

Now Here's the Proposition

MOTHER'S DAY, 1945 "Hush, be still as any mouse, There's a baby in the house," It was mother singing it so, My young mother looking down, Clocks of rose and hani of brown, Watching ere the day was dead, O' a lowly trundle bed, While the dark raised shadowy bars In the first watch of the stars

Though that cradle song she sung Long ago when she was young There are those who don't forget— Hush be still I hear it yet, Down the miles and down the years, Ere the shrouding darkness nears Still remember ministering hands And a voice that understands, And I wait that voice until All my heart is hushed and still B. Haws

Long Years Ago

Probably it might bring some local memories up with a jerk, if you should ask them whether they remembered the trial black-outs, and all the machinery of air raid that was set up in Buchanan in the winter and spring of 1942 in the first few months after the United States entered the European War

Do you remember how the amateur strategists, plus some other strategists who were anything but amateur, were demonstrating how easy it would be for German suicide planes to fly the direct line to Chicago and "adjacent areas"? Do you remember the wild reports of mysterious planes seen over Canada headed this way?

Do you remember sitting curiously if not breathlessly, in your home with you hand on the light switch so you wouldn't be napping when the black-out siren sounded? Do you remember how sometimes you couldn't hear the siren? Do you remember all the shady black-out jokes? If you do, it's time to black 'em out.

It all seems rather unreal now, and in fact there's been so much in between that it's something you'd never think of at all if it were not called to your attention. Unless you were a captain or the air raid wardens, of course, and a key figure in those stirring days

Of course, it all was necessary— as it turned out. It was unnecessary because of all the boys who climbed aboard buses by the old town clock or on trains at the depot and went over and met 'em on the other side before they even had a chance to get set for a push across. It could so very easily have turned out otherwise

It didn't, but the home front immunity has not been without its price. All of which was brought to mind by a conversation with Carl Longworth, chairman of Civilian Defense at that time and since, Carl appeared before the city commission Monday evening and offered to sell the city four perfectly good and entirely unused sirens which were posted in each corner of the city in the summer of 1942

These sirens were brought from the proceeds of scrap drives of that summer, when the town rolled in the old iron and raised $643, which was turned over to the Civilian Defense fund. An organization of 183 was formed by Chairman Longworth and the town was organized block by block for the trial black-outs which were called on short notice by the state Office of Civilian Defense. The town was divided into four districts, each with an air raid captain in charge. Each district was then divided into four sub-districts, each with a lieutenant in charge. Then each block had a lesser officer in charge. Two men were assigned, one on each side of the street, for every block. A telephone system was set up for speedy reports. Two black-outs were held. In the first it took over seven minutes for all of the town to report in that all lights were out. In the second the organization was tightened up and the boys were all on their toes, the reports were all in in something like two minutes and 25 seconds, which was called something of a record by the representatives of the Michigan Office of Civilian Defense, who was here to watch the boys through their paces.

Lowell Swem was field marshal of the air raid wardens, M. H. McKinnin was in charge of the special police, and Dr. J. C. Strayer was in charge of first aid

State Requests Large Mark-Up Local Valuation

Board Review Advances Real Estate $139,000; Point To Personal For Remainder

Property valuations of the City of Buchanan have been increased $139,000 over the 1944 valuation of $4,696,450, according to H. E. Squier, city assessor, as the result of an equalization of residence properties which was recently made by him in co-operation with the city board of review.

However this is only a fraction of the increase which has been asked by the county board of supervisors, who have requested a raise to $5,961,588 in partial conformance with still higher valuations requested by the state board of equalization. The advance of $139,000 so far attained by the local board of review is only one-ninth of the advance asked by the county board.

City Assessor Squier stated in his opinion this elevation would not be reached unless he received an approval from the city commission for a very considerable mark-up in personal property valuations. These valuations consist of stock and fixtures in the case of mercantile establishments, and stock plus the tools and equipment to process such stock in the case of industrial establishments.

