Now Here's the Proposition

Uncle Hank of Hills Corners Sez

A man is never so able to be dead wrong as when he is too sure he is dead right

He is the sort of feller whom you mite see walkin' down the street in blue slacks an' a derby hat, of you git what I mean-

What! No Pants Hangers! The depths of my spirit boil up in felonious urges

When I think of the state of my ducks and my pinstripes and serges

For this world is a place that is pretty well gone to the 'Towers

When us fashion plates have nothing wherewith we can hang up our trousers,

And they drag at the heels and they sag at the knee and the bosom

Till I feel I could jolly well slip my suspenders and lose 'em

I think of the days, as madly my forehead I pummel,

When my pants were the pride and despair of the village Beau Brummels—

The days when I ankled, the joy of my aunts and my nieces, In trousers gorgeous with fore and aft razor-edge creases

The thing I should do is to very carefully fold 'em

And let the War Production Board stand in the corner and hold 'em

Or should I unpants me and walk in the future beserked?

Or hang by my toes on a hook in the 'oldest inverted?

If the government will not provide me with gadgets for keepin' 'em

I am tempted to simply crawl in to the hay and sleep in 'em

They could hang on a chair or a post of course, but instead, I think I shall mutter "oh heck" and just wear 'em to bed

Wherein Jimmy Garren Plays Safe About the best bass catch of the season was achieved by James Garren, who was fishing an ensemble of five beauties before other envious fishermen Friday evening

"How much do they weigh?" responded Mr. Garren, restating the inquiry put to him by a representative of the press "You can just tell them—anywhere from 1 to 6 pounds. That is the statement I'm putting out this summer on all occasions of this kind

County - State Engineers Look Over Pavements

To Make Tests of Samples Before Giving Verdict on Street Condition

Inspection of Buchanan blacktop pavements as a preliminary to determination what streets should be completed by a seal coat and what streets or sections of streets must first be rebuilt was completed last week by Roy De Haven, Berrien county road engineer, and Mr. Dohlman, expert on sub-pavement conditions from the Michigan highway department

The two experts were accompanied on their inspection by C. J. Bradley, chairman of the street committee of the city commission. He stated that the two men indicated that certain portions at least, including sections on Moccasin avenue and Fourth street, and undoubtedly considerably more must be repaved. They took specimens of the pavement from all parts of the city, to be analyzed in the laboratory of the Michigan highway department. The results of these analyses will determine the extent of replacement necessary

To Rebuild and Refill Sandpile Box at K. Park

The horseshoe tournament held at Kathryn park resulted as follows: boys prize, Max Luke, girls prize, Emily Sekan

The Buchanan Youth Council donated two sets of horseshoes and a croquet set to the park equipment. Arrangements have been made for construction of a new box around the sandpile, to be 16 feet square, and the refilling of this with entirely new sand. Plans for fencing the pile with wire to keep animals out have been delayed by difficulty in getting wire and iron posts

65 Are Enrolled In Library Club

An enrollment of sixty-five busy book readers is reported in the "Reading For Fun Airplane Club" at the Buchanan public library, according to the librarian, Mrs. Lillian Vignansky. Each member will be required to read a minimum of fourteen books to receive a certificate of completion and to participate in the "surprise award" at the end. The first member to complete the required 14 books with satisfactory reports is Lyle Mitchell, who is now well on his way toward doubling the minimum requirement and who says it was a dam liar if I say they weighed from one to six pounds each, they're gonna have their style cramped a bit. I been called a dam liar for years by fellows who can't catch fish as good as I can, and that covers about all of them. They will all be lined up when the Record comes out next week all ready to say it is a liar, Jimmie Garren is a liar. But what will they say now? Where did I catch 'em? Oh, tell 'em Hazen lake. That's as good a story as any. They won't believe it whatever you say

Ruth Montgomery Heard on "Meet the Navy" Program

Buchanan listeners had the pleasure of hearing a talk by Miss Ruth Montgomery over the "Meet the Navy" program broadcast over a Chicago station a week ago Sunday. Miss Montgomery was actually at Hunters College, New York City, at that time, but her voice came from a transcribed record at the Chicago broadcasting station. The transcription was made during an excursion of 60 WAVES from the steamship City of Grand Rapids from Benton Harbor to Chicago. Each WAVE was asked why she joined up and how she thought she would like the service. Since there was not time to get all of the girls in front of the microphone during the program time, transcriptions were made and broadcast on succeeding Sundays.

