Campbell-Farr Ford

Robert Habicht, owner of Habicht Ford for the past 27 years, handed over the keys to his showroom last week to Doug Campbell, Buchanan, and Bill Farr, who is trying to relocate in Buchanan at this time.

Campbell was with Clark Equipment Company and seven years prior to that was with the Ford Credit Corporation. Farr has been with an Indianapolis Volkswagen, Audi, Porsche dealership for the past eight years

The exchange went into effect January 15 and the new business will be called Campbell-Farr Ford, Inc.

May urges "increased amount of time"

Ellis May, Ottawa Elementary School Principal and coordinator of special education, gave his annual special education report to the Buchanan Board of Education and urged the board to allocate "the coordinator an increased amount of time for this position"

The report stated, "Coordination of the special education services within the district continues to be a very time-consuming task While the fundamental and essential mechanics of the assignment are possible within a reasonable time framework, many peripheral tasks receive inadequate attention Often, those aspects of this work less thoroughly discharged by the coordinator, are the ones dealing with important individual pupil needs It is recommended that continued study be given the matter of allocating the coordinator an increased amount of time for this position"

May was questioned on this part of the report after he had explained its contents to the board.

In response to one question he said, "I believe the essential basics, mechanics are getting there I see reports on 183 boys and girls I don't believe I know 25 of them This kind of thing is not really important in terms of getting the job done, it's important in terms of the human aspect"

Buchanan superintendent Dr Earl Hogan agreed with May, "We'll probably have to take a look at this sometime in the future"

Special education services in the Buchanan school system are on the rise according to May.

Last year specialized services were given to 23 pupils. This year the figure has been upped to 34

The rise is not due "to a raise in incidence rate" according to the report "but rather to the offer, now, of services not available in years past"

One service now being offered is a pre-school class for emotionally impaired children ages 0-5.

Thirteen teachers are currently employed in the program Two are at Ottawa school, three at Moccasin, one at Stark, four at the middle school and two at the high school

The system now has 183 students in the program That figure includes students that are "identified as educable mentally impaired, learning disabled, or emotionally impaired"

The program has also undertaken "some noteworthy projects" according to the report.

The special projects include extension courses where Michigan State University will teach special education courses to interested faculty at Buchanan; summer school program which will be the topic of a section meeting at the Michigan Council for Exceptional Children annual conference to be held in early March; the sponsorship of a seven-session series of weekly meetings for parents of special-needs youth, the preparation of descriptive materials dealing with the three primary handicap types: mental impairment, learning disabilities and emotional impairment, and the Special Education Study Committee

May said that Buchanan area taxpayers will only foot 10 per cent of the bill for the special education program.

The report states, "historically, reimbursement has been at about the 90 per cent level; current predictions indicate that this will be the case for the 1976-77 school year"

Board of Education announces sale; announces committee assignments

The Buchanan Board of Education announced its intent to sell to the highest bidder a list of nine items that are no longer wanted by the school system in its meeting Monday

Bids will be accepted through February 4, 1977 The items can be seen at the Buchanan High School

The board also announced the appointments to its standing committees.

Note from the editor --

A Buchanan resident, who wishes to remain anonymous, spoke to the editor the other day on the topic of helping people, helping for no fee except a little need.

This anonymous person has informed the editor that she is willing to coach youngesters that may be having trouble in school or coach youngsters who have severe disabilities, and as she puts it "give her services to relieve and provide rest periods to a person charged with constant care of someone they love."

Her idea of help extends past coaching children In the conversation she mentioned such things as calling elderly persons each day "just to see if they are all right" and she mentioned that she would be glad to give a person a ride to a needed doctor's appointment

The editor respects her wish to remain anonymous and therefore any person wishing to contact her for help or to aid her in giving help should call Pat Herrmann, editor of the Record, 695-3877 and the message will be relayed

Buchanan resident gets invite

Steve Young, 604 South Oak Street, received an invitation to attend the Presidential Inauguration of Jimmy Carter, Thursday, January 20

Mr Young, an employee of Buchanan Steel Products, was a Carter Campaign worker and "felt very honored to receive the invitation."

Release outlines snow plans

Some will call this winter history -- others will call it a pain in the neck

But any way you look at this winter it will still be the coldest in many years and snow will probably not fall again like it has this year for quite some time to come

The severe cold and heavy snows have cut supplies of gas to the point where the companies are urging residents to dial down as much as possible in order to save the present supplies of natural gas

Area electric companies have reported record levels of usage, breaking old records twice in four days

But for students this seems to be a good time of the year

Area schools have been closed more than they have been open it seems in recent weeks and if the weather continues in the same manner they will probably be closed some more.

