Record announces staff and printing shop changes

William N. Firestone, owner and publisher of the Berrien County Record, has announced several recent changes in both personnel and facilities at the paper and printing shop.

Stephen Jewell, a native of Stevensville who has been employed at the Record since July 12, has been named co-editor of the paper with Elizabeth Hellwig.

Jewell is a graduate of Lakeshore High School and a 1969 graduate of Albion College He also attended Indiana University. At Albion, Jewell was a staff writer on the student newspaper, winning first place in the 1969 Michigan Collegiate Press Association sportswriting contest

He was previously employed by Manufacturer's Rubber Supply, Inc of St. Joseph. His wife, Suzanne, is a first grade teacher at Chikaming School. Sawyer

Elizabeth Hellwig has been employed at the Record since August, 1976 and has been managing editor since February of this year She was a reporter for the paper prior to being named managing editor

Stephen Jewell

Elizabeth Hellwig

Hellwig is a graduate of Niles High School and lives in Buchanan Her husband, Duane, is a tool and die maker at Clark Equipment Co She has three children, Duane, Doreen and Steve.

Firestone also announced a $20,000 improvement program in the Record's printing job shop

Recent additions to the job shop include a Nu-Arc horizontal camera, an A B. Dick 11" by 17" sheet size offset press, with computerized controls, two new layout tables, and a 12 ft by 12 ft portable darkroom The darkroom is now located on the main floor next to the newly remodeled layout room.

The new camera enables the job shop to reduce negatives to 20 per cent of their original size or enlarge them to 300 per cent without changing lenses.

The Record job shop now has total photo-typesetting capability, although letter press work will still be done on request

STOCKMAN VISITS TOWNSHIP MEETING: U.S. Representative Dave Stockman (center) with Buchanan Township Clerk Donna Newsom and Township Supervisor Kenneth Jones at Tuesday night's meeting

Stockman will help local governments get federal $

In a visit to Tuesday night's Buchanan Township Board meeting, Fourth District Congressman Dave Stockman said his office will try to help local governmental units in the district get a bigger share of the Federal tax pie

Noting that Michigan ranks 48th of the 50 states in percentage of dollar return from the federal government, Stockman said there are two solutions to the problem of spending more in taxes than the state gets in return "The first solution is to reduce the money flow out, and the second is to get more of the money that is already appropriated back into the state," he said

The freshman Republican pointed out that Berrien County receives only 53 cents in return for each tax dollar sent to Washington He said Fourth District governmental units are so small that they can't compete with large metropolitan areas in going after federal grant money

"Our local governments don't have the personnel or expertise needed to interpret all the paperwork involved in these federal programs," he said

Stockman said the purpose of his visit to the district during the current congressional recess is to emphasize the help that his office can provide to local governments trying to obtain their share of federal money

Noting the reaction of those in attendance to expenditures considered by the township, Stockman said "I wish we could transfer this grassroots process to the federal government."

Stockman also commented on proposed instant voter registration that would eliminate pre-election registration and require only that each voter show up at the polls on election day with one piece of identification

"It's a guaranteed proposal for massive election fraud The chances it will pass have become very, very dim as a result of the opposition it has encountered in the past few months"

The congressman also engaged in a discussion with a visitor to the meeting who said he was a member of the maritime union and favored cargo preference legislation now pending in congress The legislation would require that a certain percentage of all imported oil be carried on tankers of U S registry

The visitor said many of the tankers owned by American oil companies are manned, built and registered in foreign countries He said the legislation would force these companies to use more American registered tankers, resulting in more tax money for the U S government and more jobs for U S citizens

Stockman countered that the U S maritime industry is notoriously inefficient and the proposed legislation would raise oil prices He called the bill "protectionist legislation" that would cause retaliation by foreign countries and hurt the U S in foreign markets.

Plant thieves take only the best

The potted plant thieves who have pilfered six plants from Buchanan residents in the last two weeks are not only greedy, they're also discerning

They struck Sunday night (August 7) at the home of Mrs. J.C Ovington, 212 Terre Coupe Road, taking only the largest and best of the basketed plants hanging from a tree limb in the front yard.

The plant they chose was a $12 spider plant in a white and green plastic pot. The plant snatchers left three lesser specimens hanging from the tree

The Buchanan Police Department at first believed that the rash of plant thefts was the work of someone trying to beautify his home However, as the toll of vanished plants mounted, police theorized that the thieves will try to sell the plants at garage sales. a practice common in Florida

A witness to a Metea Court plantnaping on Saturday night, August 6 told police she saw a long-haired blonde male in his teens or early 20's jump out of the passenger side of a dark green car and take a plant from the front porch of Mabel Mummey, 813 Rynearson Street

Mummey reported the thieves took a large white urn containing petunias The urn and flowers were valued at $12

Shirley Roti Roti, 309 West Front Street, who was also victimized by the plant snatchers on July 29, told police a spider plant in a clear plastic container, total value $20, was taken from her front porch on the night of August 5

A white-striped green ivy plant, potted in a hanging basket in the victim's front yard, was stolen the same night. The owner of the plant, Ethel Jacobek of 309 Sylvan Street, described it as unusually large.

