Short Circuit Fire Threatens E. Starr Home

Sudden Spread of Flames Curbed by Prompt Work of Fire Department

Fire originating in a short circuit in the furnace room in the basement of the Elmon Starr home at 408 Charles Court...

The fire started suddenly about 9:30 a. m. Friday. Mrs. Starr heard the door chimes making short rings and went to the door...

The fire department was called and made a quick run to the scene, attaching the hose to fire plugs at each end of Charles Court...

Breaking the basement water inside. One of the firemen put on a mask and ventured into the basement, locating the origin about some wiring under the living room floor...

Only the promptness of the arrival of the fire department and the fact that a very substantial double floor constituting the floor of the living room and the ceiling of the furnace room slowed down the spread of the fire to the rooms above...

The entire upper interior was stained with smoke, but except for some blistered varnish on baseboards and floor over the hot test part of the fire there was little damage about the basement, where the flames had been confined...

Shorty Mitchell's Publish Tabloid For Soldier Guests

The writer had the pleasure this past week of looking over a mimeographed "tabloid" of two pages which Mr. and Mrs. Ward Mitchell had started for the benefit of the Buchanan boys who had made their home a social center while in the vicinity of San Diego, Cal. The top masthead where the name of a publication usually appears was occupied by a row of question marks, with a prize offered for the best name proposed.

The tabloid was mimeographed on one side of two sheets of paper of ordinary correspondence size, 8 1/2 x 11 inches. The mailing list consisted of boys who had frequented their home, the following being mentioned: Pvt. R. H. Trapp, Harold W. Doak, Pfc. E. R. Verdy, T/Sgt. C. R. Worden, S. Sgt. Morton Schackow, Cpl. Marion Cummins, Philip E. Sands, ACM 3/c, Pfc. Allen Greer, T/Sgt. R. B. Hess, R. L. Bromley, S. Sgt. R. E. Six, Cpl. Homer Knapp.

The news was taken from letters that the former house guests wrote in. On the second page is the picture of a dog house, with the legend "Fido" at the top, and beside the entrance the names of Phil Sands, Dick Penwell and Dick Trapp, representing those who had not been writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Chandos Jackson were referred to as a part of the "hangout" circle.

Mrs. William Donley returned Sunday from Indianapolis where she had spent several days with her son, Carson and family.

Sailors Cuss Ships But Wallop Others Who Dare Cuss Them

Sailors hate their ships while at sea, but they love them on shore, according to Clayburn Gooch, 1 1/2, who goes today after a 36-day leave spent at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gooch, 219 North Detroit.

Young Gooch had served ten months on a battleship in the Pacific, going through six major battles. At Pearl Harbor a section of the crew were drafted to leave for service on a new ship on the Atlantic. Gooch stated that many of the boys left their old ship with tears in their eyes.

During long voyages you would never guess any sea affection for the ship, but when they apply to their ship such epithets as "pig iron" being among the few printable ones. But once they go down the gang plank on shore leave it's quite another story.

Anyone venturing a slighting remark about the ship is risking a fight on the spot.

Gooch went through six major engagements in the Central Pacific Theatre of Operations, including the battles of Tarawa and Eniwetok.

All of these engagements were fights against shore batteries or Japanese planes, and not at all the old-style naval engagements in which ship fought ship. In fact his ship never encountered any Japanese warships, with the exception of a number of torpedo boats. Gooch saw a number of torpedo boats finished off, after they had been compelled to surface by depth charges from destroyers.

The crew of the battleship, on which he served were grounded several days on a small island in the central Pacific for rest and recreation. Since the island was entirely deserted, the "recreation" consisted of climbing coconut trees after nuts and swimming. Just off the island was a partially sunken Japanese merchant vessel on which Gooch and his buddies based themselves for diving. Gooch dove down into the vessel and brought up several souvenirs, including a case of small-arms shells. On the case was the word "Winchester."

Sailor Gooch had seen some very vivid service and some hot conflict, but mention of the "hot-test" is omitted.

John Stanley Also Served in Burma Marauders

Rank Hiked From Private to T/Sgt. For Bravery in Combat

The following story from a paper published in Lawrenceville, Ill., concerns a former resident of Buchanan and employee of the Clark Equipment Company, Tech Sgt. John L. Stanley. Stanley stayed at the James Gray home at 210 E. 4th street, while employed at Clark's.

The story follows: New Delhi, India—From private to technical sergeant is a long gap but John L. Stanley made it in one big jump as the result of his excellent combat record. T/Sgt. Stanley was a member of Merrill's Marauders, who made the 700-mile march to Myitkyna, Japanese Burma stronghold, and won a presidential citation for their exploits behind the Japanese lines.

