When This Advice Will be Helpful to Buchanan People.
Very few people are entirely free from backache. It does not take much to derange the kidneys. A little cold, a strain, stooping positions of hard work, overtaxes those delicate organs, and many aches and pains promptly follow. This man tells you here how every kidney ill can be relieved and cured. Read about it:
Orvin W. Miller, employed by the Benton fuel Co., and living at 157 Michigan street, Benton Harbor, says: "I am more than pleased with the satisfactory results obtained from using Doan's Kidney Pills. I was troubled for several months with a dull aching in the small of my back, at times quite severe, more especially after a hard day's work. If I took cold it always settled in my back and I became quite lame and stiff. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I got a box. I commenced to use them as directed. To my surprise when I had taken about half a box the pain left my back, and I have not felt the slightest return of it since. Doan's Kidney Pills do all that is claimed for them."
Plenty more proof like this from Buchanan people. Call at the drug store of W. N. Brodrick and ask what his customers report.
For sale by all dealers, price 50c a box. Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no substitute.

PICK MEN FOR TICKET

Democrats Who Are Likely to be Nominated Next Tuesday.

A LIVELY CONVENTION

Peace and Harmony Assured For Occasion—Tennant For Sheriff.

With the democratic county convention at hand and the cities and townships holding their caucuses in rapid succession some idea can be gained by expressions from leading men of the party as to the personnel of the ticket. The office of sheriff alone brings forth active candidates for nomination. The result of the primaries in this city last night gives evidence that Deputy Sheriff Tennant is far in the lead for the plum and it would not be surprising that the nomination be made by acclamation. For the other places on the ticket there is no wild scramble for a vantage position under the tree of falling green plums. Most democrats are content with favorable mention of their name for office. After that the honor has a sound of hollow.

From the names that have been mentioned in connection with office it seems that the ticket will be made up of the following men:

- Probate Judge—John C. Dick, of Buchanan.
- Sheriff—Joseph Tennant, of St. Joseph.
- County clerk—J. J. Jakway, of Benton, or Thomas Carmody, of Watervliet.
- County treasurer—Josiah Caldwell of Hager, or Henry Whalem of Pipestone.
- Register of deeds—Gustav Knaak, of St. Joseph, or Fred West of Bainbridge.
- Prosecuting attorney—Theo. G. Beaver, of Niles, or Frank Sanders, of Buchanan.

From the indications on the political barometer the convention next Tuesday will be a lively affair. Some of the leaders see the star of hope "seven miles beyond the horizon" and it has rejuvenated some enthusiasm in the stiffened war horse. Therefore it may be expected that democracy will be on the qui vive when John V. Starr of St. Joseph as temporary chairman, opens the key note address.

The war hatchet will be buried on that day and for once the house of democracy will dwell in peace and harmony. It will be a tedious task however for Jim O'Hara, Uncle Jim Babcock, and L. B. Marquise, and the odds are even that the democracy of one of these gentlemen will be questioned by the other two before the convention is "sine died." The rest of the delegates and spectators will sit back and have a hearty laugh for they think it a necessary part of the performance.

John V. Starr, it is assured, will do nothing to ruffle the fur on the back of his political foes and will make a speech along "happy lines of harmony" that will need no antidote. It will be another tedious task for this sterling patriot, for he too, is itching for some excitement. Joe Tennant is looked upon by some of the leaders as the logical nominee for sheriff. They swept away all political lines and past affiliations and say that long service, the universal respect with which he is held as an officer makes him a candidate without objection. Besides being deserving of the honor, they declare that Joe Tennant is the only man who would have a chance of being elected. Tennant has the solid phalanx of the sheriff's office behind him. Two months ago, it was an almost settled fact that Under-Sheriff Pearl would be the nominee, but after the mention of Tennant's name, the Benton Harbor officer, says that the democrats can only hope for victory with the veteran officer on the ticket.

John DeTemple, Martin P. Dwan, Joe Richards and Harry O. Pierce have all announced to their friends that they wish them to disregard their name for the honor and consider Joe Tennant for the honor. St. Joseph will support Tennant to a man in the convention.

John Dick of Buchanan for probate judge has just retired after a term as justice of the peace and was once postmaster of the village. He is a true blue democrat.

In considering the county clerkship, A. S. Miles of this city, the popular shoe merchant was most favorably mentioned for the honor. Mr. Miles, however positively declines, stating that he is a business man and not a dabbler in politics. From Mr. Miles the leaders began to cast coy glances at Jim Jayway of Benton and Tom Carmody of Watervliet, and they have been flirting with these men ever since. Jakway is a tower of strength. He was elected supervisor in an overwhelming republican township and last spring made a record never before known in Benton township by being re-elected for the office as a democrat. Mr. Jakway is a graduate of the high school of this city and a competent accountant.

Everybody knows the popularity of genial Tom Carmody of Watervliet. He was once enthroned in the county clerk's office and his wide acquaintance and high qualities of character makes him a candidate much to be feared. There is little doubt but that the convention will settle upon one or the other as a candidate.

The name of Si Caldwell of Hager is a watchword at the firesides of that township. Si is one of the most able characters on the board. He is more notable for the reason that he gets elected for supervisor in a republican stronghold. Si will take the nomination if the convention will say the word.

Henry Whalen, a respected citizen of Eau Claire, is also mentioned. Mr. Whalen has been baggagemaster, at Eau Claire for years and is respected as a business man.

Gus Knaak of St. Joseph, the well known druggist, is leader among the Germans of the county and for register of deeds would poll a large vote. Fred West, a prosperous farmer of Bainbridge is also considered for the place.

Theo. G. Beaver, that oldtime democrat of Niles and Frank Sanders of Buchanan each have their adherents for the prosecuting attorney plum against Charlie White.—Benton Harbor News-Palladium.

"Laugh and Grow Fat."

Life is such a serious business with the average mortal that an opportunity for a hearty laugh is more than welcome to most people. "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine," and so do the humorous features of that great metropolitan daily, the Chicago Record-Herald. The first thing that greets you on the first page of every issue is the humorous cartoon by Ralph Wilder, the well known artist, that frequently tells more at a glance than could be conceived in a column of reading matter. Every issue contains also a humorous small story on the editorial page, and the Alternating 'Currents' column, written by S. E. Kiser, one of the most popular humorous writers in the country. In addition to all these, the Sunday issue always includes a comic section, guaranteed to produce laughter.

SMALLPOX AT BERRIEN

Reported That Five Cases Exist Among Students

CASES NOT QUARANTINED

Also That Undue Means are Being Taken to Suppress Knowledge of its Existence.

Berrien Springs and the surrounding country are reported to be threatened with a smallpox epidemic and those to whom the facts are known are much exercised at the methods that have been employed to suppress public knowledge of the fact that the disease has actually gained a foothold and that at least five cases already exist.

The contagion has made its appearance, so we are informed, in the student body of the Adventist college located near Berrien Springs, and the alarm there has become so great that many students are leaving.

Fearing the demoralization and loss of patronage that would ensue should it become generally known that the virulent disease had broken out there, an attempt has been made to suppress the facts and prevent a knowledge of the existence of smallpox cases there becoming generally known.

