More Shoe Strings

Buchanan has a whole flock of new business enterprises this week, although it is believed that all are the shoe-string, fly-by-night character. The Lions Club treasury, it seems, got so full of jack that the treasurer introduced a motion for the club to buy a hay baler in which to help stack the bills.

Member Local Police Hurt

Rex Myers, assistant chief of police in Buchanan for the past eight years, is in a hospital at Niles as the result of being hit by a car at the corner of Portage and Front last week, his right hind leg being fractured. Rex is believed to be about 44 years old. He has been the property of Morley Myers for ten years. About eight years ago, the lure of the uniform drew him and since that time he has had an almost constant accompaniment of one or the other of the local police. Since he is a sizeable dog, the German police strain, he added very materially to the formidability of the force.

B. H. S. Quartet Wins Mile Relay at Kalamazoo

Troutfetter, Dickow, Luke, Meyers, Run Mile in 3:46.6

By Eugene Anderson

Fame and glory shone on a portion of Buchanan's track unit at the Western Michigan relays at Kalamazoo Saturday. The Buck's mile relay quartet won that event by at least thirty yards from its nearest competitor, State High School. The spotlight is at full blast on the following who composed the winning relay team: Troutfetter, Dickow, Luke, and Meyers, who ran in that order. The winning time was 3:46.6 in the first running of this event. This time will stand as a record until next year's winners attempt to better the time. With each of the foursome running a 440, the average time for each 440 yards was approximately 56.6 seconds.

Tornado Tragedy Touches Buchanan Company Employee

Tales of An Old Town An Attempt to Reproduce a Cross Section of The American Scene, As Witnessed Here Through the Past Century

More About Imhoff's Picture A visit to Charles Pears in the past week brought more information regarding the "old picture" loaned by Frank Imhoff.

The play was known as "The Blue and The Gray," and was staged by a traveling promoter, who contracted with the local G A R unit to stage it as a benefit for that organization. It was about 1880, when the thunders of the Civil War were only 15 years away, or about as far as the First World War was in 1932.

The picture includes only the main characters of the play, according to Pears. There were a number of the citizenry who appeared in the battle scene as "extras." The promoter brought with him some of the stage "props" and the costumes for the Union and Confederate soldiers.

Among those that Mr. Pears identified were the father of Arthur Richmond, Will VanMeter, Cora Peck Rough, Billy Hulbert, Morris-Lyons, Jack Bishop and Clint Bliss.

A woman in the center tentatively identified as Hatie Richards Wells, a daughter of Captain Richards, who played lead parts in most of the home talent plays of the day. However, Mrs. Blanche McIntosh, daughter of Mrs. Wells, does not contain this identification.

The elder Richmond, Billy Hulbert and Clint Bliss were among the younger veterans of the Civil War. Will Van Meter, Morris Lyons and Jack Bishop were young men about twenty. Jack Bishop played the part of the sentinel and the only lines he spoke were a dramatic "Carry out the dead," after the battle scene.

The play was presented in the old Rough opera house in the third story over Boardman's store. To the side of the stage in the picture can be seen the bottom of one of the commercial advertisements, with the line "Boots and Shoes."

In a recent issue the series on Dayton history compiled by Fred Richter was completed.

It was distinctly a "labor of love" by Mr. Richter and without doubt it was followed with interest by many. If love of country is rooted in love of home, then Mr. Richter performed a very material service in his loyal labors for his home community and the consequent revivals of such loyalties which he inspired in others.

Richter wrote the following letter as a valedictory to his series.

"My Memories of Dayton" which have appeared in the "Tales of An Old Town" column for the past seven or eight months have come to an end. Sorry indeed. But possibly the editor will be saying "hallelujah" if you have enjoyed reading these memories as much as I have enjoyed the privilege of writing them and having them published for you, then I'll be satisfied.

"Some of these memories may come to life again long after I am gone and be republished. Then in a very real sense I'll be 'gone but not forgotten'."

"I am very grateful to the Record for all of the space granted and especially do I appreciate the assistance given me by Mr. Hawes."

My thanks and my very best wishes to the publisher and staff of the Berrien County Record.

Sincerely, Fred J. Richter

Red Cross Finds No Record Injury To Valentine Paul

Mrs. J. C. Strayer received word from the San Francisco headquarters of the American Red Cross Monday that that organization had made an exhaustive investigation covering all possible sources of authentic information and had found no records of injury or capture in the case of Valentine Paul, son of Mrs. Adaline Paul of Buchanan. The San Francisco postoffice also provided an active serial number for the address of young Paul and his mother received the cash allotment allowed monthly by the government, covering his service up to May 1. Legion Auxiliary Selling Stamps at Haffner's Store

Mrs. Guy Eisenhart, president of the American Legion Auxiliary states that women of that organization will be selling defense stamps in 10c, 25c and 50c denominations for the remainder of this week at Haffner's store, from noon until 6 p. m.

