People who live along the line are still agitating the question of building a narrow gauge railroad from Elkhart to South Haven via Dowagiac. It is a good thing to do if properly managed. There are circumstances under which it might be otherwise.

The outcome of the telegraph strike has been a disastrous failure to the strikers. The organization has broken and the members are returning to the yet to be cut. A week of good weather work where the places have not been | is followed by one and one-half inches supplied by others.

The reports of government engineers on public improvements on rivers and harbors are all in, and the estimates are that it will require $35,0000,000 for the fiscal year of 1885 to complete the works now under headway and in contemplation. It is not expected that Congress will appropriate this amount.

Senator Conger has been making a tour of the State posting himself on the needs of the various harbors and rivers, gathering facts and figures for use at the next session of Congress. The life saving stations have been the special objects of his visits.

It has been decided to move from Ireland and settle in Canada 200,000 poor Irish in families. Ten thousand families to average five persons each, aggregating 50,000 people, will be moved next spring, and the transportation will be continued as rapidly as the territory to be occupied can be got ready.

On one side, about twenty-five feet above the stream, are natural tablets or smooth surfaces. upon which are cut and scratched with sharp instruments hundreds of names. Among them is that of George Washington. To ascend to this place seems a perilous and almost impossible feat. To reach it from the smooth rock below is impossible. It was gained by working along by the side, where certain inequalities in the rock afford a precarious holding. I confess that this exploit gave me a new feeling about the father of his country, as I saw him in imagination, in his stocking feet, clinging by his fingernails and eyelids, work-ing along that perpendicular ledge, risking his life to carve in an inaccessible place his immortal name. But then he was not the father of his country when he did it. On the opposite face are names also, and very high up is the very slight ledge which Henry Piper, the student whom Burritt has mmortalized, attained in 1818, and from which he rescued himself by an almost incredible feat of climbing. The rock of the bridge and the jut ting buttresses above is a superb study of color, scarcely equalled in any rock color I know for variety and beauty of tone. But one singular freak deserves special mention.

Exactly over head, on the highest spring of the arch, is the figure of a gigantic spread eagle. It is the eagle of our coat of arms. The head, the spread wings, the claws with the arrows, are all perfect. It seems to be formed by discoloration of the rock rather than by lichens. However it is made-and it could not be more striking if it were painted-it is ancient. The French engineers who made a survey and measurement on the bridge during the revolutionary war, noticed it with wonder, and in their printed report they drew from it a happy augury of the success of the Americans in the struggle. What makes the figure itself more remarkable is that a discolored patch under it is a very fair representation of a crouching lion.

WORLDLY-WISE.

A Maine paper tells about little Josephine, who, though naughty, was very nice and clever. Being accused of telling a fib she at first denied the charge, and afterward said by way of extenua-tion: "Well, suppose I did lie; every-body lies but God and George Washington." Josephine was asked if she had said her prayers. She replied: "No; I have to take medicine, and that is enough without saying my prayers."

A special treatment for years. He is not a boastful, ignorant pretender, but an educated physician, seeking to do good, by devoting his talent and energies to the treatment of a class of maladies that have been with him a long and patient study. To be able to treat successful-ly chronic diseases it requires that a physician should be a sound, thorough scholar in the art of science and medicine generally. He should give his entire time to their study, be thorough in his investigations and have a long and varied experience. Dr. Brewer claims to work no wonders or to do any more than any well educated physician can do who devotes his whole time to the study and treatment of chronic diseases exclusively and has had his many years of experience. For years Dr. Brewer has visited the places he now visits, and has obtained his reputation by being honest in his dealings, candid in his opinions and reasonable in his charges. The bluffs at the point selected are S59 feet apart, and the grade 245 feet above the water. The condition of the water at this point is such as to make it impossible to put up an artificial structure to work upon, and the bridge must be extended across the chasm bodily. The aggregate value of raw material used last year was $1,908,700 and the product $3,056,500. The profits over expenses was $444,000. The amount paid for repairs, taxes, insurance, etc., was $140,000: The number of hands employed was 1,650, of whom 550 were women and 1,100 males. The average daily wages paid was $2,000.

