

STATE APPROVES CITY WATER BONDS

Now Here's the Proposition

After all, says James Aichens, bottom, the well-known Clark street Democrat, Harry ought to remember that the uses of stabilization went out with the horse.

Lines To A Frantic Era

Once we walked a path serene, Once with time we had no quarrel, Once we stopped to drink the scene, Once we paused to point a moral, Once we trod the woodland way Where no traffic signals flouted, Save the red bud's flowering spray, Through a valley that was haunted With the loves of long ago, Carven on the beechen tree, Half a century or so— "Tom and Mary, '83"

Gone the lovers' carven vow, Since it seems we have no plans For the woodland valleys now, Save to dump a load of cans

As we fit from town to town, Going places sitting down, W. C. H.

Notes On Wild Life In Buchanan

Wild life on the grounds of the Buchanan plant of the Clark Equipment company has dropped off considerably since last year, states James McOmber, Niles, one of the day shift guards who has taken it upon himself to act as special guardian of wild life. That is, of the wild duck branch—

Last year there were about 60 ducklings reared on the old mill pond opposite the Dewey avenue entrance, this year only seven. The explanation, says McOmber, the development of an abnormal appetite for fresh wild duck eggs by workmen on the graveyard shift. Anyway the nests around the edge of the pond were robbed of eggs as fast as the hens laid them. Finally the hens gave up and quit trying to raise families.

Two nests were out of reach, however, and the hens hatched the settings. One of the mother hens became sick and her brood died. The other hen reared seven ducklings, the only 1951 crop on the pond. McOmber fed the mother duck on a pan on top of the bank. When the little ducks came along, McOmber mixed some cornmeal with water for feed. The mamma duck would come up on the bank, fill her bill with cornmeal, waddle back to the pond and shake her bill in the water, whereon the baby ducks would go after the meal. Sometimes they got more than they could swallow, whereon they would waddle out on the pond bank, take a large mouthful of water and throw their heads back as if the nature of ducks in swallowing, was washing down the cornmeal. If Mr. McOmber was tardy in filling the corn pan, Mamma Duck would sometimes waddle out into the plant grounds after him, scolding as she went.

Wild Animal Takes Over Days Avenue Front Porch

You would think that Buchanan is now far enough from the pioneer days that its inhabitants would not be threatened by wild animals, but not so, say the Buchanan police.

Shortly after 7 a.m. Thursday the police station received a call from 408 Days Avenue, stating that some sort of wild animal had taken over the front porch and would not permit anyone to leave that way.

Patrolman Leidy went to the scene, looking for nothing less than a bear. He found a small raccoon, which proved to be the property of Jim Watry, 604 North Portage. Watry had found two baby coons in the woods, their mother probably the victim of a hunter. One of the babies was already dead. Watry took the live one home. He was told by conservation officers that he could not keep it because he had not captured it during the open season. However, he was permitted to keep it until it will be old enough to turn loose in the woods.

The coon had escaped from his cage early Thursday morning, going wandering over to the Days Avenue home.

In Re The Ramp

Dear Mr. Left-Handed Columnist: After the mad outbreak of Mid-Victorian protest over the wording of your little essay of last week on the Days Avenue sidewalk ramp, I wish to rise in your defense.

There was simply no sense in it, (the protest, I mean). You would probably be astounded at all the

Maurice Nelson Caught And Held For Jail Escape

Escaped From Old Jail On Night Of Nov. 18, 1950

Thursday afternoon Chief Jack Krugh of the Buchanan police, received notice that Maurice Nelson, formerly of Buchanan, had applied to enlist in the Navy at the South Bend recruiting office. As a part of the routine the office inquired from young Nelson what town he had come from, and still in routine, called one "home town" police and asked if the young man's record was clear here. It wasn't exactly clear, as Nelson had left the old jail without police permission and by slipping the lock with a leg from a steel cot, on the night of Nov. 18, 1950. With him went Lawrence Keller, the two young men having been arrested the previous night on a disorderly charge. Both were captured in Nevada later, but were not brought back—mischance as jail pranking by someone not convicted of crime is not a misdemeanor in Nevada.

On information from Buchanan police, the South Bend police turned Nelson over to the juvenile authorities, as he is only 17, which is classed as juvenile by Indiana law.

The Indiana juvenile authorities then turned him over to the Buchanan police, as the juvenile period ends at 16 in Michigan. He was arraigned and pleaded guilty to the original charge of drunk and disorderly. He was then bound over to the circuit court on the jail-breaking charge. His mother provided the required bail and released him, pending trial.

7th Annual Reunion Paul Family Held

Because of the inclement weather the seventh annual Paul family reunion, which was to have been held at Cabre Lake last Sunday, July 22, was held at the home of Mrs. Carrie Denny in Dowagiac, instead, with 46 attending.

A beautiful basket dinner was served at noon and the afternoon was spent in reminiscing of the past and getting acquainted with the newest members of the family.

