Township nixes Bobo rezoning request because of area residents, tavern 'rumors'

The Buchanan Township Board, following the recommendation of the township zoning board, refused to rezone a piece of property east of Buchanan owned by Douglas Bobo

The property, the site of the old Brookwood Golf Course pro shop, was put up for rezoning from recreational to commercial but the township government and area residents disapproved the request

Township supervisor Dr Kenneth Jones commented on what he called "rumors" going around that the establishment might be used as a tavern and attributed the refusal to the fact that once the property is rezoned the board had no influence over the use

Donna Newsom, township clerk, also said the area residents opposed the rezoning because they did not want to be surrounded by commercial property The Bobo property is just west of an eight acre plot of land that was rezoned commercial with the intent of building a shopping center

In additional business the board accepted a bid of $2800 for renovations to the township fire department's tanker

The tank on the tanker was recently remodeled making the truck safer to use and now the truck's storage compartments will be remodeled

The board also heard a proposal from Pearson Engineering for the cost of preparing bidding documents for an addition to the township hall

The firm gave the board an estimate of $2100 as a total cost of providing the documents

Jones called the price "awful high" and said, "I don't want to get into putting out bids into things we can't swing

"We're really not sure what we want and if we want it"

The board is considering an addition to the hall to provide additional office space and a larger meeting hall At present the hall has one small office and at recent meetings the hall has been overflowing

The board also received from the Berrien County Plan Commission official notice of approval of rezoning of the land that is the proposed site of the new shopping center east of Buchanan

When the board approved the rezoning it had a verbal notice of approval from the county group and the notice received Monday was the written approval

The board will meet again on January 11 at the township hall The board meets twice monthly, every first Monday of the month and every second Tuesday following the first Monday

U.S. 31 by-pass reaches construction stage

Work on the Michigan portion of the U S 31 by-pass is expected to begin in late spring according to a timetable released last Tuesday by the Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning Commission

The first segment to be constructed in Michigan will be a 3 3 mile section that will run through Bertrand Township about halfway between Niles and Buchanan

Bids on the first phase will be let in April and the stretch extending from the Indiana state line to U S 12 may be completed within the year

The construction will cost approximately $6 6 million Federal Funding will supply $4 8 million while state funds will pay for the remaining $1 8 million

Property rights for the project have already been acquired

Crocker makes appeal to customers

A special appeal was made today by Postmaster Oscar Crocker to the customers of the Buchanan area for their cooperation in keeping sidewalks and approaches to mail boxes clear of snow during these severe winter days

'All rural and city carriers will make every reasonable effort to serve the greatest number of customers during this severe weather," Crocker said "It is the responsibility of the customer to keep sidewalks and approaches free of snow"

Super is here

Ambulance service to erect building east of Buchanan on U.S. 12

The building of a new $59,000 building for use by the Southwest Michigan Community Ambulance Service was announced last Thursday at a reception in honor of the 50 ambulance service volunteers

The announcement was made by John McDonald, chairman of the board of SMCAS, after telling of the "tremendous accomplishment" that the service has achieved in its ten months of operation

The new building, which will begin construction immediately, will have room for all three ambulance units and will have office and living space for the volunteers

McDonald said the building will be located on a triangular piece of property at the intersection of the U S 12 business route and the U S 12 bypass

McDonald also reported that the service had made 1,513 runs since their inception on February 7, 1976 December was their top month with 296 runs, 170 runs over the monthly national average

The building will be paid for through the group's subscription service and through a special fund raising effort attempting to solicit contributions from organizations that have not yet made contributions

The new building will sit on four acres and will be heated with a heat pump, aided by double layers of insulation

Included in the office area and living area will be a complete kitchen

SMCAS is a voluntary program and at its beginning had one Emergency Medical Technician The service now has 50

The volunteers in the past had arranged for their own EMT training but now SMCAS hopes to organize their own training program

McDonald said the group is still looking for more volunteers

On hand for the Thursday evening meeting were McDonald, Vice Chairman Dr Kenneth Jones, Secretary John Frucci, Treasurer Tom Kennedy, board members Brayton Yaw, and Linda Schelles

With it comes an invitation to join the Pettibon organization as a full associate with a seat on the board of directors Dr Jones' position will be to represent the association and to organize and teach courses in Spinal Biomechanics and Engineering to the Chiropractic Profession in the Eastern United States

The Pettibon Associates Inc is a Chiropractic Research and Development Corporation which has been carrying out research in the Biomechanical and Engineering aspects of Chiropractic Practice for the past twenty years It is based at the Pettibon Chiropractic and Research Center in Tacoma, Washington

New building

John McDonald, chairman of the board of the Southwestern Michigan Community Ambulance Service, announced last week that the service will be building a $59,000 headquarters located approximately midway between Buchanan and Niles Helping McDonald show the plans were Brayton Yaw, board member; Dr. Kenneth Jones, board vice chairman, and John Frucci, board secretary.

