Buchanan people will be interested in listening in.

The large thermometer which was used at the entrance of the local Clark plant during the war bond drives has been secured for the community canvass and is being mounted on the end of next week on the west side of the town clock at Daves avenue and Front street. The thermometer has been painted by the shop department of the high school to represent the goals of the drive.

At the meeting to be held at the high school tonight the canvassers will be assigned their parts of the city and receive full instructions. A thorough canvass is planned and it is to be hoped that a considerable amount will be realized for this worthy project.

24 Stowaways Attempt To Escape To America On Relief Ship

James Hausman arrived at his home here last week following his return from a 40-day sea voyage, during which he accompanied a shipment of 1,000 burros from the Dominican republic in Haiti to Greece and return.

The trip was made under the auspices of UNRA, which shipped the burros to Greece for mountain farms, where they are widely used. Hausman was one of a force of thirty caretakers, recruited under the foreign relief department of the Church of the Brethren.

They sailed on the Victory ship, DePaul, from Savannah, Georgia, on Aug. 4, and arrived back at Norfolk, Va., Sept. 11. On the trip over they went first to Haiti, where they spent three days loading burros, also a partial cargo of sugar cane fodder. Then they navigated through the blue Caribbean, even more beautiful than the Mediterranean, according to Hausman.

From the Caribbean sea they crossed the Atlantic to the Straits of Gibraltar, thence along the southeast coast of Spain, thence angling southeast to skirt the northern coast of Africa, past early southern Italy, and through the Greek islands to the port of Piraeus, passing in sight of Athens. However, they were then obliged to retrace their path and sail around to the port of Patras on the west coast of Greece, where they unloaded.

Here Hausman and a group of fellow crewmen hired a truck and went inland thirty miles to a mountain village where they saw a little of the real Greece. Nearly all of the houses in the small village had been bombed and there was some evidence of past starvation in the appearance of the people. However, their plight did not seem to be so bad while Hausman was there, and he was told that they counted on the present harvest to end for the most part their food troubles.

The inhabitants in the mountains were very friendly to the Americans, who were a rarity. However, in the seaport towns they were besieged by beggars at every turn, and had to watch their belongings closely.

The most significant and revealing circumstance of the voyage was when they found 18 stowaways in the hold when a day out of Patras on the return voyage they had found six boys while still in port, including four youths of 15 and 16 years and a 12 and a 13-year-old boy.

Then, when a day out the 18 were discovered, hidden in some of the unfed sugar cane, remaining in the hold it then transpired that the stowaways at Patras had refused to unload this sugar cane because they knew of the stowaways in it. When their presence became known, they refused to come out. Finally the crew went with forks and pried around, bringing out a number. When all that could be found that way were out, the cook, who was a Greek, went in and said that they were ready to gas the hold if need be. That brought out the remainder. They ranged from 16 to 50 in age. They had stores of water, bread, coffee and cigarettes.

Most of them were nonchalant when found, and stated that they had made many stunts and would keep on until they escaped to America. They declared that the last preceding ship which had cleared Patras for America had 30 stowaways who were not discovered. They gave the severe economic troubles in Greece as their reason for trying to get away. The daily wage there was reported as being 30 cents a day, accompanied by an inflation, which made it nearly impossible to live.

White Hausman was in Patras preparations were being made for the national elections and English troops had been brought into Patras to keep order.

Buchanan Steel Finishes Program Of Reconversion

Plant Capacity Expanded For More Production Than During War

Following recent completion of a year's program of reconversion and expansion, and with a very satisfactory backlog of business orders in hand, the Buchanan Steel Products Corporation looks forward to a good production year, according to E. W. Cress, vice-president and treasurer of the company, that outlook being dependent on the stabilization of general industrial conditions.

During September the reconversion-expansion program begun after the conclusion of World War I was practically completed. The Buchanan Steel Products plant is now a clean, modern and efficient drop-board hammer plant.

