Now Here's the Proposition

Mike Might Have Another Pie

Mike Loebach of the A & P meat department reports a three-year-old sour cherry tree on his home lot on Terre Coupe road that is doing its best at least to cut down the 1951 fruit shortage in Berrien county.

Normally you wouldn't expect much from a three-year-old cherry tree anyway but this tree bore a fair crop early in the summer, and again in mid-August it broke out in a thin rash of blossoms. The blossoms have developed into a sprinkling of small green cherries. It might be enough to make a pie, thinks Mike.

It's All In The Life

Patrolman Canfield of the Buchanan police force received a notice Saturday that the stork had gotten mixed up with the Labor day traffic on M-60 just west of Dayton.

Being a father himself, Patrolman Canfield saw how it was. He summoned L. Kenneth Gamble, and blazed the way as escort to the scene. They found the car parked on the side of the road, with Mr. and Mrs. William Bean of Chicago, two grandsons, and five children plus No. 6, who had just arrived without waiting for the doctor. The baby had been delivered by the papa, and was in fine condition. Dr. Gamble took over and took the baby to Parkview hospital. Patrolman Canfield estimated the weight of the little girl as 6 1/2 pounds.

When the approach of the stork became apparent Mr. Bean (colored) had slipped the car and tried to flag down a passing motorist. Many cars went by without stopping until Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hurston of Niles finally stopped. Learning the situation they sped to Buchanan, notified the police, then went to the home of relatives here and secured some baby clothes and sped back to the scene. The Beans, their five children and the grandparents had started on a week-end trip to Michigan, on the assurance of their doctor that it would be all right.

It is a rather pertinent comment on human nature that when the passing public saw a police officer and a doctor parked at the scene they all stopped.

Send a Card to Grandpa Too

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Juhl arrived at the distinction of being grandparents last Wednesday, Aug. 29, when a daughter was born to their son and wife, Master Sergeant and Mrs. Ray E. Juhl, in a Murphy hospital. Baby, a little girl, weighed six pounds, 15 ounces, reported Sgt. Juhl in a telephone call to his parents, but she had not yet been named.

Sgt. and Mrs. Juhl live at 548 Howe street, Man. attan, N H. Send 'em a card.

Pauline Reinke Is Feted On Her 93rd Natal Anniversary

Mrs. Pauline Reinke, who lives in her home at 407 South Portage street, celebrated her 93rd birthday anniversary Sunday. She was an honored guest at a dinner that day, given by Mr. and Mrs. A. Preston Sprague, who are neighbors.

Despite her advanced age, Mrs. Reinke is in good health and is unusually active. Living alone, she does all her own housework, including the laundry and mowing the lawn. Last spring she spaded and planted a small vegetable and flower garden which she has tended alone.

Mrs. Reinke was born in Germany Sept. 2, 1858, and married Rudolph Reinke there. When their oldest son was 18 months old Mr. and Mrs. Reinke came to America and settled at Dayton, Mich.

Mr. Reinke worked for years as a section hand for the Michigan Central railroad. He retired about 43 years ago and he and Mrs. Reinke moved to the home where she now lives. Mrs. Reinke died in 1932 and Mrs. Reinke has lived alone since then.

She has two sons, Paul, of Shendan, Wyo., who operates a large cattle ranch there, and Emil of Buchanan. There are four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Season Football Tickets On Sale

Season football tickets for the 1951 FHS home games are now on sale, reports Principal P. T. Bailey. The price is $4 to the general public, $2 to students.

Each ticket entitles the buyer to a definite seat in the permanent bleachers. About 900 seats will be available after allowing for band seats and a few other reservations. The athletic management hopes to sell all of the tickets. The tickets are now being sold by members of the Lions club and by high school students. The first home game is with St. Mary's Michigan City on the night of Saturday, Sept. 14.

The Story of Buchanan

The Saga Of Survey

(2nd Installment)

The meaning of the words designating units of measured land had been defined by the Ordinance of 1785, with minor amendments by Congress. The township was a block of land six miles square, containing 36 square miles of land which were designated as sections. Each section contained 640 acres of land. The amended ordinance had fixed the smallest unit a man could buy at 80 acres, which was a half mile long and a quarter of a mile wide. By measuring an interlocking web of lines a quarter of a mile apart the section was subdivided into 40-acre lots, each a quarter of a mile square.

