The Old Timer's Corner

Life in The Gay 90's is Recalled by Old Timer in Reminiscences

Time about 1890 to 1895. I have been sitting here thinking over the old town and seeing how many of the streets I could walk along, in memory, and call the names of the people who lived along each street.

I started down town and walked up Front street, toward the west. I have forgotten some few of them but maybe some of you old timers can recall the ones that I miss. Here we go. We will start on the south side of the street and come back on the other side.

The house on the corner, built by Amos House, was modern, but I believe it was there at that time. Next we have the old Ross home, later owned by Mr. Sanders. There was a vacant lot where Dr. Brodbeck later on lived, and then the Eschman on the corner of the place where the Presbyterian church stands was also a vacant lot. Then high up on the hill was Church-chill's place, and next door, the Black home. Then "Judge" Hinman's and Chas. Bainton's homes. On the corner of Clark and Front was the home of Calvin Myler. Later on the Hoags lived there, or else the other way around. Then we go on west and see the old home of the Richards family, with its big corner lot and level lawn, next is the William Pears home, which used to be a two-story house, but lost its top story in a recent fire, but still stands on the same old foundation. Next west was the Whitman home, then the A. C. Roe home and on the corner of Detroit was the McNeil home.

John Graham lived on the west corner of this street and then there were a couple of homes that I can't remember who lived there, and then we come to the John G. Holmes place and then the Wray home, and Emma what was their names? Oh yes, Hamlin, that's it. She was red headed and could sing mighty well. You know who I mean.

Then we come to the home of Joe Burch. He was a blacksmith and raised fancy bred horses. Then the old Plimpton home was on the corner and the old Hamilton place was opposite and then there were no more homes out that way until you got to the cemetery.

On the north side of the street, starting out a little farther we have the home of the old Christian minister, Mr. Burdell. His wife was a little bit of a woman and he was tall and skinny. They lived right opposite the entrance to the cemetery. Then we will start back to town. Not forgetting our friends out the other way from there, where the Parrott and "Billy" Ingles families lived. But now we will turn back to town.

Down in the hollow we find the Beardsleys. And in back of them via a private lane were the Montgomery folks. Then up the hill we find the McCumber home. Then we have to skip one place, can't remember who lived there, and then we come to the home of John Congrad. Then came the Ferris home and the George W. Noble home at the corner of what I believe used to be called Cayuga street. Then there was a big brick house next toward town and I can remember knowing a boy that lived there, but I can't recall the name and then at Detroit Street was Miller's home. You remember Alta Miller was married, to death, there, in some accident.

Next across the street was the Wells home, and then a big white house, set in shrubs, etc., but I can not recall the names of the people but maybe that was the Wells home. Seems to me that Lou Morris used to live there. Then next door was the Dr. Slocum home, then Katie Deering, and then Dr. Henderson. And then across the street was Perry Fox's home, later owned by Dr. Bailey, then a little home over beyond a couple of vacant lots and there I am stuck again. I remember the house and the big trees in the front yard but I can't recall the name. Then comes the big corner house of Dr. Berrick, at what used to be called West Street, but is now Moccasin Avenue. I like the new name but I like to remember it was West Street just the same. Then right at the top of the hill was "Bill" Palmer's home, and then Sol Rough's, and then that big frame house set well back from the street, but I don't know who built it nor owned it, but it was a dandy old home and several families lived there that I can remember. Then just down the hill was John Alexander's, and a little frame house right next to the first business house (which by the way was a Chinese laundry) and we are back in town.

That's all the time I have today but some other day I am going for a walk in other parts of town and try to locate my old friends along the streets. Will you go with me? "OLD TIMER."

P. S. I want to congratulate Mrs. Winch and Mr. Holmes and others and to thank them for the contributions to the "Corner." I enjoy reading every line of it, but I can't help wanting to drop in a line myself now and then. Let us keep the good work up.

Believe it or Not, Rattler Swallows House Cat Entire

The meter reading forces of the city water department have many harrowing experiences with big bugs and poisonous insects and little animals which they find in meter boxes and alleys, but the crew had an experience recently which will probably stand alone for some years.

