WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The President has issued the following Thanksgiving proclamation: By the President of the United States of America—a proclamation. In furtherance of the custom of this people at the closing of each year to cease upon a day set apart for that purpose in special festival of praise to the Giver of all good, I, Chester A. California Correspondence.

WESTMINSTER, Los Angeles Co., Cal. Mr. EDMONDS—I could write quite a large book on what I don't know about California, and perhaps a small book on what I do know.

I have just returned from a two weeks' trip of a thousand miles, visiting Sacramento, California's capital, Santa Barbara, her metropolis, and Santa Francisco, her sanitarium. I went by rail from Los Angeles to Sacramento, to 440 miles, down the Sacramento river, by boat to San Francisco 140 miles, and then down the coast in a San Diego steamer to San Pedro, stopping at Santa Barbara, 300 miles south of San Francisco, for a few days. From Los Angeles to Sacramento you pass through a part of the great wheat belt of California. At almost every station were a dozen or more teams waiting their turn to unload, each team composed of ten to sixteen mules, with three heavy wagons coupled together. The tire on some of the wagons was six inches wide. Between Stockton and Sacramento I passed through the watermelon country. Near one station from three to five thousand acres are devoted to melons. At another station eight or ten four-wheel teams were waiting, with grapes thrown into the wagon in bulk. At Sacramento I was quartered for five days at the "Capitol hotel," where, according to the custom of this State, the bar is a prominent feature and in plain sight, though some of the first-class hotels in San Francisco, even the Baldwin, have put the bar a little more in the background. Some time, if desired, I may send a paper on the temperance question in California.

I will not stop here to write up Sacramento or San Francisco, or the boat ride down the Sacramento river, by sunlight and moonlight, or of the ocean ride down the coast in a first-class steamer, with its two hundred and fifty passengers, many of whom were sea-sick, though I was deprived of that pleasure. I have heard it said that to be sea-sick is the next thing to being homesick, and I was rather anxious to compare the two.

Santa Barbara is a beautiful city of five thousand people. It is nestled among the mountains which rise around it, and within four or five miles of it, twenty-seven hundred feet, with a hundred foot-hills from one to five hundred feet high, which are of granular and soft, and afford excellent pasture. There are in the place six or eight very fine hotels, which, for six months in the year, are filled with boarders, coming from all directions, in search of health and a mild climate, where summer lasts all the year.

The President and Recorder reported the committee on Finance and Claims by the bill allowed, and the Recorder directed to draw the proper orders on the village Treasurer for their payment. Motion adopted.

congressional committees, has thrown much light on the labor question in favor of the Chinese, as opposed to Kearney and the hoodlums. Hollister and I grew up as boys together, on adjoining farms in Ohio, our fathers being cousins, and so I felt at perfect liberty to accept his invitation to spend a few days with him in his city home and on his country ranch of five thousand acres, twelve miles out of town.

For thirty miles above and below Santa Barbara the fillable land is confined to a narrow strip from four to six miles wide, lying between the mountains and the ocean. The Hollister ranch and home is the most beautiful country spot I have ever seen. It overlooks the ocean two miles away, and runs back to the mountains, with glens or canons here and there running into the mountains two or three miles, from one-half to a mile wide, growing narrower and steeper until lost in the great rocky peaks. I rode up three of these glens. After going up one of them as far as we could with our team, we climbed up a mile farther, through a dense forest, by a narrow path, until we came to the terminus, where was a large pool of water twenty feet deep, called the "Bridal Pool," where, a few years ago, two fools went one Sabbath day to get married. The flower garden connected with this home covers an acre of ground, and the flowers are of every variety that can be grown in a southern clime. Nothing is allowed room except the choicest standard varieties and perpetual bloomers. Of roses, there are over one hundred varieties. There were two or three hundred hills or plants of the calla lily, each plant producing from ten to twenty flowers. My hostess said she sent her church in town, the Episcopal, last Christmas, one thousand calla lilies, and one year fifteen hundred, and she scarcely missed them from the bed. On this ranch there are twenty thousand almond trees, three thousand English walnuts, three thousand prunes, thirteen hundred apricots, besides a large supply of peaches, nectarines, figs, pears, peaches, pomegranates, date palms, lemons, limes and apples. All the work indoors and out is done by Chinese, of whom there were about forty, with American overseers. The horses, mules, cattle, sheep and hogs are numbered by the hundred or the thousand.

