FORGET-ME-NOT DAYS were proclaimed for September 8, 9 and 10 in Buchanan by Mayor Richard Gault at Monday night's city commission meeting Gault (left) is shown buying a Forget-Me-Not from George Wallace, senior vice commander of Amon Bros Post 55 of the Disabled American Veterans DAV members will be on the streets of Buchanan on those three days selling Forget-Me-Nots to continue their program of aiding wounded veterans

Commission meeting over in a flash

Bus purchase rapped again

In an unusually short meeting Monday the Buchanan City Commission expressed more doubts about the practicality of obtaining an old English double decker bus for use here They were told that they couldn't get liability insurance for it, and the ability to maintain and service the engine was questioned

The commission okayed invoices from Hanlin-Rifenberg for $6,726 for the city's umbrella policy, $16,431 for the institutional package policy, and $4,338 for the insurance for the automobile and truck fleet

Additional expense of $500 was incurred by Century Engineering to fulfill HUD requirements regarding the replacement of the city's bridges

Mayor Richard Gault issued a proclamation in behalf of the Disabled American Veterans in which September 8, 9 and 10 were designated as Forget-Me-Not Days

No action was taken on vacating the alley back of LaSalle Federal and S & S Supermarket and returning it to its owners

Line Forms At State's Door

The unemployed are looking to the state for help But they don't want welfare. They want jobs.

State officials say applications for state jobs are increasing, but state payrolls are burgeoning too.

As of July 1, about 60,800 persons were working for the state, compared to about 58,000 at the end of 1976.

But more than 200,000 unemployed people have sought state jobs since October 1, 1976, and the figure is expected to reach 250,000 by September

That's much higher than the 135,000 who applied for civil service jobs in a 15-month period ending last September 30

Officials say the reason for the boom in applications is that the state is giving more civil service examinations this year An applicant must do well on those exams to be considered for employment

But state jobs also pay well, with salaries pegged to follow cost-of-living increases.

More $$ For Bereaved Spouses?

Bereaved families of law enforcement officials killed in the line of duty should get some financial help from the state, says Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley

Kelley has proposed what could become an expensive program for Michigan. He says current benefits available to those families are inadequate

Kelley's plan would cover not only police officers, but fire fighters, conservation officers and others involved in enforcing criminal laws. Benefits would go to families of officers killed in the past, as well as those who will be killed in the future

Here's where the money would go, if the legislature approves the plan

--Spouses would get $100 a week for life

--Children would get $25 a week, plus college tuition, until they leave school

--Spouses also could get free college tuition

Kelley said the state-funded benefits "are the least we should do to express our gratitude." He said he did not think the program would cost the state too much

Estimates are it could cost at least $750,000 a year.

The benefits would come on top of those from existing state and private pension plans and a new federal law that gives $50,000 to families of fire fighters and police officers killed during duty

For You From Unity Hospital

Anesthesia -- most major operations could not be successfully performed without it Anesthesia allows the surgeon more time to perform complicated procedures and reduces physical shock and emotional stress in the patient There are two types of anesthesia, local and general.

A local anesthetic makes painless only part of the body, usually on or just below the skin as in dental procedures Some anesthetics may be applied by dropper, spray or swab, such as in nose or eye surgery Anesthetics are injected directly into tissues for procedures such as mending fractures or dental work Regional blocks are injected into a main nerve to stop sensation in a wide region of the body.

A general anesthesia causes the entire body to lose sensation and movement During unconsciousness all body functions are carefully monitored By whatever technique administered, the anesthetics enter the bloodstream, travel to the brain and cancel pain impulses in the nervous system.

Each patient is evaluated individually before the type of anesthetic is selected, according to medical history and condition and how long painlessness should last During the surgical procedures an anesthesiologist or nurse anesthetists monitors the level of anesthesia, attends instruments, monitors body functions with special equipment and keeps records. After the operation the patient is moved to the recovery room and is again observed and monitored by nurses and anesthetists until consciousness is regained When a recovery is complete, the patient is transferred to his room A memory lapse and desire to move around may occur. Following the instructions of a doctor or nurse is very important

Knowing what to expect before anesthesia will help a patient prepare for it Relaxation and rest, following orders and asking questions of the doctor will be beneficial to the patient

Using drugs to induce a painless state has been done for centuries with opiates, alcohol and laughing gas We of the modern world are fortunate to have safe, manageable and effective anesthetics for introducing painlessness when surgical procedures are necessary to maintain good health

Reflections

By Walton Becker

As seasoning adds flavor
And zest to many a dish,
So sorrow and disaster
Can make life full and rich

For does one not grow wreary
Of a flat unbroken plain?
Or tire of perpetual drought
With not one hint of rain?