Our Opinion

Berrien County Record

Who needs it

Red Bud Trail just north of the city limits is certainly a nice drive anytime of the year

And now, thanks to the efforts of a couple of Buchanan business owners, the stretch of Red Bud north of Front Street is a little nicer place to drive

A few months ago a building resembling a gas station stood on the corner of Red Bud and River Street and certainly left a lot to be desired in looks But now a beautiful, rustic building stands -- housing Kayak Specialties, owned by William Smoke, and Sport Corner, owned by Richard Proud

The Record would like to present the 'Who Needs Community Development Award' to these two men for their outstanding contribution to making Buchanan a nicer place to live

Their store rivals anything in the area as far as appearance and if there is a relation between good appearances and sales these men should do well

Don't think they are the only ones who have good looks in mind The 'Who Needs Downtown Development Award' goes to Gambles and Bill Sullivan for their new trees and for being conscientious enough to arrange award winning window displays

Keeping the efforts of these three men in mind and reviewing the fact that an application for federal money by the Downtown Development Authority was refused one must think that it's time for the city to stop forcing the issue and just let progress take its own course

Recently the city was given a gift of land adjacent to the city parking lot, a gift that will probably result in a larger parking lot

This is another indication that citizen initiative will redevelop Buchanan, not a city ordinance

So citizens keep up the good work -- make Buchanan what you want it to be

Letters TO THE EDITOR

Ugly scars

Dear Editor,

I am a little brown car that sits in the Buchanan City parking lot on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of each week

On Monday of last week, December 27, another car struck me in my left door Causing a dent which was approximately 2" long, 1" wide and ¼" deep This car also removed my pretty brown paint from this spot and left an ugly scar Now this isn't all There is also a nice big upside down V-point scratch on my left rear panel that has also removed some paint, leaving me to rust faster than normal

My owner, (Diane Lambert), has only a part time job It is going to cost her about $50 00 to get me fixed She is hurt because the driver of the other car didn't even have the courtesy to leave a note saying he was sorry Maybe he was afraid that if he took the time to write just two little words, my owner might have caught him, Well, I hope this sets good on somebody's conscience, even if it's not the other driver Maybe someone else will have the courage to leave a note the next time they hit a parked car to at least say they were sorry, if not their name and address so they could be reached to at least help pay for the repairs

And to you out there who are reading this letter, just remember that your car could be the next victim sitting in a parking lot anywhere at anytime when some other maniac driver with his car will strike and not say anything and then you'll be left out in the cold

Signed,
A Wounded Little Brown Car

Foul language

Dear Editor,

In gards the letter by Mr Hess printed in the Record -- December 16, 1976 I think it is time to protest the use of such foul language in said letter

I have no quarrel with his letter but the language he used is not appropriate to print in a newspaper

To you Mr. Editor of the Record I suggest if such material crosses your desk again you either refuse to print it or delete the swear words

Sharpe is sharp

Dear Editor,

Representative Thomas Sharpe is a sharp person Thanks to him for putting on the final touch to Michigan's Safe Drinking Water Act The final touch was an amendment to the senate amendment The amendment to the amendment struck out four words "Pursuant to this act" 85-16 votes What act? The 1976 Safe Drinking Water Act This leaves the act saying

NO RULE PROMULGATED MAY REQUIRE THE ADDITION OF ANY SUBSTANCE FOR PREVENTIVE HEALTH CARE PURPOSES UNRELATED TO CONTAMINATION OF DRINKING WATER

Any substance includes fluorides The act now complies very well with our national Safe Drinking Water Act of December 16, 1974 It took 4 years to do that one Ours has taken 8 months During that 8 months it took many prayers and faith and 2 or 3 miracles The bill, H B 6250, was referred December 14th to the Clerk of the House for enrollment printing and presentation to the Governor