Assessor Squier has received the following letter from the state board of equalization indicating what, in their opinion, are the discrepancies between assessed valuations in Michigan in comparison with real values.

Dear Sir: As a guide to enable Berrien County assessing officers to adjust the assessed valuations of property in their assessing districts, the State Tax Commission, in response to a resolution of the Berrien County Board of Supervisors, and conforming to statements made at the hearing on equalization, is pleased to submit the percentage ratios of assessed value to actual value on the various classes of property in your district as determined by the analysis and appraisals of our field staff during their investigation.

Classifications Personal Real Residence 49.59% Business 51.51 55.29% Vacant 80.00% Utilities 46.99 80.83% Corporations 27.91 55.29%

The above percentage ratios were used by the commission as a basis in determining the equalization of Berrien County which resulted in your assessing district's percentage ratio of the county total being adjusted to 57.049%.

Generally assessed valuations of property in assessing district in question range from 23 to 80% of actual value, and to correct this lack of uniformity, the commission requests that the assessed valuations in your district be adjusted to:

(a) a uniform ratio of assessment to actual value between properties of similar classification of property, (b) increase low ratio properties so that the total assessed value of your district will be equitable with other districts.

This will provide adequate valuation for the taxable income required by school, municipal, township, and county government, and will eliminate drastic adjustment of township and city valuations by county equalization. This should also materially assist in establishing a total county assessed value conforming to the equalized value as determined for state equalization.

The commission solicits your hearty cooperation and hopes that every effort will be expended by you and other assessing officers to adjust the inequities of assessed values so apparent within your county, so that Berrien county, in every unit, will have that uniformity in taxation that property owners are entitled to under the general property tax laws of Michigan.

Very truly yours, Louis N. Nims, Chairman State Tax Commission County assessed valuation, 1944, $90,625,610, equalized valuation by state supervisors, 1944, $104,713,200, aggregate of valuation as equalized by state board, 1944, $120,500,000.

Knight Wore No Parachute When Mail Flying Was "Legalized Murder"

Believed That It Was Duty Of Pilot To "Go Down With The Ship"

Correct us if we're wrong but it seems to us that sometimes we heard a story to the effect that while Ensign John Pulka, now in training at a southern air field, some one flew an antique "crate" into the field and landed it.

The air cadets were called out to see it and were told that that was "the kind of a plane that Jack Knight used to fly the air mail with." The cadets were invited to try it out. However, the rickety skeleton didn't look good to them—and as far as that goes they would not have been permitted to fly it anyway.

The death of Captain Jack Knight last February at the comparatively early age of 53 was lamented as untimely, and yet it must be said that only the best of good fortune in addition to a genius for armsmanship kept him alive to that age.

A cool-headed flyer, he yet had a streak of the daredevil in him, and already during his army days in World War I he was known as a daring stunt flyer. As an aviator, however, his record indicates that he was a cool and branny pilot.

who flew in a business-like manner to get things done rather than to crash headlines. But his business at best was dangerous. About ten years after he started as an aerial pilot in 1919 (Jack had an unfortunate habit of pasting clippings in his scrapbook without dating them) the following appeared in the Omaha World-Herald: "As you look at the maneuvering of the flyers in the air meet which opens Friday at the municipal airfield, give a thought to the adventurous business flying was in the early days of the air mail.

"There were 22 of those original mail pilots. Only four of these are now alive. Of the 18 dead, most of them lost their lives in the service in the early days. One of the survivors is Jack Knight, who now lives in Chicago.

"Next Sunday's World-Herald will have an interesting article about Knight. This flyer has traveled over a million miles on his air mail routes. He does not carry a parachute; it's too much of a bother for a pilot to get around with such a harness strapped on him. According to Jack, taking a taxi to the airfield is more dangerous than flying these days. Next Sunday's article will be entitled, "Wrote His Will Above The Clouds and Went Down to Die But Didn't." The article is based on a thrilling experience that occurred early in Knight's career.

