On Donkeys and Turtles At the old Liska home near the corner of the old Galien and Dayton roads,

My dear Mrs Paul The Navy Department fully appreciates your great anxiety concerning your son, Vallentyne Lester Paul,

It is reported that some of the neighbors who are very strict Republicans are much irritated by the sight of the Liska boys trailing around the neighborhood with a couple of Democrat emblems hitched to a buggy.

Just to the south of the Liska home is the Martin Gilbert home. Recently Mrs. Martin Gilbert made a curious find out in the yard near her house.

The find of this old turtle reminds us of two others. Four years ago a turtle was found on the Frank Lamb farm near Dayton with the inscription BED 1938 and underneath it another RWD, accompanied by a letter date which we cannot remember.

The prize find of this sort was the turtle known as "King Tut" a resident for many years of the old Montague farm on Moccasin Bluff.

Then, in the early nineties, King Tut was found again by the late Clint Montague, then a boy living on the place. He inscribed his initials and the date. This was

Navy Dept. Sends Official News Of His Death

Was Killed at Cavite On Dec. 10; 3 Days After Opening of War

Memorial services were held at the Methodist Church at 2 30 p m Sunday for the late Vallentyne Lester Paul, of whose death in action official news had been received by his mother, Mrs Ade-

Rev Charles Hahn delivered the sermon, citing the fact that as a boy young Paul had been a member of the church and Sunday school and of the choir. Attending in a body were members of the Paul E Thurston Navy Mothers Club and the VFW Auxiliary.

Vallentyne Lester Paul, 20, was born July 8, 1921, at Cutbank, Montana. He came here with the family at the age of four from Duluth, Minn., and grew up in Buchanan.

He would have been graduated from the Buchanan high school with the class of 1940 but he enlisted in the navy on March 15 of that year. After a training period at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, he was first assigned to the crew of the U S Carrier, Concord.

Or the walls of the living room of his home at 508 South Oak is a picture of the boy taken in Duluth at the age of four, attired in a sailor suit. His mother said that they lived near the ore docks at Duluth and that it was the boy's constant delight there to sit in the window of his home and watch the big freight ships in the harbor.

The letter given below tells all that is known regarding his death.

June 29, 1942 My dear Mrs Paul The Navy Department fully appreciates your great anxiety concerning your son, Vallentyne Lester Paul, and regrets the delay in communicating with you.

It now falls the sad duty of this Bureau to advise that your son with three of his shipmates, members of the crew of the U S S Sea Lion, lost their lives as result of enemy action upon the invasion of Cavite, Philippine Island, on December 10, 1941.

His body, if recovered, would have, of necessity, been buried in the Philippine Islands, but inasmuch as Corregidor last defense in the Philippine Island, capitulated on May 6, 1942, definite information as to place of interment will perhaps not be available pending cessation of hostilities.

The first report or rumor received in the Department indicating that your son was other than alive and well was from your son's friend, Miss Norma Baleyat, Box 1058, New Carlisle, Ind., who had written to your son, her letter being returned marked, deceased.

In view of this fact, the Bureau, through mindful of the restricted communication facilities, requested verification which has just been received by radiogram and confirms the death of your son.

The great delay in securing definite information relative to your son is deeply regretted, but it is hoped you will realize that the Navy Department is experiencing considerable difficulty in gaining accurate reports on the personnel, and commends you for your patience and understanding.

Taking this opportunity to extend to you my sincere sympathy in your deep sorrow, I am, Sincerely yours, Rear Admiral Randall Jacobs, USN, The Chief of Naval Personnel

Letter from Secretary Knox July 2, 1942 My dear Mrs Paul: I desire to offer to you my personal condolence in the death of your son, Vallentyne Lester Paul, United States Navy Third Class, which occurred on December 10th, 1942, by enemy action while attached to

YOUR HELP IS WANTED FOR THE USO

The attention of Buchanan people is called to the drive for a $1,200 quota for the USO which is now continuing in this city.

It is reported that Buchanan is lagging in this drive. The quota for the nation is $32,000,000; the quota for Berrien County is $20,000, of which the "twin cities," Benton Harbor and St Joseph, have accepted a half, or $10,000.

It has not been the custom of Buchanan in the past to lag in subscriptions to worthwhile enterprises, and the community has gone "over the top" in many of these none have been more worthy than the USO.

The money spent for USO is well spent for worth-while objectives. If you don't think so, ask a soldier or ask a soldier's mother or dad.

To date the funds have been mainly collected by representatives of the American Legion and Legion Auxiliary. The booth at the bank for the collection of funds was under the supervision of the Legion Auxiliary instead of the V F W Auxiliary as erroneously reported last week. However, members of both organizations worked in the booth and both have contributed to the fund.

