JOHN G. HOLMES, Editor.

THURSDAY, DEC. 20, 1893.

Aaron Jones, of South Bend, is Master of Indiana State Grange.

A bill for the admission of Washington Territory as a state is now before Congress.

A St. Louis crank has gone all the way to Cleveland to propose to Miss Mollie Garfield.

The divorced wife of Ex-Senator Christy died at the home of a friend in Brooklyn, New York, a raving maniac, Thursday.

Three Republican Presidents have been nominated in Chicago, two of whom were assassinated. Chicago was also the location of the famous "war a failure" convention, that nominated McClellan, and planned to liberate the rebel prisoners held at Fort Douglas.

Representative Ray, of New Hampshire, has introduced a bill to cancel sugar and molasses on the free list. This is a move to please the Democrats of the South who have been crying long and loud for free trade, and will call pretty close home.

Speaker Carlisle does not find the lot of Speaker to be the most pleasant in the world. He finds from two to a dozen applicants for each prominent place on the committees, all his friends who must be cared for past political services, and congress is getting along without any committees, while he is trying to conceive some method of putting in practice pure Democratic civil service. "Turn the rascals out."

The Democrats do not appear to be most highly pleased with the first governor they have been able to elect. The papers in all parts of the State are publishing rather unpleasant remarks about him, generally under the head "Good-bye, Gov. Begole." It would seem strange that after a rest of about thirty years they could not find a man in all their ranks who they would not be ashamed to stand by through a short term of the governorship. By all means, turn the rascals out.

Since the murder of Matthews, the Republican leader of Cophah county, Mississippi, because of his interest taken in having the vote of colored Republicans cast and counted, the Democrats of that county have met and Resolved, That from henceforth no man, or set of men, shall organize the negro race against the whites in this county, and that if it shall be attempted in the future we hereby give notice that it shall be at the peril of the person or persons attempting so to do. Literally translated, this means that any man who attempts to organize the colored voters against the Democrats of Cophah county must be careful to not let any one get the first shot.

Charles McLaughlin, a California millionaire, contracted with Jerome B. Cox to do some railroad work. Cox spent his fortune of $50,000 on the work and failed to complete the contract for lack of means. McLaughlin took possession of the job, completed it, and refused to pay Cox for his work. Cox sued and obtained judgment. McLaughlin appealed to the supreme court, had the judgment reversed and a new trial ordered. This kind of justice was repeated five times, occupying a period of nearly twenty years. A few days since, Cox becoming tired of delay, went to McLaughlin and demanded settlement for $10,000, and upon being refused he deliberately shot the millionaire into his death. The jury that held an inquest over the corpse thought it was a species of self defence, and so rendered the verdict.

Congressman Horr has introduced in the House the following resolution, which is as near as may be the same as the Democrats had anxiously passed regarding the hanging of O'Donnell, in London:

Resolved, That the House bring to the notice of the President the cause of the recent murder of several citizens of the United States, and the serious injury of several other persons, also claimed to be rich citizens at Danville, in the state of Virginia, in the hope that the President may ascertain whether the said persons so murdered and injured were citizens of the United States, and, if so, whether the killing and injuring of said citizens, if they were such, were in contravention of the provisions of the municipal law of the state of Virginia, or of any law of the United States.

No sooner was the resolution announced than a half-dozen Democrats were at their feet to offer objections.

WASHINGTON SPECIAL.

Senator Anthony.

Upon the accession of Vice-President Arthur to the Presidency in September, 1881, the Senate of its next session elected as its President pro tempore David Davis of Illinois, whose term of office as Senator expired on the 3d of March, 1883.

Just before the expiration of term Mr. Davis resigned the Presidency of the Senate, and Geo. F. Edmunds, Senator from Vermont, was elected as his successor. Mr. Edmunds' Senatorial term not expiring until 1887. This procedure was necessary in order that the Presidency of the Senate should not be vacant during the interval between the forty-seventh and forty-eighth Congresses.

It is now well-known in official circles that Senator Edmunds does not wish to continue in his present position as presiding officer of the Senate, it being his desire to accompany his family to the Bermudas for the health of his wife. The Republican majority have therefore indicated a disposition to choose the subject of our illustration, as Mr. Edmunds' successor, and this event seemed only to await the recovery of Senator Anthony from his late illness and his appearance upon the floor of the Senate.

Henry E. Anthony, of Providence, Rhode Island, was elected to the Senate that State, April 1, 1815, or Quaker ancestry. He graduated at Brown University in 1813, and in 1838 he assumed the editorial charge of the Providence Journal, which he retained until called to a seat in the United States Senate. He was elected Governor of his native State in 1840, was re-elected in 1850, and thereafter declined to accept the candidacy for another term.