Kathy Murphy, of 808 West Front Street, reported the theft of both a plant and a bicycle from the patio outside her apartment on August 5. The plant was a Swedish ivy, and the bicycle was a yellow ten-speed Huffy, a 27" boys model worth $80

HUD budget approved

Commission discusses double-decker bus purchase

At the second required hearing, the city commission approved a revised budget for the current HUD community development program. Ben Jenson voted no on principle as he did later in the meeting when the HUD contract for more funds had to be approved in connection with the newest application for funds. If the city gets the money it can hopefully use a portion of it for the repair of the bridges, if the EPA approves.

Joe Garbert II was present in the absence of Vinod Otteson to present a plan for purchasing a bus from a Paw Paw winery It's an old English double decker, and it would be used on a regular run to transport people to the stores. Garbert said that the chamber of commerce approved of the idea as a means of enabling senior citizens to get downtown shopping. The commission said they'd study the plan but asked for more statistics.

Neighbors were present to complain about all the disturbance caused at night in the Presbyterian Church parking lot. It was decided to discuss this with the Presbyterians.

The city authorized the city manager to advertise for bids for new walkie-talkie equipment for the police department. It turned down a request from Junior Achievement for help in painting parking stripes on its lot

There was some concern over bad flooding on Liberty Street during the recent storm. The sanitary sewer finally had to be opened to take off the water. There had been some calls from residents, but it was pointed out that the neighbors in this area had protested the city's last efforts to remedy the poor drainage situation in that whole area

The commission approved invoices from Cripps and Associates for $1,116.27 and from United Appraisal for $4,485, representing 15 per cent of their contract with the city for current appraisal of the residential property.

United Way approves '78 budget

The Admissions and Budget Committee of Buchanan United Way has approved a 1978 budget calling for total appropriations of $51,175, up $1,100 from last year's total of $50,075 Seven of the 13 agencies involved received higher appropriations than last year

Gateway, an organization serving handicapped persons, received the largest increase Gateway was granted $3,500, an increase of $2,100 over last year's grant The increase was due to an estimated 27 per cent expansion in staff, transportation, industries and services by the agency.

The Berrien County Cancer Service received a grant of $8,800, $800 more than last year. The increase is due to the addition of one nurse to the cancer service staff

Other agencies receiving increases over last year's appropriation, with the amount of increase in parentheses, are Handicapped Camping, $600 ($100), Girl Scouts of Singing Sands $5,200 ($300), Boy Scouts of Southwestern Michigan Council, $5,000 ($100), Niles-Buchanan YMCA, $3,000 ($200), and Berrien County Red Cross, $7,000 ($300)

Four agencies received grants of the same amounts as last year They are Riverwood Mental Health Center, $1,000; Niles-Buchanan Big Brothers and Big Sisters, $2,000, Salvation Army, $2,800; and Christmas Baskets, $200

Only two agencies received smaller grants than in 1977 Michigan United Way, whose request is based on the area's employment figures, received a grant of $4,300, and the Child and Family Service of Michigan received a grant of $2,175

The committee decided that the Niles Association for Exceptional Children will be given a one-year grant for a maximum of $500 in the event Buchanan United Way's 1978 fund-raising goal in exceeded

Last year the fund drive raised $49,323 for member agencies

Opinions

Is this cooperation?

By D.E.N.

The comprehensive plan developed by Buchanan is far reaching and should bring about some planning and actual development for the future. Throughout the study it is pointed out that cooperative planning among the city and the townships is of utmost importance.

Then the author in his preface blows it. If its intent was to disturb the surrounding townships and to put them on the defensive, this it has done. It implies that non residents are either parasites or ignorant and calls them to task for their unwillingness to help with the public library, city parks, teen center, and the recreational facilities of Buchanan Further study would demonstrate that these non residents contribute a great deal to Buchanan's welfare

Mr. Enfield doesn't know that the City of Buchanan several years ago had a chance to annex a large section of what is now Samson Terrace along Rynearson. At that time the city wasn't particularly interested, and the developer had to spend a great deal of money on sanitary facilities and roads The city, now desperate for sewer customers is willing to let "outsiders" hook in at considerable premium, forgetting that it was not the Buchanan taxpayers but the federal government who provided most of the funds for the new plant in the first place.

Everybody is sympathetic with the problems of Buchanan and other cities But the reason many people go to the suburbs is to get away from metropolitan problems. For the privilege of getting privacy these people are willing to pay for their own trash pickup and develop their own septic systems Their own water supply is much nicer than that of any city resident These outsiders seek the least government possible

Rather than attempt to work with the townships, this preface will have the opposite effect. The townships are being asked to "loosen the bonds" but are offered nothing in return.