Maintenance of Auxiliary representatives at the bank has been discontinued but all who wish to help in this most worthy cause are asked to mail their checks or other donations to Oscar Swartz or Harold C Stark, in-charge of the drive, or to leave their contribution with Arthur Allen at the Allen Hardware.

Buchanan Library Gets $162 Check From State Fund

The Buchanan Public Library today received a check for $162.94 from the State Board for Libraries. This representing the final payment on a grant of $200.24 from the General Library Fund.

A year ago this month Governor Murray D Van Wagener signed the bill which made state aid for public libraries legal in Michigan. For the year 1941-42 the legislature has provided $250,000 to improve existing libraries in the state and to develop new service.

The total allotment for grants from the General Library Fund amounts to $182,500, by far the largest proportion of the state aid monies. Remaining funds are being used to establish five new county libraries—in Isosco, Mason, Muskegon, Van Buren, and Wexford counties—and to equalize library resources in all parts of the state.

To be eligible for its share in the General Library Fund, the Buchanan Public Library had to have an appropriation during its last fiscal year preceding July 1, 1941, equal to or more than the average of the last three fiscal years.

Unprecedented war-time demands make the state-aid grants doubly welcome. Practically every Michigan library is setting up its books and staff to serve as a war information center where civilians find the latest information on such essentials as home defense, first aid, nursing, feeding the family, gardening, and food preservation.

In many libraries, defense workers are sweeping the shelves bare of technical books. Foremen and instructors ask help in retaining employees. Housewives seek aid in stretching the household dollar.

Palatable recipes which go lightly on the sugar bowl; substitutes for rationed and scarce commodities, budgeting to meet the higher cost of living, guidance to parents with war-time problems, vacation plans which spare gasoline and tires, and consumer buying hints—these and many similar questions are being given substantial answers at public libraries since the nation tightened its belt at Pearl Harbor.

Report Record For Births Within City During Month June

A record monthly registration of local births was reported by City Clerk, Harry Post, with a total of 13 for the month of June. The meaning of these figures is that this number is a record for monthly births that occurred within the city of Buchanan during the period in which Mr Post has served as clerk. Babies which are born at hospitals in other cities or places are not reported to the Buchanan city clerk but to the clerk of the city in which the birth occurs. These local births for June were divided as follows according to sex: girls seven, boys six. There were five deaths in the city during June, 3 males and two females.

Buchanan Making Good Showing With Rubber Scrap Drive

John Nelson reports a total of 25,000 pounds of scrap rubber in the scrap pile on the Buchanan Co-op grounds immediately south of the I&M headquarters. The drive is still continuing and Mr. Nelson says that he expects to get not less than 30,000. The total from the community will doubtless crowd the 35,000 pound goal which was set, which is quite a satisfactory record.

Monthly Quota Sale War Stamps Set at $4,534

The quota of Buchanan for the sale of war stamps and bonds in the "Retailers For Victory" Campaign each month for the next ten months until May 1, 1943 is $4,534, according to a letter received by Joseph Roti Roti, local chairman, from the county chairman, Loren D Troost, St Joseph.

Co. Chairman Troost Writes In Explanation of Campaign

The quota of Buchanan and of other larger Michigan communities has been worked out on the basis of the 1939 retail sales census. Although at first sight the quota of $4,534 may seem large for the month, it is actually slightly under a dollar-per-capita. Since this is not a donation but a savings investment, the quota is actually surprisingly low and it should be met easily.

Wood Ducks Make Nest in Barn at Herman Ott Farm

A pair of wood ducks built their nest in a barn on the Herman Ott farm this year and unmolested have hatched their young. This is unusual because the wood ducks usually choose a hollow tree near a stream or lake for their nests. There is a stream and pond near the barn, however, and the ducks selected a timber high in the hay loft of the barn for their nest. When discovered there were two ducklings in the nest.

Bolivia—Heart of the New World
Six countries claim Simon Bolivar as liberator, but only one of them took his name. The Republic of Bolivia is one of two inland countries of the South American continent, and this fact has played no small part in the drama of her struggle toward an important place in the family of American nations.
Bolivia lies in the very heart of South America, between the Equator and the Tropic of Capricorn. To the north and east is Brazil, and to the southeast, Paraguay, to the south is Argentina and to the west, Chile and Peru. Between Bolivia and the Atlantic are vast forested plains, and toward the Pacific, forbidding mountain barriers. Her domain embraces 410,000 square miles, her population about 3,500,000 persons.
Before the Spanish conquests Bolivia was a part of the ancient Inca empire, a mountain fastness peopled by Indian tribes. Their subjugation was of a piece with Francisco Pizarro's conquest of Peru. Spurred by rumors of vast stores of gold in the mountains, repeated expeditions were made, notably by a companion of Pizarro, and by two of his brothers, Hermande and Gonzalo Pizarro.
By direction of Pizarro the notorious "encomienda" system was introduced. For upwards of three centuries the native Bolivians were forced to live under resident governors who did much as they pleased with the more humane decrees of the Spanish Crown.