It is said that inquiries concerning the cases already developed have met with a positive statement that it is untrue, that there is no smallpox at the college.

It is to be hoped this is true but this bald statement does not satisfy the public, however, and much concern is felt and the people are fearful lest the dreaded disease has gained a foothold that will make it hard to eradicate.

It is presumed that those in charge of the cases have taken all ordinary precautions, but if smallpox does actually exist there and the community at large is not informed of it, and the cases are not quarantined, the danger of spreading the disease is great.

The authorities should investigate the rumors and if smallpox exists the most rigid quarantine should be enforced.

If there is no smallpox the Adventist college should be cleared of the stigma that attaches to the report that undue means are being employed to suppress knowledge of the existence of a malignant disease.—Niles Sun.

Elmer Hawblitzell, Lakeville, says "Wine Lo-ti" (Coonley's beef, iron and wine with nerve) brought my wife out and done her more good than any other medicine we gave her. Give me two more bottles for my father." Price 50c a bottle at Dr. E. S. Dodd & Son's.

HIGHBALL BROKE LEG

Then the Great Derby Horse Was Shot in the Head.

Highball, the American derby winner, and one of the best of the three-year-olds, broke his leg at the ankle during the running of the Seagate stakes at Brighton Beach, Tuesday. As Highball is insured for $25,000, a message was sent to a representative of the insurance company in New York to come at once to look at the derby winner and end his agony.

Only three faced the starter for the Seagate stakes, with Highball favorite at 11 to 20. Highball showed in front to the first turn, when he bore out and Odum had to hit him over the head to keep him in. Knight Brant then took the lead and won by two lengths from St. Valentine. As the field swung into the stretch, Highball was seen to falter, and Odum pulled him up and dismounted. After several attempts to walk him off the track a man held the broken leg, while a half dozen others pushed him to the infield, where his leg was strapped up. He was led to the stables and shot. Highball was worth $50,000.

Andrew and the Horse

Little Andrew was a boy
Of a most observant bent,
Self-improvement was his joy,
Life one long experiment.
Other boys might use for play
Things of scientific worth;
Andrew in a sterner way
Viewed the objects of the earth.
Andrew on his birthday morn
Realized a long-felt hope;
For his uncle, Simon Horn,
Gave to him a microscope.
Andrew hastened to the field
With his useful toy of brass,
To observe the fungi's yield
'Neath the magnifying glass.
Andrew trod the dewey gorse
Wondering what he could see,
Till he spied a patent Horse
Dozing in a vacant lea.
Andrew smiled with gleeful air
"Joy!" he said, "I will decide
How the patent Horse's hair
Doth appear when magnified."
On the patent Horse's limb
Many hairs the child did spy,
So with purpose fixed and grim,
He began to magnify.
Andrew found the Horse's limb
Quite an elevating treat,
For it elevated him
Forty-nine or fifty feet.
Little child improve your mind
Just as Andrew used to do;
For in study you will find
Revelations ever new.—By Wallace
Irwin in Collier's Weekly.

The Cabbage Patch and Mrs. Wiggs at the Grand Opera House are Drawing Large Audiences.

Everybody who is going to Chicago nowadays should not fail to make the enjoyable acquaintance of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," who made her delightful bow in footlight form at the Grand Opera House, Chicago, on Sunday evening, July 10, and scored an unqualified hit. The dear old lady is ideally realized in all her cheerfulness, kindness and motherliness, in the beautifully sympathetic impersonation by Madge Carr Cook. All the familiar characters, indeed, of Alice Hegan Rice's two little masterpieces of "Mrs. Wiggs" and "Lovey Mary" pass in front of the spectators in this most happily made dramatization.

The Liebler & Co. cast is, in truth, so admirably fitted to these types throughout that almost every one of the twenty-six players received a special demonstration of approval and applause from the big first night gathering. The comical courtship of little Miss Hazy and her ludicrous bridegroom, Mr. Stubbins, fairly kept everybody convulsed with laughter. As good a little old maid as one could imagine is this meek and shiftless little spinster of the Cabbage Patch in her grotesquely colorful portrayal of Helen Lowell.

Nor could that prominent citizen of Bagdad Junction, Mr. Stubbins, have found a more side-splittingly eccentric and comical realization than is achieved by Will T. Hodge, that irresistibly quaint comedian, who proves more mirth-provoking as the libulous and wife-seeking Mr. Stubbins, than he did as Freeman Whitmarsh in "Sag Harbor," or as the embarrassed lover in "Sky Farm."

Mabel Taliaferro, who makes a winsome and charming Lovey Mary, has several deliciously exquisite scenes with Mrs. Wiggs, and her lullaby over little Tommy was one of the daintiest features of the evening. Particularly striking proved to be the scene in which Mrs. Wiggs rescued Lovey Mary from the sharp tongues and spiteful suspicions of the Cabbage Patch gossips. Little Tommy himself is a fascinating little fellow as impersonated by the blonde curled, handsome Master James, and the three little "jography" named Wiggs girls (Asia, Australia and Europa) are true to life.

The juvenile element is quite strong in the play, and there are some charming scenes in which the children figure, notably that of Mrs. Wiggs Sunday school class in the second act. No one can miss this unique treat, which will play a limited engagement at the Grand before closing its present highly successful season. During the engagement of "Mrs. Wiggs" at the Grand Opera House, a popular scale of prices will prevail, with best seats at the matinees, Wednesdays and Saturdays, at $1.00.

RACED AGAINST DEATH

Man with a Big Artery Severed Makes a Record Trip to Town and Succor.

VERY WEAK BUT WILL RECOVER

Head-On Collision Averted by Ten Feet—New Head for Olivet College—Notes.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 15.—For more than seven miles along the West Bridge street road, with blood dripping from his buggy and leaving a ghastly trail in the road, Matthew Leonard drove a literal race with death—and won. Louis Pearl lies at U. B. A. hospital, terribly weak from loss of blood and almost at the point of death, but it is said he will survive. Pearl was working on the Leonard farm in Alpine township, about seven miles from the city, and in some manner got in front of a mowing machine.

Severed a Large Artery.

The cutting bar caught the right foot and cut through flesh and muscle and bone at a point a few inches above the heel. A great artery was severed and the blood poured from the wound in a torrent. Leonard put an emergency bandage on, but it did not check the flow of blood. Leonard hitched up his best horse and started on the wild drive. The animal was kept on a dead run for the entire distance, persons believing the animal was running away, making efforts to stop him.

Horse Falls to His Knees.

Down the Bridge street hill the horse tore at full speed and through the city to the corner of Broadway, where covered with foam, it staggered and fell to its knees. Leonard had Pearl carried to the barn and the police ambulance was called. The run was taken up by the police team in a few minutes with Dr. E. Park Edwards working over the wound while the ambulance dashed to U. B. A. hospital.

WITHIN TEN FEET OF DEATH

Freight and Excursion Trains Come That Near to a Collision on the Pere Marquette.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 15.—A head-on collision between a south-bound freight and the regular evening excursion train from Ottawa Beach, on the Pere Marquette, was averted by just ten feet. The freight was ordered to go on a siding at Hudsonville to permit the passenger to pass, but these orders were overlooked entirely. When about two miles past Hudsonville the headlight of the excursion train was seen.

