and is trying to turn suspicion in another direction.

The sheriff's force in this city admit the facts as they are presented in the Galien dispatch, but censure the officials who gave out the information that the card had been received Two men have been placed on the case, one of them Deputy Potter from Galien and the other a Pinker ton man. The officers will attemp to locate, if possible the sender o the card and if they are forfunate enough to apprehend the one who mailed it, interesting developments will follow.

The tone of the card is to the effect that Miss Hill, the young wo man whom Dynes was supposed to be engaged to in Kalamazoo knows something of the murder, suggests again some of the wild theories which were circulated at the time of the murder.

The officers are inclined to think that the case is a hopeless one and the card was mailed by some one who is simply attempting to stir up the matter anew.

LATER

The sheriff's force have run an other clue to earth and Miss Hill of Kalamazoo, who was accused of being in possession of knowledge which might lead to the arrest of the slayer of Dynes has proven that she knows nothing of the affair.

Sheriff Chas. Shean, of Kala mazoo was called up by Sheriff Tennant Wednesday and asked to ferrit out Miss Hill. The sheriff did so and interviewed the young lady for several hours on the case but received only the statement that she had never seen Dynes, never spoken to him and that she had not been in Galien for two years. Her rela tives also vouched for the statement that she had not been in Galien and said that they were positive that she did not know Dynes.

This discovery kills the theory which was developed by the post card and brands that sensational note as a "fake."

No new clues have been discovered in the murder case. The reward cards have all been distributed, the Michigan Central detectives are still at work, and the local officers believe that they will yet be able to unearth valuable information.

A terrific storm broke over Benton Harbor and St. Joseph at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon For ten min utes the wind blew a hurricane Telegraph, telephone and electric light wires were torn down, cutting off all communication and leaving scores of plants without power.

The News-Palladium office was bad ly crippled, the loss of power preventing the operation of the linotype machines and compelling the setting of copy by hand

On Broadway shortly before o'clock a large barn owned by Mrs. Taylor was struck by lightning and only quick work by the fire department saved it. The interior of the building was badly damaged by the flames. The barn was rented by S. E. Daigneau and the laundryman lost considerable horse feed and also a harness.

For nearly two hours the Twin City telephone company has been unable to give its patrons any service. Many telephone poles between the twin cities were either blown over or broken off entirely.

During the height of the storm a bad wreck was narrowly averted at the Union station.

Near the Pere Marquette coaling station an empty box car was standing on the tracks. The wind started the car bowling along and it passed the station at no slow rate. The day dispatcher rushed after the fleeing car and managed to switch it onto a side track The 2:20 passenger had left Coloma and the cmpty car would have certainly collided with the oncoming train.

ever held in southwestern Michigan. There were over 800 guests at the tables. There were distinguished public men, there were state officials, there were leading politicians of the state, there were hundreds of the rank and file of the republican party in Berrien county, in the gallery there were women of Berrien county, who would nominate Uncle Joe for president by acclamation.

The banquet hall was a thing of beauty. Along the south end of the big building raised on a platform was the speakers' table. Behind it was a bank of American flags, arranged in pretty figures. With the national colors as a foundation, were hung paintings of President Roosevelt, Speaker Cannon, Congressman Hamilton and Gov. Warner, done by W P. Ward, the St. Joseph artist, Uncle Joe had the place of honor between Congressman Boutell and Governor Warner. - Near his plate was a huge vase filled with giant red white and blue asters., Along the table were festoons of Michigan's best peaches and grapes.

Over the long tables were strung lines of red, white and blue bunting, with festoons of flowers hanging above the tables. Pyramids of peaches decorated the tables.

The banquet started early. Shortly after 5 o'clock Speaker Cannon, Congressman Hamilton, Congressman Boutell, Governor Warner and the otlier state officials, opened a levee at Silver Beach pavilion. For over an hour they shook hands and chatted with the guests. About 6:30 the banquet hall was thrown open and to the strains of music by Prof. Heimburger's orchestra the banqueters took their places.

Hoot of the French Motor.

One generally thinks of the French language as being more musical than our harsher northern tongue. But the motor-hoot in French is a far more ear-splitting affair than it is in English. To begin with, it is more often a siren than a hoot, and all over France one now hears the long, excruciating wails that are generally associated with ships-or with souls in torment. And when, as in some instances, a railway whistle is substituted, and the automobile rushes shrieking over the country-side like an

A thrifty German friend of the ger, and with so much calmness and socks.-Cleveland Leader. writer, who had the usual large fam- presence of mind as to be able to ily, was not content to rest and loaf make and dictate his observations during the winter months. He was upon the motion and figure of that piled up interest against the labor of the summer. He declared that he would do something to offset the mortgage fiend.

winter season he saw how readily fresh vegetables found sale at handsome prices. Inquiry revealed the fact that these vegetables were grown in hothouses near the town, and that a handsome profit was made. He concluded to build a small greenhouse and try intensive culture under glass the next year.

Two hundred dollars was spent in the house and equipment and when winter blasts came the fire was started and lettuce sown. The plants came up quickly and started a fine growth. When about half ready for the market a bit of carelessness caused the house to become overheated, and twothirds of the crop was lost. Nothing daunted, the dead plants were rooted Finest in Spain, from Which Counout and another crop sown. This was attacked by lice, and almost destroyed before our friend knew what was the matter. Fumigation was resorted to, but the crop had been practically killed. Thus far the results had been disastrous. Our friend was working in the dark, so to speak. He was of good quality, but they are, as a rule. learning by experience, but it was costly. He determined to visit greenhouses of successful gardeners and learn the secrets of their success. In one week he learned the simple rules regarding soil, moisture, heat, ventilation and fumigation. He returned home and made another effort. This time the crop was raised, not, however, without troubles, but it was placed on the market and netted $75. The next year the subject of greenhouse gardening was studied in greater detail, and several changes made. The house was started early in October, and kept going until the first of April. The season netted him about $500, or almost as much as he made on his farm during the summer. Since the first experiment, says the Ohio Farmer, two larger houses have been built, and the business has increased until it nets about $1,500 a year. The people

try Vast Quantities Are Shipped Abroad.

Barcelona is an important market for the supply of sheepskins. The finest skins are collected in the provine of Catalonia. Not only are they more carefully flayed and stacked than those obtained in other parts of Spain. Valencia sheepskins are also of good quality, and are, generally speaking, larger than the others. Next in order of merit after the Catalonian sheepskins may be classed those collected in the district of La Mancha, in New Castile, and, lastly, those shipped from Murcia, which are smaller and often crumpled and badly flayed.

Owing to the political situation in Russia, which, along with Spain and Italy, supplies very large quantities of sheepskins, exports from that country have been greatly interfered with, and foreign buyers have turned their attention more to Spain than they have hitherto, with the natural result that prices have been forced up. German dealers have recently been through Spain buying up all available supplies.

Barcelona alone produces from 400. 000 to 500,000 skins annually. Dealers
