FRECKLE FACED GIRL

That's Alice Roosevelt—Atty. Sweet Back From Oyster Bay.

HIS DESCRIPTION OF TRIP

Found the Roosevelts Plain and Unassuming and Just Like People.

Atty. C. E. Sweet has returned from New York where as a member from Michigan of the committee to notify President Roosevelt of his nomination he was present Wednesday at the historical gathering at Oyster Bay, Mass.

He found the president a common every-day sort of a gentleman and his family a common family. Kermit, the youngest member of the family, is said to be a real boy in more ways than one.

Evidence of this quality in the youngest Roosevelt cropped out during the notification ceremonies on the broad veranda of the Sagamore Hill residence when Kermit produced a toy cannon from his pocket and, in setting a profession cap, was just in the act of interrupting Chairman Cannon's speech with an explosion when his mother discovered what he was about and caused him to leave the porch.

The committee, about sixty in number, arrived at Oyster Bay about 10 o'clock, where they were met by carriages and driven a distance of three miles to the Roosevelt home at Sagamore Hill. The little village was prettily decorated with flags and through the three miles drive huge flags waved across the drive at intervals. Electric lights are strung along this road.

At the foot of the hill just at the entrance to the President's grounds two secret service men stopped each carriage and investigated its occupants. Other secret service men did duty about the house and grounds. The house is an old red brick mansion surrounded by capacious verandas. On entering each visitor was received by President and Mrs. Roosevelt after which a half hour was spent about the grounds before the notification ceremonies took place.

Following the speeches of notification the crowd submitted to being photographed and watched the president photographed in different attitudes after which a buffet lunch was served consisting of sandwiches, salmon, green peas, lemonade, ice cream, cake, etc.

The guests were given the freedom of the grounds from that hour until about three o'clock when they departed for their train at the station.

Some envious young ladies might be pleased to know that Miss Alice Roosevelt is just an angular, freckled girl with a penchant for green snakes and the great outdoors.—Dowagiac News.

American Display in the Orient.

In the Orient, where strength, social status, in fact, everything that counts in favor of a man or a country is estimated by exterior show, it is certainly short-sighted of our government not to provide adequate display for its representatives. A few American soldiers suitably mounted and equipped as a special legation escort would go far to impress American prestige upon the minds of these Orientals. This may be avowedly opposed to Jeffersonian simplicity and our democratic ideas, but it is an established fact which other countries quickly recognize and act upon, thus securing favors for their representatives that are hesitatingly granted to people less well provided for.—From Minnie Norton Wood's "Summer Splendor of the Chinese Court" in the August Century.

WAR ON THE COMBINE

Col. Conn Clashes With Chapin Interest.

The Elkhart Power company, of which C. G. Conn, ex-congressman newspaper publisher and band instrument manufacturer is the main spoke, is engaged in a great war with the "combine" known as the Indiana and Michigan Electric company of which Chas. A. Chapin is principal stockholder.

Col. Conn publishes a map in his paper, the Elkhart Truth, showing the location of the dams, power stations of the "combine" at Buchanan, Hen Island, Niles, besides four dam sites at Berrien Springs, on the state line and two above Elkhart.

The map is accompanied by these statements in flaring letters occupying four columns space:

"The Elkhart Hydraulics alone stands in the way of excessive prices for electricity.

"The Combine owns all other available water power on the river.

"A glance at the map will show that the combine, known as the Indiana and Michigan Electric company, owns and controls all the available power on the St. Joseph river except the one in this city. (Elkhart) The water power at South Bend is to provide power for the Oliver Flow Works, and the small plants at Mishawaka and Niles are not available for public uses. The dams and sites of the Combine are numbered; they are six in all.

"The water power of the St. Joseph river will prove a greater and more lasting benefit to the people of the St. Joseph valley than was the gas belt of Indiana to the people of that section, provided the electricity generated by this water power is supplied to mills and factories at reasonable prices.

"But if all of this water power passes into the hands of a trust or combine and users of electricity are compelled to pay exorbitant and unreasonable prices, the growth and prosperity of the St. Joseph valley will be seriously retarded."

Central American Stamps.

