60th Anniversary of 1st Telephone Service in Buchanan Installed 1882

Merchants Register on April 28-29; Civilians on May 4-7

Your Husband or Your Sugar Well, friends and neighbors, next week it's all-out registration for everyone...

The Buchanan Methodist church, senior religious organization in the city in point of continuous existence, will observe the 100th anniversary of its founding in a series of meetings to begin Sunday, April 26, and to continue through a meeting Wednesday evening, April 29, and Sunday, May 3.

(By Fred Richter) Notes on Establishment of Dayton Mill and Post Office Mr. Alexander, the present owner of the Dayton mill property, informs me that his abstract dates back to 1836, when Benjamin Redding bought the property from the United States government.

The fourth registration of men power for national services will be held in the nation at large and in Buchanan in particular on Monday, April 27, with men from 45 to 65 enrolling.

George Seymour, pastor of the local LDS church, will exchange pulpits with Elder Forest E. Myers of the LDS church of Mishawaka for the evening services Sunday, April 26.

Buchanan might well pause, amid world-shaking events of the present, to congratulate itself upon its 60th anniversary of exchange telephone service.

Arrangements are now being made for registration of merchants and civilians for sugar rationing, according to Supt. H. C. Stark who stated that volunteer help would be needed for the heavy registration required for certification of users and issuance of ration cards.

Richard Pears Is Named Chief Pilot Of Braniff Airways

Capt. R. W. Pears, native of Buchanan and son of Charles Pears of this place, has been promoted from assistant chief pilot to chief pilot of the Braniff Airways of Oklahoma and Texas, according to recent announcement by T. E. Braniff of Oklahoma City.

On Wednesday evening, April 29, there will be a cooperative supper under the direction of the Women's Society for Christian Service, the feature being a cake with 100 candles. Each guest will receive a piece.

The present Dayton postoffice (meaning of course the postoffice furniture) was built about the year 1880 by Anthony Emmsperger, who was a well-known carpenter of the village about that time.

The Buchanan police force has now been rounded out to a full-time force of three men experienced in police work, including Chief Paul Kane, and Patrolmen L. H. Fletcher and Edward Sandara.

Records do not give the date the line was completed, but it was late in 1881 or early in 1882 with Morris' telephone the only one connected with it here.

The telephone history is unique in that local exchange service was allowed to expire within a year after its introduction and was not revived until a dozen or more years later.

Details of the registration of individuals will be printed next week.

On Wednesday and Thursday evening, April 29-30, the Hollywood theatre will present a government short subject entitled, "Fighting Fire Bombs".

I. O. O. F Piazas Blood Donation Campaign Soon

The Buchanan Odd Fellow lodge will have a definite announcement to make next week on local arrangements for donations of blood to the army and navy.

Buchanan Now Has 3 Full-Time Police on Force

Wanted: Pictures of Buchanan Boys In U. S. Service

Local people who have pictures of young men from the Buchanan district in the services are asked to bring them to the local Haffner's store for a special window display to be made in connection with a sale of defense savings stamps next week.

It's Best To Test Whether To Lime

Keen eyes and crop prospects for harvests are not the best guides for determining whether fields on Michigan farms need liming.

The Chicago Newspaper Battle
MURIL H. DEFOE, editor of the Charlotte Republican-Tribune, has the following to say of the Chicago Tribune-Sun bout in a recent issue:

NOT IN MANY years—if ever—has a city as large as Chicago seen a newspaper war as well directed and adequately financed as the effort now being made by Marshall Field's new Chicago Sun to break into the morning field here in this second largest city in the nation. In the first place, Col. McCormick's Chicago Tribune, which has dominated the morning field for many years, almost completely for a decade or longer, is a truly great newspaper. Not as great as its boast—"The World's Greatest Newspaper", but surely a first division newspaper by any of the accepted tests for determining such facts. When the real story is told, as it will be, ultimately, it will relate the role played in this new venture by President Roosevelt. It is no secret at all that the savage and constant opposition of the Tribune to the Roosevelt foreign policy created the Sun. The initial investment to start a paper in competition against a publication as well entrenched as the Tribune requires vast sums of money. Was it the influence of the President that finally caused Marshall Field to undertake the new undertaking? Many people believe it. Chicago is Democratic and Pro-Roosevelt from the hour of his first nomination in Chicago when he flew here to give his speech of acceptance. Despite Tribune opposition every day kept on growing. The psychology for a new morning paper couldn't have been more perfect. It was a natural by all the rules and the fight is on. The attack on Pearl Harbor but the bitter isolationist policy of the Tribune on the defense and the Sun, aided and abetted by the Colonel—Frank Knox's Chicago Daily News (and in which plant the Sun is printed) is doing its best to keep that fight constantly to the fore. It is a fight of giants and in scope extends from the straight corner news stand to the desks of the largest space buyer in the nation.

IT IS INTERESTING to look over the type of men in the hotel coffee shop and travelers on trains who buy these respective papers. The Tribune you must understand has a sharp advantage in the long control of many of the popular comic strips and other well established syndicated features, but even so it is quite surprising to find the Sun reaching in to many sacred precincts. The old time business as usual person is always found at a Tribune; the New Deal office holder now augmented by thousands of administration sympathizers because of the war and which is now an army in itself, reads the Sun. They are willing to admit that the Tribune has a great foreign service and as good a sports section as can be found anywhere, but just the same they want to read, at this particular time, the things they believe in. There is still a bit of politics in this war and don't forget it. It is a great conquest and luckily for the mid-west both men are worthy and honorable, first as useful and reputable private citizens and patriotic public adversaries.