A recent release from the office of the Buchanan superintendent of schools says that "the decision to close school will be made between 5 30 and 6 a m and the radio stations will be notified as soon as the decision is made (see below for list of radio stations)

The release urges parents not to call the school but rather to "tune in early" to the radio stations and prepare their children to go to school

This same procedure will be used for emergency closings of the school

Our Opinion

Berrien County Record

More than most make

It must be nice to work for the government -- at least for the government of the state of Michigan.

Michigan Governor William Milliken just recently signed a bill that will boost salaries of state legislators and 105 other government officials The boost comes in the form of an additional $1.3 million to be paid out each year

The worst atrocity is probably a $10,500 raise for Lt Governor James Damman That raise alone is more than some people will ever make in any year of their lives

Other "biggies" include $6500 raises to each of Michigan's seven Supreme Court justices and old Milliken himself is receiving $7,575 more a year

Milliken did however veto two raises, an additional $2000 each to Attorney General Frank Kelly and Secretary of State Richard Austin (who already make $45,000 apiece) But listen to his reasoning -- the only reason they are not getting the raises is because it is against the state constitution to give these two positions mid-term raises.

Well gentlemen just hang on -- if you happen to get re-elected you will probably get your raises

Rather than boosting some paychecks the state government could provide innumerable services with that annual $1 3 million For instances that figure would help improve the penal system or provide impetus to research the present system

Why not use the money to fund research into the problems industry in Michigan seems always to be running into

How about using money to provide for jobs -- since Michigan's jobless rate is so high

How about figuring out ways to make the streets of Detroit a safe place to walk -- if that isn't already too far gone to remedy.

How about revamping OSHA and MIOSHA to make them truly serve the businessmen of Michigan and their employees

These are just very brief and very vague beginnings of ideas that an annual sum of $1.3 million could be used for. But it sure seems that no matter what it is used for it would be better than raising the salaries of persons who already are making more than perhaps they should be

Letters TO THE EDITOR

S'noremoval

Dear Editor,

I pay taxes to the town of Buchanan I pay taxes to Buchanan Township I pay taxes to the State of Michigan I pay taxes to the Berrien County. I buy gasoline which includes highway taxes I pay 13 cents per first class minimum weight letter postage and I can't get my mail delivered on snowy days!

I realize that if the mailman had to get out of his auto at each house he would take too long delivering But 4 or 5 days out of the year circumstances make it necessary to lean out a bit which my mailman doesn't do Result no mail delivery

The snow plow fellow says he can't plow closer to my box because he can't make the corner if he does Can't he back up a little to make the corner which is at least 50 feet from the box

What the heck is my money for? I have to go out and shovel the street and thats heavy stuff the plow leaves!

Last time the mailman was right behind the plow. He knew I didn't have time to shovel there and he just went sailing on by There was a pile of snow 2 feet in front of the box. I'm sure he could have leaned out and made it

When we lived in the country we always had good mail delivery And our mailman always had plenty of asparagas, fruit, jams, jellies, etc I'm sure this one wonders why he doesn't even get a Christmas gift!!

Can't something be done so that I can get my mail delivered. After all, its not as though its a free service is it? Neither is plowing! Why should I have to shovel the street?

I've spoken to the post office people and the road clearing people and maybe this is happening to others and you perhaps can help

Out of the Past

40 Years Ago
January 21, 1937

The Buchanan high school music department presented its Annual Music Revue at the high school auditorium The program was in two sections, the first a concert in the classical manner by the high school band The second part was the revue proper, presented by the high school dance orchestra, giving an entirely modern program of light, vivid music, accompanied and interpreted by colorful song and dance skits by students, part of which were in costumes

The need for recreation rooms in Buchanan was at last answered by members of the Presbyterian Church who will equip rooms for use by young people It will be a place where children and young people of whatever religious affiliation may find wholesome amusement and healthy excercise

At the Hollywood Theatre "Can This Be Dixie" with Jane Withers, Slim Summerville and Helen Wood, "Major Google" starring Barney Google, "Love on the Run" starring Joan Crawford and Clark Gable and "Ladies in Love" with Janet Gaynor, Loretta Young, Constance Bennett and Simone Simon

January 17, 1952

A second-half rally by the Niles Vikings enabled the visiting team to whip the Buchanan Bucks 50-40 before a packed house.

