Now Here's the Proposition

Jim Aichenbottom, the well-known Clark Street Democrat, sez that an agreeable marriage is one where the husband agrees with every decision the wife makes

Forget it! You'll be mad about two or three things next week anyway

Calling All Candidates... Oh, the chuckholes on Moccasin, The chuckholes on Clark—We've counted 'em, we've named 'em.

We'd know them in the dark... We've got so we love 'em—Those holes we used to cuss, The shell holes of London—Am't got a thing on us If anyone should fix 'em We'd all be at a loss

For we've learned to drive around 'em If we can't drive across If any administration Should go and fix those holes—We'll damn with deep damnations

Their lousy little souls, For him who, come election, Shall win the mayor's throne, We have one firm direction, "You leave them holes alone!"

Cave Sedem and Long Haul Henry Weaver of the General Motors consumers research staff, in a petit booklet entitled "Cave Sedem and the Long Haul" makes some timely points that fit well into our thinking today

He quotes a poem by the late Theodore McBanus "Beware! the deadly sitting habit"

Or if you sit be like the rabbit Who keeps his eye on the jump By springs concealed beneath his rump "Man was not made to sit a trace

And press, and press, and press his pants But rather—with an open mind To circulate among his kind "And so my son, avoid the snare

That lurks within the cushioned chair. A little ginger 'neath the tail Will oft for lack of brains, avail!"

It seems that Cave Sedem is a Latin phrase which means "beware of sitting"

Philosopher Weaver observes that business men have two alternatives in policies for 1942. Short haul and long haul. Those who adhere to the long haul thinking will look upon the present period as "only a temporary interruption in the normal course of business," and so Weaver recommends:

"Revamp your operations and activities as best you can to meet the conditions of the emergency—but at the same time being careful not to throw overboard those principles, policies and practices which, down through the years—in good times and in bad—have proven essential to sound operation and progressive development"

Tales of An Old Town

An Attempt to Reproduce a Cross Section of The American Scene, As Witnessed Here Through the Past Century

Some Memories of Merchants And Merchandising in Old Dayton (By Fred Richter) Of the early merchants that I remember, Cass DeArmand was about the best known, having been in business here a great many years. He did a very good business too, notwithstanding the sums which he had on the books when he quit business, most of which was never collected.

Cass also had learned the boot and shoe making and repairing trade under Adam Kern, but as far as I know he never followed it. But he was hard to beat as a country merchant.

Many changes have taken place in the days since he ran his Dayton grocery. There were few canned goods on the shelves then. Spices were not packaged but were in bulk and were weighed out to the purchaser. Fine cut tobacco came for the most part in wooden pails and was weighed out. Plug tobacco came in boxes about a foot square and four inches deep. It was usually sold in five or ten cent cuts. Among the brands best known were the Spear Head, Horse Shoe, and Jolly Tar. Smoking tobacco was mostly put up in cloth sacks those days, familiar brands being Bull Durham, Sun Ripa and Corn Cakes. There were few if any cigarettes those days as far as I can remember.

As I remember, sugar cane came in three kinds, light brown, dark brown and pulverized. Granulated sugar came on the market later on. Sugar came in barrels of about 300 pounds capacity. Salt came in barrels of about 480 pounds, selling at $1. Crackers were in barrels at first, later in boxes. Molasses or syrup came in large barrels, and so thick it would hardly run out the bung hole. You don't see syrup like that any more.

Sulphur matches were used to a great extent. Then came the "cracking match" as it was called. Sulphur matches were popular with men working out of doors as they were not so easy to blow out.

The well-known brands of coffee used during the early days, as I remember them, were the Lion Head, Arbutle Bros., and Four X. Many premiums were offered by these brands to customers sending in designated numbers of package fronts.

Fresh meat was not handled by any Dayton merchants, but there was a small meat wagon that made runs at least once per week from Buchanan or Galien. I remember a Mr. Cuthbert and a Mr. Rose that peddled meat in this manner to the customers.

Cass DeArmand was in the grocery business in Dayton until sometime in the nineties, I believe. Who followed him I am not sure unless it was a Mr. Leggett, father of Jess Leggett, Sr., of Buchanan and Fred Leggett of Niles. Other merchants that followed were George Parren, Henry Parren, Ed Hamilton, John Dempsey, Barney Ferguson, Schuman Sarver, Levi Allen, Frank Strunk, Fred and Darcy Salisbury, W. D. Jones and the present merchant, Floyd Kjasner. Frank Strunk was about the last merchant that did a good business in Dayton.

Most of them were in business before the days of chain stores, automobiles and paved roads that brought the business to the larger towns. On the west side of the street were Curt Lamb, Ab Lamb, Alfred Wood, Olin Williams. Mr. Leggett was also in business for a short time on the west side. Occupants of the building next to the Lamb store were Adam Kern and Theodore Ansley. Kern handled boots, shoes and men's furnishings. When Ansley was in the building he ran a grocery store, years after Kern moved out, Frank Dalrymple used the north side store room years before the building burned on Feb. 15, 1900, to store and to assemble Milwaukee binders and mowers, for which he had the agency. Bert Dalrymple had a bicycle repair shop in the building at the same time. Furthest north in this row were three rooms, once occupied by Roddy Marble. In previous years the front one of these three was used as a barber shop, also as a doctor's office. I don't remember the doctor, perhaps Dr. Henderson John Dempsey had a store in the south side of the hotel building, which he occupied as a residence. He was also postmaster. Later he sold out and went to farming.

Enrollments For I. & M. Nutrition Course Under Way

Enrollments are being taken for the nutrition course which will be started in two or three weeks. Mrs. Mary G. Yeager, home economist for the Indiana and Michigan Electric Company, plans to make this an intensive course, covering the study of nutrition in five lessons.

You have a big responsibility, if you are a homemaker, to plan, buy, store and prepare the meals for your family in the modern scientific way. You have a big responsibility if you have only yourself to consider, for you should select your food just as carefully. But, of course, the greatest responsibility is on the homemaker's shoulders. You are not a cook any longer—especially, according to the old definition, by which the elaboration of cakes and pastries was the measure of a good cook, but you are a scientific homemaker—who conserves the nutritive values in foods and at the same time turns out dishes so delicious that the family likes what is good for them.

It isn't the food budget that offers difficulties in keeping the family supplied with precious nutritive ingredients, but it depends almost entirely upon the kindness of the cook, and the way the food reaches the platter. As one writer puts it, sunshine travels 90,000,000 miles to put these essential health ingredients into our food, animals graze industriously to store vitamins in meat, dairy and poultry products, and then a dozen feet away from the dining room table they may be lost by improper storage, or refrigeration, and by cooking.

With The Boys in Service

On Monday evening two young men from out of town who were eating at D's Cafe asked the significance of the two stars in the "V for Victory" pennant hanging in the window of the restaurant. They were answered with information that may be news to many Buchanan people. The pennant was given to Mrs. McFarlin by a friend who bought it in South Bend. The stars indicate that she has two sons in the service. One is Wilson Crittenden who is well known in Buchanan, and is now a staff sergeant in the air service in Australia. The other is Harry Crittenden, who has been in the U. S. Navy 19 years and is now chief machinist's mate on the U. S. cruiser Helena.

He was on his ship in Pearl Harbor when the Japanese attack came on Dec. 7. A torpedo struck the Helena and Crittenden's chief was killed a few feet from him. The Helena was badly damaged but not sunk and was afterward repaired. Crittenden enlisted in the navy at 18 and has been in that service for the ensuing 19 years. Had it not been for the war he would have been retired next year at the end of 20 years of service.

William Lowell Batchelor has been spending this week, with relatives and friends here, while en route from his previous location at Detroit, to San Diego, Calif. He has spent two months in the service of marine recruiting at Detroit, after completing his training at Quantico, Virginia. While at Detroit he recruited among the colleges, including the University of Michigan, Michigan State College, University of Detroit, Wayne University, and several smaller schools. He expects to be located for a time at San Diego.

