

PLAN COMMUNITY HOSPITAL SERVICE

City Organizations Propose War Memorial Project Near High School

Favor Athletic Field On Site West Of School

Group Formed To Study The Project And Report To Community

A definite World War II memorial project discussed for some time but never before materialized, was submitted to the Buchanan community Monday evening in the form of a proposal to create a school and community athletic field with substantial semi-permanent bleachers, with dressing rooms, showers and toilet facilities or field house on an acreage immediately adjacent and west of the high school building.

The build-up for the project had been made within the four previous days, following a discussion at the Lions club Thursday evening. Interest was considerable and a committee was appointed which met Sunday morning. This committee arranged for a meeting of people representative of the community at the high school Monday night. Organizations represented at the meeting were as follows: American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Navy Mothers Club, Mothers of World War II, Odd Fellows, Woodmen, Ellis, Moose, Women's Association, Business & Professional Women's Club, Parent-Teachers Association, UAW-CIO Local 465, Clark Equipment company, Buchanan Steel Corporation, Hubbard Tool Company, Lions Club, Indiana & Michigan Electric company, Buchanan Municipal Association, Buchanan Park Board, Buchanan School Board and interested individuals.

By the time of the Monday evening meeting a committee had secured a thirty-day option on 30 acres immediately west and southwest of the high school grounds, consisting of the five acres belonging to William Bohl on which his nursery is located, and 25 acres known as the Mathie-Bowers property. The acreage is more than would be needed, it was explained, but it would be necessary to buy both tracts in order to get the site.

Reasons for favoring this site over the present athletic park site were advanced as follows: the site next to the school is far more accessible to traffic, since it would be on main traveled roads and could be made accessible from all four sides, the ground is better drained, athletic field being too damp for comfort, the proposed site would be more convenient and more accessible for the use of the schools.

A nominating committee was appointed to select and propose a site of seven directors to be submitted for approval by those present. The following directors were proposed and approved: E. R. Desenberg, Walter Schirmer, Robert Koenigsht, R. C. Stark, Arthur Johnston, Leslie Chilson, C. J. Wilson, Julius Horvath. This board then convened and organized as follows: president, E. R. Desenberg, vice-president, C. J. Wilson; secretary-treasurer, Robert Koenigsht.

The board of directors stated later that the selection of the above-mentioned 30-acre site for the memorial stadium is not final, as other sites are being considered. Members present at the meeting commented later that they believed that the Athletic park already owned by the city should receive further consideration, inasmuch as the money which would be required to buy the thirty acres adjacent to the high school would go a ways toward construction of the present site.

The board of directors elected formed merely a steering organization to study the project and present studied findings to the public as soon as possible.

Preliminary opinions as to the nature of the memorial varied from concrete bleachers with dressing rooms, showers and toilets underneath to a field house. Opinions expressed later by a number of the younger men were in favor of a field house as the most practicable war memorial.

F. Higgins Barn, Opposite Orchard Hills, Burns Down

Buchanan And Niles Fire Crews Save House And Other Buildings

A large barn on the Floyd B. Higgins farm, two miles east of Buchanan on the Niles Road, was entirely destroyed by fire Thursday night and Friday morning, although both the Niles and Buchanan fire departments came and helped save other buildings.

The family said that they had gone to bed at 11:25 p. m. Five minutes later a young man driving by saw flames rising from the barn and drove into their driveway and called them out. The Higgins had seen the building within a few minutes before when they put their dog outdoors, and state that there was no sign of fire at that time. When they ran out within ten minutes later the whole structure was in flames.

They managed to get all of the cattle, horses and pigs out. The building burned entirely, together with nine loads of hay, 200 bushels of oats, 35 bushels of potatoes, a quantity of wheat, and a considerable amount of farm equipment.

The barn stood about 100 yards from the house. When the frame of the burning building collapsed, the wind suddenly veered, carrying a great shower of sparks and burning particles of wood toward the house. The exterior of the house caught fire, and for a few minutes it seemed likely that the dwelling might be lost in addition to the barn in spite of the efforts of the two fire-fighting crews. But in a few minutes the wind changed again, and the house was not badly damaged. A shed near the barn was also burned on the outside but was not destroyed.

The Higgins place stands on a hill back from the road, almost exactly opposite the water tower. The Higgins have owned and occupied the farm for the last eight years. Mr. Higgins estimates his loss at $15,000.

Saddler, Jr., of Chicago, who is doing vocational guidance work in the Clark Equipment company plant. He discussed the use of tests in educational and vocational guidance in schools and industries.