At the Hollywood Theatre "Rhubarb" starring Ray Milland and Jan Sterling, "No Highway in the Sky" starring James Stewart and Marlene Dietrich and "Too Young to Kiss" starring June Allyson and Van Johnson

Wagner School, which had been on a half-day schedule because of its over-crowded condition, started full sessions The board of education was given permission to use Wagner Grange hall until the new two room building is completed

10 Years Ago
January 19, 1967

If there was any doubt about the speed and agility of the Niles Vikings, it was dispelled when the Buchanan Bucks were practically run off the court by a 103 to 69 score The Vikes scored 21 times on the fastbreak and converted 3 out of four center jump plays for scores

An interesting potpourri of drama, comedy and "mod" music in concert lend a new twist to the annual junior play presentation The performance included "The Gallery", "Bench 18" and "Nightshirt" concert

Members of the Buchanan Historical Society voted to sponsor a committee to explore the possibilities of finding a suitable memorial for Jack "Sky" Knight, Buchanan native and aviation pioneer

Twisted wreckage was all that remained after strong winds toppled the partially dismantled Walton Road bridge into the St Joseph River The bridge was built in 1894

Architects ask for citizen guidance

Goals and objectives for the City of Buchanan are now being developed through the Planning Commission and the City Commission under the guidance of Architects Incorporated. On December 30, 1976 Architects Incorporated, through the assistance of this newspaper, solicited for ideas and comments from the residents of Buchanan regarding goals and objectives for the City of Buchanan which will result in policies and decisions concerning changes in the Buchanan area. Architects Incorporated have received three responses from area citizens These three responses expressed a concern for the need of an artificial ice skating rink and a restaurant-lounge in the Buchanan area Architects Incorporated believes that other Buchanan area potentials, needs, and problem areas can be identified but the help of the Buchanan area residents is greatly needed

The goals and objectives are possibly the most important element of the Comprehensive Plan The goals and objectives will serve as guidelines for the City of Buchanan to follow for the next few years and they need consideration and thought in their formulation. However, even more important, citizen participation is needed in their preparation.

How can citizen participation be helpful in defining goals and objectives for the City of Buchanan? First, the comprehensive plan will affect all the residents of the city in some way for the next few years and concerned citizens should participate in these policy making decisions Problem areas should be identified Also, areas of potential in the city must be identified so that goals and-or objectives can be formulated to enrich these qualities

How can citizens of the City of Buchanan participate in the comprehensive planning process? A good start can be filling out the short form provided in this issue of the newspaper and either depositing it in the box labeled "WHAT DO YOU THINK?" located on the main desk of Buchanan City Hall or mailing it directly to Architects Incorporated. Public hearings will be held from time to time regarding the Comprehensive Plan, public attendance at these hearings is crucial. Public officials involved with the Comprehensive Plan extend an offer to speak to any community groups regarding the Comprehensive Plan We invite any questions which you may have regarding the Comprehensive Plan. These questions may be sent directly to Architects Incorporated or to this newspaper We will answer any questions in forthcoming articles

WHAT DO YOU THINK????

The following is a listing of some areas of concern for formulating goals and objectives for the City of Buchanan

Education, Crime, Health, Industry, Social Services, Capital Improvements, Recreation, Commercial, Economy, Agriculture, Governmental Structure, Housing, Aesthetics (beauty of area including historic qualities), Transportation, Utilities, Environment, Open Space, Zoning, Cooperation with Surrounding Communities, Taxes, Finances

We would like to get the thoughts and ideas of the citizens of the City of Buchanan on the above listed areas of concerns Do you think any problems exist in these areas? If so, what are the problems? Do you think any potentials exist in these areas? If so, what are the potentials?

Agriculture In Action --an editorial

Who IS the "Bad Guy"?

The U S. Department of Agriculture has predicted an approximate three per cent jump in food prices by the end of June. This modest increase prediction is based on the Department's educated guess considering supplies, the current harvest, decisions made by livestock producers, a large output forecast, and strong demand for agricultural commodities.

A three per cent increase isn't likely to bring about any big consumer revolt--but perhaps it might motivate consumers to take a good look at some of the factors involved in that increase It could be quite a revelation to them

Farm prices have dropped drastically On the average, they dropped nine per cent last year, and the trend continues. So--based on what the farmer gets for his commodities--your grocery prices should drop by about nine per cent--right? Wrong! The USDA says it will increase by three per cent. Why?