At last a spirit of revolt, drawing its inspiration from the American colonies and the French revolutions, burst into flame. The Spanish governor was imprisoned and independence proclaimed. But the early revolutionists were soon captured and for fifteen years there was a dark and uncertain period of guerilla warfare.
Finally, in 1821, the tide turned for the revolutionists when news came of the victories of Bolivar and San Martin. In 1825 the Spanish authorities fled La Paz and the next year the new State adopted a constitution. It was drawn by Bolivar himself, and the new-born republic became Bolivia.
The Bolivia of today is a great storehouse of natural wealth. Though tin, by a wide margin, takes first place among mineral deposits, Bolivia has to offer also supplies of wolfram, antimony, silver, zinc, lead, copper, gold and bismuth.
Half of Lake Titicaca is claimed by Bolivia. Ships that ply its waters formerly were built elsewhere, dismantled, shipped, and reassembled on the mountain lake. At an altitude of 12,500 feet, Titicaca is the largest South American lake, and the highest steampowered body of water in the world. Its facilities are essential to the economy of this Andean land.

Lacking a seacoast of its own, Bolivia nevertheless has access to three Pacific ports, and it is possible, though impracticable, to reach her by a 2,000 mile voyage from the Atlantic up the Amazon and Madeira rivers. Commerce deposited at Mollendo, Peru, reaches her markets by rail and water, while the Chilean ports of Arica and Antofagasta, by rail, are open to her exports. On these docks in other days it was not unusual to see tin, awaiting shipment to smelting plants in England, lying beside processed tin that had travelled from Malayan and East Asian mines for use in a country that produces one-third of the world's raw metal.
If, largely because of the rugged character of the terrain and difficulties of transport, Bolivian agriculture falls short of meeting the country's needs, there are large areas awaiting the farmer

To be sure, Bolivia can export surpluses of nuts, hides, rubber, cinchona bark and coca leaves, but there must come in, as yet, supplies of foodstuffs, especially of livestock, wheat and sugar, as well as machinery, tools, farm implements, automobiles and trucks, petroleum and its products.
The United States is the leading exporter to this uniquely beautiful country which, though one of the richest potentially, must still look to its neighbors for many supplies.

home recreation and community advancement.

Among the 26,766 rural home-makers enrolled in 1941 there were such items as $140,380 in foods canned or otherwise preserved, $20,000 saved on clothing by using suggestions offered, more than 11,000 mattresses made from cotton supplied by the federal government, $70,600 saved on house furnishings by taking the tips offered in the year's program.

Farm economists had their innings during the year. Those who assisted farmers in various phases of agricultural economics reported some of these results. They assisted farmers in purchasing more than a million dollars of livestock feed and more than half a million in fertilizers and seeds. Dairy products worth $4,463,000 were sold by associations or groups organized or assisted during the year.

Hersey river, when a pipe line storage tank overflowed and the proper dike required by the rules and regulations had not been adequately maintained.

At the request of the conservation department the attorney general started suit November 26, presenting evidence that the loss of oil was avoidable and that the company failed to act immediately to end the pollution. Judge Leiland Carr of the Ingham county circuit court imposed the $1,000 fine May 7.

When the case was completed, more than 200 legal size oil-killed trout held as evidence were dumped from a Mt Pleasant freezer.

MSC Pays Its Way In Service to Farms

Just in the control of insects a savings of $4,087,000 was effected in 1941 by Michigan farmers who followed suggestions of the extension service of Michigan State college.

On a dollar basis alone, the activities of the federal-state extension service in agriculture and home economics return manyfold the amount invested in the service annually by the state's taxpayers.

Proof of that is found in a summary completed recently on the activities in 1941 of such staff members as county agricultural agents, 4-H Club agents, home demonstration agents and subject matter specialists on the college staff.

How many families in Michigan received some of these dividends? The summary indicates that a total of 115,476 different farm families were influenced by some phase of the extension program designed to give such families some measure of a better rural life from more income, less need—expense, more adequate diets, advice on clothing, furniture,

Pipeline Co. Fined $1,000 For Trout Stream Damage

Damage to trout fishing in two central Michigan trout streams by avoidable pollution cost the Leonard Pipe Line company a $1,000 fine at the conclusion of a suit filed at the request of the state conservation department.