It is not the ending of corrosive poisonous fluoride but it leads the way for more legislation The next step, next year, should be the removal of the promotion of fluoridation from our Michigan Department of Public Health, and the removal of same from our public schools all over Michigan Once that is done it will be easier for fluoridated communities in Michigan to vote out fluoridation from their community

Let's not confuse the 1974 national Safe Drinking Water Act with the 1972 Clean Water Act The 1972 Clean Water Act emphasizes the rivers, lakes and streams, whereas the 1974 national act emphasizes the drinking water safety

Agriculture In Action — An editorial

Government should slow down

It didn't make the front-page headlines, but on October 11, 1976, Congress took some noteworthy action Members of the House and Senate authorized and requested the President "to appoint George Washington posthumously to the grade of General of the Armies of the United States, such appointment to take effect on July 4, 1976 " They did this because it was "fitting and proper" that no officer of the United States Army should outrank Lieutenant General George Washington on the Army list

Farmers wish that government would act with this same 'speed' when it comes to instituting new regulations that are economically unfeasible and sometimes downright ridiculous And farmers it seems, are not alone in their running battle against government over-regulation

At a recent American Management Association forum on "Government, Business and the Public Interest," held in Washington, D C last month, farmers discovered that other businesses share their frustrations For example, the construction industry came up with a situation which rivals agriculture's portable potty hassle in its absurdity OSHA mandates back-up alarms on vehicles at construction sites, yet simultaneously--because of its broad regulations covering noise pollution--it requires employees at the sites to wear earplugs to protect them against the noise Obviously, the alarm bell becomes difficult to hear when you're wearing earplugs

The paperwork involved in complying with government regulations is also costly to businesses Last year, General Motors employed 25,000 people whose sole occupation was to deal with the paperwork required by the government. This cost the company 1 3 billion dollars'

You don't have to be in business to feel the effects of government over-regulation The high cost of complying with these regulations shows up in the higher cost of certain agricultural commodities just as it shows up in the higher cost of 1977 automobiles In fact, it costs each full-time working person in the United States $1400 for the government to implement its myriad of regulations

If these working persons don't want to pay more this year, it's up to them to let their Congressmen know that perhaps they ought to think about a new regulation for 200 years before they pass it.

The Berrien County Record would like to salute

Cari Lynn Wilson

as Buchanan's first baby of 1977.

Cari, the 7 lb. 8½ oz. daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Scott Wilson, was born at 11:07 a.m. January 1, 1977.

The Record wishes to thank those advertisers and persons that took part in this year's First Baby Contest.

Blues Require New Outpatient Procedures

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan (BC&BSM) has issued new guidelines to hospitals for administration of emergency room, x-ray and laboratory services In some cases, the changes will affect Blue Cross subscribers' pocket books.

Most sweeping changes will occur in the emergency room BC&BSM has developed a list of criteria to determine whether the visit will be paid by Blue Cross. If the patient does not meet the new criteria, BC&BSM will reject the bill Hospitals will then be forced to bill the patient directly. Emergency room charges vary by hospital, but are generally around $30 to $50 per visit The Michigan Hospital Association (MHA) recommends that for non-emergency treatment, patients seek treatment at the office of their family physician Charges are less in a doctor's office since the costs of emergency support services and elaborate diagnostic services are not charged.

The complex 13 page list of covered diagnoses is based on the acuteness of symptom and age of the individual For example, in one case, Blue Cross will pay for an emergency room visit of a child under three years old only if he-she has a fever over 101 degrees A child that's over four years old, however, must have a temperature over 102 degrees before BC&BSM will pay for this diagnosis "Pain" of a nondescript nature is not a payable benefit under the BC&BSM proposal

The Michigan Hospital Association, which represents over 230 health care institutions, is concerned that many BC&BSM subscribers are not aware of the changes As a result, MHA has requested BC&BSM to temporarily suspend implementation of the new emergency room procedures The suspension would depend on BC&BSM's issuing of consumer information and joint discussions as to a timetable for implementation

Emergency Room services are not the only change Hospitals have also been notified about changes in x-ray and laboratory procedures For many of the non-auto related BC&BSM subscribers, deductibles for x-ray and laboratory work will be handled differently For certain hospitals, BC&BSM is requiring that the hospital and physicians each bill a portion of applicable x-ray and laboratory deductibles. For example, certain services require a $5 deductible. In the past, this charge was billed directly by the physician to the patient. Under the new procedures, however, the patient will be billed separately -- $2 by the physician and $3 by the hospital.