The engineer of each train perceived the danger at once and applied brakes at once and trains stopped within ten feet of each other. The passengers were badly shaken up by the sudden application of air brakes, and Baggage-man Daniels jumped from his car, but no one was injured.

Sugar of Lead for Epsom Salts.

Milford, Mich., July 15.—The McCollough family received a great scare when it was discovered that Mrs. McCollough had given her daughter Mae a big dose of sugar of lead, mistaking it for Epsom salts. Fortunately the mistake was noticed immediately and an emetic quickly administered. In the meantime one of the boys had a conveyance in readiness and Miss McCollough was brought to town, a distance of four miles, in the record-breaking time of fifteen minutes. She was taken to Dr. McNeil's office and by using emetics and the stomach pump freely the doctor soon had the girl out of danger.

Found Dead in the Mine.

Negaunee, Mich., July 15.—Rock Bikali, an Italian miner, was found dead in the Negaunee mine. He left his comrades to go to another section of the mine, and not returning in a reasonable time they proceeded to look him up. Bikali's body was found at the bottom of a raise with heavy bruises on the head.

Dancers Given a Fright.

Flint, Mich., July 15.—During the heaviest electrical storm for years a chimney on the new Dryden block was shattered while a dancing party was in progress, causing great excitement. Fred Adams and a lady who were on the street in the vicinity at the time were severely shocked.

Believed to Have a Good Thing.

Bay City, Mich., July 15.—Chas. Fero, Sr., of this city, has just secured a patent on a device for generating steam which local experts claim will revolutionize boiler construction. Fero claims his device will mean a saving of about one-half of the present fuel consumption.

Firemen Saved the Hotel.

Cheboygan, Mich., July 15.—The Spencer House, the leading hotel, caught fire and for a time there seemed little prospect of saving the building. The firemen, however, soon had the blaze under control. The house is flooded with water, but the main building is saved.

New Head for Olivet College.

Lansing, Mich., July 15.—Dr. Ellsworth G. Lancaster, Ph. D., of Colorado college, has been chosen to succeed Dr. Willard G. Sperry, who recently resigned the presidency of Olivet college, Olivet, Mich.

Wonderful Nerve.

Is displayed by many a man enduring pains of accidental Cuts, Wounds, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Sore feet or stiff joints. But there's no need for it. Bucklen's Arnica Salve will kill the pain and cure the trouble. It's the best Salve on earth for Piles, too. 25c, at W. N. Brodrick, druggist.

Human Ear a Deformity.

"While the ears of animals," said a naturalist, "are erect and comely, the human ear is crumpled, crushed and flattened. It is man's intelligence that is responsible for this deformity of his ear. Man's brain, you see, has made his head too heavy. An animal's neck alone furnishes enough support in sleep, but man's neck is too weak to sustain his brain weighed skull, which in consequence must be laid, with the ear underneath, upon a pillow. Man, I have no doubt, had an erect, smooth, shapely ear in the beginning, but his head, with its developing brain, outgrew his neck's power to support it. Thence came the headrest or pillow with its consequent crushing and crumpling of the ear, and thence came the ear of today—a deformity which, being universal, is not deemed a deformity at all."

A Silver Library.

There is in the royal library of Koenigsberg a silver library consisting of a collection of twenty books, mostly theological, bound in pure silver and having a rich, symbolical ornamentation partly in gold. The library has been in possession of this treasure since 1611. These books were made by order of Albert, the first duke of Prussia, in the latter half of the sixteenth century. It is supposed that they were made at Nuremberg, where Albert was stationed for three years. Through the efforts of Ostander and afterward Luther, Duke Albert became a friend of the reformation. Copies of the silver library are made accessible to students by taking heliographic copies of the same.

A Painter's Retort.

Shortly after Franz Lenbach had painted the portrait of Emperor Wilhelm I. a privy councilor called on him to express the emperor's satisfaction. There was only one criticism to make—would the professor be so kind as to paint more distinctly the buttons on the uniform, which were only indicated vaguely? Lenbach looked at him a moment over his glasses and said: "Look here, Mr. Councilor, I paint heads, not buttons (ich mal' nur koepfe, aber keine knoepfe!) Tell his majesty that!" The emperor, when this answer was brought to him, laughed heartily.

Traveling Whales.

The whales that swim about the islands which lie off the coast of Norway and Finland in March and April travel immense distances. In May they turn up at the Azores or even at the Bermudas and sometimes pay a visit to the Antilles. They swim fast, for in June they are back off Norway. Some of these whales have been known to bring back evidences of where they have been, for harpoons of the peculiar kind used off the coast of South America have been found stuck in them.

Big Boat Touches Bottom.

St. Joseph, Mich., July 12.—The Graham and Morton side wheel steamer City of Chicago, with 400 passengers aboard, barely escaped going on the beach north of the north pier at the end of the pier this morning, owing to the heavy fog hanging over the lake and the failure of the fog horn on the end of the pier to do its proper work.

This location was visited by a heavy rain and wind storm and the lake was decidedly rough. All of the boats cleared on schedule time. The steamer Chicago cleared from Chicago at 12:30 and arrived off this port at 3:20 this morning, but owing to heavy fog she missed the harbor and touched bottom north of the pier. Captain Burt Simons, in command of the boat, was alert and knew that the fog horn should sound the warning. As soon as the boat touched bottom the captain gave the signal and the big boat was backed out into the lake where she remained until nearly 5 o'clock when the fog lifted and the harbor was safely made.

Make Them Pay.

Our readers will notice that for several issues of late that the medicine reading notices have been left out. This was not an error on our part, but a part of a sound business policy which we are inculcating in the business affairs of the Enterprise.

When medical and other firms recognize the fact that our white space is our stock in trade and are willing to pay the same rate as home advertisers then we will accept such advertising. Some days ago an advance agent for a "blood and thunder" tent show offered "comps" in payment for 30 or 40 lines of "puffs, but we politely refused to accept this "munificent" offer, consequently no advance notices of said show appeared in this paper. The sooner the country publishers ask and only accept a just and equitable rate for their advertising space the sooner these get something-for-nothing fellows will be compelled to pay cash for value received.—Eau Claire Enterprise.

We are with you Brother Van Doraan, if the publishers all over the country would make a firm stand against this class of advertisers, and make them pay for what they get the same as they do the other advertisers, it would be dollars in their pockets in the end. Since assuming control of the Record we have refused a number of contracts for this class of advertising and as soon as present contracts have expired there are several more that will not be renewed. Push the good work along and let all the papers go into a combine to protect their rights.

Oppenheim the Wool King.

Nowhere in the state has so much of the 1904 wool crop accumulated as it has in Dowagiac, says the Herald.

From the villages of Cassopolis, Jones, Vandalia, Pokagon, Decatur, Lawton, Paw Paw, Bangor and other near-by towns this supply has come—a steady golden stream—either by team or the cars, until now the cellars here contain almost, if not quite, 200,000 lbs. of the valuable product.

The buyer of this enormous supply is Mark Oppenheim.

He has expended $45,000 in this vicinity for the crop of 1904, and $13,000 of the total were expended in Cassopolis, securing over 65,000 pounds.