Robert Russell, Jr., is now receiving basic training at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., being in the aviation service. His address is Flight A 353, Technical School Squadron, Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

Private Jack R. Leggett arrived at his home here yesterday from Tampa, Fla., where he is a member of the Fifth Signal Platoon at McDill Field. He was given a ten-day furlough on account of the illness of his father, Jack Leggett, Sr., who is quite sick at his home here.

Pvt. Kenneth Luke, who returned to Savannah, Ga., last week after spending a 10-day furlough with his mother, Mrs. John Luke, was transferred on his return to Myrtle Beach, S. C.

Charles (Bud) Matthews, hospital apprentice, 2nd class in the U. S. navy stationed at the National Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, Md., writes that he is in the eye, ear, nose and throat ward. This is the newest navy hospital, a twenty story building, completed two months ago. The patients are mostly officers. "Bud" writes that he likes his new location and everything is "perfect".

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kempf, Lydick, Ind., spent Monday with the latter's sister, Mrs. Warren Willard and brothers, Roy Allen and William Pierce.

Patricia McCracken, St. Joseph, is visiting her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Graham, in this week.

Three Treated For Rabies Prevention

Three Buchanan people are receiving precautionary treatments for rabies as the result of the verdict of the University of Michigan laboratory to the effect that a pet dog in their home had died of a form of rabies.

The three are Miss Grace Enk, Miss Myra Andlauer and the latter's cousin, Mrs. C. J. Thursty with them during the illness of Miss Andlauer. The dog was bitten during February while they were absent from their home. A lady staying at the home during their absence reported that a strange dog had entered the backyard of the home and had bitten the animal in the eye.

About a month later their dog became ill and they co-operated in treating it. They then took it to a veterinary in Niles who diagnosed the case as "dumb" rabies, a form marked chiefly by paralysis. The dog was confined to the house during this entire period and there was no possibility that any possible contagion was spread by it to other dogs.

After the death of the animal the head was sent to the university laboratory and a diagnosis affirming the presence of rabies was returned. Since the dog bit no one, the treatments are merely the precautionary routine.

HIDDEN MEN BEHIND THE MEN BEHIND THE GUNS

Research chemists, carrying on "with no headlines" and "no acclaim" not only in the interest of winning the war but in the interest of alleviating human suffering and in making life a little richer and a little sweeter were eulogized in congress yesterday.

The praise was dictated by Representative Everett M. Dirksen (R), of Illinois, to chemists in the Department of Agriculture's four regional laboratories at Upper Darby, Pa.; New Orleans, La.; Peoria, Ill., and San Francisco.

Here are some of the wartime jobs Mr. Dirksen said the government chemists are doing: Making sugar from sorghum by a process that may in time solve the whole sugar problem. Experimenting with ground corn-cobs, as a substitute for corn.

Rubberizing cotton for fire hose. Developing new processes of dehydrating vegetables and fruits in the "food for freedom" program.

Making transparent sheets similar to cellophane out of corn protein. Working on textile sizing from corn to take the place of East Indian tapioca.

Deriving rubber from corn or soybeans. Fermenting corn into butylene glycol that can be used for anti-freeze.

Experimenting with a drying oil from soybeans to take the place of tung oil from the Orient. Making building materials out of almond shells, conestalks, sugarcane pulp and other farm commodities.

The men in the government laboratories, Mr. Dirksen said, "can command three and four times their salary in outside industry. With no headlines, no glory, no pomp, no acclaim, they are working along as good servants of a great democracy not only in the interest of winning the war but in the interest of alleviating human suffering and in making life a little richer and a little sweeter."

THE LOSSES OF PEACE

[The Wolverine (Lansing) Underwriter] "What could Gen Douglas MacArthur do now if he just had the armed help of the 20,000 men of war-service age that we killed last year in needless traffic accidents?"

An insurance engineer asked in a recent address. He pointed out that of the 40,600 traffic victims of 1941, approximately one-half were men of draft age.

Carrying the reference further, he said that the 500,000 men of military age group who were injured last year would form two army combat divisions. Traffic fatalities alone were greater in each of the 12 months of 1941 than total casualties in the Pearl Harbor attack.

STEADY THERE!

By Ruth Taylor "Have you ever been caught in a panic-stricken crowd? If you have, you will never forget the experience. I was on an overcrowded, overbalanced boat one time when I was a child and I remember the blind panic of the crowd as the ship listed heavily. They rushed from one side to another—pushing and crowding, hysteria rising rapidly as the panic spread and the vessel listed more heavily with each surge of the mob.

Then, just when it seemed the ship would overturn with the next rush—a man jumped up on the rail and cried out in a calm, determined voice, "Steady there!" The surging crowd stood still for a moment and in that pause he told them that if they kept their heads, they would be safe. They understood quietly where they were and then cooperate in order to keep the balance of the boat until the captain could bring it to shore again. The crowd steadied to his calm counsel and the vessel came safely to its dock.

Today, when the storm of war has broken upon us, we need people everywhere who can stand steadily in the face of impending disaster, and avert it because they know the value of cooperation and will not be led into blind panic. Who can wait until they know the facts, and who then can take their proper places in the fight, obeying the leaders at the helm of the ship? State

We must hold steady. This is the only way in which we can help win the war. We must keep calm and obey orders. We must work harder. We must back our government with our time, our money, and our unwavering loyalty.

We must hold steady against those subversive forces who try to arouse suspicion and fear and whip them into the unthinking, unreasoning terror or hatred that send the crowds into wild rout or into a false sense of security or undue optimism is dangerous—but we must not slip into the corresponding fault of the pessimism which accepts the worst as an established fact—the pessimism that ends in disruptive panic.

Over three hundred years ago—John Bunyan wrote in his "Holy War," "For here lay the excellent wisdom of him that built Mansoul, that the walls could never be broken down nor hurt by the most mighty adverse potentate unless the townsmen gave consent thereto."

Steady there! That is the immediate task for all of us.

IT'S COMING TO A FOCUS

Without indulging in "calamity howling", it seems very likely that a situation is developing in the Buchanan district that eventually will require some organized and systematic thought.

The housing situation was difficult before there were any restriction on the use of tires, that restriction appears to be adding rather unpredictable gravity.

If it were possible to develop a map of this section with the daily travels of the populace to and from work charted, it would be a tangled maze, with an amazing lot of waste motion and cross-purpose transportation. There's many people living in Buchanan who work in South Bend, and there's many people living in South Bend who work in Buchanan.

The extent of that situation is indicated by the fact that when a petition for bus service between South Bend and Buchanan was circulated a few weeks back it was signed by over eighty workmen who travel back and forth between the two cities. Probably they didn't include all affected.

A few weeks ago a man came to the Record office, one of many who come weekly inquiring about houses for rent. We supposed he wanted to find a house here to be near employment in a Buchanan factory. But that wasn't the case. He worked at the Warren Featherbone plant at Three Oaks. The house he lived in in Three Oaks had been bought by a man who intended to live in it while working at Kingsbury, Ind. He could find no other house in Three Oaks.

People in Buchanan work in Kingsbury, Ind. in Niles, in Berrien Springs, in St. Joseph. Several times daily the road between Niles and Buchanan is choked with cross currents of automobile commuters. Buchananites bound north nightly to Berrien Springs or St. Joseph to start work on "graveyard" shifts complain of the dangers of the passing streams of speeding traffic on the Redbud Trail, with scores of men from those places stepping on the gas to punch the clock at midnight at the Clark plant.

Now comes the tire shortage. It appears that before long there will have to be some dependable provision of public transportation, or additional housing—or else.

Of course, you know that you ought to be doing something about your health. But you just keep putting it off. Why? Who's going to look after your health if you don't? After all, it's your responsibility, it's not his! Why not make it your mind today—that you will go and have a frank talk with a good Physician? Find out what's wrong—and how to correct it. Civil Service To Hire Experienced Construction Men

The U. S. Civil Service Commission has just announced that persons experienced as superintendents of construction are being sought for the Federal Service. Positions exist in the United States and foreign countries. Salaries range from $3,200 to $8,500 a year.