Great attention has been attracted to the fine display of pictures of service men from Buchanan, posted now in the center window at the Haffner 5c to $1 store. Manager Phenice now has 78 service men's pictures on display. It is doubtless one of the most effective and popular window displays ever made in a local business house. In the center of the pictures is a list of the names of nearly 150 Buchanan men in the army and navy.

Wanted: 200 Blood Donors at City Hall

The members of the Rebekah Lodge in charge of the enrollment of volunteers for blood donations at the city hall this week reported about 2 p. m. yesterday that they had at that time enrolled 30 volunteers. Since 200 are required before a Red Cross mobile unit will come here, it is evident that the enrollment must increase very materially if that goal is reached. Your physician will tell you whether you are in condition if you are, no ill effects whatever attend the donation. It might save a soldier or sailor's life. Why not think it over?

Buchanan - S. B. Buses Caught In The Freeze

Expect Release, Says Official Of People's Rapid Transit Co.

The following letter was received by H. L. Hayden of the Record company relative to the Buchanan-South Bend bus service, advance news of which was published in the Record in January.

Last Saturday, April 25th, we received our certificate from the Interstate Commerce Commission which granted us permission to begin operating buses between Buchanan and South Bend.

Last fall we had planned to use one of spare units on the Buchanan line. After December 7th we realized that more buses would be needed for any extension of our routes, and early in January we ordered two more buses. Those have been caught in the "freeze" order and we have been trying since early March to persuade the ODT to allow us to take delivery of them.

We are confident that we will be allowed these additional buses, but don't know exactly when, and until we do we cannot set a date for starting the service between Buchanan and South Bend.

We are fully aware of the urgent need for service on that line and will institute service at the earliest possible date.

Yours sincerely, H. J. BEMIS, President Peoples Rapid Transit Corp.

Flag With 2 Stars In Window C. Pears Home in Two Wars

At the old C. F. Pears' residence at 303 West Front may be seen something which most likely cannot be duplicated in many homes in the United States.

In the window of the apartment to the rear of the home which Mr. Pears has reserved for himself hangs a large service flag, about 3x5 feet in dimension, made by his wife, the late Lura Pears for the window of their home during the First World War. The flag has several longitudinal red and white stripes and two large blue stars, representing Richard and Don Pears, who served in France in that conflict. Following the First World War both re-entered civilian life but enrolled in the Reserve Officers Corps. Now they are both back in the service and the old service flag is back in the window for the two sons after 25 years.

Beistle Moves Dental Offices into New Quarters

Dr. H. M. Beistle moved his dental offices Tuesday to the handsome quarters in the building at 125 Days avenue, which he purchased from T. E. VanEvery.

A brick front was installed and the sides and rear repainted. The walls of the interior were painted buff finish, with white ceilings and penchoma woodwork. On the south side of the hall are the business office, the dark room for developing X-ray films, and a room for the gas furnace. The building stands on a large lot which affords ample parking space for cars at the side and in the rear.

UNITY FOR PEACE ON LAW ENFORCEMENT

The following essay by Margaret Temple received first honors in the local contest sponsored by the Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars

"NO MAN IS BIG enough to be independent of others," so it might be said of states and countries as well. In order to produce anything of massive construction or idea, it takes a unity of purpose and of thought. At this time when everyone is endeavoring to make this world entanglement come out right for civilization, we must bear in mind that this victory cannot be effective unless we combine our efforts in a unity of thought, a unity of resources, a unity of manufacturing, of manpower and lastly—the most important—a unity of purpose and understanding. Without these unified powers we can accomplish nothing

A unity of thought intimates that we Americans can do a great deal toward a just victory if we weigh and find the truth and fairness in the reading material, movies, and other types of propaganda that are presented to us for consideration. If we think through our convictions and beliefs, we will be much better off in the long run. A keeping up of our civilian and military morale is of the utmost importance to us in winning the war and ultimately the peace

IT SEEMS VERY REASONABLE that countries of the Axis are nearly exhausted from sheer doing without for the past year and a half. But are they? The Japanese have been fighting a war with China for the past five years. Germany and Italy are practically in the same state. These countries have employed a unique system of conservation. Even though the United States has hardly begun to tap her resources, she must study and apply the Axis' tactics. Every day the chemists and industrialists are finding new materials and new methods of using old materials, all of which will be to our benefit

Having most of the raw materials at hand with which to make our victory more sure, we must follow through with thrifty handling and efficient manufacturing of these war products. It is too much the habit of the American people to waste because we have always had an abundance of everything. A unity of manufacturing power—will—do much to aid our cause.