As such plants go, the drop-board hammer plant is not traditionally an arid sun parlor, but the local plant has achieved an unusual degree of good working conditions. Installation of the sixth drop-board hammer was completed last week, giving the plant six hammers. During the war they operated with five hammers. During the past year the oldest hammer was scrapped as obsolete, and two new ones were installed. That addition is significant of the fact that the Buchanan Steel Products plant expects to turn out more products in the future than during the war years whenever the channel of national products is cleared.

A view of the plant grounds justifies the action of the city in transferring to them the southeast corner of the former Athletic park area. Since then acquisition of that property they have transferred what was an unsightly and unsanitary swamp into a clean level area, used mostly for storage of materials. The course of McCoy's creek has been altered from its former tortuous channel to a straight diagonal from the cross-level area into a clean level area. The area which they acquired along the west side of the plant and parking area to Smith street has been transformed by a landscape plan in which the scenic value of the creek has been well exploited.

Bucks Win First Conference Game From State High

Recovery By Decker And Drives By Smith Make Only Score

(by Spencer Gibbs) The Buchanan Bucks made an early start in the direction of the 1946 Big Seven football title Friday when they ran over State High's team at Kalamazoo in a game in which the 6-0 score hardly reflected the actual margin of superiority of the local team.

The fighting game which the Bucks played is evidenced by a string of injuries. Don Metzger, fullback and captain, was hurt in the first quarter, but was back in the second half. Bob Stark, quarterback and Don Gray, left half, were both carried from the field in the first quarter. Metzger with a twisted knee, the latter when he was knocked unconscious while running the end. However, these injuries did not slow down the power of their offense, and they dominated the game throughout.

The Bucks ran into a stonewall defense, after they took the opening kickoff from State High, lacking five yards of making a first down in the first three plays.

State took over on Buchanan's 44-yard line, making one first down but failing on the second. The Bucks got within striking distance when right tackle Decker recovered a fumble on State High's 27-yard line. LeRoy Smith, who had replaced Metzger at fullback then showed his football mettle by carrying the pigskin 16 yards from the 23 to the 7-yard marker. Don Gray cut off tackle to the one-yard line, where he dropped the ball. Buchanan recovered and in the next play Smith made a clean level area. Don Gray's kick for the extra point failed, and the score was 6-0 for the remainder of the game.

Following the score, Dockey kicked off and half-back Stelle received for State, returning it to their own 44-yard line. Quarterback West of State High then attempted a forward pass which was intercepted by Bob Stark and the half ended with Buchanan in possession of the ball.

West of State High kicked off to Buchanan to open the second half. The Bucks started off with a fighting determination to score again. They marched in two straight downs to State's 31-yard line before they were stopped. Stelle, West and White successively carried the ball in an attempt for a first-down but failed.

In the third Stark and Gray were carried from the field but Don Metzger returned to the backfield and sparked a drive through the center of State's line. The game ended as Metzger fought his way to State's three-yard line in the concluding play.

John Zaczek, Old World Wood-Turner Phies His Arts At Oak Street Plant

Plant Now Organized To Turn Out Variety Of Products

Maybe we can't bring back the old five cent top but we're going to start it off at a dime, said Eugene J. Zaczek, partner in the Zaczek Wood products plant at Oak and Alexander.

Although this is the "steel age" with plastic-overtones, it's funny how many uses you can put a piece of wood to, even yet. Buchanan was once a wood-work industry town, whereas it is now a steel town, but the Zaczek plant has brought back some of the old atmosphere in a modern way.

Now Here's the Proposition

Remember way back when Pop used to say when the family sat down to the table "Go slow on the butter, kids, it's forty cents a pound"

Any way when the atom bomb hits Buchanan the poor will sail ez high ez the richer wurst.

(Ed Note The pigtail mode for girls' hair, revived during the past year, is now apparently on the way out.)

You were the nicest style. You were a femme tout de force. Very convenient for playing house. Why can't you stay awhile?