Vandalia furnished two carloads of the clip, that town and Cassopolis vying with each other in getting the product of the famous Penn township flocks, while Jones furnished two, Constantine and Bangor one each, Pokagon 15,000 pounds, and a like quantity from Decatur.

MODELING IN CORK

New Fad to While Away the Long Winter Evenings.

An interesting and extremely fascinating occupation for the long winter evenings is that of modeling in cork, and after a little practice the persevering ones will be surprised to find what clever and ingenious young architects they will become, while they will be greatly charmed at the crude design grows beneath their nimble fingers.

Let us suppose that it is desired to manufacture a model of some old ruined castle, over which the clinging ivy twines so tenderly, and around which hover many memories of bygone state and splendor.

Workers must first supply themselves with the necessary materials and proper tools. Of the latter they will require some paint brushes, a hammer, a sharp pen knife, a pencil and a pair of scissors. Having procured these, they must obtain a quantity of cardboard, cork sheets, a few old bottle corks, a little fine sand, paints, glue, wire and a small quantity of artificial moss and ivy.

And now, having decided upon the building and procured the necessary materials, the next thing to be done is to draw a plan of the castle you intend to reproduce. This accomplished, you may proceed to make a frame of light cardboard, cutting it carefully to the requisite size, and then securing upon the millboard framework a layer of the sheet cork to form the walls. This may be made to represent stonework by means of uneven pencil strokes, which should afterward be colored in with black or dark brown paint, in order to give the structure a suitable appearance of age.

The particular portion of the castle which has fallen into absolute ruin and decay should have rough and jagged edges. The walls should be darkened by means of a little brown paint judiciously applied, and small, irregular pieces of cork may be heaped against the sides to represent fallen masonry.

Broken columns are quite easy to imitate and if an ordinary cork be roughly carved with a sharp pocket-knife and then carefully painted and sprinkled with a small quantity of moss, which should be rubbed between the fingers until a light powder is formed, it will be found to serve the purpose most effectively.

And now the artificial ivy (which must be of a small leaved variety) may be called into requisition and trained around the broken columns and upon the crumbling walls until a most realistic appearance is given to the whole. The floor should be strewn with sand with which a little powdered moss has previously been mingled.—Memphis News.

LETTER "S" FULL OF MAGIC.

Is a Serpent in Disguise and is Often Called the Wizard of the Alphabet.

Did you ever think what a strange letter S is? The National Educator says of it: It is a serpent in disguise. Listen! you can hear it hiss. It is the wizard of the alphabet. It gives possession and multiplies indefinitely by its touch. It changes a tree into trees and a house into houses. Sometimes it is very spiteful and will change a pet name into pest, a pear into spear, a word into sword, a laughter into slaughter, and will make hot shot any time.

The farmer has to watch it closely. It will make scorn of his corn, and every peck into a speck. Sometimes he finds it useful. If he needs more room for his stock it will change a table into a stable for him, and if he is short of hay he can set out a row of tacks. It will turn them into stacks. He must be careful, however not to let his nails lie around too loose. The serpent's breath will make them snails. If he wishes to use an engine about his farm work this farmer need not buy any coal or have water with which to run it. Let the serpent glide before the horses. The team will turn to steam.

If you get hurt call the serpent to your aid. Instantly your pain will be in Spain. Be sure to take it with you the next time you climb a mountain if you desire to witness a marvel. It will make the peak speak. But don't let it come round while you are reading now. It will make the tale stale.

Lo-tus Pellets you will find are the best family pills, curing indigestion and constipation and all diseases of the liver and stomach. Small and

MONEY FOR SPECULATORS

Claims of the Cuban Patriots Can Be Had at 25 Per Cent. Discount for Cash.

Havana, July 15.—The minority congressmen refuse to meet for the purpose of passing a bill covering the proportionate distribution of the proceeds of the $35,000,000 for the payment of veterans or to authorize an additional loan, because the adjudication of soldiers' claims is not likely to be completed until November, when it is supposed that another session of congress will begin.

The veterans say they will not accept an immediate payment of 75 per cent. in full satisfaction of their claims, as contemplated by the additional loan scheme. United Statesan speculators, however, are buying the claims faster than at any time previously, paying three-fourths of their face value.

LETT to himself in the deserted hall the old sailor walked over to the body of the old soldier. Many a quaint dispute these two old men had held in their brief acquaintance, and upon no one thing had they been able to agree except in hatred of the English and love of their common country. Still their disputes had been friendly, and if they had not loved they had at least respected each other.

"I wish I had not been so hard on the man. I really liked him," soliloquized the sailor. "Poor Blodgett, almost forgotten, as Mr. Talbot says! He died the right way, though, doing his duty, fighting for his country and for those he loved. Well, he was a brave man—for a soldier," he murmured thoughtfully.

Out on the river the little sloop was speeding rapidly along. Ride as thou wilt, Phillip, she cannot be overtaken. Most of the exhausted men lay about the decks in drunken slumber. Johnson stood moodily by the man at the helm. His triumph had been tempered by Desborough's interference. Two or three of the more decent of his followers were discussing the events of the night.

"Poor Joel!" said one.
"Yes, and Evans and Whitely, too," was the reply.
"Aye, three dead, and nobody hurt for it," answered the other.
"You forget the old fellow at the landing though."

"Yes, he fought like the devil and came near balking the whole game. That was a lucky shot you got in, Davis, after Evans missed and was hit. That fellow was a brave man—for a rebel," said the raider.

In the cabin of the sloop Colonel Wilton was sitting on one of the lockers, his arm around Katharine, who was leaning against him weeping, her hands before her face. Desborough was standing respectfully in front of them.

"And you say he made a good fight?" asked the colonel sadly.

"Splendid, sir. We stole up to the boat-house with muffled oars, wishing to give no warning, and before he knew it half of us were on the wharf. He challenged, we made a rush. He shot the first man in the breast and 'ain't the next with his clubbed musket, shouting words of warning the while. The men fell back and handled their pistols. I heard two or three shots, and then he fell, never making another sound. But for Johnson's forethought in sending a second boat load to the upper landing to get to the back of the house you might have escaped with the warning and the delay he caused. He was a brave man and died like a soldier," continued the young man softly.

"He saved my life at Cartagena, and when I caught the fever there he nursed me at the risk of his own. He was faithfulness itself. He died as he would have liked to die, with his face to the enemy. I loved him in a way you can hardly understand. Yes; he was a brave man, my poor old friend."

On the rustic bench beside the driveway overlooking the river sat a little woman, older by ten years in the two hours which had elapsed since she looked after the disappearing figure of her son.

She heard the sound of wheels upon the gravel road and recognized Colonel Wilton's carriage and horses coming up the hill. There were her own two horses following after, but neither of the riders was her son. What could have happened? She rose in alarm. The carriage stopped near her.

"What, mother! Are you still here?" said Hilary, opening the door and stepping out, his voice cold and stern.

"Yes, my son. What has happened?"
"Dunmore's men have raided the Wilton place. Katharine and her father have been carried away by the brute Johnson, who commanded the party. Seymour has been wounded in defending Katharine. I have brought him here. This is the way," he went on fiercely, "his majesty the king wages war on his beloved subjects of Virginia."

