THE MODEL EDITOR.

A man who runs a paper should know a few things.

And he should know a few things more like a glorious midday taper.

It should be as profane as Plato.

It should be a hot potato.

And it should be as profane as a street and crossing scraper.

It should honor in its journal

Every capite, crank, and colored.

And dish up their proud achievements in a college-page of a journal.

It should publish the hardened lie—

Club and concert, choros and choir.

With long adjectives, sonorous, sweet, seraph

to surpass.

It must write the funny column

That makes all his readers sob.

With the fashions, frills and fancies, farbeand—what's yet to come?

Quell the copy-finders' wild revels,

Smother and smother the devil,

And put to rest the patrons that shall not be and will not be.

It must be a news reflector

Of the yeoman and lecturer,

And rain down his taffy in torrents and the weather in his pocket.

It must be a prompt advisor

To each foreign king and Kaiser,

And keep up his key-hole telescope to do the bill collector.

A HASTY DECISION.

She was dead; an old woman, with silvery hair brushed sootily away from her wrinkled forehead and snowy cap tied under her chin; a sad, quiet face; a patient mouth, with lines about it that told of sorrow born with gentle firmness; and two withered, tired hands, crossed with a restful fold.

Who, looking at the sleeping form, thought of love and romance, of a heart only just healed of a wound received long ago.

Forty years she had lived under that roof—a farmer's wife. If you looked on the little plate on her coffin-lid you would see "Aged 70" there; and she was only 20 when John Phillips brought her home a bride.

A half century she had kept her careful watch over the dairy and larder, had made butter and cheese, and looked after the farm and the duties that fall to the share of a farmer's wife. And John had never gone with buttonless shirts or undared socks; had not come home to an un-tidy house and scolding wife. His little tidy Maria had been his pride, and though not a demonstrative husband, he had boasted sometimes of the model housewife that kept his home in order.

And under her quiet exterior

there was a story that John never dreamed of, and would hardly have believed possible had he been told. She did not marry for love. When she was 17 years old, her father, a stranger came on a visit to their little village, and that summer was the brightest and happiest she ever knew. Paul Gardner was the stranger's name; he was an artist, and fell in love with simple village girl, and won her heart; and when he went away in the autumn, they were betrothed.

"I'll come again in the spring," he said to her, "and wait for me, Maria,

dear."

She promised to love and wait for him till the end of time, if he came, and with a kiss on her quivering lips he went.

Mattie Gray did not tell her father and mother of her love, for they had no liking for folk who had treated

Paul as no more than a passing fancy.

Spring-time came, and true to his word, Paul returned; he staid only a day or two this time.

"I am going away in a few weeks to Italy to study," he said. "I shall be gone two years, and then I shall claim you for my bride."

They renewed their vows, and parted with tears and tender, loving words.

But in the end of the year, he had cut a little curly tress from her brown hair, and telling her to be always true and wait for him, he went away.

The months went by, and Mattie waited and waited, and she grew shorter by studying to improve herself, so that she might be worthy of her lover when he should return to make her his wife.

But when about time he is to start,"

she said to herself one day.

And by-and-by, as she glanced over his newspaper, her eye was attracted by a name, and with white lips and startled eyes she read of his marriage to another.

"Married! Taken another bride instead of coming back to me! O, Paul,

Paul! I loved and trusted you for four years, and now you have married another girl!

She covered her face with her hands and wept bitterly.

An hour afterward as she sat there in the twilight with the fatal newspaper open on her lap, she heard a step on the gravel walk, and looking up, she saw John Phillips coming up the steps. He had been to see her often before, but he had never yet spoken love and tenderness to her.

"Remember that I have had over thirty years experience in this business and thoroughly understand it. When in need of anything in my line come and see what I can do for you."

His lips moved to tell him that she did not love him; but as she let her eyes fall upon the crimson-bearded rose that sprung from the end over the window, she caught sight of those few lines again.

"Married!" she said to herself.

"What can I do? He doesn't ask me to love him. If I marry him I can be a free wife to him, and nobody will know that Paul has jilted me."

The decision was made. Her cheeks were ashy pale as she looked up, straight into his eyes, and answered

him. "Yes, I will be your wife."

Her parents were pleased that she was chosen by so well-to-do a young man; so it was all settled and they were married that summer. People thought she sobbed down wonderfully; more than that, nothing was

There is something strange about the Democratic party. In the North, all of its speakers make free trade their chief topic of discussion, while in the Southern States, no man can secure a nomination to congress on that ticket unless he be pronounced and unequivocally against free trade.

The Republicans of the first congressional district have endorsed the nomination of Henry A. Robinson, the Labor candidate for Congress, against J. Logan Chipman. There is said to be a good fighting chance for his election.

The Soldier's home at Dayton, O., a government institution, has recently had a bar added to the conveniences of the veterans, and now the boys can get their beer more conveniently than to go down town for it. Mr Sedgwick now talks of suing for heavy damages for libel by the numerous papers throughout the country. Will that make any difference with his having been drunk and made an ass of himself and a disgrace to the country that gave him his mission? He has but one point to be proud of—he is not the only bummer the present administration has sent abroad to represent the Yankee nation, nor the worst.

