ROYAL BAKING POWDER.

Absolutely Pure. Her Father's Coachman.

Smiles upon her face so sweet; Dressed in white like a saint; Draw to see her in a treat...

In the kitchen? Well, not hardly! Dangled and golden is her hair; She is very, very fair...

With a manner so demure; Light and happy, free from care— Help her mother? Well, not hardly!

Reminds her, every one; Finds a little just for fun; To the seaside takes a run...

When the winter's done— Make her own clothes? Well, not hardly!

Comes it, fast in bagatelle; Is this dear, delightful belle; Embroiders quite a pretty spell!

Faith on china, very well— With her mother? Well, not hardly!

Marryes some good man some day; Nine times in ten that is the way; They're getting their earthly pay...

(We mean the man; and will he say, "Thank the Lord?" Well, not hardly!)

ing's drive, that it was too great an interruption to her duties, and preferred going in the evening. Sadie went in to see her father—would that change your love?

"Not one bit," she said. "There was a little word near the gate and he stopped by it."

"I am almost afraid to try you, for the test is great. Maybe I ought to have told you before we were married, but I was afraid of losing you."

In Sadie's fear that something terrible was going to be revealed to her, she didn't notice how the coachman's grammar had suddenly improved.

"Trust me, she muttered, and she couldn't get me in any other way. He told papa and mamma all about it as soon as I promised to marry him, and mamma knew that night that I was going to tell me not to go out with him to make me sure to do it. Well, I had the fun, anyway, of running off with my father's coachman; but don't try it, girls, for you might be deceived, as I was, and get into a terrible mess."

"I'm in no hurry to get home," she faltered. "I'm not afraid when I'm with you."

"There's nobody livin' that 'ud take better care on you. There's nobody livin'!"

He stopped there, but she understood what he would say, and her heart went pit-a-pat.

She had reached the climax of her hopes—she was loved secretly, and by one of whom her parents would disapprove. She found then that she loved him.

Though he said no more that night, she was sure he would soon tell her of his affection, and then they would elope.

It was too happy to sleep when she retired. George Egbert, wandering over Europe, was for the first time forgotten.

It stormed the next morning, and for several days afterward, so there was no driving for nearly a week. At the end of that time Mr. Macy had bought a pony for Sadie, and the first day the roads permitted she tried it, with good success.

Several gentlemen had craved this privilege, but she peremptorily refused one and all.

"It would not be proper," she said to her mother, when urged to accept one, "to allow a gentleman to ride with me, and if I go with one I must with all. Tom does well enough for me."

"You're quite right," approved mamma, and papa was delighted that Sadie should be so sensible.

And Sadie, who was never further from being sensible, was lifted by strong young loving arms on the new pony, and went cantering down the road.

She was a little afraid of her father's anger when it came to his knowledge that she was riding with a man in the country, and when she went down that day her tall little face would have revealed that something unusual had occurred, if something else, not so unusual, unfortunately, had not occurred, and this second occurrence so greatly disturbed Mr. and Mrs. Macy, that neither saw Sadie's flushed face.

Pat, who for several years had been in the habit of coming to Buchanan, had lately begun to drink. Yesterday he was drunk for the third time that month, and when he presented himself this morning, his little face was as red as a beet.

"What a fine fellow," he said, "to drive his horse and carriage to Buchanan, and be charged. Mr. Macy, very angry, and out of mind to walk, remained at home that day."

"Well never have so good a coachman again," sighed Mrs. Macy.

"Why, nothing! What's the matter?" retorted Mr. Macy, hotly. "The next one, if I'm a year finding him, won't know the taste of brandy, I'll not have our lives put in jeopardy every time he comes to Buchanan."

He rode with a neighbor to the station that afternoon, and to a train for the city, where he remained till late, searching for a faultless coachman. Sadie was sent to the city with her horse, and when he returned, as the door closed upon them, he blustered out:

"What have you been doing to George Egbert, that's sent him off this way?"