President John Kobe presided and appointed Charles H. King as committee chairman of the drive for funds for Pawating Hospital, Niles, which will be started here soon.

Two servicemen attended the meeting including Capt. William Burkett and S/Sgt. James Snider. Glenn Kinslett and Charles H. King were in charge of the entertainment.

Sends Water From New Well To Mich. Health Department

Street Commissioner Ed Mitchell reports that the new well at Athletic Park and its distribution outlets are now ready to supply additional water to the city and to materially increase the water pressure that will add to fire protection to the city.

Mitchell took samples of the water Wednesday of last week and sent them to the Michigan Health Department. The Michigan Health Department will not be available until the state tests the well. If the water is entirely pure it will be admitted to city water mains without chemicals. However, if slight impurities exist, the addition of chloride will be needed.

P. T. A. Works For A Safety Patrol Protection Here

There will be a meeting at the high school at 7:30 p. m. Thursday evening at which a representative of the traffic safety department of the Michigan unit of the Automobile Association of America will advise those present on how to set up and operate a student patrol.

This meeting is being held under the auspices of the Buchanan Parent-Teachers Association, which has been studying such organization with a view to installing the system here. A committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Everett Watson has made a traffic count on street corners with heaviest traffic during hours when children are on their way to and from school, including 15 minutes before 9 a. m., 15 minutes after 12 and before the noon hour and following the close of school.

The most dangerous congestion as it affects school children is at the corner of Chicago and Phelps streets, at the high school itself, according to the findings of the committee. Another danger spot is the junction of Fourth and Portage Streets. The Parent-Teachers Association has petitioned the city to have patrolmen safeguarding children at the intersections of Front and Oak and Front and Portage.

Ernest F. Davis, Detroit, director of the safety and traffic division of the Michigan Automobile Club will be in Buchanan today to meet with members of the school faculty and the P. T. A. school safety patrol project committee at 7:30 p. m. in Supt. Harold C. Stark's office.

Bucks Achieve Third Big-7 Win At Three Rivers

Take Game Hard Way Thru Foe's Heavy Line

(Maynard Post)

Buchanan high school's Bucks added another "famous first" to their 1945 record Friday night when they pounded through a heavy Three Rivers eleven for a decisive 29 to 13 win under the Three Rivers arcs, their first win over the Wildcats since the two teams opened their rivalry back in 1910. The Bucks, in halting up their third conference victory and their fifth straight for the season, really convinced the large assemblage of their superiority by doing it the hard way—by grinding out a total of 17 first downs and four touchdowns through the burly Three Rivers line and throwing three passes all night, one of which was for a point after touchdown. And any additional convincing that might be needed can be gained from the fact that the Bucks were forced to punt but once during the contest, that a forty yard boot by Don Gray that went out of bounds on the Wildcat 8 yard line and led to a safety for two unneeded points.

Although Owen Riffenberg received the credit for all four of the Buchanan touchdowns, plus one that was called back because of a penalty, it was the cohesive team play, of a hard-charging line and a driving set of backs that gave the Bucks their long-awaited revenge. With their offensive tactics limited simply to line bucks and reverses the brunt of the attack fell on the Buchanan line, considered to be of doubtful caliber in pre-season dope, and the Buck forward wall put on a fine demonstration by outcharging their bulky opponents throughout the contest.

Buchanan took the opening kickoff and scored without losing possession of the ball. Max Polley ran the kick back to the Buchanan 44, from where Metzger, Louie Gray, and Riffenberg paraded through to the goal, Riffenberg scoring on a reverse around his left end.

The Bucks second markers came after Don Gray opened the second period by punting out on the Wildcat 8 yard line. On the second play Zander attempted to circle his left end but the pass from center sailed over his head and he barely beat Polley in a race for the ball back in the end zone. With the ball put in play by a free kick from the 20 yard line the Bucks marched back to score seven plays later, Riffenberg getting the mark by Mrs. Virginia Sukup. Mrs. Thomas Irvine, Mrs. Margaret Frame, Mrs. Donald DeFries, Miss Jack Shanahan, Miss Lee Frame and Miss Dorothy Kelley.

During the business session Mrs. Everett Watson reported on the recent survey in regards to establishing a school safety patrol. The Association voted to purchase folding tables for the school and Ronald Bolster is project chairman.

Mrs. E. L. Church, Kalamazoo, vice-president of the Michigan P. T. A., was guest speaker. She discussed the aims and purposes of the Association. James Aldrich led group singing.