"They that take the sword shall perish with the sword," she quoted, with equal resolution.

"And Blodgett is killed, too," he added.

"What else have those who rebel against their rightful monarch a right to expect?" she replied. "Is Mr. Seymour seriously wounded?"

"No, madam," answered that young man from the carriage, "but I fear my cause makes me an unwelcome visitor."

"Nay; not so, sir. No wounded helpless man craving assistance can ever be unwelcome at my—at the home of the Talbots, whatever his creed. How died Blodgett, did you say, Hilary?"

"Fighting for his master at the foot of the path, shot by those ruffians."

"So may it be to all enemies of the king," she replied, "but after all he was a brave man. 'Tis a pity he fell in so poor a cause."

And that was thy epitaph, old soldier; that thy requiem, honest Blodgett—from friend and foe alike—"He was a brave man!"

CHAPTER XI.

YOU would better spread a little more canvas, Mr. Seymour. I think we shall do better under the topgallant sails. We have no time to lose."

"Aye, aye, sir," replied the young executive officer, and then, lifting the trumpet to his lips, he called out with a powerful voice: "Lay aloft and loose the topgallant sails! Man the topgallant sheets and halyards!"

The crew, both watches being on deck, were busy with the various duties rendered necessary by the departure of a ship upon a long cruise, and were occupied here and there with the different details of work to be done when a ship gets under way. Some of them, their tasks accomplished for the moment, were standing on the fore-castle or peering through the gun ports, gazing at the city, with the tall spire of Christ church and the more substantial elevation of the building even then beginning to be known as Independence hall rising in the background beyond the shipping and over the other buildings which they were so rapidly leaving. In an instant the quiet deck became a scene of quick activity, as the men left their tasks and sprang to their appointed stations. The long coils of rope were thrown upon the deck and seized by the groups of seamen detailed for the purpose, while the rigging shook under the quick steps of the alert topmen springing up the ratlines, swarming over the tops and laying out on the yards, without a thought of the giddy elevation in their intense rivalry each to be first.

"The main royal also, Mr. Seymour," continued the captain. "I think she will bear it. 'Tis a new and good stick."

"Aye, aye, sir. Main topgallant yard there."

"Sir"

"Aloft, one of you, and loose the royal as well."

"Aye, aye, sir."

After a few moments of quick work the officers of the various masts indicated their readiness for the next order by saying in rapid succession:

"All ready the fore, sir."

"All ready the main, sir."

"All ready the mizzen, sir."

"Handsomely, now, and all together. I want those Frenchmen there to see how smartly we can do this," said the captain in reply, addressing Seymour in a tone perfectly audible over the ship.

"Let fall! Lay in! Sheet home! Hoist away! Tend the braces there!" shouted the first lieutenant.

Amid the creaking of blocks, the straining of cordage and the lusty heaving of the men, with the shrill pipes of the boatswain and his mates for an accompaniment, the sheets were hauled home on the yards, the light sails, the braces being hauled taut, bellied out in the strong breeze, adding materially to the speed of the ship.

"Lay down from aloft!" cried the lieutenant when all was over.

"Aye, that will do," remarked the captain. "We go better already. I am most anxious to get clear of the cape before nightfall. Call the men aft and request the officers, to come up to the quarter deck. I wish to speak to them."

"Aye, aye, sir. Mr. Wilton," said the young officer, turning to a young midshipman standing on the lee side of the deck, "step below and ask the officers there and those forward to come on deck. Bentley," he called to the boatswain, "call all hands aft."

"Aye, aye, sir."

Again the shrill whistling of the pipes was heard, followed by the deep tones of Bentley, which rolled and tumbled along the decks of the ship in the usual long drawn, monotonous cry which could be heard above the roar of the wind or the rush of the water or the straining of the timbers, from the truck to the keelson, "All hands lay aft, to the quarter deck."

The captain, standing upon the poop deck, was not at first glance a particularly imposing figure. He was small in stature, scarcely five and a half feet high at best, with his natural height diminished, as is often the case with sailors, by a slight bending of the back and stooping of the shoulders; yet he possessed a well knit, vigorous and not ungraceful figure, whose careless poise and the ease with which he maintained his position, with his hands clasped behind his back, in spite of the rather heavy roll and pitch of the ship in the very strong breeze, indicated long familiarity with the sea.

The officers, gathered in a little knot on the lee side of the quarter deck, several midshipmen among them, were worthy of the crew and the commander.

"Men," said the captain, in a clear, firm voice, removing his cocked hat

"We are bound for English waters."

from his thick black hair, tied in a cue and entirely devoid of powder, as he looked down at them from the break of the poop with his piercing black eyes, "we are bound for English waters!"

"Hurrah! Hurrah!" cried many voices from the crew impetuously.

"We will show the new flag for the first time on the high seas," he continued, visibly pleased, and pointing proudly to the stars and stripes, which his own hand had first hoisted, fluttering gayly out at the peak, "and I trust we may strike a blow or two which will cause it, and us, to be long remembered. While you are under my orders I shall expect from you prompt, unquestioned compliance with my commands, or those of my officers, and a ready submission to the hard discipline of a ship of war, to which most of you, I suspect, are unfamiliar, unless you have learned it in that bitter school, a British ship. You will learn, however, while principles of equality are very well in civil life they have no place in the naval service. Subordination is the word here; this is not a trading vessel, but a ship of war, and I intend to be implicitly obeyed," he continued sternly, looking even more fiercely at them. "Nevertheless," he added, somewhat relaxing his set features, "although we be not a peaceful merchantman, yet I expect and intend to do a little trading with the ships of the enemy, and in any prizes which we may capture you know you will all have a just, nay, a liberal, share. It must not be lost sight of, however, that the first business of this ship, as of every other ship of war of our country, is to fight the ships of the enemy of equal, or of not too great, force. Should we find such a one, as is most likely, in the English channel, we must remember that the honor and glory of our flag are above prize money."

"Three cheers for Captain John Paul Jones!" cried one of the seamen, leaping on a gun and waving his hat. They were given with a mighty rush from nearly two hundred lusty throats, the ship being heavily overmanned for future emergencies.

"That will do, men," said the captain, smiling darkly. "Remember that a willing crew makes a happy cruise. Mr. Seymour, have the boatswain pipe all hands to grog, then set your watches. Mr. Talbot," he added, turning to the young officer in the familiar buff and blue of the Continental army, who stood by his side, an interested spectator to all that had occurred, "will you do me the honor of taking a glass of wine with me in the cabin? I should be glad if you would join us also. Mr. Seymour, after the watch has been called, and you can leave the deck. Let Mr. Wallingford have the watch; he is familiar with the bay. Tell him to take in the royal and the fore and mizzen topgallant sails if it blows heavily," he continued, after a pause, and then, bowing, he left the deck.

CHAPTER XII.

MEANWHILE interesting conversations were going on forward, of which this is a sample:

"I'm blest if I like this order'n' business," said one grizzled seaman. "They said he was hard on orders, but what I shipped for was prize money an' a chance to get a lick at them bloody Brits, not for to clean brasswork an' scrape spars an' flemish down an' holystone decks, which he won't let us spit backer on. I don't call this no fight'n' for liberty, not by a darn sight."