"Why, nothing! What's the matter?" retorted Mr. Macy, hotly. "The next one, if I'm a year finding him, won't know the taste of brandy, I'll not have our lives put in jeopardy every time he comes to Buchanan."

He rode with a neighbor to the station that afternoon, and to a train for the city, where he remained till late, searching for

JOHN G. HOLMES, Editor. THURSDAY, JANUARY 15, 1885.

The city of London has been set in excitement by a death by Asiatic cholera within its boundaries.

This part of the State appears to be "out of the Union" in the matter of State appointments this time.

It is rumored that Judge Cooley of the Supreme Court will resign and that Hon. Benton Hanchett, of Saginaw will be appointed to fill the vacancy.

There appear to be about forty applicants for each place in the gift of Gov. Alger. Quite a hungry crowd to collect in one short term of out.

The jury in the Holcomb murder trial decided Saturday that the prosecution had failed to prove Dan Holcomb guilty of the slaughter of the Crouch family.

Gen. Sherman has delivered to the war department the papers on the strength of which he made his famous statement regarding Jeff. Davis.

The physician of the Kalamazoo jail has the munificent salary of $35 per year.

A Kalamazoo dealer shipped last week 9,000 sheep pelts, 500 beef hides, 1,800 skunk, and 5,000 muskrat skins.

Charles Clark, a saloonist of White Pigeon, was convicted of violation of the liquor law, and given his choice of 90 days in jail or a fine of $100 and costs.

Mrs. John Sands, of Adrian, poured kerosene on her fire Jan. 6. She was so badly burned in the explosion which followed that her recovery is doubtful.

A disease called cattle-leg has appeared among the cattle of Isabella county and many fatal cases are reported. No remedy is known for it.

It is stated that an elderly maiden in Nashville, who keeps a monkey that chews tobacco and a parrot that swears, says that between the two she doesn't care a husband much.

Two Ontonagon men went hunting, got lost, had neither provision nor matches after three or four days' wandering, and were rescued by friends, and will probably live to hunt some more.

The fur trade in Jackson this season has been larger than ever before. One buyer has already received 2,500 muskrats, 1,000 skunks, 150 coon and several foxes.

The recent trial of Dan Holcomb was for the murder of Jacob D. Crouch. He is also under arrest for the murder of Henry White, Eunice White and James Polly, which, if tried, must be in three separate cases.

There are reasonable grounds for the belief that the log crop of Michigan will be reduced at least 40 per cent, as compared with that of last year.

Salaries. Ex-Gov. Begole, in his exaugural message, makes the following sensible remark: "The salaries paid to our State officers and judges of the Supreme Court are a disgrace to the State."

There have been repeated inquiries recently for the official vote for President. The "Public Ledger Almanac" of Philadelphia, taking the head of each electoral ticket in the several States as the measure of strength, gives the following figures:

Table with 2 columns: Candidate and Votes. Includes Blaine (4,848,370), Cleveland (4,918,995), Butler (184,241), St. John (150,654), Total (10,047,200).

As Usual.

One of the queer features of the times is the spectacle of Gov. Hoody, of Ohio, devoting a considerable part of his annual message to arguing in favor of a re-establishment of the Scott liquor law with some modifications, through the submission of a constitutional amendment.

The relief furnished to the taxpayers of the State by the Scott law may be cited as one of its benefits. It supplies the money required to pay the expenses caused to the commonwealth by excessive drinking.

THE LONDON DUST-YARDS.

A Form of Woman's Work the Most Abject and Degrading.

A recent number of the Pall Mall Gazette contains an account of a form of industry in London which is not only unique in itself, but comes as near to white slavery as it is possible to come without actual control of the workers as chattels.

The dust contractors of London deliver their loads, taken from the thousands of bins in the city, into the dust-lands along the canals. The dirt is piled in large heaps on the banks of the canals, and the women stand between the heaps and the water.

On the top of each heap a boy or girl is posted who shovels the dust into a sieve held by each of the women. She sifts the dust and sorts what is left, picking out the different articles and sorting them into baskets at her back.