In the first contact with the enemy, Sgt. Stanley was caught 50 yards in front of his men and was pinned down by Jap machine gun fire. He placed the gun with four well-placed hand grenades and returned to his squad where they had already established a defense line. Before the campaign, was over this sector was known as "Coffin Corner."

On another occasion the Chinese forced about 150 Japanese between two American units. A patrol was needed and Stanley was one of the group of twelve who volunteered. Leading the group through 600 yards of enemy positions, Stanley and his men accounted for ten Japs, two of whom were officers. Unable to advance further, he returned to his company with his section intact, and gave valuable information to his commanding officer.

Stanley has been in the army 26 months, the last six of which had been spent in CBI-land, and has personally accounted for eight Japanese.

Fred Richter Cleans Up Mt. Zion Cemetery as Tribute to Buried Pioneers

(This week we defer the remainder of Frank Noggle's stories to print a chapter by Fred Richter, which he has had on hand several weeks.)

In Walter Scott's novel, "Old Mortality" is told the story of a Scotch character of the 18th century, who spent over 40 of his 75 years traveling on horseback through the regions of Ayrshire, Galloway and Dumfriesshire, Scotland, working without pay in restoring inscriptions on old tombstones.

In the preface of the novel, Scott explained that his character was based on a real person, Robert Paterson 1715-1801, who actually followed that vocation during his wanderings he became lost to his own family and at death was laid in an unmarked grave.

Not to make any comparison, our friend, Fred Richter, postmaster and historian of Dayton, spent most of his spare time last—but here's his own story.

During the past summer I spent many hours in Mt. Zion cemetery (a mile south of Dayton), mowing the weeds and grass that had grown so high that very few of the grave markers could be seen in the west half of that cemetery.

By the time this article appears in the Record, if the editor thinks it is worth the space, I will have the work completed and will be glad that I have, at least shown my respect to those buried there.

It was quite interesting as I walked along and stopped to read the names on the markers and thought how many years had passed since they were buried there. About four out of five markers in that cemetery are marked with slabs, some very large and some very small. Most of the names on them are still readable though badly weatherbeaten.

One granite monument about 12 feet high and with a base four feet square, was erected by the Dear-doff and Wilson families in 1875. This monument is believed to have been imported from France. The following Wilson children are buried near it: Ransom, Manville, Granville and Martha Wilson. The remaining name on the monument is that of Christina Dear-doff, possibly of the village of Dayton, and property addition named after the Wilsons and Dear-doffs. Consequently they were probably pioneer property owners in the village.

Many markers in this old cemetery are inscribed with the names of the Reddings and the Wilsons, of whom there were many living in Dayton many years ago.

The oldest marker I found, and I doubt that it represented the first burial in the cemetery was one for Permelia Redding, wife of B. M. Redding. She died Dec. 27, 186, 108 years ago. My guess is that the husband was the founder and first postmaster of Dayton. He was buried in the Niles cemetery where he was buried beside the mother in the Mt. Zion cemetery. Permelia died 1844; Elizabeth, died 1838; Sarah in 1840; Benjamin in 1837. They all died very young, probably from a contagious disease, quite common in those days, which doctors could then do very little for. There is also an Ezekiel Redding and his wife, Rebekah, who died only a month apart in 1858.

The old cemetery is also dotted here and there with the markers of war veterans. One was a soldier of the American Revolution, nine of the Civil War, and one of World War I.

The soldier of the Revolution buried in Mt. Zion cemetery was William Ferguson, who according to the data on the stone, was born in Virginia in 1760, served under General George Washington for a period during the Revolutionary War, and died in 1844, at the age of 84.

Mrs. G. H. Batchelor, 111 West Third street, was able to furnish me complete information on William Ferguson. She stated that he was her great grandfather, and that he was believed to have been living with some one of his family near Dayton at the time of his death. It was not until some time after his death that the stone was erected by his granddaughter, the grandmother of Mrs. Batchelor, Mrs. Rosalinda Ferguson. This granddaughter, who knew from acquaintance with her grandfather the story of his service in

C. A. P. To Rush Clothes By Plane To Cleveland, O.

Asked to Get Wearable Clothing to Niles Airport by This Evening

The Civilian Air Patrol of this district has been designated as the collecting agency for gathering clothing for people who lost their homes in the great Cleveland fire, according to word received by Commander William Gowell Tuesday.

Since the need is acute, the Civilian Air Patrol intends to make a rapid canvass and to take all clothing they can get to the Civilian Air Patrol headquarters at the Niles airport by this evening (Thursday). The garments will be flown by plane Friday morning to Kalamazoo and all garments gathered in this area will be flown from that point to Cleveland to meet an immediate urgency.