The new requirements necessitate a major overhaul in some hospitals' billing systems Hospitals with computer installations will especially be affected since large scale reprogramming is necessary The changes will take effect with the beginning of the new year

Because of the mechanical problems involved, MHA has requested BC&BSM to allow hospitals more time in making the necessary changes -- with extensions available on a hospital-by-hospital basis

Hills Corner Study Club

The Hills Corner Study Club met Tuesday, December 14, at the home of Mrs Frank Rumsey for a Christmas Party The club revealed secret plas and drew names for 1977 secret pals

The devotions were given by June Coffman Mrs. Jack Harroff gave a lesson on confidence.

The club donated $13 to the Crippled Childrens Fund instead of exchanging gifts They also donated 40 dozen cookies to the veterans at the Battle Creek Veterans Hospital.

The entertainment was the reading of Christmas poems by Mary Hartline and the singing of Christmas Carols.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs Howard Nieb on January 25

Marketing With Mary Ann

Looking into 1977

By Maryann Beckman

A new president taking office in January and many other factors that contribute to suspense, make forecasting for the year ahead a difficult chore. Rises in the Consumer Price Index, high unemployment and the governmental programs it may produce, and increases in wholesale industrial prices (which have been rising steadily since May) are all influential in setting the overall inflation trend. Such economic barometers include good omens on food prices and mixed news on retail sales, says Maryann Beckman, Food Marketing Agent

As for food prices, the USDA has said retail food costs will show an inflation rate of only three percent for 1976, which is sharply below the 8½ percent increase in 1975 and is the lowest annual rate of increase since 1971 This rate will also probably hold through next summer.

A good part of this optimism is due to bumper grain crops. The USDA increased its forecast of this year's corn crop by 3 percent, to a record 6.06 billion bushels The previous record, set last year, was 5.77 billion A bumper corn crop holds prices down all along the consumer food chain. It stabilizes grain prices, as well as insuring abundant supplies of feedstocks for poultry and cattle. All this keeps the prices of meat, milk and eggs down

Looking into 1977, the large supplies will continue to slow the rise in food prices during the first half of the year. At the same time, increased demand plus rising marketing costs will put upward pressure on food prices During the first quarter, a price of 2 to 3 percent is expected

This price increase reflects higher prices for coffee, some produce and increased marketing costs, as well as restaurant meals Then, food prices may rise more sharply next spring, if the economy is strong and the beef supplies decline, as expected

Output of poultry and red meat will likely expand further in the first half of 1977, but will shift the mix to more pork and poultry and less beef Milk and egg production is likely to continue above year earlier levels through the first half of the year The potential of a surplus of milk in 1977 is large

The total pack for nine canned noncitrus items this season has decreased nearly 13 percent from a year earlier With the carry-in to the 1976-77 season larger than last season, though, total supplies of processed fruits and fruit juices for the marketing year will be adequate

Wholesale prices for canned vegetables were steady at lower levels much of this past year. As prospects for less burdensome supplies developed, however, moderate price strength developed, as the new selling season got underway. Frozen wholesale prices have also strengthened as the supply-demand situation moved into a tighter balance All this means few, if any, specials on canned and frozen vegetables until a new harvest season in 1977.

The outlook through the first few months of 1977 is for tighter supplies of fresh and frozen fish and seafood products. Excellent U S. packs of salmon, sardines and tuna, however, should keep canned supplies adequate during the coming months.

Fresh fruit and vegetable predictions are almost impossible to predict, for so very much depends on the weather in all production areas of the country. Right now it looks like there'll still be a record crop of citrus coming to market. Grapefruit, orange, lemon and tangerine production is up and tangelos are equal to a year ago, making the total crop a record Winter pears should also be in good supply for the next several months

Next week some specifics for the month of January, when budgets seem the tightest after all the holiday splurging.

Cranberries are so linked to the holidays that the prevailing attitude is that the "holidays are for the birds and berries", says Maryann Beckman, Food Marketing Agent One of the few native North American fruits, cranberries were prized by the Indians long before the Pilgrims arrived.

