as well acquainted there as I was at home well acquainted there as I was at nome almost, and opened the door and went in without knocking, and just as I went in one of the folks, the old gentleman, I believe, was reading a letter from a son who was in West Point. Well, I didn't want to disturb them while they were reading the letter, and stood there and heard what was read. Well, the son said in this letter that he had been found—that is, he had failed to pass examination, and he would have to come home, and he had sent the letter one mail ahead, so that the surprise at his return might not be so great. I got the butter and took it home, and then rush eddown to Thomas L. Hamar's office-he was our Congressman thenand I asked him if he wouldn't send me to West Point. He told me that he couldn't send me until this other boy got through, and that wouldn't be for three years yet. 'But, Hamar,' said I, 'suppose this boy should fail to pass exsuppose this boy should fail to pass examination, and should be sent home, will you send me, then? Well, Uly, said he, 'I guess if he can't pass there'. But I want you to promise that you will send me, said I. 'All right;' said he, 'if he can't get through, I promise to let you try it.' Well, during the day Hamar heard about the other fellow, and the next day I went and asked him if he had heard the news. He said he had and. heard the news. He said he had, and, after laughing at me for the promise, he said it was all right, I should go: Well.

I went and because my mother hap pened to be out of butter has made me General of the army of the United States, and I don't know, after all, but what it may make me President."
