State of Michigan, County of Berrien, ss.

At a session of the Probate Court held at Buchanan, Michigan, on the 14th day of November, 1882.

Present, JOHN C. DICK, Judge of Probate.

And, JOHN C. DICK, Clerk of Probate.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of David Vanderhoef, deceased.

It is ordered that Monday, the 27th day of November next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs and next of kin of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, be required to appear at a session of said court, then to be held at Buchanan, Michigan, on the 27th day of November next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted; and that the further order, said petitioner give notice to the heirs and next of kin of said deceased, and to all other persons interested in said estate, by personal service of said petition, and the hearing thereof, on or before the 27th day of November next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at Buchanan, Michigan.

Witness my hand and the seal of said court, this 14th day of November, 1882.

J. C. DICK, Judge of Probate.

J. C. DICK, Clerk of Probate.

TRUE HONORS.

A hard luck, once upon a time, Of good and honest name, Who frequently dropped into rhyme, Without a thought of fame.

Until one day an agent trim, A notice he had sent for him, His patent new clothes were trim, And then he heard that far West.

A nursery man of means Had called for him his very best, Fast footed these honors at his feet, Faster by far than dollars;

And when for him was named a sweet New thing in paper collars, He asked, confused by all these brands, "What's there in a name?"

And all the people clapped their hands, And answered, "This is fame."

A Breach of Discipline.

"It's no use speaking, Berretion; I must go."

"You mad, Kendall? It's your night on guard, and you know what a martinet the Colonel is."

"Confound the Colonel! I tell you I will go to bed, and not a damned word will I say to him."

"Don't you believe it. The Colonel's thick with those Lindsay girls, and I'll bet you ten to one he's here to meet them."

"Oh, hang it! I'll take my chance, then," was the reply, in the dogged tone of a man who knows he is in the wrong, but does not choose to yield.

"The Colonel's there," he said, breathlessly. "Don't be too quick in undoing the chain; give me as long as you can."

"What's the matter with you, you're so anxious, 'mum's the word, you know—' if you can."

"Ay! ay! sit," muttered the old sentinel, he shut the door slowly. He was very kind to the young man, and not so much to the Colonel.

The Captain passed hurriedly within. Just then the bell of the great gate rang, and the sentinel came to the door.

The sentinel, flanked the chain noiseily as he hooked and unhooked it, fumbled with the key in the lock, and made such judicious delays as enabled him to get a note from the Colonel.

"Where is Captain Kendall?" he asked, in a low, stern voice.

"He's in the room, sir," answered the sentinel, with a sort of angry, expectant look of triumph.

"On guard, sir," answered the sentinel, in the shrillest of accents. He was too utterly taken back to say another word.

The sentinel, adopting his usual stolid air, he went to the door, and he heard the Colonel's voice within.

"Here, sir; do you require me?" he asked, coolly.

The Colonel stared at him. His face, with its expression of mingled scorn and anger, was a study.

"He could hardly believe his eyes. Keenly scrutinizing the younger man, who did not quail before his gaze, he said, stiffly, after a pause of some seconds:

"Certainly thought, sir, I saw you at the ball in D—street just now."

"Sir," replied the other, audaciously, "I was on guard, sir."

"It is very singular," resumed the Colonel, without relaxing his scrutiny, and slightly raising his voice "I could have sworn that I saw you there."

"Very singular, sir," retorted the delinquent, gaining boldness from the very extremity of the strain to which he was subjected.

"You have found himself reduced; since a man can be in two places at once, and you have found me here."

The two men stood still, each eyeing the other, one keenly eager to detect the other's mistake, the other more calmly satisfied.

"The Colonel was completely satisfied. The man was before him—that was certain; but how, having left him, as he felt sure he had done, among the guests at the ball, he had come to be on guard here."

"Not having wings wherewith to fly, how on earth had the fellow got there? Could he have been mistaken, he wondered, for a moment. But, no, he knew his man."

He shifted the form of his interrogation. "Then you were not at the ball?" he asked, very pointedly.

"The officer was worthy of all condemnation for having forsaken the post of duty. But though he had acted inexcusably, he was still a gentleman, and he would not pollute his lips with a word of reproach."