Mr Enfield apparently has no gratitude for the sum which Bertrand and Buchanan townships give each year to the library, nor does he appreciate the help planned by Buchanan township for the recreational program It isn't the fault of the outsiders that Buchanan's tax base is declining A great many of them come to town and spend considerable money here.

Mr. Enfield certainly hasn't succeeded in bringing the municipalities closer together with his preface

Police report

Buchanan police last week recovered a stolen car that was left, along with a friend of the alleged thief, at the Indiana and Michigan Electric Co dam on the St Joseph River

A 16-year-old Buchanan girl said a male friend took her for a ride in the car, which he claimed he had recently bought, on August 1 He drove her to the I & M dam, then left on foot She waited for two hours before driving home The next morning she found identification papers in the car indicating it belonged to John Nemcek of Dolton, Illinois The girl then called police

When Nemcek came to Buchanan to pick up his car, he told police he picked up a hitch-hiker, Billy White, of Michigan City, Indiana on July 31 Nemcek said White talked him into going swimming at an Indiana beach

Nemcek said he went swimming and returned to the beach to find his car keys missing After searching for the keys, he discovered that both White and the car had departed from the scene Police said the Porter County (Indiana) Sheriff's Department will seek a warrant for White s arrest

Ag in Action

Before you consider conversion.....consider the costs

Concerned about high food prices? Ever consider growing your own food supply just as families once did back in "the good old days"? What would it cost to convert your family unit into self-sufficient food producers?

Land might be the big problem, but with the advancements agriculture has made in the last 200 years, it doesn't take as much as it once did For example, enough wheat for all of the flour and cereal a family of four would need in a year can be grown on a third of an acre of land and corn products such as meal, cereal and syrup require hardly any land at all Your milk, butter, cheese and ice cream requirements could be supplied from two months' production of a top dairy cow, and the family's beef needs would be equivalent to just about one live steer.

Doesn't sound too impossible so far, does it? There are, however, a few provisions.

It might be done IF you were equipped with the capabilities to practice all the advanced techniques employed by today's modern farmer While only a relatively small parcel of land is needed for your family's wheat, you would also need the modern farmer's mechanization, pesticide and fertilizer practices to plant and grow the crop. And, although it would only take a minute and a half to harvest the crop, you would need one of those big, efficient, expensive combines to do it

One more little item to be considered: to support a top producing cow which would supply your family's dairy needs, you will need a modern, efficient dairy farm set-up with an investment of approximately a quarter million dollars

These are just a few of the numerous, costly behind-the-scene agricultural requirements that would be needed for a modern family to be converted into a self-sufficient provider of its own basic foods.

How did the family of 200 years ago accomplish this feat without modern technology? They spent all of their time and efforts producing enough just to feed themselves Not many would really want to trade the well-stocked supermarket of today for that kind of life-long drudgery!

Dr. and Mrs Kenneth L Gamble

Open house to celebrate Dr. and Mrs. K.L. Gamble's 50th anniversary

By Carol Day

Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Gamble of 912 Meridian Road, Hudson will be honored on their 50th Wedding Anniversary at an Open House given by their children and grandchildren, August 14, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the home of Mr and Mrs W Alan Day, 733 South Meridian Road, Hudson, Michigan.

Elizabeth M. Harris and Kenneth L. Gamble were married in the evening of August 12, 1927 in the home of her parents, Mr and Mrs. William Harris at Jonesville, Michigan by the Rev William Perkins They have lived in Hillsdale, Ann Arbor, Buchanan, Michigan and the Tampa, Florida area and since June 1954, have resided on his parents farm 4½ miles south of Hudson on US 127.

They are parents of five children. Dr Robert N. Gamble of Barrington, Illinois, Lowell L Gamble of Vacaville, California, Mrs W Alan (Carol) Day of Hudson, Mrs Carla Bryan of Hudson and William K Gamble of St Louis, Missouri They have 14 grandchildren Jenny, Katie, Bobby, Laura Gamble of Illinois, Vickie and Kenny Gamble of California, Jackie, Shari, Beth, Becky Day of Hudson, Wayne, Cindy, Tony Bryan of Hudson and Cathajane Gamble of Missouri

Mrs Gamble attended Hillsdale College for two years, she majored in Music. While in Buchanan, she was an Eastern Star member During the early years at Buchanan while all of the five youngsters were in school, as there wasn't a busing system then, Elizabeth had to be their taxicab driver to get them to school for their classes and also for their football, basketball and band practices As there were three different schools the youngsters were attending, in many cases she would meet herself coming and going! When Elizabeth moved to Hudson she attended the Eastern Star Chapter, also served as Worthy Matron during that time. She is now a 50 year Member of the Order Mrs. Gamble is also a member of the South Hudson Women's Club.