They were coming down the alley between Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets which is the dividing line between the city and the suburbs when they came upon a rattlesnake which they are willing to wager was at least six feet long. The rattler was snaking for the city as fast as he could crawl, which was not very fast, for he had just finished his dinner.

The water department crew assassinated the big snake and investigated to see what he had taken as a dinner. There, on the inside of the big pit viper, they found the most astonishing bit of evidence of all. The rattlesnake had dined on a full-grown cat and he had swallowed him, tooth and toenail, hair and hide, without so much as making sure the feline was dead.

Many stories have been told of cats fighting with snakes and killing the snake. There are persons here who have seen or claim to have seen such fights and many have known of cats dying from the effects of a rattler's bite, but this is the first case on record here of a rattler having vanquished the cat and then "vanished" it into the bargain.—Douglas Dispatch, Ariz.

10,539,928 Added By School Children To Savings Deposits

A total of 4,222,935 school children participated in school savings banking in the United States during the last school year, depositing $28,672,496 and rolling up net savings of $10,539,928, bringing total bank balances now credited to this movement to above fifty million dollars, according to the annual report just issued by the Savings Bank Division of the American Bankers Association. Schools to the number of 15,587 are enrolled in the plan, the report says, pointing out that all these figures are in marked advance over all previous annual figures. Analyzing the school savings situation, W. Espey Albright, Deputy Manager of the Savings Bank Division says:

"The statistical report for the school year 1928-1929 shows a gain all along the line. The number of schools having school savings has increased by 1762, or 12.7 per cent. The pupils enrolled in schools affording an opportunity for school savings increased 262,974, or 6.6 per cent; and 242,698, or 5.7 per cent, more pupils paricipated than during the preceding year. The deposits during the year reached the colossal figure of $28,672,496, a gain of 10.3 per cent, and the net savings, which means the amount of the year's deposits remaining in the bank at the close of the school year, is $10,539,928, a gain of 11.2 per cent.

"If to the amount of the school savings deposited in the banks this year and remaining at the end of the term is added to the school savings of the present pupils in former years and yet remaining in the banks, the total bank balances are in excess of fifty million dollars."

The Topsy Turvy party given at the M. E. Church Thursday evening under the auspices of the Sunday School and Aid Society, was a very enjoyable affair. This is the first of a series to be given once a month if possible. The receipts of the evening were about $14.

Mrs. Flora Addison has closed her home for the winter and has gone to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Walter Morley, near Gallien.

A good attendance was present Friday afternoon at the meeting of the Trojan Club at the Boyd home. They welcomed Miss Daisy Moore to their midst again. A large number attended the huge chorus by the singers of the county schools who gave a concert in Bridgman Friday evening. There were about 40 from New Troy high school present. It was said the singers occupied a bleacher section along one wall of the room and filled half the main room. The remaining seating capacity was not enough to care for the large crowd which numbered about 300. The lobby was crowded. The music of the orchestras, the numbers by the special glee clubs and the massed chorus were all considered great treats to those present.

MT. TABOR GRANGE CELEBRATES 25TH SHAFER ANNIV.

Mr. and Mrs. George Shafer were guests of honor at the regular meeting of the Mt. Tabor Grange Friday evening, the occasion being the celebration of their 25th wedding anniversary.

Following the business meeting, the session was turned over to a mock wedding ceremony in charge of Master Victor Ruffnot as the "preacher." Mr. Ruffnot had a marriage ritual of his own vintage pasted between the covers of Hoard's Dairyman. A feature of rare interest was the marriage license, which was designed by a friend of Ruffnot, who is a commercial artist in Chicago. The license was adorned by two cupid figures representing the high contracting parties, one armed with a gun and the other with a rolling pin, eyeing each other in an attitude of belligerent hostility. In the center were a man's and woman's shoes, linked together with a ball and chain.

Mrs. Florine Engleright and Mrs. Minnie Pennell were bridesmaids and John Kinney best man. Mrs. Minnie Hall was the groom's mother and Mrs. Sanford Carpenter, the bride's mother, both dressed as old ladies of the long skirted era and both loud in their grief over the impending event. The bride wore a long skirt and veil and long cotton gloves in addition to the other necessary incidents of costume. The groom was attired in a tall plug hat. The tables were decorated in pink and white and the ceremony was held under a canopy of white trimmed in tinsel, with a wedding bell hung directly over them. A suitable program of music accompanied the mock wedding.

