for the fury of the tempest to burst and pass, when the body of her loved one should be laid at her feet. But, thank Heaven, we were destined to wait for that in vain!

The litter had just been set down, and one of those who had accompanied it, an humble priest, was about to un-cover the pallid face to the agonized gaze of the girl, when a muleteer's shrill Tierra-lira cry was heard, not far away, and the next instant, Marto, her lover, alive and well, bounded in among

With a great, joyous cry, Benjamina rushed into his arms, while Marto, even while he clasped her, looked first at one and then at the other of us, and then at the litter, with a puzzled, frightened expression. But the mystery was solved in a moment; for the white, dead face that was just then reverently uncovered, was, barring its ghastliness, almost the exact counterpart of his own. Then, with a wild cry of "My brother, my brother!" the youth was on his knees at the side of the litter, moaning and sobbing out his wild lamentations.

Vasco's vengeance had mistaken its victim, and the personal resemblance that had saved Benjamina an affianced husband had cost the latter his twin brother's life. This dreadful event deferred the marriage of the lovers for another fortnight, but I am glad to be able to state that Vasco was tried, convicted and executed before my departure from Guayaquil-only four days after his cowardly assassination of Manuelo; for there was an error of intention, the deed was as diabolical as it could otherwise have been.-Nathan D. Discoveries at Pompeii.

On Jan. 24 the skeleton of a woman with a child was discovered at Pompeii in a narrow street about twelve feet above the level of the ancient pavement. It is well known that the catastrophe of 79 A. D. commenced with a thick shower of small pumice stones, by which the streets of Pompeii were covered up to the roofs of the houses. Stones were succeeded by ashes, which became solid owing to the action of successive showers of boiling water; and these ashes now form the top layer of the materials which cover the ruins of Pompeii. Most of the unhappy beings who remained in the houses after the eruption first reached the town. made their escape through the windows, but the greater part of these fugitives could have taken but few steps, and must have been quickly suffocated by the poisonous fumes. With one arm the woman whose skeleton has now been found was clasping the legs of the child, whose body shows contraction in the arms and legs, and a gener-al emaciation, which lead us to suppose that the child must have been very ill. It was a little boy about ten years of age. Doubtless the woman

The Electric Wire.

A young man in Denver, Col., while engaged in repairing an electric lamp, mounted a high step-ladder, and, with a wire in each hand was about to connect the circuit when the current was turned on. The shock completely paralyzed him, and he fell backward off the ladder. He has brought suit for damages against the company, and the trial will be an interesting one. He claims that the current was turned on before the usual time, which the com pany denies. One side of his face is Berrien Co. Becord.

THURSDAY, MARCH 23, 1882.

A dog was killed by lightning near Mishawaka last Saturday.

A petition containing 125,000 names asking for the pardon of Sergeant Mason has been sent President Arthur from Chicago. The list was over 80 feet long.

The Secretary of War estimates that about $5,000 persons have been rendered destitute by the overflow of the Mississippi and its tributaries. Of these 30,000 are accredited to the State of Mississippi, 20,000 to Arkansas, and 25,000 to Louisiana.

The late special session of the legislature illustrates the difference between being limited to a few days and having a whole winter before one in the consummation of a given amount of work. Work was completed in two weeks that usually drags through an entire winter without satisfactory completion.

A subscription has been started for Sergeant Mason, with a view to raising $25,000 for him as a sort of reminder to him of how the American people sympathize with his crime, and that they would all have committed the same crime under the same circumstances. S2.000 have already been subscribed

The Salt Lake papers say that in order to make the workings of the bill successful, great care must be taken in the appointment of these commissions of men who live in Utah, and are acquainted with the characters they will have to deal with. Time alone can show what will be the effect of the bill, but trouble of a serious nature may be looked for as the result. The opponents of the bill and the defenders of the companion piece that was abolished by Lincoln's proclamation, were the same ones who raised their voices for the protection of slavery in 1863-the leaders of the Democratic party: the ones who steadily oppose all steps toward civilization. and who learn no lesson by experience. one to three feet long, just as fast as The feeling throughout the country is | we could bait and throw out, so that that Polygamy must go, but not by Democratic votes. abandoned fishing entirely.

by the excited mob, and their object was accomplished, the life of a man was taken without even the semblance of a trial, and that, too, within fourteen hours from the time of committing the offense, and while the excitement was at fever heat.

All this took place about one block from our rooms, in front of the court house, with both the circuit and su-over eighty rods from a garrison of soldiers, but was done so quickly that no organized resistance could be made. The lynching of this man, and subsequent discussions in regard to it, has discovered to us a spirit that hereto-has had a depressing effect upon many northern people who were here with the intention of buying property, many of whom have gone home without investing as intended.

After reading the able letter of Mr. French in regard to the soil, productions, etc., of Florida, I find very little room to say anything on that subject, but since Mr. F. left, Mr. Woods and I made a trip down to Point Pinellas and will give you a few points in regard to that: It is a narrow neck of land. from four to eight miles wide, and twenty-five or thirty long, lying between Tampa bay and the Gulf of Mexico. Tender fruits, like bananas, pine apples, dates, mangoes, limes, lemons, guavas, etc., do much bodies of water so nearly surrounding it, and the strip of land so narrow, that it is exempt from frost as any it. As this trip was made partially shooting, and Mr. French has referred to me on that subject, I feel obliged to mention it, and will give you a true account of that part of our sport: After sailing with mail carrier twentytwo miles across the bay to the point, we crossed by land, stopping at Bell Lake and shooting at alligators until we were tired of it, as nothing but their heads could be seen above the water, and onr guns would make no impression upon them. Arriving at the gulf coast we chartered a sail-boat to travel and sleep in and a skiff to fish from, with a man to run them, and crossed to the Keys, where we soon found all that could possibly be desired in the way of fishing, as we caught all

Letter From Florida.

