A Floating Palace

The accompanying cut gives a good idea of the new steamer the City of Benton Harbor, owned by the Graham & Mortan Transportation Co., which is said to be the finest and fastest steamer on the lakes. It was built at the Craig shipyard Toledo, O., and is expected to arrive in Benton Harbor about the middle of June.

The new steamer will be capable of a speed of twenty-three miles an hour and its regular gait will be over twenty miles an hour. The steamer is 265 feet long, 43 feet width of hull, 70 feet wide over guards and a moulded depth of 16 feet. The engine will be one of the three-cylinder compound type, and the cylinders will be respectively 86, 50 and 50 inches in diameter, with an 84 inch stroke. The low pressure cylinder is the largest ever cast at the Craig foundry and weighs twenty-three tons. The cost of the ship will be $300,000.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM.

Grapes and all Other Fruit Still in Good Shape.

The impression which has become quite prevalent with regard to the damage done to fruit buds by the frost of Sunday night, is found to be erroneous. There was some damage in certain localities to strawberries and grapes, but it has not been of a character to produce any alarm.

Mr. Joseph Burkhard took a drive over a large territory south of this city and finds that there is practically no bad results. The Lake Side Vineyard Co. find that their vineyards are not damaged except a little on the south slopes of the land.

Mr. John Murphy, who supposed he had lost his grape crop, is not damaged to any extent. Yesterday he was storing grape baskets in his barns, preparatory to taking care of more than his usual crop.

Mr. Hiram Wilson is the only loser in this vicinity. He has a fine vineyard of Delaware grapes on low, clay land. They are pretty badly killed. —St. Joseph Press.

"I was severely sick with kidney trouble. I tried all sorts of medicines, none of which relieved me. One day I saw an ad. of your Electric Bitters and determined to try that. After taking a few doses I felt relieved, and soon thereafter was entirely cured, and have not seen a sick day since. Neighbors of mine have been cured of Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Liver and Kidney troubles and General Debility." This is what B. F. Bass of Fremont, N. C. writes. Only 50c, at W. N. Brodrick, Druggist.

THE O. E. S. ENTERTAINED

The South Bend Chapter Wednesday Night in Royal Style.

A FINE BANQUET SERVED

In Basement of Presbyterian Church by the Ladies.

Regardless of the inclemency of the weather, Wednesday will be one long remembered by many members of the Eastern Star.

The occasion was the entertaining, by the Sylvia Chapter, of the South Bend Chapter.

Late in the afternoon the members from South Bend arrived 42 strong, and were taken care of at the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Sanders. Mrs. Hutchins, worthy matron of America Chapter, St. Joseph, was also present. From here they were escorted to the basement of the Presbyterian Church, where an elaborate banquet was served.

The banquet committee under the careful supervision of Mrs. A. F. Ames, as chairman, had prepared a feast fit to tempt the appetite of a king. Covers were laid for sixty at one sitting, and altogether about one hundred did justice to the delicious viands. The tables were very prettily decorated with cut flowers.

After the banquet all retired to the lodge hall in the Redden block where the program committee consisting of Mesdames Garland and Desenberg, had prepared another feast for the honored guests.

The program consisted of the following numbers:

Music by.....Buchanan Orchestra
Song by.....Ladies' Quartette
Mesdames Garland, Pears,
Desenberg and Mercer.

Selection.....Mrs. Tamerson Merrill
Clarinet Solo.....Arlin Clark
Song by.....Ladies' Quartette
Music by.....Buchanan Orchestra

After the above excellent program had been given the meeting was turned over to Mr. Byers, acting patron, and past-grand patron of Indiana, and Mrs. Rogers, worthy matron, who with the assistance of the South Bend officers, exemplified the work and escorted the following candidates through the mysteries of the order: Mesdames Wm. Roantree, Fletcher Lewis, George Hanley, Thos. Brown, and Mr. B. R. Desenberg.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

Was Held in Grand Rapids Wednesday.

NEW STATE COMMITTEE

Was Elected, Also Delegates to National Convention.

Grand Rapids, Mich. May 18—By a vote of 808 to 262, the Republican state convention today squelched Wm. Alden Smith and his resolutions to have all nominations made by direct vote, and adopted a platform calling for a law that would permit each locality to make its nominations for local officers as it may please, but standing squarely for the convention system in the making of nominations for state officers.