Savings For the first time in 20 years savings accounts decreased during the year ending with June, the savings bank division of the American Bankers' Association has just reported. The decline in the combined savings accounts in all the banks of the United States from the previous June was $195,000,000. The number of depositors of savings accounts also fell off during the year by 524,000.

All that lay behind this phenomenon is not clear, but one of the factors was the temptation to share in the growing speculation in stocks. Many people without experience or knowledge about stocks withdrew funds from their hard-earned savings accounts under the spell of apparently easy money to be made in stocks. In view of what has happened in the last month, hundreds of them probably are sadder and wiser. Since the total decline in savings accounts amounted to only about $2 per individual account it is nothing to be concerned about. The next report, it is safe to predict, will see an increase in both the total deposits and the number of accounts.

Keeping Faith. The lawyer, the doctor, the priest, and the gentleman hold confidence to be a sacred thing. The secrets of the confessional, of professional trust and chivalric relationship, are held to be inviolate by the four great groups here indicated. It is, perhaps, in this realization that Sen. Arthur Capper, himself a newspaper man, has introduced his bill exempting newspaper men from disclosing the source of confidential information before any court or committee of Congress.

The newspaper man must keep faith; it is a cardinal principle of his profession. This is not a new thing. In a Washington jail for contempt of court. They preferred imprisonment to disclosing information received by them in confidence. They were true to their culture to the loftiest of moral conditions. If this confidence, encouraged and held to be inviolate by newspaper men, were to be considered as a thing of indifference by courts and parliaments, society would suffer or the ministers of news would incontinently accept the penalties imposed by a perverted appreciation of moral responsibility. Let it become generally known that a newsman's confidence was but a thing of rags and tatters, so to speak, and the volume of the world's news would shrink to negligible proportions; even the law and its ministrants and administrators would find themselves as a blind mule in a stable full of oats.

Farmer Into Business Man. Sundry pet notions of the sociologists, by no means confined to amateur thinkers, are strongly traversed by Prof. Walter Burr of the University of Missouri in his new volume, "Small Towns." The author has his own opinions about the celebrated drift from farm to city, its precise character and its national significance. He is vigorous in paying his respects to the widely accepted belief that the migrants from the farm are invariably the most gifted and ambitious elements in the rural community. This is a doctrine peculiarly precious to our newer literature and drama. All that is alive and aflame on the farm sooner or later escapes to the city. All that is sodden remains. From this point of view America's agricultural population, by a process of reverse selection, is steadily deteriorating in quality. If it is at the same time shrinking quantitatively, it would therefore be a real blessing.

Prof. Burr agrees that the decline in farm population is a good thing, but from quite a different premise. The best young men are not the only ones to leave the farm. With them have gone many of the worst. Along with the ambitious country lads who have set out for New York and Chicago have gone many who are forced out by lack of employment. Once it is established that the exodus to the city is not always a drain but often a good riddance, it is plain why our author is complacent about the process. He suggests a slogan, "Fewer and better farm people." This position is based only in part on the fact, by this time getting itself widely recognized, that with improved farming methods a nation can be fed by fewer farmers. Improved methods and machines call for the exercise of higher talents than were needed under a more primitive agricultural economy. They also call for more capital.

Farming is taking on more and more the character of a business. As such it makes its appeal to the young. Men have been known to come back from college and join dad in running "the business" of the farm. Tolerance Catholic, Protestant and Jew joined the other day at Harvard in a two-day discussion of religious intolerance and its political, social and economic consequences. Leading men and women from the social, professional, business and religious life of Boston took part in the round table. The purpose of the discussions was to clear up some of the misunderstandings arising from intolerance and bigotry and to sense the potential dangers therein. Prejudice feeds on a belief in counter-prejudice," President Lowell of Harvard told the conference. "Does loyalty to a nation or a church imply ill will to a rival, if that trait cannot be changed our civilization cannot progress to a better stage. If this is true that loyalty must be accomplished by hostility to those trying to get on in the same way, then man moves in a dismal circle."