Navy Mothers Still Collecting Jewelry

The Navy Mothers club is making a final round up of discarded jewelry in the Buchanan district and anyone who has broken trinkets may turn them in to Mrs. Claude Hess at 111 West Front street. Related receipts of odd lots of jewelry have made it necessary for the club to make still another shipment for use in purchasing the services of natives in the southwest Pacific area, which accounts for the extension of the date of collection. Another and final shipment will be made early in August.

Urge Oil Users to Apply at Once For Next Year's Fuel

Occupants of oil heated homes were urged by the office of price administration today to return their applications for next year's fuel oil rations to their war price and rationing boards, according to L. L. Anderson, district OPA fuel rationing officer. This should be done, if possible, within the next 48 hours. While there is no deadline for filing applications, it is very possible that those who delay may find it difficult to get supplies before the first cold weather arrives next fall, Anderson pointed out. Distribution of the simple return application form to householders in this area who received a ration of fuel oil last year has been completed, OPA reported. Many of these have been returned, and boards have already processed the applications and mailed the new rations to a large number of the applicants. Dealers can give consumers better delivery service throughout the year if they can begin deliveries in the summer. This helps dealers solve manpower and truck shortage problems, and it also enables them to add appreciably to the total storage capacity in the rationed area.

Public Cooperation Can Also Help the Rationing Board, APO Stated

Customers can be best assured that their applications will be handled promptly if they file them early.

Among the types of equipment for which a fuel oil ration may now be obtained by farmers are burners used for peppers, and sweet potatoes; tank heaters to prevent livestock troughs from freezing; incubators; brooders; and poultry growing and laying batteries.

It is important that dealers and the government have immediately the information which applicants for renewals will provide about the amount and kind of oil rations that each consumer requires. This information tells dealers and the government how much of each type of oil to bring into each neighborhood throughout next year.

Applications are to be returned to the local war price and rationing board.

Jack C. Zatenba, Information Officer.

Long had just crossed Front street from the north to the south side at the crossing opposite the Wisner Corner Drug in company with George Naragon, when he complained of being ill and asked to have a taxi called. He sat down on the ledge below the east window of the former quarters of the Royal Blue grocery. Naragon went to get a taxi and not being able to get one at once he returned to see Long. He found him in such condition that he decided to get a doctor first and after some difficulty secured one. On his return with the physician the latter pronounced Long already dead. He had been in poor health for some time, having quit work at the Buchanan Steel Corporation some time before that account.

Victory Hurried By Home Canning Food Expert Says

Food produced by American farmers and preserved by the nation's housewives is helping win the battle of Europe just as it helped subdue North Africa, the nation's leading buyer of fresh fruits and vegetables said today. "One major sign that American women are going all-out in the war effort is in their response to the home-canning campaign, which is bolstering home food supplies and releasing more commercially-processed food for our armed forces and for peoples freed from Axis domination," said Harvey A. Baum, head of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company's produce-buying operations. "That housewives are making 1943 the biggest home-canning year in history is indicated by a 300 percent increase over last year in A & P sales of glass jars and other canning supplies."

Citing a news report from the Mediterranean area that food supplies have been unloaded to feed the civilian population of southern Sicily, Baum added: "If Sicily alone there are at least 3,500,000 civilians, a large percentage undernourished, to whom the assurance of food will mean more than allegiance to a fading dictator. Of course, home-canned food doesn't go overseas, but each glass jar of it makes available an equivalent amount for use in the thick of the fight for freedom."

★ BONDS BUILD FORTRESSES FOR FREEDOM! ★

To THE boy beside him, this Boeing Fortress pilot ranks with Superman.

One look at the instrument panel and you feel the same way. It's hard to believe that ordinary mortals could ever master the maze of dials, buttons, levers and switches required to fly and fight a thirty-ton bomber.

But young Americans are doing it with deadly efficiency. (Ask Adolf, Benito or Tojo.) And they don't learn their jobs just by reading a book. It takes intensive training and practical experience to produce the bomber teams who risk their lives together.

The electric power business is like that. You can't make kilowatt-hours with theories. You've got to learn how — by growing up in the business.

That's the way most electric company men got their start. It's the American way. Do a better job and you get better jobs to do.

The system is simple, but it works.

It works so well that the electric companies under business management were able to push power production up and up to supply war plants with far more electric power than any nation has ever known before — and at low rates.