WHAT IS OUR MAIN objective in the fight? To wipe out the Japanese and German people, or to gain peace? If there is peace, it must be world-wide, there will be no place in the future with a half-won victory. It must be an "all-out" world unity. If we are fighting a war against the Japanese and German people, we had best stop where we are. No lasting peace can be built upon an enkindled hatred of race or country. In the first World War we had the wrong purpose in view, we were paying now for our indifference to the welfare of the European countries at the end of the war. We must learn to understand their emotions and their economic and social needs.

HOWEVER, THESE UNITIES are not our sole responsibility. We must now think of the type of peace we are going to have. Anticipating that we shall win the war, it will be our job to formulate some cooperative system whereby "subsequent international disputes might be settled judicially, rather than by violence." At the close of World War I, "America was too little scared, too little tested, too full of ebullient self-confidence and adolescent scorn of all others to accept realism, for the League of Nations was the grimly realistic acceptance of an unpleasant fact—the nations must pull together. The American people have not even recognized the fact that we have to pull as much as the rest. "With the American people the creation of a new world order was incidental to victory, whereas with President Wilson victory was incidental to the creation of a new order."

ONLY BY A PLAN may we hope to gain a successful and lasting peace. By experience we can see that "without any plan our prosperity, security, and happiness were within twenty-four years in more deadly peril than they were in 1917. It is hard to imagine any circumstance under which non-participation in the League of Nations could have brought us to a worse pass than that which non-participation brought us in 1941."

AN EXCERPT FROM THE CHRISTIAN CENTURY shows us that we are coming closer to a cooperative world order. "Hitler is the messiah of the German people, because they see nothing else. We must offer that something else. But that 'something else' is just what is struggling to be born. This world crisis is meaningful. The thing that is struggling to be born is a cooperative order. All the great answers to the world need are going in our direction—the direction of cooperation. That is the one hopeful thing on the horizon. Facism attempts to enlarge the area of cooperation, but stops within the limits of the state. Within the state they have a cooperative order, a national socialism. Nazism enlarges the area of cooperation, but stops within the limits of the race. Within the superior Aryan race there is a national socialism, a cooperative order. Communism enlarges the area of cooperation, but stops within the limits of the class of workers. Within the limits of the class of workers there is socialism, a cooperative order. If all great answers are going in the direction of cooperation, why is there chaos and confusion and war? For the simple reason that if you stop with cooperation within the limits of the state, you lay the foundation of clash between state as now. If you stop within the limits of the race, then other races will combine against you—as now. If you stop within the limits of class, then other classes will combine against you and there will be class war. Again, I say, it is our job to aim at a permanent and cooperative peace. LET US WORK toward the accomplishment of a lasting peace.

YOU LIMITED

Maybe you've been going on the assumption that you are free of some sort of indestructible material. Well, it ain't so. You have your physical limitations. Be sensible and admit it. Tell the truth, haven't you been feeling a bit under par lately? Why not do the smart thing and go to a good Physician now, while there's nothing seriously wrong? It may save you much trouble later! You'll agree that this is good advice, even if we are a bit biased. Yes, of course, we'd like to fill the prescriptions your Doctor gives you!

For B-B Gun Toters

We have all seen movies about gangsters hiding out from the law until it is safe to once more venture forth on the road of crime. Well, all you young B-B gun toters will have to lie low for a while too. For a long time a Buchanan ordinance stated that it would be against the law to shoot B-B guns inside the city limits. Lately our police force has been enforcing this law to the fullest degree. Several guns have been confiscated. So take this warning, and use the guns only outside of town. Also remember that while a dime will buy two boxes of B-B's, it will also buy a defense stamp.

Youth's Job

How many of your brain cells are not working? Don't take time to count them just get them working, because you have no time to lose. We are in a country that is at war. All your brain cells must be working to get the most out of every minute. You help and my help is needed badly. We must be "minute men of 1942." Be ready to help with all the little tasks such as drying the dishes for mother so that she won't be late for home nursing class. These little duties will all help to win this war. When you spend your week's allowance for a defense stamp instead of a bar of candy you are saving sugar and helping to have another airplane built. Give your full cooperation to any salvage campaign such as collecting old papers. Girls, ask grandma how to knit so you can knit. Red Cross squares. If you get good enough get directions from your local Red Cross on how to make wristlets. Who knows, maybe that sailor you think is cute may wear your pair of wristlets.