The hue and cry that is heard about the laboring classes in this country looks a good deal like folly. There is but one class of people in this country who are not laborers. You can always find them sitting around the street corners, devising ways and means of ruining the finances of our government, and studying who will trust them for the next suit of clothes they will need. They are the drones of the human race, and ought to be treated the same as is done by the honey bee.

The desperation and malignant hatred of the Republican party to all opposition is shown by the open threats now made that Albin Colwell will be boycotted because his president dare assert individual principles and stand for what he believes to be right.—Kalamazoo Gazette.

This is one of the many instances which brands the Republican party as a foe to equal rights and suffrages.—Berrien Springs Journal.

Yes, and you might safely have added, Mr. Journal, that the above is one of the gazette's lies, and made up of untorn fabric.

Under the new tax law there is a marked decrease in the amount of land sold for taxes.—Star.

Simply because the penalty is so small that buyers will not bid, and the state is carrying the tax as under the old law. It seems a pity the state of Michigan cannot devise a tax law that will stand the storm. Under the law of 1882 the taxes were paid, and but a few years would have made tax sales almost an unknown thing, but two members of the supreme court thought they saw something wrong in the way the law was passed and killed it in the shell.

The Vote on Blaine and Burrows.

Mr. Blaine's majority in this district was over 1,500. Mr. Burrows was 322; change but 477 votes and Mr. Sherwood is Governor.

The above is a fair sample of the style of argument by which Democratic papers hope to deceive the voters in this congressional district. The basis of the article is a misstatement of the positive strength of Mr. Burrows in this district, as represented by the vote of 1884. In that year Mr. Blaine received in Berrien county 4,445 votes, and in the other counties 2,000, 4,515 votes, in St. Joseph 3,921 votes, and in Van Buren 4,210 votes, making a total of 19,204 votes. In the same counties Mr. Burrows received, in Berrien 4,407, in Cass 3,692, in St. Joseph 3,133, in Kalamazoo 4,317, in Van Buren 4,010 votes, making a total of 18,564 votes, so that the total vote received by Mr. Blaine exceeded that received by Mr. Burrows by 640 votes, instead of 1,906 as falsely stated in the paragraph quoted above. As showing Mr. Burrows' personal popularity at that time, it is instructive to note that in the first district of this congressional district, the State of John Atkinson, one of the most popular candidates ever before the people for their suffrages, received 1,706 votes less than Mr. Blaine. In the fifth district, Mr. Fitzgerald, a man of great personal popularity, who had held no office of any note in his life, and had almost no political enemies, received 347 votes less than Mr. Blaine. In the seventh district, Mr. Weeks, the Republican candidate for congress, received 1,102 votes less than Mr. Blaine. In the ninth district, Gen. Cutcherson received 1,000 votes less than Mr. Blaine.

These figures show that instead of Mr. Burrows being personally unpopular he was, even in 1884, notwithstanding his long term of service in the military and naval services, and the fact that a representative in congress must be responsible for many federal appointments by the administration, Mr. Burrows was one of the most popular representatives in congress in that year. Since 1884 Mr. Burrows' eminent services in behalf of his district have made him much stronger as a candidate than in 1884.

As to the change of 177 votes asked by the Kalamazoo Gazette, that paper is respectfully notified that there will be a change at the next election of more than 100 votes, that number of votes, but they will be changes from the Democratic to the Republican candidate, and will elect Mr. Burrows by a majority at which even the Gazette cannot cavil.—Kalamazoo Telegraph.

The Third Party.

The election in Maine settles the future of the third party. It is not to be a serious factor in American politics. It has no future before it. Prohibition has a great future, thank God, but not the prohibition party.

The disappointment of the third party Prohibitionists, who are but a very small part of the Prohibitionists, over the Maine election is very great. They had everything in their favor and they expected great things. They have aroused no public enthusiasm and their vote shows no signs of healthy growth. It is true that in an off year, when no National issues are at stake, they have cast about 3,500 votes. But let us see what this means. In 1880 the Prohibition party in Maine cast 115 votes; in 1882, 881; in 1884, 1,100, and in 1886, 1,100, and (for President in November), 2,100. In the election, Sept. 7, in Vermont, the most the Prohibitionists can claim is that they have held their own. The vote in 1884 was 1,732, and 1886 it was 1,823, a gain of fifty-eight votes.

Here is a real gain, but it is not all the gain which would be expected if there were a real conviction growing up that prohibition is a proper issue to base a party on. The Prohibitionists are never weary of comparing their party of "moral ideas with the under its names of the Liberty party and the Free Soil party, which were the ancestors of the Republican party. But the anti-slavery party showed very different growth from this prohibition party. In Maine the anti-slavery third party had 104 votes in 1840, 4,826 in 1842, and 12,000 in 1848, and 67,379 in 1856, being a majority of about 25,000. In Vermont the third party cast 319 votes in 1840, 5,054 in 1842, 13,837 in 1848, and 39,501 in 1856. We will take the other representative State, that of Massachusetts. That State cast 1,621 votes in 1840 for Mr. Birney, 10,880 for the same candidate in 1844, and $5,668 for him in 1848, and gave Fremont a majority of 50,000 over Buchanan and Fillmore in 1856. That is the way a party grows that has vitality. The Prohibition party nowhere shows any evidence of taking hold as did the earlier party, of the conscience of the people.