The original meaning of "township" had no reference to acres. It went back to the days of medieval England long before the discovery of America, when the owners of the land in the civilized world were the lords and barons, who lived in a state of open or latent warfare. Each lord held his land by right of conquest and defended it with a small army of armored soldiers. The lord and his soldiers were the privileged class, and the remainder of the population worked in his service or rented his lands. Their wages and their rents were paid for "protection," or at least that was the principal justification of the status. The farmers who rented and the towns people who served him were a despised class and their standing is reflected in the terms applied to them. The original meaning of "clown" was a man who tilled the soil. In his capacity as a renter he was also known as a "villain." The towns people in humble service were known as a "villain." The towns were used with contempt, and the private times of a stockade of words has survived, although you had better not apply them to the freemen farmers and workers of today.

The original meaning of "farm" was a lease or rental, for that was the only basis on which the actual tillers could hold land. They lived in central towns from which they went daily to till the town being usually surrounded in private times by a stockade. The original meaning of "town" is a stockade or fence. The meaning of "township" was that amount of land tilled by the dwellers of a protected "town," the original significance of "ship" being "shape" or "extent." The word "acre" originally came from the Latin word "agere," to drive on land, and was first applied to pasture land to which the farmers "drove" their cattle. It was variously defined as the amount of land that could be plowed by a yoke of oxen in a day, or which would supply sufficient grazing for one cow.

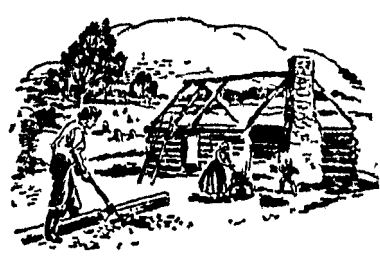

So now, fellow clowns and knaves, since we know what we are, let's get back to surveying. The significance of the words that we have given above is that in the early social life of England in common with the rest of the world the great mass of people belonged body and soul to an overlord, just as the people of Russia do for the time being at least. Beginning back several hundred years before the recognized date of the discovery of America the mass of people in England began to work slowly toward freedom. But the aftermath of subjection of the many to the few continued, though gradually dwindling, well into modern times, and it prevailed to an extent in the more thickly settled part of the American colonies until after the Revolution.

What broke it down was really the land sale provision of the Ordinance of 1785, which was made mechanically possible by its provision for rectangular survey on a large scale.

Behind these surveys came the armies of men who were escaping a social system east of the Appalachians, in which they had little privilege, and an economic system in which only a few had hope. A society where they could not vote unless they had a little land, and in which they could not hold public office unless they had much land, but where there was no more land they could get. Where a man to whom they were indebted for a dollar or even less could put you in jail, where the state provided only the confining walls and where you would starve and freeze unless your relatives, friends, or charity came to your rescue.

So to the early settler the surveyor was the mechanical architect of his emancipation.

The surveying crew which plotted the area about Buchanan probably had a sort of remnant job, for the lands across the St. Joseph river had been surveyed in 1829. They had been ceded by the Pottawatomis in 1821, but for several years the difficulties of travel to Michigan held down immigration here and there was no need of survey or land office for sale. But the opening of the Erie Canal in 1825 created an all-water route to Monroe and Detroit, and even to Chicago. So the pressure was on.

The first job the surveyors had was to set up a camp. One camp probably was sufficient for the area within the recently ceded reservation around Buchanan, containing only 49 sections or a little over one eighth of the township. The site of the camp was doubtless selected with reference to Indian trails for convenient travel, of which there were many here, as well as to central location. And, of course, to the presence of water. The presence of an Indian trail to the camp greatly simplified the carriage and the renewal of supplies.

Arrival at the selected point, they pitched their large soldier's tent. Then they cut or pulled grass sufficient to lay a floor a foot deep in the tent. On this grass they spread blankets which served for carpet, table and beds. Meanwhile wood was cut for a large fire which served for cooking, for warmth in chilly weather, and for repelling the swarms of mosquitos and other winged pests which prevailed in the warmer weather. If no cook was employed, the members of the party took turns. First some pork was cut and fried in a frying pan. A square yard of heavy cloth such as cotton mill was spread on the blanket floor for a bread board.

On this a piece of flour was poured. It was made in the middle of the pile and in it was poured the fryings from the pan. Some warm water was added, also salt and cream of tartar or soda. This was mixed with a spoon until it was thick enough to work with the hands. The frying pans were then filled with dough and placed over the fire to bake. The remaining soup consisted of dried apples and tea or coffee were boiling in tin pails. Then the men sat on the floor around the blanket table and ate. Then, perhaps after a session of story-telling around the fire, the men wrapped themselves in blankets, with their boots for the base of pillows and went to sleep to the music of the hooting of owls and the howling of the wolves.