Three of the four surviving children were present, as follows: Mrs. Mada Salsbury of Niles, Mrs. Carrie Denny and Clarence Paul of Dowagiac. Mrs. Lizzie Woolley of Galien, was absent because of poor health.

The oldest member present was Mrs. Mada Salsbury of Niles, and the 10-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Weeks and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Paul of Dowagiac, was the youngest.

Those who attended were from South Bend, Roseland, Marion, and Hammond, Ind., and from Niles, Benton Harbor, and Dowagiac, Mich.

The time and place for the next reunion will be decided later.

Mt. Tabor School 3rd Annual Reunion To Be Held Aug. 5

The third annual reunion of the pupils teachers and patrons present and former of the Mt. Tabor school will be held at the school house Sunday, Aug. 5, according to notice by the secretary, Mrs. Stanley B. Marsh.

A potluck dinner will be held at 1 p.m. for which guests are asked to bring their own table service, one prepared dish and sandwiches. Coffee will be furnished. All who are interested will be welcome, and those who lean of the event from this or other notices are asked to tell their friends of the matter. A good program will be in store and a gala attendance is desired.

This Story Coulda Hadda Bigger Head

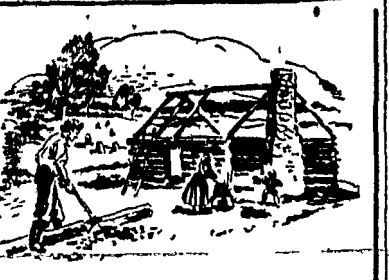

The Buchanan fire department was called at 5:20 a.m. Sunday to 210 Fulton street. One of the residents had awakened early and lit a cigarette for an eye-opener, falling asleep again. The mattress caught fire, but the sleeper came to before he had suffered any burns.

The fire was also out before the fire department arrived, being confined mainly to the mattress.

Install Asphalt Paving Smith St. To Electro-Voice

The city street department completed a mixed asphalt paving installation Cecil Avenue from Smith Street to the Electro-Voice plant last week, to take care of the increasing traffic to the plant over that route. The pavement will be good for several years, states City Manager Gunn.

The Story of Buchanan

A VALEDICTORY CHAPTER TO ISAAC MCCOY

Taking advantage of the rather elastic method of writing local history in weekly chapters, this writer has perhaps given Isaac McCoy somewhat more time and space than a well-proportioned story would require.

However, it is plain that the previous chroniclers who treated McCoy only in his local setting did not reveal him in his true stature. He spent his last years in Louisville, Ky., in charge of Indian missions for the Baptist church. His body lies in a churchyard near the heart of the city, or at least did some 56 years ago when the book from which this is taken was written.

Even at that time his biographer complained that his gravestone was so soft that the inscription was scarcely readable and deciphered it as follows:

REV ISAAC MCCOY

Born June 13, 1784
Died June 21, 1849

For nearly thirty years his entire time and energies were devoted to the civil and religious improvement of the aboriginal tribes of this country. He projected and founded the plan of their civilization, their only hope, and the unperishable monument of his wisdom and benevolence.

Last week we announced that we were just contributing a journalistic interlude that would not count in the series of historical chapters. So we breezed along for three or four typewritten pages without referring to notes. The only error worthy of mention was our lapse of memory on the inscription on the Carey Mission marker on the Niles-Buchanan road. It reads—

Founded in 1822

Isaac McCoy
CAREY MISSION
This Tablet Placed In 1922

Fort St. Joseph Chapter D. A. R.

There it is on the left-hand side of the highway as you approach Niles, on a small boulder that juts above the ground level looking like an ancient molar about ready to be pulled. Isaac McCoy deserves a better marker, one on which his achievement would be properly remembered and enduringly recorded, whatever may happen or has happened to his stone in the Louisville churchyard.

We would suggest a monument of field stone, gathered in the vicinity of Buchanan and Niles. A committee might determine the size and color of the stone desired. Then an appeal could be made, perhaps to schools, also to interested individuals to bring the stones. The monument would then be erected in the form of a heavy rectangular shaft, perhaps six feet high, and perhaps about 6x3 feet dimensions at the base. Of course the question may be raised here as to the durability of the concrete binder as a lasting memorial. However, we once saw a monument so constructed. At least the problem of placing and mounting would be much simpler than that of a memorial such as the Fort St. Joseph monument, consisting of a single stone weighing several thousand pounds.

It is time to get along with the remainder of the story of McCoy. A previous chapter stated that the United States government in October of 1828 made provision to pay the founders of the Carey Mission for the houses and the other improvements that they made, as soon as they should be vacated. In September of 1830 two appraisers named by the government assessed the value of the improvements at $5,080 and of the crops at $641.50. This was to be paid to the Baptist Board of Missions, to be held for use in reestablishing missions in the west as soon as the Indians should be moved there.