The stamps of Central American republics have always been favorites with young collectors. The bright colors and finely engraved specimens have made the pages of albums appear very attractive. The sets of stamps issued by some of these countries have been quite numerous, so that there has been little difficulty in securing a representative collection of the various issues. Such countries as Salvador have furnished also a large number of provisional stamps made by the use of different surcharges. The regular issues have been printed in many instances in the United States, while the provisionals have been manufactured on a printing press in the country where the stamps have been issued. It thus happened that some of these stamps are not discovered by those making notes of new issues for the stamp papers, and they, therefore, may not be found listed in the catalogues. Collectors who have opportunities to secure large numbers of Central American stamps are fortunate, as they frequently succeed in finding new and scarce varieties.—From the August St. Nicholas Stamp Page.

"I was troubled for several years with chronic indigestion and nervous debility, writes F. J. Green, of Lancaster, N. H. "No remedy helped me until I began using Electric Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicines I ever used. They have also kept my wife in excellent health for years. She says Electric Bitters are just splendid for female troubles; that they are a grand tonic and invigorator for weak, run down women. No other medicine can take its place in our family." Try them. A TOUCH OF ROMANCE

Will Dittmer, of Niles, Weds a South Bend Lady.

AT MICHIGAN CITY, IND.

Clerk at LaPorte Thought They Were Too Young and Refused License.

William A. Dittmer, a book keeper for the Michigan Central Railroad in their offices at Niles, was united in marriage on Wednesday, to Miss Alta Humberger, daughter of Henry H. Humberger of South Bend. The marriage took place at Michigan City, but before the happy event was performed, the couple had an interesting experience having a touch of the romantic, which is fully embellished by the LaPorte newspaper reporter who claims to have helped them out of their difficulty.

The LaPorte Herald gives the following account of Mr. and Mrs. Dittmer's visit to that city to get a license and how it ended.

When Lake Shore train, No 45, from the east, pulled in at this station at 1:25 p. m., there alighted two young couples who appeared as though they might be on matrimony bent. The young ladies were very pretty, while the young men looked decidedly gallant. Inquiring their way to the court house the four walked south on Indiana avenue and when they reached the public building the young ladies walked ahead and the two men hastened to the county clerk's office. A marriage license was asked for, but when Deputy County Clerk Bielefeldt inquired if the parties were residents of the county he was informed that they were not, both living in St. Joseph county.

Not wishing to take any chances, for the couples appeared barely old enough to obtain a license without the consent of their parents, the clerk refused the license. The young man, who was to be the groom, was decidedly chagrined and disappointed at the refusal, but as there was nothing further for him to do he and his friend left the big building and soon rejoined the two young ladies. There was a drooping of spirits and hopes when they were informed that the license had been refused, and so, miserable and disconsolate, two couples walked about the city, hardly knowing what to do. A few minutes after the license had been refused a Herald representative happened into the clerk's office on his rounds and learned of the incident. Desiring to help Cupid along he hastened out on the street and soon located the quartette. They were informed that in Michigan City there lived a promoter of matrimony in the person of John H. Lord, whose conscience would not hurt him enough to prevent his issuing a license to the couple. To catch the 2 o'clock car on the interurban line it was necessary for the young people to run, but they caught the car and then a telephone message from The Herald to Mr. Lord caused the latter to make the necessary arrangements for the wedding, which took place at 3:15 o'clock, Rev. R. H. Wilson, of the Presbyterian church, officiating.

THRILLING EXPERIENCE.

Two Young Men in an Open Sail Boat at the Mercy of the Waves.

Two young men, R. J. Buckley and H. McKay, in an open sail boat battled against the fury of the waves all day yesterday and toward night succeeded in beaching the small craft about three miles south of this port. Today they were able to set the sloop afloat again and sailed into the harbor this morning. The boat was unharmed by the waves but the experience was a perilous one. The two young men left Hyde Park Tuesday. They put into Michigan City day before yesterday and were coming from that city yesterday when the heavy seas suddenly arose early in the day. From here they will go to Sauguttuck.—Benton Harbor Review Friday.