The answer lies in what happens to your food after it leaves the farm and before it gets to your table. In 1975, that "trip" from farm to table accounted for 65 per cent of food costs All the "stops" that food made on the way to its destination were necessary ones. for packing, processing, packaging, shipping, retailing. There was no single middleman "bad guy" making a killing off farmers and consumers The net profits of processors, wholesalers and retailers all represented an insignificant amount of the total consumer food expenditures Their cost of doing business went spiralling because of inflation, with the biggest hunk--by far--going for labor.

In 1965, $23.3 billion or 43 per cent of the total marketing bill for food went for labor costs By 1975, that figure had increased to $52 4 billion (a whopping 124 per cent increase), accounting for 50 per cent of the total marketing bill This labor bill was incurred AFTER the food left the farm--it does not include the farmer's labor costs, which also increased but cannot be passed along to consumers as in other businesses (another revelation?).

Farm prices may go up, or they may go down, they always fluctuate on the market. But labor costs only go in one direction and that's up!

Ironic, isn't it, that in spite of these indisputable facts, it's Labor that hollers the loudest when food prices go up.....

Marketing With Mary Ann

Store emergency food

By Maryann Beckman

Drifted roads and more threats of heavy snow means it's time once again to lay in an emergency store of food and to be prepared for power failures or being snowbound, suggests Maryann Beckman, Consumer Food Marketing Agent.

With a few canned goods, modern mixes, a can opener, water or other liquid, a few candles and a bit of ingenuity, you can live quite comfortably and "survive" for literally weeks, if necessary. The body doesn't need as much food as you suppose it does to survive. In times of emergency, we tend to eat as much for security and to ward off panic as for the food itself Being snowbound can even be fun for many families and offers a kind of enjoyable pioneer experience, if it doesn't last long

Canned or dried milk and canned juices are almost a must in your emergency store of food, especially if there are children in the family. Dry mix beverages should also be included for variety and usefullness, providing water is available The juices and beverages work well in most mixes and recipes calling for liquid, plus they add a new and different flavor. Water works in most recipes, too, though the product may be less tender than if milk is used. Flavor may not be as good either but it's still very edible

If your water supply is dependent on electricity, you may want to store some in clean plastic or glass containers. Allow half a gallon of water per person per day for drinking, plus what you estimate you'll need for cooking. Remember too, you can always melt clean snow, if necessary.

Bread, in some form, is a necessity too. Include crackers, hardtack, and dry cereals that need no cooking or heating, along with the dry ingredients with, which to make bread, biscuits or pancakes. Some of the modern dry mixes for breads, coffee cakes, muffins and biscuits are great too, if the power source isn't disrupted.

If you can cook, but you're out of eggs for those mixes or recipes, you can leave them out entirely without too much trouble. The product will not be as light and tender as when eggs are used, but still quite edible. Or add one teaspoon of baking powder for each egg called for in the recipe. Mix it with the dry ingredients and prepare according to package directions Increase liquid by about two tablespoons for each egg that was omitted

Your emergency supplies should include main dish foods, such as tuna, salmon, corned beef, dried beef, hash, spaghetti and meat-balls, chili, canned meats, etc They're ready to eat and can be eaten even without cooking, if the power is off Tuck in lots of canned fruits and vegetables too. A package of instant potatoes and a can or bottle of shortening that needs no refrigeration are other handy items to have on hand for baking and cooking.

Include some snack and fun foods, too, such as sweets, candy and nuts. They give quick energy as well as fun and pleasure. A jar of peanut butter will give extra protein needed and jams and jellies will replace butter or margarine as a spread for breads. Other foods on the emergency shelf or box should include any special food needs for baby or other family members.

It's a good idea to have some emergency cooking apparatus around too. If you have a wood burning fireplace, you're all set, but you can also use your charcoal grill (provided it's used in the open air or where you have plenty of ventilation), fondue pots, candle-warming servers or canned heat with an indoor or outdoor camping stove Remember though to use these with care indoors and with proper ventilation. Some of the cooking activities you come up with will probably also provide enough fun for the family that they'll even look forward to the next power failure or being snow bound again. The key is to "be prepared" if an emergency does occur

Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Marsh, Route One, Galien, announce the engagement of their daughter, Janet Marie, to Robert Franklin III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Franklin Jr., 303 Chippewa Street, Buchanan.

Miss Marsh, a graduate of Galien High School, is employed at Clark Equipment Company in Buchanan.

Her fiance, a graduate of Buchanan High School, is employed at Bendix Corporation in South Bend.

An April 16 wedding is being planned by the couple.