Rev. Lykins, who had been associated with McCoy both at the Fort Wayne and the Carey mission station, was sent to the west to take charge of the establishment of the new station. The place selected was on a location secured by treaty with the Shawnee Indians "seven miles south of the Missouri river and three miles west of the state of Missouri." The Board of Baptist Missions at Boston disbursed the Carey mission fund for new buildings there, and the mission and its attendant church were considered not so much a new institution as a continuation of the Carey Mission Station in Michigan. Soon came as additional staff Rex Alexander Evans of Carlisle, Ind. (New Car-Isle'), and Rev Daniel French of Piqua, Ohio.

Later came Mr and Mrs Jonathan Meeker, who had been associated with McCoy at Carey's. Mr. Meeker had become something of an expert in the Indian languages and he engaged in printing elementary books in the various Indian tongues.

It is quite certain that the Indians who were transferred to the location of the first transplanted Carey Mission church were later regrouped to the southwest, in what eventually became the Indian Territory.

In the immediately succeeding chapters this series will dispose of the two matters which necessarily preceded the settlement of the Buchanan district by the whites: 1 Removal of the Indians on the site. 2 Survey and sale of the land to the actual and legal white settlers.

Builders' Assoc. To Hold Open House In 419 Cecil Ave. Home

All who are interested in the construction of new homes in Buchanan, whether to serve a special need of their own, or because of their interest in a solution of the home problem, are urged to attend the "Open House" to be held this weekend at 419 Cecil Avenue, where a newly-completed two-bedroom home will be open to inspection.

This house was built by the Buchanan Builders' Association, recently organized as a clearing house agency for a solution of the home problem. It is the hope that it may serve as an instrument for the erection of a considerable number of well-built small homes, with prices and terms within reach of those needing them.

The "open house" will be held all day, starting this (Thursday) morning and continuing through Friday and Saturday, July 26, 27, and 28.

American Legion Extends Thanks To All Aiding Auction

The members of Ralph Rumbaugh Post No. 51 of the American Legion wish to thank all who assisted them in any way before or during their public auction for building up their construction fund for their new home on the Niles hill.

They wish to thank first of all those who donated articles to be sold, and especially the Buchanan merchants who gave new merchandise. They also thank the many who came and bought at the auction. The event was quite successful and the money made will hasten the construction of the Legion building.

Aerial Ladder Truck For Fire Department Coming After Aug. 18

The 60-foot aerial ladder truck purchased by the city for the Buchanan fire department is expected to arrive here shortly after Aug. 18, reports Fire Chief Ted Cramer. The truck will be exhibited at the International Convention of Fire Chiefs to be held at Detroit, Aug. 14 to 18, inclusive, which will be attended by Chief Cramer.

After the convention an expert from the manufacturing company will drive the truck to Buchanan.

Enos N. Schram Taken By Death At Age 58 Yrs.

Former Active Citizen And Business Man, Had Been In Failing Health Many Years

Enos Nelson Schram, a resident of Buchanan for about forty years, and very active in the business and civic life of Buchanan for at least twenty years of that period, died suddenly of a heart attack about 1 p.m. Monday, July 23, 1951, in Bronson hospital, Kalamazoo.

While his going was in a way sudden, it was not at all unexpected, as he had been increasingly ill for at least six years. He had entered the hospital a few days previously for treatment for an ulcer, and remained for correction of that ailment. He was seized with a heart attack Monday morning.

Very active and highly interested in city affairs for many years, Mr. Schram had dropped out of both business and public affairs increasingly as his health worsened. During the past year and a half he had scarcely been seen at all in his business office or in the town. He was 58 when he died, hardly old and it seemed strange to those who had known him to be witness to the changes that robbed him of the dynamic enthusiasms and the strong likes and equally strong antipathies that had been typical of him in his years of strength.

He was born Aug. 14, 1893, in New Buffalo, Mich., the son of Nelson J. and Estella Schram. He was about twenty years of age and spent the remainder of his life here until the past two years. He worked for a time in the pattern shop, then clerked in the local post office and was employed several years as the paymaster of the Clark Equipment company. In 1927 he opened the E. N. Schram Real Estate & Insurance agency, which continues in his name.

He married Lura Arney on Aug. 10, 1914, in St. Joseph. He was a member of the Church of Christ and of the Masonic lodge. He is survived by his wife; by one daughter, Mrs. Barbara Polley of Kalamazoo; by one son, Richard A. Schram, of Glennview Naval Base, Ill.; by four grandchildren; by one sister, Mrs. Ethel Edwards of Lakeside, Mich.; by one brother, R. E. Schram of Niles.

During his years of ill health he had spent more and more of his time at his summer home at Christie lake between Decatur and Lawrence, Mich., usually living only a few of the winter months in his residence at 212 Cecil Avenue.

The funeral was held at 2:30 p.m. yesterday (Wednesday) from the Church of Christ at Bangor, Mich., which he had attended in recent years. The services were conducted by the Bangor pastor, Dale Baker, assisted by James W. Greenwood, Buchanan pastor. He was buried in the Prospect Hill cemetery near Christie lake.

Bird Believed Extinct 300 Years Found In Bermuda

A graceful gull-sized bird called the cahow, which has been listed in most ornithological texts since the 1620's as "an extinct bird", has been discovered alive in Bermuda, the American Museum of Natural History reports.