Michigan's Great Fortune in Her Pine Barrens

By a movement begun in the Grand Rapids board of trade by Charles W. Garfield, president of the Grand Rapids Savings bank and member of the state forestry commission, millions of dollars, it is claimed, will eventually be saved to the state of Michigan. A plan, which a committee of the board will evolve, will provide for the abolition to a large extent of the annual sale of lands in the northern part of the lower peninsula, on which taxes have not been paid. These lands, instead of each year being placed on the market will, according to the present plan, be held by the state for a certain period, perhaps 75 years, during which time they will be devoted to the single purpose of tree growing. On the 8,000,000 acres owned by the state of Michigan, there could be grown in 50 years, according to Prof. Judson F. Clarke of Washington, D. C. pine timber whose value at the expiration of that time would be $1,500,000,000.

"At the capitol in Lansing there is an endless system relative to the sales of these northern lands, which costs the state thousands of dollars each year," said Mr. Garfield. "For instance, a certain tract is advertised for sale. It is bought, and the few trees on it are cut down. Then the buyer pays no taxes and the tract goes back to the state. Once more it is advertised and sold to some one who expects to cultivate it. But the purchaser finds that it is worthless as farm land and therefore allows it to revert to the state. Thus it goes, in and out of the hopper in the capitol at Lansing, a chain without an end."

Judson F. Clarke of Washington, D. C., member of the staff of the national bureau of forestry, declares that in neglecting to take action relative to the reforestation of northern land, the state of Michigan annually throws to the winds an income eight times greater than its aggregate yearly tax collections. Prof. Clarke has come to Michigan to assist the farmers of this state in the preservation of the woodlot, "the barrier," as he terms it, "between the people and the coal trust."

"The land of northern Michigan is fit only for pine forests," said Prof. Clarke. "Michigan possesses a bonanza and does not know it. It owns 6,000,000 acres of pine lands and allows them to lay in waste, while in half a century they could produce pine timber of a total value of more than a billion dollars. Each succeeding year these same lands would yield an income of nearly $30,000,000."

Escaped an Awful Fate.

Mr. H. Haggins, of Melbourne, Fla., writes, "My doctor told me I had Consumption and nothing could be done for me. I was given up to die. The offer of a free trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, induced me to try it. Results were startling. I am now on the road to recovery and owe all to Dr. King's New Discovery. It surely saved my life." This great cure is guaranteed for all throat and lung diseases by W. N. Brodrick, Druggist. Price 50c & $1.00. Trial bottles free.

IN MEMORIAM

JOHN HERMAN HESS

Was born on Aug. 2, 1833 in Schwarz, Province of Hessian, Germany. He was educated there and confirmed in the Lutheran faith. In 1855 he left the land of his fathers and came to seek his fortune in America. His first stopping place was Baden, in Canada; here he met and married Elizabeth Rueffer in 1856. In 1861 he moved with his family to Lake township, Berrien Co., Mich., and the following year to Buchanan township onto the farm on which he has lived ever since. When he first moved to the place it was a part of the great forest which extended in almost every direction for miles. There was no place ready for a house but Mr. Hess soon had a place cleared and began to make life as comfortable for his family as was possible.

In his youth Mr. Hess was a very strong man, it is said that he was the strongest man in the neighborhood and second to none in ambition to work. Tree after tree, acre after acre yielded to his energy and soon the almost impassable wilderness was transformed into a beautiful farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Hess are the parents of eight children, all of whom are living and grown to manhood and womanhood. They are, John, of Niles; George, Charles and Henry, of Buchanan; William, of Weesaw; Mrs. Lizzie Adams, of Michigan City; Mrs. Kate Eisele and Mrs. Carrie Boyle, of Bertrand. There survive him besides his mourning wife and children, 9 grand children and many other relatives.

For the last few years Mr. Hess has been failing in health, being unable to leave home very much. He had the sympathy of his family and neighbors who did all they could for him. He seemed to feel real well on Thursday morning, going out of doors, but he began to feel quite sick shortly and died about noon, July 28, 1904, age 70 years, 11 months, and 26 days. The immediate cause of his death was dropsy. Our loss is his gain. He will be much missed for he was a kind and loving husband and father, an honest, peaceable neighbor and man, and a pious christian. May God comfort the mourning relatives and friends and grant to all a happy reunion in heaven.