Under this system men of bad reputa can be prevented from engaging in the traffic, "low dives" can be broken up, those who conduct it illegally can be denied renewals of their licenses.

Children of school age will hereafter not be allowed in the Hastings rinks during school hours, unless they come with their parents.

THE OCEANIC IN BOSTON.

This Yankee metropolis is full of soothsayers of all sorts.

Up at the south end of the city there is a respectable married lady, who, at times, goes to the office of a fortune teller, and before falling into an unknown tongue, to which some learned pundits are trying to assign a place.

On the top of each heap a boy or girl is posted who shovels the dust into a sieve held by each of the women. She sifts the dust and sorts what is left, picking out the different articles and sorting them into baskets at her back.

Ice Mountains or Summer Lands. Those who wish a winter's sojourn under Florida Orange Groves, or at the wonderful World's Exposition at New Orleans, will find the Michigan Central offering the best rates, routes and accommodations. Others who seek the mainly sports and exhilarating scenes of the Montreal Carnival, with its Ice Mountains and its Ice Palace, Skating, Curling, Tobogganing, etc., will find the same thing. From Jan. 22 to 30, the Michigan Central will sell round-trip tickets to Montreal, via Ottawa, good to return until Feb. 7, at the low rate of $17.75 from Buchanan.

About 200 of the Poles and Norwegians employed in the Oliver Chilled Iron Works left their work Tuesday and made a raid of the factory with clubs and other weapons, driving from work a number of men who wanted to work, cut belts, broke plows, machinery, and a few heads, carrying things at a high rate until the Veteran Light Guards dispersed the mob at the point of the bayonet. A number of men were badly beaten with clubs, and otherwise injured. Their grievance was a reduction of 12 1/2 per cent. on their wages. Mr. Oliver had issued a circular to his help that his wages were full, and he could not run on full time and full wages, and it was only to give the men employment for the winter, that the shop was running, and promised a return to old wages on the revival of business. A large share of the workmen accepted the offer rather than have the shops and men idle, but a few breeders of disturbance, such as are always on hand on such occasions, refused to accept the terms and make every effort to incite the mob to not allow others to work. About twenty-five of the strikers were arrested and placed in jail, and will probably be legally punished for inciting mob violence.

GALLEN ITEMS. The mills are all running. M. H. Smith accepted a position in a barber shop at Dowagiac, and started for there last Monday morning. Miss Belle Blakeslee spent Sunday in Michigan City with her sister, Mrs. Fry. George Chase, while on his way home from school stopped on the mill pond to skate; when skating too near the waste gate the ice broke, and had it not been for the timely assistance of Mr. Glover the boy would have been drowned. This ought to prove a lesson to the boys, not to loiter on the way from school.

Smith is in Chicago, where she was called by the serious illness of her mother. Prof. O. E. Aleshire, of Buchanan, spent Saturday with Dr. J. S. Fardee. Mr. John Shetlerly spent last week in Niles. Mr. R. B. DeLap has returned from Missouri and reports a pleasant visit; also a successful financial venture. Miss Annie Tirrell will act as secretary for the M. E. Sunday school for the ensuing year. Some of our brave sons and fair daughters seem to find a special attraction at or near Hill's Corners. Will someone rise and explain? Literary exercises at the literary room, Jan. 23, 1885. Dr. Streeter, of Niles, slipped down here in a cutter, and has been eagerly waiting for a chance to slip back again in a like manner. Dr. King has sold his real estate in Troy to Peter Murphy. Mrs. Redding, of Dayton, is here visiting with her daughter, Mrs. A. W. Pierce. Miss Till Anderson, of Three Oaks, was at home Sunday. What on earth brings so many Professors around here, these hard times? Whispers Mother Grundy, in mystified tones of voice. Well, you see that the Troy of to-day is more advanced and educated in the arts and sciences than ever was her more prosperous predecessor of antiquity. Therefore, instead of cultivating the acquaintance of the leave sons of Mars, she seeks the more penance fellowship of the followers of Plato and Hippocrates. The St. Joseph editor who says that Troy is the home of MacIntyre is mistaken, that's all. SAUNDERS.