Delaware Chief Pakimentzen is known to have distributed them at tribal peace feasts, and in a way, that tradition is preserved at holiday time even today. Folklore has it that cranberries were present at the first Thanksgiving feast the Pilgrims celebrated and were offered as a gift from eastern Indians who called them Sassamaneish The cranberry has been called by a variety of Indian names, but it was the Pilgrims who gave them their present name The pink cranberry blossoms resembled the heads of cranes and craneberry was later contracted to cranberry

Over the years, cranberries have collected an interesting and colorful history Medicinal powers were attributed to them and local medicine men brewed cranbery poultices to draw poison from arrow wounds. During the heyday of the clipper ships, American ships carried cranberries in their holds to be eaten by sailors to ward off scurvey, much as English sailors ate limes They're still highly prized for their Vitamin C content, nutritional qualities and flavor

The earliest record of cranberry cultivation was in 1816 in Cape Cod, Henry Hall discovered that cranberries grew larger where the soil was covered with a layer of sand, and as the berry grew larger, cultivation spread

Today, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Wisconsin, Washington and Oregon are the chief cranberry producing states, and produce they did, this year,

Cranberries are in exceptionally large supply This year's record crop is 15 per cent larger than last year and prices are the lowest they've been since 1969. Now's the time to buy and use and to also tuck a few extra bags into the freezer for mid-winter use Cranberries usually disappear from produce counter shelves by mid-January, even when supplies are large.

To freeze cranberries, simply pop the original plastic bag or box into the freezer as is. When you want fresh cranberries later, pour out the amount needed rinse, drain and cook or chop without thawing. Use them in sauces, relish, in muffin batters, cookies, cakes, as sauces with pineapple for ice cream toppings and a host of other different ways

As cranberries have become more available and popular, their uses have increased They're now sauced, jellied, juiced etc and new recipes arrive yearly for relishes, salads, meat accompaniments, drinks and desserts. Their ruby red color and sweet-tart taste makes them a natural holiday and anytime item.

Snow-playing, skiing and simply vacationing children and adults might especially like this hot cranberry drink during the holidays It's also a natural for open house and New Year's parties. Simply combine 4 cups cranberry juice with 2 cups apple juice, 2 cups orange juice, ½ cup maple flavored syrup, 1 tsp ground cinnamon, ½ tsp ground nutmeg and ½ tsp ground cloves Heat just to boiling point. Pour into mugs and serve hot garnished with marshmallows

Another tasty cranberry treat for party punch bowls is made by combining one large bottle of cranberry juice with 1 bottle grapefruit soda and 1 bottle 7-up It's a festive looking punch and if you want "more" punch, add an alcoholic beverage such as gin or vodka to the punch bowl

GED Tests

The General Education Development Test, designed to recognize and certify the achievement of an educational level equivalent to high school, will next be administered by Lake Michigan College on Monday, January 17, through Wednesday, January 19

The series of examinations will be given from 6 to 10 p m in Rm D-201 on the LMC Napier Avenue campus, according to Gordon J Dahm, director of the GED testing program at the college.

"Successfully passing this test serves several useful purposes," Dahm said, "including qualifying for admission to Lake Michigan College, satisfying armed forces educational requirements, and meeting educational requirements for employment and job advancement"

The GED test battery consists of five examinations, each of which takes up to two hours to complete The total test requires from two to three nights to finish Each person tested is allowed to proceed at his own rate of speed

Fee for the test is $15 Those interested in taking the test, Dahm said, can either contact his office at LMC at 927-3571, Ext 322, for further information or simply appear in Rm D-201 at 6 p m., Monday, January 17, to begin the examination

LMC News

Area high school seniors and other adults who plan to enroll at Lake Michigan College second semester for a program of study leading to a degree or a certificate may be eligible for long term, low interest state educational loans to help finance their college costs, according to LMC officials.

Created in 1975, the Michigan Higher Educational Student Loan Authority is designed to provide a source of guaranteed loans to eligible students who are unable to secure loans from private lending sources, said Margaret Crishal, LMC assistant dean of students.

The loans cannot exceed 50 per cent of the total educational cost up to a maximum of $2,500 per academic year. Students may borrow a cumulative total up to $7,500 for undergraduate study The annual percentage rate on such loans is 7 per cent simple interest

Loan application forms are now available at the college's Financial Aid office on the Napier Avenue campus.