Dr. Robert Cushman Murphy, chairman of the department of birds at the Museum, reported the discovery of five cahows in the islets off Castle Harbor, Bermuda. The birds were fished out of cliff burrows with a bamboo pole with a noose at the end. They were photographed and banded before release.

4 Ways To Reduce Wear Of Auto Tires

To save on auto tires, motorists are reminded:

1. Tires will last twice as long at 30 m.p.h. as at 50 m.p.h.
2. High speed is much more harmful to tires in hot weather than in cold. Tire treads wear five times faster at 100 degrees than at 40 degrees.
3. Go slow on roads which have sharp projecting stones.
4. Take curves and turns slowly. Speeding around curves can multiply tire wear as much as 10 times.

Tire Slasher Rips Nine Auto Tires

Tire slashing is a new wrinkle in crime in Buchanan at least, but there was a tire slasher loose in the Fulton and Arctic regions of Buchanan Friday night.

Using a relatively small-bladed knife, probably a pocket knife, the slasher slashed the following tires three at Vincent Mitchell home, 108 Arctic, four at Shirley Mitch home, 311 Fulton, two at Good home, 309 Fulton.

The slasher made small holes, merely stabbing the tires, so that most of them may be mended and used.

Berrien Drive For Flood Relief Under Way Here

Local Places For Reception Of Funds Are: Bank, Sexton's, Shanahan's And City Hall

Atty Robert P. Small, head of the Berrien County Chapter of the American Red Cross, called a special meeting of the board of directors at the Whitcomb hotel, St. Joseph, Tuesday evening for the purpose of organizing a special relief drive under Red Cross auspices for flood victims of the Midwest.

Atty Richard Insley, St. Joseph, was named chairman of this special drive, assisted by G. L. Wightman of Benton Harbor, district chairman of the Berrien county chapter, and LaRue Baxter of Niles, the three forming the special county committee.

Mrs. Baker of St. Joseph, secretary, states that this county drive is a part of a nation-wide movement for special assistance to victims of the recent floods in the four states of Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Illinois. Sixty-six Red Cross chapters are now actively engaged in relief work in these areas. A total of 45,850 families have already been assisted as directly affected. A total of 17,551 individuals who have lost their homes are being cared for in shelters, and 42,686 are being fed. An estimated 17,000 additional calls for relief are expected.

The cost of this relief already far exceeds the available resources, states Mrs. Baker. The Red Cross work is being done for individuals, and the call is being made on a "human-to-human" basis. The real work of relief has only begun. The heaviest task is still ahead, beyond the immediate relief problem, is rehabilitation of families and individuals whose homes have been wholly or partly destroyed, and who will not be able to rehabilitate themselves without outside help. Money which the Red Cross is to collect will be distributed as outright gifts and not as loans. There are no funds available from federal appropriations or other sources sufficient to cover the need. Individuals who can must come to the rescue if the suffering is to be abated.

A separate Red Cross Flood Relief fund is to be set up at the Union State Bank, and contributions may be made there. Other places which will act as centers of fund reception are the following: Shanahan's Real Estate & Insurance, Sexton's Furniture & Appliance Store, Buchanan City Hall.

Walter M. Hawes at Alaskan Army Post

Walter M. Hawes, who spent some two years in Buchanan at the home of his uncle, Walter C. Hawes, from 1943 to 1945, passing two grades here in spite of the handicap of his name, is now a member of a mortar battery crew, reported to be assigned to defend the Frozen North. He is now at the address given below and would deeply appreciate hearing from or about all of his former fellow-students and associates in crime during his Buchanan residence. His home for the last three years has been in Fairbanks, Alaska, and after the top sergeants have polished him off in preliminary training and maneuvers it is reported that he will be assigned to an Alaskan station. He states that letters now and then would add greatly to the joys of Army life. He was graduated from Fairbanks high school in 1950. He states that the Alaskan diet of whale blubber and service berries has done wonders for him, and he has progressed since leaving from a state of apparently arrested physical development to 200 pounds plus weight, and 6-foot 1-inch altitude. A letter will reach him at Pvt. W. M. Hawes, US 5020412, 1st Co., 4th Inf., APO 949, c/o P.M., Seattle, Wash.

Conservation Dept. Gives Plan For Control Cattails

Cottage owners wanting to clear their beaches of water weeds are advised by the conservation department that cattails should be cut off at the roots now but it has no solution to the problem of floating and submerged weeds.

For best results cattails should be cut during the flowering period, by mid-July in most areas of the state. They should be cut close to the bottom, not leaving any stubs. A corn hook is suggested as an efficient tool for small areas or when working from a boat. In some areas a scythe is effective.

Traffic Must Keep To Right On Airways

Traffic control on the 70,000 miles of aerial "highways" crossing the United States is now relatively effective with the use of modern electronic equipment, it has been indicated by D. W. Nyrop, U. S. Administrator of Civil Aeronautics.