Do not waste Electricity just because it is not rationed

Cover Crops Sown In Orchards Save Moisture and Soil

"Cover crops sown in orchards in the next few weeks will result in a tremendous saving of soil and moisture over those orchards which do not have cover," states H. J. Lurkins, Berrien county agricultural agent.
 While recent rains have caused severe erosion loss in orchards, damage was relatively small where the orchard had a good protective cover. While fields were clean cultivated, tons of our best soil were carried off even though orange silters were used.
 A mixture of one bushel of oats, 1/2 bushel of rye and from 5 to 10 pounds of hairy vetch per acre will provide good protection against winter and early spring erosion losses. In addition it prevents valuable plant nutrients from leaching away and adds nitrogen and organic material when disked into the soil. Other mixtures which do equally well are: 1 bushel of oats, 1/2 bushel of winter speltz and 5 to 10 pounds of vetch; or 10 pounds German millet, 1/2 bushel of rye or speltz, and 5 to 10 pounds of vetch. Any winter cover should be part legume and part non-legume, part to make a good growth in the fall and die down and part to live through the winter to be disked during the spring. Mr. Lurkins points out.

Cover crops should be sown at once in non-bearing orchards which do not have a summer cover. Bearing orchards and orchards having a summer cover crop should be sown during the first week of August if at all possible. When sowing over winter cover crops here there is now summer cover, only enough diskage should be done to cover the soil. This diskage should be done just as the crop as much as possible. Mr. Lurkins cautions that heavy diskage of summer cover may stimulate late growth in the trees, thus leaving them subject to winter injury and furthermore, that heavy diskage leaves the soil subject to severe erosion.
 Disking cover crops lightly the following year, in such a manner as to leave the material on the surface in the form of a mulch, will hold valuable plant nutrients and moisture for the trees, Mr. Lurkins says.

Unwrap Vegetables as soon as they come from the store, removing any imperfections and washing carefully are good rules to follow. Importance of proper conditions of humidity and temperature for storage can not be overemphasized. If you have a hydrator in your refrigerator, all means use it for storing your vegetables, otherwise cellophane or oil silk bags or any tightly covered container large enough to hold the vegetables may be used.

Earthen Walls Endure

Certain of the most distinctive habits of the Bronze age Chinese were already practiced in a simple form by the people who lived in the Black Pottery villages. One of these traits was building city walls of pounded earth. To make this type of wall wooden frames were put in position and earth was dumped between the frames and pounded down until it was exceedingly hard. Walls made by this method could be built quite high and sometimes endured for centuries. The wall at Cheng-tzu-yai can still be distinguished.

Buckthorn Sometimes Is Called the Christ-Thorn

The buckthorn is one of a very large family whose members grow all over the world Some of them have long and interesting histories, but only a few of them live up to the family name by producing thorns, says a writer in the Chicago Tribune Probably the most famous variety is the Asia Minor and European buckthorn, which is sometimes called the Christ-thorn It got its name from the legend that the crown of thorns which Christ was forced to wear was made from this shrub.

English writings in the Eleventh century mention the buckthorn (also known as waythorn or Hartshorn) and its uses in medicine Welsh physicians in the Thirteenth century used to advise that the juice of the buckthorn berry be mixed with honey and taken as an aperient drink

One of the most interesting relatives of the common buckthorn is the species which grows in the western states The Indians like the dark berries of the western buckthorn, which is unique in that it is said to color the body of anyone who eats the berries Soldiers fighting Apaches in the early days reported they found Indians whose bodies were red from gorging on the buckthorn berries

The buckthorn's use in medicine is not its only recommendation. Its small greenish-yellow flowers are especially favored by the bees, goats, sheep, and horses like to eat the berries, although cows refuse to touch them. Gathered before they are ripe, the berries make a yellow dye used for staining papers and maps. A different shade of yellow dye is prepared from the bark of the buckthorn, and the ripe berries make a green pigment when mixed with other ingredients.

To the landowner, farmer and outdoor fan the buckthorn is a decorative shrub which bears an attractive purple berry in the fall and keeps its waxy green leaves until very late in the season.

Army Recruits Homing Pigeons

Hundreds to Be Added Under Defense Plans to 2,000 Now in Service.

WASHINGTON—Under defense plans the army signal corps will add hundreds of homing pigeons to the 2,000 now in the service. Close to a half million served the opposing armed forces during the last World war.