Plans were made for the next meeting, Nov. 28, when the teachers will be in charge. Miss Lena Ekstrom will be chairman and a "Day-In-School" program will be arranged.

Buchanan Less Than Half-Way To War Fund Goal

The community of Buchanan had not yet reached the halfway mark in reaching its quota of $7,500 for the National War Fund with the end of the drive only two days away, according to a statement by Chairman Harold Boyce Monday morning.

Chairman Boyce stated that the city had been canvassed as thoroughly as possible with the workers available. Both shop and the office departments were canvassed in the Buchanan plant of the Clark Equipment company. A canvass was made of the business section and of the organizations of the town in addition eighth grade students canvassed the residential sections. Inducative of the falling off of support is the fact that the eighth grade got approximately $100 or about a third the amount they received last year. Other departments of the canvass achieved a similar success.

While some of the decline in receipts is doubtless because of part time shifts in some factory departments here, the results indicate further a falling off of interest and a letdown as result of the end of the war.

Chairman Boyce stated that contributions may be made at the Union State Bank until Nov. 10. Anyone who has not contributed through oversight may do his or her bit there.

Don't Burn A Leaf On Pavement Till Jail Is Heated

Put It Off Awhile And Get A Room In Your Hometown Jail

Buchananites who wish to burn their leaves on the pavement are requested by one of the city officials to delay that item until further notice, if they can find some place to pile the leaves in the meantime.

The trouble is, reports the official, that such an act is punishable with a term of 30 days in jail, and the local jail is untenable at the present time on account of lack of heat. As soon as a heating system is installed, anyone who would appreciate a month's board and room in the city hotel can go ahead and burn their leaves on the pavement.

At the present time the city is taking all its boarders to the Niles jail again in order to avert responsibility for pneumonia bills. However, the hospitality of the neighboring city might be strained if a flock of pavement leaf-burners were hauled over and dumped on them.

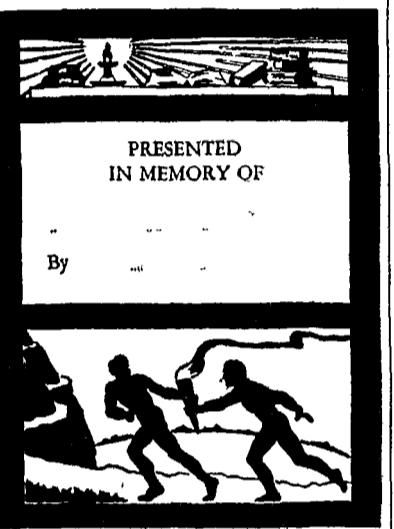

The situation is that because of the fact that fire damages any pavement but utterly ruins black-top pavement by burning the tar and asphalt out of it, the city has had on the books for several years an ordinance which provides $100 fine or thirty days in jail or both at the discretion of the judicial officer for that act. Also the defendant is responsible for the cost of the damage to the pavement. Apparently some people haven't learned that yet. This is a friendly reminder. Don't do it again.

Public Library Adopts Memorial Book Plate Form

Idea Has Wide Currency In United States Libraries

In accord with a practice that has been very widely adopted by the libraries of the United States, the Buchanan Public Library has recently acquired the memorial book plate shown below as a means of marking books which are given the library by relatives or friends honoring deceased persons which they wish to memorialize in this way.

The design was selected from many submitted by a company making bookplates. Its symbolism is taken from the Greek relay races, in which the runners ran with lighted torches, which were handed from one teammate to another. Thus the design symbolizes the passing of the torch of knowledge from one individual or from one generation to another, through the giving of books to public libraries.

The idea was first adopted by a city library in North Carolina, to which a set of Ray Stannard Baker's "Life and Public Papers of Woodrow Wilson" was given by parents in memory of their son, killed in World War I. Very recently it was reported that the idea had caught on in that city to the extent that 10 per cent of its books are now memorial gifts. It has been very successfully used for years in the Kalamazoo Public Library and was recently adopted by the Niles library.

Those who wish to memorialize anyone in this way may give one book or any number of books. A number of such gifts have been made to the Buchanan library already, notably, the gift of the Book of the Month selections, memorializing the late L. M. Desenberg.

Smith states that the system has greatly speeded up the serving of customers.

Pawating Offers Group Service To This Community

To Enroll Here Under Blue Cross Plan Nov. 7-8-9 At Mich. Gas Office

Pawating Hospital and the medical staff of the hospital have announced a new service which will be open to residents of Buchanan and the Buchanan area for the first time next week.