Applicants will be rated on their experience and training. From 7 to 12 years of appropriate experience in the field of construction are required. Provision is made for the substitution of college courses in engineering, for part of the experience. Duties are to direct large construction projects, coordinating the work of foremen, organizing men and materials, supervising installations, and inspecting materials and workmanship.

The announcement for Superintendent of Construction is the first issued by the Civil Service Commission since the new War Service Regulations went into effect on March 16, 1942. Appointments generally will be for the duration of the war but in any case will not last for more than 6 months after the war.

There are no age limits. Applications must be filed with the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., and will be accepted until the needs of the service have been met.

Full information as to the requirements for this examination, and application forms, may be obtained from Sarah Gilman, Secretary of the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, at the post office in this city, or from the Secretary of the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, at any first- or second-class post office.

What To Save and What Not To Save

The Michigan Council of Defense furnishes the following information on what to save and what not to save as salvage of value for defense needs:

*Tin cans. Not unless a local dealer wants them; bottle tops, not now, later on, perhaps, razor blades, not now, street car or railroad rails, emphatically yes; rubber heels, no, crepe rubber soles, yes, tubes toothpaste and delicate cosmetics come in tubes 95 per cent tin and these tubes should be saved, but shaving cream tubes (they contain lead) should not be saved, fats and greases a national campaign will be started later on to save them, but they need not be preserved for the present; ornamental railings, etc., no need to junk these until the need is much greater than now.

ON CHEWING GUM

Did you ever stop to think how much money the students of Buchanan High School chew up every year? This is a matter well worth thinking about in these critical war saving days. Each year we pay well for the removal of small cuds from the chairs.

Out-of the entire enrollment in school the majority are probably professional gum chewers. After 4,000 hours of hard chewing one becomes a professional gum chewer automatically.

We will suppose the average number of sticks of gum chewed daily to be about 400. This is four dollars every day that is disposed of (in waste baskets, by swallowing, placing behind one's ear temporarily while reciting). Four dollars every day or $28 each week would, in the course of a year, amount to approximately $1,456 per year that is actually chewed up by the students of Buchanan High School.

By refraining from this obnoxious habit we could put Buchanan High well ahead of other schools in defense buying and saving.

PLEASE LET ME GROW

Have you ever experienced that delicious feeling called 'SPRING FEVER'? Almost everyone contracts a siege of it in the spring. The dominating cause is, perhaps, the fire of the beauties of the great open spaces. Of course, this outdoor beauty can be marred. The rich green, velvety grass and the small, delicate flowers are killed off times when careless people trample over them. No one enjoys seeing large, ugly footprints on these fresh spring lawns. A little consideration on your part will be appreciated by the owners of property. If not now, someday you will realize that your thoughtfulness was not in vain.

Of Donald Duck

"Wank, wank, quack, my cartoon was great," quacked Donald Duck last Tuesday. No fooling, Donald has the right attitude toward defense necessities. Behind the fowl's tricks are seriousness for a true war spirit. Duckie never ceased smiling.

Have You Noticed?

"Gene" Meyers' new hair cut? Jack's new horn rimmed glasses? Some people are getting their annual care of Spring Fever? The "audience" at the practice for the gym show? (Chiefly the girls marching class.) Craig's new riding boots?

Paraski Troops Ready for Action

After a hard training grind, ski troopers of the 503rd parachute battalion are now seasoned paraski soldiers. A group of the jumping snowbirds are pictured inside their transport plane en route to their jump-off place near Alta, Utah. Their skis and other equipment will be dropped to them by large parachutes after they have leaped.

Almost all of the kindergarten children are back in school now. We have read the story of Peter Rabbit and are dramatizing it, too. We are going to color eggs for the Easter baskets we've made.

The first graders in Miss Gustafson's room are making cuddle bunnies from blue flannel and cotton. They have already made Easter cards for Father and Mother.

The second graders in Miss Doolittle's room have been talking about Holland. Patricia Quinn made a large windmill for the bulletin board. Joanne Proud brought some interesting stones from the Arizona desert and a piece of petrified wood for the children to see.

Virginia Thurston, who is in Mrs. Helm's second grade, has her name added to our Dental Honor Roll.

The children in Mrs. Wilcox's third grade are working on their Nature Booklets, in which they are illustrating their work in Natural Science. Donald Mitchell has not missed a word in spelling so far this year.

Anna Lou Morgan has entered Miss Olson's fourth grade. She came from Sullivan, Indiana. We have had a lot of fun making Easter cards for our mothers and fathers.

The Egg Roll

Miss Carnagan's children and Miss Fritz's children had an egg roll Tuesday afternoon at the ball park. The children had previously colored the eggs for the event.

Prizes were won by the following children: John Hausman, Dolores Miller, Richard Van Deusen, La Vonne Ross, Donald Samuel, Harold Forburger, and Harold Bishop.

News Notes

Mr. Moore attended the North Central Association meeting on March 25-26-27 in Chicago.

Writing Tests

Miss Graves has just completed giving timed sentence tests to grades three, four, five, and six. The aim of these tests is to find out if pupils can write a certain quality of legibility at a given rate of speed. Then, too, these tests will show how much each pupil has improved in writing since the last test was given. Miss Nystrom, handwriting supervisor of the Minneapolis Public Schools, has worked out these tests.

Youth Council Dance

The Youth Council held a dance on Friday, March 26, at the "loft". The dance started at nine o'clock. Refreshments were served at tables around the dance floor. Some of the students that attend these dances are improving their dancing. A lot they really "cut a rug" at the loft when they get started.

B Club Meeting

A meeting of the "B" club was called for March 23 by athletic director Mr. Stahl. The meeting was called for the purpose of distributing tickets for the Senior-Underclassmen basketball game. President Robert Vandershock issued the tickets to the members who in turn were to sell them for the price of ten cents. The money received will be used for future expenditures of the club and for amusement of the members.

Speaking of Chapeaux

Patriotic colors have greatly inspired the Easter bonnets this year. Women's hats can do a great deal to promote an uplifted spirit. Nevertheless, people will poke fun at them. Perhaps if girls started wearing drab, dismal head coverings, the bright ones would be missed. Surely, these crisp new hues are welcome after the gloom of a long winter.

Each person strives to get the latest creation. Of course it has to be different, and some of them really are. The brims of the new styles have been shaped into a "V". Naturally everyone knows what this stands for.

In view of all this, when you see one of these new patriotic bonnets, don't laugh at it. It was meant to arouse your pride, and we hope that it does.

To "Andy"

No doubt you have all heard of Andy. As a sports reporter he is a dandy. He is tall and plays on the team. And—oh yes—the answer to any girl's dream. He seems to be happy all of the while. And, say, did you ever see him smile? We wish him success in his ambition. Surely "Andy" will gain recognition.

Grade News—H. S.

The boys and girls in Miss Connell's first grade are studying about seasonal changes in spring. Some of the things we are especially interested in are frogs, toads, wood chucks, robins and some of the well known furry animals. After Easter vacation we are going to plant some seeds and watch them grow.

Richard Beistle brought some beautiful pussy willows to school this week. We are going to draw some for our art lesson.

Miss Carnagan's pupils had fun last week coloring Easter eggs for their egg roll with Miss Fritz's room.

They are observing the signs of spring and recording them on a chart. They are also learning several songs about spring.

Miss Fritz's children colored eggs for their egg roll. Gladys and Clinton Hawkes have moved to Boyne City, Michigan.

The children are learning to measure with the foot ruler and the yard stick.

Jimmie Button brought some lilac twigs and some pussy willows to Miss Kinney's room. He also brought some pear twigs. They have leaves on them now, and there is one bunch of buds ready to burst into bloom.

Miss Kinney's room wrote letters to Raymond Fowler last week. He has been ill with tonsillitis. Many of the children made get-well cards for him.