Oil from breaks in a six-inch pipe line covered the surface of the West Branch of Cedar river northwest of Harrison for a distance of three miles November 6 and 7, 1941, killing hundreds of trout. Oil was lost also on November 13 just north of Reed City on Kinney creek, a tributary of Here's Proposition (Continued from Page 1) about thirty years after DeMont signed his initial thereon. Then about thirty years later another initial was inscribed. Old King Tut was usually found during these years on the old Montague farm, now owned by Sult brothers. While the place was owned by Eliza Clark of Battle Creek he learned that the turtle had crossed the river and had been picked up by a Berrien Springs contractor engaged in constructing the Camp Waters Boy Scout building. Clark at once arranged to enter proceeding for replevin, on the grounds that the turtle was his property but trouble was avoided when the contractor agreed to restore him to home premises. It is said, how reliably we do not know, that Mr. Clark was wont to go out to the edge of the woods when visiting the farm and emit a peculiar whistle, whereon there would shortly be heard a rustling in the underbrush and soon King Tut would race madly out into the clearing to greet him. King Tut has not been seen, to this writer's knowledge, for several years. It may be that the perambulating business cad of all the old time residents of the Bluff is no more.

Standard Oil Co. Ads Will Promote Auto Conservation. Although concentrating on war production of fuel and lubricants for the armed forces, war industries and the farm front, Standard Oil Company of Indiana will continue advertising to the motoring public in 1942 by promoting car conservation, it was announced today by John Nelson, Buchanan Standard agent. "Newspapers, as before, will receive most of the advertising," Mr. Nelson declared. "The spring and summer campaign will feature case histories of how motorists are achieving maximum mileage from their tires and automobiles." A total of 1,8816 newspapers with a combined circulation of 14,625,139 will carry the advertising in the thirteen states in the middle-west in which the company markets. This consists of 1,276 weekly papers, including the Berrien County Record, and 540 daily papers. The case history of a set of tires which has travelled 45,104 miles and is still in use opens the newspaper advertising campaign, which will feature large and attractive illustrations and catchy headlines, Mr. Nelson said. A car purchased in 1938 that is still travelling after 109,555 miles will furnish another case history, and the importance of quality gasoline and oil, accurate tire gauges and the Standard Oil Dealers' Tire-Life Estimator Chart for such car conservation will be explained. In radio broadcasts beginning April 27 Standard of Indiana will award United States war bonds to farmers for outstanding agricultural accomplishments. Everett Mitnell, well known farm news commentator, will also be heard with farm news during the broadcasts at noon time six times a week for thirteen weeks over 90 radio stations.

With The Boys In Service. Donald Dillavou of Camp Bullis, Texas, is spending a furlough of two weeks at the home of his mother, Mrs Ella Dillavou. Tells About Mail Call. Everett J. Meile arrived home Tuesday from a visit of two weeks with his son, Walter Meile, at Camp Robinson, near Little Rock, Ark. During the two weeks he was there he was permitted to eat a part of his meals at the mess table where his son ate, and to attend field target practice and maneuvers. One of the interesting sights, Meile stated, was the daily "mail call", when mail is distributed to each company separately. The disappointment of men who did not receive mail was very apparent on their faces. "You don't know how much it means to a fellow in camp to get a letter at mail call, and what it means not to get a letter," said one of the young soldiers. The 35,000 soldiers at Camp Robinson had just bought $100,000 in U. S. War Bonds.

The state treasury is enriched by $1,691.37 as the Michigan Bell Telephone Company makes its semi-annual property tax payment to the Primary School Fund. The company's total State and Federal tax bill for 1941 reached a record peak of $9,826,000.

The state treasury today was enriched by $1,691.37 as the Michigan Bell Telephone Company made its semi-annual property tax payment into the Primary School Fund.

Frank L. Hall tax attorney for the company, this morning presented the check for the largest half year tax payment in the history of the company to Louis M. Nims, commissioner of the Michigan Department of Revenue. It marked the first time the check was handed to that official previous payments having been made to the auditor-general. Under the new Revenue Act, state tax collection duties are consolidated in the newly-created Department of Revenue. Hall said that the company's 1941 total tax bill vaulted to a new peak of $9,826,000, or nearly $2,000,000 above the previous high, which was reached the year before. Of the total, $9,294,000 or more than 17% of the company's revenue was chargeable to operating expenses. That amounted to a tax of $10.59 per average telephone during the year, compared with $9.71 for 1940.

The company's Michigan property tax of $3,382,743 thus was only about a third of the total 1941 tax bill. Other levies included $5,148,000 in Federal income and capital stock taxes, $713,000 in social security taxes to the Federal income and capital stock taxes, $713,000 in social security taxes to the Federal and state governments, and $50,000 in miscellaneous levies, chiefly municipal taxes on company properties not used at present for telephone purposes.