The Wide Awake is becoming one of the most popular juvenile magazines in the country, adapted to the wants of boys and girls from eight to fifteen years of age, and a great amount of instructive reading matter finds its way into the columns of this magazine that is interesting to people of maturer years. Wide Awake sells for $2.50 per year; with the RECORD for $3.75. You can find no better reading matter for your little ones.

The show season has opened up in earnest. The Christian church gave an oyster supper Tuesday evening. Prof. Stanton, of Kalamazoo, gave an entertainment last evening; that new and novel play, Uncle Tom's Cabin, with blood hounds of some other kind of dogs and a donkey, Monday evening, and Wednesday, Prof. McLouth of the State University, will deliver a lecture for the High School, on "The World We Live In," and others may be expected to follow in quick rotation.

There appears to be considerable difference of opinion regarding the way certain sidewalks are being managed in this place. On Front street are three pieces of walk torn up, two of them filled with loose sand that is an abomination to a respectable street, and in the third there is a stepping off place that is liable to unjoin the neck of some stranger who may happen to pass that way in the dark. These have been in this condition several months, and the prospect is good for several more of the same kind. On Fourth street a block of walk has been torn up and just such a step, with the exception that it is worse, left for people to stumble over. The question arises, Why are not these places put in good condition? They have been condemned and new walks ordered. Why are they not built? There are also numerous other places about town where new walks are needed.

The concert given last evening for the benefit of the M. E. Church Sunday School, by Prof. Stanton, of Kalamazoo, assisted by Mr. Wm. Lotti, pianist, Master Rosenbaum, violinist, and some of our best home talent, was well attended. The Professor is a master player, and gave the audience some good selections. The playing of Master Rosenbaum was fine for a performer so young, while the singing by the home talent would have done credit to performers making far greater pretensions.

In Wayne county Hon. J. J. Van Riper lost several hundred votes by having his name printed John instead of Jacob on the tickets. As the count is not yet completed it is impossible to tell the exact number of votes lost to him through this blunder. We also learn that he lost some votes in Van Buren county by having been put upon the ticket for Auditor General instead of Attorney General. Notwithstanding these blunders he is elected by a handsome majority.

At the regular meeting of Buchanan Lodge, I. O. G. T. No. 856, the following officers were installed: W. C. T.—J. M. Logan. W. V. T.—H. Wagner. W. S.—John Alexander. W. T.—H. J. Hall. W. F. S.—Carrie Blowers. W. M.—J. M. Ryan. W. O. G.—Loma Beardsley. W. I. G.—Ada Spencer. W. C.—J. H. Roe. W. A. S.—Mrs. J. F. Jordan. W. D. M.—Laura Roe. W. R. H. S.—Mattie Smith. W. L. H. S.—Mattie Banta.

The Mirror notes the following supposed incendiaries as having occurred in Niles last week: D. H. Holland's house, household goods and greenbacks aggregating in value $4,000, Tuesday. On Wednesday, a fire in the vicinity of Julius' residence and Stevens' livery stable. Loss about $2,500. The conclusion to strangers would be that Niles contained some fellows who would be most valuable with their skins stretched over a back fence. During the second named fire E. M. Corbett's house, near by, was robbed.

A NEW manufacturing establishment has been started in this place. Messrs. W. O. Churchill and Philo Smith expect to launch into the business of making chairs for the wholesale trade, and have laid the foundation for a building for that purpose, on Mr. Churchill's lumber yard lot, on Alexander street. This place is eminently a good place for a business of that kind. The large furniture manufacturing interests here is alone enough to draw to such an establishment a good trade, as hardly a day passes that the furniture factories do not receive inquiries for chairs. There is no good reason why this new enterprise may not become one of Buchanan's prominent manufacturing interests.

A YOUNG fellow named Wm. Hamilton, from New York City, employed as teamster for Rough Bros' Wagon Works during the past few weeks, was discharged Tuesday, and when he left his boarding house, Mr. Foster's, he took with him a coat belonging to Crestus Perrott. Constable Evans was notified, and at once commenced a search for the thief, finding him on Portage Prairie, and bringing him before Justice Rogers, yesterday morning. He pleaded guilty, and was fined $10 and cost, in default of which he goes to Jonia to work for the State ninety days. Later, his fine and cost have been paid.