The service is a community-wide enrollment in the Blue Cross Plans, which are the non-profit hospital and surgical care plans sponsored by the hospitals and the medical profession, according to Forest R. Ostrander, administrator of Pawating Hospital, and R. S. Waterson, M.D., acting chief of the hospital's medical staff.

A community enrollment headquarters will be opened at the Michigan Gas and Electric company offices in Buchanan on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week—November 7, 8 and 9. On these days every resident of this area who is not eligible to join the Blue Cross through an employee group will be able to enroll as a member of the Buchanan Community Group.

"The Blue Cross Plans," Mr. Ostrander said, "are non-profit service organizations established and operated by Michigan's hospitals and medical profession. The subscriber to the Blue Cross receives an identification card which entitles him to comprehensive hospital and surgical care wherever needed.

"The card becomes his ticket of admission to the hospital. If he needs surgical care in the hospital, the Blue Cross makes liberal payment to the doctor of the subscriber's choice.

"The Blue Cross offers the only protection against hospital and surgical bills of this type in Michigan. It was organized by the doctors and hospitals strictly as a service to the people of this state.

"In this area the Blue Cross is our own program made effective by the sponsorship of our doctors and of Pawating Hospital, but Blue Cross protection is effective anywhere in the world wherever the subscriber may go.

Mr. Ostrander pointed out that the Buchanan Community Enrollment opens Blue Cross to the hundreds of individuals and families in this area who might never be eligible to enroll through an employee group. He pointed out that everyone who wishes this non-profit protection should have the opportunity to obtain it, and that the Community Enrollment is a special program arranged by the hospital and its medical staff for this particular purpose.

Residents of this area who wish to enroll may visit the Buchanan enrollment headquarters Wednesday, Thursday or Friday of next week to fill out applications or obtain information. Enrollment headquarters also will be open in the Niles office of the Michigan Gas & Electric company through Wednesday, Nov. 14, or those who wish to enroll may simply obtain an application card, fill it out, and mail it to Pawating Hospital, Niles, Michigan.

"We are grateful to Mr. Ward Jacobson of the Michigan Gas & Electric company for his courtesy in making the company offices in Buchanan and Niles available as enrollment headquarters," Mr. Ostrander said.

Details of the Community Enrollment are being published in this newspaper and elsewhere. Mr. Ostrander urged the people of our community to watch for these announcements.

"Until the present, only employed persons have been able to enroll in the Blue Cross," he continued. "Our Community Enrollment program will open the Plans to retired men and women, to the unemployed and the self-employed, to farmers and to others. Employed persons of five or more persons may of course obtain the regular Blue Cross employee protection during the Community Enrollment period."

The Blue Cross organizations are Michigan Hospital Service and Michigan Medical Service. They are non-profit organizations established under a special law enacted by the state legislature in 1939. Through the enrollment of employee groups, one of every four residents of the entire state—a total of some 1,300,000 persons—now has obtained Blue Cross protection. The enrollment of Community Groups, as in Buchanan, is a new activity.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Wilcox arrived home Sunday from San Diego, Calif., where they spent a week with the latter's son and daughter-in-law, and Mrs. Marion Cummins. While they also visited Mr. and Mrs. Ward Mitchell, former residents of Buchanan.

Specialist Advises On How To Purchase New Refrigerator

The much heralded frozen food units are on the market in small numbers now, and mechanical refrigerators are expected to be for sale in the near future.

Laura P. Davis, extension specialist in home managements, believes prospective buyers should stop, think, and plan a little before buying the first thing they see.

In selecting a refrigerator, one of the important things to consider is the size. Miss Davis finds that most farm families will need at least an 8 or 9 cubic-foot box, certainly nothing less than 7 cubic feet.

Small, overcrowded refrigerators cost more to operate and are less efficient than those with well-arranged cabinets large enough to allow circulation of an within.

A few questions the buyer can ask himself are: How much milk do I ordinarily cook? Is there room for fruits and vegetables? Is the meat storage adequate? Is there a frozen food compartment for ice and frozen desserts? Will the refrigerator store commercially packed cartons of ice cream and frozen foods? Do I want space for storage of frozen foods?

Some families may wish to buy a combination type box, with a frozen food section as well as one for household storage. Plenty of space should be available in the kitchen for such a box, however.