THE FIGHT is dropped when the elevator stops on the sixth floor of the Marshall Field Co. man's grill. There are just enough women, outside of the waitresses and kitchen help, to serve as hostesses plus two or three top executives. The waiters are wholesome in appearance but the others could have been picked by a Hollywood revue agent, they are that glamorous. Incidentally, this grill is a great spot for good food and this is a free comment I asked the waiter for a paper and she gave me a Tribune left evidently by a previous customer. Other Tribune customers seemed to enjoy their food. The Tribune printed advertisements appear in framed displays, along with Sun copy, which shows that a merchant prices Mr. Field's hard boiled and buys $c for $1.00, appeal rather than sentiment in the cold field of business both McCormick and Field seem to have all the virtues of gentlemen.

By Ruth Taylor
FLAMES FIRES of freedom and civil liberties burn low in other lands. They must be made brighter in our own.
ONE THING we must not do. We must not echo the actions of our enemies by persecution of the aliens in our midst. That is the weapon of intolerance and prejudice our foes want us to use. It is a direct denial of the American way of life.
THE OTHER DAY it was stated that "Decent people do not consider racial origin. We are ALL FAIR!"

a people, not a race." Being an American is not a matter of common race, common nationality or common religion—but of a common belief in an ideal of equal treatment and equal opportunity for all.

Some people have attempted to differentiate critically between the immigrants who came here years ago, and the refugees harried to our shores since the Terror in Europe. They forget that each of our waves of immigrants were the refugees of their day, from the Pilgrims landing on the rockbound coast of New England, to the Maryland Catholics who passed the first religious liberty laws on these shores, and to the Germans from the Palatinate, finding the savage Indians and the relentless wilderness of the Mohawk Valley more merciful than the armies of the kings of Europe. Even the Irish were refugees—from famine. There is hardly an American without a strain of refugee blood in his veins.

Loyalty breeds loyalty. We can keep the aliens in our midst loyal if we foster loyalty by demonstrating our own fidelity to the principles on which our nation was founded. We must not discriminate against the alien—be he refugee or immigrant. Each and every one is entitled to a fair chance if we believe in democracy, we must put it into practice in our own life and actions.
While we must not constitute ourselves a self-appointed police force, we must be vigilant, prompt and courageous in reporting all subversive actions or speech to the F. B. I. or the Department of Justice—but don't let us accuse, try and condemn on our own.
The Bill of Rights applies to all within our borders. We are a law abiding nation—not a law fearing nation, and our laws are for all of us—Americans by birth, Americans by choice or the stranger within our gates. That is democracy. The word itself precludes discrimination.

Local Standard Oil representatives have called attention to the fact that Standard Oil of Indiana, which operates in this part of the United States, is entirely separate and distinct from Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, recently a defendant in an action brought by the U. S. Attorney General's office under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act because of certain relations it had with the German dye trust with respect to patents. Standard Oil Company of Indiana, in its management and its policies, is entirely separate from the Standard Oil of New Jersey, and was not a party to any of the agreements between the latter company and the I. G. Farbenindustrie of Germany relative to patents on synthetic rubber and other chemical processes.

Nothing Stops War Pipe Line Gang

When a petroleum pipe line is being built to supply war industries with the precious fluid, nothing stops the pipe line gangs. Right: A rock ditch being blasted at a river crossing somewhere in the Carolinas. Left: A gang prepares to bend a 12-inch pipe in the mountain area of Alabama. Bending the pipe to conform with the terrain is tough work. The completed Plantation Pipe line, from Baton Rouge, La., to Bremen, Ga., and Greensboro, N. C., has some 1,200 miles of pipe.

Joan Scores Again! The youngest of the Bennett clan scores again! Joan Bennett, in the feminine starring role in 20th Century-Fox's "Confirm or Deny," chalks up another triumph in her screen career. "Confirm or Deny," which is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, April 24-25, at the Hollywood theatre, is Miss Bennett's third consecutive picture on the 20th Century-Fox lot. She scored a personal success as a Cockney girl in "Man Hunt" and was accorded superlative praise by the critics. Previously she won acclaim for her work in "The Man I Married". Henry Wales, veteran New York newspaper man, and Samuel Fuller wrote the original story, a thrilling tale dealing with the work of American correspondents under fire in Britain. Archie Mayo handled the megaphone on "Confirm or Deny" and Len Hammond was producer. Glamorous Star Just Mrs. at Home! Although she is widely famed as a screen star, Shirley Rees prefers to be a typical Hollywood housewife in her private life. The glamorous blonde beauty, starred opposite William Lundigan in Republic's "Sailors On Leave," showing at the Hollywood Friday and Saturday, April 24-25 is particularly fond of her beautiful Benedict Canyon home—which boasts the tallest Eucalyptus trees in private property in California—and of her young son, John Kenneth Dolan, not to mention her brilliant husband, Ken Dolan, who is an actors' agent in Hollywood.

Romantic Triangle Anne Gwynne, Dick Foran and Johnny Mack Brown provide the love interest in Universal's new Abbott and Costello starrer, "Ride Em Cowboy," at the Hollywood Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, April 26-27-28. They have featured roles on the big cast playing in support to the two sensational comedians, whose "Buck Privates," "Abbott and Costello and Dick Powell in the Navy," "Hold That Ghost" and "Keep 'Em Flying" established new box-office records throughout the country.