The feature of the morning proceedings was the address of Senator Burrows, who was given an ovation when presented as temporary chairman by G. J. Diekmann, chairman of the state committee. Senator Alger gracefully stepped to the front and proposed three cheers for his colleague, which were given with a will.

Business was resumed at 2 in the afternoon, when E. N. Dingley of Kalamazoo, was made permanent chairman and "Dr." Smith was continued as secretary. The delegates at-large were then quickly elected, there being no opposition to the state agreed upon in advance—D. M. Ferry of Detroit; T. J. VanRaalte, of Holland; and L. Whitney Watkins of Manchester. Philip H. McMillan of Detroit and Homer E. Buck were named for electors-at-large.

Senator Alger was called on for a speech and was given a great reception.

Gerritt J. Diekmann was re-elected chairman of the state central committee, with a whoop.

Isn't It A Satisfaction

to enter a store that has only the newest, best and freshest stocks? A store that weeds out all the odds and ends at the finish of every season and keeps its counters and shelves filled with attractive new goods?

We have the largest, best equipped and most conveniently arranged clothing store in Northern Indiana.

Every article we sell is backed by the Spiro guarantee and that means the quality is there, the style is right and that it must come up to your highest expectation.

Good clothes are always worth what they cost, but paying the price doesn't get them.

The reasons for buying Spiro suits are: First, they are good clothes; second, they cost enough to be good, and no more; third, if you don't think they're as good as they cost, you can have your money back.

We are now receiving new spring suits and overcoats from eastern markets, and we will be glad to see you and to show them to you.

We won't bore you to buy if you should not be ready to.

MURDERER THOS. PAYNE

Old Man's Mother-in-law Testifies at Length.

DEFENSE CLAIMS SHE LIES

And That Mrs. Payne was Killed by her own Weapon.

Mrs. Turner, stepmother of the late Mrs. Payne, was the first witness called in the Payne murder case now on in the circuit court. Mrs. Turner is English and came to this country last summer on money sent to her and her husband for that purpose. Her husband was a coal miner but on account of labor troubles he was out of work. Since their arrival Payne and his wife have not lived together. Payne slept in the hut, where the crime was committed, with his father-in-law and family, and Mrs. Payne slept at the home of her sister, a Mrs. Buchs, and at other neighbor's but she ate at the Turner home.

Mr. Payne milked the 11 cows belonging to them, and Mrs. Payne fed the calves. The milk was sold to the creamery, butter was returned to them and the balance due them for milk was given to Mr. Payne at the end of each month in a check, and the defense wishes to establish the fact that the check for milk was the cause of the fatal quarrel, and that Mrs. Payne wanted the money from the sale of milk for the month past to go to South Bend on a visit. The elderly husband claimed she would "blow it in," as he often accused her of doing with his money, but Mrs. Turner in her testimony is exploding this theory as she claims that husband and wife on the evening before the murder embraced and exchanged kisses and that they were unusually loving. At the mention of this occasion Mr. Payne's eyes filled with tears. Mrs. Turner testified that on the afternoon of the murder she entered the room in which Payne and his wife were reclining on the bed, he on the foot and she at the head, she with her head on the pillow and her face to the head of the bed, and he with his head resting on his hand gazing at her.

Mrs. Turner left the room but returned shortly afterward and this time Mrs. Payne was asleep and Mr. Payne had his right hand in his pocket. She left the room again and began to beat eggs to do some baking when she heard a faint report as though the fire in the stove had popped, but shortly this was followed by three or four sharp reports, and Mrs. Turner claims she knew Payne had shot his wife, so she started from the hut up the hill to call her husband and grandson.

A pet pig will play a conspicuous part in the testimony. This pig, which has always lurked about the house, was found to be in the orchard at the time the crime was committed. Payne, it appears, was a "Foxy Grandpa" in some ways. The property that was supposed to be deeded from him and the will which it was supposed he had made were never legally executed, but instead he erased his name from them and safely deposited them for future reference. The defense claims that Mrs. Payne and the Turners thought that they were in possession of part of the property and held a will for the balance, would get the aged husband out of the way and be in full possession of his wealth, and Mrs. Payne would have her freedom.