JESSIE S. EAST

Was born in Henry county, Indiana, near the city of Richmond, June 2nd, 1839, of Quaker parentage. When he was three years old his parents moved to Calvin township, Cass Co. Mich.

In the year 1850 he was married to Anna B. Osborn. In 1870 they moved to Niles, which place was their home until they came to Buchanan in 1887, with the exception of two years spent near their old home in Cass county.

Of a family of ten children three brothers and one sister remain. Calvin East now seriously ill at his home in Cass county, A. J. East of Vandalia, A. S. East of Wexford and Mrs. Mary L. Merritt Buchanan. A wife, three sons, Chas. and William of Buchanan, and James of South Bend, their families and a large circle of relatives and friends are left to mourn the loss of a kind and loving husband, father and friend.

A funeral service was held at the late residence of the deceased conducted by Rev. W. D. Cole, and attended by the masons. The remains were taken to Birch lake, Cass county, where services were held conducted by Rev. Emma Garrison, and he was laid to rest in the family burying ground, by his own request.

A very religious man ran a clothing store. He always told his clerks to do nothing that was not warranted by the Bible. One day he learned that a clerk had charged a customer $8 for a $1.50 article and took him to task. "Can you think of a Bible quotation," he asked of the clerk, "that would warrant such conduct?" The clerk said he could and quoted this: "Behold he was a stranger and I took him in."

Mrs. Fred Krueger, of New Buffalo died Saturday morning after suffering intense agony for a week. She was the lady for whom, our readers will remember, the Michigan Central held their excursion in Chicago a week ago last Sunday. Her successful effort to save her child from being killed caused her to receive the injuries which caused her death.

A broken board in the dam at Bainton's flouing mill made it necessary to draw the water from the mill pond Saturday, in order to repair the dam. At this time it was discovered that the water had washed the dirt from under the mud sills of the Pere Marquette bridge which crosses the pond. The condition of the bridge was not considered safe for traffic, so the train last night did not run up to the depot, but stopped at River street. The work train came up this morning and are working at the bridge today. We are informed that the work was completed this afternoon and that the trains will run tonight through to the depot.

TENNANT WEAK IN THE SOUTH END

Cassopolis Vigilant Expresses Sentiments of all Good Republicans—Collins' Influence on the Decline.

The Democrats of Berrien county have nominated Joseph Tennant, an alleged Republican for sheriff, in the hope that he will draw enough votes from the republican party to elect him. We don't believe any republican with loyalty enough to entitle him to republican support would permit his name to appear on a democrat ticket, and that few votes can be caught with that kind of bait.—Cassopolis Vigilant.

The vigilants seem to have the correct idea regarding this nomination for sheriff, but perhaps all are not conversant with the facts of the matter. Four years ago Joseph Tennant, claiming to be a staunch republican, asked the Berrien county republicans in convention assembled to give him the nomination for sheriff. It was not thought wise to place his name in the coveted position. Through the following campaign Tennant is said to have shown his loyalty (?) to the party by assisting in the election of the democratic nominee, Sheriff Collins, who immediately gave Mr. Tennant the office of deputy. Now, after four short years, we find Tennant at the head of the county democratic ticket—a hard pill for many good, long-time democrats to swallow, and one which was not without its unpleasant effects.

It has been said that Sheriff Collins, whose four year term expires next December, was anxious to see a south-end man head the republican ticket, because of a weakness that would naturally result from such a nomination; and we have heard conservative men speculating on whether or no Mr. Collins' cash put a young relative at the head of a certain republican (?) weekly; and whether the present democratic sheriff was not responsible for the editorials which it was hoped would place a Galien gentleman at the head of the republican ticket and thus enhance the demo's chances of victory.

If Sheriff Collins imagines he can come this way, and by unfurling Jos. Tennant's banner, again take from the republican ranks those men who on two occasions have assisted in electing a democratic sheriff in Berrien county, he is much mistaken. Most of the south-end republicans who voted for Collins, believe that Bridges in Korea.