"Generally, the application process will take up to six weeks to complete," Dean Crishal said. "Therefore, it is necessary that students seeking such loans for second semester at LMC move quickly and file their applications promptly"

LMC registration by mail will continue until January 7, according to Dr Thomas P McCourt, registrar Regular registration will be held on the LMC campus from 4 to 8 30 p m , January 19, for students taking 11 semester hours or fewer and from 9 a.m to 12 30 p m , alphabetically by first letter of last name, January 20 for those enrolling for 12 or more semester hours

Open registration for all still-unregistered students will be held from 12 30 to 8:30 p.m , January 20, Dr McCourt indicated

Further information about LMC admissions and registration procedures can be obtained by telephoning the college admissions office at 927-3571, Ext. 345 Additional information about student loans and other forms of financial assistance can be obtained by calling Ext 332

Pearl M. Fidel receives nurses cap

A Buchanan woman is among the 40 nursing students at OSU Technical Institute in Oklahoma City to receive a cap in the traditional nurses' capping ceremonies

Pearl M Fidel will participate in the 3 p m ceremony Saturday, January 22, in the Village Baptist Church in Oklahoma City.

Sister Donald Mary, vice-president of Mercy Health Center in Oklahoma City, will be the speaker

The cap and stripe, which symbolize a step in achievement, recognizes the completion of the first semester in the nursing program.

The first caps were started by Catholic nuns As the church-related nursing orders evolved into schools, each school selected cap or stripe and uniform to distinguish their program from other schools.

The stripe for men--virtually unknown today--began in Roman times when the first nurses were males

Sometimes you find the most efficient energy ideas right under your nose.

Take your thermos bottle.

It works on the same principle as a European home heating system we're now testing.

It's called Electric Thermal Storage and it works like this.

While you're asleep, electric heating elements heat a special, brick core inside a heavily insulated container the size of an ordinary furnace.

Heat in the bricks is stored inside this "thermos" until it is distributed through ordinary ductwork to heat your home.

The beauty of this system is that it uses less energy during the day, when we have our heaviest electric demand.

This could let us use our generating equipment more efficiently. Which, in turn, would help us reduce our costs. And yours.

With the way the cost of everything is going up these days, that's a pleasant switch for all of us

While we've already pioneered the use of high voltage transmission lines, we're also continuing to research even higher voltages to move even larger chunks of electricity. The advantage here is that we can move more electricity over fewer lines. And fewer transmission lines mean lower transmission costs

But, while we continue our search for ways to keep costs in line there are some things you can do to keep costs in line, too.

Not just by turning off lights and lowering thermostats, but by insulating your home properly, using appliances efficiently, and by considering the use of more energy-efficient devices that are already available.

Working together. It's the only way we can hope to lick the problems that affect the cost of electricity today. And tomorrow.

Working together is the only way.

Roadblocks help clear the roads

By Warren M. Hoyt

Coming Unstuck?

Snow-clogged highways cause stuck vehicles And those stuck vehicles in turn make it nigh on to impossible to clear the roads Vicious circle, it seems

But the Department of State Highways and Transportation and the Michigan State Police are working on alleviating that problem

Under a new plan to be implemented this winter, roadblocks will be set up to close freeways whenever a storm makes driving extremely hazardous or impossible The roadblocks will be established at places determined to be outside the edges of the storm

Thus, while those vehicles already on the highway may still be stuck there, there's less chance of other vehicles adding to the "clutter"

A communications system -- aimed at aiding stranded motorists, helping in snow-clearing operations and advising drivers well in advance if a freeway is closed -- is also part of the plan

"The primary purpose of this entire plan is to reduce the number of persons and vehicles stranded by a snowstorm, and to rescue those already stranded," says Col George L. Halverson, director of the State Police

For Women

A couple of recent U S Supreme Court opinions seem to have set back women's rights, according to feminist groups who particularly objected to one ruling dealing with pregnancy leaves from work

But the Michigan Attorney General's office has gone in the other direction--ruling that a woman may not be refused credit for a loan simply because of her marital status

The formal opinion said: "The credit worthiness of a married woman is not affected by state property laws A married woman is responsible for her own obligations regardless of whether they are incurred by purchase of a luxury or a necessity"

"...a married woman with her own assets cannot be treated as a second-class citizen in the area of credit," explained Atty Gen Frank J Kelley

If a woman uses her own property as collateral, her right to borrow money or buy goods on credit is not affected by her marital status, he added "If a woman applies for credit, and she has the individual credit worthiness to be granted that amount, what her husband does, or what his credit worthiness is, should be of no concern to the creditor."

Michigan's Married Woman's Property Acts, which began in 1855, gave married women the right to own and control property More than a century later, in 1971, the state Supreme Court held that a married woman was liable for merchandise she purchased on her individual credit.

Getting Darker

Note from the Michigan Traffic Safety Report.