So students do your job

News Notes

French and Latin Clubs go to Notre Dame

Twelve members of the French club and ten members of the Latin club accompanied by Mrs. Lester Miller, Mrs. O. L. Donley, Mrs. Kenneth Blake, Mrs. Robert Russell, and Mrs. Weaver took a trip to Notre Dame last Monday afternoon. Their director was Brother Boniface of the University. The first point of interest was the Cathedral. Here the lettering was in Greek and Latin. The altars were gifts from France by Napoleon the 4th. These altars showed the French students what kind of furniture the early French used in their cathedrals. The architecture is French Gothic.

In the Sacristy, they saw many sacred robes and vessels. The robes are copies of Latin replicas and early Gallic. The chalice and gold robes are embroidered in pure gold and seed pearls. They are also gifts from Napoleon. The paintings were done by a Frenchman named Gigot.

The next place they visited was the science building where the work of the Atom Smasher was explained to them. This information is very useful in war time.

Their last stop was the drill grounds where they watched the Navy drill.

Rapid Evacuation

Buzz-rang-the-two-o'clock bell. There was a scrambling and shuffling of feet. Bang, went the locker doors. Three minutes after the bell had rung the school building was completely cleared of students.

Mrs. Lamb sent out notices last week, urging the parents of children who have not been successfully vaccinated within the last seven years for smallpox, to have their children vaccinated. "Epidemics are more probable in war time."

She also advised having the vaccination during the summer months by the family physician. This was to avoid making the children miss school. If you don't want this done the local doctors have agreed to give free vaccinations during the next few weeks.

After the hurry, the only noise heard in the hall was that of the benches hastening to their posts of duty in order to ration sugar to the retailers.

Class Meeting
A freshman class meeting was held Monday during home room. Plans for a hay ride on the night of May 8, were made.

F. F. A. News
The Future Farmer's tip to Lansing has been postponed on account of the recent tire shortage and also due to the lack of obtaining drivers.

Victory Gardens
Mr. Lange has just been appointed chairman of all the Victory Gardens in Buchanan. All those interested in these gardens should see Mr. Lange soon. Pamphlets on these gardens are coming from Lansing sometime in the near future.

Apprentices Go Fishing
Ed Myers, Elmer Handley, Richard Troutfetter, James Fargas, and Hugh Pierce went fishing at the Little Manistee River near Baldwin. They didn't bring back my fish, but Elmer Handley had on his line one of those fish that you hear about. It got away, though. If anyone wants to know the real size of it they better ask Elmer soon because it grows every day. Another interesting discovery is the fact that aames Fargas can sleep with his head on a 20 degree angle lower than the rest of his body.

Reading Consultant Works in Local Schools

Recently the reading consultant from Scott, Foresman Company came to assist the grade teachers with their reading program. Miss Horsemoun taught first, third, and fifth grade reading groups. Each lesson was followed by a teacher's meeting and discussion. Arrangements for this special work were made months in advance because Miss Horsemoun is a much demanded worker in her field.

It was decided to adopt the new Scott, Foresman series of readers in grades two and three. The new series includes two books per year.

Sponsor English Convention

The Southwestern Michigan convention for English Teachers, will be held in St. Joseph on May 9th in the Washington school. The teachers will hear Professor Stevens, Professor Williams, and Mrs. Helen Miller speak.

Mrs. Dunbar, Miss MacNeil, Miss Gernahan, and Miss Boyce will attend the meeting. Mrs. Dunbar is chairman of a sectional meeting.

She also advised having the vaccination during the summer months by the family physician. This was to avoid making the children miss school. If you don't want this done the local doctors have agreed to give free vaccinations during the next few weeks.

Library News

The magazine rack has been transferred from the library to the front of the study hall. This makes it possible for the out-of-town people, who have to come early in the morning, to read them if they have nothing else to do. It also lessens the congestion in the small library room that we have.

The members of the library books have completed their yearly check of the dictionaries and the two sets of encyclopedias. They look to see if they need mending and for pencil marks.

Poem
On our side, we had the Lone Ranger,
Our country would soon be out of danger,
It wouldn't take him long to get us out of this scrap,
For he and Silver could lick any Jap.

Grade News—H. S.

The boys and girls in Miss Connell's room have corn, tomato, peas, beans, radishes, and flowers in their Victory gardens. These plants will be taken home and set out in the garden at the close of the school year. Each child is responsible for the care of his plants.

Donna Schultz is moving to Niles. We will miss Donna. She has read a good many stories to our group.

Robert Quick is still absent from our room. Robert's brothers have had whooping cough. Miss Cannagan's pupils are enjoying one of the new Junior Literary Guild books. It's name is "A Holiday Story Sampler" and contains stories about Abraham Lincoln, Valentine's Day, George Washington, April Fool's Day, Easter Sunday, Independence Day, and Christmas.