Some idea of the delights of traveling in Korea is given by the following description by a traveler of the "bridges" in that country: A first class bridge in Korea is simply an assortment of planks nailed together. These are scarce. A second class bridge is a series of isolated stones, from one to another of which the visitor may jump. A third class bridge, much the commonest variety, is invisible, its position being indicated by a couple of posts, one on each side of the river. They mean that you may safely wade across, as the water will probably not go much above your chest!

Cannon of 1812.

Cannon were small, measured by modern standard, in 1812, but the Ohio world was quiet, and the pioneers had keen senses. There is much evidence that the guns of Perry's squadron were heard by settlers living at least thirty-five miles east of Cleveland, or nearly 100 miles in an air line from the scene of the famous fight which gave the control of the lakes above Niagara falls to the Americans and did much to save the northwest for the United States.

"That's just it. Poor men worry because they can't get money, and the rich man worries for fear that it will get away from him."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Presiding Elder Barnes is having constructed at Carmi Smith's lumber yard a miniature house that will be his headquarters and domicile at Crystal Spring's camp grounds during the coming camp meeting. The little house is 8x10 feet in size and 7 feet high, not many inches higher than the large framed man who presides over the Methodist church affairs in the Niles district.—Niles Sun.

The first fire alarm that Buchanan has had in several months was turned in yesterday just after one o'clock. The cause proved to be a straw pile behind the barn of Aaron Miller. Mr. Miller's grandchildren had been playing with matches and set the straw on fire. Quick work with a garden hose, extinguished the blaze before he firemen arrived, and prevented what might have been a serious loss. The fire department responded to the call in short order, but lack of knowledge as to where the fire was, caused some delay in starting. This shows the need of a fire alarm system. We ought to have it.

 The resorters at Clear Lake Farm have been greatly entertained the past week by the readings of Miss Margaret Brooks, the accomplished dramatic reader of Springfield, Ill. Saved From Terrible Death
 The family of Mrs. M. L. Bobbitt of Bargerton, Tenn., saw her dying and were powerless to save her. The most skillful physicians and every remedy used, failed, while consumption was slowly but surely taking her life. In this terrible hour Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption turned despair into joy. The first bottle brought immediate relief and its continued use completely cured her. It's the most certain cure in the world for all throat and lung troubles Guaranteed. Bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at W. N. Brodrick's drug store.

The fastest 30-foot launch in the world, so her builder says, has just been finished, and is a Detroit production, designed and built by John L. Hacker, the well-known builder of small crafts out Jefferson avenue. The boat was made for Murry W. Smith, a retired broker of Walkerville, and makes 28 miles an hour. Her name is Au Revoir, and she can bid good-by to any craft around Detroit.
 Acting under a sudden impulse to do something, Mrs. Pearl Sutton, a bride of Philadelphia, who with her husband are guests of the Battle Creek Sanitarium, created a sensation at Gull Lake, a resort near that city. Prof. Okeman had given the signal to have his balloon cut loose when Mrs. Sutton rushed from the crowd and grappled the trapeze. In an instant she was forty feet in the air and there was nothing for the aeronaut to do but draw her up on the bar. The parachute drop was soon made without a serious accident though the woman was slightly hurt.

Carmer & Carmer Buchanan

Sunday in Town.

The sun is misty yellow and the sky is hazy blue,
And the chime bells ring out quaintly,
Near and deeply, fair and faintly,
Each one following its fellow in an echo clear and true.
Through the streets, clean-swept for leisure,
Many feet make haste toward pleasure,
And the sound is as the rustling of the leaves in paths we knew.
How I wish I were a-walking in the Autumn woods with you!

Oh, the fragrance of the hollows that the little brooks ran through!
Oh, the scarlet maples burning
Like a torch at every turning,
On the way my spirit follows in a dream forever new,—
Where from quiet, distant meadows,
Dim beneath the mountain shadows,
Came the clank of swinging cow-bells down the softest wind that blew.
Oh, I wish I were a-walking in the Autumn woods with you

We had our fill of roving where spring blossoms bound the view.
We have played in young Romances,
Danced the nymph-and-shepherd dances;
Now the summer of our loving glows and throbs us too.
In our eye the light yet vernal,
In our hearts the fire eternal,
And when time has touched the branches and our rose-leave days are few,
Oh, it's then I'd still be walking in life's Autumn woods with you.

