A MOST PLEASING PROGRAM

the Coon Wedding.

About 350 guests and members of the Woodmen and Royal Neighbors were, most royally entertained last evening at the Woodmen Hall. The guests began arriving at an early hour, and a social time was enjoyed by all until their departure.

The occassion of this festivity was the joint installation of officers. The meeting was opened by a short and pleasing address by I. L. H. Dodd, of St Joseph, following by a drill by the Forester Team. The installation of officers of the Woodmen followed Mr. Steve Arney acted as installing officer, and under his direction, each officer was installed to his place by the deputy head officers,

After the Woodmen had concluded their ceremonies, the Royal Neighbors then took charge of the meeting, and installed their various officers, Mrs. Clara Richards acting as installing officer, and Mrs Addie Diggins as Grand Marshall. Then followed the military drill given by the Lady Degree Team and the Foresters. A pleasing piano solo was rendered by Mrs. Gertrude Rough. Mr. John Smith, delivered a recitation, that was greatly enjoyed.

A most pleasing program then followed in the form of a Coon Wedding about 15 taking part. The most pompous personages that took part in this "solemn occassion" were Sambo, (Chas. Diggins,) who acted the part of Church Porter, as if he Benton Harbor, Jan. 18 - Henry Henkel of St. Joseph is held by the authorities at Berlin, Germany, where he will be made to enlist in the German army unless he can satisfy the authorities that he is an American citizen. He has with him his citizenship, papers, which the officers will not recoginize. Henkel appealed to the United States minister at Berlin, who advised him to send home for proofs that he was no longer bound to the "fatherland." County Clerk Miners will forward the proofs this week. Henkel and his family went to Germany last fall to visit their parents and expected to return here this spring.

HEART IN ROAD MAKING. What Earnest Purpose in a Community Can Accomplish for Better Highways.

In a certain county in a neighboring state there is a township with a large proportion of hard working, saving, industrious German farmers. They have good farms and they want good roads. Rather than wait for "the other fellow" to do something, they are taking the initiative themselves, putting their heart into their work and building their roads, says the Prairie Farmer. The nearest gravel is 12 miles away from their district, but, not to be discouraged by this fact, they have actually gone even this distance and bought a gravel pit.

Instead of doing all of their road work during the busy season, when farm work is pressing, they haul their gravel during the winter and leave it in piles beside the road, where it can be readily shoveled in when the roads settle in the spring. We are even told that these thrifty Germans are not infrequently at their gravel pit before daylight, ready to load and haul their gravel to their home district.

This is what we would call putting "heart" into road making. We venture that the men who are willing to go to this trouble will have better roads than tle good, hard, honest work upon theil roads as the law will permit, the manner in which some succeed in doing his indicating efficiency itself. We are strongly of the opinion that no permanent system of road improvement will be achieved until farmers are willing to accept their present road-maklng method as a serious proposition. When farmers as a class want better roads they will have them, but "want" will be more than mere desire, and will be backed with the determination that ealized. We admire the determination and willingness to undergo hardship that these German farmers display. They vant better highways, and while they ealize the cost, they are content to pay the price. The proposition is clearcut. We can enjoy good roads, but we will have to show by our deeds that we are thoroughly in earnest.

the better the thing can and must be Lattle More Credible. A man who had been shooting on Cape Cod returned by train, and a stranger who was obliged to share his seat entered into conversation with him, and asked if he had had good sport.

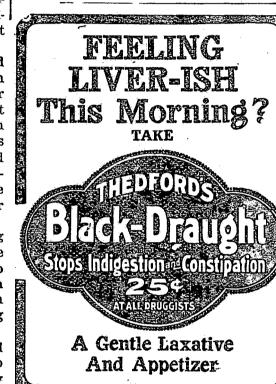

"Very good, indeed," replied the sportsman. "We got 100 head to two guns."

"You don't say so!" ejaculated the stranger, apparently lost in astonishment at the size of the bag. "Doublebarreled guns, I suppose?"--Youth's Companion.

Too Eccentric for Any Use.

"O course you quite understand that I shall call upon Mrs. Whiffier for your character," remarked Mrs. Taggetry to the girl she had just engaged.

"Certainly, m'm," replied the girl, "although I would rather you didn't, for Mrs. Whittler is so eccentric that she is not always to be relied upon." "In what way is she eccentric?" "She insists that her husband is quite a model father and husband and that her children have never caused her a moment's anxiety." "H'm, not so much in that."

"Then she says she is perfectly contented with one new dress and one new hat each season."

"H'm, she is eccentric, then!" "And, finally, she has never attend ed bargain sale, and says that the only things sold at them are the women who buy!"