The pigeons, capable of flying up to 600 miles a day at an average speed of 35 miles per hour, are used to carry to headquarters messages from combat and observation aircraft, tanks and units cut off from ordinary channels of communication. The messages are placed in a capsule attached to a band on the bird's leg.

Among the 20,000 pigeons in the United States army during the last war were many whose deeds of valor equaled those of any soldier.

Tributes to Heroic Birds. The Signal Corps Manual for pigeon-handlers pictures two of them with these tributes: "The Mocker," with one eye destroyed by a piece of shrapnel and his head a weller of clotted blood homed in from the Beaumont front (in France) early in the morning of Sept. 12, 1918. This bird carried a message of great importance which gave the location of several of the advancing heavy batteries that were doing terrible execution on American troops. The information enabled the American artillery to silence the enemy's guns within twenty minutes.

"The President Wilson," on the morning of Nov. 5, 1918, through heavy fog and with a leg shot off, arrived at his loft (on the Western Front) with an important message. Mounted and preserved in the United States Museum of Natural History in Washington is "Cher Ami," known as the army's most famous pigeon of the World war. He was credited with carrying—with one leg shattered and a machine-gun bullet in the breast—a message that saved the "Lost Battalion."

Training Pigeons. At Fort Monmouth, N J., the signal corps school and training base for pigeons, is one of the bird veterans of the World war. He served with the German army 23 years ago and was captured and brought to the United States. He has attained an age seldom equaled by his kind.

Mobile lofts, each housing 60 birds, are being assigned to various army posts. Army records disclosed that the first extensive use of the birds by American troops in battle was during the Aisne-Marne offensive in the World war between August 29 and September 11, 1918. A mobile loft operating near the line received 78 important messages and 148 test messages.

Of the 72 birds used from this loft not one failed to return. However, casualties in other engagements were not uncommon. At the beginning of the last World war Germany operated an efficient and well-established pigeon service in all arms. The allies developed similar service early in the war and the German army resorted to trained hawks—in addition to gunfire—to destroy the enemy's pigeons.

Maryland Grist Mill Has Operated for 270 Years

DENTON, MD.—A grist mill that turned out flour for Washington's army during the Revolution is in daily use here in what tradition says is its 270th year of operation. The water-powered mill, said to be unchanged since Colonial days, is operated by F. S. Langrell. The frame building, large and roomy, is known as James Murray's mill, on the banks of the mill stream, Hunting creek.

When Maj Nathaniel Potter of Potter's Landing near here was commissioned to buy flour for General Washington's troops, he went to Murray, who ground corn meal for the soldiers.

Grandma's Stereoscope to Stage Genuine Comeback

CAMBRIDGE, MASS.—Grandmother's old stereoscope will be back into use again soon, with the age of the third dimension in illustration about to write its page in history. Already at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology students are studying descriptive geometry through a modernized version of the stereoscope.

It is predicted that in the home, too, it will soon be "standard equipment." And even in the movies they're flirting with the idea of stereoscopes.

Match Is Believed Cause Of This Rooster's Death

PARIS, MO.—A scorched rooster was recently displayed here by Mrs Longnecker. Investigation revealed a burnt match and scorched places on the gizzard lining.

She believed the grit in the gizzard ignited the match.

The three stamps now valid—N, P, and Q, may be used through August 7. OPA suggested, now that supplies of fresh fruits and vegetables are considered plentiful, that families which do not use all of their blue stamps destroy them promptly.

War Expenses Cut for Britain

Millions of Pounds Saved For Many Taxpayers by Special Board.

LONDON—Meeting in quiet conferences in an oak-paneled room in the shadow of London's "Big Ben," a committee headed by Sir John Wardlaw-Milne, economist, has saved British taxpayers millions of pounds by cutting unnecessary expenditures in government departments since the start of the war...

Each member of the "team," which is known as the select committee on national expenditure, is a modern Sherlock Holmes. Each does his own investigating and field work. Since the committee was formed, more than 1,000 witnesses have been interviewed at more than 500 hearings. Each of these hearings has resulted in some new saving to the government...

Members of the committee have traveled thousands of miles to obtain evidence of possible savings. They have studied dock yards, airports, factories, film studios, munition works, fire-fighting units, and a variety of government offices.

Ship Costs Cut Sharply... It was about a year ago that Sir John put his finger on the pulse of Britain's sea might and realized that, although the expenses of ship building were rising sharply, the increased output did not seem to be in ratio to the expenditure. Accordingly, committee members visited shipyards in major British cities and soon found the cause for mounting expenses...