The American Optometric Association says the average 60-year-old needs seven times as much light as the average 20-year-old to perform the same tasks

The eye doctors said this is nothing to be overly concerned about, but it doen require some change in habits and attitudes.

Help's There

"Hot lines" can help cut red tape and get quick answers to problems That's why several of Michigan's state government agencies operate such telephone services

The toll free numbers include.

--Public Service Commission, which helps citizens with utility problems or questions about utilities other than city-owned electric companies Call 800-292-9555

--Travel Bureau, which offers information on road conditions, upcoming events and weather forecasts Call 800-292-2521 (in Michigan)

--Natural Resources Law Enforcement, which helps state officials enforce conservation laws Call 800-292-7800

--Department of State Automotive Regulation, which receives complaints against auto dealers, mechanics and repair shops Call 800-292-4204, or, in Detroit only, 800-357-5109

Stifling Puffs

Blowing smoke at the bananas and puffing toward the potatoes isn t illegal now But come next April 1, it will be against the law to wander around a grocery store with a lighted cigarette in hand or mouth

The no-smoking in grocery stores law is one of four enacted within past months to form a basic beginning of a "bill of rights" for folks who don't have--or want the habit

Another law taking effect April 1 requires all food service establishments with a seating capacity of 50 or more to post signs announcing availability of a no-smoking section.

Smoking policies are required in hospitals and nursing homes as the result of the other two pieces of legislation which already are in effect

Non-smokers have been trying for several years to keep the air in their directions clean from "secondhand" smoke But they've only recently gained recognition in the halls of legislatures and city councils.

Thirty-one states, including Michigan, now have some type of anti-smoking regulations.

Government plays leading role in regulating foods

By Mary Search

Government and Your Nutrition

The U S Government plays a leading role in regulating the American food supply so that we can be assured of the wholesomeness and the quality of food we eat--from the cow to the can of processed meat But what has the government done and what is it doing to assure that the food we eat--especially processed food--is nutritionally adequate?

One of the first steps to increase the nutritional status of Americans occurred 35 years ago when a program was launched to enrich flour At that time, nutritional surveys showed that almost all Americans ate diets that were rated "not good" or "poor". This revelation that the American diet was deplorable stimulated the baking industry to voluntarily enrich flour and bread.

It must not be overlooked that this enrichment program was a cooperative effort of the milling industry and the government. The cereal industry now voluntarily enriches other products, such as pasta

The enrichment of bread and flour has helped to eliminate such vitamin deficiencies as beri-beri Iron deficiency anemia, however, is still a problem especially among blacks, low-income, and pregnant and lactating women On the other hand this deficiency would be more prevalent if bread were not enriched, Four servings of bread and cereal supply about 25 per cent of the daily iron requirement

The fortification of your milk with vitamin D has virtually eliminated rickets in American children Again, the dairy industry voluntarily fortifies milk, but the government regulates the amount of vitamin D that is added. If milk is fortified, 1 quart must contain the daily requirement, 400 International Units of vitamin D.

Recently, the Food and Drug Administration established Nutritional Guidelines These describe what the nutritional quality should be for certain foods. They now have written guidelines for frozen "heat and serve" dinners To comply with the guidelines, the dinner must provide at least 35 per cent of the U S. Recommended Dietary Allowance (U S RDA) for protein, 70 per cent of that protein must be derived from meat, poultry, fish, cheese or eggs It must contain a vegetable and a potato, rice, or a cereal-based product (other than bread or rolls) The dinner, if it follows the Nutritional Guidelines established by FDA, would furnish 10-20 per cent of several key nutrients needed daily, such as vitamin A and iron, plus several B vitamins, including vitamins B6 and B12

The U.S Food and Drug Administration is in the process of writing other nutritional quality guidelines for snacks, dairy products, new foods, and for food eaten by ethnic groups, in whom malnutrition has been found

These are some of the ways in which the government is seeking to assure that the American food supply provides essential nutrients.

Leather and Suede Care

"Take special care of that leather or suede coat or jacket you found under the Christmas tree," advises Dr. Jean Goodrick, Purdue University extension textile specialist, "and you can enjoy it for a long, long time"

Suede coats should be brushed frequently with a dry bristle brush or a dry rubber sponge to keep dust from settling in the nap. Stains usually can be removed with an art gum eraser, emery board or chalk cleaner. If the coat gets wet, dry it away from heat, then rub it with a terrycloth towel

Grain leather coats require different care from that of suede coats. When a grain leather coat becomes wet, let it dry away from heat, wash off spots or surface oil with a soaped cloth, then wipe with a clean damp cloth and pat dry.