"Oh, the woman's mad! I sha'n' trouble her for your character; you can come when you like!"

position. Mrs. Hattie Blake was evening Comrade W. Schoenborn, their neighbors, who think this plan ed forth for the cake walk. Mrs. Clara Richards acted sweetly as flower girl. The bride, (Mrs. B Brant) entered upon the arm of her father, (C. O. Hamilton,) she being dressed very elaborate, and looked very bewitching in the lace curtain, she wore for a wedding veil. The groom, (P. A. Graffort,) although a little late in arriving was greatly in evidence and the "solemn ceremony', was then performed. After the ceremony was over Mrs Sig Desenberg and P. A. Graffort sang a pleasing duet, entitled, "What did you do with that letter, Mr. Johnson." The next was a chorus, "Old Kentucky Home." Mrs. H. O. Perrott then sang a sweet solo, "Rosy Posy," with chorus accompaniment. The colored people then wanted to have a cake walk to make this occasion one long to be remembered, but the parson seriously "dejected" but was over-ruled, and they all commenced, this was too much for the parson, and he "joined in with the rest."

Following this the guests were then seated and all were served with sandwitches, pickles, coffee, cake and fruit.

At a late hour the guests departed after a few had joined in the light fantastic. A most enjoyable time is reported by all present, and one long to be remembered.

These meetings of the joint lodges are great events that are continually looked forward to, and they are famously known for the royal mánner in which they entertain. These two lodges are the largest in town and they think this is due to their frequent festivities, as the invited guests, see what pleasure they have, and are anxious to join these social as well as beneficiary lodge organizations.

COCKTAIL AT THREE FORKS

Decoction That Was Too Much for Cowboys and the Mixer Had to Drink It.

"I was standing in the barroom in a resort at Three Forks," said a traveling man, "waiting for the proprietor to arrive, in the hope of placing a small order. While I was waiting, two cowboys, wrapped in fur coats, their own dignity and a reputation as the top riders of the country which stretches away toward the head `of Willow Creek, came into the saloon and, marching up to the bar, demanded a cocktail.

"The bartender looked nonplussed for a moment, but he was not to be shut out, so he grabbed the biggest glass he could find behind the bar and immediately got busy. If there was anything there he missed putting into that glass, from the salt and pepper. sauce used to flavor the beer, to the snippings from the ends of the cigars which he found in the cigar cutter, I could not see it, and when he had finally finished he had two big beer glasses full of the mixture.

"The boys both tasted the beverage, and it did not taste good. Each had unlimbered a big gun and, playfully toying with the weapons, they suggested that the bartender wrink his own mixture. It required some persuasion, but finally, to avoid trouble. he swallowed the contents of both glasses. 'Now, make your will, you would-be poisoner,' shouted the punchers, and solemnly they put their guns back where they belonged, treated the house to the cigars and faded away into the distance, their horses hitting only the high spots as they disappeared up the valley.

"And I tell you, the impromptu bartender had good occasion to make his will. For three or four hours he was the sickest man I ever saw, and it took the services of a doctor, who worked over him for an hour or two, for some cheaper or "easier" way. One of the great troubles with road making to-day is the fact that too many districts will not spend any noney, while their taxpayers do as lit-

Murray, the night opera- ter at the Michigan Central attended the school of instruction at Michigan City, Friday night. This school of iustruction pietaines to the double track system that takes effect the first of April. Each employee has about 750 rules to memorize or learn so they can pass thier written exam ina- tion. The Evangelical church is under- going some excellent changes. A new cement floor is being laid in the basement, as well as partitions being built which will provided a cloak room, dining room, sewing room, and a kitchen. A good well is also in evidence. The dinner to be given by the Ladies Aid Society, on Feb. 3 will be held in the basement of the church. About forty-five guests were royal- ly entertained. Friday evening at the	Anna Andrews, Hursday for an and day session, and for work. Let all the ladies go, as there will be a way provided to go: The rig will leave Amos House's at 9:30 in the morning. The RECORD is the recipient of a late book containing the thirty-fifth annual report of the Secretary of State, Fred M. Warner, of the regis- tration of births and deaths, marriages and divorces in Michigán for the year 1901. This is the very latest record that has been issued. Another steam pump was placed on board the Argo Friday morning. It is being put aboard in sections and is being carried to the steamer on a line after the patterns of the breeches buoy of the life savers. With a con- tinuation of the present weather for a couple of days the wreckers hope to have the steamer afloat. Seldom has a play met with so much favor at the start as that ex- tended to the new comedy, Lewis Millionaire Coon Co.