"Shut up, Bill," replied another. "You've got to obey orders. This year ain't no old tea wagon, no Ashin' boat, you old scowbunker; it's a vessel-o'-war, an' may I never see Nantucket again if the old man," using a merchantman's expression, "ain't goin' to be captain of the old hooker while he's in it. An' if you call this hard work an' growl at this kind of dissyllin'-well, all I got to say, you'd oughter been on the old Radnor. Curse the British devils!" he cried, grinding his heel in the deck. "I'd give twenty years of my life to be alongside her in a ship half her size; yes, even in this one, an' I tell you yon's the man to put her there, if he gets a chance. Ain't that so, mates?"

"Aye, aye, Jack, 'tis true," came a deep toned chorus of approval.

"Besides," went on the fore-castle orator, "we all know'd wot kind of a officer he is. Fightin' and prize money is wot we all want, and here's where we'll get it, you'll see, eh, mates?"

"Aye, aye; Jack's right, Bill."

"Then blow the dissyllin', say I. I'll take orders from a man wot ain't afraid o' nothin', wot hates the red rag we know of, wot won't send me where he won't go himself. Fightin' and prize money, he's our man. Besides, wot's the use o' kickin'? We got to do it; we're bound by them articles of war we signed," continued this deep sea philosopher. "Now, pass me my can o' grog, Tom. I'm dry as a cod. Here's to America, and hang the British, too," continued this sea lawyer, drinking his toast amid shouts of approval from the men.

Left to himself, Seymour, after the men had received their grog and other necessary duties had been attended to, turned the deck over to Lieutenant Wallingford, whose watch it was with Philip Wilton, and, descending the poop deck ladder, disappeared through the same door which had received the two officers into the cabin.

Three weeks had elapsed since the raid upon the Wilton place, and the scene had shifted from Virginia to the sea, or rather to the great bay which gives entrance to it from the Delaware river. It was a clear, cold day in the early part of December, and the American Continental ship Ranger had just left her moorings off Philadelphia, with orders to proceed to English waters, stopping at Brest to receive the orders of the commissioners in Paris, and then, in case no better ship could be found, to ravage the English channel and coast as a warning that like processes on the part of England on our own shores should not go unpunished.

John Paul Jones, who had already given evidence, not only of that desperate courage and unyielding tenacity which had marked him as among the most notable of sea officers the world has seen—lacking nothing but opportunity to have equaled, if not surpassed, a Nelson—but of consummate seamanship and great executive ability as well, had been appointed to command the ship. Before proceeding on the mission, however, an important undertaking had been allotted to him. The commissioners had sent word from France, by a fast sailing armed packet, of the near departure of a transport from England called the Melish, laden with 2,000 muskets, twenty fieldpieces, powder and other munitions of war and 10,000 suits of winter clothes destined for the army that was assembling at Halifax and Quebec for the invasion of the colonies by way of the St. Lawrence river and Lake Champlain.

Congress had transmitted the letter from France to Captain Jones with directions that he endeavor to intercept and capture this transport. The destination of the American army at this period of the war was frightful. Devoid of clothes, arms, provisions, powder—everything, in fact, which is apparently vital to the existence of an army; continually beaten, menaced by a confident, well equipped and disciplined enemy in overwhelming force, and before whom they had been habitually retreating, they were only held together by the indomitable will and heroic resolution of one man, George Washington. The fortunes of the colonies were never at a lower ebb than at that moment, and there was apparently nothing further to look forward to but a continuation of the disintegration until the end came. The meager resources of the lax confederacy were already strained to the utmost, and the capture of a ship laden as this one was reported to be would be of incalculable service. Clothes and shoes to cover the nakedness of the soldiery and protect them from the inclemency of the winter, now fast approaching, and arms to put in their hands, by means of which they could assume the offensive and attack the enemy, or at least defend themselves—what more could they desire!

JACK RILEY WON RACE

But Crowd Claimed They Were Faked.

The sports of Benton Harbor, who paid their money to see the race between Jack Riley, Dr. Bonine's horse, and Robert Lee, Henry Casey's horse, last Tuesday, feel might sore over the result. The race was won by Jack Riley, but it is claimed that it was all fixed before hand.

It is now reported that Casey told Chester C. Sweet, sec'y. of the driving association, over the telephone yesterday that Dr. Bonine was responsible for the affair, as he would not let his horse go into the race unless it be arranged that he should win. The whole scheme was to get the gate money, and a great many think that neither Bonine nor Casey put up a dollar on the race.

It looks like a bluff from start to finish, and the opinion held by Benton Harbor people of the two gentlemen is rather small.

FINDS STOLEN WATCH IN A FISH.

Woman Who Had Been Robbed Recovers Part of Plunder in Remarkable Way.

Morristown, N. J., July 11.—A remarkable restoration of a watch to its rightful owner was made to Mrs. John Biddle while fishing in Budd's lake yesterday. Mrs. Biddle, who lives at Mine Hill, caught a twelve pound pickerel and in the stomach of the fish the watch was found.

The Biddle house at Mine Hill was robbed three years ago and all the jewelry in the place carried off. Later, when the burglar was caught, he said he had rowed out into the middle of Budd's lake and dumped the stuff overboard. He was convicted and sentenced, but none of the jewelry ever was recovered, because Budd's lake is a deep body of water.

For the first time in her life Mrs. Biddle went fishing yesterday and the only catch she made during the day was the twelve pound pickerel.

Color-printing will be a feature of August (Fiction) Number of Scribner's. In addition to its colored cover by Ivanowski, it will have a colored frontispiece; an amusing series of drawings by Mrs. Preston, printed in colors, and drawings by Guerin and F. W. Taylor printed in tint.

About 8 o'clock Sunday evening a west bound freight on the Michigan Central while approaching Wilson's crossing west of Grass Lake at a slow rate of speed broke in two, and as a result Mrs. J. W. Knight of Grass Lake, who had just driven on the crossing, was struck, and perhaps fatally injured, and three cars of merchandise were distributed over the right of way, so that it was midnight before the tracks were cleared. The section crew was kept busy until midnight clearing the west bound track, and experienced some difficulty in removing broken freight cars from the immediate right of way. One of the cars was laden with loaf sugar, and sugar cubes were scattered over the ground for considerable distance, the ground resembling a field after a snow flurry.

Up to six years ago something like half a million dollars worth of straw braid for hats was purchased in Detroit annually by five dealers. They in turn sold it to the large manufacturing of hats in the east. The braid was made from wheat and rye straw, mostly wheat, by the old French farmer families on both sides of the Detroit river and along the shore districts of lake St. Clair. The Japs have taken the business from the city. Practically all of the men's so-called Mackinaw braid straw hats retailed these days at from $1 to $2 are made from Japanese barley straw. Some seven or eight years ago eastern hat factory men sent specimens of Mackinaw straw braid to Japan with instructions for making it. We've all heard how quickly the Japs can learn. Well, they soon learned how to make from their barley straw a very good imitation of our wheat and rye straw braid. The main difference in the quality is that theirs is so pliable that hatters have to use glue and shellac in making it up so as to make the rims of the hat stiff.