Bang, Bang

By Warren M. Hoyt

Things are not looking up for gun-toting felons.

Starting January 1, under a new law, anyone committing a felony with a firearm must be sentenced to two extra years in prison, in addition to a term for the felony itself For repeat offenders, the extra sentence jumps to five and then 10 years

Proponents of the mandatory sentencing law claim it will deter crime, while opponents charge the new law won't make any difference to someone bent on crime

Perhaps most concerned about its effects is state corrections director Perry Johnson, who fears the law will merely send more people to Michigan's already overcrowded prisons.

In Florida, where a similar law has been on the books for more than a year, gun crimes have dropped significantly Armed robberies with guns, for example, fell 39 per cent in 1976 over the year before

But it will be many months before Michigan officials know whether the law deters Michigan criminals or simply worsens the problem of prison over-population

"Check Off" $3-4 Million

Again this year, Michigan taxpayers will notice that they can check a box on their state income tax forms that will put $2 of state tax revenues into a special fund for financing gubernatorial election campaigns.

The same checkoff was on 1976's tax forms But the 1975 law that provided for partial public funding of the campaigns was struck down as unconstitutional on a technicality by the State Supreme Court. So the tax money stayed in the state treasury

Late in its 1976 session, the Legislature approved a new political reform law that supporters promise will meet any legal challenges

Besides tightening requirements on candidates for reporting campaign contributions, the new law resurrects the tax checkoff system

Officials estimate that taxpayers will "check off" as much as $3-4 million a year in state tax revenues to finance gubernatorial campaigns, the next one coming up in 1978 Under the law, candidate will be eligible for the "public" funds under a formula that requires them to collect many small private contributions as well.

The system is the first in the country to provide any public money for statewide candidates It was patterned after the plan that gave federal tax dollars to presidential candidates this year for the first time

Politicians of both parties say Michigan's law is one of the best in the country for making campaigns more ethical and open.

Pssst May be Zapped

Many aerosol sprays may get zapped from Michigan store shelves if a ban on fluorocarbon-propelled sprays is enacted under a law signed by Gov William Milliken last week.

The law, hotly debated for over a year, would authorize a ban on the aerosols beginning in 1979 But state health officials would first have to decide that the fluorocarbon-propellants, often known as Freon, are indeed dangerous to human health.

The invisible gases are believed to damage the earth's ozone layer. Harmful ultraviolet radiation from the sun can then penetrate the atmospheric layer and reach the earth, causing skin cancer and other problems.

Is it the Hub?

Off-street parking, horse-and-buggy style, marked the earliest of America's shopping centers, a tiny five-store section near the main shopping district of Baltimore, MD, in 1907

Today, the shopping center is considered to be the social and cultural hub of any given community, according to Jack Ralph, president of a management-development company involved with shopping centers in the Carolinas.

Skeptical? Think of your shopping center as a spot to drop in for a pair of shoes or a new set of dish towels--and that's it?

"If you don't believe it, take a look at a climate-controlled mall on a rainy day or any day," Mr. Ralph said recently during a conference at Michigan State University.

"The shopping center is the 'village green' of colonial times, the 'market place' of earlier cultures."

And there's another plus, as far as Mr Ralph is concerned He says shopping centers have introduced thousands of folks to art through the mall shows that travel the country

Don't think of shopping centers as suburban entities only, though

Another industry spokesman, John R. Plunkett, foresees "a lot more work in urban downtown.. a lot of rebuilding," but under one developer instead of multiple ownership.

Detroit's Renaissance Center, still under construction at this point, is an example of what Mr Plunkett predicts for other urban areas in the future

Test for Blight

Bean blight--an internal bean disease that hurts the quality and yield--can't be controlled by dusting or spraying. But it can be discovered

To find out if their field bean seed has such blight, Michigan farmers can contact the state Department of Agriculture through December 15 and have five-pound samples tested for $5 each

If germination tests are requested also, the charge is an additional $2.50 per sample.

The fee is a special seasonal one It goes up to $15 each sample between December 16 and March 15, and tests are not available from March 16 through October 1 of next year

Forms to accompany samples can be obtained from the Michigan Department of Agriculture, Laboratory Division, 1615 South Harrison Road, East Lansing, MI 48823

Old to New

Recycling roads will help save natural resources, like the heavy petroleum that's used as the base for asphalt

So, the conservation-minded Department of State Highways and Transportation is planning one of the biggest recycling projects in the country--and the first on a major state highway in Michigan.