Stone in the Kidney Expelled after Us ing Dr. David Kennedy's "Favor-ite Remedy" About two Weeks.

One of the most remarkable cases that has ever been brought to the notice of the public is that of Dr. J. S. Beach of Stone Bridge, Ulster Co., N. Y. Mr. Beach had suffered since October 18, 1874, from the presence of Calculus or Stone in the right Kidney. No less than seven physicians were employed at different times, to whom Mr. Beach paid hundreds of dollars for medical treatment, with only temporary relief from his agony. By the urgent solicitations of his friends he was induced to try Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy"-experienced a marked im-provement from the first day he began to use the medicine; on the 15th of September he voided a stone as large as could be passed

Mr. Beach concludes a long letter to Dr.

Kennedy by saying: "It will always aford me pleasure to recommend the 'Favorite Remedy' to those who may be suffering from difficulties of the Kidneys and Bladder, or any disorders arising from an impure state of the blood." The "Favorite Remedy" sold by all druggists. The Doctor's only address is Ron-dout, New York.

III UIC FILOL HOUSE. "Yes, sir; this kind obliges a man to keep sober as a judge. Of all men in the world, steamboat pilots and railroad engineers should let hquor alone. For on their olear-ness of sight and coolness of head depends the safety of life and property." Teeping his hand on the wheel as he said this, Mr. A. Brockman, of 29½ Silver street, Chicago, added: "Of course, some of 'em drink; but the sober ones have the best posi-tions and the best pay. Yes, the work and exposure sometimes tells on us; but for my part, I find PARKER'S Toxic to be all the invig-ornal i need. T've got a bottle aboard here now; never go on a trip without it. When I haven't any appetite, or an any way out of sorts, it sets me up in no time. If drinking men would use the Touio it would help 'em to break off. (No, that isn't a light house; it's a star, low down near the water). As I was saying, the Tonic, is new life bottled up. You see the flag-staff? Well, with a bottle of PAR-wER's Toxic in the lockev I can keep malaria as far from me as that all the time. My wife has used it for three years for summer com-plaints and cole, and as an invigorant, when she's tired out from overwork. She says the tonic is a day. Good-bye! Don't break your neek going below." This preparation, which has been known as PARKER's Ginger Toxic, will hereafter be ad-vertised and sold simply under the name of PARKER's Toxic. ANTHRACITE COAL.

If you will glance at the map of Pennsylvania you will find two river systems, the Delaware and the Susquehanna, between which are high table lands and even mountains, and in those mountains lie the precious deposits of hard coal which alone keep our eastern cities free from the smut and dust which have such an effect on the places

This anthracite coal found in enor-mous beds is the bituminous coal deprived of its volatile gases. It is the most condensed form of mineral coal and the richest in carbon. It is clean, does not soil the hands, is hard to set on fire, and burns without smoke and with but little illuminating power, but gives an intense concentrated heat. In short, anthracite is the condensed coke

Pure anthracite is not found outside of Pennsylvania, the Virginia and Maryland coals being semi-bituminous. The anthracite coal region is chiefly to the east of the Susquehanna river, and is penetrated by the eastern branch of the Susquehanna and by the Swatara, which empties into the Susquehanna below Harrisburg, as well as by the Schuylkill and Lehigh rivers, which empty into the Delaware. A smaller field of this coal runs west of the Susquehanna to a no very great distance. It was for a long time supposed that this beautiful coal would not ignite. and the chimney is still shown in the vicinity of the coal regions where some pertinacious person proved that the hard coal was just as good as the soft, nd perhaps better. I may say to you that anthracite coal was discovered by a hunter and pioneer named Philip Ginter. It was called stone coal. A specimen was brought to Philadelphia and inspected by three persons, one of them a painter named Cist. Soon afterward a blacksmith named Whetstone found some near Pottsville, and began to use it in his shop. The son of Robert Morris, William Morris, becoming possessed of large fields of coal lands about 1800, found considerable coal, but the Philadelphia people would have nothing to do with it, and he had to let his lands go at a sacrifice. It was as late as 1810 that a Philadelphia chemist made a full test of this so-called stone coal, and brought it to a white heat. Nobody would believe it, however, and many wagon loads taken to Philadelphia found no purchaser. One gentleman who paid some bills with this stone coal was prosecuted for swindling. The iron-workers were the first to apply this coal with general success, and steam was first generated