Up at dawn, they started some pork and beans cooking, so it will not take too long to finish them for supper, ate a simple breakfast, and each put some bread and a slice or two of raw pork to be fried on a stick over a small fire, threw them in their wallets and set off for work. (To Be Continued)

Super-Market For A. & P. Store Now Being Built

41x85-Ft. Bldg. Being Erected By C. Wilcox; Parking Space At Side, Rear

Construction is now under way by Philip Frank of a new building which will house an A. & P. supermarket store.

The construction has been in progress for three weeks by C. L. Wilcox, contractor, an approval of the Grand Rapids district of the A. & P. stores, with the formal approval of the national headquarters at New York City arriving Thursday of last week.

The structure is ideally located at 117 North Portage, where the street had been previously widened to permit additional parking facilities. The structure, 41x85 feet in dimensions, is on lot 81x132 feet in dimension, affording 42x132 parking space in the rear and 41x85 feet on the north side for customers' cars.

The structure will be of concrete block for the rear and side walls, to be later color-creted within and without. A Kawneer window will face the street. The one-story structure will have walls 13 feet in height. The construction illustrates the direction of development of business in Buchanan to the northward on a wide, well-traveled street, which has not hitherto been heavily parked. Action of the city in widening the street undoubtedly influenced the new direction of business.

The new quarters will be furnished throughout with new supermarket equipment. Tentative date of completion has been set at Nov. 15, 1951.

Leonard Wood Wins Standard Oil District Prize

It has long been evident that Leonard Wood maintains a Standard Oil station at 113 Days avenue in a manner that adds much to the appearance of that part of the town, but just how good his "housekeeping" has been will hereafter be appreciated better.

For in the above picture he is shown at the official ceremony of presentation of a $25 defense bond for having the best kept station in the Grand Rapids district of the Standard Oil company during July. In winning this prize he was in competition with nearly 1,000 other stations. The prize was given in the course of a district contest extending from May to August inclusive, with a prize awarded each month and a grand prize at the end.

Guy Gulsinger, assistant sales manager of the Grand Rapids district is seen at right reading into the microphone the statement of the prize award, complimenting Mr. Wood highly on his "outstanding ability and merchandising practices." Then Mr. Wood's voice went on the air, thanking the company for the award and promising that he would be "in there fighting" for the Grand Award. An official of the studio is seen at the left.

THE HOLIDAY AND THE CLOSED RESTAURANT

This week the Record received a letter signed "A Transient", explaining the plight of people without homes here when there is no restaurant service on a holiday.

This, said Transient, was the case on Labor Day. We do not print the letter because it did not contain the name of the writer. But we will pass on his plea. He said that another "transient" had arrived in town that day for business in Buchanan that would take about a week. Finding no place to eat, he decided to get lodging in Niles and to get his meals there while his business lasted.

The writer talked with a restaurant operator. His answer, in brief was: "The situation here was not fair to those who are here on work or business, and depend on the restaurants. However any one operator who remains open to take care of such needs would face an almost certain loss."

There was almost no visible traffic on the streets here Monday. Local residents who decide to "eat out" on such days go to eating places in nearby cities. In Niles restaurants located to take advantage of the heavy auto traffic on the main highways converging there do a "land office business". They can not only afford to keep open—they reap a good harvest. Buchanan has no main highway entering the town, and consequently the restaurants get none of the trade of the great throngs in transit.

The local restaurateur said that he had gone to Chicago that day to meet old friends up from Texas who were to be there. He could not ask his employees to work, and competent help for a day only is simply not to be found.

He suggested that the situation might be solved by an agreement between the restaurant operators, by which one would remain open and the others make moderate contributions that would guarantee against losses. He further suggested that the Buchanan Business Association would be in a logical position to intercede for such co-operation.

Leonard Wood 3rd In Dist. Contest Of Standard Oil

Leonard Wood received notice yesterday morning that he had been awarded third prize for his standing during all four of the May-through-August competition staged by the Standard Oil company in the Buchanan district. The award was based on appearance and neatness of the filling station and p.c.m.s.e.r. Wood competed against nearly 1,000 stations in the district, winning first place in August.

Hawks Win 2nd Title In Row In Softball Series

Youth Council Goes Down Two Straight In Hard-Fought Ball Games

The Hawks nailed down the title of champions of the Buchanan summer softball league in the play-off with the second-place Youth Council team Wednesday and Thursday evenings. The victors were also champions of 1950.

The Hawks won the series two straight, the first 4-2 and the second 11-5. The first game was especially good, both teams playing heads-up ball. The Y.C. nine actually out-hit the Hawks with a total of 6 to 5, but it was the old story—the Hawks hit when hits counted.