Local C. A. P. members are urged to get together any clothing they may have to spare and any they can get from others and to get it to the C. A. P. headquarters by this Thursday evening. There will be someone at the headquarters until late in the evening to receive it. Any others who may wish to help should get their donations to a local C. A. P. member at once. This matter is being rushed because the need in Cleveland is acute. They need clothing NOW.

There was also a Civil War veteran by the name of Frank Weaver, a brother of Cret Weaver. For many years he was railway agent and telegraph operator at the Dayton station for the Michigan Central. Where he was buried I never knew, but I believe he was killed in the Civil War. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Weaver, were residents of Dayton many years ago.

Civil War veterans who were buried in the Mt. Zion cemetery who have markers include William DeArmond, Henry Rozelle, James Tallman, Charles H. Bryant, James LaVelle, David Salsbury, Monroe Redding. The World War No. 1 veteran buried there is Pvt. Leland S. Nickerson, who is interred on the Batten lot, and was therefore probably related to that family.

Clothing Needed in Devastated Home

John Jennings arrived Thursday from Nebraska, called back by news of the fire that had devastated his home at 122 West Smith street the previous Monday, badly damaging the interior, destroying bed furnishings and bedding of the family clothing except what they had on at the time.

Clothing is needed by the family, who number the following woman of average height but slender, girl of seven; three boys 5, 4 and 2 1/2 years old, the father, a man of average height and build. The fire started from unknown cause in a clothes closet between two bedrooms. The closet was packed with all of the family clothing. Mattress and bedding were destroyed on all of the three family beds as the flames went through wall-board partitions into both rooms.

The fire was first seen by the children who were playing in the street, the mother having gone to a neighbor's home.

Mrs. Mary Smyser of Cassopolis was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Elta Danno during the week-end.

Maroons Gain Confidence From Win Over Coloma

Hope to Avenge 52-0 Defeat by 3 Rivers in 1943

The Buchanan Bucks, spurred on by evidence of backfield improvement in the Coloma game and by memories of a 52-0 drubbing by Three Rivers last year, went to the latter eleven under the lights at Athletic Field Friday afternoon.

The opening kick-off will be made at 7:30 p. m. sharp. Single entrance tickets may be purchased at the gate for 42 cents, plus 8 cents tax. While the Buchanan boys have been suffering reverses in their games to date comparative scores reveal that they improved much over last year, and are working determinedly against handicaps of lack of experience and weight in games against elevens from much larger schools. Their showing against Coloma indicates much backfield improvement. Last year they defeated Coloma only 14 to 0, this year by 40-0.

Buchanan defeated Coloma here Wednesday evening of last week 40-0. Buchanan's first touchdown was made in the first quarter by a series of end runs, Gene Wesner carrying the ball, with excellent blocking from the Bucks' hard-charging forward line.

The Maroons made their next marker in the second quarter when Lowell-Dokey made a nice kick to Coloma's one-yard line, from which point the Maroons plunged over for their second touchdown. Then the small but mighty Wesner went over for another, leaving the tally 20-0 in favor of the locals at the end of the half.

In the third quarter Buchanan merely held their gains, but in the fourth the backfield went on another rampage. During this session, Freshman Don Gray, "feet-footed" Louie Gray and "Speed" Letcher each carried the ball ball across into pay dirt. The Bucks used some new plays in this game that may help the team in the remaining games of the Big Seven schedule.

Wednesday's victory seemed to fill the boys with confidence and plenty of fighting spirit for the coming game Friday night with Three Rivers.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"We can't argue with the Judge on that point, can we Mabel? It's not fair to penalize the many for the actions of the few."
 "That, folks, is exactly what we would be doing in this country if we ever voted for prohibition again. Authorities who have made a careful study of the problem, report that only about 5% of those who drink abuse the privilege occasionally... 95% drink sensibly. Probably doesn't compare with the number of folks who've eat and do other things to excess. Prohibition certainly isn't the answer. It's not that simple We had nearly 14 years proof of that, didn't we?

 "The real answer is education and better control. In fact, the responsible members of the distilling industry are working constantly toward that end. They don't want anybody to abuse the use of their product any more than the three of us do."
 "If everybody would take that sensible

Use, Don't Waste Senior Year Students Advised

Better use of the senior year in high school and not the abolition of it is urged by Dr. Albert C. Furstenberg, Dean of the Medical School of the University of Michigan.

The Dean, unlike other recent writers, does not fear the present war training will result in an over-supply of doctors. The new fields of health work opened up in the last decade, and the public's demand for better medical care remove any possibility of an over-supply, he believes.