Before buying the frozen food unit, several questions should be answered. Does the family really like frozen foods? Can the family procure or produce sufficient fruits and vegetables of the right variety for freezing. Could a commercial locker be used more economically and without too much inconvenience?

SHOPPING IS

A Good SHOPPING HABIT

Yes, we believe shopping is a good habit.

It is a habit that should not be forsaken during the few months ahead. Appliances are going to be scarce for a few months. That does not mean you should grab slipshod at anything you can get.

Be exacting — really SHOP just like you used to. Select the brand names familiar to you, and publicly accepted as good merchandise.

Then shop over them and pick out the one which best serves your need and suits you best.

Then, if necessary, wait a while. If it's good, it's worth waiting for. You will not be able to excuse your impatience six months hence, when conditions have changed if you buy too soon.

Remember what you said about wishing you had bought that appliance just before the war.

Go ahead now — shop. IT'S A GOOD AMERICAN HABIT.

Ban Price Controls On Houses Built On Owner's Land

Price controls over completed houses built by builders on their own land were lifted as of Oct. 15. WPB War Conservation Order L-41 was also removed and this makes it possible, as far as the Government is concerned, for home construction to proceed on a peace-time basis. Order L-41 limited the building of stores, office buildings, hotels, apartments, and public works, as well as dwellings.

The only curb on an immediate price boost is that the OPA is asked to enforce rental ceilings. Moreover, when a builder erects a home under contract for a person owning his own lot, OPA controls over material and labor prices still hold.

Lifting of war-time restrictions should bring a sharp rise in the volume of new construction in 1945 to 45 days. The supply of building materials will be sufficient by the year end to permit any volume of construction likely to be underway or starting at that time.

The building industry has been asked by its own association officers and by Government leaders to do its own price regulating and to hold the line against any temptation to indulge in skyrocketing of prices for new homes or for desirable existing homes.

P. I. Was Land Of Unrealized Riches In 1929

Record Operator Installed Guns On Islands In 1927-29

If any of the G. I.'s eating their hearts out with loneliness in the Philippines don't see eye to eye with the person quoted in the following article, we'd be interested in hearing from them.

Harlan R. Crow, linotype operator in the Berrien County Record office holds, as the result of two years of peacetime army service, 1927-29, that the Islands comprise one of the very finest, if not the finest reservoir of unscratched natural resources in the world, and, given the benefit of a little Yankee enterprise, should develop faster than any other country.

Why haven't they been developed before? Difficulty of travel in the mountainous interior has been a main drawback. The only way to get back in the hills is along the bed of a howling mountain stream, the only way to transport goods in or out was on the backs of Spanish-bred ponies or by native carriers. But with the wealth of American excavating and road building equipment now in that part of the world, road building should no longer be a problem. The big army bulldozers would take care of that.

Back up in the mountains there are deposits of gold, silver, oil, coal, salt and other valuable minerals. When you leave the palm country and enter the pine country or the uplands you enter a country of moderate days and cool nights, most agreeable, despite the fact the Luzon is only thirteen degrees north of the Equator.

Crow went to the Philippines as a member of Battery E, 59th Coast Artillery. On his arrival he entered gunnery school and was graduated as Gunner's Mate First Class. He served on Ft. Hughes, Ft. Drum, Ft. Wint, Ft. Frank and Ft. Mills (Corregidor). Then he traveled through the Islands installing defense guns, with plenty of chances to dodge out on side trips on whatever island he worked on, to get the lay of the land. As chief of a crew of thirty he supervised the installation of the secondary defense guns on Ft. Olongapo at the mouth of Subic Bay, which the Japanese took over and established an unloading base for the attack on Bataan.

The American boys now in the Philippines are probably too crazy to get home to appraise properly the opportunities in Manila. But many of the boys in the regular army, following the subduing of the Filipino insurrection, went into business and prospered exceedingly—or at least had by 1929. Perhaps the Japanese liquidated their prosperity.

One American Negro soldier, Tom Dixie, received his discharge at the expiration of his enlistment while in the Philippines. He took his "mustered out" pay of about $40, staid in the restaurant business and ran it up into one of the finest in Manila. Being of a rough and tumble type, many of the Americans discharged there started bars with a good average of success. Many formed the backbone of the famous Philippine Constabulary and more went into shipping and plantation operation.