Is not the darkness welcome
At the closing of the day?
And yet we greet with gladness
The dawn of each new day?

So we must have our sorrows
To make our Joy more real,
And also know of hunger
Before our every meal

Let not your heart be troubled
Or give way to dismay,
For all things change like darkness
Into the dawn of day

Just face each trial and hope and trust
And do the best you can
To make this world more beautiful
And happier for Man.

Personal invitation

Dear Prospective Student.

During the past few weeks you probably have seen some publicity material concerning the Adult High School Program being offered in Buchanan this fall

This is a personal invitation to you or any member of your family who may not, as yet, have completed a high school diploma

May I point out several features of the program

1. All courses and tuition are FREE.

2 There are morning and evening classes for your convenience Morning classes are from 9 00-12:00 Evening classes from 7 00-10 00 p.m.

3. There is a wide range of courses from which to select

4. Adults need only 16 credits to complete their diploma Many non-grads already have between 8 and 12 of these!

5 For adults there are several possible concessions

a. Half of the credits you still need may be obtained by passing the General Educational Development Test (GED), b You may receive credits for satisfactory work experience (or for experience as a housewife).

c You may receive credits for courses taken with the armed forces or coast guard, etc,

This is a real chance to complete that diploma! Call me at 695-2771 days and 695-9264 evenings and I would be happy to give you any advice I can, or pass on further details

Sincerely
G Wayne Writer
Director of Community Education

Amazed

Letter to the Editor,

Again I find myself amazed at the cost of another county road project This time it's the widening of Buffalo Rd between Dayton Rd and Spirrea Rd. I am not against paving roads, however, I am against the procedure in which these roads are widened.

When the county widens a road the new right of way is completely "tree proofed" My complaint is that no exceptions are made when it comes to clearing this right of way. For instance, the east end of Buffalo Rd. was completely cleared of trees for a half mile stretch and now it is barren and a complete bore to drive down Another stretch, Chicago Trail west of Red Bud was widened also and ask Robert Kell about the destruction of a tree lined road Now it's the destruction of another peaceful tree lined country road that will probably be a race track when completed.

The county could save our taxpayers some money by leaving those trees stand, but the county road commission wants maintenance free roads. Why waste our tax dollars on hiring heavy equipment to tear down our natural resources when these resources do not interfere with the pavement.

One of the oldest trees in this area bordered the Mt. Zion Cemetery's south side and stretched over the road in an archway of limbs as if to give comfort to a passerby I have often found strength from these old Burr Oaks for on a winters day their boldness and weathered appearance stands strong and prevails over the windy desolate prairie. Now that tree lays on it's side dead and gone Maybe no one cares but me, but I think it's cheap of us to turn our back on such a landmark when the tree isn't even on the road itself just the almighty right of way

Back in 1964 in Nappanee, Indiana, a group of men bought stock in an industrial development corporation with no though of getting their money back With the money, seventy acres of land was purchased which was sold or leased to small industries This month the corporation was dissolved, and all the stockholders got back their original investment Something to think about for Buchanan

NOTICE TO BUCHANAN TOWNSHIP TAXPAYERS:

Dr. Jones' new proposed zoning ordinance. The State of Michigan is not making this township to rezone. I cannot find out from any source that they care less. From all indications the Berrien County Planning Commission is the one thats pushing this unjust zoning. Dr. Jones at $6,900 a year and Ivan Price at $4,800 is doing this township no good.