Dr. Gamble attended Hillsdale College for two years, then transferred to Ann Arbor, University of Michigan for Medical school Upon graduating from U of M, he took his internship at Jackson Mercy Hospital at Jackson, Michigan. On August 17, 1931, he started his General Practice at Buchanan, Michigan During the next eight years, he began making plans for his future home by making cement blocks with field stone laid in them He also had a few men help him out in this project of making the blocks. Finally in 1937, he bought the farm-land of 23 acres and built his home and barn. On August 19, 1939, Dr and Mrs Gamble moved to their new home This is where their family of five children settled for a number of years In 1953, his mother, Mrs Anna Gamble, died, leaving the farm to her three children In June of 1954, Ken and Elizabeth moved down on the Gamble homestead farm at Hudson, Michigan, and have resided there for the last 23 years Dr Gamble also built his home here and office and began his General Practice once again in 1955 at Hudson As farming was a fascinating hobby of his, he also farmed his land that his own father years before had farmed Dr. Gamble retired from his practice in 1968 but among the many interests he still enjoys is farming

Dr and Mrs Kenneth L Gamble and their children and grandchildren will welcome friends, neighbors and relatives who wish to stop in and visit during the Open House They request no gifts please

Berrien County receives honor

Berrien County has been honored by the National Association of Counties (NACo) for the development of two county programs designed to strengthen the delivery of county services

Berrien County was named a 1977 achievement award winner by NACo President Dan Lynch Achievement awards are presented to counties who have developed new programs which enhance or expand county services to citizens.

Berrien's Youth Service and Assistance Bureau (YSB), established in May 1973, was awarded for its delinquency prevention services, short-term counseling, service brokerage and an information system network on juvenile offenders in the county

A substantial decrease in the number of cases handled by the juvenile courts has been the result It was found that the cases could be handled at one-third the cost by YSB as opposed to the juvenile courts

Berrien, Cass and Van Buren Counties received the NACo achievement award for creating a Human Resources Commission for the area The three counties developed the Commission by signing an interlocal agreement.

The new Commission will plan and coordinate the delivery of services for individuals and families as well as accept, administer and disburse funds for a variety of human resource programs and facilities

The Human Resources Commission is the first in Michigan to be established under the State's new Urban Cooperation Act

In making the NACo award announcement, Lynch congratulated Berrien County for their "special sensitivity to citizen needs and their efforts to strengthen county government"

Lynch explained that achievement award case studies are "distributed by NACo to other counties to serve as examples of innovative programs"

The National Association of Counties is the spokesman for county government in the United States The nation's counties represent approximately 98 per cent of the United States population

Superabundant supplies push market prices below profit margins - but there may be alternative to loss

Superabundant wheat supplies have pushed market prices below profit margins for most Michigan farmers, but there may be an alternative to taking a loss.

"Taking advantage of federal farm price support programs, such as the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC), may allow the producer to hold his wheat in storage without losing money, and selling when the market rises," says Dr Ronald Cotterill, Michigan State University agricultural policy economist

He believes that farmers who have last year's wheat under loan to the CCC should consider the government's three-year storage program

Wheat committed to the program will receive 20 cents per bushel annually to defray storage costs The producer, he explains, continues to own the wheat but cannot sell it for three years unless market prices are 140 per cent above current loan rates

Wheat from this year's crop could also be placed under government loan "Since there were no allotments, or set-asides in effect this year, all of the crop is eligible for the loan program," Cotterill says

A commodity loan with CCC assures that the farmer can receive the support price per bushel, but it does not demand delivery of the wheat to the government 12 months later. It can be sold on the open market during that 12-month period

Cotterill feels that a CCC loan is also better than hedging on the wheat futures market "Current basis suggests that hedging opportunities for wheat are not nearly as promising as they have been in recent years Hedging transfers the risk of price gains as well as losses, whereas the loan program insures the farmer against profit losses and allows him to profit from price gains," he says.

"If the farmer sells while participating in the loan program, the CCC demands repayment of the crop loan plus six per cent interest compounded annually No bank offers short-term financing at so low a rate of interest This additional advantage of the loan program means that if the farmer decides to store, the wheat should be put under loan," Cotterill advises.

Producers may still want to go under loan when the current market price is higher than the net-of-storage loan rate if it is thought the market price will be higher than the current price, plus storage, at some point during the next 12 months But this type of decision demands a careful analysis of the market, current supply, and demand situation

On June 30, the U.S Department of Agriculture (USDA) estimated the 1977 wheat crop to be 2 billion bushels Adding carryover stocks of 1 1 billion bushels gives a total supply of 3 1 billion bushels, one of the largest on record

Most experts project a decline in wheat exports this year due to large crops in the importing nations, such as the Soviet Union, and other exporting nations Export will probably fall between 9 and 1.2 billion bushels Cotterill relates

Domestic demand is fairly stable from year to year In 1976 it was .76 billion bushels Allowing for a 10 per cent population increase and relative price decline, it appears that 83 billion bushels will be consumed domestically The resulting carryover stock is between 1.07 and 1.36 billion bushels.