If we may then say that the Prohibition party is a substantial failure, the question must next be answered: Why is this so? Will not the people respond to an appeal for prohibition? Certainly they will, and it is chiefly because they wish to fight the saloon by prohibition in every other way that they refuse to accept the Prohibition party. They have common sense, they see that prohibition has hitherto gained glorious victories by moral agitation and that the political methods of the third party actually endanger prohibition.

Besides, we can not conceal it, from ourselves that the third party Prohibitionists are showing themselves much more anxious to make much more of their party than to promote temperance. There is that political ambition has more to do with their methods than a love of temperance. This is seen in the fact that their declared policy is "No compromise" which has the remarkable meaning of no voting for a prohibitionist unless he fits our political flag. So they will set up a candidate of their own against an active and pronounced prohibitionist of the old party, when they know perfectly well that to do so is likely to elect a saloon man. They prefer a saloon man to a Republican or a Democratic prohibitionist. Now, the common sense of the people will see through that nonsense.

Their utter impracticability is seen in their method of fighting the saloon. The common-sense method of fighting the saloon is to take every inch you can get, and to retreat never. The political Prohibitionists have only one policy, and that is State prohibition or nothing. Common-sense people regard freedom of conscience as a sacred right, and total prohibition as the upper stage, and they move forward just as fast as they can. The political Prohibitionist, if we can judge from his constant policy, actually proposes to open a hell of the restricted saloon to everything else except absolute prohibition. He will not shut up one unless he can shut up all. If he can not make it impossible to open a saloon, he will give every help he can to make it hard or expensive. He will give no assistance to a community which wishes local prohibition. No county shall be helped to suppress the saloon unless the saloon shall be suppressed in its limits. It must be the State or nothing.

We believe that it will be found very difficult to get up a really vital party that will be the force of prohibition, because such duties will appear to honest men in all parties. We believe that it will be more than difficult—it will be impossible—to put any vitality into this so-called prohibition party, not because men love their old party so much, but because the policy of its leaders is unintelligent and is hostile to the cause it purports to serve.—New York Independent.

MR. ENOS HOLMES took seven premiums on his fine-wool sheep, at the South Bend fair.

MR. JOSEPH NUTT brought to this office an apple measuring thirteen inches in circumference.

I. M. LONG & Co. have on exhibition at the post-office an excellent crayon portrait of Dr. F. H. Berrick.

HENRY CHAMBERLAIN has Yapple's majority figured down to only 30,000. Haven't you got it low, Henry?

CHARLES SIMONDS' two little girls each have a baby brother. Mother and children are all doing well.

We noticed Chas. Beard, of Elroy, Wis., shaking hands with Buchanan people, the latter part of last week.

Mrs. JAMES SHERWOOD returned to her home, at Michigan City, the latter part of last week.

The Mirror says five barrels of talow were found in the river below the dam, in Niles, after the storm.

The first political speech of the campaign in Buchanan will be delivered by Hon. J. C. Burrows, on Wednesday, Oct. 6.

JOE WYKOFF'S house in Berrien Springs was struck by lightning Thursday night and somewhat damaged.

The filling and fill in the valley near John Pears' place, just east of town, was washed out by the storm.

A detachment of the salvation army struck this place Monday, but did not succeed in securing barracks.

THERE will be preaching at the U. B. church next Sabbath evening. The evening services will be continued.

The weather for the past week has been favorable to the success of the fair at Niles, but we learn that the attendance is not large.

MR. H. H. KINTON has sold his Front street property to George Smith, who will improve the property and make it his home.

FALL frosts have made their appearance, but crops are out of danger. There was quite a white coating yesterday morning.

If the Coloma Courier would stick to the truth regarding quotations from the RECORD, its liver would operate to better advantage.

We learn that Rev. W. I. Coggsbill, the new presiding elder of the Niles district, of the M. E. Conference, will make his home in Niles.

ONE-HALF of the crowd that went to Boston with the Old Fellows returned Saturday afternoon, the other half returned Tuesday.

Mrs. Wm. TALBOT and daughter Susie arrived home from the East, last Friday afternoon, where they have been visiting for nearly a year past.

MR. I. N. BACHELOR went to Bronson, Ok., to attend the centennial birthday of his great uncle, Mr. Martin Kellogg, which occurred last Tuesday.

THE belfry of the new college building in Benton Harbor was damaged by lightning 830 worth, Thursday forenoon.

SLOWLY the once proud city of Bertrand is fading. James Claffey has moved his house out of the city limits on his farm.

THE Rochester boot and shoe concern, that was located in the hotel building the past few weeks, has quietly departed.