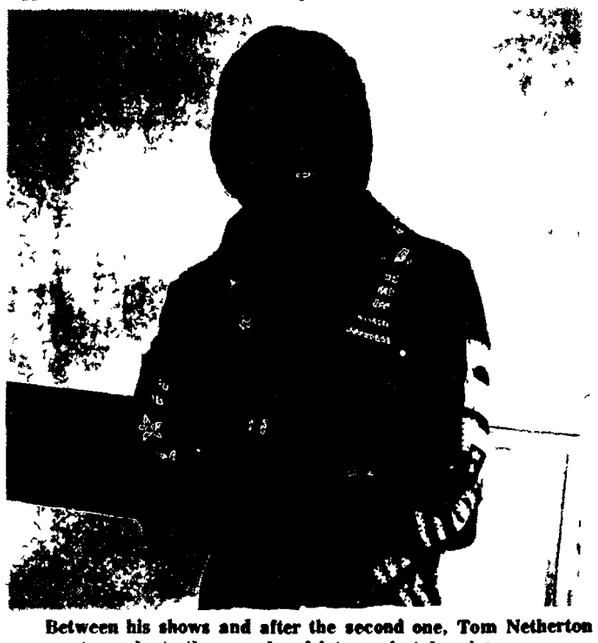
Tom Netherton appealed to people of all ages during his appearance at the Berrien County Youth Fair.



Between his shows and after the second one, Tom Netherton gave autographs to the crowd and let people take pictures.

Fair presents exciting television personality

By Don E. Nichols

An engaging new personality has emerged on the entertainment scene. He's Tom Netherton, who's starting his fourth year on the Lawrence Welk Show and has already built up a considerable television following In person, however, he's something else. His appearance at the Berrien County Youth Fair delighted both young and old. This was his second appearance here.

He's six feet five inches tall, a good looking blonde man from Bloomington, Minnesota. He has a fine baritone voice, and his repertoire is varied. He gave generously of himself during his appearance and made himself available after the show for autographs and pictures in spite of the fact that he was battling a bad cold.

He appeared in a bright red and blue star spangled outfit which he told the audience he had obtained at Evel Knievel's garage sale Later one of the audience asked him why he didn't wear that kind of costume on the Welk Show, and he answered that he wanted to keep his job. To the question as to why he was more confined in his television appearances, Netherton said it would be necessary to ask Mr Welk

During his performance he came down in the audience to get closer to the people who had come to see him He allowed them to ask questions, and many wanted to know about other personalities on the Welk Show He didn't answer when asked his age. He's 30, but he later said that the young girls think of that as pretty old Several wanted to know about his love life (he's single) He responded with a verse, "It's better to have loved and lost than to be married and be bossed."

Tom has a brother and two sisters, and he's the oldest. In keeping with Welk's strict code, this young man comes across as wholesome and clean-cut. He says that he hasn't had any formal vocal training, although his voice would compare favorably with that of Robert Goulet.

He had one year at the University of Minnesota and spent three years in the army in Panama He expressed some doubts about the wisdom of giving up the canal

Tom says that he became a Christian nine years ago and mentions Bethany Fellowship Missionary Training Center as the source of his religious education He doesn't dwell on his religious experience, although after singing a combination of country-western and Dixieland, he climaxed his show with the singing of the popular hymn "How Great Thou Art." This he did with sincerity.

In both public appearance and in private interview, he conveyed warmth, humor and an apparent liking for people He spoke and sang affectionately of his family in Minnesota and said that his home had been a happy place, and that music played a part in it

When asked about his future, he registered satisfaction over his current position on the Welk Show, but said that he had a new agent who might open new doors for him Currently he's making one night stands all over the country and gaining a wider following of people of all ages. Endowed with exceptional good looks, a winning personality, a sense of showmanship and a fine singing voice, he would appear to have an unlimited future

Buchanan summer parks program ends with picnic

The Buchanan City Park Program ended Friday with a hot dog roast at Centennial Park Everyone enjoyed hot dogs, potato chips, Kool-aid and watermelon.

The parks have featured arts, crafts, and games all summer, and officially closed with the picnic

According to Park Program Director, Mel Ravish, several park supervisors did an outstanding job in their respective parks They are Becky Gray, Centennial Park, Mo Kyles and Jean Summers, Kathryn Park

The hot dogs are almost done, and it looks like everyone's hungry at the parks picnic.

Park supervisors Mo Kyles, Bill Musgrave, Jackie Thompson, Gerald Busby, Mary Ann Jordan and Viola Lewis relax at the park picnic.