These aerial highways are numbered much like those for automobiles on the surface. They are uniformly 10 miles wide. Each airway is a "multiple highway" system, he said, with separate "highways" one above the other at 1,000-foot intervals. Traffic along them, like traffic on the ground, follows the rule of "keep to the right."

Ralph Schwarz Buys Galien Drug Store

Dayton

Sally Danke returned home last week-end after spending the past week with relatives in Dearborn. A. M. Otwell returned from Chicago last Sunday, where he has been spending the past two weeks. How the time does fly! Rose Rotzien has already wound up one year as postmaster here, which was July 21. The children of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hamilton and their families held a reunion at their parents' home last Sunday. Douglas Black and William Gill went to Chicago last Monday for an indefinite stay. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zelasko and children are home again after spending their vacation here and there. Frank Crooker was home Sunday from Albion, Mich., where he is employed on the tract of the N. W. C. R.

You correspondent has learned that Tommy Vanderhook, a former resident here many years ago has been visiting in the Galien community recently. Tommy will surely not forget to call here, we hope. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Long of Gary, Ind., spent the week-end here at their summer home. Fred Gleason and George Martin, who are at the Berrien county hospital, have not shown much improvement lately, their condition being about the same. This little village, which is noted for its quietness except for the chattering of the children and the popping of automobile mufflers, was tossed to a high pitch of excitement one evening last week when one citizen and a colored man in the old mill, engaged in a mutative battle between themselves. The fracas ended up with the mill occupant being placed in the county jail and the other participant in the care of a doctor. But latest reports say he is getting along very well, which we hope is true.

When he left here last month and said goodbye to his wife, Dorothy and son, Ruckie, and the Ames Anderson family, Sgt. A. Speck, U. S. Air Force, had his orders for duty in the Far East. The mill Dorothy now receives from him comes from Labrador, where the nights are only three hours long and snow begins to fall in August.

But I think you were somewhat lacking in resources when you got so early. These were other words—"rampant" for instance. You remember the "rampant" lions on the old coats of arms, representing two lions sitting upright on their tails, sparring like boxers with their front paws, representing the ancestry of decadent families who were trying to run a bluff by advertising their warlike forefathers. Although to me the rampant lions always looked more like they were engaged in a friendly game of patiocake. But you should have thought of "rampant", considering that the alleged prominent citizens unexpectedly seated at the foot of the former ramp were probably pawing the air themselves.

The word "rump" has a respectable place in history—the "Rump" parliament of England for instance. All the historians come light out with it.

There is really no sense in this false modesty relative to that useful cushion which serves as the base of the sitting person. Take Mr. Webster now—I have him right here—Rump. "The posterior end of the body, usually including the—" Why Mr. Webster! I am astonished!

But since you and I seem to have something in common, why don't we get together for a rump session and talk things over some day?

Youth Council, Hawks Tied At End Last Week

Y. C. Dumps League-Leaders 2 To 1, To Climb Into Lead Place

(Clarence Young) Bob Cline, a lad that the Youth Council softball team had used as a spot pitcher for the first eight contests this season, came through in the clutch last Thursday night as he hurled the Y. C. into a first place tie with a thrilling extra inning 2-1 victory over the Hawks, now sharing the top spot.

Cline pitched the best ball game that he had ever recorded in his brief career as he stood the Hawks on their heads with a diet of three hits, one in the give-away variety. Jack Mitchell took the loss as he made his first start in the City League since leaving the Fabiano nine.

Hawks 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 1 Y. C. 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 1 Mitchell and Huebner, Cline and Wiener.

Hubbards' finally put a stop to the skids under their feet as they trounced the Farm Bureau 10-2, thus snapping a three-game losing streak, and at the same time helping the Bureau boys their first setback in three starts. Last Tuesday night, July 17, the Hawks, aided by a triple play and a four-run tying rally in the seventh frame dropped Hubbards' 9-8 in 8 innings. Mel Ravish' Y. C. bunch dumped Clark's 12-7 in the curtain raiser.

Eyes on Farm

For farm people who need glasses, observe the following tips. Get sturdy frames with bows over the ears for support. Ask for dark plastic frames if you work outdoors most of the time. Get gold frames for excellent service. Procure shatter-proof lenses if your work is liable to bring your eyeglasses into contact with flying objects or particles, and, if you do get such lenses, have a lighter, thinner pair for your "dress" glasses.

Rev. W. Martin Adds To Story Thailand War

Missionaries Tell of Life in Powder Keg of the East
Last week the Record reprinted in part a letter by Rev. Wayne Martin to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ross, describing the recent short outbreak of civil war in Thailand, where the Martins are now working with an Adventist mission post and hospital.

The letter reprinted was of a June 29 date. Following are additional descriptions of the course of events to July 3.
June 30.—Since this is Sabbath, we had Sabbath School by ourselves this morning, and are spending the day reading and sleeping. It's wonderful to have time to relax, and know that there isn't something that needs immediate attention. As far as we are concerned, we have no fear. Our concrete and brick house will stop ordinary bullets, and of course we have the assurance of God's protection.