"This crude forecasting suggests that current prices should equilibriate to the net-of-storage loan rate and that they will rise during the next 12 months by the cost of storage until they equal the loan rate A more refined analysis of the supply and demand forces would undoubtedly yield different numbers, but it is doubtful that the final conclusion would change," Cotterill says "The loan rate would still be the major determinant of market prices

"Placing the crop under government loan will insure a minimum price and provide short-term financing at a reasonable rate while the producer seeks whatever premium the market will offer But don't expect any big windfall gains in wheat trading during the coming year," he adds

Berrien General seeks state approval for renovation program

The administration of Berrien General Hospital, 1250 Deans Hill Road, in Berrien Center is seeking state approval for a proposed renovation program

The hospital proposes to construct a new 6 bed intensive care unit to replace the existing unit that has been cited by the State Health Department as deficient under present day hospital licensing standards At the same time the hospital wants to remodel its acute care ward Four-bed wards would be eliminated and the area restructured into semi-private and private rooms, except for the present pediatric unit That would remain a 4-bed ward

The proposed project would make no change in the hospital's licensed bed capacity. it would remain at 250 beds

The estimated cost of the work is $586 224 and the projected completion date is February 1980

In keeping with state and federal regulations, the hospital administration has applied for a Certificate of Need to the Division of Health Facility Planning and Construction of the Michigan Department of Public Health

Lightning causes area power outages

Lightning that struck a 34,000 volt power line was the cause of a power outage that left parts of Buchanan without electricity for an hour and 45 minutes on Monday morning (August 8)

Rex Porter, Indiana and Michigan Electric Co area manager, said the lightning burned the 34,000-volt line, owned by Clark Equipment Co , in half The broken line then fell on a 12,000-volt distribution feeder line belonging to I & M, knocking out service to the eastern part of the city and along Niles-Buchanan Road at about 7:00 a m

Porter said I & M workmen repaired both downed lines and service was restored about 8 45 a m

College enrollments down again

The percentage of Michigan high school graduates who enroll in college continues its roller-coaster ride, slumping again.

State education department statistics show less than half, or 48 1 per cent, of 1976 high school graduates went to college last fall.

In 1975 it was 50 3 per cent, in 1974 it was 46 6 per cent and in 1973 it was at its peak, 56 1 per cent. The survey has only been done since 1973, however

Guesses are that the better the economy, the more students will go to college But others argue that a booming economy will attract more high school students to go out and get jobs right after graduation

So the rollercoaster pattern remains, basically, unexplainable

Neglected tires are hazards

Neglected, bald or abused automobile tires are potential hazards that could lead to a serious accident and personal injury, the Tire Industry Safety Council warns

"Underinflation is an area of major concern to the tire industry," according to Malcolm R Lovell, Jr , Council Chairman. "Inattention to it could jeopardize the safety of a motorist and others he meets on the road.

"Underinflation, for example, causes tires to flex more so they tend to heat up and wear faster," Lovell said "It can also cause tire failure which in turn can lead to a sudden disablement and a possible vehicle crash.

"Although the tire industry is producing the best tires ever, it is necessary for a vehicle owner to check the air pressure regularly Inflation should be checked every two or three weeks, and before long trips when the tires are cold Your vehicle owner's manual will tell you what the pressure should be," he said.

"Tire inflation directly affects the load-carrying ability of a tire Under federal safety standards, passenger car tires are permanently labeled on the sidewall with their maximum load capacity at a certain inflation pressure, usually 32 pounds per square inch," Lovell added

Lovell also noted that underinflated tires can reduce gasoline mileage by as much as five per cent because they do not roll as easily as properly inflated tires

"Worn out or damaged tires, improperly balanced tires or misaligned front ends are other areas that could lead to tire problems However, underinflation is the most common cause," Lovell said

"Proper tire inflation is one of the most neglected aspects of maintenance and care related to passenger automobiles in the United States," the National Business Council for Consumer Affairs found in a 1972 study

"Safety is our major concern," said Lovell, citing an in-depth study of 1,305 traffic accidents by the University of Indiana "Highway safety researchers found that only bald or underinflated tires were involved in automobile accidents No properly maintained tires were involved

"This study points to one thing – neglect Proper tire care is essential for safety "

Lovell said a free Consumer Tire Guide may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business size envelope to the Tire Industry Safety Council, Box 1801, Washington, D C 20013

Michigan State University offers pointers 'How to tell when its ready'

Tender sweet corn, juicy watermelon, crispy beans and crunchy cabbage – nothing's better than home-grown vegetables harvested at the peak of quality.

The peak of perfection varies from crop to crop To guide you in the harvest and enjoyment of your garden, Michigan State University horticulture specialists offer these pointers:

— Snap beans are ready for harvest usually two to three weeks after they flower. The pods should show only slight bulges from the developing seeds inside If left on the vine too long, beans will be tough and seedy

—Beets should be pulled when they are 1½ to 2 inches across. Older beets get woody and tend to crack.

—Broccoli should be picked before the dark green blossom clusters open into yellow flowers.