There is another factor in this tragedy. A young man named Miller, living near the Payne home, often visited Mrs. Payne at the new house she was building, and stayed there unseemly. This angered the old man but his wife was defiant in her actions and his advice and pleading had no effect. The defense contends that Mrs. Turner was not in the house when the crime was committed, but was out in the orchard playing with the pet pig, that her testimony is a fabrication. They state that Mrs. Payne entered the room with the intention of killing her husband then to claim suicide at his own hand, but that when she drew the revolver he grappled with her, and that is why the bullet holes in the shingles nailed on the window show the shot from above and also that the hole in the window glass 3 feet above the bed shows that the bullet hit the glass square from the inside of the room; that after these two shots were fired, he turned her own revolver on her and shot her in the pit of the stomach, in the abdomen and then took the gun and sent a third shot into the back of her neck.

GOT 30 DAYS.

Tuesday night while under the influence of liquor Ulyses Bristol became quarrelsome and attacked Elban Gage in Burk's saloon, quite a lively "scrap" took place, so 'tis said, and Bristol was deposited in the "cooler" to let his anger cool down. It seems that the desired effect was produced however, as sometime in the night, by the aid of a piece of gas pipe which some friend had given him, he pried up a portion of the floor and took French leave. He went to Niles and from there to South Bend, afterwards returning to Niles, where he was arrested on the charge of assault and battery. He was brought back to Buchanan and yesterday had a hearing before Justice C. E. Sabin. Bristol was unable to furnish bail and was given 30 days in jail at St. Joseph.

FEAST OF AN ORIENTAL

Sunday School Pilgrims Enjoy Distinguished Honor.

A SUNSET SUPPER

F. W. Chamberlain of Three Oaks Tells the Story.

Writing under date of April 20, at Jaffa, F. W. Chamberlain of Three Oaks, describes a feast at the home of a Mohammedan, where he and a few others of the Sunday school delegates were entertained.

He says: "We are today completing our Palestine trip. Reaching Beirut, two weeks ago, our large company began to scatter, some going to Damascus, and from that, the oldest known city, down through the country to Jerusalem; others making a short visit at Beirut and proceeding to Caifa, where an over land camping trip was undertaken by about two hundred, and still more reaching Jerusalem by way of Jaffa. About a week ago, however, nearly everyone had come in from the excursions, and now, with what averages a little more than a week for Jerusalem, and the same time for the country round about, our party of more than 800 is leaving for Egypt, feeling that the fortnight has been one of the most profitable experiences possible.

"To attempt to tell you what we have seen and done is utterly impracticable. It would be as endless as to attempt to empty lake Michigan with a teaspoon. One incident I want to relate, because of being so fresh in mind and so unique in character.

"On Monday night a party of twelve was invited to a Mohammedan's home for a feast which he desired to offer us on account of a kindness done by one of our number to friends of his. We were taken to the 'upper room' where the proper ceremonials of greeting were enacted, then to the housetop where we had a superb view of the city, especially the Garden of Gethsemane which the house overlooked.

"Precisely at sunset we were summoned to the feast, which was served in oriental fashion. We were seated about a low table, a long napkin over our laps which we were to use in common; and the host by washing his hands prepared to serve the food, which consisted of a whole roast lamb. There were no knives or forks; the meat was torn into bits, a leg to one, a part of the head to another, and so on until each was supplied with a portion of the dainty which he proceeded to eat with the greatest possible relish. The lamb was stuffed with nuts, rice and seeds, and beyond this dish there was nothing save a loaf of bread at each place and a joint platter of bonnie clabber.

"Our desert was a form of sweets in a flat dish eighteen inches in diameter, and eaten with the fingers or a wooden spoon.

"The finger bowl was a jar of water poured over the hands in the court yard at the close of the meal.

"Our host was most cordial in his hospitality. He is of a family that has a right to a certain service in the Mosque of Omar; he has two wives. Neither appeared at the function, but the ladies of the party were shown into the living room after dinner."

I Will Have

One of the New Ideal Lawn Mower Sharpeners in operation this week, before you have your mower sharpened come and see me. There is nothing like it on the market. By its use each blade is sharpened with the utmost exactitude, the bevel on the knives being kept at the same degree all along. Every inaccuracy is taken out. A perfect clearance given each blade.

More good mowers are spoiled by bunglesome sharpening than by the work they are intended to do.

THERE IS NO GUESS WORK

About the IDEAL. It is simply accurate to a hair.

Bring in your mower and get a satisfactory job.
