Famous Goose Ordinance Up For Revision

Committee Lightens Clauses Dealing With Keepers of Poultry

The once-celebrated "goose ordinance" of the city of Buchanan became very much alive Monday evening when the city commission held a special meeting to consider active and potential complaints on the score to increased live stock holdings on the part of local citizens who were apparently attempting to take some of the sting out of the meat shortage.

The actual complaints concerned swine rather than geese. However the commission took cognizance of the fact that the ordinance of some 14 years standing really legislated against poultry keeping, rendering a considerable number liable to arrest.

The ordinance provided that stallions, goats, swine and poultry might not be kept within the city limits within 300 feet of other inhabited premises. The city board chose to mitigate the ordinance as far as poultry is concerned by reducing the distance from 300 to 30 feet.

The new ordinance drawn to correct the old also rules that complaints made be made only by owners or lessees actually residing on immediately adjoining premises.

The method of complaint is also changed. Instead of going through the ordinary misdemeanor channels of the police and the justice of the peace, complaints are to be routed through the city health officer, who will visit premises on complaint and determine whether the subject of such complaint really constitutes a nuisance and a threat to public health.

The limitations of the old ordinance on other live stock are changed by the new ordinance. It is now in process of drawing by City Attorney G. H. Batchelor and will be printed next week.

Asks Curtailment Of Long Distance Telephone Service

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company today renewed its appeal that the public sharply curtail its use of long distance service.

Citing a heavy increase in the volume of long distance calls over a year ago, George M. Welch, president of the company, said the situation has become critical.

Should the present rate of increase continue, he pointed out, the already overburdened toll lines would be called upon to handle nearly 47,000,000 calls this year, an increase of 12,000,000 over 1942 and double the peacetime traffic of 1939.

A great proportion of the calls being handled are vital to the progress of the war, although civilian use of the service also has increased greatly.

Welch asked that long distance be used only when really urgent, or when mails or other forms of communication cannot serve the purpose, and that users be brief in their calls.

He also urged such time-saving practices as holding the line after placing a call unless the operator requests otherwise, making "station" rather than "person" calls, giving the operator the number of the called telephone, and refraining from asking for reports on the progress of delayed calls.

"The burden of calls on many long distance lines has reached a critical stage," Welch said. "Central office equipment, fully manned with operators, is being used to capacity. Each unimportant call, regardless of its destination, affects the speed with which all other calls can be handled. Over some routes, many calls are delayed—some of them for hours. And the materials needed with which to expand the telephone system can't be had."

or about 1 to every 1500 of the people. We don't think these recreation halls were all outfitted with play and athletic equipment, but some were and most of them were available for basketball. The men in charge of the gymnasium told us that they had a church basketball league with about 10,000 players in Utah, of which a good part were in the city of Salt Lake.

Salt Lake City and Denver are two gems of cities, lying in that land somewhere west of where the West begins. Salt Lake City is the furthest west by some 500 or 600 miles but Denver is more so than Salt Lake. There were a lot more cowboys with beaver hats in Denver than in Salt Lake, although we saw most of the working cowboys we did see in eastern Utah. But when we got off the train on our return at Denver at 4 a. m. and went to a little restaurant, there was a line of men waiting to get down beside us, with a language full of ranch talk, a cross between Texas and up-state New York.

It seemed like home again.

A WOMAN ON DEFENSE

Do you know we hear a lot of women on defense, the things they do, with bolt and screw and iron that's really bent,

The woman's place is in the home, the man used to say. But now she grabs her pail and badge, goes to the factory every day.

We see in the papers "The Last Word" In defense worker's wear, While the men in oil Have to really toil, Well they just wouldn't dare.

And what can the poor bosses do, With so much feminism? With so much rant and rend, Like they do with the men, Or does it please their egotism.

It's a woman's world now I guess, She's to fight along with the axes.

A poor man sobs, It's not her job, We'll be glad when men take their places. —Contributed.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Just one more thing before you go, Judge. What is this thing called propaganda you hear so much talk about these days?" "I'll give you an example, Hank. Last night I was reading an interesting little book called 'Hitler is in Favor'. It told how Hitler would very much like to see Americans fighting among themselves over prohibition because that would create disunity, waste the time of Congress and legislatures in wet-dry arguments and cripple our war effort. It also mentioned a booklet written about Hitler's government telling how Hitler's gang wants to maintain contact with foreign temperance organizations and how it contributes annually to an international temperance union. "You can bet Hitler isn't interested in seeing prohibition advanced in our country for any reason except that he knows it's a good way to stir up trouble. That's what they mean by propaganda, Hank."

dancer whose desire for adventure has led her into marriage with a German Baron, who, unknown to her, is a fanatical Nazi. Her efforts to escape this alliance, aided by a clever news broadcaster, provide the exciting action-plot of the film, which was produced and directed by Leo McCarey.