The Michigan Bell property tax is the largest single payment into the Primary School Fund. Taxes paid into that fund are returned for school purposes to the 83 counties in proportion to their school population.

Final payment on the company's $3,382,743 state property tax is due by October 31.

HOLLYWOOD

Jane Turns Romantic

In Jane Withers' latest picture for 20th Century-Fox, "Young America," the romantic angle receives greater attention than in her previous films—a plan devised by the studio to make the young actress grow up in pictures as she is in real life.

"Young America," which deals with the activities of the 4-H Clubs, a national organization of farm youngsters supported by the government, will be seen on the Hollywood screen Friday and Saturday, July 10-11.

Weaver Brothers Again on Screen Those ace comedians, the Weaver Brothers and Elvira, will appear at the Hollywood theatre Friday and Saturday, July 10-11 in the new Republic picture, "Shepherd of the Ozarks."

The Weavers are seen as the leading citizens of a backwoods village whose peaceful existence is suddenly shattered by the complications which develop when a deposit of aluminum-bearing bauxite ore is discovered in the area.

As in all of the Weaver's previous pictures, comedy and music predominate in "Shepherd of the Ozarks." The excellent supporting cast includes such favorites as Marilyn Hare, Frank Albertson, Thurston Hall, Johnny Arthur, and William Haade.

Moths and Menjous are Mortal Enemies

The appearance of a moth in a closet of Adolphe Menjou's home a short time ago disrupted the entire household and will cost the screen's best-dressed actor $500 before the incident is forgotten.

The moth ruined a top coat which Menjou had recently purchased after starting work on 20th Century-Fox's "Roxie Hart," the Ginger Rogers starring vehicle due Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, July 11-12-13, at the Hollywood theatre. The popular actor immediately called in a group of exterminating engineers to go through the entire house with a de-mothing process.

Furniture, carpets and clothes underwent a cleaning as part of the safety measure to protect Menjou's famed wardrobe which he values at $30,000.

Virginia Bruce Aids War Workers While working at Universal studios in "Butch Minds the Baby," the Damon Runyon production to be shown at the Hollywood theatre Wednesday and Thursday, July 15-16, Virginia Bruce became a member of the American Women's Volunteer Service.

The chapter she joined has a full program of activities planned to raise money to purchase a mobile ambulance and canteen. Among her first contributors were Brod Crawford, Dick Foran, Potter Hall and Shemp Howard who were working with her in the picture.

Albert S. Rogell directed "Butch Minds the Baby" which is a screen version of Damon Runyon's favorite short story of the same title. Others in the cast of the colorful picture are Richard Lane, Fuzzy Knight, Rosina Galli and Grant Withers. Leonard Spigelgass wrote the screen play and cameraman Woody Bredell was in charge of cinematography.

Monatue Jap Battleship is Made For Film

Howard Lydecker, head of Republic Studio's Miniature Department, recently turned out one of the masterpieces of his career—only for the purpose of having it draw jeers and cat-calls from the nation's movie fans.

That's because it was a miniature Japanese battleship used in "Remember Pearl Harbor," the Republic action drama which comes Wednesday and Thursday, July 15-16, to the Hollywood theatre.

Built to scale, the ship has twenty-four feet long, seven feet high, and three feet and ten inches wide across the beam. It had dual airplane catapults, eight fourteen-inch guns, and six anti-aircraft guns. Constructed under Lydecker's supervision, it required eighteen men nine weeks to build.

It is apparently blown up in a climatic scene in "Remember Pearl Harbor"—but it will be visible on the screen long enough to let audiences boo it loudly and lustily.

5 Coast in neutral whenever possible and safe. It is illegal to coast in neutral in some states. However, whenever it is practical and safe, on gentle grades, shift to neutral and coast with throttle closed.

6. Use accelerator pedal gently. Let the other fellow beat you away from the lights—you'll be even with him again at the next one.

7 Select routes which have the least stops.

8 Drive at a uniform speed. 25 to 30 miles per hour will give you the maximum economy.

Observance of these points will give you every foot of economy built into your car, Pontiac points out and, at this point, you should be getting at least 55 or more miles for your three gallons of gas.

The last point will hit the mileage jackpot for you.

Willow Run Plant Getting Its Water From Driven Wells

The world's biggest bomber plant at Willow Run now has an abundance of fresh water—enough to supply a big city—located by the same efficient but unpretentious process that is available, free, to Michigan's humblest farmer drilling a well on his own place.

The bomber plant water supply was located in a bed of glacial gravel, and it is a similar bed of gravel that is now furnishing Inlay City with good water from a location drilled at the survey's suggestion, after people of the town had been drinking salty water for 52 years, from wells drilled deep into rock formations.