—Brussels sprouts ready for harvest are firm, compact and bright green

—Cabbage heads should be firm and feel heavy for their size. If left on the plant too long, they will split open.

—Carrots get tough as they get older and bigger, so harvest when they are at most 1 to 1½ inches in diameter

—Cauliflower heads are ready for harvest when they reach a diameter of about six inches. Yellowing is a sign the heads are too mature or were not blanched properly. (To blanch – whiten – the heads, cover them with some of the larger leaves when heads are two to three inches across. They should be ready for harvest within four to 12 days, depending on the weather.)

—Sweet corn is tastiest if picked when the silks are dry and dark and the kernels are plump and milky. Kernels should pop open readily when squeezed.

—Cucumbers that are soft and yellow are past their prime Harvest while they are still dark green and firm. Letting cucumbers mature on the vines will reduce or halt production.

—Harvest leaf lettuce as soon as the leaves are big enough to eat. Pick head lettuce as soon as the head is a reasonable size. Lettuce left in the garden too long will quickly go to seed

—Onions for fresh eating can be harvested almost anytime. Onions for storage should be left in the ground until the tops have fallen over and turned brown.

—Radishes can be harvested as soon as they are big enough to eat. If left too long, they get woody and hollow.

—Harvest peppers when they are firm and thick-walled. Red peppers should be uniformly red before they're picked

—Potatoes for fresh eating can be dug as soon as they are big enough to use. Potatoes for storage should be left in the garden until the plant tops die down

—Pumpkins should mature on the vines They are ready for harvest when they have a good orange color all over and the skin is hard, not easily punctured by a thumbnail. Cut them off the vines; leaving a small portion of stem attached.

—Summer squash should be picked when small – six to eight inches long – and thin skinned. As they get older and larger, they become tough and the seeds get woody —Harvest winter squash after the beginning of cool weather Cool temperatures increase sugar content and storage life. Winter squash should be tough skinned – not easily punctured by a thumbnail – and of good color.

—Ripe tomatoes are a uniform red or yellow and firm Mushy tomatoes are past their prime —Turnips of two or three inches in diameter are the best eating Larger ones tend to be coarse-textured and bitter.

—When muskmelons can be pulled off the vine with little effort, they are ready for harvest

—Watermelons turn a creamy yellow on the bottom when they're ripe The top surface also becomes dull rather than glossy

Cleaning Pressure Canners

When odors accumulate in a pressure canner they can be removed by using a solution of one tablespoon cream of tartar in one quart of water Fill the canner with the solution to above the darkened water line Put on the lid and bring the pressure to 15 pounds Turn off the heat and let the solution cool normally to 0 pounds pressure before removing the lid Then wash the canner in hot, soapy water; rinse and dry.

Care of Summer Furniture

Scrub wicker furniture with thick, warm suds A stiff brush works well for crevices that otherwise might be missed Then, rinse the furniture with a fine spray of clean water and set it in the sun to dry For reed or cane furniture, dust it first with a stiff brush. Rinse with a sponge wrung out in clear water Take care not to oversoak the reed or cane This could cause warping

Marketing With Mary Ann

By Maryann Beckman

When home gardens start producing cucumbers in abundance, as they have this year, our Extension Service offices are bombarded with pickling questions and problems. Here are some answers to the most frequent recent questions, says Maryann Beckman, Consumer Food Marketing Agent

"What has made my pickles shrivel?" Shriveling often results from using too strong a vinegar, sugar or salt solution at the start of the pickling process. If you're making very sweet or very sour pickles, start with a dilute solution and increase gradually to the desired strength.

Overcooking or overprocessing may cause shriveling too If your recipe calls for heating pickles in the pickling solution for five minutes, it means five minutes and not ten Pack into hot jars at the end of the 5 minute cooking time, without any further cooking Some problems can also occur if you don't count processing time properly. With most recipes you start to count the processing time as soon as the water in the canner returns to boiling. With fresh-pack dill pickles, however, you start counting the processing time as soon as the hot jars are placed in the actively boiling water.

You can also get shriveled pickles and-or hollow pickles by using cucumbers that have been picked too long For the most successful pickles, use cukes within 24 hours after picking. Keep them refrigerated until you're ready to make pickles

"We've never processed pickles ever before. Why do we have to do it now?" It's true that many people have never processed pickles, but the new and recommended recipes suggest that you process the filled jars in a boiling-water bath canner to have safe pickles Pickle products need heat treatment to destroy organisms that cause spoilage and to inactivate enzymes that affect flavor, color and texture. Many people feel this processing will overcook the pickles and make them mushy, but 'tis not so, if you use a new and updated recipe.