We looked for that article in the scrapbook but apparently Jack missed it. About that flying without a parachute though—there's more to that story. As Jack took on more responsibility in carrying mail and passengers he took the attitude that the honorable thing to do was to go without the parachute and take his chances with the plane.

An article in the Chicago Evening Post, March 5, 1932, says: "Knight has never worn a parachute. He belongs to that select corps of veteran flyers who do not believe in abandoning ship and a parachute, he thinks, is one of the most uncomfortable pieces of equipment ever designed.

"Some flyers when they find themselves caught above a fog bank 'bail out' and let their ship crash. "If I am fool enough to let myself get caught in that predicament," philosophized Knight, "I'm willing to take my chances with the plane. I can't jump. I have no parachute. And I wouldn't if I could. It isn't the ship's fault that it's flying around there above the fog. It's mine. And I'll do everything I can to set it down in a good place as I can find it.

"A ship's captain," he pointed out, "wouldn't abandon his vessel when danger threatened. Why should an aviator?" "Three or four times the plane he piloted caught on fire, once the celluloid windshield 'directly in front of him burned off. But on each occasion he managed to quench the flames by side-slipping or diving and brought his ship down safely. Several times structural failures have nearly cost him his life, but he has never even wished that he had a parachute so that he could jump. Once while flying over the mountains between Cleveland and New York, a course which flyers think the most dangerous in the country, he hit a tree, splintering several struts and knocking off a wing tip. "There wasn't any place I could land there," he grinned, "so I flew on about five miles." One of the newer school of pilots would have bailed out without further thought. (To Be Continued)

Had Made Home In Buchanan After Retiring From Chicago Business

Gottlieb Thumm, a summer resident of Buchanan for many years, died at 3 a. m. Thursday, May 3, in a Chicago hospital after suffering many years with a heart ailment and infirmities of age.

Mr. and Mrs. Thumm owned a home at 603 Main street, which was almost entirely destroyed by fire last February. The fire was evidently set by an unknown person or persons who had broken in and vandalized the place previously.

The Thumms were at their winter home on Captiva Island, Fla., when the fire occurred. Mr. Thumm had spent several weeks in a hospital in Florida the latter part of the winter. Because of the loss of their home they did not live here when they returned from Florida. They went for a short time to live with a nephew at Berrien Springs, and then to Chicago.

Heavy Downpour Deluges Number Store Basements

Normal May Quota Of Rain Nearly Reached In First 10 Days

A number of basements in the business district were more or less deluged following the near-cloud-burst of Monday afternoon, when 1.25 inches fell in a short time, with a total of 1.61 inches for the entire rain.

In part the water came from McCoy's Creek, in which the stream last night several times its ordinary current. More troublesome were those that were filled when the storm sewers along the south side of Front street were overloaded with water and backed up into several basements.

The total rainfall for the month up to May 7 was 3.28, nearly reaching the May average of 3.65 inches.

The weather has continued cold and backward, with temperatures below the forty mark here Wednesday morning. As a result of the cold weather crop and fruit growth has been retarded. Blossoms on fruit trees never came out in full display but struggled through nearly six weeks. However the display of red bud blossoms was a notable event, and compared with from ten to fifteen days in normal seasons.

Jordan made a plea for a united participation in "prayer to God that He will support us to the end of our struggle and guide us into the way of peace." He read the Gettysburg address by Lincoln as an expression fitting for this time. Rev. Kretzschmer made a plea that all Christians dedicate themselves to the recreation of a peaceful world.

Rev. Malcolm McNeal and Elder Coonare took part in the program. A V-E service arranged by the student council was held Tuesday at 10 a. m. in the high school auditorium for the students of the elementary and senior high school. Emory Toogood was the chairman. DON'T TELL IT

If you do a good deed every day To help a fellow on his way, Why tell it? Telling every thing you do Spoils the good it does for you, So why tell it?

When you see a fellow down Help him up, don't let him drown Why tell it?