SOME poultry raisers in this place have discovered that castor oil given to chickens in their water will cure cholera.

THE RECORD learns that Berrien Spring is possessed of a cider mill that is turning out 100 barrels of cider per day, and that all the members of the firm operating it are Prohibitionists.

ALBERT KEELER, aged 14, living four miles east of Benton Harbor, was struck on the head and chest by a falling tree, during the storm Thursday, and fatally injured.—Evening News.

As a matter of fresh news, the Evening News of last Saturday solemnly avows that the unknown man found on the track near Buchanan has been identified as Joseph E. Berdmore.

The storm of Thursday night washed the Wabash railroad so badly that traffic was abandoned for a short time. With the Wabash and St. Jo. Valley roads both under way, Berrien Springs came near being out of the world.

MESSRS. MEACH & HENT will open their new furniture store, in the south room of Redden's block, Saturday, Oct. 2. They have the finest room in town for that business, and we prophesy a good business for the new firm.

The Benton Harbor canning factory has put up 300,000 cans of tomatoes, and the "pickling vat" has utilized 10,000 bushels of cucumbers. Such enterprises go far as in making up a prosperous community.

The market in wind-fall apples has been lively in this place since the hail storm. The greater part of the crop was knocked from the trees by the hail, and being bruised must sell as second-class fruit.

JOHN ALEXANDER, W. A. BARNES, John C. Covey and Geo. H. Murdoch, Jr., are the Berrien county representatives at the State University this year, and have gone there this week to commence their work.

L. P. FOX, and Charles Black came home from Niles during the storm Thursday night. The story of their experiences would discount any stories of the wild West ever thought of.

The dam at the old Kingery & Marble mill properly went down stream, and a large-sized opening was made in C. Black's race, and D. W. Gaskie's flume and dam went into the river, during the storm.

A daughter of Moses Baldwin, near Coloma, was killed by lightning during the storm of last Thursday, while dressing her hair at the mirror. A young lady near Hartford, Van Buren county was killed during the same storm.

NEXT Tuesday is the time for attending the annual tax sale, at Berrien Springs. If you intend to bid in any you want to be sure of your description as the list is about as full of errors as it is possible for it to be. Whether the fault of the printer or copyist, we can not say.

COMMENCING this morning, Mr. Frank Lister will run a wagon between this place and Berrien Springs, making one round trip daily, for the accommodation of passengers. The wagon will leave Buchanan upon the arrival of the mail train from the west each morning.

MORE FLOWERS.—Mr. A. J. Carothers is having extraordinary success in his well digging. He now has three flowing wells on his grounds, one of them only twelve feet in depth. He intends to continue the experiments in this line, and will put down more tubing.

The inquest in the case of the unknown man, found upon the track two weeks ago, was finished Tuesday and the verdict rendered was, that the man, unknown to the jury, came to his death by falling from a Michigan Central passenger train, while in motion. He is still among the unknown.

LIST of letters remaining uncalled for in the post-office at Buchanan, Mich., for the week ending Sept. 30: Alfred Achenbach, A. M. C. Brach, J. T. Hall, Esq., Lovel R. Harshfield, Miss Maggie McLinn, G. Vardy, Esq., Post Card-C. H. Eabry, Mrs. Julia A. Hall.

SOLD.—Mr. I. C. Travis has sold his house and lot, on Front street, to Mr. Joseph Blake. Price, $1,000. It was bought for something less, an amount the RECORD is unable to learn. Mr. High, who has been occupying the property, will move into the Terriere house.

THERE is a strong branch of the Chautauqua and Scientific Assembly, at Niles. There is probably no social organization doing more for the advancement of its members in knowledge of science and literature and the arts than the Chautauqua circles, and there should by all means be a circle established and kept permanently alive in Buchanan.

We hear complaint that the road at this end of the river bridge is in a dangerous condition. The same might be said of a dozen or more places in the township, since the storm of last week. When other repairs are made, a stone abutment similar to that at the east end of the bridge should be built and the approach made substantial. The condition in which the roadway four or five miles rods from the bridge, as was left by the Niles commissioners, is an abomination in comparison with good work.

We sent Mr. Wooster, the geologist mentioned as having visited this section a few weeks since, a copy of the RECORD containing the account of Mr. Carother's flowing well, and received in return, a letter stating it as his belief that the same result can be attained along the valley of the McCoy Creek, through the village. Would the experiment not be worth the trying? Tubular wells are not very expensive now, and a good flowing well would be of great value to the town.

HON. J. C. BURROWS

WILL SPEAK AT

Rough's Opera House,

—ON—

Wednesday Eve'g,

October 6, 1886.

Everybody Invited.

Since the issue of last week's RECORD we have received proof that the writer of the communication in the Independent, signing "K. of L." had no more right to write that signature than he has to sign any other man's name. He is not a member of that order, nor can he become one, being one of the class tabooed by the order.

If you have any business to do over the St. Joseph Valley railroad, you must do it week before last. The rain storm of last Thursday night had a worse effect on it than the State Commissioner did. It is most likely that the last train has gone over that great thoroughfare that ever will. If anything does occur to raise the property it will be one of the wonders.