Great preparations are underway for the Berrien county Young People's picnic which will take place August third at Berrien Springs. The event this year will be in the nature of a reunion as well as a picnic. Geo. Valentine of Benton Harbor, the first president of the organization will deliver an address, Walter E. Banyan the brilliant orator will also take part in the entertainment. The parade will be a great feature. Horse racing and a band tournament will add materially to the pleasure of the day.

The M. C. R. R. Co. will run a special excursion train from Michigan City to Kalamazoo and return July 17, passing Buchanan at 9:20 a. m., arriving at Kalamazoo 11:05 a. m. Returning will leave Kalamazoo 7 p. m. Fare from Buchanan to Kalamazoo and return, 85 cents.

The Graham & Morton Transportation company of Benton Harbor, have reduced their boat rate to Chicago to 50 cents either way, on day or night boat, the rate to go into effect next Saturday. This is quite a sensational announcement. At certain times a rate of 50 cents either way has prevailed. The reduction will favor business men, and on account of the world's fair and other conditions will be appreciated. The Graham & Morton are already enjoying a large business, but can do more.

A Very Close Call.

"I was weak and pale, without any appetite and all run down. As I was about to give up, I got a bottle of Electric Bitters, and after taking it, I felt as well as I ever did in my life." Weak, sickly, run down people always gain new life, strength and vigor from their use. Try them. Satisfaction guaranteed by W. N. Brodick. Price 50 cents.

CAUSE OF THE WRECK

Egregious Blunder Brought on the Terrible Disaster on the C. and E. I. Road.

FREIGHT TRAIN CREW BLAMED

On a Track Where They Had Absolutely No Right to Be—Correct List of the Dead.

Chicago, July 15.—The wreck on the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, in which a Sunday school excursion train collided with a freight train, killed eighteen persons, principally boys and girls. As far as now known it was the result of a blunder committed by the crew of the freight train—a blunder so egregious that if the coroner finds it as it is now stated the law is likely to come down heavily on those responsible therefor. By this blunder a train load—more than 600—of men, women and children was dashed against a heavy freight train, and with a hymn on their lips eighteen persons were huried to eternity, and more than 100 wounded, of whom two-thirds suffered broken limbs and other serious injuries.

Official Investigation Made.

An official investigation has been made by Division Superintendent Russ and Assistant Roadmaster Buchanan, of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, and this is the story it tells: "Extra No. 144, in charge of Conductor Cooper and Engineer Hoxey, was north-bound and consisted of a train of about fifty cars. Going up an incline near Chicago Heights the train parted, a knuckle or drawbar being out of order or defective. This permitted fifteen coal cars to drop behind while the engine and forward or head end of the train went on, with the crew unaware of the accident. When it was discovered it was too late for the engine to back up as there was a steep incline.

Where the Blunder Was Committed.

"Hoxey pulled his train into Thornton, Ill., five miles north of Chicago Heights, where the cars on the head end should have been set out. Here is where the blunder was committed. Hoxey had Conductor Cooper with him and Brakeman Wright. Under the circumstances as we find them Cooper must share equally with Hoxey the blame. Hoxey was on the east track which is used for north-bound trains. Here he should have remained, for his rights under the rules gave him sole possession of that track clear to his lost cars, and all trains would have been forced to wait for him. Instead Hoxey sent his engine and the head-end of the train which he should have set out at Thornton over onto the west track, which is used by the south-bound trains and started his train back from Thornton to Chicago Heights for his lost cars."

HAD NO RIGHT ON THAT TRACK

Should Never Have Left Thornton Without Orders, Says the Report.

The statement then proceeds: "Hoxey should never have left Thornton without orders and under no circumstances should he have taken the south-bound track, as he had absolutely no right or authority on that track. This act made it well-nigh impossible for Conductor Cooper to signal for him to stop, as the signal could not be properly given. At Crete, Ill., the dispatcher notified the conductor on the north-bound excursion train of the broken coal train at Chicago Heights, and as the broken train was on the north-bound track, which was for trains bound for Chicago, the dispatcher's order was for the excursion train to cross over to the west tracks, used by the trains bound out of Chicago.

"Engineer Downey, on the excursion train, obeyed the order and as he did so his train pulled into the arms of death as dealt by Engineer Hoxey's mistake or neglect. Meanwhile Station Agent Smoot, at Glenwood, who is the operator also and who was not on duty at the time, heard the message go through his ticker for the excursion train to leave the north-bound track for the south-bound. A minute later he heard a rumble from the north and looking up the track he saw Hoxey's engine with its broken train of coal cars leave the north-bound track and cross over to the track the excursion train was ordered on.

"The danger of the passengers on the picnic train flashed through his brain instantly and for a moment he was almost paralyzed. Then he shook off the feeling of dread, and copying the message as he heard it ran to the platform and tried to signal Hoxey's train. The coal train went past him at a good clip and only the brakeman seemed to understand that Smoot was signaling to stop. He gave the signal to Hoxey and Smoot ran up screaming to him to back up his engine. Just then the excursion train hove in sight and Hoxey reversed his engine just as he reached the curve south of Glenwood.

"This was too late, however, for Engineer Downey to stop the excursion train, as his view of Hoxey's coal train was hidden by trees inside the curve. Just as Hoxey's coal train started to back the engine pulling the excursion train hit the rear coal car. That tells the story. What will be done with Hoxey and Cooper rests with the coroner's jury."

Following is a correct list of those who lost their lives in the crash; John Bieringer, 10 years old; Mrs. G. Ger-inger; Walter Geringer, 12 years old; Baby Geringer, 2 years old; Lena Hipelius, 14 years old; Andrew Kramer; Mrs. Ellen Lander; Mrs. Emma Palmer; Lelene Palmer, 12 years old; Mrs. Mary Cherry; Mrs. Harvey Perry; William M. Meyer, 12 years old; Charles Probat, 11 years old; Marie Probat, 3 years old; Thomas Volkstorff; Thomas Seveck; unknown man and unknown boy.

Of these last two only the mangled arms and legs are left, and it is thought that they may belong to some of the identified bodies, which would reduce the number of dead to sixteen. Five of the injured may die, and many have two limbs broken.

BRYAN AND THE PLATFORM

He Enumerates the Planks That He Thinks Worthy of Approval—Good as a Whole.

Lincoln, Neb., July 15.—William J. Bryan has made public a statement relating to the Democratic platform adopted at St. Louis. He says that "The plank on imperialism is positive, strong and satisfactory to the entire party, and this question becomes the paramount issue of the campaign. The tariff plank is good, but it was made so on a close vote in the committee and largely against the opposition of Mr. Parker's adherents. * * * The anti-trust plank is a good one. * * * The plank is infinitely superior to the Republican plank, and with a president who desired to destroy the trusts would be a sufficient plank. * * * "The labor plank is all that could be desired. * * * On the whole the platform is good. From a western standpoint, its great defect is that it makes no mention of the money question. An attempt was made to secure a plank opposing the melting of the silver dollar, opposing the asset currency and branch banks, and expressing a preference for the United States note (ordinarily known as the greenback) over the bank note, but having refused to put in a gold plank the committee was not willing to have any phase of the money question alluded to.