Mrs. Fuller's fourth grade enjoyed an art lesson this week in which they illustrated Donald Duck and Mickey Mouse giving First Aid to a poor little puppy. This lesson was inspired by the movie on Donald Duck and his Income Tax.

The children in Miss Gates' room are very enthusiastic about spring, and the activities of this season of the year. The fourth grade wrote poems about spring in English class this week. The following poem was written by Jim Merrifield:

A Spring Problem
When did spring originate?

Leaders Discuss Caribbean Defense

Rear Adm. John H. Hoover, left, commander of Caribbean naval coastal frontier, Lieut. Gen. Frank M. Andrews, commander of Caribbean defense command, and Maj. Gen. James L. Was it in 1888,

Or was it in 1942?
I'm leaving it up to you

I've thought until I'll think no more
I've thought until my head is sore

I've thought it over, through and through

I can't figure it out, can you?
The reading classes in Miss Ekstrom's fifth grade are reading stories. The children are watching for signs of spring and reporting them as they occur.

Ball games have been organized on the playground at recess again. Marbles and jumping rope are also favorite recess activities right now.

In our Science class, we have been studying air pressure and weather. We have just finished four experiments in Miss Halton's room which show that air pressure has weight and strength. They were fun.

Florence Fowler has been sick for the last three weeks. We hope that she will be back with us soon.

The children in Miss Reams' room have been making bar and line graphs in arithmetic. These graphs are very interesting to study. Each child has made a line graph so that everyone can keep a record of his grades in geography.

Miss Jeffery's room has been giving book reports. We give reports as if we were selling the books. We tell interesting parts to the class. We have had many good reports and hope to have many more.

Production Of Peppermint May Be Boomed by War

Another industry turned to the American farmer as a source of raw materials today when the Vick Chemical Company placed an educational order with an essential oil refiner for menthol to be extracted from peppermint oil.

This marks the first commercial use of American peppermint oil as a source of menthol. The latter is widely used as a medicinal chemical, principally for the treatment of colds. It is expected that substantial re-orders will be placed in the near future.

Heretofore, menthol has been imported from Japan and China. Experts are of the opinion that the American farmer will retain this new customer. They point out that chemical research has developed new methods of extraction and menthol users show a growing desire for a purely domestic source.

If all menthol users turned to peppermint oil—and the course of war points to some such action—growers of this specialty will have added a large new market. Some 500,000 pounds of menthol was used last year, and essential oil men estimate that it would require at least 1,000,000 pounds of peppermint oil to yield an equal amount of the same grade menthol. At this rate, the market for peppermint oil would be approximately doubled, for roughly 1,000,000 pounds of mint was harvested in 1941.

Farmers in Indiana and Michigan, growing nearly 80% of last year's crop of peppermint oil, will be the greatest beneficiaries of this new demand. West Coast producers account for 20% of output, with Oregon and Washington the major growers.

A sharp increase in plantings of American peppermint this spring will be necessary to handle the rising demand on the part of menthol users. One plan that has received strong backing in some quarters calls for the extraction of only the excess menthol from peppermint oil, leaving the residual oil for use as flavoring by chewing gum and toothpaste manufacturers. The menthol content of the peppermint plant can be boosted 5% to 10%, refiners say, by harvesting the crop 10 days later than usual.

Federal Quota On The Production of Michigan Oil Raised

With the outlook for Michigan's oil industry brightened by an increase in the daily allowable production quota set by federal authorities, oil operators have applied for action of state-owned oil and gas lease rights to wildcat lands in Bay, Arenac, Gladwin, Newaygo, Missaukee, Lake and Roscommon counties.

Further applications are being received by the conservation department's lands division for auction of oil and gas right to other lands, to be offered early in May if the sale is approved by the conservation commission in April.

Wildcat lands likely to be offered at the May sale include 1,000 acres north and west of the Headquarters field in Roscommon county and considerable acreage in the southeast quarter of Sauble township, Lake county, where one wildcat well was drilled in recently as a promising prospect.

Skunk Supply Recovers From 1939 Epidemic

While Michigan's supply of skunks appears to be making a recovery, the causes of the abrupt decline in 1939-40 is still largely a mystery, according to department of conservation game men.

Laboratory study of dead and diseased skunks received at the department laboratory at Michigan State College yielded information which may help in the future to unravel the riddle of such fluctuations in the skunk supply. At present game men can only conjecture that an unknown virus is responsible.

Severity of the decline and signs of recovery evidenced during the winter strongly suggest that the skunk, like certain other varieties of game, is influenced by some mysterious cycle of abundance and scarcity.

Estimates of Seed Requirements For '42 Victory Garden

From a quarter ounce to more than a pound, the volume of seeds required to plant a family-sized garden varies with the size of the seeds and how much of the vegetable a family of five will consume.

Michigan State College vegetable specialists have figured out exact amounts needed in the 1942 Victory garden. Every farm family in Michigan is encouraged to have such a garden as part of the war emergency effort suggested by the Michigan War Defense Board.

Amounts listed by Peily Bower, extension specialist in horticulture at the college, indicate these important vegetables:

Stringless green beans for a family of five to eat fresh and to use for winter use would occupy 90 feet in garden rows and would require a pound of seed. Red beans, 50 feet, one and one-half ounces of seed. Early and late cabbage should total 200-row feet of plants.

From a quarter ounce of seed. Carrots, 200 feet, one ounce of seed. Sweet corn should include some of the new and sweeter hybrids, planted at intervals to include 300 feet of rows in hills. An ounce of hard seed will plant 50 feet, two small packages of leaf lettuce seed will plant the suggested 50 feet.

Those who want mustard greens an plant 100-row feet, from a half-ounce of seed. Two ounces of non seed, probably Yellow Globe, will plant 200 feet in a row or rows.

A quarter-ounce of pansy seed will plant 100 feet. Pansies can occupy 200-row feet from 1 1/2 pounds of seed; radishes planted at intervals early in the season can use 50 feet or row space from a half-ounce of seed. Spinach seed is scarce, but those who can get it use 1 1/2 ounces for 125 feet. Tomato plants for a family of five need 200 feet or row space for the suggested 60 plants, according to Bower.

Purchases of Machine Repair Parts Triple

Proof that Michigan farmers are actively girding their plows, harrows, seeders and other implements for food production in 1942 arises in reports that branch implement houses are selling as high as 307 per cent the amount of repair parts as in similar periods a year ago.

Farmers faced with curtailment of new machines are attempting to fix up what they have in line with suggestions of the Michigan War Defense Board and the extension service of Michigan State College.

Every county in the state received attention in the series of 126 machine repair meetings for farmers. College extension representatives, A. J. Bell and George Amundson, conduct the program on November 15 and are just completing the schedule. They held 16 training and committee meetings, and 72 county conferences with implement dealers and county war boards and had 15 district conferences with agriculture instructors and farm shop teachers in addition to the farmer meetings.