Many of the little restaurants, coffee shops, etc., are closed. There is not a civilian's war and so most of them are staying at home and taking it as a sort of holiday, that is where there aren't too many bullets around. Down the road from us is a new four-story building, not yet quite completed. It is part of a meteorological observatory. There is a large crowd of people on top of this building most of the time, trying to see what is going on. I feel sorry for our big monkey and have spent considerable time trying to assure him that nothing will happen. Every time a bomb drops, or a mortar shell bursts, he jumps and cringes with fear. He has such a wonderful personality, I hope this won't make a nervous wreck out of him.

This has been a very long day. There is no traffic on the roads and everything is so quiet, except for the sound of the explosions. It doesn't bother Judy at all, the thing that most frightens her is the sight of a soldier with a gun. That almost petrifies her. Sunday, July 1.—Things were comparatively quiet during the night but the shelling began again about 4:30 this morning and continued until about 7:00. Later we learned that the army had captured the radio station near us and the resistance there ceased. Also, a little before midnight the night before, the captured premier had made his escape and was again safe back at the palace where he had his office.

On Saturday the planes had successfully bombed the Ayutthaya area and were partially sunk. The crew had deserted and the premier, aided by a couple of natives who had been his captives, swam ashore, wearing only an undershirt (that is what the newspaper said). One of the marines aiding him was shot and killed before they reached shore, but the other one went for help while the premier hid along the bank of the river.

By eight o'clock this morning all the resistance in town had ceased, and things began to get back to normal. Occasionally a shot could be heard, and even yet (July 4) we hear occasional shots during the night. After breakfast I drove to the hospital to see how things had fared there. They had placed pads for X-rays in the corridors with newspapers instead of sheets, and patients lying there to receive treatment. They had received more than 20 casualties, some of them civilians and some soldiers or policemen.

Later I drove around town to survey the damage. Near the bridge that crosses the river, the damage had been quite extensive. Large shell holes could be seen in the brick buildings, and everywhere were the pockmarks of machinegun and small arms fire. At one place the government had sent out a sound truck to give the latest communique, and tell the people that everything was under control, and that some compensation would be given for damage. (It amounts to about $75 to a family if someone was killed but they have promised to pay the full amount for damages, looting, etc. to foreigners' property.) Later I drove down some of the side streets near our house where the fighting had been the heaviest. The tops of all the trees had been shot down. In one place they had used a bus to block the road and the motor had been practically shot to pieces. Trees with trunks a foot in diameter had 8-inch holes through them, many of them will die. Many of the electric wires and telephone lines had been shot down. Some of the few buildings that had glass windows were filled with fragments from the shattered fragments. Along the river, crowds of people lined the bank and the bridge to watch the shell burning gunboat. At one place they told me of 20 policemen leaving the police station in a bus, and only four of them returned. The rest were fatalities.

I don't have time tonight to give you all of the details of the fighting that went on but maybe later I can send some newspaper clippings that will describe it better than I can. Tonight's paper estimated about 3,000 dead and injured from the two nights and one day of fighting, so you can see it wasn't just kids play. Sabbath, when I didn't have much else to do, I sat down and wrote up some of the things that happened and maybe I can send part of that along. Some of our workers were in the area where the fighting was the heaviest and the walls of their homes were riddled with bullets, but no one was injured. Our family is still living at the school, to make sure that everything is settled before they go back. There is still some resistance at the navy station at the mouth of the river, which is ten miles from our house. Everything in town is practically normal although the city is still under martial law. That means that there are still soldiers about, but one can go unharmed anywhere he wants here. It is normal. I don't have time to write any more so will close for this time. Just wanted to let you know that everyone here is alright.

Lots of love,
Etoile, Wayne and Judy

80 Acre Cornfield Is Dusted For Borer At Berrien Springs

Some 80 acres of corn in the Berrien Springs area was dusted for corn borer several weeks ago. Dutch Nightlinger, Wade Eldson and the Emmanuel Missionary College, all of Berrien Springs, secured Bob Mueller of Bangor, who used a 5% DDT dust applied by airplane on fields showing signs of senior corn borer damage.
At the time of dusting borers were hatched but were not yet in the stalk of the plant. A three bushel increase in yield should pay for the dusting so the most practical use of this operation would be on fields with good yield prospects.

Elsie Brueck And Walter Jane Marry

Miss Elsie Brueck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Brueck, Sr., Buchanan route 2, and Walter Jane, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Jane, 409 West Roe street, exchanged nuptial vows at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Glendora Trinity Lutheran church, Glendora.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Michael Brueck, Jr., wore a white gown of imported Chantilly lace and net. The sheer illusion yoke was outlined with scalloped lace and had a tiny Peter Pan collar. The gown had lace sleeves and bodice, a pointed lace peplum over a bouffant skirt, with a formal train. Her double fingertip veil was held in place by a Chantilly lace cloche with rolled illusion and-pearl trim.