A HATER OF HUGO.

I heard a Parisian lady of considerable social consequence talk in the drawing-room of the Continental hotel the other evening. 'It makes me fairly sick," she said, "the way they do homage to Victor Hugo. Why, he is about the worst Republican there is-so radical that he actually ran away when Louis Napoleon came in power, and had to write the emperor a saucy letter, too. He would have got his ears pulled if they had caught him. And now he is doing everything he can to strengthen this abominable government. It needs strengthening, sure enough. It will tumble down one of enough. It will tumble down one of these days." Without committing myself, I in-quired of her why it was that every time there was an election the Re-publican party had a larger and larger majority, till the representation of the Royalists and Imperialists in the chamber was very small indeed.

She looked thoughtful, and then said:

In no way can disease be so surely prevented as by keeping the system in perfect condition. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS ensures perfect health through the changing se-sons, it disarms the danger om impure water and miasmatic air, and it prevents Consumption, Kidney and Liver Disease, &c.

> H. S. Berlin, Esq., of the well-known firm of H. S. Berlin & Co., Attorneys, Le Droit Building, Washington, D. C., writes, Dec. 5th, 1881:

> > Gentlemen: I take pleas-ure in stating that I have used Brown's Iron Bitters for ma-laria and nervous froubles, caused by overwork, with excellent results.

Beware of imitations. Ask for BROWN'S IRON BIT-TERS; and insist on having it. Don't be imposed on, with something recomtime. These movements go in waves. It is now high tide for Republicans and atheists, but it will change. Since the death of Thiers and Gambetta a majority of the French people, not recog-nizing God, have worshiped Victor Hugo. Have you seen his silly book of verse—the last of his Nineteenth-Cen-tury series? Why, he pitches into the Catholic Church, and gives it his bene-diction, sending it to the bad place. That's where any benediction of his would send it. He has ruined himself by that last book. Nobody will respect him after this."

Iasked-for information again-what evidence there was of an impending change of government. "Every evidence," she said, "You can hardly find one French man or woman hardly find one French man or woman of property and standing who is in favor of a republic. We have now just no government at all. Anybody can do anything now. I never walk out now without expecting to be run over. I never drive out without experiencing the most narrow escapes with my life. The drivers and all poor people are put-ting on dreadful airs of equality. Hardly anybody except poor people are in favor of a republic."

I record her speech as typical of a good deal of talk here.

There has been writing in India for twenty-five hundred years now, yet the custodians of the Vedic traditions have never trusted to it. They trust, for the perfect perpetuation and transmis-sion of the sacred books, to disciplined memory. They have manuscripts, they have even a printed text, but, says Max Muller, "they do not learn their sacred lore from them. They learn it, as their ancestors learned it thousands of years ago, from the lips of a teacher, so that the Vedic succession should never be broken."

For eight years in their youth they are entirely occupied in learning this. "They learn a few lines every day, repeat them for hours, so that the whole house resounds with the noise; and they thus strengthen their memory to that degree that when their appreticeship is finished, you can open them like a book, and find any passage you like, any word, any accent." And Max Muller shows, from rules given in the Vedas themselves, that this oral teaching of them was carried on exactly as now, at