In the second game the Hawks connected for seven hits to five for the Youth Council. Bunched hits by the winners spelled the difference, as when Rosenthal, the Hawks' right fielder, batted a three-bagger with the bases loaded, bringing in Bob Letcher, D. Wregglesworth and J. Wregglesworth.

The play-off ended a fine season, in which a large number of young men and boys enjoyed clean and healthy sport and a large number of spectators had the opportunity to enjoy watching. The Youth Council was handicapped to all extent when four players, including Fitcher Bob Cline, had to quit because of football practice. However this does not detract from the skill and sportsmanship of the winners, who permitted them to select substitutes from any other team in the league not involved in the play-off.

The score card for the first game was:

Youth Council (2)	AB	R	H	E

The dinner, held Friday evening in the Moccasin avenue school gymnasium, was attended by relatives and friends. Mrs. LeFevre was seated at a table centered with a large birthday cake and garden flowers.

A grandson, Grant LeFevre, of Milwaukee, Wis., was master of ceremonies and introduced Mayor Robert C. Strayer, who gave the address of welcome. Robert Barbour of Logansport, Ind., a great-grandson, played accordion music and John Manos, Milwaukee, another grandson, played the piano accompaniment for the singing of "Happy Birthday." ### New Type Of Diplomat Is Planned By U.S.

Farm Technologists To Carry Farm Know-How To Other Nations

Washington—Uncle Sam is looking for a new type of diplomat. He won't need striped pants and a homburg, but he'll want a bulging portfolio.

The briefcase must be stuffed with all sorts of scientific farm information. How to grow crops and fatten cattle, how to deal with insect pests and blight, how to combat soil erosion and increase crop yields.

The Agriculture Department is recruiting these foreign-service men. It wants 600 "agricultural representatives" to carry U. S. farm technology abroad under the Point Four program.

That program is the Administration's scheme for aiding "underdeveloped" nations by giving them technical assistance and advice. Congress has approved the spending of some $27 million for a start on the plan.

The Agriculture Department is now compiling a list of recognized specialists in such matters as soils, plant pest and disease control, agricultural engineering and farm economics. It hopes to enlist the services of some of these, but it is also willing to hear from volunteers who think they have the required training or experience.

Pay for the new foreign service posts will range from $5,370 to $10,330 a year. In addition, the specialists can qualify for ost-of-living allowances now awarded persons in the State Department's overseas service. Candidates between 20 and 60 years old are preferred, though applicants over 60 will be considered for some assignments. The Agriculture Department, defining the sort of people it wants for the jobs, says, "Applicants must be skilled in their professions, have leadership ability and maturity of judgment, and be capable of filling the roles of agricultural statesmen as they represent the U. S. abroad."

Once selected for a foreign job an applicant may wind up in Europe, Latin America, Africa, the Near East, or the Far East. Among the programs he may work on are those for developing sulphur production in India, controlling insect pests in El Salvador, and developing an animal husbandry project in Iran.

Jobs for specialists who have had either technical training in agriculture or long experience in farming do not require civil service examinations.

Interested applicants can get details from the Office of Personnel, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Power Industry Develops Marvelous Small Machine

A machine which in a 25 foot square room will reproduce the electric power network of all Illinois outside Chicago, yet use less current than the oven of an electric stove, is to be built at the University of Illinois.

It will save millions of dollars for the power industry of the state. In one hour engineers will learn from it more than from three months of complicated calculations, and in some cases get answers which no amount of calculation could provide.

It will be used for service to the power industry, for teaching, and for research in both electrical and other fields. It will cost approximately $50,000 the major part of which is being provided by three power companies operating in the state. This is the latest of many projects in which power companies of Illinois have cooperated with the University.

The machine will be called a "10,000 cycle A-C Network Analyzer." Plans for it have been made, many parts ordered, and work on remodeling the room for the machine has begun. It will be operating by early fall of 1951.

Problems it can solve include: Where to place new power lines for greatest efficiency, how to prepare for emergencies when a line may be interrupted and others have to take over the load, what to do in a city to meet overload troubles, what facilities to build to provide for a new heavy-power industry, and many others.

For research the machine can be used in fields other than electric power, including such studies as flows in pipelines, soil movement under structures, and characteristics of radio antennas.

Let the Buyer Beware
It was the sole responsibility of the consumer, centuries ago, to be on guard against being hoodwinked when making a purchase, thus giving rise to the Latin expression, "caveat emptor"—let the buyer beware. This country, constant haggling over price between customer and storekeeper so aroused public indignation that the U. S. Congress and 45 states passed fair trade laws beginning in 1931.