I visited also the adjoining ranch, owned by a Quaker by the name of Cooper. Here were twelve thousand five hundred almond trees, five thousand olive and four thousand walnut. Of almonds and walnuts his annual sales were from seventy-five to one hundred tons, and fifteen thousand bottles of olive oil, warranted pure. Mr. Cooper set out, six years ago, on different parts of his ranch, one hundred and thirty thousand eucalyptus trees, for a future supply of timber and wood. This is a tall, almost branchless tree, after the annual shedding of its bark, is almost white. It is rather a novel sight to any one from the east to see almonds, English walnuts and oranges lying around in sacks or boxes or in bulk, as plenty as wheat, corn, or apples. We passed a load of almonds in sacks, going to market. From the Cooper ranch, drawn by six mules, and containing two tons, which, at fifteen cents a pound, their market price here, would amount to six hundred dollars for one load.

I would like to write up some things for the RECORD concerning our LOS Angeles county, for example, the "ostrich farm," which is eight miles from my present home, and which I visited recently, but I will wait and see whether this goes into the waste basket or not.

What an indignant and disgusted wife will do as a last resort is shown by a bit of gossip in the Telegraph, about a Kalamazoo woman. Seeing her husband go into a saloon where he had so often been before, and rendered desperate by his excesses, she walked in and up to the bar by his side and called for beer. As she walked home she remarked that if he was going to hide his she was going right along with him.

POSTAGE ON NEWSPAPERS. There are now over 11,000 papers printed in the United States. In view of the fact that the press is an educational agent, it has been suggested that the Government could not do better than to allow publishers to send their papers free of postage and as many copies as they are willing to tax themselves with in order to secure new subscribers, and the result will be beneficial to the Postoffice Department and the public. In Canada publishers are allowed to mail their editions free of any postal charges, because the authorities recognize the importance of newspapers as public educators, and wish to further so beneficent an institution by every means in their power. An article in the Agents' Herald shows that the newspaper, beside being a great boon to the masses as an educator, is also a great factor in the matter of dollars and cents to the Postoffice Department. It can be safely said that a very large proportion of letters written are in reply to advertisements. An advertiser says he received in answer to his advertisements no less than 240,000 letters in the course of a few months. The postage stamps upon these letters cost $7,200. Allowing these letters can be carried for 2 cents each, as the postal department admits, the profits to the postoffice from these advertisements was $2,400. Frequently there are 1,000 letters sent in reply to an advertisement of a single inch. The profit is in fact more than 1 cent per letter, for postal facilities having to be maintained at any cost, the publishing business makes business for the post-office, which doubtless would otherwise be conducted at considerable loss even at 3 cents per letter, or at a higher sum. It may reasonably be considered that the present cheap letter postage would not have been established but for the newspapers, which have created such constant use of the mails. The United States ought not to be behind Canada. The 10,000 or more advertisers in the United States are the greatest promoters of postal business, but there is still room for an extension of advertising and the use of the mails for transmitting light articles.—Galveston News.

Diseases of the Chest, Throat, Liver, Heart and Blood, with their accompanying Symptoms.—Drs. Price & Brewer, who have made regular visits for years, have made it the business of a life time to investigate and study. They have proved that these diseases, even in the stages considered beyond the ordinary method of treatment, can, by a rational and mild means, be retarded, arrested or permanently cured. Physicians have the opportunity that Drs. Price & Brewer have in investigating and examining the various forms of this class of diseases. The fact of their being cured by constant study and studies of their profession, is one of the strongest and most competent testimonials that can be given them.

An Undoubted Blessing. About thirty years ago, a prominent physician by the name of Dr. William Hall discovered, or produced after long experiments and research, a remedy for diseases of the throat, chest and lungs, which was of such wonderful efficacy that it soon gained a wide reputation in the country. The name of the medicine was Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and may be safely relied on as a speedy and positive cure for coughs, colds, sore throat, etc. Sold by all druggists.