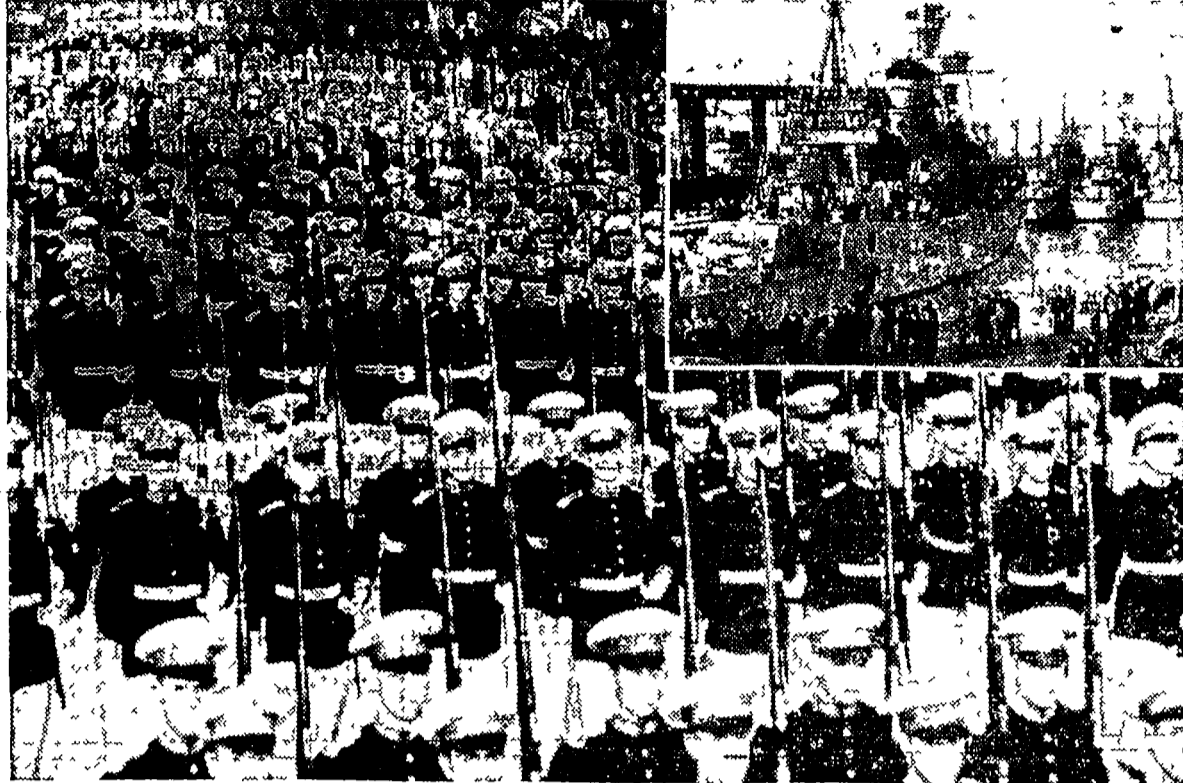

Farmers were supplied with 120,000 machinery check lists from college sources and an additional 40,000 copies were distributed in some counties by county agricultural agents who had them mimeographed locally.

Some implement dealers reported that in January alone their sales of repair parts were greater than in the entire winter of 1940-1 or of 1939-40. Dealers report that even binder repair parts were in demand as early as January. Probably the first in the United States is the 4-H club machinery repair project now in operation in Michigan. Eleven outline lessons were prepared at the college for use by agriculture teachers and farm shop instructors.

Installation Of Telephones Is Limited By War

War needs of the country have affected the manufacture of telephone equipment to such an extent that, for the duration at least, some persons who want telephones installed may not get them at all, it has been revealed by George M. Welch, president of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

Also, under specific limitations placed in effect last week by the War Production Board, extension telephone installations in residences are restricted. Many of the persons who will be able to get telephones will be required to take pay-in-line service, largely because copper and lead are scarce. Old type telephones now in use will remain in use.

That condition is due not only to the rapidly increasing scarcity of materials needed for armament, but also to the need for manufacturing capacity for war purposes. Western Electric, which supplies the Bell System with telephone apparatus now is being called upon to produce great quantities of equipment especially for the military services, Welch said.

"For more than a year Michigan Bell has met an unprecedented service demand and generally has installed telephones when and where they were wanted," Welch said. "Material shortages now make it impossible to meet some requests for telephone service. Extension to care for past service requests was accomplished, despite a greatly curtailed supply of vital materials, through emergency engineering methods and the use of alternate materials. Now, the War Production Board has issued an order that expands those practices and places further restrictions."

Some of the more important effects of the War Production Board order itself were cited by Welch as follows:

1. In many cases where service can be installed at all, party-line service, only, will be available.

2. Extension telephones cannot be installed in residences except where needed by persons responsible for public health, welfare or security.

3. Wall or upright desk telephones now in use cannot be changed for the hand-set or cradle type.

4. Manual telephone switchboards may not be changed to dial service, excepting where the work is well advanced.

M. S. C. Promotes Wartime Styles For Farm Women

Sensible dresses with economy adapted to wartime, yet with enough style to attract use by America's rural women is the claim made for the outfits now available in stores or in pattern form, according to members of the home economics extension staff at Michigan State College.

Here are some of the trends developed by members of the federal bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

During the past year, clothing specialists in the bureau have studied the problems of the woman worker and designed 15 outfits. First designs were for women farm workers. Since then there have been outfits designed for women who work in factories, in laboratories, in institutional kitchens, and in their own homes. As these designs have come out they have been immediately adopted by commercial pattern companies and garment manufacturers. Consequently, most of them are now available in patterns, as ready-mades or both.

Latest design released is the protect-all for women who do outdoor work on farms or any place where it is damp and cold. This protect-all is a shower-proof coat, but somewhat on the order of a streamlined army parka. It slips over the head so there are no openings to blow open on blustery days. A hood cut-in one with the coat protects the head.

Another recent design is the food preparation dress, which also makes a good house dress. This outfit has roomy pockets, opens down the front so it can be slipped on without mussing the hair.

Another outfit is the laboratory dress for women scientists. This dress has no catchable details on the front. Still other new designs include a comfortable house dress, a divided skirt dress, and numerous aprons.

Governor Endorses Seal Campaign For Crippled Children

I am happy again to endorse the ninth annual sale of Easter Seals for crippled children, sponsored by the Michigan Society for Crippled Children, Inc., which is scheduled to take place March 10 to April 5. I take this means of commending you and your associates on your untiring efforts, to aid crippled boys and girls and physically disabled adults.

Increased responsibility is being thrown upon your volunteer, charitable agency due to the diversion of public effort to the channels of arms and supply. As exemplified in your Easter Seal Sale, it is a significant fact that even in time of war and despite the world conflict, we still hold to the ideals of Christianity and democracy which help the helpless. It means very definitely that we have an abiding faith in the future of our American way of life.

I know our citizens realize full well the expanding need of the Michigan Society's kind of service as the war progresses. Although the element of human sympathy is inescapable, it should not be such as to obscure practical aspects of the situation. Your organization has brought home the fact that by a small investment, society can be relieved of a great financial burden.

It is not only a fine thing for the physically disabled, but for all of us. It is a movement which pays dividends of the kind that should have the support of everyone. All citizens of Michigan can well be proud that such a fine, humanitarian program is being carried on within our state.

As Governor of Michigan, I share that pride, and I urge a full measure of support for the Easter Seal Sale and the program of the Michigan Society for Crippled Children, Inc.

Sincerely yours,
Signed, Murray D. Van Wagener

U. of M. Students Plan Model City For Bomber Plant

Workers in the new Willow Run bomber plant near Ypsilanti will live in a model city if students in the University of Michigan College of Architecture and Design have anything to do with planning the community.

A carefully designed miniature city has already been constructed in the art college, and United States Government officials are considering the plans.

Jean Hebrand, professor of architecture, and his students constructed the miniature "Bomber City" after recommendations and an intensive study of regional planning for the proposed community were made by former professor George Ross, now a member of the State Planning Commission, and Karl Belsler, visiting professor of landscape architecture.

The model city is designed as a fifty-million dollar, 10,000-unit community with easy access to the huge bomber plant. Plans provide for "row houses" in units of five, a small section of 100 apartments, and 2,500 single-family dwellings.

The community is divided into five sections each with its own school, churches, and stores within easy walking distance of the residential area. A main street business district is centered in the heart of the community. There are no through-traffic streets in the neighborhood areas as access roads to the bomber plant skirt these districts.

A central heating system would be established with section lines carrying heat into each house in the city.

Government Seeks For Women Typists And Stenographers

In the past that old saying that "men fight and women wait" may have been true. But no longer do the American women merely wait for the soldiers to win the war. Women of America fought to secure the right to vote, to hold public office, to have a share in the building of our great country. Now these women of America will fight to save this country. Though they do not carry a gun they are still taking an active part in the winning of the war. Already women have begun to serve in factories, in war industries, as air raid wardens, with the Red Cross and in other types of war work. Now American women are asking the government what they can do—to avenge Pearl Harbor—to prevent dictatorship and oppression in this country. The government is calling on each person to do that task for which he is best fitted and which is most needed at the time. Right now the government needs office workers and the government is calling on every woman who is a stenographer or a typist to do her part in bringing about a quick victory.