A good business in Manila was the equivalent of a good business in any man's country. The new part of Manila was ultra-modern, with magnificent streets and avenues 100 feet wide, lovely parks, brick, concrete and steel business and industrial construction. The larger and finer clothing and haberdashery stores were owned by Chinese mechanics. A smaller number of Japanese went in for the small grocery and notions stores. The native aristocracy consisted mainly of Filipinos with a strong strain of Spanish blood. They, together with the French, English and Americans owned most of the great rice, sugar and hemp plantations on Luzon and on Panay, Cebu, Mindoro and Mindanao. American capital had entered to a great extent the plantation field and the water shipping lines.

A man those days could live in near-royal luxury on the purchasing power of an ordinary American wage. Filipino handmade clothes and shoes sold in the Chinese shops and were of fine and durable make. A man's silk suit sold for $15, handmade shoes for $7.50. And the handwork of the Filipinos was excellent. They were skilled and careful craftsmen. The wages received by a semi-skilled laborer in America would enable the man to live in a fine house in Manila with a car and two or three servants.

Of course, that was back in the lush days of 1927-29, that lost paradise of the Republican era. Three years of Japanese rule and the shells and bombs of the Japanese-American battles may have made the difference that makes the doughboy want to get the heck out of there and not to want anything else.

But if his vision is not entirely the jaundiced one of the war-weary soldier, let him just look around and he'll find plenty of opportunities for a business as it is still a land of promise instead of merely one of the numerous trapdoors to hell of the many South Pacific Islands. Of course there's that girl back in the States, but she might be induced to go there too. You understand, we're just quoting. Mr. Crow be careful which way you shoot.

Mr. Crow has brought to the Record office a beautifully-bound album of pictures of Manila and the Philippine Islands, many in color, which he took during his stay there from 1927-29 which shows what a beautiful place it was before Japanese occupation. This album is on view to anyone interested in seeing it.

Soft Corn Crop Can Be Harvested By Hogging-Off Method

"Hogging off" corn will be a popular way to feed much of the large acreage of soft corn in Michigan this fall.

It has the advantage of saving labor ordinarily required for husking, cribbing and feeding, and is an especially good method of handling corn that has gone down there, too, corn fields are usually more sanitary for pigs, and fertility is left on the soil. On the disadvantage side are necessity for fencing, some waste of corn that is trampled into the ground, possible interference with seeding of wheat in the field, packing of the soil, and inability to get the pigs ready for market at the right time.

For successful "hogging off", good management practices are needed, say W. N. McMillen, animal husbandry specialist at Michigan State college. He warns that chilly rains in the late fall may cause trouble if proper shelter is not available. Cases of pneumonia often result, and losses in gains equal to several days' feeding are common if proper protection is not provided. A good water supply conveniently located, also is essential.

Well-grown shoats in feeder condition are better adapted to corn field feeding than fat pigs that lack ambition. Sows and gilts should not run in the corn field long enough to get too fat. It is a common practice to let the breeding hogs follow the pigs to clean up the field.

Hogs should ordinarily not be turned into the field until the corn is well dented. This is usually after silage cutting time, and from two to four weeks before it is dry enough to crib. Before the pigs are turned into the corn field, they should be partially accustomed to corn feeding. This will help prevent scouring and promote better gains.

Protein supplement is needed to round out the diet, particularly for growing pigs. A half-pound a day of 50% tankage or meat scraps is about right for each animal. Or, a half and half mixture of vegetable and animal protein is satisfactory.

Some brass strips are only .004 of an inch thick.

State To Revert To 2-Plate Plan In 1947

Secretary of State Heiman H. Dignan Friday informed the Automotive Club of Michigan that the state would revert to the two license plate system in 1947, but that there would be again only one plate for 1946 because V-3 day came too late to change plans.

Dignan said that a half of the plates had already been manufactured as well as cantons and envelopes designed to hold only one plate, and that it was "physically impossible to get two plates at this time." He said steel had been allotted on the basis of the 1945 allocation.

Dignan said the new plates, to go on sale in the 190 branch offices sometime between Dec. 1 and Jan. 1, would be white lettered on a dark green background. He had ordered 2,000,000 plates of all types for distribution this year.

Beet Harvesters Proving Successful

Members of the staffs of the farm crops and agricultural engineering departments at Michigan State college who have observed operation of sugar beet harvesters during the past year are optimistic. They agree that beet tissue being made in mechanical harvesting of this crop, and believe that in the near future it will no longer be necessary to import large numbers of field workers to Michigan to perform hand harvesting.

In testing beet harvesters and recording results, the college staff members have come to these conclusions: Under most conditions the losses under a harvested market beet crop are being made in mechanical harvesting of this crop, and believe that in the near future it will no longer be necessary to import large numbers of field workers to Michigan to perform hand harvesting.