THREE OAKS ITEMS. Pleasant, but cold. A good time to get wood out of sight pretty fast. We have a new Village Marshal. Things will be in order now. D. F. Boonersheim started for Philadelphia Monday morning. Henry Chamberlain arrived home from Lansing on Friday afternoon. Layton Collins, living three and one-half miles south-west of this place, was kicked by a horse, on Saturday last, and died Sunday evening. He was buried Tuesday. Leaves a wife to mourn his departure. There is a good deal of wheat coming to market now. All aboard for New Orleans on Feb. 10. D.

At the late meeting of the Board of Supervisors, Messrs. Kingsland, Lambert, Glavin and O'Hara, having been appointed a committee to draft resolutions in respect to the memory of their late associate, the Hon. Henry Ashoff, presented in open board the following resolutions, which were adopted on a rising vote, each member standing at his proper desk:

Resolved, That we deplore the loss of one whose word was sacred, his friendship true, and life throughout such as to richly merit the name of "Honest" Henry Ashoff, applied to him for years and years.

Resolved, That by his death it is forcibly brought to mind that the loss is indeed irreparable, in that there are so few of his kind, honest, able and yet unassuming, of his true religious convictions, and of a kind recognized in the daily walks of life, on this Board, among his neighbors, everywhere, and not of a kind too often had, not known, or recognized until after the funeral services or the adoption of a series of resolutions:

Resolved, That we do hereby assure his family that no member of this Board since 1880, when he first became a member, has ever been so true to the esteem and affection of his fellow members than did Mr. Ashoff.

Resolved, That with that bereaved family we do heartily sympathize in the loss of one whom his children may be proud to call their father, and we speak of as her husband.

Resolved, That these resolutions be presented in an open board for record; that the several members of the county be requested to publish the same; and that an engrossed copy thereof be forwarded to the family of the deceased by the Clerk of this Board.

Board of Supervisors. The Court of Supervisors met at the Court House, January 1. The bonds of the sheriff, county clerk, treasurer and register in chancery were approved and filed.

The printing of the proceedings of the Board of Supervisors for the year was awarded to the Exhibitor, its bid of $3 cents per page being the lowest.

Mr. King offered a resolution asking the legislature to amend the tax law so as to require each person to swear to his assessment statement. Adopted.

The supervisors having adopted the part of the act relating to the tax law, they voted the following resolution, which was adopted:

Resolved, That this board hereby extends to the chairman and clerk a vote of thanks for the able, efficient and impartial manner in which they have performed their official duties.

Chairman Stens choked up in responding, and the clerk looked pious. The members then followed the pay roll to the county clerk's office, John Babcock of Niles bringing up the rear, the tears coursing down his cheeks.—Journal.

[Berrien Springs Journal.] The new county officers have all been duly installed and gone to work. Sheriff Peck has made the following appointments: Under Sheriff, W. A. Keith; Deputies, Marcus Osgood, Noah Cleaveland, Geo. C. Timmons, C. W. Smith and Henry Whaley. Roscoe D. Dix will be Deputy County Treasurer; A. B. Leeds, Deputy Register; C. D. Nichols, Deputy Clerk.

The state of Illinois is laboring under a great surplus. One of the members of the Legislature has actually refused to accept a railroad pass, and returned it to a company.

New Orleans Correspondence. January 10, 1885. ERROR RECORD.—Much of the time since writing you last the weather here has been quite disagreeable, raining much of the time, thereby making it very unpleasant under foot what small proportion of the time it has been pleasant overhead; but old residents tell us that we will have no more of it this winter, and as it is now very pleasant and quite warm we hope they are right.

The inclemency of the weather has a very perceptible effect upon the Exposition, decreasing the number of visitors and increasing the difficulties and expense of installing exhibits, nevertheless the unloading, opening and placing has gone steadily forward, so that the management will in a few days be able to set a day to announce the exhibits all in and everything in working order. Whatever of discord and dissatisfaction there may have been among exhibitors has been all satisfactorily adjusted when brought to the attention of General Burke, who, with a pleasant, cheering word for everybody, metes out justice to all in such a pleasant, friendly way, that everything is now working in harmony.