Regarding the suggestion that the fourth year of high school could well be abolished, Dean Furstenberg is inclined to agree that, as things now stand in some schools, it could just as well be dropped, as far as any good to the graduating senior is concerned. But he urges that teaching changes be made so that the student will be genuinely benefited by that needed fourth year. "It should stress those factors which involve resourcefulness, self-reliance, independent thinking, and good study habits," he writes. "It is an appalling fact that many of our medical students fail scholastically because they cannot read."

Among the first vehicles to cross the beaches of Normandy with fighters and fighting equipment were GMC amphibian trucks or "Ducks." Later, they carried Allied Army and Navy chiefs to the scene of the beachhead battle.

brought him and his staff ashore. And, when the King of England broke a four-century-old precedent to visit his armies on French soil, he, too, traveled in a GMC "Duck."
While the "Ducks" shown here were serving as invasion vehicles for Allied Commanders, hundreds of others were bringing ashore load upon load of men, munitions and materials.
Being boat and truck combined, "Ducks" can travel from ship to shore, across the beach, and on inland, wherever their vital loads are needed most by the invading forces.

Must Be Pressed
Some sweaters need to be lightly pressed or "bleached" to give them a finished appearance after they've been washed. To block, wait until the sweater is practically dry. Then cover it with a dry press cloth, then a dampened press cloth. Barely touch a warm iron to the top press cloth until moisture steams through the sweater. Take off both press cloths and leave the sweater until it is thoroughly dry.

Scrape Thinly
Pars (or better, scrape) potatoes and other root vegetables as thinly as possible. Best of all, cook them in their jackets. Valuable nutrients are near the skin. Cut carrots and other long vegetables lengthwise. Their cells are long and less of the nutrient qualities will escape in the cooking water.

New Antiaircraft Gun

Is Messing Up Germans
ROME, ITALY - An American 90 millimeter antiaircraft gun, which hurls explosive shells at terrific velocity, is being used against enemy troops in Italy with devastating effect, and has proved an ideal dual purpose weapon, the Allied command said recently.
This highly mobile weapon, which can be fired at distant targets in much the same fashion as a sniper's rifle, is an adequate American answer to the Nazis' famed 88 millimeter gun. German prisoners told graphically of the terrible effect of its shells on the enemy troops.
An official source reported the 90 millimeter gun, which is called the "Baby Long Tom," because it is a fit companion for the 155 millimeter rifle known as the "Long Tom," has been used as a ground weapon since Cassino.

Notice Details
Workers should notice every detail of construction when removing old upholstery—the finish used, the size of tacks and the method of sewing and tying the springs. It's wise also to make sure the wood in the frame is worth the time and money needed for the job.

HOFFMAN'S VOTING RECORD

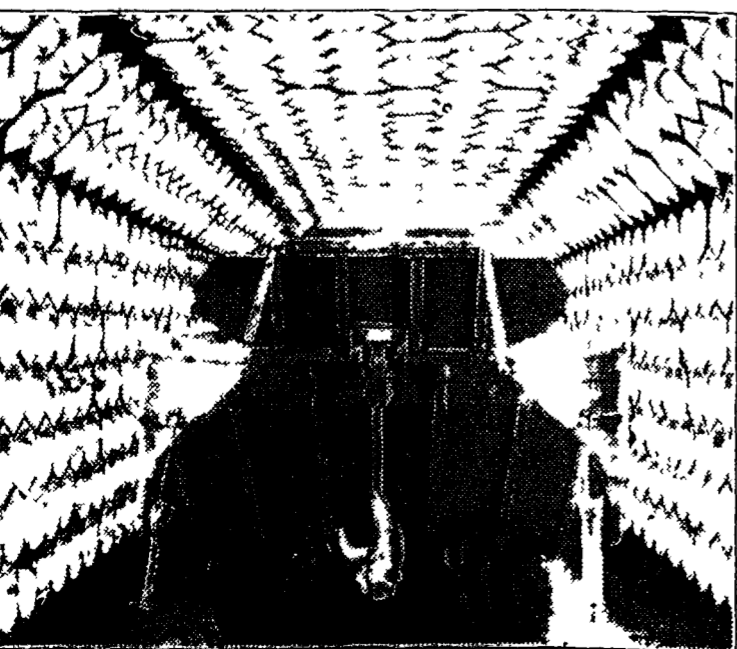

Sidney Hoffman, Republican Candidate for Congress
After war came, I voted for every appropriation and every measure designed to give support to the war effort. Prior to Pearl Harbor, which came on December 7, 1941, I voted for the best interests of the country and the people of the District, voted as you wanted me to vote. That fact was demonstrated at the 1942 election, where, with all the issues before you, you endorsed my record.
Since that time, I have on every occasion—without exception—supported the war effort and, if re-elected, I will continue to do so and when the victory has been won, will insist to the utmost of my ability that those you have sent to war be brought home at the earliest possible moment.