Set in Honolulu A star-studded romance in heavenly Honolulu! That's "The Perfect Snob," 20th Century-Fox's gay romantic comedy playing at the Hollywood theatre Wednesday and Thursday, April 29-30. And what a cast with Charlie Ruggles and Charlotte Greenwood—a new laugh team, and Lynn Bari and Cornel Wilde—a new love team. When they get together it's the all-star laugh-and-love battle of the century!

Charlie and Charlotte are cast as Lynn's parents, and they don't see eye to eye on her future. But he has a mind of her own—and now how to use it! Alan Mowbray and Anthony Quinn are featured in the film, which was directed by Ray McCarey and produced by Walter Roscoe.

Ida Lupino Vetoes Bustle Ida Lupino, who has never yet objected to being deglamorized for the screen, drew the line on one item of wardrobe prescribed for her spinster role in Columbia's "Ladies in Retirement," a sensational new drama at the Hollywood theatre Wednesday and Thursday, April 29-30. She refused to don a bustle. "It's not a matter of glamour," she insisted to Director Charlesidor. "It's simply a matter of woman's prerogative. I'm sure women, in the period when bustles were chic, cheated a bit and used tuck or two to suggest the additional effect without the discomfort that's good enough for me."

Co-starring with Miss Lupino in "Ladies in Retirement" is her husband, Louis Hayward. It's their picture together.

Social Changes Resulting From War To Affect Marriage Social changes which will have vital and beneficial effect on present marital problems were predicted as an outcome of the recent war by Dr. Paul Popenoe, general director of the American Institute of Family Relations during his seven day conference at Central Michigan college this week. The nationally known authority on marital relations listed definite trends toward less restrictions on marriage for women in at least the leading professions, less partial domination of their husbands and a widespread demand for establishing family wage.

structors that school boards are being forced to hire married women. This is a trend that began before the war and will undoubtedly continue after the war is over. Some studies, the speaker continued, show that married women are better suited for such positions, especially teaching, than single women. In most cases they have better emotional balance. Dr. Popenoe struck hard at parental domination of children and advised Central Michigan college students to seek the advice of their parents, listen to it carefully, but to make all the decisions themselves. The family wage—designed to equalize the salary received by the single and the married man—has already been placed into effect in the army and navy. Even several colleges, universities and church organizations pay their employees a salary based on the size of their family.

Supporting the family wage, Dr. Popenoe told the group that at the end of the present war many married men in the armed services will make an effort to establish the system in civilian life. The most persistent question asked at the seven day conference concerned marriage under the present war conditions. "This war will not be permanent," Dr. Popenoe emphasized, "if you intended to get married this spring, get married, although you may be called to the army this fall." He qualified his statement, however, and emphasized that marriages which are the result of the war should be shunned. A restricted social life for both if the fellow was called into the army was certain, however, and he urged that each party take this into consideration.

Dr. Popenoe is a biology professor at the University of Southern California where he lives with his wife and four sons.

State Commission Explains Means of Control of Liquor (This is the first of a series of articles from the Michigan Liquor Control Commission, designed to acquaint you with your powers and responsibilities as a private citizen in making Michigan's Liquor business more to your liking.) Authority to make the liquor business in your community exactly as you want it—including the authority to prevent any sales by the glass—is vested in the hands of your township board or your city council.

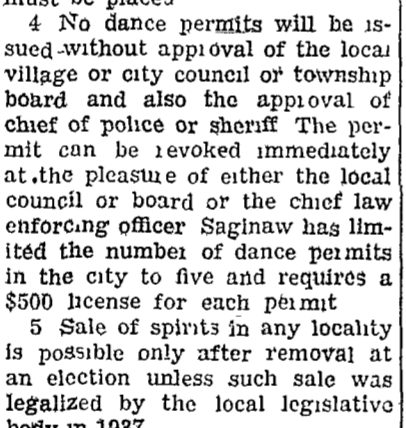

If you object to dancing in liquor establishments, if you believe any establishment is so conducted that the community interest would be better served by revocation of its license, if you object to the location of any such liquor place—the power to remedy the situation rests with your local officials. It was the intent of the legislature that local communities should have maximum control over the business in their communities and it has been the policy of the commission to carry out this intention. Outside of Detroit, where differential regulations are necessary because of the metropolitan nature of the section, your township or city officials have the following powers of control over liquor sales and licensing: 1. All by-the-glass licensees must have approval of their township, village or city boards or councils before a license will be issued. 2. Upon receipt of a resolution asking it from any local governmental unit—city or village council or township board—the Michigan Liquor Control Commission must revoke a license. This is mandatory and the commission has no discretion. This applies only to by-the-glass places and not to clubs and package liquor vendors. 3. Local legislative bodies may prohibit sales of all alcoholic liquors on Sundays, election days, or holidays. They may also pass ordinances providing for distance from churches, schools, or playgrounds at which establishments must be placed. 4. No dance permits will be issued without approval of the local village or city council or township board and also the approval of chief of police or sheriff. The permit can be revoked immediately at the pleasure of either the local council or board or the chief law enforcing officer. Saginaw has limited the number of dance permits in the city to five and requires a $500 license for each permit. 5. Sale of spirits in any locality is possible only after removal at an election unless such sale was legalized by the local legislative body in 1937.

Local outstate officials have no legal control over the following: 1. Local officials are without legal authority to set closing hours. However, in several smaller cities where licensees have cooperated voluntarily, midnight closing hours have been established under a "gentlemen's agreement". 2. Local officials have no legal control over issuance of SDD or SDM permits. However, police chiefs are asked to pass-on each permit or club license granted and although legally the local unit has no power as a matter of practical fact, few such permits are ever granted without the approval of the local chief, the agent of the local legislative body.