Why must you go away? You're so much cheaper than finger waves. It gives Poppa a chance to save. Really you ought to stay.

Mamma's hair does are all on-top. And cost five dollars but are a flop. Beautiful false-dolls.

What does the old song say? "Dreaming of days of the long ago, Dreaming of days when I loved you so, Why must you go away?"

My heart remembers how Calico mards of an ancient date wore their hair—in a tandem plait. Do not desert us now.

Sweet as an oldtime tune—Beauticians handwork hunts my eyes. (And I won't shut up till they advertise) Why must you go so soon?

Bon Voyage, Lewis

The more cautious of Buchanan's citizens began to crawl out of their cyclone cellars the first of the week as the news spread that Lewis Barwick, one of them-thar news-paper columnists, had left town to take a position as reporter on the Post-Tribune, a daily published at LaSalle, Ill.

For some months Barwick had been an employee of the safety department at the local Clark plant, following discharge from U. S. Coast Guard service during World War II. However, Barwick had been a newspaper worker since high school days and the smell of printer's ink was too strong a lure. A couple of weeks ago he started a column in the Record just to keep his hand in. And just look what two weeks in the Record did for him! If you want to leave town in a hurry, start a column in the Record.

This writer enjoyed his short acquaintance with Barwick and hopes sincerely that he will do well and go on and on. Send us a sample paper, Lewis.

I Gamla, Sverige

At hand as we write is a card from Nels Newton, Raver street welding supervisor, now spending three months with his parents and other relatives in Dalarna, Sweden. "Dalarna" means "valleys" in Swedish, the word being related to the English word "dales." And the land of Dalarna is indeed a land of beautiful valleys and lakes. Nordin's old home is in the little town of Mora, where the writer spent a pleasant evening on Midsummer's Night in 1937, watching the traditional Swedish celebration.

Nordin made the trip across from New York City to Gottenberg on the famous "mercy ship", the Gripsholm, noted Swedish-American liner employed as a hansom ship for exchange of prisoners between warring nations in the recent unpleasantness. The Scandinavian cuisine was all it ever has.

Uncle Hank of Hills Corners Sez.

A group of thirteen young French farmers selected by test from the most promising agricultural youth of France, were guests of Buchanan Co-ops, Inc., Tuesday while on a tour of inspection of Michigan co-operatives.

The young Frenchmen were members of a group of twenty who are nearing the end of a three-months period spent on Michigan farms. Previously they had been located singly on different Michigan farms at the summer. The other seven had gone west to Colorado to spend a three-months period studying sugar beet culture there.

A total of sixty-three young men had been selected, one from each of the governmental provinces of France. These sixty-three young men then competed in winning on the subject of French agriculture and the high twenty joined the group who came to Buchanan May 9 and then were sent to Colorado to spend a three-months period studying sugar beet culture there.

The boys were dressed simply, some wearing leather jackets, and at first sight looked like any group of intelligent American farm youth. When they started talking to each other, however, they displayed some of the traditional Gallic vivacity. They sat around a table in the auditorium of the Co-op while Robert Koemig, manager, talked to them about the operations and methods of the local co-op. Part of the session took notes constantly, but others who were not so apt in understanding English, merely looked on the others' notes, and occasionally asked their neighbors questions. Everett Young, the educational director of the Michigan Associated Farm Co-operatives, said that they would get together, and compare notes while on the road and that none of them would miss a yarning.

Accompanying them in charge of transportation and arrangements were Clarence Boland, director of information for the State Department of Agriculture, and M. Holmback, comptroller of the State Department of Agriculture.