During the storm of Thursday night, Joseph Long's barn, with its contents, four miles west of Berrien Springs, was struck by lightning and burned. The property was insured in W. A. Palmer's agency, and would have expired four days later, when he had concluded that insurance doesn't pay anyway, and intended to allow the policy to lapse.

OLIVER DALRYMPLE, for many years a resident and owner of a large farm on the east side of Terre Conpee prairie, was found dead in his bed at his home Saturday forenoon by his hired man. He had shown symptoms of dementia some time before. He was about 70 years of age, and had resided on that farm forty years. The funeral services were conducted at the Dunker church on Portage prairie, Monday.

Mrs. JOHN CONRADT's class of ten little girls, from six to eleven years of age, in Union Sabbath school at Wagon school-house, have committed to memory 1755 Bible verses during the quarter ending last Sunday. The school is in a most flourishing condition, and has an average attendance of sixty-five pupils. The school now meets in the new German Baptist church at that place.

In nearly every town where a public hall is kept for rent—Buchanan is one of the exceptions—the managers of the hall make some effort to keep order in the room at all times. A word of attention ought to suffice to prevent the scenes that were enacted in the Opera House Monday night ever occurring again. There are but few ways of giving the town a name that is a disgrace to it, better than to allow such heathenish work at every entertainment that enters the hall.

NOTES AND CHECKS.—This company met with a slim attendance, Monday evening. They have a new play that is good in its plot and arrangement. The company is very sadly lacking in stage experience. The managers should give them about four weeks of solid rehearsal under some good tutor before he allows them to appear in public. Their postures, motions and promptings show that they felt like so many cats in a strange garret upon the stage.

BUCHANAN TOWNSHIP finds itself in a sort of quandary at this time. At the annual town meeting it was voted to raise $1,500 for highway purposes and excepting a few dollars, the money is already spent. The washouts of last week's storm call for from $3,000 to $5,000 for repairs, and the township board entertains a doubt of their authority to do the work. The work must be done, and that at once. This is a question that needs no argument.

The largest wedding party that has been held in this vicinity recently was that of Mr. Andrew Huss and Miss Cora Lingo, which occurred at the home of the groom's parents, Sunday, Sept. 26. There were over 250 guests present, and the new family started into the battle of life with a large list of presents, enough to start house-keeping in good style, and the well-wishes of a large circle of friends. Lack of space prevents the publication of the exceedingly long list of presents.

THERE is said to be a cloak of loneliness hanging over Berrien Springs since the closing of the narrow gauge road that is suffocating. "You never miss the water until the well runs dry." It might not be amiss to suggest that there is a grade partly finished toward St. Joseph, and that the money that was to go toward Eau Claire will put it in running tune, and that done this end of the road can and will have something definite done with it. The plea that the St. Joseph road is not built because of a failure to reach an understanding with the owners at this end of the road is not valid, as there is no necessity of their having any connection, so far as ownership goes.

FROM BERRIEN CENTRE. Sept. 29, 1886. A number of our farmers took farm products to Niles yesterday, to place upon exhibit during the fair. Our neighbors report a very enjoyable trip to Boston last week. Our estimable school inspector, Miss Magill, was suddenly taken quite ill on Tuesday.

The Republicans of Berrien township elected a full delegation of electors to attend the legislative convention on Sept. 30, at St. Joseph. Berrien Centre Lodge, I. O. G. T., was favored on Tuesday evening last by a visit from brethren Hill and Zeuser of Joy Lodge No. 701, Spink's Corners.

The District Chief Templar has called a district meeting to be held at this place on Tuesday, Oct. 26, 1886, commencing at 10:30 A. M. A good programme will be prepared for the evening, for an open meeting. A cordial invitation is extended to all sister Lodges and friends of temperance.

Our townsman, C. B. Groat, is a favorable candidate for legislative honors in this district. He has not been drumming up the nomination for many weeks either.

THREE OAKS ITEMS. Sept. 27, 1886. The hail-storm which visited the eastern portion of the county, and did so much injury to the apple crop, did not reach us. The nearest approach being about 2 1/2 miles east of this village, where the storm was not very severe. At Galien, we learn that hail fell to cover the ground from sight, and at that place the hanging fruit was nearly all beaten off the trees and bruised so that it cannot be kept. The demand for window-glass, after the storm, was greater than the local dealers of that burg could supply. The storm continues to this date in this part of the county, but in a less harmful manner.

Our South-western Agricultural Fair is to be held this week, Friday and Saturday, and it is to be hoped that by that time we may have settled weather, so that our farmers, and all others interested, may have an opportunity to show their products. We believe we can and do make as good a showing of fine specimens of all the cereals grown in this latitude, and of our farm stock, as will be shown in any county fair in this State. We hope to see every reader of the RECORD in attendance. The editor is advised to stay at home and "tend" the babies, and send his wife, who is a better judge of pumpkins, we presume. The factories will be running on fair days, and a visit to these institutions alone will well repay anyone for any outlay necessary to get here. We expect to see every candidate on the three county tickets in attendance, kissing the babies and complimenting the mothers. The babies have our sympathy, and will be put in charge of a committee of old maids, who will volunteer themselves as substitutes for the "little ones."