American Income Rises 31 Cents; Living Costs Up 6 Cents Over 1942

PURCHASING POWER February, 1942 vs. February, 1943

THE above chart showing how the average American fared in national income changes in the last twelve months is based on the monthly consumers' study of Investors Syndicate of Minneapolis. The American public in February had a "real income" of $124, or an increase of twenty-four cents on the dollar over the same 1942 month. This "real income" is not a subtraction of cash income and expenditures but an average relative of these figures designed to show how living costs affect adjusted income dollars.

Lt. Richard Schram Has Fine Write-Up in Service Paper

The following article relative to Lt. Richard Schram is taken from the "Exhaust," the publication issued by the personnel of the naval air station at Glenview, Ill.

Horatio Alger spent a lifetime and turned out scores of little brown books trying to prove that perseverance and industry are the fond parents of achievement. Lieut. (jg) R. A. Schram, A&F officer at NAS, Glenview, proved the same theory in a lot less time with good solid action — and still hasn't written a book.

Richard Ainey Schram was born May 15, 1916, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Schram of Buchanan, Mich. While attending Buchanan High, he took a job, during after-school hours and on week ends, as an apprentice aircraft mechanic at the Municipal Airport in Niles, Mich., five miles distant. In his spare time he was also learning aircraft welding and wood working at nearby Heath Aircraft Corp. — and there in 1931 he learned to fly.

While at Heath, Mr. Schram designed and built a racing plane which won first place in the Century of Progress light aircraft races in 1933, at the old Curtiss-Reynolds airport, present site of NAS, Glenview. In 1934 at the Niles Municipal airport, Mr. Schram was an aircraft mechanic and ground school instructor. Also from 1933 to 1935, he was aviation editor of the South Bend News-Times. In January of 1935, he was appointed field superintendent with the Michigan Board of Aeronautics with Floyd Evans and Sheldon (Buck) Steers, now Colonel and Major respectively in the army air corps. Mr. Schram organized an aviation training program in twenty Michigan high schools.

Royal Inspection

Princess Elizabeth, elder daughter of King George of England, is shown inspecting the grenadier guards, famed regiment of which she is colonel. The princess wears the regimental cap badge in her hat. She was 17 years old on April 22.

On October 27, 1942, Commander G. A. T. Washburn obtained special promotion for Lt. Schram to Lieutenant, junior grade. With this promotion came a letter from the Secretary of the Navy. On March 1, 1943, Lt. Schram received his ALNAV promotion. Lieutenant Schram holds a full membership in the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences, awarded in recognition of the advancement to aviation made possible by his design of a TBF landing gear.

Of all improvements on aircraft for which Mr. Schram has been responsible, he is most proud of a new landing gear he designed for NEN's while at Glenview. This gear makes possible smoother landings and easier taxiing, and helps eliminate many landing hazards these planes formerly encountered. Lieutenant Schram was married to Miss Marjorie Weaver of Buchanan, Mich., on December 26, 1937. They have one son, Richard Weaver Schram, now nearly three. They live at 912 Glenwood Lane, Glenview.

Army Will Train Women Who Qualify As WAAC Members

The fact that unskilled women are needed by the WAAC as well as women with training was emphasized by Lt. Col. Archie B. Whitlow, district recruiting officer, today.

"Too many women interested in a full time job working for Uncle Sam are still asking themselves, 'but what can I do in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps?' Col. Whitlow said, "The Army," he continued, "takes it upon itself to train women in many vital, technical fields."

WAACs are being fitted for valuable work in photography for the army air forces. They are proving their worth in this work. Other examples include the WAAC administrative schools located at training centers and selected colleges. Enrollees are given six weeks training after their initial four weeks of basic instruction, if selected for the administrative school.

Others are learning the "ins and outs" of truck driving at the motor transport schools or to help feed the army in the cooks and bakers' section. Photographic laboratory technicians are trained at the army's famous school at Lowry Field, Colo., taking a 12 weeks course. Musicians of the four WAAC bands can attend the army music school at Fort Meyers, Va. A 13 week course is offered at the Midland Radio and Television School in Kansas City, Mo., where some fortunate recruits learn to be radio repair women and operators.

The WAAC actually is finding it difficult to fill all the requests to take over technical and specialized duties so that army commanders may be able to count upon more men for combat duty. Col. Whitlow reports that at least two years high school education, and with no dependents are needed by the women's army. They must be in good health and with approved character. Information on the organization can be found in Duchanau at 108 W. Rose st., where Velma Dunbar has booklets and applications.

SENIORS' FAREWELL

We are the seniors. Dignified and ready to face the blood-stained world. Our future is before us. It does not look bright or full of spicay adventures. All the spice of life has been rationed by old Mr. War. Yet, we must reach out and conquer anything blocking our paths as citizens and workers of the United States.

Looking back we remember a different America—full of too gay people. It is looking back that gives us the courage—the morale—to go on. We remember little things. Taking hikes in the Chamberlain hills when we were fresh, green eighth graders. What fun we had. And remember how proud we were to become freshmen, presenting our budding young athletes. Determined chaps, that they were. And, yes, our happy-go-lucky junior year full of gay laughter—maturing minds. Then—then came the arrogant pride in being seniors. Setting the example in school. In spite of Hitler and the Japs we kept the old school ticking. They couldn't run our spirit or our pride. These memories, all of them accumulated forming a permanent "scrapbook" in our minds. — We won't forget.