Karl F. Zick Announces For Co. Attorney Karl F. Zick, assistant prosecuting attorney in Berrien county for the last four years, today announced his candidacy for the office of Prosecuting Attorney on the republican ticket. Mr. Zick is a native son of Berrien county. He was born in Stevensville, Michigan and attended grade and high school in Berrien county, graduating from Benton Harbor high school in 1927. He was active in high school athletics and was captain of the basketball team in his senior year, and he was also the recipient of the 1927 Benton Harbor Exchange Club Scholarship award. This award is given only to high school athletes whose scholarship standing is high. Mr. Zick received his pre-law training at Olivet college, and received his Bachelor of Law degree at Marquette university. Admitted to the State Bar of Michigan in the fall of 1933, Mr. Zick was associated for several years with Attorney Charles W. Gore, former Prosecuting Attorney, and in 1939 became assistant to Prosecutor Robert P. Small.

Before entering the practice of law Mr. Zick was active as a fruit and produce buyer on the Benton Harbor fruit market, and through many years, gained business experience from the viewpoint of both farmers and buyers. He is well known among the farmers of Berrien county. In making his announcement Mr. Zick stated, "I have spent four years as assistant in preparing myself for the important position of prosecutor. I believe the experience has now qualified me for the office, and if elected I can assure the voters of this county a thorough and honest administration of the legal affairs of Berrien county. Mr. Zick is a life long republican, and has been active in the party for a number of years. He is married, and has two children, and resides on Benton Harbor. He is a member of the Congregational church, the Benton Harbor Lions club, having been a past president of that club, and the B. P. O. E.

Ascend to Great Heights Duzards, condors, hawks, gulls and albatrosses can ascend to great heights and soar for hours without any apparent motion of their wings, by taking advantage of minor air currents through imperceptible movements of different parts of the body. The principle is similar to that by which a kite or glider is flown. A bird which is flying forward and upward against the wind without flapping its wings is in effect riding on an ascending current of air. The motive power seems to be supplied by very slight body, head and tail movements.

War Promotes Economic Value Home Orchards

It's taken a war emergency to help point out that the old home orchard and small fruit plantings on the average Michigan farm can be spruced up to add their bit to farm family food supplies, thus reducing necessity of food transportation. To aid in more efficient home food production as part of the Michigan War Board program, three departments at Michigan State college have cooperated in compiling suggestions for quality production from the home plantings not ordinarily in commercial production. Entomologists, horticulturists and botanists agree that one essential is to scan the orchard. One good, bearing tree of a variety can be made to produce more fruit, usually, than can be consumed during the season. Similarly, too many trees make spraying a laborious job and thus the spray protection may be neglected. Trees in fence corners and out-of-the-way places may best be torn out so that they do not remain as breeding places for pests and diseases. Dropped fruit should be picked up regularly at weekly intervals as another measure of insect control. The preparation gives a complete home orchard spraying schedule for apples, pears and quinces, for peaches and plums and for sweet and sour cherries. Pruning and spraying of the home supply vineyard is included. A seven-point program for insect and disease control for raspberries also is offered. Extension folder 17, "Spray Program for Home Orchards and Small Fruits" is the new publication, printed in condensed form. Copies can be obtained in offices of county agricultural agents or by writing the Bulletin Room, Michigan State college, East Lansing.

Bridal Veil The bridal veil was first worn by the ancients to conceal and protect the bride from evil spirits. SHIELD-EXPERT-HERE H. M. SHEVNAV, widely known expert of Chicago, will personally be at Elkhart Hotel, Elkhart, Saturday, only, April 25, from 9 a m to 5 p m. Mr. Shevnav says The Zoetic Shield is a tremendous improvement over all former methods, effecting immediate results. It will not only hold the rupture perfectly but increase the circulation, strengthens the weakened parts, thereby closing the opening in ten days on the average case, regardless of heavy lifting, straining or any position the body may assume no matter the size or location. A nationally known scientific method, no under straps or cumbersome arrangements, and absolutely no medicines or medical treatments. Mr. Shevnav will be glad to demonstrate without charge. Add. 6509 N. Artesian Ave., Chicago. Large incisional Hernia or rupture following surgical operation especially solicited.

MSC Dietician Advises Eating Color Vegetables

Take the advice of the cook this spring in selecting what's ought to go in that 1942 Victory vegetable garden. That's if the cook takes the advice of the dietician who says a wise gardener plans a variety of the color vegetables that offer more vitamins and minerals than some of the more ordinary kinds. Eight of the recommended vegetables include mustard greens, beet greens, turnip greens, kale, lettuce and cabbage, each of which offers some leafy greens. That's delectable spinach is in this class, too. New vegetable to try might include broccoli or Chinese cabbage or one of the endives, suggests Miss Roberta Hershey, extension specialist in nutrition at Michigan State college. Yellow vegetables are the ones that are rich in vitamin A. This vitamin corrects night blindness and keeps the body in condition to avoid colds and other diseases. Its source is in such vegetables as carrots, parsnips and rutabagas. Squash is another vitamin-A source. For the vitamin C vegetable Miss Hershey reminds gardeners of the tomato, a natural favorite.

in Michigan Plenty for eating fresh and for canning ought to be included in the 1942 garden. Some of the other suggestions include the stringless and wax beans, green onions, asparagus, radishes, peas and lima beans. If there's any doubt about the value of vegetables, Miss Hershey relates the experiences of a typical farm family. Members related their time in gardening was worth an average of 72 cents an hour, garden supply expense, were $28.40, and produce of the garden were worth $259.39. That, says Miss Hershey, is a profitable way to guard health and keep the wolf away from the door.