Ultra-Violet Rays Bare Theft of Dimes in Mint... PHILADELPHIA—Edwin H. Dressel, superintendent of the United States mint here, credited science with the arrest of a 35-year-old mint employe on charges of stealing 22 dimes. "All right," Mr. Dressel quoted Kraft as saying, "I stole them."

Shang-Ri-La field, perhaps strangest army air force field in the nation, has been opened at Glendale, Calif. Duplicating field conditions in remote operating areas, the old field offers practical knowledge of how planes and engines may be changed and serviced under actual combat conditions. Dispersal of ships and camouflaging of aircraft is practical.

Buchanan Youth Council News

Edna Lajver, Editor

YOUTH COUNCIL EMPLOYMENT SERVICE

The employment service continues to thrive without too many mishaps. Since this year's work is really in the experimental stage, we are bound to make more mistakes than usual. Each time that we send out the groups of youngsters to pick berries for the farmers in the near vicinity, we find some detail of operation that can be improved upon the next time a group goes out. Already we have found that by sending out small groups of six or eight people, the youngsters do better work. Better results are obtained also when the farmers are in the field with the youngsters to supervise their work.

Friday's Dance... Just a mere storm doesn't keep the young Buchanan dancers from their dancing. Not on your life—when 9 o'clock rolled around Friday all the local "sheep cats" were crowding at the door of the Recreation room to get it. When we walked in the door we knew we were going to have some fun then ever, as soon as we looked at the boys taking the money and we really got into the swing of things as we listened proudly to our friends in the band playing our favorite melodies, and to our pretty songstress Bonnie June. We had a large attendance, including quite a few guests from Camp Freedom and Camp Blackhawk who were incidentally very good dancers. It is to be hoped that they will encourage the Buchanan boys to dance. A popular visitor was David Nozruk of Camp Freedom, who came shoeless. Another was Oscar Klaus, a band leader with no end of popularity as a dancer. The Buchanan boys ought to learn to dance. We also had visitors from the armed forces. One was Tom Huff, who is an electrician's mate at Great Lakes, Ill. He is here on a 12-day leave which started Monday. Another was David Myers, who had been at Great Lakes, but was here on a 60-day liberty before being moved. A third was Carl Longworth, Jr., who is in the civil air patrol. He is now employed at the Clark Equipment company. All of these boys used to attend the Youth Council events.

We hope to have more dances like this, and that more and more people will continue to have as much faith in our work as they have had up to the present time. By our experimentation this summer we will be able to place before the public a much more unified and selective employment service next summer. Only by the efforts of both the youngsters and townspeople will we be able to prove the worth of the employment service to the community.

Berrien and Cass C. Endeavor Union Hold Annual Picnic

The Berrien-Cass Christian Endeavor Union enjoyed their annual picnic at the Grand View Park, south of St. Joseph, Monday evening, July 19, with 100 persons present. Guests were present from the Clay Street Baptist church.

The recreational picnic was under the leadership of Glenn Dressel, with a ball game as the main feature. A potluck supper was served at tables outdoors under the trees at 7:00 p. m. The committee in charge was under the direction of Hilda Willowsky, Mary Burgess, Rose Bittner and Rex Sheeley.

A Galilean service culminated the evening. The service was conducted from a boat on the St. Joseph river, with the audience on the river bank. A quartet, composed of Betty Jean and Ma Etta Kellogg, and Minnie and Jeanne Bittner, sang "Day is Dying in the West" and "Now the Day is Over."

Edwin A. Miller, a theological student at the Rochester Baptist Seminary in New York, was the speaker, using "Sharing the Victorious Life with Others" as his theme. Mr. Miller emphasized the idea that it is our duty as Christian Endeavorers to share the victorious life by sharing our fellowship with Christ. The only book that many people in the world today have is by watching the lives and actions of the Christians. Mr. Miller explained that it is our call and task to help spread Christianity throughout the world today.

MSC Advises to Replace Grains by Pasture and Silage

Michigan's record number of livestock will get some changes in diet or go to slaughter markets in unpalatable condition, according to a summary of average grain, grass and livestock feeds by G. A. Bannaman of the Michigan State college annual husbandry department.

He advises farmers to take advantage of the excellent grass and legume growth brought on by extra rains. Maximum production from Michigan pastures, in his opinion, is essential to war programs.