LMC graduates five students of radiologic technology

Five Lake Michigan College students of radiologic (X-ray) technology were graduated Thursday night (August 11) in a ceremony held at Mercy Hospital, Benton Harbor, and two of them were singled out for special awards

Given the Mallinckrodt Silver Tray Award for outstanding achievement by a radiologic student was Steve Morrison, of Benton Harbor. Mallinckrodt award winners each year are selected by the radiologic technology faculty

In addition, Valerie Trun, of Coloma, was granted the Squibb Award for meritorious achievement, an engraved plaque bearing the name of a student selected by fellow students as outstanding. Both awards are provided by the two pharmaceutical firms

The graduation ceremony, culminating 24 months of intensive study, was attended by friends, parents, area radiologists, and LMC faculty members, according to John Thommen, R.T , college radiologic technology instructor.

Those graduating receive associate degrees in applied science and are eligible to take the examinations given by the American Registry of Radiologic Technologists to become registered radiologic technologists (R T), Thommen indicated

During the ceremony, talks were given by Thommen and by Jeanette Leahey, R.T , adjunct radiologic technology faculty member, and Ken Lorek, R T , head of nuclear medicine at Mercy Hospital

Those who were graduated, in addition to Miss Trun and Morrison, included Stephen Chaudoir, of Berrien Springs.

"If anyone in your family is handicapped, you should look into these Michigan Bell services"...

We have a wide range of products and services that can help the physically impaired to communicate by telephone. For people with difficulties in hearing there are various amplifying devices. Here are two examples: a handset wheel that adjusts telephone volume at home and a handset volume switch which can be attached to coin phones when away from home.

As an aid for speech loss, Michigan Bell has an electronic larynx And people with motion impairments should know about our easy-to-use card dialers, one-number dialing, speakerphones, telephone headsets, Tele-Class service for homebound students and many other aids.

If you think any of these services might help you or someone in your family to communicate more easily, just call your local Michigan Bell Business Office, for helpful advice from people who know what they're doing and care about it

ICB apparent fraud victim

Inter-City Bank of Buchanan was apparently the victim of a $1900 fraud perpetrated between August 3 and August 6 by an unidentified woman

Head Cashier Betty Letcher told Buchanan police that the woman opened a savings account at the bank, making small cash deposits on July 25 and 29 and depositing checks for large amounts on August 3 and 4 The checks were drawn on an account at First National Bank of Southwestern Michigan, in Niles

Between August 3 and August 6 the woman withdrew $1600 from the savings account at ICB and received $300 in cash as the balance of one of the checks deposited, police said.

On August 15 ICB was notified that both checks drawn on the First National account were being returned for nonsufficient funds ICB officials learned that the First National account had been closed on August 11

Police investigating the case said two addresses given by the woman when applying for the ICB savings account did not exist Also, the address listed for the First National account was vacant.

Police say the same person probably opened both accounts with the intent of defrauding the bank They said a similar fraud had been committed at First National in Niles, probably by the same person.

Other banks in the area have been advised of the fraud, police said, and the checks have been sent to the state police laboratory in Holland for fingerprint checks

Vandals shot holes in windshields of 49 cars at the Clark Equipment parking lot on the morning of August 17, police said. BB guns were apparently used to do the damage.

A six horsepower roto-tiller engine was stolen from the garage of James R. Wales, 506 Main Street, Buchanan last week Wales told police he was repairing the engine for James Luhrsen of Buchanan and originally thought Luhrsen had picked it up Wales noticed the engine missing on August 13, but was unable to contact Luhrsen until August 18, when he discovered Luhrsen didn't have the engine, either. Wales then reported the theft to police.

Local Cystic Fibrosis Week scheduled for September 12-18

The local Cystic Fibrosis week will be September 12-18 Amelia Miller is the Buchanan area chairman this year

The following is some educational background material released to help the public better understand what Cystic Fibrosis is and what can be done about the disease

If you've ever had trouble breathing, you know how terrifying it can be And, there are millions of lung-damaged American children who must sometimes struggle to breathe.

Lung-damaging diseases are more life-threatening than many people realize; they take a higher toll of young lives than any other disease except cancer The most devastating of these diseases is the still incurable hereditary disease called cystic fibrosis Affecting both the lungs and digestive system of its victims, cystic fibrosis is a leading genetic killer of children

Other lung-damaging diseases include asthma, chronic bronchitis, bronchiectasis, and recurrent pneumonia

For many children who have these diseases, life is full of frequent check-ups, tests and hospitalizations to combat bouts of lung infection Lung damage resulting from infection is the primary cause of death of children with cystic fibrosis.