H. Broceus Writes of Oil Strike in Canada

W. H. Broceus, who once lived in Buchanan but for some years lived in British Columbia, here he once "mushed" a dog on over a winter mail route, tells the following account of a oil strike up Canada way. It's little out of our bailiwick, but it's good news these days, as oil supplies may spell the end of rationing. And we're always glad to hear from Mr. Broceus. A story, from a Canadian paper, follows.

Parade Ground in Northern Ireland

There are now many U. S. troops stationed in Northern Ireland, several A. E. F.'s of considerable size having landed safely. This photo, taken somewhere in Northern Ireland, shows part of the U. S. troops on the parade ground as they were reviewed by Maj. Gen. Russell P. Hault, and his officers.

problem Numerous attempts have been made but only two or three have passed beyond the laboratory stage. The International Bitumount Company, with a small plant at Bitumount, about 55 miles down the Athabaska from Fort McMurray, was the first company to attain commercial production. In 1937 and 1938 this company produced and sold several thousand barrels of fuel oil and a small tonnage of asphaltic products. During the early '30s several Americans from Kansas City became interested in the tar sands. They organized a company, the Abasand Oil Ltd. Max Ball, well known consulting petroleum engineer, became president. Mason McClave, hydro-metallurgist and research engineer who developed a separation process applicable to the tar sands, was engaged as the company's specialist on separation and recovery problems; while A. J. Smith Engineering Corporation refinery engineers were retained to conduct refining research. At present Abasand Oil Ltd. are operating the only plant in the tar sands.

REGARDING YOUTH RECREATION

IN THE MINDS of many people there exists a suspicion that all "youth" organizations are likely to be tainted with unorthodoxy, or that they represent "frill" ideas, unless they operated under the aegis of some "groove" institution such as the school or the church. TO SUCH SOME acquaintance with the American Youth Commission might be educational. The commission is composed of a group of outstanding American adults—its chairman is—Owen D. Young, one of America's greatest industrial executives; H. I. Harman is vice president; Muiam Van Waters, judge in a children's court in Los Angeles—whose work has been distinguished for decades, is the secretary; John W. Studebaker, United States Commissioner of Education, is a director. There are more of the same. They represent varying shades of belief; but in the lump they are anything but a "bunch of radicals". SAYS ITS DIRECTOR, Floyd Reeve "Our commission takes the position that recreation because of its relation to character building, to morale and to all-around sanity, is not a luxury in wartime. We believe that community recreation programs are an essential social service and one needed even more at present than in times of less stress and strain. The existing community programs should be vigorously maintained and where possible expanded. In a series of special studies the commission has called particular attention to the recreational needs of rural youth and of negro youth—groups whose recreational and leisure time needs are least adequately met.

THE RECREATIONAL PROBLEM of youth in time of war is of major importance, but it is attended by many difficulties and is met in certain quarters by hostility or indifference. What can be done? I believe we need to do three things:—FIRST, WE NEED to secure, understand and disseminate the facts and relate them to the present emergency.

SECOND, WE SHOULD use ingenuity in discovering new recreational resources in our communities and in making them available to all. This can be done over and over again the commissioner's investigations have found average communities with no special advantages, but with alert and imaginative leadership which have found ways to provide creative leisure time activities, not for a privileged few, but for the whole of the youth population."

Nicaragua—Ocean Link Of Tomorrow

Nicaragua is the largest of the Central American republics. Its territory, about that of Wisconsin, forms an isosceles triangle wedged into the middle of Central America, with the Pacific as the western boundary and the Atlantic, the Caribbean Sea, as the eastern.

From northwest to southeast the extension of the Sierra Madre mountain system cuts through Nicaragua, dividing it into two parts which have, as yet, little access to each other. The smaller of these, the narrow Pacific Coast region, is about a quarter of the country's total area of 57,000 square miles. But here is most of the agriculture of the nation, and nearly half its population, of about a million and a half. Here, too, on the southern shore of the famed Lake Managua, about 200 feet above sea level, is Managua, the capital city.

Almost completely destroyed by earthquake and fire in 1931, the city has risen again, more modern but fully as beautiful as of old. The larger eastern section of the triangle is for the most part mountainous. Most of the large rivers emptying into the Atlantic rise in the central cordillera region. The Rio Grande de Matagalpa flows eastward through a large gap in the mountains, and in its valleys are most of the cattle ranches of the country.

Lying placidly between mountains and coasts are the two fresh water lakes for which Nicaragua is famous. Into them empty the mountain streams of the western slopes. The smaller of these is Lake Managua, 33 miles long and 10 to 16 miles in width. The other, Lake Nicaragua, is an elliptical body of water 90 miles long and 39 miles at its widest. It is about 135 feet above sea level and has always been an important factor in the transportation of the country. Davila, the first Spanish conqueror, called it "Freshwater Sea". From Lake Nicaragua, on its way to the Atlantic, flows the San Juan River. Together, these lakes cover nearly 3,500 square miles. These lakes and the San Juan River long have been discussed as possible routes of a second canal linking Atlantic and Pacific. In the days of the California "Gold Rush," there was lively interest in the possibility. A definite step in the direction of such a waterway is a treaty recently entered into by the governments of Nicaragua and Costa Rica for the canalization of the San Juan. This would open the way for navigation of ships of medium size from the Atlantic to Lake Nicaragua and speed the development of the whole region.