RECEIVES DAD'S D.S.C. . . . Major General I. D. White, 1st Army Chief of Staff, pins distinguished service cross on Paul Weber, 3, whose father, 1st Lt. Gerhardt H. Weber of Ridgewood, Queens, N.Y., was awarded the medal posthumously for extraordinary heroism in action in Korea last August. Looking on are the widow, Mrs. Mary Jane Weber, who is holding Karen, one-year-old, and Heidi, 2. The D.S.C. is second only to the Congressional Medal of Honor.

U. N. Estimates World Population At 2,400,000,000

The latest returns are in on the biggest clerical job ever undertaken, the world's census. The recently released United Nations Demographic Yearbook for 1949-50—estimates the overall figure at nearly 2,400,000,000.

The current project of the U. N. Population Commission is the first internationally sponsored attempt to cover the globe. Even its figures are not expected to be complete, of course. A few nations, including Russia, are not fully co-operating, and the geographic isolation of certain regions, as well as the resistance of primitive and suspicious people offers many problems.

On the other hand, much accurate and up-to-date information has been and is being accumulated. Since 1947, when the global undertaking was first proposed, census takers have swarmed over the Americas, Europe and Asia.

Some of the data has come from countries previously reported only sketchily. By the end of 1951, U. N. experts predict, at least three-quarters of the world's population will have been officially recorded.

According to the now available statistics, more than a billion and a quarter people live in Asia. This figure is more than twice that for Europe and nearly four times the number of inhabitants of the Western Hemisphere.

More Light for Less Money

To keep the reflector surface on fluorescent lights from yellowing—so the maximum amount of light is always maintained—industrial finish engineers developed a special mar-proof, baked finish that keeps its original whiteness and light reflectivity. As a consequence, users get more illumination from fluorescent lights—with less electricity.

U.S. Army Invents Light Walkie-Talkie

Initial units of a completely new walkie-talkie which is half the size and weight and has twice the range of those used in World War II have been turned over to the U. S. Army Signal Corps by the Radio Corporation of America.

The new walkie-talkie is a striking example of the Army's progress in streamlining and "miniaturizing" its equipment to make America's fighting forces more mobile and more effective. Sub-assemblies have been shrunk to a size that permits housing a complete sub-assembly in a metal cylinder about half the size of a cigar, or about the size of a single miniature tube.

The tubes used in the equipment are sub-miniature structures, smaller than half a cigarette, and in some instances have been supplied by tiny germanium crystal units. Some of the resistors are about the diameter of a safety match and no more than a quarter-inch long. Tiny transformer coils are less than a quarter-inch deep and half an inch in diameter. It is necessary to assemble workers and inspectors to do some of their work under magnifying lenses.

The new walkie-talkie is designed to provide two-way voice communication over a distance of approximately five miles on frequencies within the VHF range. The complete equipment, including power supply, harness, and holster with two antennas, handset, operating handbook, and spare parts, weighs a total of only about 25 pounds.

Don't Starve Grass

Where there are trees on lawns, Scotts Lawn Research experts have noted that the grass is starved through theft of nourishment by near-surface roots. This can be avoided, the experts say, if double rates of fertilizer are applied in areas under trees out as far as the tips of the longest branches.

Clear-Lake Woods

Monday afternoon the picture at the lake changed: Gone were the many families who spent the full summer here, and their week-end guests. Most of them left early to avoid the crowds on the highways leading into Chicago. It had been a full week-end. In spite of weather the festivities were well attended. Under the direction of Art Hamel, assisted by Bernard Peterson, the youngsters vied with each other in races and water events, most of the folks gathered at the pavilion in the evenings, and the lake was well dotted with boats. Monday afternoon, Ralph Smith dipped the wings of his plane to greet the folks at the Ed Koerner home, with many of us watching from the ground.

There was one sad note. It has just been learned that Mrs. Albert Hill had passed away during the week. Funeral services were held in Chicago, Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Hill built the home now owned by the James Putnam family and Mrs. Hill spent all of her summers here, until her health failed. The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. Hill.

Jack Bittinger and a friend, Jim Lass, of Chicago, spent the

The annual reunion of the Kansas school was held Sunday at the schoolhouse with 55 persons present, attending the affair. A basket dinner was served at noon. Games, contests and readings provided entertainment. Mrs. Robert Kell was elected president of the 1952 reunion. Other officers are vice-president, Mrs. William Shaw, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Maynard Ewart. The 1952 reunion will be held Aug. 31 at the same place.

Bob and Tracey Lawson have just finished a two week's vacation, which they spent motoring in the east. They were guests of Bob's brother, Robert Lawson, and his wife, in New York City, and visited points of interest in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Gettysburg, and New York state. The weather was very warm.