A Jewish rabbi pointed out that all men live and die the same way, have largely the same interests, desires and hopes, share the same virtues and shortcomings, and are at last laid away in the same earth. What is needed, a Catholic priest told the conferees, "was the filter of charity and love of God that they might see each other in their true light." No one man or group of men has a monopoly on the divine truth. In their zeal for their own beliefs, many forget that the Constitution guaranteed freedom of worship to all men. In a nation as cosmopolitan as this all men cannot think alike. It is vital to its welfare, therefore, that there shall be respect for the convictions of others, belief in their sincerity and mutual good will. A religion which feeds on hatred and suspicion is after all, a pretty poor religion.

Christmas Savings Accounts. Holiday trade will not fail to feel the quickening influence of the Christmas savings bank accounts that will be distributed shortly. In the nation there are about 8,000 banks where these accounts are accumulated during the year and distributed just preceding Christmas, most of them shortly after Dec. 1. These banks will distribute to their savings customers a total of $18,925,000, and a large part of it will be taken out and distributed as the Christmas shopping is done.

Some millions of depositors will share in the distribution and in the spending tours that will follow receipt of the checks. So vast has this movement been developed that the largest department stores in the important cities are deeply interested in the distribution and employ much ingenuity in making their appeals to the thrifty savers who have accumulated the funds. Banks are active in promoting the accounts, give constant encouragement during the year to the depositors and find the work productive of many good results. While a large part of the deposits go for holiday shopping there are many who invest their savings or a part of it, and the number of investment depositors is said to show growth each year.

The coming distribution provides pleasure for the merchants and insures a lively shopping campaign by those who are thrifty and have made that measure of preparedness for the holidays.

Many Careless Hunters. Each year, when the hunting season arrives, many people wholly untrained in the use of firearms rush to the fields and woods in search of wild game. These inexperienced men are unfamiliar with the dangers they help create. They shoot wildly, without reference to direction or the presence of others in the range of fire. Each year the result is the same, many killed, a greater number wounded, and not much game brought in.

Many warnings have been uttered against the danger of pulling a gun through a fence or hedge, yet each year men are killed by their own guns handed in that careless fashion. These untrained hunters carry the gun with the muzzle pointed towards others. The careful hunter, knowing the hazards of hunting, keeps the muzzle of his gun toward the ground or the air. In case of accidental discharge there is the minimum of danger. Guns are powerful weapons, fashioned to kill, the heavy loads do kill, game or man, as the case may be. In frontier days each boy was taken to the fields and woods under the direction of a careful man, was trained in safety, was told that any man blamable in a fatal accident would lose his reputation as a hunter. Hunting, as it was known in frontier days, is a lost art. Real hunters go to distant places for real trips after game. The hunting done at home today is limited to a little duck shooting, a few days with the rabbits or squirrels. The fancy hunting the quail hunter knew is missing. Many amateurs are in the hunting squads today, and that accounts for the deaths and injuries.

The eminent syndicated medical scientists are now engaged in brightening the general outlook for the winter by pointing out that this holiday season is attended by the gravest dangers to health by reason of the unusual consumption of food, even endangering life itself, one of them bearing down particularly hard on the extreme likelihood of our acquiring a tape worm.

The only reason we'd like to be what is called a human dynamo is that then we might be able to get up enough power to get away from the man who is one when we see him coming.

Worry is absolutely fatal to beauty, declares an eminent authority on the subject in hand, apparently never having noticed a pretty girl with a run coming in her stocking.

"Another economic situation that worries a middle-aged man a great deal, as he compares our modern girls with his memories, is the probable condition of the starch industry.

Helen Wills, bless her heart, impresses us as a young woman, who, when licked in the doubles, would not say anything about how her partner played.

Post Office Dept. Announce Xmas Postal Regulations

The United States post office department gives this advice: "Mail early for delivery before Christmas Day, on which there will be no mail delivery."

The department, which is always overworked at the holiday time has issued some special instructions that the patrons are asked to follow.

All articles must be securely wrapped or packed. Use strong paper and heavy twine. Fragile objects—Articles easily broken or crushed must be crated or securely wrapped. Use liberal quantities of excelsior, or like material in around and between the articles and the outside container.

Glassware, fragile toys, crockery must be packed so as to prevent the escape of particles or pieces if broken in transit.