Farmers Know What a Profit Is For AS his own boss, the farmer has long since found out that a profit is not just an extra sum, above the bare cost of doing business, which can be used as you please. It is the main source of funds necessary to pay for a new silo, buy better machinery, and improve the house and the barn. In spite of the great rise in income, farm profits are no more than necessary to keep the farm plant producing efficiently. It's the same with the iron and steel industry which makes the materials for the farmer's tools. In 1935 steel companies had left, after meeting all expenses but before paying dividends, only a little more than one-tenth of one cent on each pound of steel sold. The profit on each dollar invested was less than five cents. Year by year since 1941, when the war started, earnings have been declining. Although last year's output of steel was 19 per cent greater than in 1940, the last prewar year, pay rolls were nearly double but dividends were lower. There are many misunderstandings and misrepresentations about profits. Some people forget that reasonable profits are a necessary incentive of the American system, which results in abundant low-cost farm products and abundant low-cost steel products. It is up to those who know what profits are for, and what they can do, to see that they are not destroyed—and with them our high standard of living. Steel mills need all the scrap iron and steel they can get. The shortage is serious. Farmers can get extra dollars and help increase steel output by sending worn-out machinery, etc., on its way to the furnaces. AMERICAN IRON AND STEEL INSTITUTE, 350 Fifth Avenue, New York 1, N. Y. The Institute has printed a booklet STEEL SERVES THE FARMER. Write for a copy and it will be sent gladly.

"J. B." Star Hurler As Ft. Jackson Wins Seventh Army Title

The Record is indebted to J. B. Anderson, now with the 3412 MAM Ordnance company at Fort Jackson, S. C., for the record of the softball team representing that Fort. The article is from the Jackson Journal and gives an account of the victory of the Ft. Jackson team clinching their hold on the Seventh Army title. Previously they had played teams from Florida, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia and other sections.

Ft. Jackson Wins 7th Army Softball Title

The 7th Army softball tournament was decided last Saturday when an inspired Fort Jackson nine, sparked by the hurling of Pfc. Joe Anderson and the hitting of Pvt. Clarence Cassing, downed the Ft. Benning Diamonders by a score of 3-2 in the second game of a double-header.

Previously the Fort Benning team had beaten the Red Raiders 5-1 but the Jackson squad came from behind twice in the second game to win the series. Pitcher Joe Anderson was easily the outstanding player of the series. He was the winning pitcher in four of the five winning games, and was also one of the leading sluggers with a batting average of .384. He struck out 11 batters in his first game and walked but one man in the total five games. "Andy's" single in the final game brought in two runs and combined with Cassing's homer in the sixth inning to win the tournament for Fort Jackson. Shortstop Clarence Cassing's slugging was another triumph of the Red Raiders. He batted out two home runs in the tourney, one in the first game and one in the final. He hit long drives consistently to grab a .375 for the playoffs. Mention too, should be made of the supple fielding of Sgt. Ernest Toney, who played a fine game at the third base post.

Clark Plant Starts 1946-7 Season With 24 Bowling Teams

The bowling season for the Clark Equipment leagues opened last week with 24 teams playing, including the B and BE leagues playing Monday night and the A and AA leagues playing Thursday night. There are six teams entered in the midnight league. A great deal of interest is being shown, according to Recreation Leader Sven.

The softball team of the local plant lost 5-3 to the Decatur team Wednesday evening, Sept. 19. The Clark team had won the previous game from Decatur.

The Buchanan plant golfing teams lost to the Jackson plant teams at Jackson on Sept. 20. Buchanan won 18 to 13. The Buchanan plant possibly fared worse in the score because it was necessary on account of rain to decide the last five games by lot. Buchanan lost four tosses out of five.

American Legion Adopts Resolution On Food Shortages

At the regular meeting of the American Legion in their hall on Thursday evening, the following resolution was offered by Lester McGowan, and was adopted with the understanding that copies be sent to the state headquarters and to the state senators and congressmen listed.

"Whereas, we, the members of the American Legion, know that the shortage of foods and other commodities has placed the people of this country far below the level of the American standard of living, which he believes is unnecessary and largely caused by the control of the O. P. A. has over price ceilings, and

"Whereas, we further believe that the continuation of such shortage of vital foods will eventually jeopardize the health and welfare of American children, therefore:

"Be it resolved, that we, the members of the American Legion, as urging Senators Vandenberg and Ferguson of Michigan and Representative Clare Hoffman of the Fourth Congressional District of Michigan to use all means within their power to locate and eradicate the causes which have placed the American people in this category of living standards."