Miss Fritz's children are enjoying a new book. The title of the book is "Chester". It is a story of a cat and a dog.

Kenneth Schultz has moved to Niles. Harold Bishop is taking Kenneth's place as lieutenant.

The children are making plans for their mother's tea, May 13. Miss Kinney's room was happy to have so many mothers come for conference last week.

It has been so nice to be able to have spring flowers in the room. There are lilacs, cherry blossoms, and several other kinds. Miss Graves gave tests to Miss Kinney's boys and girls last week. The children enjoyed them and most of them received good scores.

Miss Gates' room came in last Friday for a music appreciation lesson. The lesson was about Fritz Kreisler. The record studied was "Rondino". This composition was written around a little tune or Beethoven's.

Miss Gates' fourth and fifth grades invited the third grade in for an art appreciation lesson Monday. "The Song of the Lark," painted by the French artist Jules Breton, was used for the lesson. The children enjoyed the which Mrs. Wilcox brought. Robert stories of the picture and the life of the artist.

Three people in Mrs. Fuller's fourth grade have enough dimes and quarters to buy a Defense Bond. They are Norman Lear, Wilma Richardson, and Billie Nelson.

We are divided into committees in Miss Halnon's room. Each committee is working on an illustration for the story that the committee has just read. One committee is working on "Hunters of the Tropic Forest," another on "Boat People of the Northwest Coast," another on "Aladdin and his Wonderful Lamp," another on "Ah Baba and the Forty Thieves," and still another on "Robinson Crusoe."

Robert Schultz has gone to Niles to school. We are going to miss him.

More Attractive Rooms

"Square rooms can be made more attractive by the simple expedient of using darker and lighter tones of the same color paint, thereby creating an optical illusion which alters the apparent proportions of the room. A room that is too long can be shortened to the mind's eye by using a lighter tint on the longer walls. This will have the apparent result of causing the end walls to appear longer."

CONTINUOUS DOUBLE FEATURE

● Maybe you don't care about two movies for the price of one. But there's another kind of double feature that every one enjoys.

This bargain bill is continuous too—right around the clock and the calendar—the fact that the average American household gets about TWICE as much electricity for its money as it did fifteen years ago.

You probably don't realize that household electricity costs you only half as much as it used to, because you've added so many useful new appliances over the years—more and better lamps—radios, refrigerator, clocks—vacuum cleaner and washer, perhaps—all serving you well and saving you work.

The same careful business management that made this possible has also helped provide the power for today's tremendous production of tanks, planes and ships from Democracy's Arsenal. Electric power is military power too!

To teach Henry Fonda a few tricks in jiu-jit-su, in Columbia's comedy, "You Belong to Me," showing at the Hollywood theatre Wednesday and Thursday, May 13-14, Wesley Ruggles hired Jack Siegel, a Hollywood policeman and jiu-jit-su instructor

Official Siegel also offered to teach Miss Stanwyck a few holds and, after some persuasion, she submitted She was shown a devastating back-bending wist hold by the officer and with little effort she twirled him through the air He landed with a thunderous thud on his back

"My Lord, I've killed him!" Miss Stanwyck exclaimed, but the cop leaped to his feet and asked for more He thought wrestling with Miss Stanwyck was fun

Juvenile Crime And Insane Cases Are on Increase

Six children from homes broken by divorce, desertion and death were adopted through the Juvenile Division of the probate court in April by relatives At the present time Judge Hatfield has a waiting list of over 225 approved families who wish to adopt children between the ages of five and twelve years

Twenty-three delinquent minors and five traffic violators were also sentenced by Judge Hatfield in April During this period he also entered orders affecting five neglected and eleven dependent children Three of the neglected and all eleven of the dependent youngsters were placed in free homes thereby saving the County an annual boarding bill of approximately $3,640 00 With the general fund of the County overdrawn some $365,000 00 the court had no other alternative at its disposal

Were the court to place all orphaned and dependent children in paid boarding homes, real estate valuations would need to be increased If this were not possible, the Tax Allocation Board would be forced to deduct approximately $40,000 00 a year from the real estate taxes it now allots to the various city and rural schools of the county

Juvenile Court was also a busy place for afflicted and crippled children during April Judge Hatfield admitted fourteen new and eleven old afflicted cases and nine new and eight old crippled children's cases to various approved hospitals at state expense The Berrien County hospital also accepted and treated ten afflicted youngsters during the past month

The judge and his staff returned five run-away children to their parents and persuaded three sadly overcrowded state hospitals to admit one insane, three feeble-minded and two epileptic children for treatment