Columbus was the first white man to set eyes on Nicaragua in September of 1502, according to the story, nearing the Central American coast on his last voyage, he was overtaken by a storm finding safety in an unknown harbor, so great was his relief that he called the jutting point of land "Gracias a Dios," (Thanks Be to God). So the northeastern corner of Nicaragua got its name. Conquest did not follow close on the heels of discovery, however. It was not until after Balboa discovered the Pacific and claimed it all in the name of the Spanish king that there was begun a period of conquest and Spanish rule, to last for three years beyond three centuries. Movements toward independence there were, but the country's development into a free nation was delayed by attempts of various foreign powers to administer the affairs of the Nicaraguans. At last, rid of foreign interference, Nicaragua was to enjoy a period of tranquility which has been marked by a steady advance in the political and economic life of the nation.

In the world-market of today Nicaragua can offer gold, coffee, bananas, lumber, cotton, live stock hides and sugar. To supply its own needs, the country requires from other nations, cotton goods, machinery, tools, iron and steel products, oil, chemicals, drugs, automobiles and trucks.

Percy Grainger To Be Featured at U. of M. Concert

The mammoth massed orchestra concert to be presented by the Michigan Civic Orchestra Association announced previously to be at Olympia Stadium, Detroit, Sunday afternoon May 3, will be given instead at Ann Arbor, in the large Yoc Field House of the University of Michigan's athletic plant. It will include the appearance of PERCY GRAINGER, noted pianist and composer, both as soloist and as conductor, according to announcement from Philip Potts, acting president of the association.

With some 700 players to be assembled in the concert, the event presents the "southeastern" Michigan's leading symphony type orchestra in a thrilling and unique musical spectacle. Not in this generation, if in American history, has such an ensemble of experienced instrumentalists come together to form a gigantic massed orchestra, one over seven times as large as the conventional symphony orchestras ordinarily termed "large". The University's Extension Service will sponsor the occasion, and under arrangements planned by the Executive Committee in charge it is planned to offer the attraction complimentary to the public. The program will carry something of a patriotic theme, in keeping with the spirit of the times.

Mr. Grainger will present a piano solo feature of one of his own compositions that was written for piano and orchestra. Since 700 instrumentalists playing with one pianist might tend to be markedly overshadowed, in spite of all efforts to tone down the volume, the problem will be solved by using the public address system, with the microphone placed adjacent to the piano.

Two additional Grainger compositions will also be included in the program, one for string orchestra only and one for full orchestra. The composer will occupy the podium for both these selections.

Percy Grainger, though born in Australia, has been an American citizen for many years and claims this country as home. In World War I he combined army service and music by playing oboe and saxophone in an army band. It is not so many years ago that he took an American lady for his bride, with the wedding held in Hollywood Bowl following a concert. For the occasion, he composed an orchestral selection titled "Bridal Song", and directed the orchestra in its rendition. In addition to many brilliant and acclaimed piano concerts which Grainger has given throughout the world, he is also known as a composer of distinction, having written for chorus and for orchestra, as well as piano. His collection includes some 20 of "British Folk Music Settings", which have attracted wide attention. There is also an unusual "Tribute To Foster" a few years back, which used solo voices, chorus, piano, orchestra, and musical glasses.

Information concerning the entry of orchestras in the program May 3 and further details of the event may be obtained by addressing the Michigan Civic Orchestra Association, care University Extension Service, Ann Arbor, Mich.

Alberta also took up a survey of oil sands about twenty years ago. K. A. Clark, of the Research Council of Alberta began work in studying deposits and recovery. As a result in 1930 Clark set up and operated a small pilot plant near Waterways. The plant yielded 25 tons of sand per day. Important points became evident, first that the oil could be recovered economically and, secondly, it could be refined by treatment similar to that given ordinary crude. It was also learned that a grade product could be produced. Since assured that drilling would produce oil in this field men set to work on the recovery

The Golden Text (Matthew 24 13) is "He that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved."

Among the Bible citations is the passage (Psalms 118 1, 14, 17) "O give thanks unto the Lord, for he is good because his mercy endureth forever. The Lord is my strength and song, and is become my salvation I shall not die, but live, and declare the works of the Lord"

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following: (p 30) "Now I cried the apostle, 'now is the day of salvation,'—meaning, not that now men must prepare for a future-world salvation, or safety, but that now is the time in which to experience that salvation in spirit and in life"

With The Boys in Service

Gordon Schneider in Australia Mrs. Herman Schneider received a cablegram Monday from her son, Gordon Schneider, announcing his safe arrival in Australia after a water trip of almost exactly two months. He is widely known here, having for several years been the capable meat cutter at Reamers Market. He entered the service in December. His many friends here will be pleased to learn that he is now safe and well.

Robert Willard Wriets Robert L. Willard, now First Class Private at the 37th Air Base Squadron, Army Air Base, New Orleans, La., recently wrote a letter to his mother, Mrs. Warren Willard from which two paragraphs are quoted below. The latter referred to is Lake Pontchartrain, on which the base is situated. The lake is 35-27 miles in dimension. The paragraphs follow.

"Well gas school is finally over. We wound up last night and if there is anything you want to know about gas, defense just ask me. I think I learned everything there is to know about it. And the nice part is your son came through with a grade of 100% on his final examination. It's nothing to brag about for the questions were so darn easy that I don't see how anybody could fail to make a good grade. Quite a few of the fellows made 100 and then there were some that just did pass. If I had failed it would have meant taking the whole course over again until I did make it. We have been going to school three nights a week for ages. It seems they certainly are making sure that all of us are going to be prepared for the occasion ever arises.