Grassed Waterway Grown To Channel Water In Orchard

Recently Henry Nichols of Bainbridge township constructed a grassed waterway and is now wishing for a gentle rain to bring up the grass.

Now is the time for construction of grassed waterways, states J. Wayne Waterman, engineer of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, cooperating with the St. Joe River Soil Conservation District.

The first step in the construction starts with the shaping of a broad and relatively shallow channel so that the water will flow over a wide area and not very deep.

With the channel properly shaped, a seed bed should be prepared by thoroughly loosening and working up several inches of soil and then firmly packing by rolling.

An important step is the liberal application of fertilizer. This should be followed with a seeding of a permanent grass mixture seeded with a nurse crop of oats or rye and then covered with a light mulch.

Mineral Salts - The earliest record of the use of mineral salts for increasing crop yields appeared in 1660 at Gresham college, England.

Matching Lamp Shade - To get a lamp shade to match the davenport or draperies, strip a shabby living room shade to its frame. Cover it with plain cotton left from a slip covering job. Sew it in place along top and bottom of frame with yarn in a loose buttonhole-stitch. Snip flowers from drapery leftovers, pin on, stitch around them the same way.

Tales of An Old Town

An Attempt to Reproduce a Cross Section of The American Scene, As Witnessed Here Through the Past Century

John Holmes, The Oldtime Editor, Was Builder Of Buchanan

Some months ago, the Record enjoyed a visit from Nellie Holmes Hansen, daughter of a former publisher, John Holmes.

story up a bit and print it, with appropriate regrets to Mrs. Hansen over the fact that it did not appear at a timely date.

During the past week this writer had the pleasure of a visit with Nelly Holmes Hansen, now of Cedar Rapids, but a native of Buchanan and a daughter of a former publisher of the Record, John Holmes.

Holmes sold the Record about 1895, after 19 years of ownership and publication. The writer came here about 33 years later, and never had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Holmes. However, he always kept in touch with the publication which he had guided during his young and middle manhood. He followed with particular interest the articles on early Buchanan history, and until his death about 1935, it was rare, when any historical article of general interest was published, that John didn't write a follow-up with additions or corrections or refutations.

His death was a matter of deep regret, to the writer, as his frequent communications had given him the status of a friend. Moreover, we had scanned the news of practically all of the issues of the Record during his 19 years as publisher, and so had formed a mental acquaintanceship.

In addition to being a newspaper publisher, Holmes was a real estate promoter who did a real service to his town, although as events turned he did not personally profit. Perhaps there would have been eventually a power dam on the St. Joseph river below Buchanan without the promotion of Holmes, but it is a fact that when it came it was through his efforts.

Hardly had the invention of electric lights by Edison been announced to the world before John Holmes was campaigning for electric lights for Buchanan. That was in 1879, and the lights were a reality 18 years later. They were a reality because John Holmes, after championing the improvement through his paper for years, made up his mind that one way to get the thing done would be to do it himself. Consequently he formed a partnership with a man by the name of English. The firm name of Holmes & English has been perpetuated on the maps of Buchanan by the addition which they plotted.

But the partners had the misfortune of embarking on their enterprise just as the major depression of 1893 broke and were obliged to turn over their venture to other hands. But Holmes was the first business man in Buchanan to install electric power for his equipment. And the Record was the first business house in Buchanan to install running water, when the power-driven pumps were installed immediately after the power dam was built.

Difficulties which the promotion incurred because of the business conditions, aroused a strong opposition, but the enterprise went through. But for many years Holmes' slogan had been "Dam the river and boom the town." His opponents altered the slogan to run "Boom the river and damn the town." A prophet in words in the above paraphrase is perhaps not as plain to the present-day reader as it was to the people of sawmill days. A "boom" in river traffic days was a heavy timber which served to hold in check traffic floating on the river surface.