"By recycling the existing asphalt pavement, we hope to prove the merits of a technique that will result in a substantial savings in cost, energy and natural resources," says John P Woodford, department director

How does one recycle a road? The department has been studying and testing different methods in recent years.

The one to be tried out this coming spring--on a 10.5-mile section of I 75 in Cheboygan County--involves pulverizing the top five inches of pavement, mixing it with a small quantity of new asphalt and recompacting it to a uniform density and level Then a thin wearing course-overlay will be applied to the recycled pavement

Snowmobiles must be registered

More registered snowmobiles than the entire country to the north--that's Michigan's boast

Secretary of State Richard H Austin, who is reminding snowmobile owners that registration is generally required, says the state's more than 375,000 (registered) snowmobiles "rank among the world leaders in the registration and use of the popular winter vehicles"

Austin points out also that there are "likely some half-million" of the vehicles in Michigan

Folks with new snowmobiles may register them for the year--the last of a three-year registration cycle--for $3 at any field office of the Secretary of State

The only snowmobiles exempt from Michigan registrations are

--those operated exclusively on land owned or under control of the snowmobile owner.

--machines used in special events under permits issued by government units which have jurisdiction

--those used in safety education and training courses

IRS toll-free center

Most area taxpayers will be able to get their federal income tax questions answered with the help of assistors at IRS's new toll-free telephone center. The "toll-free center" is now situated in the new Patrick V McNamara Building in Detroit The "center" serves taxpayers from Ironwood to Erie--and with no telephone toll charges The IRS phone system operates weekdays from 8.30 a m. until 5.15 p m. Phone numbers are listed in the tax forms packages.

Taxpayers with more complex questions who feel they need in-person help may obtain it locally at the Internal Revenue Service office. There is no charge for the service Hours are 8 00 a.m until 4 30 p.m , Monday through Friday The office is located at the Federal Building, 175 Territorial Road, in Benton Harbor

Internal Revenue also reminds taxpayers whose 1976 income was less than $8,000 that they may be entitled to a special benefit, in some cases as much as $400. It's called the "earned income credit" It is available to certain qualifying persons, even some who may not otherwise be required to file a tax return, or perhaps even had no tax withheld in 1976.

IRS urges everyone whose income last year was under $8,000 to inquire about the details of the earned income credit by calling the toll-free tax assistance phone number.

Icicles sign of heat leak - and money leak

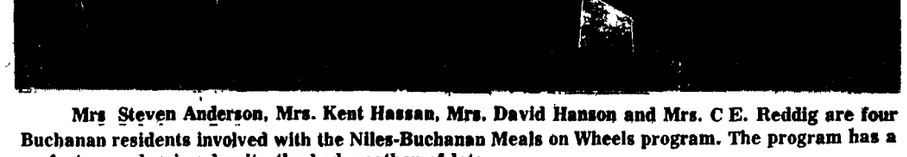
Have you been admiring the effect of those glistening icicles hanging from your roof? Well enjoy the view, says a physics professor here. You're paying for it

"In a cold snap each of those icicles costs you money," says Joe Bellina, assistant professor at Saint Mary's College. "It means that besides heating your house, you're heating your roof and the outdoors." Faulty insulation is the main culprit, Bellina says "And the colder it is and the warmer you try to keep your house, the more money you're going to spend on wasted heat"

Bellina estimates that each one foot icicle costs a penny's worth of fuel. That might not seem like much for a Currier and Ives scene. But as the icicle gets longer the cost of maintaining it goes up dramatically. "Instead of two cents for a two foot icicle, you're paying eight cents," he claims "For a big three footer the cost goes up to a quarter apiece."

The conservation minded professor has some hints for consumers worried about their heating bills and the nation's growing energy problem. Insulate or add insulation to your attic. Add storm doors and windows, or repair leaks. One of the easiest and best methods, says Bellina, is simply to lower the heat in the house. "The important thing to remember is that your heating costs are determined by the difference in the temperature outside and inside. If it's 20 degrees out and you cut your thermostat back from 85 to 80, you get a bonus. Instead of a six per cent saving (the difference between 85 degrees and 80 degrees), you're saving more than eight per cent because you've reduced the difference in outside and inside temperature from 65 to 60."

For real icicle franciers Bellina offers hope "Don't worry about the ones on the south side of the house of the ones that form during warm days and colder nights," he says. "Those come from mother nature. And they are pretty, aren't they?"



Mrs Steven Anderson, Mrs. Kent Hassan, Mrs. David Hanson and Mrs. C E. Reddig are four Buchanan residents involved with the Niles-Buchanan Meals on Wheels program. The program has a perfect record going despite the bad weather of late.