Because both suede and grain leather are supple, always hang coats on padded hangers to prevent misshapen shoulders or marks caused by wire hangers. Keep buttons from pulling out or tearing the leather by opening the coat when you sit for any length of time Leathers also can be stretched out of shape by heavy objects left in pockets. Sharp objects can scratch of rip the material. It pays to be cautious about what you put in the pockets

Wrinkles can be "hung out" by leaving the garment in a damp area, such as a steamy bathroom, overnight If that doesn't work, press the leather with an iron on the "rayon" setting Do not use steam Protect the coat by using heavy wrapping paper as a pressing cloth on the top of the leather Use light quick strokes with the iron

When your leather coat is soiled, don't take chances Go to a suede and leather specialist Color changes, wrinkling, cracking or peeling can result from improper cleaning Color changes can also occur if multiple-piece outfits are not cleaned together

When summer arrives, store your clean, leather coat with room to "breathe". Cover it with a cloth and hang in a well-ventilated closet--never in a plastic bag

Proper care helps insure the durable, long-lasting qualities of leather It pays to take good care of fine leathers

Church shows Time To Run

TIME TO RUN, a film that is a mixture of problems and solutions, will be shown at the Buchanan Nazarene Church at 704 W Front St. on Sunday, January 9 The feature, filmed in Eastmancolor by World Wide Pictures, will be shown once beginning at 7:00 p m.

Filmed on location in the Southern California area, TIME TO RUN stars Ed Nelson, Randall Carver, Barbara Sigel, Joan Winmill and Gordon Rigsby Nelson plays Warren Cole, a hard driving success-oriented industrial and scientific engineer who, because of over-involvement with his work, has failed to communicate with his wife Fran, played by Joan Winmill, or their son Jeff, played by screen newcomer Randall Carver

TIME TO RUN allows the viewer to become involved on any one or more of the three different levels. Viewed purely as entertainment, it's the suspenseful story of Jeff's attempts at sabotage in the nuclear generating plant conceived, designed and managed by his father Jeff strongly feels that the plant is a threat to the environment, and he puts his feelings in action

Viewed on an emotional level, TIME TO RUN is the deeply moving drama of the conflicts that are tearing a family apart -- conflicts that develop between husband and wife, and between father and son In an attempt to find freedom from the ever-growing hostilities, Jeff takes to the road, hoping to discover some meaning in his confused life

Approached from a religious perspective, TIME TO RUN is also a story of friction between Jeff and his girlfriend, Michelle, played by Barbara Sigel, who is a familiar face to television viewers Michelle has discovered a spiritual dimension in her life, and this aspect is very confusing to Jeff, who has little time for "a God who would allow war, hatred, and suffering on earth"' But his life is shattered by an avalanche of personal problems, and he finds himself at a Jesus people gathering with Michelle, where he glimpses the possibility of a new life-style based on love and understanding.

TIME TO RUN is a film that can help strengthen love relationships between people. It's a film that was made for families to attend -- together Pastor C Kenneth Sparks extends an invitation to the public to see this outstanding motion picture There is no admission charge

The Seven-Headed Well

As many a wise man has said, it doesn't pay to lose your head over the prospect of ill gotten riches

There's a sinister monument in Scotland that proves it—the Well of the Seven Heads It's an obelisk with a frieze of seven dismembered heads around the top, with a well below to refresh the tired traveler On each of the four sides of the well is an inscription in a different language—English, Gaelic, French and Latin—and each language tells the same story

A lord who had to go abroad entrusted the safe keeping of his only son to his seven younger brothers But the brothers saw a chance of inheriting the estate and murdered the boy

When the lord's clansmen heard of this, they chased the seven brothers, and killed and beheaded them Then, when the lord returned, they washed the seven heads in a well on the lake shore and presented them to their chief Teacher's Scotch Information Centre suggests that sensitive visitors drive right past the Well of the Seven Heads

In the language of flowers a petunia means, "Your presence soothes me"

NOTICE

Notice to the Buchanan taxpayer. Dr. Jones has a new helper Ivan Price is the new Tax Assessor. For the past 20 years the supervisor and assessor did the same job for the same pay. Why? And a special notice. The township treasurer has a new assistant deputy, her daughter-in-law Ann Rose; and her son Gene Rose sits on the zoning board. The zoning board is also trying to pass an unjust ordinance.