Mrs. Louis Pettie and Miss Florence Olson are spending this week at their home here. Their

Don't Plant Wheat Before Fly-Free Date Advises Co. Agent

Farmers are asking for trouble if they plant wheat before the Hessian fly-free date, Sept. 23, 1951, J. D. Johnson, county agricultural agent warned today.

The date was established as best of this area by Michigan State College specialists who set wheat seeding dates which avoid damage by the insect that attacks wheat in the fall and spring.

Farmers who ignore the fly-free date and plant earlier may find their wheat stunted and the plants may turn dark bluish-green in color. The infested plants finally die back from the leaf tips.

Injury to the wheat plant is done by the larvae, or maggots, of the Hessian fly, which feed beneath the leaf sheath, usually next to the ground, Johnson said. To date the only satisfactory control for Hessian fly is to plant wheat in the fall after most of the danger from the insect is past. It does not live to lay eggs after late summer.

TRAIL BLAZER with plenty on the ball. How long since you lifted the hood of a car, and took a good look at what's beneath? We like to have folks do that with a Buick. You'll find that broad bonnet isn't put there for show. It's packed with horsepower—high, wide and handsome—more horsepower than normal drivers will ever use in full. And—if you're up to date on modern features—you'll find that this bonnet is packed with these too. Do you know, for example, that every new engine introduced or previewed in recent years is built on the valve-in-head principle? Score one for Buick. No Buick engine has ever been built in any other way. Do you know what it takes to make full use of high compression? A valve-in-head engine! Score two: Buick has been stepping up compression ratios for years. But Buick has blazed one trail which other engines still haven't followed—don't ask us why. Every Buick has a Fireball Engine which, as we've said before, is like having a string of comets by the tail. Fact is, in every flame-packed cylinder there is a comet—rolled into a swirling ball by a special turbo-top piston—touched off by a flashing spark every .5 inches you travel in a Buick. That's why we're proud to show folks that Buicks have a Fireball Engine—and prouder still to have them take one of these thrilling performers out on the road. Want to try it? Come in and see us soon. Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. "Smart Buy's Buick" YOUR KEY TO GREATER VALUE WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

KELLOGG CENTER NEARS COMPLETION AT MSC

Michigan State College is putting the finishing touches on its giant Kellogg Center for Continuing Education. Financed largely through a grant from the Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, the modern seven-story structure is scheduled for completion in September.

who come to the campus annually for special courses and conferences of benefit to them in their professions and everyday living. These programs are developed by the Continuing Education Service for educators, bankers, farmers, engineers, industrial personnel, florists, homemakers, radio broadcasters and any other groups desiring such services. College officials estimate that about 80,000 people will participate in these programs during the 1951-52 year.