Your government needs women stenographers and typists, between the ages of 18 and 53, for immediate service in Washington, D. C. The national defense program is as badly in need of women stenographers for war service in Washington, D. C., as the armed forces are in need of men.

All women selected for service in the nation's capital will be given a brief spot examination by the local Civil Service representative to determine eligibility and will, if eligible in such examination, be immediately appointed to a position in Washington. Stenographers must be able to take dictation at the rate of 50 or more words a minute and typists should be able to type a minimum rate of 50 words per minute. Salaries begin at $1,440 per year and there is every opportunity for advancement.

A recent survey of housing conditions in Washington, D. C., indicates that there are adequate facilities to provide for all government employees. Rooms are available within 30 or 45 minutes transportation time from the various government departments. Single rooms may be secured from $25 to $35 a month and double rooms range from $30 to $50 a person. Properly balanced meals can be obtained at a minimum expenditure of $1.00 per day.

To assist newcomers in locating suitable living quarters the following agencies maintain offices in Washington, D. C.: Defense Housing Registry, Washington Room Exchange, Y. W. C. A., Room Registry Service and the Jewish Community Center.

Any stenographer, who is qualified and who is willing to serve her country and do her part in winning the war, should immediately personally contact the Secretary, Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, at any first- or second-class post office, any U. S. Employment Service Office, or the Seventh U. S. Civil Service District Office, Room 1120, P. O. Bldg., 433 W. Van Buren Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Game Department To Plant 500,000 Trees This Spring

Despite the shortage of labor resulting from the closing of CCC camps, the conservation department's game division expects to get more than a half million food- and cover-producing shrub and tree seedlings planted this spring in four northern and six southern state game areas.

The spring planting schedule calls for the setting out of 70,000 seedlings at Cusino, 50,000 at Munuscong, about 75,000 at Ogemaw and 50,000 on the Hanson game area where a planting is being made in cooperation with the Higgins Lake state forest program. In the north, mostly food-producing plants are being stocked.

Southern Michigan wildlife restoration areas to be stocked this spring are the Tuscola, with 100,000 seedlings and transplants, Grabot-Saginaw, with 100,000, Danville, with 10,000, Barry County, with 90,000, Goudneck, with 32,000, and Oak Grove with 5,000.

Southern Michigan plantings include a large proportion of pines to furnish islands and avenues of game cover on the open, abandoned farm fields in the Pittman-Robertson areas, as well as substantial amounts of food-producing species.

Higgins Lake pine nursery is furnishing the white, red and jack pines, and the state hardwood nursery near Wolverine is supplying such species as ash, basswood, box elder, butternut, cedar, black cherry, dogwood, elderberry, elm, hawthorn, honey locust, honeysuckle, juneberry, hard maple, soft maple, Michigan holly, mountain ash, nannyberry, spruce, sumac, black walnut, wild plum and witch hazel.

Other game food and cover species not available from conservation department nurseries will be obtained from Michigan State College, private nurseries and the federal soil conservation service.

55,000 4-H Club Members Pledge Aid In War Emergency

Even before Governor Murray D. Van Wagener's proclamation enlists their aid, the 55,000 Michigan boys and girls enrolled in 4-H Club work have pledged through their representatives that good citizenship in youth has an answer to war problems.

In communities that dot every county in Michigan the local 4-H club groups will assemble Monday evening, April 6, for simultaneous "pot luck" dinners. The event is the opening of National 4-H Club mobilization week and is being duplicated in 47 other states.

World War I gave a startling impetus to 4-H club work in this state. Within a matter of months the enrollment jumped from a few thousand to more than 50,000 boys and girls involved in planting war gardens and organized into food preservation and canning clubs.

"Results depend on local leadership Michigan can rely on more than 7,500 local voluntary adult leaders already enrolled," comments A. G. Kettunen, state 4-H club leader on the staff of Michigan State College. He credits local leaders with performing services just as valuable as other phases of war production.

Objectives in the mobilization include: To re-enroll former 4-H club members in productive 4-H enterprises. To enlist the support of more volunteer adult leaders. To enroll youths who have not been 4-H club members. To assist in meeting the Michigan farm labor shortage.

To cooperate with all agencies and projects that affect the welfare of the nation and its people, agencies including the Red Cross, fire prevention campaigners, the sale of war stamps and bonds, the farm machinery repair program, the salvage program and other projects.

County agricultural agents, district 4-H club agents and the thousands of local volunteer adult leaders are cooperating in arranging the dinners scheduled for Monday evening, April 6. Many of these groups will hear simultaneous radio addresses and programs in the Upper and Lower peninsulas. On the program will be Governor Van Wagener, R. J. Baldwin, Michigan State College director of extension services, respons-

Care of Washer Is Wartime Need

Now that home washing machines have become more difficult to purchase with restricted output because of material shortages, the care of such machines has become sensible home economy.

How to make a washing machine last longer and serve better is reviewed by members of the home economics extension service at Michigan State College from information provided by the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Follow the manufacturer's directions for oiling the motor, wiper gears or other parts of the machine. Do not over-oil any part.

Keep the washing machine clean. Rinse the machine, drain it well, wipe out any lint and dry inside and out. To keep the outside frame of the machine from rusting if it's of steel or iron, rub it occasionally with a little light oil. Between washdays leave the drain faucet open and prop the lid up an inch or two. Cover the machine if it's out where it can collect dust. Never use harsh scouring powders on any part of the machine, especially the inside.

Now that rubber is scarce, be especially careful with the rubber wringer rolls. Be sure that the pressure on the rolls is evenly distributed when using the wringer. Don't stall or strain the wringer by putting too much clothing through at one time. Fold buttons and buckles to the inside of the clothes before wringing them. And every time a washing is finished, be sure to release the pressure on the wringer rolls.

Wipe the rubber rolls clean and dry after you use them. You can remove most discoloration with a cloth dampened with kerosene. But be sure to wipe the kerosene off right away. It softens the rubber.

Set County Quota For April Tires

The state rationing board Thursday announced tire rationing quotas for Michigan for the month of April, and resumption of the sale of retreaded tires for passenger cars.

Berrien's quota will be as follows: 72 tires, 60 retreads, and 66 tubes for passenger cars, 422 tires, 376 retreads, and 399 tubes for trucks and buses.

The state orders will allow the sale of 4,676 new tires, 21,509 retreaded tires and 13,157 inner tubes for passenger automobiles, and 12,635 new tires, 11,301 retreaded tires and 12,095 tubes for trucks and buses in Michigan.

The current month's rationing orders allowed the sale of 4,230 tires, no retreads and 3,541 tubes for cars, and 9,719 tires, 4,183 retreads and 10,923 tubes for trucks and buses.

Modernization Of Homes Exempt From Credit Restriction

The latest amendment to the regulations governing installment credit, announced by the Board of Governors of Federal Reserve System, March 9, indicates their recognition of the need of home modernization, according to Hunter H. Gaines, Secretary of Michigan Retail Lumber Dealers Association. "Installment credit for residential modernization, plumbing, furnaces, water heaters, water pumps and pianos, may still be spaced over 18 months, the standard maturity on all other items has been reduced to 15 months. Down payments on the home modernization items need not be more than 20 per cent, while down payments on other commodities have been increased to 33-1/3 per cent.

"This announcement should bring reassurance to the people who want to protect and improve their property," continued Mr. Gaines. "Conflicting rumors about the availability of building materials, and about building loans, have discouraged new home construction, modernization, and even necessary repair work, to an extent beyond our need to curtail these activities."

"Our homes must certainly be kept in good repair—this is one of the first principles of conservation. Modernizing homes, either to make healthier, better living conditions for the family, or to make additional living quarters is desirable for its contribution to morale as well as to the real value of improved property."