Clare E. Hoffman, Republican Candidate for Congress

On the island of Sicily the movies never have won the natives away from their beloved marionettes. In Palermo the Teatrino del Piccoli (Little Theater for Little Folk) has presented puppet drama handed down from father to son through centuries. "Charlemagne and the Twelve Paladins" has been known to run serially for an entire year in the Sicilian metropolis. In Naples, Milan and other Italian cities serials have run for months, with audiences applauding each sword thrust and hissing the villain.

Land Value
After a field of asparagus has become established, four or five years after planting, the land has an estimated value of $150 to $200 per acre more than before planting. But once planted and established, a field is good for 30 or 40 or even 50 years from the planting. Cultivation consists of this: plant before the first spears have grown through the 6 or 8 inches of soil above their crowns. Harvesting is the job that calls for much labor.

Baking the "Duck"

Under the drying heat of this battery of infra-red lamps, "baked duck" is prepared in a Chevrolet plant, the "duck" being the new amphibian truck now being produced by this General Motors division in its St. Louis (Mo.) assembly plant. This "oven" dries the olive-drab finish of the vehicle in 4 1/2 minutes, a job that normally would require nearly 1 1/2 hours for proper setting of the paint. As subcontractor for G.M.C. Truck & Coach division, Chevrolet is in volume production on the new vehicle, a high-priority item on the Army's landing craft production program.

Coeds Clean Campus, White Men Look On

While the men looked on, women students at the University of Michigan had a clean-up day, raking the entire 40 acre original campus in two hours. Above, waiting for the pickup squad, is Barbara A. Birmingham of Detroit. Back to the camera is William Kehoe, Spencerport, N. Y., senior student and winner of four Avery Hopwood awards for original fiction. The girls volunteered for the job because of the manpower shortage on the regular grounds staff.

Reduce Deaths
In all past wars disease has been responsible for many more deaths than have munitions. During the Spanish-American war seven died from disease for every one killed in battle. In the Civil war 50 per cent of the wounded succumbed. Since then there has been rapid progress in the treatment of disease, especially in the handling of wounds, so that in World War I only 6 per cent of the U. S. army, 7 per cent of the navy and 12 per cent of the marines who were wounded died. In the present war only slightly over 3 per cent of wounded men in our armed forces have succumbed.

Sponge Stains
Stains on non-washable fabrics may be carefully sponged with denatured alcohol. On non-washable rayons or colored clothes, denatured alcohol may also be used but it should be diluted to two parts of water to one part of alcohol.

Costa Rica
Basically an agricultural country, the principal industries of Costa Rica are based on agriculture and include coffee processing, sugar cane ginning, the preparation of cocoa, and the manufacture of wood products. Other Costa Rican industries supply domestic needs with textiles, leather goods and shoes, soap, sweets, cheese, tobacco, candles, starch and furniture.

Newest Watch on the Rhine

The 1944 version of the "Watch on the Rhine," shows a British soldier in command post as he guards the bridge across wall, the Rhine's main outlet to the sea. This is the first time during the present war that Allied troops have taken command of any large section of the Rhine, a fallen stronghold of the Germans.

Dentistry Coming Field, Says Dean

"Dentistry offers unusual opportunities to the young man and woman who has the necessary ability," Dean R. W. Bunting of the Dental School of the University of Michigan said in a broadcast addressed particularly to the high school boys and girls who are beginning to think about their life work.

But consider dentistry only if you are attracted toward it, he warned. The profession was not overcrowded before the war. After peace comes, he foresees more demand for dentists than ever before, chiefly because of two factors. Several million men who never before received dental care have had it in the Army and Navy, they have acquired the habit. Secondly, new and special fields are developing in addition to the general practitioner and these will absorb numbers of future graduates.

Contrary to widespread opinion, dentistry today consists of much more than filling or pulling teeth, Dean Bunting points out. Among the new fields are public health work, children's dentistry, mouth surgery and preventive care.

Youth Is Victim, Not Cause of Trouble

Talking on "Why Youth Is In Difficulty," Dean J. B. Edmonson of the University of Michigan's School of Education blames the home, the community and the school. The home has shirked its duty by passing over much of the responsibility and load of training the children to other agencies. The community has allowed its civic conscience to weaken, has allowed wrong conditions and influences to grow. The school, in many places, still thinks of youth's needs as they were in 1900, not 1944. Dean Edmonson made six specific suggestions: Longer period of schooling with more vocational guidance. Root out bad influences in the community. More varied recreation programs. Better opportunities to get jobs. Better opportunities to work on civic projects. More training in applied democracy.