In justice to General Burke, I must say that his whole being seems wrapped up in this Exposition, and he is laboring night and day, taxing his abilities to their utmost to make it a success in every respect. Within the last few days the New Orleans people are waking up to a realizing sense of the magnitude of the enterprise and their duties in regard to it, and are giving it substantial aid, which I think will place it upon a firm basis and make the result all that was designed. With what there is an exhibition now a person might spend a month and yet be unable to see and appreciate it all.

In New Orleans many things are seen that look strange to a Michigander, among which may be mentioned the levee, with its acres of ground covered with bales of cotton, which is unloaded from river boats, compressed, then loaded into vessels for shipment to foreign ports. Here, too, is received and reshipped nearly all the molasses and sugar made up the river, so at all times can be seen hundreds of vessels, many of them representing foreign countries, and many acres of ground covered with cotton, sugar, molasses, &c., &c., the whole so thickly interspersed with negro teamsters as to appear like a living mass of coons, cotton, and carts.

New Orleans is noted for its large, spacious dwellings, the most of which have wide verandas on from one to three sides, and generally as many of them as there are stories to the building. I might almost say, too, that the cisterns are as many stories high as the houses. I have seen them three stories high, and presume many more. It would seem queer to read in the Record an advertisement of "second hand cisterns for sale," but it frequently appears in papers here, as the ground is so low that all are made above.

Another peculiarity of the city is the great number of goats to be seen on all the back streets, furnishing many families with all the milk they use, and some to sell. Goats are about as plenty here as dogs are in Buchanan, but as the goats are a little benefit to the poor classes, and the dogs a useless burden to all classes, I think the former preferable.

I hastily yours, H. H. KINYON.

Dakota Correspondence. CARRINGTON, Jan. 10, 1885. DEAR RECORD.—Still we live, move, and have a being. All is well with me physically, mentally, and—almost said financially, but that is hardly a fact, as times here are very close and business continues to get no better very fast. Crops of every description were good and the yield was large, but prices are so low that farmers, in the end, get but little, consequently a general depression is felt all over the northwest, and according to all reports the east is not much better off.

During the summer the weather was all that could be desired, although in a few localities hail storms damaged the wheat somewhat. There were a few days of nasty weather in the early fall, but from that time until the middle of December the weather was nice. From the middle of December until Jan. 4 we had some sharp, cold weather, ranging from twenty-five to forty-two degrees below zero, but no bad storms so far this winter. The last three or four days have been regular Michigan weather—don't know which to do, freeze or thaw. Trains from Jamestown ran regularly until Jan. 1, since which time they are irregular. We expect a complete blockade at any time now, although very little snow has fallen thus far.

During the fall the railroad was extended north to within three miles of Minnewauken, on Devil's Lake. It will be completed in the early spring, then the J. & N. R. will no longer be a branch road but a trunk line.

We have two express companies now, instead of one. The Wells, Fargo & Co. Express have recently opened up in all the towns on the N. P. and its branches.

An opposition coal and wood yard in this city has brought prices down to something reasonable; but opposition on freights will do us more good than all else.

Poster county had its first election last November, and a warm time we had of it, too. The county seat was the bone of contention. Carrington was counted in by the Commissioners. New Rockford kicks, and will contest it, but possession is nine points, and we have got possession.

The large hotel, the Kirkwood, that was burned last winter, has been rebuilt and refurbished, and is now first-class in every respect.

A new elevator was built last fall, with a capacity of 60,000 bushels; also a new church, by the Baptist denomination; and Carrington has a rink—yes, a roller skating rink. Right up with the times we are, you see. By the Record I see Buchanan has one also; and why don't Gallen? What are they about? Don't they know that a town is no town at all, without one? Emigration was very light last spring and summer. Plenty of good land is yet to be had a few miles north of this place.