"While the motion to reaffirm the Kansas City platform was voted down, there was a considerable vote in favor of its reaffirmation, and the western members of the committee, together with a few from the south, stood together and secured enough changes in the platform to make it a presentable document and worthy of the support of union men.

PART OF A BUILDING FALLS

Many Narrow Escapes and a Few Persons Severely, One Seriously, Injured at New York.

New York, July 15.—A large part of the upper story of the old Times building, on Park Row, where repairs and additions are being made, fell when several workmen were on the scaffolding on the upper floors and the streets were crowded. A stone coping several tons in weight was being lowered from the eleventh floor when the ropes and boom of the tackle broke.

There were many narrow escapes from injury in the crowd on Park Row below. An unidentified negro was struck a glancing blow, causing a severe scalp wound and possibly a fractured skull. One man's leg was broken and another had the collar bone broken. The coping crashed through fifteen-inch planking and imbedded itself about six inches in the concrete sidewalk.

Because she was in love with Orth, but already was married Mrs. Garner proposed a double suicide last Monday, and they took poison together. Death followed for the woman, but physicians saved the man's life. He tried again and succeeded.

PASSING OF PAUL KRUGER

Boer Ex-President and Patriot Dies of the Infirmities of Age at Clarens, Switzerland.

London, July 15.—Death through the infirmities of age, technically described as senile pneumonia caused by sclerosis of the arteries, has written finis on the life of Paul Kruger, ex-president of the Boer republic. He would have been 80 years old in next October, and was born in Cape Colony, South Africa. He passed away at Clarens, Switzerland, yesterday, having been unconscious since Monday. His daughter and son-in-law were with him at the time of his death. Great Britain is to be requested to permit his body to be buried in the Transvaal.

A telegram from Pretoria says the flags on government buildings there are at half-mast and all Boers will wear mourning until after the funeral. Paul Kruger's life has been part of the history of world as described in the daily papers for years, and to tell it would be to give a history of South Africa. All the London papers speak generously of the man who hated everything British with an inextinguishable hate, and they all admit that he was a great man. Eulogies of him fill the continental press.

NOTHING AT ALL CONFIRMED

If There Has Been Anything Important in the Far East No News Thereof Has Got Out.

London, July 15.—After some days of rumor which told of great things going on in Manchuria, the lid has been put on and nothing is coming, either rumor or fact. Not one of the stories published yesterday of battles and heavy loss of life is confirmed, much less that one reporting the fall of Port Arthur. There is one new report—that Yinkow has been occupied by the Japs without resistance by the Russians.

A lot of delayed telegrams are printed, the most important of which is from Ta Tche Kiao, dated July 13, and saying: "It is reported that the Japanese have five divisions and 200 guns and that they have been placing siege guns in readiness for a determined assault." At St. Petersburg it is still believed the Japs have been repulsed at Port Arthur, but the casualties are reduced to 2,800, while the Russian loss is put at 1,800.

TROUBLE IS NOW EXPECTED

Non-Union Men Put Into a Wisconsin Paper Mill Which Refuses Recognition of the Union.

Appleton, Wis., July 15.—A decisive step has been taken by the mill owners. After waiting, as they said they would, until the strikers had been given a fair chance to return to work the owners of the Atlas paper mill have opened with a full force of non-union men.

They refuse to recognize the union. The action taken by the mill owners in hiring non-union men at the Atlas mill seems to be final, and serious trouble may result. It is thought that the strikers will endeavor to stop the working of the mill.

NEGOTIATING A BASIS

Packers at Chicago and Their Employes Swap Arbitration Propositions.

TWO SCHEMES ARE REJECTED

Strikers Attack Policemen and a Rioter Stops a Bullet—Violence Is Frequent.

Chicago, July 15.—The strike which has demoralized the packing industry throughout the country has not been settled, but here are hopes that it will soon end by the adjustment of the difficulties by arbitration. After a conference which lasted all of the afternoon between representatives of the packers and the officials of the unions the employers are waiting for an answer to a counter proposition which they submitted to Michael J. Donnelly in reply to a statement of the terms upon which he would be willing to make a settlement. Donnelly says the counter proposition of the packers will be rejected.

Two Hitches Are Discovered.

One hitch in the negotiations is over the reinstatement of the strikers. The union demands that every man who went on strike shall be given his old place before an agreement to arbitrate will be considered. The packers declare they will retain the men they have employed since the strike, and will take back the old men in the order in which they apply for their old position. Another hitch is a clause of the strikers' proposition providing that the decision of the arbitrators must not include a reduction of wages. This the employers object to. They said the strikers could present any question they desired action upon to the arbitration board, but must not put any limitations on the board's actions.

Preparations for the Worst.

While the peace negotiations are in progress additional preparations are being made by the packers at the yards for a long siege. The packers, hearing that efforts were being made to induce the railroad men who are members of unions to refuse to handle supplies where the men are on strike, are busy putting in great stocks of coal to meet an attempt to stop their supply.

Situation at Other Points.

At Omaha the plants are working short-handed, but employing men every day; at Kansas City a similar situation obtains, and in a greater degree; at St. Paul about 200 men have been put at work and both cattle and hogs are being slaughtered; at Sioux City, Ia., 400 new men have been employed.

STRIKERS ATTACK THE POLICE

Several Officers Hurt and One of the Rioters Shot.

There has been more or less threats of violence ever since the strike broke out and some actual outbreaks, but it became more apparent last night. A party of strikers met a detachment of police under the command of Lieutenant Moore, on Paulina street near Forty-fifth street. One of the crowd hurled a stone at the officers, and was at once placed under arrest. The police started toward the station with their prisoner, when his companion attacked them with stones. Several volleys of these had been thrown when the police drew their revolvers and fired several shots at the crowd. Alfonso Andriulus fell with a bullet through his shoulder and his companions fled.

Andriulus and the man first arrested were taken by the police to the police station, which in a few minutes was surrounded by a crowd of several hundred men, women and boys. The temper of the crowd was ugly, and for a time it looked as though they would attempt to storm the station. Calls were sent for reinforcements, and in a short time several patrol wagons filled with officers from other stations came upon the scene. The crowd refused to give way, and the officers were compelled to fight their way through to the station doors. Several riots occurred along Marshfield avenue, where mobs attacked squads of policemen with bricks.

Lieutenant Prim, of the Stock Yards station, was badly injured by a large dog while attempting to arrest a rioter who had fled into the saloon of Tony Ezrskes, at 4581 Hermitage avenue. When the officer stepped inside the saloon the proprietor urged a large dog to attack him. Lieutenant Prim struck at the dog with his club, but missed it, and the animal lacerated his leg severely before he could beat it off. The proprietor and several other men in the place were taken into custody.

The following officers were injured during the fighting in the yards: Detective Beaden, jaw fractured by a brick; Sergeant Boehne, chin deeply cut by a stone; Policeman John Flynn, tendons of left foot cut by a stone. The following members of the mob were hurt: Anton Yetlack, cut in head and neck; Peter Maslin, scalp wounds; Stephen Gesheld, head cut.

Durango, Colo., July 15.—Fire destroyed all the surface improvements of the American mine at Gladstone. The loss is estimated at $125,000.