The state department is a good deal stirred up this week by the obstinacy of Russian commanders in seizing American and British merchantmen on the high seas because they were carrying food to the Japanese army. This allegation is not denied, but Great Britain—America respond with the challenge "prove it!" An appeal to the manifest will probably be all that is needed, but it will be remembered that England took no such pains three years ago when she captured American vessels without ceremony and confiscated them and ate up their cargoes on the ground that the four were "obviously" destined for the Boers. Now that Russia has an important war upon her hands, against a power with which England is in alliance, and the United States government sympathetic, they will probably play the roll of bully more or less and insist upon dictating the terms of settlement.

The navy department has published the conclusions of the Liquid Fuel Board resulting from two years tests of coal and oil. Their findings are most important, being in short, that oil can be burned under the boiler in a uniform manner and at a great saving of cost to the government. The most acceptable device is that which allows a rapid transition from coal to oil and back again according to the scarcity of either may make such a change necessary. One half of the world's entire outfit of crude petroleum is produced in the United States, therefore it is natural that the practical installation of this new enterprise should be the result of American ingenuity.

There is a threat of action by congress next winter on account of the conduct of all the railroads going from the city in every direction, in compelling negroes to ride in the "Jim Crow" cars even within the city limits. Col. Perry Carson the negro janitor of the district building and the political leader of his race here, will carry the matter to the national legislature and perhaps the president.

Mr. Cortelyou says it is all nonsense, the report that has gained ground that the president is bellicose and belligent in his temperment and believes in a peculiarly strenuous life. He says that Mr. Roosevelt is essentially a man of peace, and would go a good ways and make almost any sacrifice to avoid a difficulty of any kind. All this in an interview with a Quaker reporter from Pennsylvania. There are sixty or seventy thousand Quakers in Pennsylvania, and at least half as many in Indiana, who are not in the habit of carrying a heavy stick, but do believe in gentle manners and conversation.

The republican campaign book is ready for the press and will shortly be given to the public. It recites the great achievements of the republican party for the past fifty years; defends the administration of Roosevelt; and makes many fair promises for the future. It presents an array of facts and figures which will carry conviction to many. The democrat campaign book is also in press but will not appear until after the official notification of Esopus to Judge Parker and Mr. Davis that they have been nominated to the two highest position in the gift of the people. Among other things this book will give a vast amount of facts and figures to prove that American made goods are sold abroad much cheaper than at home. The high tariffs and the trusts will be prominent issues, and the democrats will claim that the argument for a lower tariff for revenue only, with incidental protection, is all on their side. A very spicy contribution relates to the custom house frauds in Porto Rico, on the part of army officials, and other officials, and recites now the investigation was suppressed by order of the president and his cabinet on the ground of high public considerations.

Secretary Shaw of the treasury is quite facetious over the growing deficit in Uncle Sam's strong box. He pokes fun at the democrats who maintain that a lower tariff, or a nearer approach to free trade, would increase the revenue. The excess of expenditures over receipts for July is in the neighborhood of $21,000,000. The secretary says that two years ago he pointed out the dependence of the present revenue laws upon a very high standard of business if they were to yield enough to meet the large expenditures of the government. As there has been a considerable sagging in business, as well as immense losses by fire and flood, together with a sharp shrinkage in stock values, the people are spending less money, and living more economically. One way to meet the situation is to lessen the expenses of the government. Don't burn your candles at both ends! Commenting upon the present financial condition Secretary Shaw says: "This is a good argument for tariff revision and lower duties isn't it?" Considering the labor disturbances, he doubts if lower tariff rates would increase importations and thus add to the revenue. From his standpoint it looks as if the secretary was right.

Sometime ago a great deal was said in the press about a California millionaire, named Benson who was arrested by order of the Secretary of the Interior on the charge of conspiring to defraud the United States by acquiring school lands by means of fictitious affidavits, etc. Judge Lacombe, of the United States circuit court has discharged Benson on the ground that the indictment does not set forth facts tending to show a conspiracy to defraud the United States.