"My pickles all turned dark. What did I do wrong?" Dark pickles could be caused by the use of ground (rather than whole) spices, too much spice, too many minerals in the water (especially iron), by using improper utensils or by overcooking Using iodized salt, rather than pure granulated or pickling salt, can cause pickles to darken too

For heating pickling liquids, use utensils of unchipped enamelware, stainless steel, aluminum or glass Do not use copper, brass, galvanized or iron utensils, for these metals react with the acids and salts used and cause color changes or form undesirable compounds. For fermenting or brining, use a crock or stone jar, unchipped enamel lined pan or glass

"The pickle recipe I have is too sour for us Can I dilute the vinegar?" No, not if you want a safe product and not unless the recipe so specifies If you want a less sour product, add sugar rather than decreasing the vinegar

"My pickles have a layer of white stuff on the bottom of the jar. They seem to be sealed OK, but is this harmful?" Probably not if the pickles are firm and tightly sealed, for a small amount of white sediment is normal The sediment is caused by harmless yeasts that have grown on the surface and then settled If there is an excessive amount and-or if the pickles are soft, spoilage is evident and the pickles should not be used

"Can you freeze pickles?" Yes, if you use a recipe especially designed for freezing. If you'd like copies, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Maryann Beckman, 137 N Park Street, Kalamazoo, Michigan 49006.

Riegle says compromise on auto emission standards removes threat of auto shut down but 'appears' to provide workable solution

A compromise on auto emission standards reached last week by a House-Senate conference committee not only removes the threat of an auto industry shutdown, but "appears to provide the industry with a workable solution to the auto exhaust controversy, which can resolve this difficult issue once and for all," Senator Donald W. Riegle, Jr. (D-MI) said.

Riegle, the principal Senate supporter of a phase-in approach to stricter auto emission standards, predicted quick passage of the compromise agreement by both the House and Senate before they adjourn for the August recess

"The final result is not exactly as I would have liked it, but it marks a major breakthrough for a more reasonable and balanced approach to auto emissions These standards are tough -- but probably achievable," he said

Riegle said he felt the auto industry would make a 'full, good-faith effort to meet these standards on schedule' "That will be an extremely difficult task -- and any further mandatory mileage requirements will have to be weighed in light of the technical constraints imposed by these emission requirements," he added

"I believe the strong fight we waged in the Senate made this final compromise possible," Riegle said. "Further, I am confident that, if this measure is signed into law, the Congress will not be back again debating this issue in 1978, or 1979."

Recently the conference committee on the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1977 approved auto emission standards which would 1) permit the sale of 1978 model cars, which are due to go into production August 8th, by allowing the 1978 and 1979 models to be built under current standards, 2) reduce the allowable level of emission for the 1980 models, and 3) impose strictest standards on emission levels in 1981, with possible waivers by the EPA administrator on carbon monoxides and nitrous oxides

"It was absolutely essential to allow both the 1978 and 1979 model cars to be built under the current standards It means the industry will have the next two years at existing levels in order to develop the technology necessary to meet the new standards which will go into effect in 1980 and beyond," Senator Riegle said.

Parents beware football season is here again

Football season is here again

All over the nation American males are tossing and kicking and running with footballs, all the way from 8-year-olds in the backyard to junior and senior high and college teams to the big bruisers of the professional leagues

Football is a rough contact sport and inevitably will produce its full quota of bumps and bruises, strains and sprains, cuts and gashes. Most of these aren't serious and the lads concerned are back in the game shortly.

A thorough medical examination is highly important for boys preparing to go out for football to make certain that there is no physical condition that should be noted before beginning the rigorous training and hard knocks of the game.

Proper physical conditioning hardens the body and increases resistance to fatigue, thus helping prevent injury A minimum of three weeks of conditioning is recommended prior to the first game of the season Coaches and team physicians are alert to the fact that many injuries occur when the player is tiring and thus less alert.

Good coaching enables the players to perform better and thus be less prone to injury. Good officiating makes for better games and also helps protect players Proper equipment and facilities are important to reduce injuries Good first aid procedures and medical care, with a physician available during practice drills and on the bench during games are major factors in cutting serious injuries

Precautions against the extreme heat of early season days also are important. Many coaches now schedule the hot weather workouts in early morning and late afternoon to avoid the heat of the day. The old rule against drinking water during drills and games has long since been proved invalid and dangerous. Water and salt is necessary to replace fluids lost through copious sweating

If your boy is playing on an organized team, the chances are good that all of these safeguards are observed. If most of his playing is done on a vacant lot in the afternoons and on Saturdays, it becomes the parents' responsibility to see that the player has the benefit of the safety principles

Senior citizens get help heating homes

Michigan's low-income elderly are eligible for up to $250 in federal aid to help them pay off overdue heating bills

And senior citizens who scrimped to pay their bills on time can get $50 to partially reimburse them for their efforts last winter

It's all part of a nationwide federal program aimed at easing the utility crunch on those least able to pay.