In Probate Court, Judge Hatfield permitted five persons to change their names, admitted thirty-five new deceased estates to probate, appointed guardians for five minors, declared four adults incompetent and seven others insane, closed forty-one old estates, sold thirteen pieces of real estate, approved two dians, issued two secret marriage licenses and performed both ceremonies, ordered five sons to care for an aged mother, dismissed a Cemetery Condemnation proceedings, appointed two members to the Berrien County Tax Allocation Board, ordered a father to provide an adequate home for his children, contacted the British Consul on two deceased matters where the heirs live in England, heard evidence where an insane adult asked to be restored to soundness of mind, approved the inheritance tax levies in eighteen estates, authorized the purchase of seventy thousand dollars worth of first mortgages and Government bonds, by trustees and executors, approved seven applications for Notary licenses and acted on two matters as chairman of the Board of Review

State Commission Advises Localities on Law Enforcement

(Editor's Note—This is an article from the Michigan Liquor Control Commission, designed to acquaint you with problems of liquor law enforcement and what you as a citizen can do to make conditions more to your liking in your community)

In these war days, demands come to the Michigan Liquor Control Commission for a tightening of enforcement. The Commission is entirely in sympathy with these demands. It believes its rules and regulations entirely fair and it holds no brief for those who deliberately violate them. However, rumors of our present liquor laws never meant the Commission to be the enforcement agency

Appropriations sufficient to provide only 15 investigators have been given us That allows one investigator for all of the Upper Peninsula, two for that area of the Lower Peninsula north of the BayCity-Muskegon line. Obviously, they can do little more than their routine work of answering complaints, making required inspections and investigating applicants for licenses your own local officers, the Commission is powerless. If minors are being served in your community, if gambling is allowed, lewd shows permitted, or other regulations violated—the Commission wants to know of it. It will see that action is taken. But first responsibility rests with your local officers and although the Commission stands ready at all times to call off an investigator from routine work and assign him to investigate a complaint, it would prefer that citations for violations come through your sheriff or chief of police

Experience in other states has proven that most effective enforcement is obtained through enforcement agents operating directly under the Commission—Ohio has 125 such enforcement agents and Pennsylvania even more compared to Michigan's 15

If you are dissatisfied with present conditions in your locality, demand of your city council or township board that license fees returned to them be used for enforcement You can make specific complaints to the Commission or you can ask your representatives in the Legislature to amend the law or appropriate sufficient funds to provide for an adequate enforcement agency

Next week, exact power of local authorities over granting and revocation of Licenses and permits for dancing so every citizen may know to whom to appeal for correction of any condition needing attention will be outlined

U. of M. to Offer Army Pilot Course In Summer Session

A new course, designed to help speed up the training of navigators for the Army Air Force, will be presented during the University of Michigan's new summer term which starts June 15

Entitled "Mathematics 20 Air Navigation," the course will be taught by Prof Harry C Carver, a member of the University's mathematics department, who has mapped out the new course at the request of the War Department Professor Carver enrolled February 7 as a cadet in the Air Force, under special authority from the Secretary of War He has spent seven weeks in training at Kelly Field in Texas and the course in air navigation he has planned is based upon his actual experience

The air navigation course will be presented only during the first eight weeks of the summer term When the course has been completed, Professor Carver plans to finish his Air Force training so as to be ready to return to the University for the fall term It is hoped that Mathematics 20 will be presented during the entire fall term

The new course is aimed to fit into the Army Air Force's newly announced Enlisted Reserve program, which provides for college student enlistments on a deferred service basis Chief aim of the University's pioneer effort in air navigation training will be to provide prospective air cadets with necessary fundamental training so that they will be better prepared when they enter the Army Air Force. Professor Carver also expresses hope that the pre-training provided by the new course ultimately will permit the Air Force to shorten its training program from 15 weeks to nine or ten weeks, thus greatly speeding up the process of turning out pilots.

Courses in mathematics now being offered at universities and colleges are not entirely suited for an navigation training, Professor Carver says While the mathematical concepts now taught form valuable background material for a prospective air cadet, he says, the mathematical procedure now being taught is not applicable With planes traveling at 300 miles or more per hour, he explains, speed is vital in air navigation, and training in the use of instruments and graphical devices to permit calculations from data which change constantly is a necessity

Professor Carver says a good basic training in physics and surveying would be very helpful to persons enrolling in Mathematics 20 He also strongly recommends that students taking the course simultaneously enroll for a course in meteorology

Efforts will be made to have instructors from the other colleges and universities attend the eight-weeks course this summer so that air navigation training may be offered at other schools