There is good in every one When you find it you have won So why tell it?

Drop a card or write a letter To the sick and wish him better

Then don't tell it; What you do to help a brother Will help that one to help another So why tell it.

Bring 'em back for good... sooner!

That final home-coming day! That's what we're all hoping for... praying for... earnestly! But there's a tough road ahead, that road to Tokyo. Don't think it won't be tough. It will take a lot more ships, more B-29's. More tanks, half-tracks, jeeps, and trucks! More rockets, mortars, air-borne radar! More of everything will be needed. And more bonds... we'll have to buy more bonds than ever before. Our mighty armed forces have taken us a long way. To buy more bonds is the least we can do in return.

Leslie W. Zillman, Appointed Berrien County Agr. Agent

Announcement was made Thursday of the formal appointment of Leslie W. Zillman, St. Joseph, as the Berrien county agricultural agent by the Michigan board of agriculture.

He succeeds Harry J. Lurkins, who served as the county agent here for the past 20 years and who retired last month for health reasons.

Zillman has been serving as the acting county agent for the past six months. His appointment became effective on Tuesday.

Mr. Zillman is well qualified to fill the post in one of the nation's leading fruit producing counties. He has a wide knowledge of all phases of the agriculture industry. The new county agent is a native of the Michigan fruit belt. He was born in VanBuren county near South Haven and has resided in this section of the state all of his life. He attended the South Haven high school from 1922 to 1926 and then graduated from Michigan State college, where he majored in agriculture, four years later.

Since he graduated from college he has taught agriculture at Covert, Hartford and Berrien Springs high schools until he was appointed Mr. Lurkin's assistant in July of 1943.

Mr. Zillman is well liked by fruit growers and farmers whom he has served and he was recommended for the new post by the agricultural committee of the Berrien county board of supervisors.

It was reported that efforts will be made to obtain a new assistant for Mr. Zillman as soon as possible.

Be It Resolved, that the 18th day of May, 1945, is hereby designated as "Buddy Poppy Day" in the City of Buchanan, and that the patriotic citizens of this community are hereby urged to be generous in their purchases of Buddy Poppies which should be worn on Memorial Day by everyone as evidence of our desire to honor the memory of America's hero dead by helping the living.

LeRoy Sheppardson Meets Jack Morris
The following letter was received by Mr. and Mrs M C Sheppardson, Gahen, from their son, LeRoy, serving with the Third Armored Engineers in Germany.

Dear Mom and Dad It is about time your long-lost son sat down and dropped you a few lines to let you know he's still around.

I don't believe you'll ever know him when he gets back for he'll never change his clothes, never sleep in a bed and never eat at a table.

I finally saw the article in Life about Cologne which you spoke about in your last letter. It is just as the picture showed it, only you can't really realize it until you see it. The first time I saw the Rhine it was a surprise. It looked just like the St Joseph river to me. It was near — and that's about all I can say about that.

You wanted an iron cross and a flag. Well, I have a whole box of junk to send if I can ever get around to it. Maybe I'll even send you a rifle.

I almost forgot to tell you that I ran into Jack Morris a couple of days ago. He is miles behind us now. He looked very well — in fact if anything he's putting on weight.

Dear Mom and Dad
I am located down here in Florida at Camp Blanding. I was transferred to the 215th En. Co C, U. S. Infantry and we are training every day. I carry a Springfield rifle, weight 10 pounds, a shovel or a pick and full pack about 90 pounds in all. We carry this on our back all day and the sun is really hot. I can take it O. K., only my feet, the shoes are so heavy that at night my feet hurt so I can hardly sleep.

Tell all the folks around Buchanan to write to me as I sure like to hear from home. You don't know how much it means to get a letter from home, and does it let a guy down when mail call is on and there is nothing for you. Love and best wishes to all.

My address is Pvt Robert G Travis, A S N 46015592, Co C, 215 En I T B, Camp Blanding, Fla.