In Michigan, $13 2 million will be handed out to an estimated 300,000 low-income persons over 65 who are believed to qualify

To get the money, however, application forms must be mailed back to the state by August 15 and no later The forms have been sent to 160,000 known senior citizens and about 600,000 known bill delinquents -- only some of whom are elderly

Low income senior citizens who do not get an application in the mail may pick them up at local Offices of Services for the Aging

The form lists the income requirements for families of various sizes A single person, however, can earn no more than $3,713 a year to qualify for aid

State officials say they're not going to quibble with those who seek aid and will accept folks who are slightly younger or slightly wealthier if they really need the help

Checks to individual senior citizens and to utilities to pay off overdue accounts up to $250 will be mailed by September 30, the state says

Although the program is funded by a one-time $200 million federal appropriation, state officials say there's a chance Michigan might continue the program next year from its own coffers

Panorama of professionally prepared food at LMC Culinary Arts exhibit

A colorful panorama of professionally prepared food, carved ice, decorated cakes, and table settings will be on display at Lake Michigan College's first annual Culinary Arts Exhibit, Wednesday, August 24, in the LMC Student Union.

The exhibit, which will open at 7 p m and close at 9 p m., is sponsored by the LMC Food Service Management Program in cooperation with the Southwestern Michigan Chefs Association, Michigan Restaurant Association, and the Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

According to Ben Standen, LMC dean of Occupational Studies, some 24 area firms and restaurants, will participate in the exhibit displaying their most noted dishes and their cooking skills

"One purpose of the exhibit is to show the public what amazing culinary talent is now on hand in the restaurants of this area," Standen said. "In addition, we want this display to reveal to young adults in general the careers available in food preparation and food service and what food service graduates can look forward to."

A special exhibit by the "Chefs de Cuisine" of the Southwestern Michigan Chefs Association will be on display, according to Standen, and sample snacks will be available for visitors to taste and test the culinary art of many of the area restaurants

The exhibit, which will be open to the public free of charge, has been arranged by a committee of LMC food service students and advisers including Charles Selby, LMC student from Benton Harbor, chairman, Judith Fisher, LMC student from Berrien Center, James Craddock, senior assistant manager, Win Schuler's Restaurant, Wayne Shipman, Berrien County Health Department, Olva Martin, LMC food service management adjunct instructor, Roger Parrish, Atlas Restaurant Supply Co , Andy Levine, Ramada Inn, and Dean Standen.

Exhibitors will include Whirlpool Corporation, Gordon Food Service, Ramada Inn, Win Schuler's Restaurant, Tosi's Restaurant, Sinbads West, Sir Quin-Mar Restaurant at the Benton Harbor Holiday Inn, Berrien Hills Country Club, Pebble Wood Country Club, C & S Catering Co , and McGrath's Restaurant.

Others will include Franky's Restaurant, Berrien County Health Department, Atlas Restaurant Supply Co., Taylor Rental Center, Point O'Woods Golf and Country Club, The Brass Wok, Holly's Landing, Saber Room, Timberline Inn, Selby's Catering Co., Flagship Restaurant at the St. Joseph Holiday Inn, Captain's Table Restaurant, and Canteen Company of Southwestern Michigan, Inc.

Susan Kreidler, daughter of Mr and Mrs Phillip Hawks, Red Bud Trail North, has received the Award of Excellence for her painting of Morris Chapel She was cited by the official judge for outstanding creative achievement in the United Insurance Company of America's 6th annual Calendar Art Contest for high school students

Chamber of Commerce calls for refinancing legislation

Citing the fact that Michigan employers could lose nearly $500 million, the Board of Directors of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce called for legislation to refinance the Michigan Unemployment Compensation system and legislation to comply with Federally-mandated requirements for all state Unemployment Compensation systems

On refinancing, the State now owes the Federal Unemployment Compensation Trust Fund $624 million Michigan can qualify for a deferral under the Brodhead Amendment, but only if a repayment plan is enacted and approved by November 10, 1977. If no plan is enacted by the Legislature, Michigan employers will then be forced to pay a yearly, cumulative 0 3 per cent penalty tax, to be applied against the debt In 6 years (the amount of time estimated to repay the debt through penalty assessments), the penalty tax would jump from $42 00 per employee per year in 1978 to $132 00 in 1983

The State Chamber is presently supporting a two-bill package (Senate Bill 801 and House Bill 5189) proposed by the Michigan Departments of Commerce and Labor. Other plans are expected when the Legislature reconvenes.

To meet Federal compliance standards, Senate Bill 714 is before the Legislature. Unless its main provisions are enacted by November 10, 1977, employers will lose the right to credit their Michigan Unemployment Compensation Tax against Federal Unemployment Compensation Tax The estimated loss on this item alone is $429 million

In a speech to the Board, Keith Molin, Director of the Michigan Department of Labor, suggested that the present situation is one of chaos and appealed to the business community to bring its expertise and political influence to bear as strongly as possible

Summing up the feelings of the Board, Chairman John Wismer of Port Huron said, "This Unemployment Compensation Policy is a call to the Legislature not to let the people of Michigan down Our state cannot afford the staggering economic loss that would result from inaction in Lansing If Michigan does not have refinancing and compliance legislation by the deadlines required, every worker and every consumer will pay a needless price in decreased job security and higher prices"