Machine Tools Made Local Apprentices Shown at Midland

Hugh Pierce, school-shop coordinator of apprentices, and George Chubb of the Clark Equipment company were guests of the Kiwanis club of Midland, Mich Tuesday of last week, having been invited there to display the exhibit of the products of local apprentices which had been shown the previous week in Detroit

George Chubb talked to the club on the value of the apprentice system to industrial companies, and the skills resulting in the interest of the national defense Apprentices projects which were exhibited were as follows: toolmaker's vice, Herbert Schwartz, sine bar, Lee Pierce, bell center punch, Allen Larson, planer gauge, Robert Six, cutter bit, Richard Troutfetter, angle plate, Albert Allis; parallel bars, John March, collet adapter fixture, Donald Snider, welding stress analyzer, Elmer Handley; automatically timed speed reducer, Jack Markham; apprentice meat cutter, Robert Koenigshof; hammer dies, Gerald Weaver; surface plate, Vern Longworth, miniature layout of domestic water system, Edward Myers, drafting exhibit, Charles Trapp

The exhibit had been shown the previous week at the annual convention of the Michigan Industrial Education Society at the Book-Cadillac hotel at Detroit They

"Red As A Beet" Is New Note In Facial Make-up

Liquid rouge—made from beet juice—may become a common place make up technique, home economic instructors at Central Michigan college predicted here today

Before the advent of the variety and inexpensive mass of rouges, powders and lip sticks, beet juice was used by many women as a face brightener and with the curling of certain make up products such a possibility would become a necessity

Leaders also pointed toward increased interest in adult cooking classes and community canning "bees" as strong follow-ups of the present defense effort

Rural areas in particular will lend themselves to community canning projects which might be conducted on a basis similar to a threshing day. Cooperation from a group of women could eliminate considerable work by one housewife and increase the amount of vegetables and fruits that could be canned

Students at Central Michigan who will soon become instructors in the home economics field were being told how to buy more wisely and how to conserve what they already have

"Purchase uniform size cans," Miss Pauline Rogers, home economics instructor, is telling her classes, "so that the can tops can be used on mason jars."

As one of the fields most vitally hit by the teacher shortage high school girls were being encouraged to seek home economics degrees to alleviate the serious lack of instructors Under the newly adopted program, which includes summer school, students may now complete four years of college in three and secure the same amount of undergraduate work

Meanwhile classes were discussing other shortages this week listing 11 that would materially affect the average Michigan family Rubber tires, of course, will curtail driving, wool will lessen durability of blankets and clothing and hosiery yarns are lacking. Other shortages are being felt in rayon, cotton, nylon, leather, metals, tin, cans, dry cleaning fluids and dyes.

Old skills will have to be redeveloped and techniques grandmother used to have are going to be in vogue again, Miss Freddie Link, home economics instructor pointed out

"And it may mean we are going back to real old fashioned dinners of cooked fresh fruits and vegetables instead of heated tin can products," she said

Sunday service at 11:00 a. m. Subject, "Adam and Fallen Man." Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. Wednesday evening at 7:45. The reading room in the church is open each Wednesday afternoon from 2 until 4 o'clock.

Christian Science Churches
"Adam and Fallen Man" will be the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, May 10. The Golden Text (Hosea 14 1) is "O Israel, return unto the Lord thy God, for thou hast fallen by thine iniquity."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Genesis 1 27,31): "So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him, male and female created he them. And God saw everything that he had made, and behold, it was very good."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p 470): "The standard of perfection was originally God and man. Has God taken down His own standard, and has man fallen? God is the creator of man, and the divine Principle of man remaining perfect, the divine idea or reflection, man, remains perfect."

SARMIENTO—The 'Schoolmaster'— Famous President of Argentina

Domingo Faustino Sarmiento

By EDWARD C. JOHNSTON

TO Domingo Faustino Sarmiento can be traced most of the fundamental bases of present Argentine life. Iron-jawed opposition leader, exile, deputy, senator diplomat, general, President of the Republic, he had only one motto, the teaching of the ignorant.

Born in 1811, Sarmiento was truly a son of the revolution. For the previous year the Spanish colonies had declared their independence from the mother empire.

Joseph Bonaparte, King of Spain, by appointment of his nephew Napoleon immediately.

Sarmiento's life took on that adventurous and adventurous character it would have to the end his father migrated to Chile. And it was in the neighboring province of Chile that the young Argentine grew up, and worked first as a small retail merchant, then as clerk and later as a mine operator.

No schooling was available. Nevertheless, Sarmiento, like the ABC Lincoln whose biography he was to write later, found time and opportunity to read and learn. In 1836, he returned to Argentina and opened a school for young women in his home town of San Juan.