"New homes may be built by or for defense workers, in continually widening defense zones. The privately-financed small home has been given a boost recently by new federal allotments, and payroll workers are being encouraged to build their own homes rather than depend entirely on the defense-housing projects erected by the government to take care of a temporary situation."

"Everyone who wants to repair or modernize his home, or to build a new home, should make sure of getting full and up-to-the-minute information on the possibilities of getting materials and financing. The local FHA, the banker, and the retail lumber dealer in the community are good sources of information on the building situation."

Pitch or Asphalt Form Effective Fire Bomb Check

Effective control of magnesium incendiary fire bombs by powdered pitch or asphalt, a newly developed process which may relieve one of war's most dangerous destructive weapons, was explained and demonstrated at the Industrial Protection Institute sponsored by the Michigan Council of Defense at Detroit this week.

More than 3,500 Michigan industrial, business, and medical leaders, as well as high governmental, army and navy officials, looked on as representatives of the U. S. bureau of mines spread a layer of powdered pitch on a flaming magnesium bomb. The pitch melted, sealing the burning metal with an airtight blanket, thereby smothering the flames.

The experts pointed out that if the burning bomb were on a wooden floor (for example, an attic floor), the procedure is to spread a layer of the powdered pitch on the floor near the bomb and then roll the bomb on this layer. Then cover with more powdered pitch. Inasmuch as the bomb is smothered, it becomes harmless.

Coal tar pitch, water-gas-tar pitch, hard petroleum pitch or asphalt produced highly satisfactory results in experiments. Pitch is easily available and cheap.

Complete information on civilian defense, including training courses and handbooks for volunteers, will be available in libraries throughout the State under an agreement reached between the Office of Civilian Defense and the Michigan Council of Defense. Lt. Col. Harold A. Furlong, administrator, announced.

"From now on, each municipal library will receive all literature directly from OOD headquarters in Washington," Furlong said. "It is planned to supply the libraries with all previously issued material, so that a complete set of releases will be available to study to the general public."

In addition to requests from men and women interested in familiarizing themselves with opportunities to serve in civilian defense, many high school students also have asked for information to use in their classroom work, Furlong explained.

Sowing Pansies
Pansy and sweet peas should not be sown until November. These may be started any time until January. Both are easily grown providing one follows directions.

Establish Aids To Help Spawning Fish Up streams

At seven points where spawning fish migrations up Michigan streams are halted by dams and weirs, preparations are complete for helping the fish along on their upstream travels, under permit and direction of conservation department field men

Each barrier presents a different problem. At Cheboygan commercial fishermen are hired to take the spawning walleyes in trap nets and transfer them above the dam, while at the outlet of Hamlin lake the transfer is made by the local sportsmen's organization and at Newaygo the walleyes' trip around the dam has been in care of conservation department and Consumers Power Company employees

At Tippy dam on the Mamsee river, at the Betsey river dam in Benzie county and at Guiley pond on Guiley creek, Isoco county, big rainbow trout get a lift upriver At Guiley pond and on Bear creek near Brethren in Mamsee county special screens will prevent the return of the big rainbows to the lake, keep them in the headwaters where anglers may fish for them throughout the summer

Each of the barriers also offers excellent dipnetting for suckers, which usually run later in the spring than the game fish

State Society To Hold Clinic For Crippled Children

The Michigan Crippled Children's Society will hold a clinic Thursday and Friday, April 9-10, at the Jefferson Grade School building at the corner of State and Wallace streets, St. Joseph, Mich., between the hours of 8:30 a m and 4:30 p m daily. Orthopaedic doctors from Grand Rapids and Ann Arbor will be present to examine the children who are served. It is desirable that one or both parents attend any children coming. To make this possible transportation will be provided if necessary. The clinic will be in the interests of all children in Berrien County in a crippled condition between birth and 21 years. All children known to the county society will be notified by postcard of the hour of their examination

The society is very desirous that any new cases, which may not be listed, be reported at once to St. E G Clemens, R R 1, St. Joseph, telephone 3-1690. If she is notified at once she will make an appointment. The Berrien County Crippled Children's Society, The St. Joseph-Benton Harbor Rotary club, and the Twin City chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will sponsor.

New Law Affects Mich. Mink Farms

An act of the 1941 Legislature affecting Michigan's 400 mink breeders is proclaimed by department of conservation game men as one ideally streamlined to eliminate "red tape". One of novel features permits a mink dealer to license his stock permanently for a fee of $10.

Once an applicant pays the fee and his stock is inspected and certified, he is permanently licensed so long as he does not break the rules. An infraction of regulations may result in cancellation of the license, renewable only on re-inspection at a fee of $5. Periodic inspections are to be made of all mink farms

Under provisions of the old law, which mink breeders may choose to observe if they wish, the annual minimum fee was $5, but other charges such as five cents for each mink seal brought the total paid by some mink farms up to the $50 maximum Smallest Ruminant The royal antelope, also called dik-dik, is the smallest ruminant, standing only 12 inches high at the shoulder. It is a native of West Africa.

HOLLYWOOD

Australians Prepare 'Welcome' for Japs

"Rise and Shine" Gals! The chorus girl comes into her own in 20th Century-Fox's hilarious musical comedy, Mark Hellinger's "Rise and Shine."

Twelve eye-filling young things of college age had been chosen to do a song-and-dance number in the gym. Each of the girls had resigned herself to being an anonymous figure with pretty legs dancing in the background.

But Director Allan Dwan liked the number so much he dubbed the chorus the "Rise and Shine Girls." And to the girls' amazement, altered the drill in such a way that each pretty chorine marched full into the camera enabling each to turn on a dazzling smile.

Lana Completes an All-Star Play! Lana Turner from Spencer Tracy to Clark Gable to Robert Taylor.

That is the all-star play Miss Turner has made in rapid succession, with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Johnny Eager" co-starring her with Taylor in a new drama, showing at the Hollywood theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, April 5-6-7.

Seen recently with Tracy in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," Miss Turner next starred with Gable in "Honky Tonk."

The new story has its setting in the underworld, dealing with the dramatic life of a paroled convict, who has lost all real emotions and depends upon those faked for success.

Flaming Doom! The danger is the dramatic of the seventh stirring epical "Sky Raiders," which opens Friday and Saturday, for its opening showing at the Hollywood theatre. Donald O'Connor, popular action hero, heads a featured cast including Billy Halop and other favorites.

As soon as Halop lands the plane at the mountain retreat, Woods flies the youth and Miss Adams back to the Sky Raiders airport. Just as they are about to land they see Woods' new plane winging away. Convinced that foreign agents have stolen the ship, Woods enters the hangar where it has been stored. Here he is attacked by guards, and in the ensuing fight, acetylene torch ignites drums of gasoline. Woods is left unconscious in the burning hangar.

Freddie March Film Lovelies! Favorite Star

When lovely ladies aren't being chased by Freddie March, they're chasing him.

In twelve years of movie-making, he has made love to more screen-strems and glamour girls than any other Hollywood actor, ranging from toasts of the Nancy Carroll era to the current crop of beauties in the cinema blue book.

He's still at it. No sooner does he plant a final kiss on Martha Scott than he turns his attentions to Loretta Young, his co-star in Columbia's joyous "Bedtime Story," to be shown at the Hollywood Wednesday and Thursday, April 8-9 with Robert Benchley.

During his long period of popularity on the screen March has made love to or been pursued by a host of first ladies including Ruth Chatterton, Claudette Colbert, Constance Bennett, Norma Shearer, Jeanette MacDonald, Garbo, Joan Crawford, Janet Gaynor, Margaret Sullivan, Miriam Hopkins, Katharine Hepburn and Joan Bennett.

In addition to Benchley, the supporting cast of "Bedtime Story," includes Allyn Joslyn, Eve Arden and Helen Westley. S. P. Schulberg produced the comedy.