Cigars—Ordinary boxes of cigars wrapped in paper only will not be accepted. Pack in a manner to prevent damage by shock or jar. Wrap in corrugated pasteboard or similar material. All articles easily broken or damaged must be plainly marked "Fragile".

Perishable matter—Articles likely to spoil within the time reasonably required for transportation and delivery will not be accepted for mailing. Wrap or pack carefully according to contents and plainly mark as such parcels "Perishable." Use special delivery stamps to expedite delivery.

Addresses—Addresses should be complete, with house number and name of street, postoffice or rural route number, and typed or plainly written in ink. A return card should be placed in the upper left corner on every piece of mail. If a tag is used that address and return card should also be written on the wrapper for use if the tag is lost, and a copy of the address should be inclosed inside the parcel.

Postage—Postage must be fully prepaid on all mail. Affix the required amount of postage in the upper right corner. Full information concerning postage rates can be obtained at the parcel post or stamp window.

Limit of weight and size—No parcel may be more than 36 inches in length and girth combined. For delivery locally and in the first, second and third zones, 70 pounds is the maximum weight, in all other zones, 50 pounds.

Early Mailing—During the holiday time the volume of mail increases approximately 200 per cent. It is a physical impossibility to handle this great mass of mail matter efficiently unless promptly within a few days. Therefore to assure delivery of their Christmas presents, cards, and letters by Christmas Day the public should Shop and Mail Early. Do your Christmas shopping so that you can mail your gifts and greetings to relatives and friends, at least a week or 10 days before Christmas, according to the distance. This will not only make certain that they are received on or before Christmas Day, but will be a great aid to your postal service and enable them to spend Christmas Day with their families.

Christmas Cards—Patrons sending a quantity of Christmas cards, say 10 or more, should prepare and mail them two or three weeks in advance, as millions are mailed and they can not possibly be handled and delivered if mailed only two or three days before Christmas.

Christmas cards and gifts addressed to points within one day's travel should be mailed in no event later than Dec. 20; within two days travel, not later than Dec. 18; within three days' travel, not later than Dec. 16; for more distant points, not later than Dec. 14. Parcels and cards for local delivery should be mailed not later than Dec. 21. Parcels and envelopes may be indorsed, "Please do not open until Christmas."

Special Delivery Service—The use of a Special Delivery stamp will assure delivery on Christmas Day, if mailed at the proper time. Special Delivery service means the handling and transportation of parcels with the same expedition as first class better mail, as well as the immediate delivery at office of address. It is obtained by affixing a special delivery stamp of the proper denomination or its equivalent in ordinary stamps, in addition to the regular postage. When ordinary stamps are used, the words "Special Delivery" must be written or printed directly below, but not on the stamps. It is urged that all mailers desiring immediate delivery of any matter mailed by them affix Special Delivery stamps thereon. Special Delivery is for speed and not for safety. Valuable mail should be registered or insured.

Matter not Mailable at Parcel Post Rates—Written matter in the nature of personal correspondence can not be inclosed in parcels.

Communications attached to parcels: A letter placed in an envelope addressed to correspond with the address on the parcel and fully prepaid at the first class rate, may be tied or otherwise securely attached to the outside of the parcel in such manner as to prevent separation therefrom and not obscure the address on the parcel.

Insure or Register Valuable Mail—All valuable domestic third and fourth class mail should be insured.

Insurance fees: Value not exceeding $5, 5 cents; not exceeding $25, 8 cents; not exceeding $50, 10 cents; not exceeding $100, 25 cents.

Coin, currency, jewelry, and articles of similar value should be sent as sealed first class registered mail.

Domestic Collect on Delivery

Service—Domestic third and fourth class matter may be sent C. O. D. from one money order post office to another. Sealed domestic mail of any class prepaid at first class rate of postage may also be sent C. O. D. either as registered or unregistered mail.

Fees for all unregistered C. O. D. mail (in addition to regular postage) 12 cents, when amount to be collected does not exceed $10; 15 cents when the amount does not exceed $50 and 25 cents when the amount does not exceed $100. The C. O. D. fee also covers insurance for actual value against loss or damage up to $10 for a 12 cent fee; up to $50 for a 15 cent fee; and $100 for a 25 cent fee. Consult postmaster as to fees for registered C. O. D. mail.