Hay fields on many farms will produce more livestock products if pastured than if harvested as hay. Farmers also can give animal access to second-cutting legume crops.

With the pasture, livestock should get water, shade and salt. Grazing where feeding, trouble, cost, phossorous, cobalt or calcium may be lacking, County agricultural agents can help solve such feeding problems, according to Bannaman.

What can livestock men do in planning feed after pastures dry up? One suggestion is to plan on supplies of corn silage. Late planted corn that may never mature in time to escape frost damage, can go into a silo and help save other corn supplies. Tests at Michigan State college show that weanling steers require 50 per cent more corn silage to get fed on silage and hay than if they are fed corn silage and limited amounts of good hay.

Repair of old silos now is suggested by Bannaman to hold silage for a prospective soft corn crop or regular ensilage corn. Snow fence and tar paper, baled straw or trench silos also will help hold the emergency feed.

First Gas Attack

A sidelight on military history is that St. Lucia was the scene of what has been called the first "poison gas" attack in the Western hemisphere. Native Caribs drove out early British settlers by burning quantities of red peppers so that the trade winds carried the destructive fumes into the colony.

Buy War Savings Stamps and Bonds

Every evening when the employees of an eastern airplane company gather at the railroad station for the train home, the day's batch of newly assembled planes fly overhead so that those who participated in manufacturing them may see their handiwork in action and speed them on their way.

Civilians Allotted Limited Am't Canned Fruits, Vegetables

Civilians will receive nearly 70 percent of the prospective supply of canned vegetables, including soups, and 53 percent of the canned fruits and juices during the next 12 months, the War Food Administration said today in announcing the allocation of these commodities. The quantities allocated for civilians will provide during the 12 months beginning July 1 about 4 percent more of the vegetable products than were consumed on the average during the 1935-39 period, but about 40 percent less of canned fruits. In terms of total quantities of both groups of products, this represents about 213 million cases for civilians during the next 12 months, compared with estimated civilian consumption of 278 million cases in 1942 and an average of 225 million cases during 1935-39. These supplies will be augmented by heavy home canning production.

During the next fiscal year, allocable supplies of canned vegetables including soups, baked beans, and baby foods, are estimated to total 262 million cases, with this prospective supply divided as follows: 70 percent to civilians, 26 percent for military and war services, and 12 percent for our Allies, and the remainder for other exports and contingency reserves.

Allocable supplies of canned fruits and juices, excluding citrus, are estimated to total 81 million cases. Civilians will receive approximately 53 percent, military and war services 40 percent, less than one-half of 1 percent to our Allies, and the remainder for reserves and other exports.

M. S. C. Advises Canned Tomato for Vitamin C Supply

Vitamin C can't be stored up in the human body, but a supply of properly canned tomatoes can be put away for next winter's use, it is pointed out by home economics extension specialists at Michigan State College. Experienced home canners need only the suggestion, but brides and older housewives who have relied on fresh produce or the can opener may have to follow the book to get tomatoes processed properly. Clean equipment, rapid handling and the use of fresh, sound fruit are recommended to prevent spoilage of juice or canned whole tomatoes. One bushel of tomatoes should yield 15 to 20 quarts when canned. Eight to 10 tomatoes, about three pounds, should yield a quart.

A boiling water bath canner is recommended by the MSC specialists. Any clean vessel will do, if it has a good lid and is large enough to hold a convenient number of jars and deep enough to cover jar tops with at least two inches of water. A wooden or wire rack is required, to keep jars off the bottom of the canner. Pressure canners are not recommended for tomatoes. The high temperature attained under pressure robs the tomatoes of flavor and color.

Jars should be filled to within a half inch with tomatoes or juice brought to a boil after sorting, coring and peeling. One teaspoon of salt to each quart is added, just before sealing and processing. After processing, jars should be tightened, but the seal should not be broken any time after processing until the tomatoes are to be used.

'Pay Dirt'
Mining is Sweden's chief industry with iron ore the main "pay dirt." Exports in 1939 topped 13,500,000 tons. Sweden also mines silver, lead, copper, zinc and manganese ores. Coal veins in the south are profitably worked. Quarrying is a sizable industry.

Education in Australia
Every child in Australia is assured of education under the principle of free compulsory and secular education. Education is under the control of the states, and has been absolutely free to the compulsory age since 1873 in Victoria and somewhat later in other states. The legal school minimum leaving age is 14.