Commencement. We shall take our diplomas with hearts too full, and feeling quite strange and curious, take our places in the gigantic, frightening wheel of life. We shall say farewell Buchanan High School. Yes, we are the seniors.

Officers this last year were: President, Hervy Arrick; vice president, Zook Trapp; secretary, Mildred Rose; treasurer, Jim McIntire.

Seniors Go Hoss Backin' on Skip Day

Yippe! Get you six guns out! Where's my shootin' irons? That was before we got our achin' bones and burned up legs. Ah, our's was such a lovely peaceful life, no English, no western type saddles, no English type saddle, no nothin' that had to do with horses, worried us. Then came "skip day." Beeeew! We all became cowhands in two seconds flat. A little nervous at first we admit, after all horses are bigger than we are. They saddled the hosses' up and we were off. Over hill, over dale, we hit the muddy trail, and I'm not kiddin'.

Jack Green current mayor of St. Vitus Center just finished lassing some babies at a Mother's Convention. (Notice I'm not saying how old the babies were.) Marlin Meyers who is better known as Leslie Turman (get that, it's Turman not termite) blushed awfully yesterday when giving a speech before a group of women, one small but mighty false eye lash slipped.

Since the war is over now, I caught Lieutenant-General Zook Trapp, Brigadier-General George Roberts, Commanding Officer Speed McGowan, and Corporals Jim Morris and Ellsworth Maxon running in the now famed gunny sack races of Buchanan, Mich.

Phyllis Carlisle and David Van Every the great combination of governor and senator from the "dopey draps" state (Michigan) were arguing with senators Mary McNeil from the "some blonde" state (Indiana) and Barbara Hausman from the "spud state" (Idaho). You should see the congress since lady senators and representatives came into fashion. A mirror and vanity table stand every two feet down the aisles.

Orpha Swann and Bernice Heinhil won fishing honors in New York two weeks ago. I still don't quite understand everything I know it was something about a Brooklyn bridge, a good haul on suckers, and a trip up the river.

Lieutenant Dick Snodgrass got hurt in the first days of this last war. It seems he was stationed in the Bahamas and had his eye on some girl down there. It went on for about a month, I guess, when the girl finally got a little mad and threw Dick's eye right back at him.

I went and visited Catherine Babcock (it's not Babcock any more though, not since a certain "Yankee Red" came back from the Pacific). I found her at her new home and working as hard as the devil on some old fashioned machine called a "pun ball apparatus." She told me they used to be the craze when we were in high school. I can't really remember myself.

Bumped into Ruth Shtukas the other day while I was in Chicago. Poor kid, she's been having the worst of luck. She set fifty-two "man traps" (not counting the two I loaned her) and only one of them has worked successfully. But what she caught wasn't much good. It seems Gus Gremelin who had come in on a B19 was new in Chicago and forgot to watch where he was walkin' and he stepped right into trap 15. (That's the one where it breaks the guy's leg off and hits him over the head with the bloody stump.) Well, Ruth hung on to Gus Gremelin for a while, but finally had to let him go, as he was under size.

Emma Lee Skinner and Stella Mosler are battling each other for the affections of the movie star Roy Rajahs. The battle even went to court where Judge Art Elbers gave the decision as to which one should get Roy. Stella won by a hat pin. (Art now eats off the clock shelf.)

Annabelle Herman and Blanche Meyer the co-owners of Madison Circle Garden have a great boxing find in the person of Betty Hall. She's won her last sixty-five fights and now is ready to take on Tony Galento next week.

Albert Allis now famed fighting manager had this to say about "Betty the Kid." Quote "I never saw such a clean fighter fight so hard and dirty." Unquote.

Jessica Doak, that great character actress of stage and screen was a guest of mine last Wednesday. Jess, you know, appeared on the screen in "After the Ball is Over Let's Go Eat Some Hamburgers Loaded" (Pun for Thomas).

Jess and I went and visited Bob Koenigshof's meat market. Bob has had quite a bit of trouble lately. He was buying up hams right and left when he got a ham that was a little more hammy than the rest. In fact it had a name, Harold Hamilton, I think. Bob told Jess and me that as yet nobody wants to use them ration stamps on him.

Jo Ann Phillips and Mildred Rose struck gold in California but "Goldie" didn't like it so she struck right back at 'em. I saw Wilma Morgenthau walking down the street last Thursday. I tried to catch up with her but I got tired of jumping the "man traps" she was laying. I finally ducked down an alley and came out the other side in time to come face to face with "Morgie." She

I tried to catch up with her but I got tired of jumping the "man traps" she was laying. I finally ducked down an alley and came out the other side in time to come face to face with "Morgie." She took a look at my face, screamed and ran away yelling, "Where have I seen that hideous face before?" You see, she had forgotten me in the last years.