"Dad you would certainly like to be down here. The fishing is swell. Everybody that can take a minute off from his work rushes out in back of the office, which is right on the lake, and goes fishing. They are catching fish too. Mostly crabs, not the kind that we have at home, but those big ones that could cut your finger off if they ever got hold of it. The shrimp season will start soon. They use big nets and just drag them in. I'm sure getting my fill of sea foods. Every time we go to town I try something different. The lake here is slightly salty and I think I told you how big it is. They catch trout, and most anything that you can think of."

Wayne Sanford arrived Sunday from Middletown, Pa., to spend a furlough of ten days at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Franklin. He left a year and two months ago for the aviation service and is now in the quartermaster's office at the Middletown Air Depot, about nine miles from Harrisburg, Pa.

Phil Brong and Bob Ferris came from Fort Custer to spend the week end at the homes of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Brong, 109 Arctic, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ferris, 103 Michigan. They had enlisted about two weeks ago, and expect to be transferred from Fort Custer soon.

Defense Work Puts Premium on Zinc

"Old wash pails and buckets, galvanized wire, tin roofings, which are no longer in use, can go directly into the production of projectiles for battle ships or into essential parts for tanks, trucks and a variety of other war materials," W. H. Ehrenberg, chairman of the Salvage for Victory Committee of the Berrien County Council of Defense, said today in explaining the reason for including zinc among items everyone is urged to save and sell for use in munitions factories.

"Every available pound of zinc is in demand by our war plants," Mr. Ehrenberg said, "even though the government has already taken precautionary steps to stop the use of the metal in non-essential production and to build up a pool for emergency allocations."

"A substantial portion of our zinc must be imported, and even though we are able to keep sea lanes open and import the metal, present indications point to a shortage of several hundred thousand tons next year. Again, the answer is clear—the supply of zinc scrap returning to industry must be increased rapidly and continually."

Door-knobs, candlesticks, fire irons, ashtrays and similar commonplace household pieces which have been broken or are considered unfit for continued use are all saleable to a local scrap collector, or may be given to one of the charitable organizations which collect, and, in turn, sell such materials.

Earlier Plantings Will Speed Garden

Gardening tricks that have been practiced for many years by the veterans are being broadcast for use in all of Michigan's farm and suburban Victory gardens early in 1942.

Some crops need an early start to beat hot weather, others need a longer than average growing season. An answer to these needs lies in use of hotbeds or cold frames or even in small soil flats which get their warmth and sunshine through a pane in a house window, according to members of the horticulture department at Michigan State college.

Those who start plants early should schedule the planting indoors or under glass so that plants are ready at the proper planting time and not too much ahead of outdoor planting, warns Perry Bowser, college extension specialist in horticulture.

Tomatoes require six to eight weeks in the protected plant bed. Cantaloupes and other vine crops can grow four or five weeks before they are set out, but cabbage can be field planted at a much earlier date.

Details to observe, Bowser suggests, are those of selecting good seed, treating seed and perhaps soil to prevent disease, proper soil selection and attention to seeding, watering, ventilating, transplanting and hardening.

Responsibility

The other day a student could be heard saying, "We really 'cut-up' today when our teacher left the room." We wondered whether he was bragging or complaining. At any rate it didn't bother him much. We should like to impress upon his mind the true value of responsibility. The foundation for your ability to be responsible starts in school. It is tragic if you cannot control yourself when left alone. When you are left alone in a room, it brings out your true characteristics. If a few set a good example, surely the rest will follow, out of courtesy if not self respect. Remember this is god citizenship and that counts plenty anywhere.

The Usher club recently sent for pins which will signify their membership. The small pins have a guard representing Aladdin's Lamp.

Juniors Rescind Exclusion of Under Classmen

The juniors held a re-vote on the question of whether or not to admit outsiders and underclassmen to the J. S. Prom. The results were: Yes 44, No 14. Ten votes were thrown out.

Dinner Served
The boys and girls home economics classes finished serving dinners last Thursday. The dinners were well balanced and bought on a budget plan. The food was jointly prepared by the two classes and served during the noon hours. The pupils were divided up into six groups of six each. A boy from each group acting as host carried the meat and served the plates. A girl from each group was a hostess, and poured the beverage.

third grade have been making flower borders of daffodils, tulips, and pansies. We have been studying about the robin, the owl, and the woodpecker in nature study class. We are working hard on multiplication and division in arithmetic class.

Miss Castafon's first grade children are making a spring letter to the back bulletin board. It will cover the entire board and will illustrate all the signs of spring.

Edgar Truitt's name has been added to the Lental Honor Roll. The boys and girls in Mrs. O'Brien's fourth grade have been making good work in their lessons. We are happy to see them so busy with their books. We are made attentive cover, for these booklets also.

Don Dokey, a Miss Heim's second grade, has had her name added to the Dental Honor Roll.

Some of the children in kindergarten are making flower booklets. We are adding the flowers different colors. Other children are making the fan-boards to be used for our assembly program.

Grade News—H. S.
Mrs. Caragan and her pupils have been taking walks to observe signs of spring and the predominant colors. The observations made on these trips have afforded material for conversation lessons and art work.

The flower seed and vegetable seed planted by the pupils in Miss Connell's room have started to grow.

The boys and girls have new "Think and Do Books" for their primes and first readers.

John Hyink and Gordon Quich are absent due to illness.

Richard Deistler's mother visited our room last week.

The children in Miss Fetz's room are making a frieze about "Spring Fun" for the front of the room.

With the money Miss Fetz's children received from selling newspapers and hangers they are buying a book, vases and games.

The children enjoyed watching a Centropia moth come out of its cocoon.

Miss Geter's fourth grade has finished the unit on fire and is now making booklets on "The Fire Department".