Archaeologists Dig Into Ancient History of West

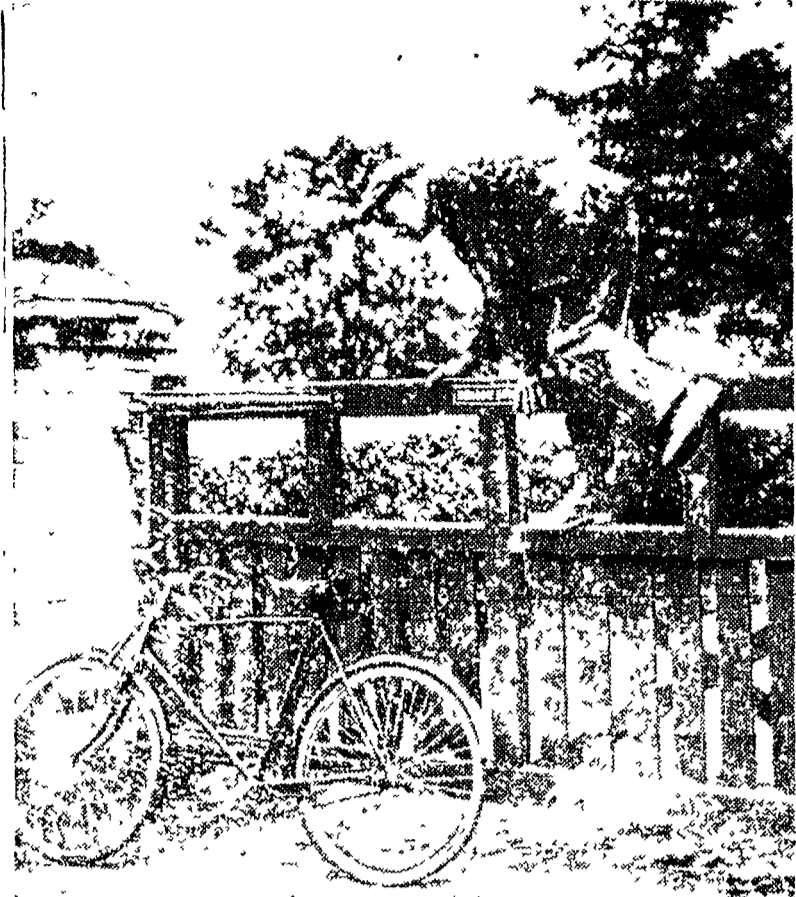

Trails of bones and Indian artifacts into the ancient history of the far west are being followed by archeologists exploring sites soon to be covered by great reservoirs. They are working on a cooperative project of the Bureau of American Ethnology of the Smithsonian Institution, the National Park Service, the Bureau of Reclamation, and the Corps of Engineers.

One party under the direction of Douglas Osborne of the River Basin Surveys staff is working at the McNary reservoir near Umatilla, Oregon. They are excavating village sites with house remains and burials which date from about the time of the Lewis and Clark Expedition.

Within the boundaries of the proposed O'Sullivan reservoir near Moses Lake, Wash., a party under the direction of Richard Daingerly is excavating several Indian village sites with house remains. They are uncovering numerous bone and stone implements which unquestionably preceded the white discovery of this continent.

At the equalizing reservoir in Washington a party in charge of Samuel J. Tobin is excavating a large cave which was used as a human habitation for generations and are recovering bits of textiles, cordage, and the like, which, it is hoped, can be tied in to the historic culture of the Columbia River Indian tribes.

Another party under the direction of George Cheney is investigating the archeological possibilities of the area which will be flooded by the Chief Joseph reservoir, now under construction just below the Grand Coulee dam.

AFTER THE HORSE HAS GONE

The gardener at the Tatfield, England, home of Donald MacLean, missing British diplomat, climbs over the gate at the entrance to the MacLean grounds on his way home from work. The gate has been kept locked since the story of MacLean's disappearance hit the headlines. It was suggested to authorities that MacLean and fellow diplomat Guy Burgess were back in England, but there has been no proof.

True Wolf Almost Extinct In The U.S.

The wolf is "staying away from our door", in increasingly large numbers. As a matter of fact, the true wolf is nearly extinct in this country.

Only a few of these creatures still remain in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Oregon. Great numbers still exist, however, in Canada and Alaska.

Soon, all that will be left of the wolves in this country will be an exhibit—stuffed—at the Smithsonian Institution's U. S. National Museum.

Turkish Bath Adds Strength To Building Blocks

Scientists in a Chicago laboratory are giving concrete building blocks a two-week Turkish bath. Chemists at Armour Research Foundation of Illinois Institute of Technology use a new 100% humidity curing room to study stronger, cheaper, lighter concrete blocks for future home builders.

An air-conditioned constant-temperature room, a preparation room, special concrete mixer, block-making machine, and testing equipment also are used to make blocks that will meet government specifications for safe building materials.

A light-weight aggregate, developed at the Foundation from expanded clay and shale, will be used to make building blocks weighing less than 30 pounds. Sand and gravel blocks, currently in use, weigh 50 pounds.

Tri-Focal Glasses Eliminate Blur At A Middle Distance

Optical scientists have found a way to clear up the blur most middle-aged wearers of bifocal eyeglasses see at aim's length. The answer is eyeglasses fitted with continuous vision lenses. These are lenses with three segments which bring in clearly objects at all ranges, or at a distance.

Results of a research project at Ohio State University, just made public, revealed that bifocal wearers found continuous vision glasses easier to get used to. The continuous vision lens eliminated the jolt which took place in bifocals when the eye changed from a near line of vision to a far one.

Dr. Harry S. Weaver, Jr., Chief of the Department of Ophthalmology of Hahnemann Medical College and General Hospital, Philadelphia, recently reported that he considers the continuous vision lens the ideal device to restore clear, comfortable sight in all visual areas. "Continuous vision lenses," he said, "enable the wearer's eyes to change focus in gradual steps."

General Electric Designs Low-Cost T-V Transmitter

Especially designed for small communities, a low-powered, low-cost television transmitter was announced recently by the General Electric Co.

The unit and associated equipment is expected to sell for between $75,000 and $100,000 between one-fourth and one-third of what it now costs to establish a standard frequency high-power station.

The transmitter operates in ultra-high-frequency channels which have been proposed by the Federal Communications Commission for nationwide expansion of television.

Baby Blue Eyes

Your baby can recognize you at the age of six months. All babies are born with blue eyes. It is normal for a baby's eyes to have little or no coordination in the early months of life, but if the condition persists after the first half-year, professional aid should be sought.