Our village is still on the "boom." Hon. J. L. McKie is making preparations for the erection of a fine brick business house, to be located just south of his present store. County Surveyor Drew was setting stakes to mark the location, last week. Mr. McKie is one of the men here who will not let an enterprise he undertakes lag for a moment, and we expect to see him in his new quarters before the snow flies. Another enterprise is in the charge of John Fisher, Esq., who is building a large and commodious livery barn, which is to front on Main street. This barn will be used for our street-car system in a short time. Fisher is looking to the near future. Stephen Martin has his new brick house well under way, and when completed will be the finest looking residence in town, and Steve will be looked upon as one of the nabobs of Three Oaks.

Will Whitehead of Kalamazoo, a son of W. K. Whitehead of our town, came here lately and took away one of our very best girls, the daughter of Peter Strehle. The young couple have the best wishes of the entire community (save a few jealous boys), and heartily recommend them to the best of Kalamazoo society. The next attempt by a Kalamazooite to kidnap one of our fair ones, will be punished in proportion to the offense. We mean business. Three Oaks is for protection or blood; so, young man, cheer up, buckle on your armor, and prepare for the coming conflict.

Our community last week suffered a severe loss in the death of S. C. Irwin, whom we have several times mentioned as being quite sick. Mr. Irwin was, up to last spring, a resident of Avery, and should be now credited to that place, as all his worldly interests were there. Avery has suffered severely this season, by the death of some of her foremost citizens. The list of her departed since Jan. 1 is: Wm. Payne, Mark L. Sherrill, Gilbert Love, and S. C. Irwin, four of the most prominent men in that neighborhood.

In the death of Mr. Sherrill and Mr. Irwin the Baptist church at Three Oaks loses their two leading members, who, at their death, were the deacons of the church. This church, by this stroke of the hand of providence, is severely afflicted. The friends of Milton Hinchman, late of Chikaming township, will be pained to hear of his death which occurred last week. Mr. H. was well advanced in years. STEVE.

GALIEN ITEMS. Sept. 29, 1886. Mr. E. Harris and wife are spending a few days at Chasse, Mich.

Mrs. Fred Davis is visiting her mother, at Elkhart. Mr. Skinner, of Coldwater, Mich., gave his daughter, Mrs. T. N. Hilson, a visit this week. He spoke at the Methodist church Sunday evening.

Mr. Smith, of Watervliet, is giving her many friends at Galien a visit. Ed. Phillips is much improved since the operation on his shoulder. Alma Blakeslee and wife are visiting at Michigan City, Ind.

John Penwell started for Kentucky, Tuesday. He will be the head sawyer in the mill of Geo. James & Co. The Saints held a social at Mrs. Columbus Scott's, Wednesday afternoon. Our village was well peppered with hail last Thursday afternoon. They fell with great force and were from one to three inches in diameter. The oldest residents state that it was the most severe storm they ever witnessed. Many laughable scenes occurred during the storm. One lady said that she ran down cellar, then wished she had united with some church, thinking perhaps that the end of all things had come. Henry Rennie is the only man that made any money out of the storm. He says that window glass is in great demand. He has ordered a fresh supply from the factory.

Last Thursday three of our young ladies took the trip to South Bend to attend the fair, leaving here on the midnight train and returning on the late train the next night. This does not speak well for our boys. They should at least be philanthropic enough to meet the young ladies at the train and see them safe home, on such a dark night. U. N.

DAVID WILSON, farmer of Rogers, Presque Isle county, has just sold the first wagon load of apples ever sold in the county, and is properly credited therewith. David A. Hall, now of Dakota, began suit for divorce against his wife. She was living in Jackson county and summons was sent there. It came too late; the woman had died the week before. Jackson county officials get about this pay, they say: Sheriff, $4,000; register, $1,500; clerk, $1,500; prosecuting attorney, $1,500; treasurer, $1,500. A wagon containing 613 dozen of eggs was upset recently in Bellevue township, Eaton county, but the owner got off with a loss of only twenty-one dozen.

Frank Horton, the Rhode Islander who was taken ill at Port Huron and knocked around by the authorities who feared the expense of looking after his wants, has died, and his body has been sent to Ann Arbor for scientific purposes. Mitchell LeCroc, of Advance, Charlevoix county, has an apple tree, on one side of which are an abundance of ripe apples, and upon the other a rich display of apple blossoms.

What is a comparatively light crop in Huron county this fall. Oats are yielding very heavy. Potatoes will be a large crop and fruit shows up in wonderful quantities.

Julius Clapp, of Paw Paw, raised on his Dakota farm, 25,000 bushels of wheat, 8,000 bushels of oats, and 1,200 bushels of rye. He owns 2,000 acres of land. Ellsworth Hall, of Cadillac, 15 years old, brutally kicked a 10-year-old girl, and shortly after the girl died. Hall was arrested and convicted of aggravated assault, and for 90 days he will ruminate in the Ionis house of correction. Life is cheap in Wexford county.—Detroit Journal.