FROM THE THREE OAKS. Nov. 15, 1882. From the Three Oaks Sun we learn that a man went through Geo. A. Harris' jewelry shop at New Buffalo on Thursday evening of last week and stole seven watches valued at $75. The Sun says: "On the information of two boys, who saw the thief breaking the window and purloining the watches, he was apprehended by officers and locked up in a room at the Franklin House, from where he was not slow at escaping by way of the transom, thence he went to Mrs. Ingalls' boarding house, where he had opportunity to steal a satchel, a suit of clothing, and also an overcoat; thence he went to John Pio's, where he tried to effect an entrance, but was followed in the attempt by the New Buffalo officer who made this arrest deserves a cabbage leaf medal for his shrewdness.

The Democracy has already commenced to quarrel over the needless bone that has fallen to them to pick, in consequence of the late election. There appears on the field five candidates for the office of speaker of the House of Representatives: Randall, of Pennsylvania; Eaton, of Connecticut, and Carlisle and Blackburn, of Kentucky, and owing to the many ideas contained in the party, there is a poor likelihood of a selection without a strong fight. Blackburn's chances will not be of the best, because of his unpopular connection with the late lamented confederacy, while the other will be divided upon the tariff question. Both sides of this question will have strong advocates in the House, who will make themselves heard from the beginning.

Our Common Schools. To the Directors and Patrons of the Buchanan District Schools. Our State Board of Education and school officers are making an effort to improve our schools by raising the educational requirements of teachers; also by means of State and County Institutes. But their efforts will avail but little unless there is more interest taken by the Directors and patrons of the schools. It is expected of Directors that they will make an effort to hire experienced and efficient teachers. There is no more reason why we should let our best teachers leave us to teach in Indiana or any other place, than we should let our best preachers, lawyers or doctors move away for the want of support or encouragement. Remember, poor teachers are dear at any price. Each school should be provided with an Unabridged Dictionary, maps, charts, &c. The school house and its surroundings should be made pleasant and agreeable, for they have considerable to do in forming the habits of the scholars. And in making our school a success much depends upon the co-operation of the parents, in providing their children with the proper books, and sending them regularly to school, and not act as if they did not have any interest in what is being taught their children. You should encourage the teacher by a kind word and your frequent presence in the school room. One reason why our common schools have not been kept up to a higher standard of excellence is because it has become so customary to send the best scholars away to the city or village to school. It would be much better to improve our schools and have them educated at home. We do not realize the importance of our common schools. Our forefathers believed that the perpetuity of our Republican form of government depended upon the virtue and intelligence of our people, and wisely provided that every person in the land could get an education free of cost. And it is not true that the difference we see between people in society is caused mainly by the difference in their education? Is it not a mistaken notion to think our destiny is fixed at birth, when we can all become wise and useful by study and discipline? B. CHAMBERLAIN, School Inspector of Buchanan Tp.

Nov. 15, 1882. Everything is quiet at this time. A Manitoba wale came over to the fore part of the week, which made us look after some good wood and a fire.

Mr. Bert Valentine arrived here Monday evening with a carload of stock from his farm in Kansas, among which is a very small pony for his little boy.

MUSIC TEACHING.

Miss ALICE ROE tenders her services as teacher of the Piano and Organ. Terms, $10 per term, of twenty (hour) lessons. Miss Roe returns to our city after a thorough four years' course at the Hershey Music School in Chicago, bearing the highest testimonials from Prof. Eddy, Summy, and others.

COMPLIMENTATIONS. The following is from Prof. Eddy, General Director of Hershey School of Musical Art, Chicago:

Chicago, July 7, 1881. This is to certify that Miss Alice Roe has been a pupil of this institution for four years, studying the Piano and Organ, Music Theory, Harmony, Counterpoint, etc. In the latter she passed a thoroughly successful examination, and graduated with honors. Her study of piano playing has been conscientious, and I take pleasure in recommending her as a teacher.