The matron-of-honor was Mrs. Lester Reifshneider of Baroda, and she wore a frosted organza over green faille styled with tiny collar and cuffs and a bouffant skirt. She carried yellow roses with similar flowers in her hair.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Lloyd Doherty of Buchanan, and Miss Deanna Brueck of Three Oaks, niece of the bride. They wore dresses similar to the bride. They carried yellow roses. Claudia Ott, niece of the bride, was flower girl and Richard Jane, brother of the bridegroom, was ring-bearer.

The groom's attendants were Lloyd Doherty and Bob Quack, Buchanan, and Lester Reifshneider, Baroda. The ushers were Hank Reed of Buchanan, and Jack Bischoff of the U. S. Navy.

Prior to the wedding the bridal party enjoyed a dinner at the bride's home. After the ceremony a reception for 300 guests was held in the Bridgman American Legion hall, decorated with green, yellow and white flowers.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Ed Goodline, served from a table decorated with a three-tiered wedding cake. Music was provided by Arnold Rosenthal's orchestra.

The bride's mother wore a gray print dress with navy blue accessories and a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother wore a gray print dress with white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

The bride was graduated from the New Troy high school in 1948 and is employed at the Clark Equipment company. Mr. Jane graduated from Buchanan high school in 1948 and is stationed at Port Jackson, S. C.

Out-of-town guests were from Chicago, Ill., New Carlisle, Ind., Minneapolis, Minn., and Dowagiac.

Liberty And Law

If you stand up in the street and denounce the state of the world, the state of the union or the state of Mr. Truman, nobody will bother you as long as you don't block traffic.

But if you get together a group and talk them into trying to burn down your neighbor's house, the sheriff will be along pretty soon and clap you in jail. And the judge is not likely to let you off on a plea that in your excitement to arson you were merely exercising your inalienable right to free speech.

The distinction between the two has never been too subtle a one for Anglo-Saxon jurisprudence. Indeed, people with a claim to intelligence have never confused the two situations until a lot of so-called intellectuals got caught up in Communist semantics. Denunciations, however violent, are one thing, incitements to violence are something else again.

The distinction, we are glad to see, has not escaped the majority of the Supreme Court in the case of the eleven Communists charged with violating the Smith Act which makes it unlawful for any person to knowingly or willfully incite the overthrow of the United States Government by force or violence.

The question of whether the eleven defendants did try to incite overthrow by violence is a question of fact for a jury to determine. That was a debatable matter. But it has never seemed to this newspaper that there was much argument that the people have a moral and legal right to act against arsonists of the state just as they have against arsonists of their homes.

Those who have argued against the people's right to protect themselves—and many of the arguers are well-meaning—have overlooked the fact that the safeguard is against violence not merely against violent ideas.

You may advocate the overthrow of the Government if you wish, the Constitution itself provides an orderly way for abolishing the whole business. If you can get enough people to agree with you, you can set up a kingdom, a dictatorship or what you will. The idea of abolishing democracy, although it is a violent idea, is still untrammeled. No one suggests that the sheriff arrest you for denouncing your neighbor's architecture.

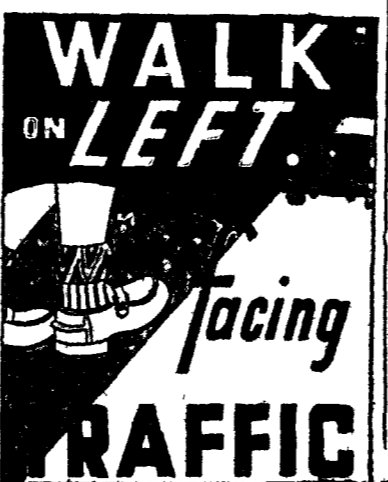

All this would hardly be worth commenting upon, and the court's decision would not have attracted such headlines, if a lot of progressives, liberals or what-you-may-call-them hadn't been beguiled into thinking that the important phrase "civil liberties" covers the liberty to do as well as to say anything.

Because a man has a right to be pro-Russian if he chooses, it is argued that he has a right to be both pro-Russian and an official of the United States Government. Because a man has the right to oppose the political system supported by the citizens of the country if he chooses, it is argued that he has the right to both oppose the system and be a teacher of the children of those same citizens.

We think it is time that this confusion ends. Civil liberties have never given any one the right to destroy by force the civil state upon which all the liberties depend. —Wall Street Journal

Wheat Yields Down 50% As Harvest Begins

Third Of Local Wheat Combined And Marketed

Hessian Fly, Rust, Smut And Thin Stands Are Small Yield Factors

Wheat yields, which in the past ten years or so have been doubled by improved farming practices, will drop back this year to the old 20-bushel average or less, according to the early harvesters who are bringing their combine harvest to the Buchanan Co-ops this week.

Eighteen earloads had been shipped by the Buchanan Co-ops Tuesday of this week, stated Robert Koentgen, manager, with the price for the prevailing grade at $2.07 per bushel Tuesday. The highest estimates on prospective yields, he stated are from 20 to 25 bushels per acre. The highest yield yet reported is 35 bushels per acre from a small field on the Walter Copleland farm in the Bend of the River.