Not one day of meals has been canceled since the program began August 2, 1972

Their perfect record string comes during a time when many other communities have canceled their programs.

The largest hailstone on record fell on July 16, 1938 in Potter, Nebraska. It weighed one and a half pounds and was the only one that fell there that day

Bucks stay in race for Blossomland crown

A lot of things happened in the second quarter of the Buchanan-Brandywine basketball game played last Friday.

For one the Bucks changed an 18-18 first quarter tie into a 12 point halftime lead.

But more important the quarter showed anybody who might be watching that the Bucks were still in contention for the crown in the Blossomland conference race

The Buchanan win left them only one game behind league leaders Brandywine and Cassopolis, each with one league defeat

"Things are within our grasp right now," commented head coach Jon Bohannon after his Bucks had topped the 11 ranked Bobcats 79-70

Things are in grasp because Buchanan still has one more shot at each of the two leaders and both games will be played in the Buchanan gym

River Valley, one of three teams to down the Bucks this year, dropped into a tie with Buchanan when they were downed by Cass So what it all boils down to is that four teams can still grab at least a share of the Blossomland conference title.

Buchanan and Brandywine gave the fans what they expected to see in the first quarter of their game last Friday. Both teams took the ball to the bucket and when the last second ticked off the clock the score was still even at 18.

Buchanan's full court defense went to work in the second quarter and held Brandywine from scoring a basket until 4:24 in the quarter. Prior to their first bucket the Cats had dropped in two free throws to keep from being shutout.

The Bucks outscored Brandywine 16-2 before Brandywine could get on track; lost a little ground before the end of the half and finished with a 42-30 halftime lead.

Brandywine pulled within ten at one time in the third quarter but ended up by dropping another point at the end of the third quarter, trailing 54-43.

Brandywine gained one advantage in the third quarter, however. Buchanan forward Gerald Busby (second leading scorer in the area) picked up his fourth foul with 2:23 remaining in the quarter and was forced to take a breather.

Buchanan had gotten into early foul trouble and by the end of the third quarter they had three players in foul trouble.

The Cats could not take advantage of Busby's absence as the Bucks built up their biggest lead of the game at 60-43 only 1:10 into the final quarter. But Brandywine finally started scoring and cut the Buchanan lead to nine before Busby came in with 3:40 left in the game

Buchanan pulled back ahead by ten and then by 12 as the Cats resorted to a fouling defense but with 1:04 Busby left the game for good with his fifth foul

Once again Brandywine could not take advantage of Busby's time on the bench and could come no closer than the final score of 79-70.

Mo Kyles, playing with a face mask protecting a broken nose, was the game's high scorer with 24 points Eight of those points came in the third quarter when he and Busby were the only Bucks to get on the scoreboard

Busby fell four short of his average with a total of 18 points, Greg Frazier hit the nets for 15, and the two guards, Kevin Vanderbush and Jo Kyles each had ten to put all five Buchanan scorers in double figures.

Ron Williams also scored for the Bucks as he canned two free throws in the final quarter

Brandywine beat the Bucks in shooting as they hit 32 of 60 for a 53 per cent shooting average, while Buchanan hit 34 of 68 for a 50 per cent average.

The game was won at the free throw line as Buchanan hit 11 of 17 tries for 68 per cent and Brandywine could only put in six of their 16 shots for a 38 per cent showing

The Bucks outrebounded their opponents 42-30 and turnovers went to Brandywine as they had one less than the Bucks 15-16

Four days earlier the Bucks broke 90 for the fourth time this season, downing the Edwardsburg Eddies 93-69.

Busby had his best performance of the season with a game high total of 37 points, 20 of those in the second half

Buchanan took a six point 19-13 lead at the end of the first quarter but by the end of the half they had blown the Eddies out of the gym

Buchanan scored 27 second quarter points while the Eddies scored 14 to take a 46-27 lead at half.

The third quarter was more of the same. Busby came out shooting and put in seven field goals for 14 points leading the Bucks to a 24-16 third quarter score and a 70-43 lead in the running score.

Buchanan finished with 23 points in the final quarter. The Eddies scored 26 to cut the lead down a bit but the evening belonged to the Bucks as they extended their win streak to five games (six after the Brandywine game)

Mo Kyles scored 16 for the winners, Frazier scored 12, Jo Kyles scored seven, Vanderbush scored six, Ron Williams scored five, Ed Smith and Joe Watts each scored four and Rick Layher scored two

The Buchanan JV squad dropped a thriller to the Eddies, falling four short of the visitors, 52-48. In the Brandywine contest the Bucks took a lead at the end of the first quarter but slowly saw that lead become an 82-63 defeat The JV now stands at 4-6.