Beginning in 1829 the notorious dictator Rosas dominated the whole country by controlling the fountain head—then as now—of all Argentine life, the city of Buenos Aires.

Started Liberal Newspaper

Two years were enough for Sarmiento and he returned to Chile in a hurry, having meanwhile been in jail for opposing the dictator. In Chile, he engaged in journalism, founding a liberal paper which ceaselessly attacked the Rosas regime and tactics. All this time, however, Sarmiento had been showing that while he deserved consideration as a journalist and writer, his real work was education. In 1842 he founded in Chile, the first normal school in Latin America.

From this point on, education was the real interest in Sarmiento's life. As Mrs. Horace Mann says, "The education of the people, adventures and political activity; diplomacy, study abroad or warring; all meant to Sarmiento only the fulfillment of his creed, that public education is the only basis of a republic."

Sarmiento participated in the revolution led by General Urquiza which overthrew the Rosas dictatorship at the battle of Caseros in 1852. He was then made minister of public instruction.

There were at that time no schools to speak of in the Argentine. The principle of universal education which today one takes for granted had not caught on. There were a couple of universities specializing in theology and law and the parochial schools maintained by the Church. Yet governors of states needed to learn to read and write; the young republic was crying for administrators, technicians, agriculturists. Education of the people meant literally the education of a nation, and Sarmiento threw himself into his life's work.

Finally in 1865 he was appointed Minister to the United States.

Admired Horace Mann

Horace Mann, crusading New England educator and first president of Antioch College, had died years previously after profoundly affecting the course of education in the United States. He advocated free public schools at Antioch College which instituted co-education and non-sectarian instruction in higher education.

Sarmiento had met Mann and knew the work that he had been doing. The fighting qualities of the American appealed to the Argentine. Like Mann, he saw education as the duty of the government and the foundation of freedom and prosperity.

So convinced was he of the rightness of his views, that while in this country, Sarmiento wrote a small book entitled "Education basis of prosperity in the United States."

Mary Peabody Mann, the good doctor's widow and an educator in her own right, translated into English what is said to be Argentina's greatest literary work Sarmiento's Facundo. It was Mrs. Mann's influence which brought Sarmiento into closer touch with her late husband's work and as she writes, it was in the name of Horace Mann, that Sarmiento on returning to the Argentine introduced the common school system in his country.

Sarmiento thus forms a link through education between Chile, the United States and Argentina. It was Chile which first gave asylum to the young exiled "Schoolmaster"—a title which he prized above any—and allowed him, to begin his brilliant career.

His stay in Washington as Argentine Minister was fairly short. Arriving immediately after the close of the Civil War, Sarmiento was witness to the havoc that conflict had caused. He also saw the beginning of the reconstruction period and during his stay here, he found time to write a short biography of Abraham Lincoln. Politically also, Sarmiento was influenced by his mission in Washington, for contact with the operation of the federal system in the United States brought him around to advocating it also in Argentina, where today it is the basis of constitutional life.

Diplomacy, however, was only an interlude in Sarmiento's career. Chosen as a compromise candidate, he was elected in his absence to the Presidency of the Argentine. Though he brought an end to the costly and bloody war of the Triple Alliance against Paraguay, typically enough it is his work as "Schoolmaster" which stands out on reviewing his tenure of office.

Founder of School System

It has been rightly said that Domingo Faustino Sarmiento is the father of the Argentine school system. His country knows and loves the irascible old man who had no patience with ignorance, and is aware that he is directly responsible for Argentina having one of the most complete and advanced school systems in the world. He was a prophet of free public education. Today we accept this as an everyday necessity, but his life and that of Horace Mann both show that they suffered the bitterest kind of opposition and attack. Sarmiento cast the mold of Argentine education, and thereby of Argentine thought.

Sarmiento's genius resides in having been ahead of his time. He personified progress and that lively spirit of inquiry which is typical of his countrymen today, what Ricardo Rojas' great Argentine critic and writer calls, "the anarchistic individuality of the Argentine character." Sarmiento had no theory to sell. His only aim was to make the people enlightened, democratic, modern, whether in Chile, the United States or Argentina.

Sarmiento's life was like that of Chaucer's scholar "Fau would I learn and gladly teach." He did both.

Included in the plans is a convention of the 21 "wings" in U. S. before the end of 1942.

Martial law was declared in the Singapore area shortly after the first attack by Japanese invaders.

As the pinata in this case was an effigy of Hitler, Jacques found new strength in his arm.

We will all have to do without new automobile tires for the present. Next best thing is a re-treading job on your old ones, if they are too smooth for safety. At the right is shown how a worn-out tire compares with one that has just been given a face lift, or a new tread. The recapped tire is at left; the old "smoothy" beside it.