From 25 to 30 bushels per acre is the highest reported thus far in the West Buchanan and Galien sections, on fields of any size, and more is going under 20 bushels, stated Alan Seyfrid Raymond DeWitt reported that his wheat had averaged 42 bushels per acre for the four years previous to this, but will scarcely exceed half that yield this year. Doan Straub, Galien, reports that his wheat yields will scarce be half as much as the 45-bushel average of last year.

A combination of factors contribute to the lower yields. On some fields planted during the dry weather of last fall, there is a light stand. On the majority of the fields, however, the straw is heavy but the yields are disappointingly low. Main contributing factors are rust, smut and Hessian fly, all of which are taking their toll on most farms.

St. Joe Co. 4-H Fair To Honor 25th Anniversary

Banner Event Opens Aug. 1 At Playland Park, South Bend

Originators of the St. Joseph County (Indiana) Fair and county residents prominent in 4-H work 25 years ago will be in the limelight when the fair opens in Playland Park, August 1, in observance of the silver anniversary of the annual event.

Fair directors and a dozen special committees comprised of outstanding business and civic leaders are engaged in completing details of the four-day fair to make it the greatest event in its quarter-century of progress, according to Fair Secretary Oscar W. Valentine.

Valentine said merchants and civic leaders this year are putting their shoulders to the wheel with more enthusiasm than ever before to assure an agricultural spectacle to outdo all its predecessors and pay the highest tribute to the county's 1,500 youngsters busy with 4-H projects.

The secretary pointed out that the multitude of commercial, educational and entertaining exhibits and the display of hundreds of animals and 4-H projects in the blue ribbon category alone are worth the admission price of 60 cents.

Season tickets, available from township 4-H adult leaders, junior leaders, directors, and fair board directors, sell for $1 and admit individuals to the four event-packed days of the fair.

Valentine underlined the highlights of the fair and the many entertaining features of the program.

A ceremony keyed to the anniversary feature of the fair will be held on the opening day at 10 a. m. City and county officials will take part in launching the event and the host of 4-H members to whom the fair is dedicated.

The impressive dress revue show with all the trappings of a Broadway production is the main event on the opening night. Clothing queens will model their self-made garments as they take the spotlight, under the direction of Mrs. Esther T. Singer, county home demonstration agent.

Judging of beef steers and other livestock and selection of the grand champion, an occasion that makes 4-H hearts beat at double time as they receive blue ribbons, will be the main attraction in front of the grandstand.

The thrill-packed auction of steers, swine and other animals in a setting of pageantry and drama is the third night highlight. Fred Chandler, whose sales chant has been heard from coast to coast at outstanding agricultural sales, will conduct the auction.

In connection with the beef auction, Valentine explained that a beef auction committee headed by Dean H. Swadner, vice-president of the First National Bank,

Michigan, is placing special emphasis on the ease of purchasing by private individuals whole or portions of prize beef carcasses.

Meat packers of the county have pledged their unified cooperation in this phase of the sales, Valentine said. Upon instructions from any buyer, the packers will take charge of the animal, transport it to a slaughter house, dress the animal and deliver the meat to a place designated by the buyer. For these extensive services the packer will retain the hide of the steer.

Buyers who desire to purchase only portions of carcasses may make plans to do so by contacting E. C. Bird, county agricultural agent, Valentine, or their meat packer.

Achievement Night, the final night of the Fair, this year comes into its own as the night when the many young project winners are lauded, entertained and showered with a galaxy of awards.

For the 4-H club members as well as businessmen and other visitors, for the fair officials as well as businessmen and other sponsoring the Fair, the event will be the best in its quarter-century history, Valentine declared.

Feeding with antibiotics speeds growth of baby chicks

Aureomycin, a recent antibiotic development, promotes rapid growth in baby chicks, say poultry researchers at Michigan State College Agricultural Experiment Station. Believing that this drug acts on bacteria in the intestine of the baby chick, they fed Aureomycin to one group of chicks, then inoculated another group. They found that while Aureomycin injections had no beneficial effect on growth, including the drug in normal feeding practices substantially improved growth. More recent experiments have added Penicillin, Terramycin and Bacitracin to the list of antibiotics stimulating growth. For further information on the possibilities of antibiotic feedings for your poultry, call, write or visit your County Agricultural Agent.

Operators' atlas places calls promptly

In each of Michigan Bell's 75 toll centers, long distance operators use a complete world communication atlas to speed calls along the highways of speech. The atlas lists 71,000 localities within the U. S. proper (2,214 of them here in Michigan); 16,000 in Canada, Cuba and Mexico, 17,000 vessels, and 330 airplanes. It includes 10,000 cars and trucks equipped with telephones, and 85 overseas countries and territories to which telephone service is available. The atlas is revised from day to day, keeping all these points at your operator's finger tips. It's another example of telephone efficiency working for you.