This is certainly a trying time for people in North Dakota. Low prices for grain and high prices for fuel and provisions, although provisions are much lower than they were a year ago. The following are prices for staple articles: Flour, best, $2.35 per cwt.; second grade, $1.85 per cwt.; potatoes, 25 cents; butter, 25 cents; eggs, 80 cents; salt pork, 12 1/2 cents; fresh beef steak, 18 to 20 cents; lard, 12 1/2 cents; hard coal, $12; (I bought my supply early in the fall for $10.75); soft coal, $10; wood, four foot, $8; sugar, A, 12 1/2 cents; B, 11; tea, Japan, 50 cents; coffee, Arabica, 20 cents; evaporated apples, 20 cents; chickens, dressed, 12 cents per pound; buckwheat flour, 7 cents per pound; crackers, 10 cents; cheese, 18 cents; hard water per barrel, 35 cents; soft water in blocks (ice) $3.50 per ton.

We have a good church organization and Sabbath school. The Masons have a good, strong lodge. The Odd Fellows were all ready to institute, but the man who owned the hall failed to finish it at the time set, and there the matter stands. They will probably organize in the spring.

Quite a number of people who could afford it have gone east this winter on a visit. I wish I was one of the number who could afford it. I do not wish to leave Dakota for good, for I really believe that those who stay right here until another season will certainly see better times. The older and wiser ones seem to think there will be a reaction in financial matters, and business will go to the other extreme. Speed the time. It cannot come any too soon to suit me.

I am glad the Record has another Gallen correspondent. I missed the items from that place very much. I receive the Record every Monday as regular as clock work. Of all the papers I take it is the most welcome and the first one I read.

I am still in the stove and tinware business. I have a good, large store-room, with tin shop just back. I live over the store, and up stairs and down, everything is rigged warm and comfortable, and I am in no fear of a Dakota blizzard.

Very truly yours, PORTER CTRICHILL.

From Fairfield, Neb. Jan. 6, 1885.

To THE EDITOR.—I left Buchanan the 16th of December. When I left Michigan there was good sleighing, and the farther I got this way the less snow there was, and when I landed at Hastings, Neb., there was none at all, but 'twas cold enough to freeze everything, nearly. A person had to be well clothed to go any distance. New Years morning the thermometer was twenty-two below zero. There was two weeks of very cold weather here, and then it began to moderate, and we are having, at this time, very pleasant weather. I do not like so much cold weather as they have to put up with here. The winds are piercing cold.

This is a great corn country. There are great quantities of corn to be husked yet; nothing on the stalk but the ear. The wind has blown all the blades off.

I have heard several people who have lived here from eight to fourteen years say that this is the worst winter they ever experienced in Nebraska, and they don't expect much more winter now. They tell me they begin plowing here next month.

Fairfield is a very nice little town about twice as large as Berrien Springs, and they are preparing to build more in the spring. They have the foundations of two buildings now completed. One for a bank and the other for a store.

The markets are well supplied with everything a person would wish for. The market prices are as follows: Wheat, from 10 to 14 cents; corn, 12 to 17 cents; oats, 12 to 15 cents; potatoes 30c; butter, 20c; eggs, 30c, cattle sell from $3 to $4 per cwt.; hogs $3.25 to $3.40 per cwt.; good milk cows sell readily from $30 to $60.

I haven't seen any running water since I came here. The land is all high and dry, but there are plenty of wells from sixty to ninety feet deep and the water is good.

They are putting up some very nice ice, as clear as crystal, drawn six miles, from the Blue river.

Don't forget to send the RECORD.

"You, George Washington, keep away from dat ar boiler. Drectly you is givin' me upset de biler and scaldin' yourself to deef, an' when you is, you'll be doin' de same to me. 'Texan's me, mammy!"—Texas Sayings.

To PRESERVE roses through the winter take them up after the first frost has killed the leaves, cut out or short-cut immature wood, select a piece of ground where the water will not be, plant the roses thickly, sloping the branches somewhat, then place dirt among them, rigging it up so the water will run off. In the spring, as soon as danger from frost is over, take out and replant.