Helping children and their families cope with lung-damaging disease is a prime function of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, a national volunteer health agency founded in 1955 by a group of parents of children with cystic fibrosis

In 1961, the Foundation promoted and helped establish Cystic Fibrosis Centers specializing in the diagnosis, treatment and referral of children suffering with all lung-damaging diseases, including cystic fibrosis, and those with gastrointestinal disorders related to CF There are now more than 100 of these CF Centers located throughout the United States. Five of these are located in the State of Michigan, offering expert care to Michigan children suffering from lung-damaging disease

Another major purpose of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation is to fund research for a cure or control of cystic fibrosis and investigations for better methods of treating all lung-damaging diseases in children The Foundation also conducts both public and professional education programs to promote early recognition and treatment of lung-damaging diseases.

To raise funds for support of these vital programs, the Greater Michigan Chapter of the CF Foundation is conducting its annual Breath of Life Campaign during the month of September, as assigned by the National Health Council

The funds raised by the Chapter will be used to care for lung-damaged children, to support community projects, and will help finance national programs of research, care and education

Twenty years ago, most children with cystic fibrosis did not survive to school age. Now, thanks to advances in these past two decades, 50 per cent of CF-affected individuals can be expected to live past 18, with some patients living to their twenties and thirties And, the treatment which helps to prolong the lives of individuals with cystic fibrosis, also helps children with other lung-damaging and related digestive diseases

Of course, this is not enough There is still no cure for cystic fibrosis One-half of all CF-affected children can not be expected to live past 18; the other half deserves fuller, more normal lives So, the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation fights the battle through the Breath of Life Campaign of more than 100 Chapters like the Greater Michigan Chapter

There's a lot more to do -- finding a control or cure for cystic fibrosis, the discovery of reliable test for determining symptomless carriers of the CF gene and better methods of treatment for all lung-damaged children

But, it can't be done without the financial support of communities like ours

Please help -- give the Breath of Life!

Background Statistics

1) Over 400,000 (1 out of 20) Michigan residents are carriers of the recessive CF gene Whenever two carriers mate there is the possibility of children with CF being born

2) Approximately 100,000 Michigan CF children suffer from serious lung disease Cystic Fibrosis is the most serious of these diseases, but CF research and treatment techniques can benefit a large number of these afflicted children

3) The 1977 CF Breath of Life Campaign will be conducted in approximately 450 Michigan communities In the majority of these communities, this is the only CF activity during the entire year -- the only opportunity for community support and community education

4) The CF Foundation is a member in good standing of the National Health Council and follows its stringent requirements for program expenditures It is further licensed by the Attorney General of the State of Michigan (Authorized Solicitation number MICS 2997). All volunteers will be properly identified & kit materials will contain the Foundation's Authorized Michigan Solicitation number

5) Based upon the 1977 audit of the Greater Michigan CF Chapter by Haskins & Sells, the following pertinent facts emerge

A) Over 50 per cent of Chapter income is raised by the Breath of Life Campaign

B) The analysis of the Greater Michigan Chapter disbursements indicate that 91 per cent of total expenditures was spent on Program Services and only 9 per cent on Supporting Services (administration and fund raising)

Sen. Donald Riegle Jr. rejects gas guzzler taxes

U S Senator Donald W Riegle, Jr (D-MI) last week rejected the proposed gas guzzler and standby gas taxes as "discriminatory measures which place the burden of conservation on one segment of society;" and urged his colleagues to refuse to increase the price of gasoline

"The President told Congress April 20th that fairness would be the guiding principle throughout the development of the energy plan, stating that 'none of our people must make an unfair sacrifice.' It is this very same philosophy which is behind my opposition to the proposed gas guzzler and standby gasoline taxes," Senator Riegle said in a letter to Senate Finance Committee Chairman Russell Long

The two gasoline tax proposals, Riegle said, place the burden of the cost of conservation on "those very people in our society who can least afford it," and that their impact "will fall unevenly on certain individuals and industries"

"For example, the effect of the gas guzzler tax could very well deny large cars to the families who most need them Families with children often do not have an option on the size car they buy, and they will be unable to respond to the incentive of a rebate or excise tax The penalty-rebate system could thus become a regressive tax People who need station wagons because of family size should not be penalized for it They do not buy large cars as luxury, but out of need," he said in the letter

The cost of larger cars will be increased by the penalty, gas guzzler tax, Riegle said, "encouraging present owners of large cars to hold onto their cars longer than they normally would, instead of trading them in for smaller, fuel-efficient models"

"This will serve to intensify not only the nation's energy situation, but our severe clean air problems as well Further, a decrease in auto sales created by the gas guzzler tax could lead to increase auto industry unemployment that our nation cannot afford," Riegle said.