The varsity record is 8-3

Who is that masked Buck?

LaSalle approved for Decatur branch

As previously announced, LaSalle Federal Savings and Loan Association has recently been approved by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, Washington, D C., to establish a branch office in Decatur, according to Eugene B Rokely, President

Rokely stated that the Association has now completed the purchase of additional land adjoining the original site at the corner of Phelps and St Mary's Streets The location is two blocks north of the center of the Decatur business district and across the street from the public library LaSalle Federal plans to start construction of the full service branch office, which will consist of approximately 2300 square ft , single story, modern brick structure that will provide drive-in service. The architecture will be similar in appearance to the Association's existing branch facility in Coloma. It is hoped that the office will be open by April, 1977.

Rokely further stated that LaSalle Federal Savings, which has been serving the public since 1910, and recently completed its 67th year of continuous operation, is looking forward to serving the Decatur area with the same full service that is presently enjoyed by the customers of its three offices in Buchanan, Bridgman and Coloma LaSalle Federal, which has present assets of approximately fifty-six million dollars, plans on staffing the office with a branch manager and two tellers, who will be named at a later date

Too late for Christmas but now more meaning

By Mary Search

Warranties to Improve Under FTC Ruling

It is too late for Christmas shoppers to get full benefit from the new Federal Trade Commission rulings on warranties These went into effect December 31 But now, warranties should have more meaning for the consumer

In the past, warranties and guarantees have not been too effective in helping a customer determine whether or not a company will stand behind its product But in the new FTC rulings, nine specific points of information are required that should make this more clear

The warranty must point out who is protected, what parts of the product are covered, the effective date and life of the warranty, and the steps that the buyer must take in case of a defect or failure of the product

Of course, companies can choose whether or not they issue a warranty with their product And some have chosen not too But the idea behind the FTC ruling is that if a warranty is issued -- then it must mean somthing to the consumer

One of the clues a consumer can use as to the warranty's worth is whether or not it is "full" or "limited" One of these two words must be printed on the document

A full warranty should be a better deal as under the FTC ruling, it's required to carry these provisions.

First, any defects must be fixed without charge -- and within a reasonable amount of time

Second, the buyer cannot be asked to go to great trouble and expense in having defective products fixed

And -- if the company issuing the warranty fails to correct a defect, then the customer is entitled to a refund or a replacement -- whichever he or she chooses

These are all requirements of the warranty that has the word "full" printed on it But if the word "limited" appears on the warranty, then the shopper should be aware that one or more of these requirements will not be met However, both the limited and the full warranty must meet a few minimum standards according to the new FTC ruling

For instance, any intention of not covering damage resulting from failure of the product must be so stated in the warranty That might be the food that spoils in a defective freezer Or the clothes that are charred in a dryer because an automatic heat shut-off didn't work.

Also, unless FTC approves, there can be no disclaimers written into the warranty -- such as not honoring a warranty on a car that isn't serviced by the seller Or on a vacuum cleaner that uses a bag made by another manufacturer

How effective warranties become for comparative shopping depends on how much attention consumers give them If they include the warranty as a factor in their choice-making, then it can become quite a lever in helping consumers get a better deal at the market place.

Harnessing energy used to be simple.

Years ago, most energy needs were met by what you had in your right arm. Or by something you kept in a stall, in your barn.

Today, meeting energy needs is a gigantic undertaking And a complex problem Because the need is still growing

Even conservative estimates tell us the demand for electricity alone will double in the next 15 years.

Just keeping up with this increase is going to be tough. It's going to take new facilities. But major facilities take from five to ten years to build.

And a lot of money.

Building a powerplant today, for instance, costs five times what it did 15 years ago. And price of fuel used to generate electricity has skyrocketed since 1973.

But, while we continue to make every effort to hold down our costs in meeting your future energy needs, there are some things you can do to help conserve that energy and keep your costs in line at the same time

By using your electricity wisely. Insulating your home properly. Checking into more energy efficient appliances and systems, like the heat pump.

And by understanding that the generation of electricity is a costlier and more complicated process than it used to be.

When you get right down to it, the best way we know to harness the energy we all need for the future is by working together today.

is knows how the

Michigan Electric Co.