Use Of Radio On Forest Fire Towers Developed Since '33

Radio voice communication among forest fire observation towers and conservation district headquarters, now so complete that visitors may not be allowed in the towers for the duration of the war, has been developed since 1933. Yet it was more than 30 years ago that the Public Domain Commission, predecessor of the present conservation commission, first inquired into the practicability of using "wireless," as it was called in those days, on "forest reserves" in Rose and Crawford counties.

Proceedings of the old commission's February, 1911, meeting tell of consulting the best informed men of the times C. L. DeMurrill, professor of electrical engineering at the University of Michigan, wrote "It seems to me that lack of power might restrict operation to comparatively small distances, say five or 10 miles. Generally speaking, telegraphy is more practical than telephony at present."

F. M. Sammis, chief engineer of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company of New York, was more confident, believing "the use of wireless for forest patrol is quite feasible, and we believe that its installation would result in a very considerable savings." W. A. Foot of Commonwealth Power company had his doubts, however, reporting, "there is nothing practical or reliable on the market. Communication overland is subject to interruption."

And O. P. Hood, head of the department of mechanical and electrical engineering of the Michigan College of Mines, reported, "Such observation as I have had of the instruments in the hands of amateurs has led me to think of them as delicate and not reliable. They require constant and careful adjustment, and a kind of training quite different from what might make a good ranger."

By 1933 the "delicate" radio instruments had become reliable, and the conservation department hired two full-time radio engineers. While still incomplete last season, the swift radio communications system assisted in the setting of a new low record of forest fire loss. More mobile, pack and lower radio sets are needed now, however, to equip the fire fighting force for exceptional wartime work.

Home Ec Clubs To Study Ways To Cut Food Budgets

Feeding a family of five is a costly enterprise — between $700 and $800 each year — if an adequate diet at moderate cost is selected. Berrien County homemakers in their Home Economics Extension classes have been studying ways and means of "mopping up" dollars in the budget and at the same time have been serving their families appetizing and nourishing meals. "A saving of $500 or $600 may be realized with well-planned home production, canning and storage," say farm homemakers who have kept records of retail costs of home produce used. At the last leaders' meeting of the series, to be held on Tuesday, March 24, at the Gallen High School, and Wednesday, March 25, at the Berrien Springs High School, safe methods of home canning will be demonstrated, and practical ways for storing root vegetables and the latest treatment for products to be kept in freezer locker: will be suggested. H. Luikins, county agricultural agent, says, "We hope that every family in Berrien county will be able to approach the winter of 1943 with the comfortable feeling that a food supply for winter meals right on the pantry shelves gives."

KNOW YOUR NEIGHBOR

If that drop of iodine smeared over bruise or abrasion could share the intelligence had tendencies of its human beneficiary, it would, likely enough, have much to say of its unappreciated dignity and importance, in war as in peace, of its parent, nitrate of soda, of the nitrate's power in life and death in the human family, and finally of the world's only producer of natural nitrates on a commercial scale — the Republic of Chile.

Chile, an empire in itself, a great nation of 286,395 square miles, spread along the rim of the Pacific for nearly 3,000 miles, reaches farther south than any other nation on the American Continent. It is sometimes referred to as "the California of South America." If there is some similarity as to relative location, shape and topography, the parallel cannot be carried far.

Two Californias, nearly, could be contained within the boundaries of Chile. They would hold Germany, Belgium, Denmark, Holland and Switzerland, Cape Horn and the Chilean archipelago are about as far from the bleak desert country of the north, where are the nitrate fields, as San Francisco is from New York. The belt here, at its broadest, is about the distance from Washington to New York.

Stretched out between the great Andean mountain range and the Pacific, Chile has a climate varying from the heat of the baked northern desert to the snow and ice of the stormy deep south. Nature has partitioned the country, roughly, into three productive zones. In the extreme south, adjacent to the strait of Magellan, are good grazing areas where stock raising is a rapidly developing industry. To the north is the great Central Valley, famed as one of the world's garden spots. Here all the products of the temperate zone and most of those of sub-tropical climates grow luxuriantly. This is the most thickly settled and the most highly cultivated part of the country. And here, in a fertile valley between mountains and sea, is the beautiful capital city of Santiago. On the coast, only 116 miles away, is the equally famous port of Valparaiso.

And last, but by no means least, is the zone of the nitrate fields. The eyes of the nations of a world at war, as the struggle for defense of the ideals of the New World moves toward a decision, will turn with more and more eagerness toward Chile's desert storehouse. For nitrate, with its by-product, iodine, is a principal item in the manufacture of explosives. A necessity of war, both for the making and mending of wounds, it is priceless, too, as a nutrient for man and his husbandry. In times of peace and normal demand, Chilean nitrate was second only to Chilean copper, another war need now. As a world producer of this metal Chile is unranked only by the United States. The country has, in addition, tion, surpluses of iron and coal. After more than a hundred years, the mining of gold has been resumed. Recent discoveries of oil seepages may be herald of another great industry to come.

Chile's is a republican form of government, with executive, legislative and judicial branches. Its present constitution dates back only to September 18, 1925, but it retains many of the important features of one adopted nearly a hundred years before it. This older constitution was largely the work of the great statesman Diego Portales, Minister of State under President Prieto from 1831 to 1841. This constitution, in turn, superseded a still older one, Chile's first. It was drafted by a committee appointed by the famous General O'Higgins shortly after the Battle of Maipo, April 5, 1818, marks the end of Spanish power in Chile and the birth of the Republic.

There are still a very few seats available for the Banquet and they can be had from the Headquarters or from Scout Officials in each of the communities of the Council. The Council is acknowledging all seat sales, confirming the table numbers and seats and is urging everyone to come early and enjoy the entire program.

The Executive Board of the Council has decided this year not to open the auditorium to visitors who do not attend the Banquet. While we would like to do this very much, experience from previous years has brought about this change of policy. With the Banquet Hall and Balconies filled to capacity it is thought that it is too crowded for the additional group.

Quarantine of Corn Borer Delays Nursery Stock Shipments

Michigan residents or firms planning to ship nursery stock or any other products included in the European corn borer quarantines are advised that those shipments must be inspected by an authorized representative of the state department of agriculture before they will be permitted entrance into states where the quarantines are in force.

Announcement of the new provision is made by C. A. Boyer, director of the state department's bureau of orchard and nursery inspection.

Boyer said that prior to January 1 the United States department of agriculture, through its bureau of entomology and plant quarantine, made inspection of all plant materials going into states requiring a certificate of inspection. The federal bureau has now discontinued this work, turning it over to the state department. Applications for inspection may be filed with the state department and will be handled as quickly as possible.

Defense Council Asks For Salvage Of Unused Metals

Discarded tools, broken or obsolete household equipment, unused kettles, garden implements and old tire chains, items generally found in basements, backyards, and attics are potential guns and tanks, W. H. Ehrenberg, chairman of the Salvage for Victory Committee of the Berrien County Council of Defense, declared today.

"It has been impossible to estimate the total amount of iron and steel scrap that might be made available in this community," said Mr. Ehrenberg, "but our committee feels sure that several score tons may be lying around unused and wasted, when it might easily be collected and used to help fill the widening gap between the supply of essential metal and the ever-increasing demand."

Probably no other metal is in demand in such vast quantities for use as steel, the chairman pointed out. It is not only for tanks, guns and planes, but goes also into the hulls of new merchant ships, into freight cars, and new housing units and industrial plants. The Salvage for Victory Committee urges that any person who has an accumulation of scrap metal, in whatever form it may be, sell it to a waste material dealer or give it to a charitable agency. By either method, the scrap material will be returned for use in our war industries.

Lots of Berries
Late statistics from the department of agriculture show that approximately 648,000 crates of strawberries were sold. Of the berries sold, growers estimated that they received for fresh market sales an average price of $1.86 per 24-pint crate, and expected final season payments from processors of 44 cents per pound. Processors handled about 78 per cent of the state's marketable production this year.