Only in a state abundantly supplied with large fresh water reserves could "hole punchers" and "driving rods" exports have found water so easily as they have in Michigan, survey geologists who make well locations in the field, declare. Since modern industries have begun requiring water in large amounts and growing cities have put tremendous demands upon their supply, however, a scientific search by expert "well makers" for a sufficient and dependable supply has been necessary.

There is scarcely a sizable city in the state that has not already taken advantage of the survey's maps and records, and still the survey is called upon to help find water in upwards of 50 new locations each year.

Often the survey is consulted only after searchers for waters have found the going tough. Michigan's three "toughest" areas for finding good supplies of fresh water are the Saginaw valley (where brine wells unplugged since the 1860's have polluted much of the supply with salt), the Monroe to Fort Huon stretch of old lake bottom (where water-bearing sands and gravels in the glacial "drift" are thin or absent, and water in the rock contains objectionable sulfur), and the western end of the upper peninsula (where the igneous rock, of course, contains no water).

Persons who wonder how pioneers ever could have been so thoughtless as to believe the supply of timber was inexhaustible may examine their own ideas about the supply of fresh ground water, which geologists say is not inexhaustible either. Much of Michigan's fresh water supply now comes from sand and gravel areas in the glacial "drift," the loose material deposited a hundred to a thousand feet deep on the bare rock and saturated by the melting of the glacial ice tens of thousands of years ago. While the reserve in some places is immense, the rate of use of Michigan water supplies is now increasing with great bounds, and rainfall is not balancing withdrawals.

Geologists foresee a distinct possibility that the use of ground water and underground water some day may have to be regulated in certain areas, especially for such uses as air-conditioning.

AND STANDARD OIL COMPANY (INDIANA)

Rubber... let's get it. Fast... and plenty of it! No matter who makes it or what it's made from!

We want to see America get the rubber it needs, whether natural or synthetic. We want America to get that rubber in the quantities required and in the shortest possible time, whether it is made out of petroleum, out of alcohol, dandelions, guayule, or sawdust. The main thing is to get the rubber!

Auto Engineers Tell How to Get 60 Mi. To Gallon

- By observing easy-to-follow rules the driver of an average automobile can stretch three gallons of gasoline over 180 miles of driving, according to a chart prepared by the Pontiac Motor Division's engineering department. The plan demands a perfectly serviced automobile and a driver converted to war-time driving. Observance of five major points will take care of the car. They are: 1. Keep engine in A-1 condition. It is surprising what a difference a valve grind, clean spark plugs, correct timing and a clean combustion chamber will make in gas economy, Pontiac points out. 2. Don't let tires drop below recommended pressures—they rob you of gasoline and wear out faster. 3. Maintain correct toe-in. Too much or too little causes scrubbing instead of rolling, eats up extra fuel, wears out tires. 4. See that brakes do not drag. 5. Use the lightest recommended oil in summer as well as winter. The driver has nine responsibilities. 1. Push out clutch and don't race motor when starting. 2. Get into high gear at about 16 m. p. h. 3. Use low and second gears less. Actual economy in low drops to between 2 1/2 and 9 miles per gallon. In second it tapers from 3 1/2 to 15 miles per gallon. 4. Anticipate stops and coast more. Use brakes less. It takes energy to bring your car up to cruising speed. When the brakes are applied a portion of that energy is lost in heat.

"Please send me 10c worth of electricity—today"

If YOU had to order your day's supply of electricity fresh every morning, you'd appreciate even more how little it costs and how much it does for you.