Mt. Tabor Grange Enjoys Supper and Hallowe'en Party

Thirty-five members of Mt. Tabor Grange attended the cooperative supper and Hallowe'en party in the grange hall Friday night. Appropriate games and contests planned by Mrs. Warren Shaffer, provided entertainment. The group discussed plans for repairing the hall, during a brief business session. Mrs. Frank Carl will arrange a varied program for the Nov. 3 meeting.

Larvae Damaging
Most housekeepers know, of course, that the adult or parent moths don't eat holes in garments or furnishings. They just fly around and lay little white eggs where their "children" can develop. The short light brown, worm-like larvae that hatch from the moth eggs do all the damage. Wool is the favorite food of the larvae, but they like fur just about as well, and feathers and hair.

Navy Treats Burns With Salt Solution

Treatment Found Effective In Severe Cases. U. S. NAVAL HOSPITAL, SAN DIEGO.—Doctors at this hospital are successfully treating burns with a material of which the navy will never have a shortage—salt water.

The salt water is a double-strength solution of sodium chloride made up in the laboratory, but the doctors say that in an emergency on shipboard, bucketful of the old briny could be utilized, after heating to remove bacteria.

Here, at the navy's 11,000-bed hospital—one of the largest hospitals in the world—salt water is used exclusively for the surface treatment of burns.

Capt. William Kirkham, chief of San Diego's plastic surgery service, says the tipoff on the effectiveness of salt water for combat burns came during the evacuation of the British from Dunkirk. He said burned men rescued from the water after some time fared better than did men whose burns had not been bathed in salt water.

"The explanation is simple. A burn is just like any other wound. It has to be kept clean, and salt water keeps it clean," he declared.

The special solutions of salt water are applied in two ways, by saturating lightweight dressings, or by having the burned man bathe in a tub filled with the water. The burns are first cleaned with white soap and plain water.

The salt solution is called a "hypertonic" solution. That is, it exerts an osmotic pressure greater than that of the blood serum, the material that "weeps" out of the body through an open wound such as a burn.

Plasma must be administered by transfusion in cases of serious burns to restore the serum that may have been lost before the patient was treated.

"Salt water holds the blood serum intact, but it allows the free flow of harmful secretions from the wound itself," Captain Kirkham said.

Boy, 4 1/2, Devises Defense Against Nazi Buzz Bombs. NEW YORK — The similarity of movement between a garter snake and an elastic wrist watch band observed by a 4 1/2-year-old boy may develop a defense against the Nazi robot bomb, says the president of a precision instrument firm.

Mrs. M. H. McNab, president of McNab, Inc., of Bridgeport, Conn., manufacturers of precision instruments, said at a press conference that the boy, Frederick Andrus Gaudesen of Plainfield, N. J., had discovered an entirely new principle in physics through chance remarks to a company mechanic visiting his home recently.

The child, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Virginia Gaudesen, attended the conference, but did not participate in discussions.

J. Scott Williams, member of the board of directors of the company, said the principle involved questioned Newton's third law of motion that "every action has an equal and opposite reaction." However, company officials would not divulge further details of the device.

"Scientists believe it is sound and that it is a step in the direction of repelling the Nazi robot bomb and another weapon that may come from Germany and Japan," Mrs. McNab said.

Mrs. Gaudesen said Frederick was a normal child, but was most observant and curious.

Army Training Dogs to Act as Mine Detectors. WASHINGTON, D. C. — The army has found a new use for its dogs—they are mine detectors.

The nonmetallic land mines, which cannot be located by mechanical devices, are a specialty of these highly trained "dog dogs," the army disclosed recently, but they find others too—metallic mines, trip wires and booby traps.

Working on a six-foot leash, the animals locate mine fields, lead the way around them, or point a safe path through them. As soon as the dogs locate the concealed devices, the mines are removed or deactivated, and the cleared path is marked with tape.

"They have found and indicated to their masters the presence of mines that have been buried for weeks," the army said. "When trained, the dog cannot be induced to advance over any type mine or trap."

Dogs of different breeds are used. All are of medium size, weighing 45 to 65 pounds, and they are selected on the basis of intelligence, willingness to work, quiet nature, and indifference to distractions. That last is important.

Rest Centers for Battle Veterans to Be Opened. WASHINGTON — The war department announced the army ground and service forces are establishing rest centers in some of the nation's leading resort hotels for military personnel returning from fighting fronts overseas. The program is similar to one already effected for air force veterans.