Parcels for Foreign Countries—Parcels of mailable merchandise may be sent (subject to certain limitations and conditions) by international parcel post to all foreign countries except Tristan Da Cunha. Foreign parcel post packages should be mailed at the main office or large classified stations.

DRIVER KILLED WHEN TROLLEY STRIKES TRUCK

COLLISION WITH INTERURBAN ON U. S. 31 COSTS LIFE FRANK ALLEN

Frank C. Allen, driver of a South Bend bakery truck was fatally hurt Saturday morning when his truck was struck and demolished by a south bound interurban car at the Riverbluff crossing on U. S. 31 just north of Niles.

Motorman S. D. Wooley of Niles, who was in charge of the interurban, stated that he was approaching the crossing at 35 miles an hour, when he saw the truck coming at a high rate of speed. When he saw a collision was imminent he applied the car air brakes, but too late, and the front trolley struck the front end of the big truck, tearing it to pieces and turning the truck over. A door was wrenched from the truck and Allen was thrown clear. He was found afterward lying unconscious on the ground.

The impact tore the front of the interurban vestibule off and Motorman Wooley was pinned to his seat by the shaft of the hand brake wheel. Conductor A. C. Frame of St. Joseph was hurled to the floor but was able to get up again and calm the 20 passengers, none of whom were injured beyond slight bruises. The car was derailed and jolted down the ties 300 feet before it stopped, the emergency air brake having been severed in the collision.

HOW NEW MEDICINE ENDED
YEARS OF STOMACH TROUBLE.

MR. ARTHUR HART

"Wonderful are the merits of this famous Konjola," said Mr. Arthur Hart, 8 Pleasant Street, S. E., Grand Rapids. "Years ago I became afflicted with stomach trouble of the worst sort. I immediately began taking medicines and treatments but daily I grew worse. Food failed to digest, no matter what I ate. Fermentation caused gas bloating, smothering spells and wild heart palpitations.

"Wisely finally decided that what Konjola had done for others it would do for me. I started with the treatment and soon realized that I was on the right track; that health was just around the corner. The stomach trouble became less severe, and then, like magic, all traces of this ailment vanished. I am feeling fine, and praise Konjola with all my heart and soul."

Konjola is sold in Buchanan at W. N. Broderick's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

11 Hunters Killed in North Woods In Deer Season

Carelessness with guns caused seven deaths during Michigan's 1929 deer season.

There were eleven fatalities in the northern woods during the recent deer hunting season, according to reports received by the Department of Conservation.

Seven were killed in the upper peninsula and four in the lower peninsula of the state. Twenty-three men were injured in one way or another during the deer season, the reports show. Six were wounded when they were mistaken for deer in the woods; three were struck by stray bullets. One man was injured when a bullet aimed at a rabbit struck a tree and glanced back and struck him. One hunter lost an eye when a deer ran from the woods and plunged his head thru the window beside the hunter who was driving a car. One of the buck's prongs struck the driver in the left eye. A southern Michigan hunter was severely burned when his tent caught fire. Another hunter was injured when he was mistaken for a rabbit. He was shot in the leg. The toll of hunting accidents in Michigan since Sept. 1, is now 26 dead and 38 injured. Before the deer season opened 14 had been killed, most of them in duck hunting accidents. During the deer season there was one fatality among rabbit hunters, a gun accidentally exploding as two rabbit hunters were in their home preparing their guns for hunting. The Department of Conservation is now compiling detailed data concerning each hunting accident in an attempt to find fundamental causes.

According to the laws of France the municipalities have the right to grant to a French undertaking establishment the exclusive privilege to supervise all funeral services.

Airplane ambulance service from New York to about 20 cities, is now provided by Colonial Flying service.

3 Oaks All Stars Play Gilbert Five Saturday Evening

The Three Oaks All Stars won their first conference game last Saturday night, defeating the Gary Lo X team 39-18. The former Three Oaks high school stars, Beckathorne, Alcorn, and Johnson, of Benton Harbor, and Johnson, of Three Oaks, furnish the Featherbone aggregation a formidable lineup, and when the rough edges are polished off, the quartet should be able to remain near the top of the Northern Indiana association with which they play. Next Saturday night, the All Stars will play the Gilberts of South Bend. Last year the Gilberts defeated Three Oaks 28-25. The result Saturday will indicate the scoring power of the team this season.