Went out to the Michiana Riding Stables to see Walter Reese, Dick Post, and Dale Shreve. I'm a tellin' ya pand'na that those cow hands are so bow legged that a subway, six trams, and a bus could run under them, and they'd never know it.

I unexpectedly bumped into Anna Mae Heney at the dime store. She was tearing out the swinging doors. After knocking me down, she turned around, picked me up, and glanced at my face "Geary!" she yelled, "Golly, I haven't got time now to talk, here here's my card. Look me up." She was off — down the street and out of sight. I glanced at the card, it read "Anna Mae's Shop Lifting Company, 404 East Side."

Bill Montgomery, Leigh Schwartz, and Neal Burks got their names in the paper for capturing an ape from a nearby circus. When the news first came over the radio, all three of the boys rushed over to my house. I finally convinced 'em I wasn't what they were looking for. Anyway it had been years since I'd been in a circus.

The boys finally captured the real one. Lila Evans, Laura Heirman, and Genevieve Davis, those famous Ziegfeld girls were seen night clubbing with Alvin (Make-a-Lunge) and Lyma (Spouting) Fountain, Clark (Ocean) Cable, and Robert (Needs a) Tayloring Florence and Norman Ferris that great sister and brother trap-eze act had an accident the other night. "Norm" don't look half bad swinging from the trapeze in a plaster cast.

The board of education had James Fagras bumped off. He knew too much. Doris Clinker and Berne Anderson (both are married now) played bridge last night over to Phyllis Zoleman's house. The girls were asked to go home by Phyllis in a most impolite way. But after all, you don't play bridge with trusty automatics such as "six guns."

Allen Larson and Elmer Hand-

They are now laid up in the hospital. They were helping a lady across the street. After they got her across the street, they found out she was no lady, she was Elmer's wife. (Oh take us back to vaudeville.)

Gerald Smith and Elwood Bowman are the heroes of today. In fact, every school child in Bucktown loves 'em. They both got to messing around with chemicals in the school lab — you guessed it — B. H. S. had one whole side blown out of it. The two boys were found swinging on a chandelier glaring at each other.

"Bill" Miller was elected president of the "Happy Father's Club." You know, I can't forget that.

Well, I've brought you the dope on "43's" angels and hope you don't think us all zany moronish looking beings.

You author of this choice bit of insaneness has been Dot Geary, who hopes that she will be able to continue writing for the rest of her life.

Signed, Dot Geary. P. S.—My apologies to my classmates for the above statements.

A History of the Senior Class

In 1939-40 the freshmen of B H S began to adjust themselves to high school life. They thought they were years older but they were still pretty green. They had one goal in view, Oh, to be a senior!

Their officers that year were President, Pete Dretzler, vice president, John Jerue, secretary, Robert Rumsey, treasurer, James Fagras.

In 1940-41 sophomores gaily trudged the halls of B H S. It was great to be alive, but they still had a higher claim. Oh, to be a senior!

dent, Bill Montgomery, vice president, Anna Mae Heney, secretary-treasurer, Jane Rotzen. In 1941-42 they began as juniors. This was the year they were pretty important. They had a play this year entitled "Young April" and, of course, they were hosts at the Jr-Sr prom. Yes, this year they were very busy. But still — they wanted to be seniors!

The officers were: President, Ruth Shtukas, vice president, Dale Shreve; secretary, James Fagras, treasurer, Arthur Elbers.

It was in 1942-43 they reached the goal. They were seniors! This was their really last year of high school life. They had "Mrs. Miniver" in play form this year and they also had a slap-day. On horse back.

"THE VOICE WITH A SMILE" HAS A NEW MESSAGE

Please limit your call to 5 minutes. Others are waiting.

EVEN in wartime, we'd like to give you prompt service on long distance calls. But telephone lines to many points now are overloaded, and urgent civilian calls often are delayed. When circuits are extra busy, and the operator requests you to limit your call to 5 minutes, please know it's because others are waiting. You can help speed the handling of all calls, including your own, if you make this your resolution: "I will make only absolutely necessary long distance calls. . . . If I must call long distance, I will be brief."

It was while I was smashing up some "rotten eggs" about a week ago, that I suddenly thought of the graduates of "43." What had happened to them since I'd seen 'em last? Well, I got to huntin' around and here my dear moron friends is what I found. Craig Robinson is with the Metropolitan Opera Company. They told me that when Craig sings he has to wear a mask. ## ... and how's YOUR sense of balance?

"Waste in War is a Crime. Do not waste Electricity just because it is not rationed."