Men will receive "complete physical examinations," and each will be evaluated as to his "most suitable new assignment," the department said.

"These objectives will be accomplished in surroundings conducive to rest, relaxation and diversion in order that this short period may serve as a respite from the arduous tasks of war and as orientation for further duties," it was added.

Five such "redistribution centers" were understood to be planned to start operation in September. The department said "several hotels at Miami Beach, Fla., have been acquired and are being made ready" with negotiations under way at other unlisted locations.

Election Forecast

By L. Benjamin Reber
The few who are opposed to the re-election of Probate Judge Malcolm Hatfield are so at a loss for argument that they fall back on the weak statement about long term in office. Well, let's look at that in the light of past events.

The sheriff takes the grand prize for he is actually running for a seventh term and if he should win, will undoubtedly ask for an eighth or ninth term.

Compared with the sheriff, Hatfield is almost a beginner in holding county or state office. But there is far more than local competition.

From the very beginning of our national history, it has been recognized that the work of judges was so important and experience so valuable that they ought to serve long terms. Federal judges are appointed for life, state supreme-court judges are re-elected time and again as a matter of course so that they too serve life terms as a rule. Circuit judges serve very long terms some of them until age makes retirement necessary. Thus Judge Hatfield is not setting any precedent by asking for another term but only following established procedure. In fact he is one of the state's youngest judges in years of service. His office cannot be compared with other county offices where experience is not absolutely necessary.

With that argument of the opposition knocked to smithereens, they are left without a leg to stand on. Actually there is no reason whatever for making a change. Even the most rabid opponent admits without question that Judge Hatfield is qualified by education, character and experience to carry on with the work which has focused the attention of the nation upon the probate court of this county. If Hatfield had allowed his head to swell, if he had become high-hat, stiff and formal, if he had forgotten old friends or sniffed at the folks who walk humbly and sometimes know want, then I would be the first to say he should be ousted but you have only to meet him to learn that he has not changed. He is the same good fellow he always was, generous, friendly, clean and likable. All too often a successful office seeker high-hats his helpers after he has won but no one can ever say that of Malcolm Hatfield. He came up the hard way and he does not forget it or sniff at others who travel the hard roads.

The last thing we would do is cast any slurs at an opponent. We do not believe in that but we do welcome comparison on professional grounds for after all that is the only issue. Not politics, not personal liking, not personalities of any kind. These all have some bearing but get down to bedrock and there is only one real issue and that is, which of these two candidates is better qualified to fill this extremely important office. Remember that one little error may cloud a title for years to come. One mistake, no matter how innocently made, may wreck a whole life may bring poverty and degradation, may mean endless litigation.

No indeed, we will not be doing anything unprecedented when we re-elect Judge Hatfield. Actually we will be proving our intelligence, our ability to use good judgment in selecting our probate judge. We are the people and we know which side of the bread is buttered.