Factory tare percentage and the quality of topping were generally acceptable. Screenings were not excessive except when the harvester operated in fields too wet to permit hand harvesting. Methods of handling the topped beets and the tops and crowns should be given further study.

Costs per acre for harvesting mechanically should not exceed $10 to $12 under reasonably satisfactory conditions.

More Gas Makes Driving, Walking More Dangerous

"More Gas—More Danger" This reminder that more gasoline, made available by the end of rationing, makes driving and walking more dangerous, was posted this week at 900 street-side locations by The Traffic Safety Association of Detroit.

Since V-J day, traffic volume has increased approximately 35%, according to the State police. This means that, whether driving or walking, an individual's chances of being involved in an accident are considerably greater than they were in the days of rationing.

Add to this situation rusty driving habits and old, mechanically weary automobiles and the result is a condition fraught with danger unless both drivers and pedestrians heed the poster's admonition—"Take It Easy."—Mich. Manuf. & Finan. Record

Birch Lake, Cass Co. Is Testing Place For Long Fishing Season

Effect of longer fishing seasons on a southern Michigan lake will be given a test in Cass county. Under authorization granted by the last legislature, the conservation commission has approved the opening of Birch lake in southeastern Cass county to fishing for all species except largemouth and smallmouth black bass, blue gills, and sunfish beginning May 15 during the next three years.

There was only one practicable pass over the mountains to the southwest, along the route General Palmer had envisioned for his railroad. This was Raton Pass on the Colorado-New Mexico line. But another set of able railroaders, driving for the West Coast, had seen the strategic possibilities, too. These were the promoters of the Santa Fe.

Those were rough times, and when Palmer's scouts and builders approached the pass, they found it guarded by redoubts manned by Santa Fe employees who held rifles and had been trained as sharpshooters in the war.

General Palmer turned aside and as a second choice sought to go up the Royal Gorge of the Arkansas River, a gash cut 1,200 feet deep through the red sandstone, to the new, booming, gold town of Leadville. Here too, he found the Santa Fe building ahead of him.

General Palmer recruited riflemen, too, and sent them down into the gorge ahead of the Santa Fe workers, with instructions to hold the line at all costs. They broke

St. Joseph Board Plans Elementary School Building

Construction of a new elementary school building and modernization of the high school building in the very near future were announced by Super. of Schools E. B. Holden, of St. Joseph.

Both projects have been approved by the board of education, Mr. Holden said, to meet immediate and pressing needs in the public school system.

The estimated cost of the two projects is approximately $300,000. Site for the new elementary school has already been purchased. It is located in the rapidly growing southeast section of the city on what is known as the "Webber property," between Morton and Langley avenues and north of Lane Drive, where that street extended.

Plans for the new building are now being drawn. Modernization of the high school building will include remodeling of the auditorium and the addition of music rooms and a cafeteria.

Effective with the coming "winter taxes," the school board is levying the full millage available—15 mills—for the next four years to finance the two projects. Mr. Holden said this will provide approximately $80,000 a year for building purposes.

Looking into the future needs of the public school system, the school board has tentative plans for the construction of a junior high school building and an athletic plant.

These projects, however, Mr. Holden emphasized, can not be attempted for at least four years, and not until after the new elementary school has been built, and the high school building modernized.

Leaf Hoppers Are Cause Of Serious Plum Tree Damage

Michigan plum growers soon may find one of their most pressing problems solved as the result of experimental detective work on the part of T. A. Merrill, extension and research horticultural specialist at Michigan State college.

For some time Mr. Merrill has been carrying out experiments to learn what may be causing severe foliage wilting and the dwarfing of several varieties of plum trees in the state. So serious has been the affliction that the trees seldom set sufficient fruit to make a paying crop.

Now it seems, as a result of Mr. Merrill's tests, that the common leaf hopper is the troublemaker. While carrying on fertilization and soil nutrient trials in Allegan county orchards, the college specialist used cloth bags covered with DDT spray to protect several branches on each of the trees. He was surprised to note that the leaves remained in excellent condition, while those on other portions of the trees continued the withering process. He concluded that the bags protected the leaves from the leaf hopper.

During the past year or more, experiments are to be continued by the agricultural experiment station staff at the college on an expanded basis to verify the conclusions so far reached. Spray formulas that can be recommended for the control of the insects will be worked out.