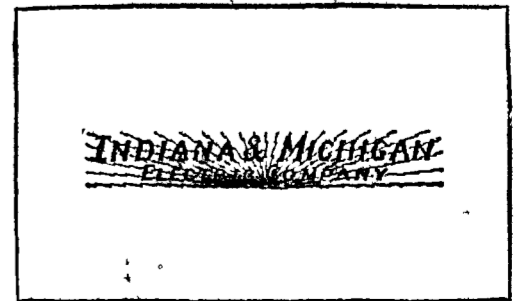

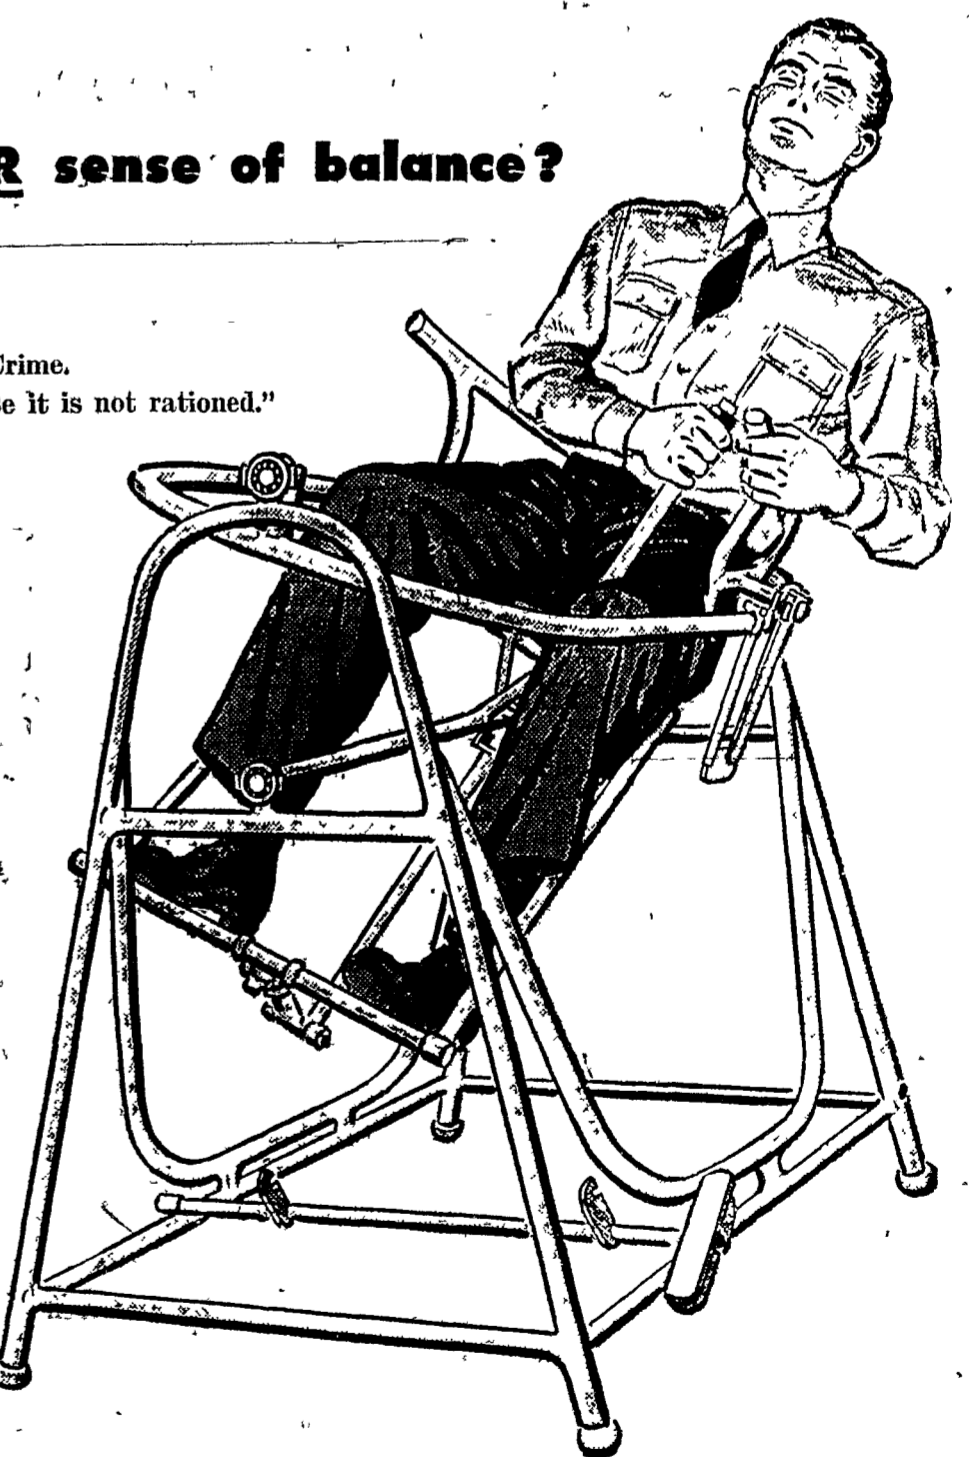

It looks like a carnival concession or an inventor's nightmare. But it's simply a balancing chair, used to test the equilibrium of Army Air Corps candidates.

Only a relatively few hand-picked Americans will ever try the balancing chair—but every last one of us is having our sense of balance tested under the mad whirl of war. It's a test of our ability to do our daily job, buy bonds, pay taxes, donate blood, spot planes, serve in Civilian Defense—and still keep an even keel. It's a test of individuals—and institutions—and industries.