A light-draft steamer has been launched on the St. Joseph river and made its trial trip satisfactorily. It is designed to ply between Three Rivers and Constantine, and is a steam propeller, 25 feet long and 7 feet wide, and will carry 15 to 20 passengers. John Linnis and Sarah Everett, of Bay City, have entered into a contract in which, by the payment of one dollar each to the other, they agree to take up the marriage relation and maintain the partnership until death separates them. The document was filed with the clerk of Bay county Wednesday. The Press, in mentioning the fact, says the party agreed to enter into the "contract" of holy wedlock, and ever to hold sacred the "marital relations."—Detroit Journal.

A Hudson lady, who is a spiritualist, heard a peculiar tapping the other night, and was convinced that it was a message. Crossing her hands, she said; "Is that a spirit? Tap-tap, what is the response? Does the spirit desire to talk?" Tap-tap came the reply. "Is it the spirit of my poor husband?" Tap-tap again came from the mysterious visitant. "Would you like to come back here and once more be my own loved husband?" Tap-tap-tap, and they rattled so that the lady investigated and found that a favorite rooster had mashed a half-dozen pines of glass and was still at his destructive work. The spirit of the departed husband hasn't been summoned since.—Detroit Journal.

James W. Miles of Hubbardston, Ionia county, president of the resident artillery association of Michigan, wishes to communicate with every artilleryist in the State, as he has something of interest to communicate in regard to the association between now and Oct. 14, when the first annual meeting occurs at Lansing. He asks for the postoffice address, the letter or number of battery and regiment, either light or heavy artillery, from this or any other State, of all now residents of Michigan.—Detroit Tribune.

About six miles west of St. Ignace Alonzo Chesman has lived on a farm for the past twenty-five years. He is now an old man, nearly 70, and his career has been a strange one. At the time of the great mormon settlement at Nauvoo he was induced to join the mormons, and took unto himself three wives. He became disgusted with the faith, however, and at the time of the disruption of the mormons, when the Prophet Smith was killed, he decided to leave them and instead of going west with the others he told his wife he had gone with it and if they wanted to go with the others they were welcome to leave; but he said if they wanted to stay with him he would do the best he could toward supporting them. They stuck by him, and he came into the wilds of northern Michigan with his three wives, living for a while on Beaver Island, and for a short time in Cheboygan but eventually settling down on the farm where he now resides. His second wife died some years ago, but he has seven children grown up and all married and now living near St. Ignace. He lives very quietly and everything appears to be harmonious in the household.

HOW THE GOVERNMENT PROVIDES FOR ITS DEFENDERS.

Five National Homes for Disabled Soldiers—Portraits of Their Five Governors—They are in Maine, Ohio, Wisconsin, Virginia and Kansas.

There are eighty-two national cemeteries for Federal soldiers. Eleven of them are in the one state of Virginia, showing how the Old Dominion soil was fought and fought over, and criss-crossed with lines of blood during the late war.

Old graves are being dug up and the bones of brave men, some of them lying beneath names of unknown soldiers, are scattered all over the south.

At the close of the war there were 294 government hospitals containing sick and wounded. Nearly a year afterwards there were yet unnumbered military hospitals.

Government meantime helped its maimed and sick soldiers as well as could be done in their scattered homes. It was not until 1890 that the government began to establish a national system of homes for its disabled soldiers.

The five homes for disabled soldiers are respectively the eastern, western, northwestern, southern and central.

The eastern branch was the first one started. It was organized at Augusta, Me., in 1891.

The western branch was organized at Denver, Colo., in 1892. The northwestern branch was organized at Portland, Ore., in 1893.

The southern branch was organized at Savannah, Ga., in 1894. The central branch was organized at St. Paul, Minn., in 1895.

Each of these homes is a beautiful building, and each is a home in every sense of the word. They are not only places where the disabled soldier can find a home, but also a place where he can find the best of medical care.

The homes are not only places where the disabled soldier can find a home, but also a place where he can find the best of medical care. They are not only places where the disabled soldier can find a home, but also a place where he can find the best of medical care.

the like as mediums to draw this crowd. She is a Yankee by birth and carried to England the same enthusiasm created by a life and drum while enlisting soldiers for the civil war. At any rate, military methods were adopted in this novel Christian warfare, and it has met with success equal to that of a political campaign carried on through the same agencies. It appears there is an unbroken desire among some of our people for military display and glory, and these soldiers' homes fill the long felt want. It gives the opportunity for a ceaseless military campaign without the danger of carnage and slaughter. The homes are being erected twenty years ago, but it was only six years ago that an attack was made on the American ideal of sin by the secularists. Since that time the army has been a great power in the country, establishing forts in many of the principal cities, until their outposts and sharpshooters have pushed their way almost to the base of the Rocky Mountains.