Alcohol Plays Part of Water Detective

Alcohol is now acting the part of a detective in a method which was perfected by members of the soils department at Michigan State College to determine the amount of moisture in a soil.

Old methods of measuring the quantity of water in the soil required that the soil be taken to a laboratory and dried in an oven for 24 hours. The new method permits the investigator to tell in five minutes in the field how much water the soil contains.

No matter how fertile a soil is, plants cannot grow unless there is water present in the soil to allow the plant food to go into solution and be taken up by the plant. Clay should contain 35 per cent moisture, sand should have 12 per cent, and loam soils need 20 per cent of water to enable plants to make rapid growth.

Soils which are low in water content can be improved by an application of organic matter, or the soils can be filled by methods which build dust mulches on the surface. Organic matter increases the soil's water holding capacity and a dust mulch decreases the amount of water evaporated from the soil.

Soil bacteria, especially those which fix nitrogen in the soil, multiply most rapidly in moist soils.

Saginaw Farmers Pooling to Sell Surplus Herd Bulls

Dairy farmers who belong to the Saginaw Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association have found that the pooling of interests pays in selling surplus bull calves as well as interesting their herds for production.

Ten bull calves were sold for an average price of $100 at a consignment sale held at Hemlock. The records of the dams of these bulls had been determined by the testing work and each buyer of a calf knew just what he was purchasing.

Buyers from five nearby communities attended the sale. Top price in the sale was obtained for a calf, consignment by A. C. Tessin, Hemlock, and sold to John Young, Reese.

The value of bull club work which enables the owner to determine the worth of a herd sire before he is sold to the butcher was shown in this sale where eight of the ten calves were sons of one excellent sire. The top price calf was one of the eight and his dam had a production record of 999.49 pounds of butterfat in one year.

A member of the bull club, William Watson, Hemlock, acted as sales manager. A. B. Love, Sagi-

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful at every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping. Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine."

DETROIT TO BUILD 26 MI. SPEEDWAY OVER R. R. TRACK

The proposed motor speedway over the Grand Trunk Detroit Pontiac right of way will be the first of its kind in this country. The only other place in the world where there is a motor speedway over railroad lines is at Lake Como, Italy, where there are 18 miles of speedway over railroad lines. The development will be 26 miles long when completed.

Joseph A. Bower, of New York, who has just completed construction of the Ambassador bridge, will build the speedway. The McClintic-Marshall Company, contractors on the bridge, have been taking figures on the speedway for some time.

The speedway will be a toll road with motorists paying a charge to be decided upon later. It will be divided into zones and the charge for its use will be based on the number of zones traversed. It will be constructed on the columns carrying the overhead wires of the electrified system. The surface will be asphalted and will be 40 feet wide with guard walls and lights on the sides.

Four streams of traffic are provided for in the present speedway plans, the inner line in each direction being for high speed, while

PAINFUL CORNS

Loosen—Lift Out

A little known Japanese herb, the discovery of an eminent German scientist (Dr. Stickel) instantly soothes the corn, callous or wart, then loosens it so that shortly you can lift it right out. This new discovery called "Corn Fly" excites the white blood corpuscles to action and granulates the corn at its root so that it drops out and leaves no trace of scar or soreness.

You will also find "Corn Fly Foot Bath Powder" a boon for sore, tired or perspiring feet.

Because we have made a special arrangement with the Brown Shoe Company, one of the world's greatest shoe manufacturers, we are now able to offer you newer, smarter styles and finer quality footwear than ever before and at lower prices. We are still independent merchants. We own and operate our own business the same as always... but we now have behind us a national organization. Its staff of style specialists is at our service... insuring you footwear as fashionable as any store in the nation can offer. Its 17 factories sell over $55,000,000 worth of the nation's shoe needs yearly. This immense volume means a greater purchasing power and lower manufacturing costs. Its staff of experts in retailing cooperates with us in managing our business at a minimum expense. All of this creates savings all along the line from raw material, straight through to you. We know your needs—your likes and dislikes. You will find us better equipped to serve you than ever before. You will find a finer, smarter stock of the newest shoes at the lowest possible prices due to our having linked our store directly to this great national manufacturer.