We're rather proud of the way our industry—the electric power companies under business management—has met its greatest test. In the face of shortages in many fields, power production has been stepped up to take care of all war plants and all essential civilian needs!

Service is still good, rates still low. The average American home still gets twice as much electricity for its money as it did about 15 years ago—in spite of climbing costs and zooming taxes. Last year, the electric companies under business management produced 7/8 of all America's electric power, and paid $620,000,000 in taxes.

These are the accomplishments of experienced men and well-balanced management under public regulation—the system that made America great.

Advises on Summer Storage of Woolens

Adequate summer storage of woolens forms another phase in which Michigan housewives can share in the nation's patriotic efforts.

Remember the average man in the armed forces requires about 200 pounds of fleece wool for uniforms and blankets, also remember that the United States wool supply is limited and that good care of clothing is good economy at any time and especially in wartime, say members of the home economics extension service at Michigan State college.

For summer storage, the best advice is to put woolens away clean and free from pests Wool should be stored in a dark, dry, cool place. If the choice is between a hot, dry attic and a cool but damp basement, then the attic is best since dampness invites mildew Trunks, closets or heavy paper containers in which wool is stored should be tightly sealed.

Mending before severe damage occurs helps conserve woolens Gentle airing blows out stale odors and lifts the nap of woolen cloth Sun baths rout the moths, but bright sun may fade colors

Dirt is akin to insect pests in damaging wool Perspiration weakens wool Spots serve as bait for moths and grit helps cut through wool

Sudden temperature changes are harmful to wool In cleaning, wool should not be plunged into hot water Such a practice shrinks the mats and fibers Drying over a hot stove or in cold blasts of air also shrinks and hardens wool fibers

A soldier in New Guinea received a clipping from the Record with the pictures of the Berrien County Junior Farm Bureau of 1943. He was very interested in the well-known names of Bob Koemigshof and Raymond DeWitt.

The clipping was sent by Mrs. Vernon Green, formerly of Buchanan. He answered her in part as follows:

April 15
Dear Mrs Green Your brief history of farm 4-H activities was interesting I know Raymond De Witt and Robert Koemigshof through state Junior Farm Bureau activities One night my brother and I stayed at the latter's home in Buchanan

Life here in New Guinea is an experience A grand fellowship is found among the Yanks, Aussies and black natives, as we live and work side by side here among these tropical jungles, mountains, swamps and native villages far from civilization. It is a crude and rugged life Everything we have has to be carried in on our backs or on the backs of natives.

Our food is made rations, plentiful and our cooks make some excellent rice puddings, pancakes, coffee, etc.

For Club Women — And the Rest of Us

We remember an old rule for the guidance of county journalists to the effect that in "county papers" no item deserves a place that does not immediately interest at least 25 people.

Of course this is no accurate standard of selection for publication or omission, but it could serve as a rule of thumb to exclude items of too restricted interest.

Ordinarily the application of this would exclude a story about a school matron or our high school days. It is not likely that more than two persons in this town know anything personally about Mary Stewart. But it happens that all of the women in this town who belong, or ever have belonged, to one of the organizations associated with the Federation of Women's Clubs of America have heard and read many times the "Club Collect" written many years ago by this same Mary Stewart. All local women who have ever been associated with the Business & Professional Women's club here or elsewhere have reason to be interested from the fact that Mary Stewart served as one of its first national presidents and afterward as its legislative representative in Washington, D. C.

And all of the above will add up to the more than 25. So here goes.

We might add this story is not so much about Mary Stewart as it is about the potential influence of the teacher. For Mary Stewart was an artist teacher. She left the imprint of her personality and of her ideas on this writer and doubtless on very many of her pupils. So it was with regret that, on a visit in Denver, Colo., two weeks ago we picked up a copy of the Denver Post and read that Mary Stewart had died in Norwood, O.

With her went not only a great teacher but a great leader, both of young people and of the women of America. Among the qualities of Mary Stewart's teaching and leadership were two: sympathy and vitality. She had a delicate intuition for what went on in the minds of her pupils which gave skill and point to her guidance. And always she was so brilliantly alive.

We remember so vividly Mary Stewart's practice of reading to the assembled students of the Longmont (Colo.) high school at the weekly chapel period. "Them were the days" when college students were declaiming the vivid couplets of Kipling, then still in the blaze of their first popularity. It was from her voice we first got the swing of

By the old Moulmein pagoda looking eastward to the sea. There's a Burma girl a-sittin' and I know she thinks of me. For the wind is in the palm trees and the temple bells they say "Come you back, you British soldier, come you back to Mandalay."

"Come you back to Mandalay. Where the flying fishes play. And the dawn come up like thunder outer China cross the bay."

Of course the words of Kipling's great lyric come back to us today a little ironically, for although the British soldier is quite likely going back to Mandalay, the question rises as to just how much confidence he will have in the Burma girls this trip.