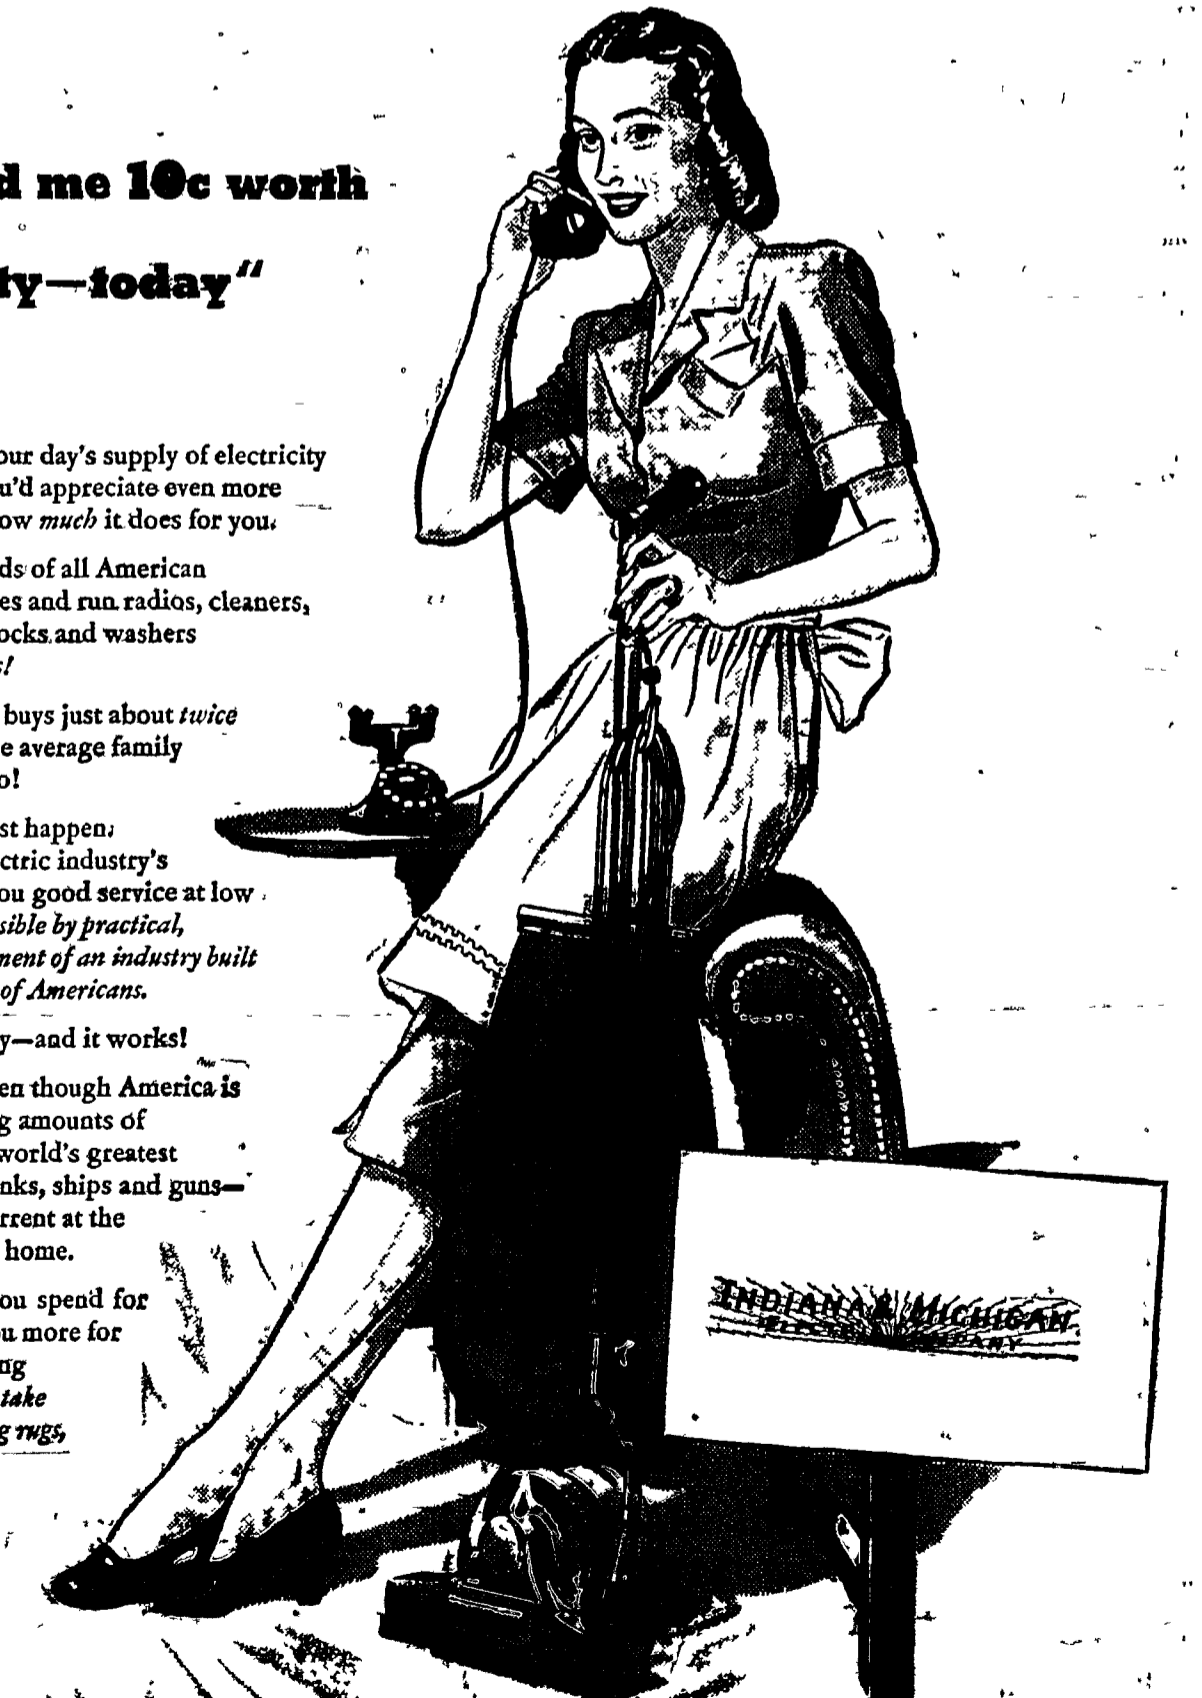

Actually, about two-thirds of all American families light their homes and run radios, cleaners, toasters, percolators, clocks and washers for a dime a day—or less!

These bargains don't just happen. They come from the electric industry's constant effort to give you good service at low rates. They are made possible by practical, efficient business management of an industry built by the savings of millions of Americans.

It works so well that even though America is pouring record-breaking amounts of electric power into the world's greatest production of planes, tanks, ships and guns—you still get low-cost current at the flick of a switch in your home.

Probably the pennies you spend for electric service bring you more for your money than anything else you buy. Would you take ten cents a day for beating rugs, scrubbing clothes and cleaning oil lamps?

U. S. Army Takes State Fair Ground For Military Use

With definite cancellation of the Michigan State fair because the army needs the use of the extensive grounds in Detroit, arrangements are rapidly going forward for staging the state fair livestock exhibits at 17 Michigan county fairs, while the annual state 4-H show is to be held at Michigan State college in East Lansing.

Approximately $28,500 in premium money is to be offered the state fair exhibits at the county fairs and an additional $6,500 will go to the 4-H show, the total of $35,000 representing an appropriation made by the legislature and administered by the state fair board of managers. The amount is 60 per cent of the premiums offered at the state fair in the livestock classes, the remaining 40 per cent having been made up from fair revenues, which will not be available this year.

The plan to distribute the state fair money at the county fairs was suggested by Leo V. Card, state commissioner of agriculture, when it became definite there would be no state exposition. So far as was possible, the livestock exhibits were allocated to the county fairs in accordance with the predominant breeds in their respective areas. The law provides that premium money be awarded to Michigan exhibits only.

Fairs participating in the melon include Northville, Charlotte, Jackson, Traverse City, Ionia, Ann Arbor, Marshall, Adrian, Ithaca, Mason, Caro, Hastings, Hartford, Centerville, Marne, Cornum and Hillsdale. It will be the first time in history that state fair exhibits will be seen at county fairs and state fair premium money distributed at the county shows.