John Holmes was a stalwart Republican and a more stalwart prohibitionist who never pulled his punches. However, when the occasion justified he could step across the lines with equally caustic utterances.

For instance, not long after he came here and in the depression of the later seventies of the last century, a woman starved to death in Buchanan. The first story was that she had arrived here on foot with her husband a week before her death, and that after finding a room and installing her the husband deserted her. However more evidence refuted that version. Holmes reported the second-week-after-her-death that she and her husband had walked to Buchanan from St. Louis, Mo., trying to find work, that they had slept outdoors in woods while en route. After they arrived here the husband secured a room for his wife and then left for a tramp afoot in search of work. While she was gone his wife suddenly became very ill. The fact was discovered by people who reported that her condition was at least in part due to lack of food. She was then too far gone and died, with the husband still away. The news went around in the county press that she had starved to death after having been deserted by her husband. He was then in the neighborhood of Watervliet. The report came to him and frightened him, so that he did not immediately make known where he was. Holmes stated that when he finally reported, a sum was taken up in a local saloon for the burial and the saloon-keeper hired a team and buggy and drove to Watervliet for the husband. Holmes extracted a scathing story of the husband's alleged defection, printed the previous week, and said, in substance, "It is strange that so often in instances of tragic need, the immediate response is made by those at whom the righteous are inclined to point accusing fingers."

In oldtime editorial style Holmes always called a spade a spade—in fact his enemies alleged that he sometimes called a spade a steam shovel. His enemies were many but it is likely that most of them held him in secret respect. In his valedictory on leaving the paper he wrote that not less than fifty enraged readers had stated an intention of hating him, but none had ever gotten as far as his office.

PURELY INCIDENTAL

by Lew Barwick

Dear Readers

PT (Purely Incidental), in printers slang, is a mixture of all sorts of type, that is, a "mess" and this column is a mixture, "enuff said" I will confess that the picture interrupting this column was taken in an Illinois police station. Imagine me in a police station! I do not remember the occasion, but since I gave the detectives a good plug now and then in the daily jab, the chief allowed me to smile. Most criminals you know have to display a "serious attitude" while being mugged". I never am that serious so they took me in a natural pose. Memories, ah memories, seems I had to leave that town. The lead, and I don't mean printers lead, got too heavy for me to carry.

FOOTBALL SHORT STORY

Well, the old gridiron season is back in full swing and it reminds me of one of my favorite football snappies. A rookie reached the eye examination and was asked if he could read the last line which looked something like this "KZSM-NYSKYK". "Can you read that?" okay asked the doctor? "Sure", cracked the lad. "I know him well, he played guard for Notre Dame last year."

—PI—

OLD vs NEW

The only difference between a so-called old-fashioned woman and a modern woman is the old-fashioned woman used to darn her husband's socks while the modern woman socks her darn husband. (Didn't I tell the truth here though—For once)

ORCHIDS OF THE WEEK

To the police department for nabbing those sidewalk cyclists to the person who can find a hair restorer for Lee Allis, to the middle-aged gentleman that can come up with the pep of Hiram Froman to the person who will plug up that 6 o'clock whistle (my pool head) to this newspaper for being so considerate. A newspaper sure has to put up with a lot nowadays.

OBBLIGING JAILKEEPER

A solitary prisoner sat in his cell one day and wanted some reading material to pass away the time. He called for the prison keeper and asked for a book. Ever obliging, the prison keeper returned with the book entitled "They Can't Hang Me". Who said policemen didn't have a heart?

FATHERLY LOVE

A Buchanan gentleman coming in the Mediterranean wrot home to his son "I am now standing on the edge of the precipice from which the ancient Spartans flung their defective children. I am so sorry you are not with me."