But the pageantry of Kipling and the kindly fancy of Eugene Fields and James Whitcomb Riley and even that Benton Harbor product, Ben King, were all introduced to us in Mary Stewart's chapel sessions. And sometimes she laid down the book and took the floor for some philosophy original to herself. And some of the things she said about the problems of life stuck and stayed, and rarely do we face such problems that we are not influenced a bit at least by Mary Stewart.

For she could say things so that they "stayed said." Witness her Collect. The word "collect" comes from the phraseology of church ritual and means a short, comprehensive prayer. How the Federation of Women's Clubs of America came to adopt it we do not know. But we do know that she wrote it in her mid-twenties when she was our teacher.

Just at this point we called up a local club woman and asked if the clubs always read the collect.

"No, not always," was the answer, "but whenever we get a bit caty, the president reads it to us."

We don't believe that club women are more prone to catness than other people, there are few of us who would not benefit from reading and talking to heart Mary Stewart's collect.

Perhaps it's a bit sentimental, reflective of the "sweet" enthusiasm of a girl of the pre-war (First World War) days. But at that it has the "Wesley" quality, there is more in it than you can find in a thousand editorials reflecting the myriad antipathies and animosities of current life.

Here it is. Read and think it over.

"Keep us, oh God, from pettiness, let us be large in thought, in word, in deed. Let us be done with fault-finding and leave off self-seeking. May we put away all pretense and meet each other face to face — without self-pity and without prejudice. May we never be hasty in judgment and always generous. Let us take time for all things, make us to grow calm, serene, gentle. Teach us to put into action our better impulses, straightforward and unafraid. Grant that we may realize it is the little things that create differences, that in the big things of life we are as one. And may we strive to touch and to know the great common human heart of us all, and oh, Lord God, let us forget not to be kind."

May the Federated Women's Clubs of America keep this collect long and read it often. And we're sorry we never got around to tell her something like this before she died.

Legion Auxiliary Will Sell Poppies Saturday, May 29

Poppies in tribute to America's battle dead of two wars will be worn in Buchanan on Saturday, May 29, Mrs. Guy Eisenhart, president of 51 unit of the American Legion Auxiliary announced today.

The poppies this year will honor the men who have won their lives in the present conflict, as well as those who fell among the poppies of France and Belgium twenty-five years ago, she said. The money contributed for the flowers will be used for the welfare of victims of both wars and their families.

The auxiliary is making extensive preparations for the observance of Poppy Day here, under the leadership of Mrs. Eisenhart, president and poppy chairman. The little red flower of remembrance will be available to everyone in the city, offered by volunteer workers from the auxiliary who will be on the streets throughout the day.

The flowers, made of crepe paper in replica of the wild Flanders poppy, have been ordered from Veteran Hospital No. 109, Battle Creek, where disabled veterans manufactured them. Poppy making has kept the hands of hundreds of these unfortunate men usefully employed during the winter and spring, helping them pass the long hospital hours and aiding in their rehabilitation.

More Americans than ever before are expected to wear poppies this year as a personal tribute to those who have been killed, and to aid the disabled, their families and the families of the dead.

Saves Gasoline With Home Made Transportation

The most unusual contrivance to get more miles out of a gallon of gasoline evolved in this vicinity is undoubtedly Herbert Swartz' motor scooter.

Not only does he get from 35 to 40 miles per gallon, but he can use "white gas" at about two-thirds of the cost of regular gasoline. It enables him not only to transport himself several miles from his home in Bertrand township every morning, but during the school year he carries his younger brother, Donald, a student in Buchanan high school.

Thus the little "contraption" does about all the average car does in necessary haulage per day. It weighs about 200 pounds and it carries daily 275 pounds.

In some parts of the country these scooters are common, but this is the only one around Buchanan. The usual motor scooter seen is a commercially-made one selling $200 to $250. But young Swartz made his own at a cost of about $100. While it may not look quite so cushy as the factory-made scooters, it seems to be an efficient little contraption and deserves a story.

Swartz has been working on it for a year now. In fact he has been riding it since last October, long before he completed making it. It is not made from any previous model but is the result of a combination of ideas which he got from Popular Science and other sources. His first power was a second-hand Maytag washing machine motor. "That was not big enough so he sent for a 1 1/2 h. p. motor costing $70. That was the main item of expense. His only other purchases were a wheel, battery and generator. The frame was made from native walnut cut on the Swartz farm, the forks from pipe and strip iron, the handle-bars from pieces of electric conduit. The scooter is driven by a belt instead of a chain.

Two weeks ago, the scooter being entirely completed, Swartz received a license from the state to operate it. Since it's outside of any acknowledged class of vehicle, he was required first to get the approval of a police officer as to its safety and roadability. He now rides to work on it daily, carrying his brother, Donald, who is a sophomore in high school.

Youth Council Debates Forming a Labor Project

Model System of Parchment Studied as Difficulty Is Considered

The debated issue before the management and the membership of the Buchanan Youth Council at this time is the establishment of a central work agency and some supervision for work projects.

It is true that perhaps the services of young people were never more in demand in Buchanan than now. In addition to possibilities of forming crews for fruit harvest and other farm work, a multitude of lawns in the city are crying for the mower, and there is a wealth of other work possibilities for the "kids."