V. R. Gardner, director of the experiment station, explains that the leaf hopper is by no means a new plum tree insect pest. However, he points out that until now it had not been realized that the insect caused any great damage during normal seasons. Mr. Merrill's experiments seem to indicate, according to Mr. Gardner, that a few hoppers can be very poisonous to the trees.

Don't Burn Leaves—Add Them To Soil, Says County Agent

Up in Alaska there is a treeless region known as the Valley of 1,000 Smokes. Wisps and clouds of steam constantly curl upward from 1,000 fissures in the earth. Michigan in October is also a land of smokes as householders up and down the highways and byways rake and burn the autumn leaves.

It is fun, too, and nearly every lady enjoys the evening sport. But did you ever figure out what was actually taking place? In the ground leaves accumulate on the ground and in time decay, which releases nutrients that go back into the soil, enriching it and which again become available for plant use. We must rake the leaves from our lawns to prevent smothering the grass. But when we burn them, valuable parts of the leaves drift away in smoke and the ashes wash away down the street and never receive any nourishment and in turn are quite apt to show signs of starvation over a long period of time.

A better way to dispose of the leaves is to pile them in an out of the way place which can be enclosed in chicken wire or old boards. Add wastes from the kitchen and other delectable scraps from time to time. Allow this to rot for a year or two and you have a very good fertilizer which can be spread on the lawn without being conspicuous

S/Sgt. Robert Wesner Hurt At Manila

S/Sgt. Robert Wesner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wesner, 704 Main street, writes home that he recently received a painful knee injury while at his work supervising a crew of Japanese military prisoners in the Manila area. He writes "Saturday had two Nips hawking a railway track that was sticking out of the ground, the track section being about fifteen feet long. We tried to dig it out but it was imbedded in the ground so far, and bent at the same time, that we didn't have any success. So we decided to saw it off.

"We had sawed halfway through the track when the saws began to stick. I decided to quit on the end of it and bend it so the saws would go easier. Well, I locked on it three or four times, when, to my surprise, it snapped and broke off. I tried to get out of the way, but it caught me across the left knee just above the kneecap. It floored me and I thought I had a broken leg. Two fellows who were near by came over and helped me up. I put my weight on the leg and went down again. They loaded me on the truck and took me to the doctor. He told me I had a bad sprain and all the ligaments and tendons were pulled around my knee. Whenever I tried to take a step on it, it went flop out. The lieutenant wanted to send me to a hospital in Manila but I told him nothing doing. The doctor told the company commander it would be at least ten weeks before I can walk again."

Sgt. Wesner is stationed on the fortress island of Corregidor in Manila Bay. His reference to "topside" means the summit of the rocky height, where the quarters of the white troops are located. The railway is a narrow-gauge electric that wound around the rocky sides, carrying supplies from the seashore docks to the summit.

"First Rate"

In the days of sailing ships, men-of-war carrying more than 100 guns were called "first rates." Those in the "second rate" had 90 or more, "third rates" boasted about 74, and "fourth rates" usually had 56. Though the ships have vanished, the expressions, their nautical meanings forgotten, live on in our language.

THEY NEVER STOP WORKING... Except when you're asleep!

SOMEONE has said that with the exception of the heart, the muscles of the eyes are the hardest working muscles in the entire human body. Because your eyes never stop working except when they are closed!

Mankind grew up out of doors—where nature's own light was abundant. That explains why modern eyes are so overworked—so often defective. And that is why science is working so hard to bring sunlight indoors. In the meantime—here are four rules that will help reduce eyestrain—conserve energy—in your home.

- 1 Do all reading, studying, sewing, or game-playing close to a good light source, preferably a modern reading lamp. 2 Avoid glare from bare bulbs. Don't sit facing the light. Glare strains eyes. 3 Avoid shadows. Make sure you have good light directly on your book or work. Shadows strain eyes. 4 Have eyes examined regularly. If eyes are defective, vision can be greatly helped with proper glasses.

GOOD RURAL LINE NEIGHBORS share the wires

THERE are more telephones today on most rural lines than before the war. This is because there were so many "war-essential" rural folks who had telephones installed. And because of shortages of materials and manpower, we weren't able to expand the system sufficiently. Now that the war is over, we are resuming our rural expansion and improvement program. As sufficient trained manpower and materials become available, we shall be able to add enough new lines so there again will be fewer telephones per line. Meanwhile, the best way for everybody to have good service is to treat his telephone neighbors as he himself would like to be treated: keep all calls short... avoid listening in or interrupting when the line is in use... hang up the receiver carefully. One receiver off the hook can tie up a whole line.