The standby gasoline tax would also fall unevenly on those citizens least able to afford the cost, Riegle said "Individuals who must drive to work, particularly over long distances in the west and mid-west, would bear the most severe impact of the tax. I urge the (Finance) Committee to follow the House's lead in eliminating this proposal"

Riegle said that the automobile will "do its share in energy conservation through compliance with laws and regulations already in effect"

Stockman co-sponsors Employees Bill of Rights Act

Congressman Dave Stockman (4th-MI) has co-sponsored legislation designed to "restore and reassert those employee rights which have been trampled in the struggle between management and big labor" The bill, the Employees Bill of Rights Act of 1977 (HR 8289), would amend the original National Labor Relations Act

"This bill is not labor's bill nor is it business's bill," Stockman explained "It is not designed to increase the power of either side It's purpose is to protect the rights of the individual worker"

"Times have changed," the freshman Congressman said "When the NLRA and the Labor-Management Relations Act were passed, unions were not as strong and it was felt that the workers needed protection Yet over the past 20 years, organized labor has grown to the point where it is imposing as many if not more restrictions on the worker than management did years ago Too often the worker feels caught in the middle, with labor looming as large as management"

Stockman said that incorporated in the Employee Bill of Rights Act is a protection of the employee's right to exercise full freedom of choice, the employee's right to secret ballot elections for union representation and the right to a secret ballot in the calling, maintaining or resumption of a strike "The bill also protects employees from mandatory union contributions for political purposes and it would protect the rights of those employees whose religious beliefs prohibit them from participating in union activities," Stockman continued

"Over the past 20 years, almost all labor legislation has been formulated with organized labor in mind," Stockman concluded "The Employee Bill of Rights swings the pendulum back to the individual worker who should be the beneficiary of all labor-management legislation"

Seven-run seventh inning helps Buchanan Babe Ruth win tournament

Buchanan used a seven-run seventh inning to overcome a 3-2 Three Oaks lead and win the Southwestern Berrien Babe Ruth League tournament championship Sunday night The 9-3 final game win gave Buchanan an 18-2 season record.

Buchanan could manage only three hits in the first five innings and trailed 3-1 entering the sixth. Three Oaks was on the verge of becoming the first Southwestern Berrien team to defeat the local club this season.

Buchanan closed to within one run in the sixth inning when Greg Ward doubled and scored on Bob Couchman's single. The dam burst in the seventh when Buchanan put its first eight hitters on base, seven of them scoring

Ken Yost led the outburst with a double, and Dave Karpinski, Keith Dobrzykowski, Dale Backus and John Harrington had singles. The four bases-on-balls given up by Three Oaks didn't hurt, either. Court Rowe, Ward and Couchman were issued passes consecutively in the middle of the inning.

Yost went three for three for Buchanan Couchman was the winning pitcher in relief of Karpinski. The two-hold Three Oaks to three hits and combined for six strikeouts.

Kerner participates in 'Brave Shield' exercise

Marine Lance Corporal Christopher E Kerner, son of Charlyne A. Kerner of Route 1, Box 614, Buchanan, Michigan, recently participated in exercise "Brave Shield" in the California desert

He is serving as a member of the 1st Marine Regiment, 1st Marine Division, homebased at Camp Pendleton, California

More than 25,000 U S Servicemen participated in the 10-day exercise at the Marine Corps Air-Ground Combat Training Center in Twentynine Palms, California The exercise was designed to provide joint training in the tactics and techniques of desert warfare for components from all four of the Armed Forces

As one of more than 7,500 Marines participating in the exercise, his training stressed the employment of coordinated aviation, artillery and infantry forces of the Marine Corps air-ground team

A 1976 graduate of Buchanan High School, he joined the Marine Corps in July 1976