He was elected to the United States Senate as a Union Republican, to succeed Philip Allen, Democrat, and took his seat in 1859, his term expiring in 1865. During this term he served as chairman of the Committee on Printing. Mr. Anthony has been returned as his own successor each expiring term ending March 3, 1889. He was elected President of the Senate pro tempore March 20, 1889, and was re-elected March 10, 1891.

Senator Anthony was a member of the National Committee, appointed to accompany the remains of President Lincoln to Illinois, and one of the Senators designated by the Senate to attend the funeral of General Scott, in 1866, and was also a delegate to the Philadelphia Loyalist's Convention, in 1865. He is one of the most popular members of the Senate, and his elevation to its Presidency a third time is at present strongly indicated.

Senators Mahone and Riddleberger's attitude toward the Republican majority of the Senate has caused a delay in the re-organization of the Upper House of Congress that promised to assume a knotty dead-lock between these two Virginia Senators and the thirty-eight Republicans. Riddleberger will not with Mahone in whatever course the latter will take, which practically gives them the "balance of power."

Senator Porter is in the city looking after his long-sought relief. Senator Sewell, of New Jersey, introduced a bill in the Senate during the week, providing for General Porter's restoration to the army and immediate promotion to the rank of major. The same bill will be introduced in the House by Gen. Slocum of New York, and there seems to be a prevailing sentiment among the members favoring its early passage.

For thirteen years the permanent citizens of the District of Columbia have not had a vote. The Constitution declares that every citizen of the United States shall have the right of suffrage, but over 25,000 eligible voters of this district have been practically disfranchised for over a decade under the present systems of our District Government. An effort will be made and is now in progress to have the present Congress restore to us a local government. A district committee has been organized to petition the legislature to pass a bill to that end, and if possible another will be introduced to the present Congress, restoring to us a local government.

A district committee has been organized to petition the legislature to pass a bill to that end, and if possible another will be introduced to the present Congress, restoring to us a local government. A district committee has been organized to petition the legislature to pass a bill to that end, and if possible another will be introduced to the present Congress, restoring to us a local government.

Rumors of Dudley's retirement have been floating around the past week. A state committee has been organized by disgruntled pension attorneys and their friends to induce Secretary Teller to remove Mr. Dudley as Commissioner of Pensions, but Teller says "not while I am here as Secretary of the Interior." Mr. Dudley says he will resign, so the pension attorneys will have to be satisfied with his company.

I learned during the week that there are sixty Maryland and Missouri claims ready to be introduced at a first opportunity. These bills claim damages to the aggregate of $32,000, 000, and if the Senate was also Democratic, a distribution of some amount would not be necessary to dispose of our surplus revenue. As it is, the country will not be compelled to pay for the loss of slaves and imaginary property by southern citizens.

Writes for the Berrien County Record.

MR. EDITOR:—We frequently hear it stated, that the Republican party will not be a leading party in 1894. "They have outlived their usefulness." Their existence is no longer needed or expected. How ominous and prophetic. If the Republicans are no longer to be a leading party, who is to take their place? Ye prophets who can look into the future and tell us what will not be, ought to be able, by the same prophetic lore, to tell us what will be. But while you are ascertaining this fact don't discourage one's effort unless you can suggest a better course for him to follow. Don't tear a man's house down without you have the power to give him a better one. Don't condemn the Republicans, and cast them contemptuously aside unless you can produce or suggest a way by which another party can be placed in power that can do more for our country than they have done under the same circumstances by which they have been surrounded. We have learned that it is much easier for people to laugh at or complain of one's efforts than it is for them to do equally

Strike at the Bottle.

A nervous and disease-stricken old gentleman was sitting in his room on an easy chair, his physician being at his side.

Said the old gentleman, "Now, doctor, you have been treating me for a long time, and haven't done me much good. I'm tired of all this. I want you to strike at the root of all my disorders."

Said the doctor, "Do you mean exactly what you say?"

"To be sure I do," said the venerable invalid.

"Well, here goes!" said the doctor—and with one whack of his cane he broke to pieces the brandy-bottle which stood on the mantel.

The old gentleman was angry and excited, but he had a good ansur ready for the doctor. "Doctor, if it hadn't been for your doctrine, I never would have got into the habit of drinking."

In Brown's Iron Bitters there is strength for the debilitated, refreshment for the nervous, and new life for the broken-down.