TAMPA, FLA., March 13, 1882. FRIEND HOLMES:-Since writing you last but little of interest has occurred here, until last Monday, when we were treated to a little manifestation of the rash, hot-headed style of the South in the lynching of C. D. Owens. an account of which many of your readers have undoubtedly read in the dailies, but as some of them may not have seen it I will try to give the facts in brief. Owens was a white man of about thirty years of age, who came to this country from London about a year ago, and from what I have seen and can learn of him, was a low-lived drinking feliow, who picked up bis living by doing little odd jobs and petty threving. Last Monday night he entered the house of one of Tampa's prominent citizens, and after doing some petty thieving entered the sleeping apartment of a young lady, and, one report says, made a diabolical attempt at rape, failing in which, he made several attempts to stab her with a bowie knife, actually cutting his victim in several places, then escaped by jumping from the window. Another report which comes to me confidentially, as no one would dare say it in public here, is that there is not a scratch upon the lady, and that his object was simply plunder, and getting into her room so frightened her that it was necessary to suppress her screams in order to make good his escape. As the facts are hard to get at, we must draw our own conclusions in regard to that part of it from the above. Now for the balance: The Sheriff started in pursuit about ten o'clock Monday morning and brought the prisoner in and put him in jail about noon. At two o'clock a mob consisting of several clerks, one prominent lawyer, one or two editors, assisted by about a hundred citizens of Occasionally horses or mules are driven, and in that case the driver rides in the saddle instead of the cart. Many of them come in from a long distance, camping on the way, and bring in rice, cotton, sweet potatoes, turnips, cabbage, tomatoes, eggs, etc., which they exchange for goods, the merchants paying very little cash for anything. The cart is the grand indispensible vehicle of the whole South, especially this part of Florida. Every merchant

Stones in the Kidneys and Bladder Expelled – Long Suffering of one of Troy's Best People .--A Lucky Man.

It is by no means a strange thing that Dr. Kennedy should have received the following letter. By reading it you will see in one minnte why James Andrews was thankful :

ite why James Andrews was thankful: Troy, N. Y., April 8th, 1880. Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. F. Dear Sir:---Until within a recent date I had for several years suffered greatly from gravel, called by the doctors the Brick-dust Sediment. For about a year past this sediment has not passed off in the usual quantity, but has accu-mulated, causing me untold pain. Having heard of "Kennedy's Favorite Remedy" I tried it in my case, and after using about one and one-half bottles, I voided a stone from the Bladder, of an oval shape, 7-16 of an inch long, and rough on its surface. I send you the largest piece that you may see of what it is composed. Since then I have felt no pain. I now consider myselt cured, and cannot ex-press my thankfulness and gratitude for so signal a deliverance from a terrible disease. You have my consent to use this letter, should you wish to do so, for the benefit of other suf-ierers. Yours truly, JAMES ANDREWS. No. 10 Marshal St., Ida Hill. AYER'S PILLS are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimi-lative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel or any injurious properties, and can be admin-istered to children with perfect safety. mon cold the patient is best in bed and in a warm room; but in influenza, if the patient is not too ill, it is better to get him out of bed after the third day, and place him on a sofa. Draughts and chills must be avoided, on account of the risk of inflammation of the lungs. As there is usually complete loss of appetite, it is difficult to get him to take much nourishment. Solid food may have to be abstained from in bad cases for two or three days. Should beef-tea be given, it should not be very hot, as it is apt to increase the headache and languor. Plenty of milk should be given, alone or mixed with soda water, as may be most palatable to the patient. Cold drinks, orange and lemon juice, creamof-tartar water, raspberry vinegar, weak citrate of potash, citric acid and water flavored with sugar, barley water flavored with lemon juice, infusion of mallows, and so on, should be given ad libitum, and when there is much fever they should be iced. Weak cold white wine whey often proves grateful. DEFACED COINS.

Something About Mutilated Quarters, and Who Are Responsible. There is a lot of mutilated coin in cir

There is a lot of mutilated coin in circulation just now which most people have a vague idea is not worth face value. The people are corract in this, but very little attention is paid to it, and very few people ever refuse a dime with a hole in it, or a quarter, the pieces which suffer the most, probably be-cause of their small value. Many per-sons, indeed, will eagerly secure and keep a dime which has been bored by some mischievous party, having heard somewhere, at some time, that it is lucky. The quarter-of-a-dollar piece, on account of its size, is frequently util-ized by ingenious parties for sleeve but-tons or pins. One side is worn down smooth, and an initial engraved on it, while a shank is affixed to the other side. while a shank is affixed to the other side. It is funny how these relics turn up generally in bar-rooms. The shank is knocked off the best, or unpolished, side, placed upward on the counter, and the relic goes into the till unperceived, for a drink. Then, in the course of business, it passes into the hands of somebody who wonders who O. P. Q. is who body who wonders who O. P. Q. is who has his name engraved on it. It is not felony here to deface the coins of the realm. The defacer or the man who takes the coin simply loses on it if he takes it to a bank. The result is, he doesn't take it to a bank, but passes it on the first citizen he can. When de-faced coins do reach headon after the faced coins do reach headquarters, the presenter is "docked." A dollar with a hole in it or otherwise slightly defaced. is worth about 75 cents; off half and quarter dollars a discount of 30 per cent. is taken, and off dimes and half dimes 40 per cent. cent, is taken, and of dimes and half dimes 40 per cent. There is no means of estimating with any degree of accu-racy the amount of defaced coin afloat. Whatever reaches the Government is remelted for cash, but the large propor-tion which goes into the hands of brokers goes to jewelers and watch-case manufacturers.