SET YOUR SIGHTS

It takes planning to achieve a goal

Some young men know what they want and plan for it. Others are still looking for their niche. The new Regular Army can help both. Perhaps you want to go to college but can't afford it. If you enlist in the Army, you'll get your chance. Honorably discharged after a three-year enlistment, you are eligible for 48 months of education at any college, trade, or business school for which you can qualify. The Government will pay your tuition, laboratory fees, etc., up to $500 per ordinary school year, plus $65 a month living allowance—$90 a month if you have dependents.

If you haven't found your spot, an Army enlistment offers you training in any of 200 trades and skills. You leave the service eligible for further training at the best civilian schools. You can assure yourself of the benefits of the GI Bill of Rights if you enter the Army on or before October 5, 1946. See your nearest Army Recruiting Station for details.

- 2 Enlistment age from 18 to 34 years inclusive (17 with parents consent) and no limit for men in Army who may reenlist at any age, and former service men depending on length of service
- 3 A reenlistment bonus of $50 for each year of active service since such bonus was last paid, or since last entry into service, provided reenlistment is within 3 months after last honorable discharge
- 4 A furlough for men who reenlist within 20 days. Full details of other furlough privileges can be obtained from Recruiting Officers
- 5 Mustering-out pay (based upon length of service) to all men who are discharged to enlist or reenlist

he's a pain in the heart when he isn't. Men and pins are useless if they lose their heads. Boy—noise with dirt on it. A man must make a way for himself or make way for others. Many people have a good aim in life, but so many fail to pull the trigger. A great many family trees started by grating. Farewell, for another week and with this thought in mind I bid adieu. "People who mind their own business should succeed, there is so little competition."

Conservation Dept. Is Buying Red And White Pine Cones

So short is the red pine cone crop this season that the conservation department's forestry division is asking for "tips" on the location of cone-bearing red pine trees. District foresters now are buying white pine cones at five cents a pound and red pine cones at 10 cents a pound where they can get them. Supplies of red pine seed are so scarce and scattered this season the district foresters want to know about them, so either at-arrangements may be made for collecting them if local people are not interested in gathering the seed for sale. The cones should be picked before October. White and red pine seed are needed for getting the state's pine nursery into production again, after suspension of seeding during the war years. Cuttings Root Cuttings made of shrubs, trees and many flowers such as petunias and carnations will root immediately if given half shade and plenty of moisture.

This is the wire that carries the power that heats the iron, and turns the washer that does the wash, that helps the wife keep house in the house that Jack built. This is the story of better living—of electric living—in Jack's house. The tale could go on endlessly. For electricity is a servant of many talents, of which washing and ironing are but two. The electric power that helps Jack's wife is always ready, dependable, available in any quantity at any time. And Jack doesn't need much jack to pay the bill. This is the company that strings the wires and makes the power that gives the Jacks—and countless families like them—all the comforts and convenience of electric living. From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Going Fishing? Here's How! To hear Willie Wells and Basil Strube arguing about trout fishing, you'd think it was more important than the atom bomb. Willie favors dry flies, Basil pooh-poohs anything but wet flies. Willie swears by the Royal Coachman; Basil says there's nothing but a Silver Dancer. And by the time it comes to rods versus bamboo rods... But on September each got back from Seward's creek with a catch that couldn't have differed by more than several ounces! Each had used his favorite kind of fly, his favorite rod and his favorite place to cast. So over a friendly glass of beer, they allowed as how maybe they were both right... which is how so many arguments should end. From where I sit, if we all respected one another's different opinions—whether about trout flies, or drinking beer, or voting, life would be a whole lot pleasanter.

Three's a Crowd when Two Are Talking

You know how distracting it is for a telephone conversation to be interrupted by a third person clicking the receiver or, in some other manner, trying to use the line when it's in use. It just isn't done by thoughtful rural line-neighbors. Keeping calls short is courteous, too. And hanging-up carefully frees the line for the next fellow.

Although material shortages have been holding us back, we're making progress on our 5-year $13,500,000 program to expand and improve rural telephone service. One of our chief aims is to reduce the number of parties per line on over-crowded lines.