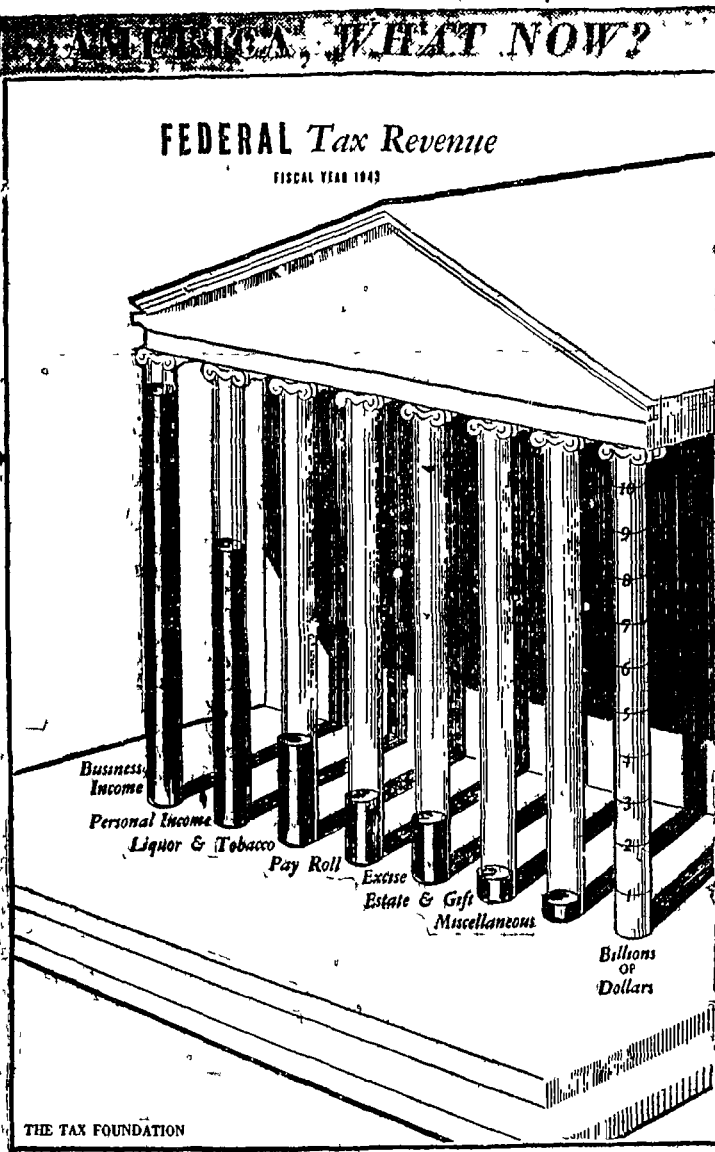

Watch for next week's article. (Donated by the Non-Partisan Judiciary Committee)

Children's Room

Suggestions for the children's room are a toy box made from the drawer of a broken-down bureau and a set of blocks created with odd scraps of wood left over from carpentry jobs. The blocks can be painted with letters, ships, flowers or whatever your fancy dictates.

Sweet Raisins

A handful or two of raisins carefully wrapped in a waxed paper packet as a welcome addition to a lunch box for child or adult. Raisins are both sweet and chewy and afford a pleasant change in texture of most lunch box fare.

During 1943, American business not only won the battle on the production front but it also paid into the federal treasury almost half of the taxes collected by the federal government. Total federal tax receipts for the fiscal year ending on June 30, 1943, amounted to a little more than $22.5 billion, of which almost $10 billion was collected from business in corporation income and excess profits taxes.

The federal government received $6.5 billion in personal income taxes from individuals, not including payroll taxes deducted for social security, which amounted to an additional $1.5 billion. The combined revenue from liquor, tobacco, excise, estate and gift taxes, as well as from miscellaneous taxes, totaled approximately $4.5 billion.

High income taxes on business and individuals may be excusable when national income is at peak levels but they would act as a brake on the economy in the postwar era, preventing the maintenance of high employment.

Carpet Beetles

Because carpet beetles feed on all types of material that find their way into cracks of the floor and house, they may build up to a heavy infestation without sign of their damage to woolen articles and with out the housewife's knowledge. It is at housecleaning time that this type of insect infestation often comes to light.

Own Stock
In 1940 women owned 50 per cent of all privately owned stock in large corporations. They were equal partners with men in American industrial futures. Another way of putting that same fact is that out of 15,000,000 shareholders in American corporations 7,520,000 are women.

The South Berrien Junior Farm Bureau elected Miss Jean Raybuck and Albert Siekman as delegates to the state convention in Lansing, Nov. 4, during a business session in Schau hall, Dayton which was conducted after a hayride from Galien.

The committee to arrange for the meeting includes Evelyn Wallquist, Eileen Wallquist, Joan Phillips and Jack Prenkert. The hayride and square dances after the meeting were planned by Robert Noggle, Genevieve March and Glenn Foster.

Bananas are little Jamaica's big crop. This Caribbean island is one of the most important banana producing countries. In the late 1930's, Jamaica's yield reached well above 25 million stems a year, averaging about 65 pounds to the stem. This was before the blight, carried into the island by a freak hurricane, reduced the crop. The United States, normally the biggest banana importer, takes only a small portion of Jamaica's crop. The bulk goes to Great Britain and Canada.

Loose Handling

Many owners of farm flocks throw their 25 to 75 fleeces into one end of an open shed, and leave them unstacked where the exposed fleeces become unusually dirty due to dust storms and other causes. Such poor care reduces the value 5 to 10 cents a pound. The small flock owner also should separate his various grades of wool by placing loose cloth partitions in the wool bag.

The comics say it this way

WHEN a comic strip artist wants to suggest the birth of a new idea, he draws an electric bulb glowing above his hero's head. Since that symbol comes from our business, maybe we can borrow it to do a little enlightening of our own.

For example, there's the old idea that companies like ours are all owned by a few wealthy people in Wall Street. Actually, of course, this company is largely owned by the same people it serves and run by your friends and neighbors.

Our biggest security-holders are banks and insurance companies which have invested your savings here because they can count on sound business management—and because cheap, dependable electricity is so basic to the American way of living.

So whether you own us directly through stock, or indirectly through a savings bank, you have a stake in this company. We welcome your ownership and your patronage. We try to be worthy of both.