Against these considerations is the fact that many of the work groups and the workers are making their own connections. Also the necessity for capable supervision for any controlled work agency is a serious consideration. The Parchment Paper company

Reports Gloomy Situation Now in Bertrand Twp.

The recent election in Bertrand township has shown the following result. Two beer taverns, one in Dayton, and one in Bakertown, have been denied permits as a majority of the township board, to continue to sell beer for drinking inside the tavern. Doesn't that seem ridiculous? When at the same time these tavern keepers still have a license to sell all the beer they wish by the bottle for drinking outside.

Ninety per cent of the Dayton residents have no objection to a tavern being in their midst. No disturbance having ever been reported. But still the township board by its majority members have the proud privilege to say, "Just the same you can't have your permit." So be it. Ahem!

The undersigned does not patronize the Dayton Tavern, not because he doesn't want one, but he does not believe in taking away one's freedom. Life seems, in a way, very short sometimes. Are you enjoying your freedom? Slush! Then let's let others do the same.

In other words — live and let live! Do you agree with me, reader? — Fied J. Richter.

Save Gasoline With Home Made Transportation

The most unusual contrivance to get more miles out of a gallon of gasoline evolved in this vicinity is undoubtedly Herbert Swartz' motor scooter.

Not only does he get from 35 to 40 miles per gallon, but he can use "white gas" at about two-thirds of the cost of regular gasoline. It enables him not only to transport himself several miles from his home in Bertrand township every morning, but during the school year he carries his younger brother, Donald, a student in Buchanan high school.

Thus the little "contraption" does about all the average car does in necessary haulage per day. It weighs about 200 pounds and it carries daily 275 pounds.

In some parts of the country these scooters are common, but this is the only one around Buchanan. The usual motor scooter seen is a commercially-made one selling $200 to $250. Report On A Project For Conservation of The Youth of The Community

During November, 1942, the Buchanan Youth Council decided that restrictions on automobile travel and other conditions rising from the entrance of the nation into war had greatly intensified the need for supervised recreation for the young people of the community.

Consequently an appeal for funds for that purpose was made. The community made a splendid response, the cash receipts from the drive totaling $2260.45. This result was made possible by a very fine community co-operation, in which local industries, labor unions, business men, religious, fraternal, social civic organizations and individuals worked in common, unison.

A room 125x40 feet in dimension in the DiGiacomo building at Main street and Dewey avenue was leased. After six weeks of preparatory work the room was opened to the young people of the community under the supervision of Miss Maudie Slate on New Year's Eve. The room has now been open for five months, during which time its program and services to the young people have been constantly expanded. The supervisory board of the Youth Council now believes that the project has passed the stage of the experimental and has established itself as a community asset deserving continuance.

Although the program has funds for several months of future operation it seems only fair to make a financial report to those whose generosity has made the project possible and to explain why we believe it deserves continuance. We therefore submit the following statement:

FINANCIAL STATEMENT FOR PERIOD NOV. 15 TO APRIL 30

Table with 2 columns: Description and Amount. Includes Preliminary building charges, Cost of game equipment, Total cost of preliminary preparation before opening, Operational cost, and Total cost of recreation room to April 30, 1943.

In addition to the above, the Youth Council had at that time other earned funds from previous projects, the presentation of the Youth Council Revue, income of candy machines, etc., amounting to $212.32. The operational costs of $930.01 include charges for rent, heat, light and some supervision during the period of preparation before the room was opened, rendering the charges against the actual time during which the room has been in operation higher than normal.

RESULTS OF OPERATION

As evidence supporting the value of the project, we wish to submit the following letter written by Paul Kane, chief of police:

"I take this means of thanking those who made it possible for our city to have the Recreation Center which is located at 130 Main street. It has been a great help to the police department in caring for the young people. I also wish to state that since the Recreation Center has been started we have not had a juvenile case and I am sincere in saying that I hope the project will continue."

Paul Kane, Chief of Police.

Chief Kane's statement is supported by the oral testimony of Ted Cramer, patrolman, and Eddie Sandara, former patrolman, who were acquainted with conditions before and after the beginning of the operation of the room.

The supervisory management of the Youth Council do not contend that this recreation room is any cure-all for delinquency, but we do believe that it acts as a counterbalance to other forces working to the detriment of youth.

We believe its great use is not so much a preventative of delinquency as the creation of character values among the young people of the city in general. As evidence of the response of the young people we wish to state that a total of nearly 250 hours of labor have been donated by them, most of which would otherwise have constituted a charge. By this donated work they have relieved the project of over $60 in charges for janitor and maintenance service, on the basis of a credit of 25c per hour for their work. They are now building an organization with membership based on study of game technique, required hours of work on maintenance or construction, and special achievements in behalf of the project.

During the coming weeks the Buchanan Youth Council will undertake some means of community-wide financing of the project for another year. Meanwhile all possible means of self help are under consideration. Further statements will be made on progress and determination of means.