New Bell X-5 Jet Has Moveable Wings

Wings whose degree of sweepback can be altered in flight at the will of the pilot feature the new "flying laboratory", the Bell X-5. It is the first aircraft in which this is possible.

This new airplane is to be used by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics to investigate aerodynamic effects of changing the degree of sweepback in flight.

Built by the Bell Aircraft Corporation, it is regarded as a successor to the famous X-1, the first plane to travel faster-than-sound. The new version is a speedy craft. More about its possible speed will be known after flight tests are completed.

Bell X-5, unlike the rocket-powered X-1, is equipped with a jet engine. It will be able to take off by itself and remain in the air for extended periods. The X-5 had to be carried aloft on the belly of a bomber and, after release, traveled by gravity and its own-rocket power. But the rocket power lasted only a matter of a few minutes.

Modern Chemicals In Air Crumble The Acropolis At Athens

The Acropolis of Athens is slowly crumbling away because the acid-producing sulfur dioxide polluting today's air is disintegrating its marble, according to Dr. A. J. Sofianopoulos of the University of Dayton.

The remedy is periodic washing with pure water. Previous centuries of pure air left Athens' marble monuments relatively untouched.

Colonial newspapers were the mainstay of the movement for independence.

GIRL SCOUTS

Memories of Camp Madron (by Mary Keyes and Barbara Heezen). The Buchanan girls who attended Camp Madron in August have some delightful memories of time spent there. Some of the things remembered are as follows. Arts and Crafts: The girls made macaroni pine and did some birding. The waterfront activities included swimming, boating, canoeing and sailing. Some of the expert swimmers swam across the lake under the direction of the waterfront director. Dramatics which included learning many new songs and acting in plays. Some girls hiked around the lake and took their lunch. The girls who stayed two weeks cooked out on Saturday night. Every night we had a campfire when weather permitted. We had stunts at the campfire and popcorn. All of the girls earned badges or prizes of badges. There were 766 girls in camp each week. All the girls made a lot of friends and it was a real treat to meet them at the next year.

SMART WILD RABBIT

The latest cottontail of conservation department record in Michigan is a considerable common at the Rose Lake Wildlife Experiment station near Lansing. "Rose Lake Rosie," who weighs four pounds and nine ounces, most apparently has it figured out that she can enter the corn-baited trap, snatch a free feed, and eventually be released by game men. At least 19722, ear tag visible below thumb of biologist Raymond Schofield, has been released from one trap 21 times in about a year. With the third 1951 litter coming up, Rose Lake Rosie will have increased the state rabbit population by an estimated 10.

Promote Safety in Homes

Whether an accident occurs to an employee on or off the job, his services are lost to his employer and his help is lost to his family. Thus, steel company safety experts are devoting more and more time to the promotion of safety outside steel plants, in addition to their customary safety work inside the plants. The need for emphasizing safety in homes, streets and highways, is shown by statistics at one steel plant located in a community of 40,000 population, where the number of off the job accidents suffered by the plant's employees during 1949 was more than double the total of accidents in the plant. Six of the off the job accidents were fatal. None of the plant accidents was fatal.

Most Permanent "Filling"

Gold foil—thin sheets or small pellets of pure gold—was one of the first materials used to fill tooth cavities and it is still one of the best, in the opinion of Dr. Gerald D. Stubbs of the University of Washington school of dentistry. Its use can save teeth by checking decay and restoring the teeth to their original form. Dr. Stubbs told a session of the American Dental Association, adding "It is unquestionably the most permanent restorative means we have. What other types of restoration can we find rendering excellent service 30, 40 or 50 years after insertion?"

Gasoline Storage

If the tank is properly made and installed, and is clean, fuel oil may be kept for a year or even more without deterioration. It is different with gasoline, however. It is necessary to leave a vent open to the air, and there will be some evaporation. Gasoline is a mixture of several constituents, and as some are more volatile than others they will evaporate first. Thus the quality is likely to change with long storage.

She's helping to meet an emergency. MRS. RUTH JOHNSON of Grand Rapids, one of the first women to take over a maintenance job at Michigan Bell since World War II. The little lady on the ladder is doing some of the work normally handled by men. She may look out of place in that maze of wire connections. But you ought to see her use a soldering iron, installing and rearranging part of the wiring that connects subscribers' telephones with the central office equipment. She's working here because many telephone men who kept Michigan Bell's equipment in top condition are now in uniform, and because communications are the life lines of our armed forces. During World War II, several hundred Michigan women took over while the men were gone. Today other women are doing the same thing. And they're doing a great job... helping to keep the equipment that handles the nation's calls in good working order. It's people who make telephone service good! MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY.