A couple of years ago a revolt occurred in the American branch of the army. Maj. Moore, who was at that time in charge of the American forces, led in the military and has since maintained his forces under his command, calling themselves the American Salvation Army. Frank Smith, in charge of the command in the United States, has written to Gen. Booth, telling this military story. "Yes, Maj. Moore was in charge of the army but unfortunately fell into the hands of the secularists, disquieting rumors reaching headquarters, which rendered inquiry absolutely necessary. The result of that inquiry was that Maj. Moore was requested to resign, and to accept of a commission and the subordination, he at once founded the American branch of the army, carrying with him the War Cry and all the material (books, papers) and other property of the army, leaving many of the members of the army to follow him. The material of his debts for the army, besides a broken public confidence, was the only thing that he carried over to his new organization. Many of the officers, excommunicated to implicit obedience, were the funds, etc., of the army, and the original army was, so far as main could be, ruined—a few corps only remaining. This was a state of affairs which the previous history of the army forbade; but left to the guidance of God and a few faithful ones, we grappled with this new set of difficulties and restored the army to its former position. This is the first visit of Gen. Booth to this country, and one of his chief objects is to devise some method of securing their property in this country so as to prevent future misadventures.

Justin McCarthy, a prominent prohibitionist, is shown in a portrait. He is a man with a full beard and a serious expression, wearing a dark suit and a white shirt with a high collar.

CHARLES S. WOLFE. The nomination of the prohibitionist for governor of Pennsylvania is Charles S. Wolfe. In 1871 he was an Independent Republican candidate for state treasurer, when he received 10,000 votes. His fall was not due to any fault of his own, but to the fact that the Republican party was divided at that time. He has since been a prominent member of the prohibitionist movement, and has been a candidate of that party for the presidency in 1888.

THE KNIGHTS TEMPLAR. DONCLAVE OF FREE MASONS OF HIGH DEGREE AT ST. LOUIS. The Knights Templar is a religious and chivalric order of the Christian Church. It was founded in the year 1119, and has since that time been one of the most powerful and influential orders in the world. The order is now divided into several branches, and has a large membership in many countries. The donclave of free masons of high degree at St. Louis is one of the most prominent of these branches.

MEETING OF THE SOVEREIGN GRAND LODGE IN BOSTON. A Short and Satisfactory Prayer and a Long and Satisfactory Banquet. The Sovereign Grand Lodge of the Knights Templar met in Boston on the 15th of October. The meeting was a very successful one, and was attended by a large number of members from all over the world. The prayer was short and to the point, and the banquet was long and satisfactory.

THE SALVATION ARMY. Arrival of Gen. William Booth, the Army Organizer. There landed on our shores recently a commander who has the best of his army can now be heard around the world. His forces fight under the banner of the Salvation Army of which he was the founder. This commander was Gen. William Booth, a tall, long-haired Englishman. He was a Methodist preacher, who gave himself up to the work of saving the masses of London. He found, he says, these difficulties in the way to his success: "My first idea was simply to get the people saved and send them to the churches. This I found impracticable. First, they would not go to church, and secondly, the churches gave me converts the cold shoulder because they were poor, and lastly, we wanted the converts to assist us in saving the masses. So it was that I was forced to a new plan. I found four cardinal principles on which I was founded were: a method of getting among the people; attracting them to us; saving them and then employing them to save others."

THE BROTHERHOOD OF BOND FELLOWSHIP. The main features of an advertisement were the drill of the commanderies and the concert. It is only necessary to say that the music was conducted by Col. P. S. Gilmore, one of our own patriots. There is no P. S. in the name. Brass band after brass band, and an arrival on the fair grounds early in the day and kept it up all night. They strode to the sound of such an array of drum and trombone. They filled the air with a pandemonium of sound, they made Rome howl. At that monstrous contest of drum there were sixty brass drums and 300 snare drums, and no less than 1,000 horns of various kinds. Long live Gilmore!

CHICAGO UNIVERSITY. The Douglas Monument. Away back in 1855, Hon. Stephen A. Douglas was elected to Congress, and he carried upon lands owned by him in Cottage Grove, near South of the city of Chicago. did in purple and gold and white. We are at the top of gogwags. The cross and the distinctive badge of the Knights Templar. Some of the symbols and rites of the Masons have come down from a time as old as the history of man. In the best period of Egyptian glory, before the pyramids were of the Sphinx had pronounced her cruel riddle, these symbols had their place and meaning. In the sacred Egyptian mysteries their significance was familiar. Jews, Greeks, Romans, adapted them. A. Rostand, and his Christian knights have alike employed them.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH CONVENTION. Chicago to be Honored This Year for the First Time.

The general convention of the Episcopal church in the United States will take place in Chicago in the month of October. The delegates will number 500, and its sessions will continue for several weeks.

And so the vicissitudes of time—civil war, a great fire in which $300,000 of property was destroyed in a night, and a financial crash that prostrated the business of the country, have defeated the beneficent purpose of the "Little Giant," and his own hopes of the institution. It is thought that the property will be sold and turned into a Roman Catholic college, though it is reported that the property will be sold to the University of Chicago.