Another special feature this year will be the national horse pulling show to be held for the time in Michigan at the Allegan county fair, premiums amounting to $2,600—the highest on record—will be offered and it is expected that more than 100 horses will be entered.

While the effect of the tire shortage and possible gasoline rationing on the fairs is still problematical, officials are hopeful of substantial attendances and it is expected that agricultural exhibits, including livestock, will be up to par, or possibly even better because of increased farm production this year.

Are you included in this list?

- ARE YOU directly or indirectly engaged in the production of war materials or the prosecution of the war?
- ARE YOU a physician, surgeon, nurse, veterinarian, derygman or farmer?
- DO YOU use your car in public service, such as fire or police, public health, highway maintenance work or the like?
- ARE YOU owner of a taxi-cab or other vital means of public transportation?
- ARE YOU a newspaper wholesaler, or a salesman in essential fields connected with war work?

THESE ARE the broad groups who are eligible under present rationing rules to buy new automobiles. There are other details of eligibility, of course, but if you are included in the above, it will pay you to see your Buick dealer now and get full information. Get the facts before you assume either that you can't or shouldn't buy a new car now!

Think things THROUGH on buying a new car! If you are Eligible under Newly Liberalized Rules it's Smart to BUY NOW! And here's why!

The Government wants us all to save gasoline.

The Government wants us to save rubber.

The Government also wants to make most efficient use of transportation facilities now available—including cars now built and ready for sale.

You do not help the country by continuing to "get along" on a car no longer fully efficient, safe or dependably able to serve you in any necessary use.

If you can qualify under latest rationing rules, you are recognized as an essential driver.

As such, you are not only entitled to your share of available gasoline and rubber, but are in reality expected to make the best use of them.

Your Buick dealer can show you that you can more efficiently do this in a brand-new, gas-thrifty, solidly dependable new 1942 Buick than in an older car which may have seen better days.

So before jumping at conclusions, get the whole story on new-car buying. Drop in on your Buick dealer for full details. He is at your service—any time.

If you're eligible to buy—