The fifth grade is now visiting the veterans states in their journey across the United States.

Many of the boys and girls in Mrs. Kelsey's room are building model airplanes. They have been doing a great deal of reading about airplanes in their Social Studies work.

Miss Kinney sent for two charts showing all of the band and orchestra instruments. Most of the children did not know one instrument from another, but they are now able to recognize most of them.

In music appreciation the children learned about "The Stars and Stripes Forever". They learned that it has four themes and then the grand ending. The march was written by John Philip Sousa.

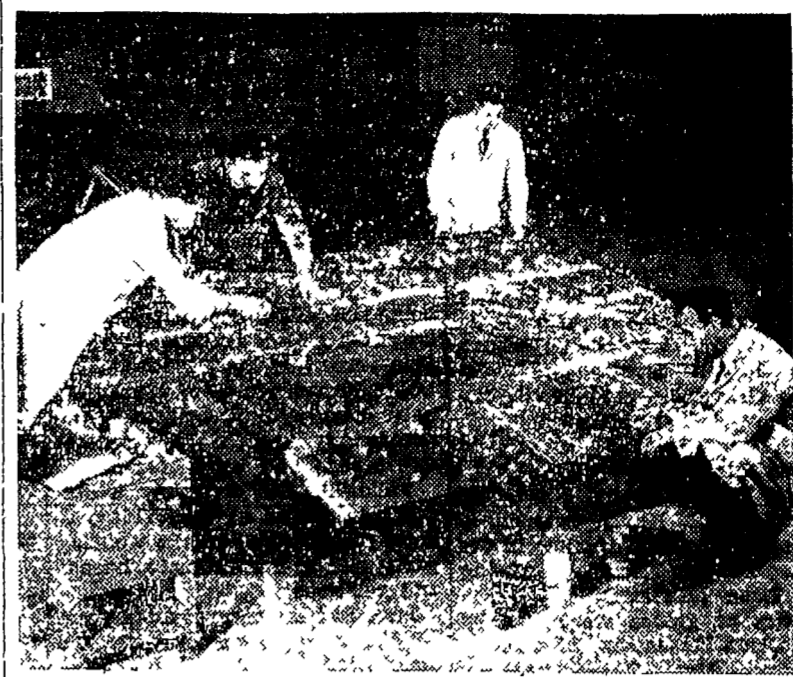

The boys and girls all wanted to pledge allegiance to the flag after they had heard the music and had listened to the story about the record.

The boys in Miss Fuller's room have divided into two ball teams. The captains are Andrew Fagras and Billie Nelson. The girls have their own games of jumping rope and ball.

On April 14, the pupils in Miss Ekstrom's fifth grade observed Pan American Day. On Pan American Day all American countries celebrate their growing friendship with one another.

The children are making a picture panel in Miss Nelson's room showing the life of the Boat People on the Northwest coast. They like to draw their boats and totes.

Their Job to Hide Armament Plants

In the piping times of peace, these stylists and expert technicians devised luxury lines for new passenger cars. Now they are working in a large Detroit automobile company's camouflage section, developing means of disguising important buildings so enemy airmen cannot spot them. It's a tough job to hide a 10 or 20-acre munitions plant, but these boys can do it. Above, they are working on a diorama, changing the appearance of the entire countryside.

In fact, the college staff issued a request that farmers refrain from bringing sick or dead hogs to the campus at East Lansing for diagnosis.

"Transporting a sickly hog is a dangerous practice and should be discouraged," says Dr. B. J. Killham, extension pathologist at the college. "Vehicles used for conveying cholera-infected hogs become contaminated and the possibilities for spread of the disease are increased."

Usually the onset of a cholera epidemic comes in July in Michigan. With an early start, the disease this year may strike more hog herds than usual unless farmers take precautions.

One step is to vaccinate hogs. Cost of this is lowest shortly after the pigs are weaned, for it takes far-less serum for a small pig than for a half-grown hog. Farmers are advised to take no chances with cholera especially if there is any prevalence or suspicion of the disease in a community. Flood waters of recent days have increased the possibilities of cholera spread.

Another factor in the cholera situation is that many farmers are new to the hog business, but that only emphasizes the cholera danger because these farmers may make mistakes in dealing with the disease.

When cholera enters a herd of hogs, Dr. Killham explains, usually only one hog is affected at the start and symptoms may be obscure. When a hog goes off feed, the owner should isolate the animal and if in doubt use the services of the local veterinarian. Garbage-fed hogs, especially, should be immunized against cholera by serum treatment.

60th ANNIVERSARY of TELEPHONE SERVICE in Buchanan . . .

YESTERDAY . . .

Telephone service was introduced to Buchanan 60 years ago . . . in 1882 . . . when a local exchange was opened with eight subscribers. John Morris, general store proprietor, was the first local manager. That same year a long distance line was built from Niles to Buchanan and Berrien Springs. After one year, the local exchange closed, and Buchanan had only long distance service until 1896, when the local exchange was re-established. Although the early telephones were crude, and transmission was limited, Buchanan, then as now, enjoyed the best telephone service possible to provide.

TODAY . . .

Buchanan today is a thriving community. Its products include industrial tractors, auto and refrigerator parts, and forgings. Buchanan is a trading center for the surrounding resort and agricultural areas. And today, there are more than 1,400 telephones here. This Company is proud of the part it has had in the development of the community, and appreciates the patronage it has enjoyed from its customers.

TOMORROW . . .

No forecast of the telephone service of the future could be accurate. To meet tomorrow's needs, however, progress must be made. To insure that progress, the Bell System maintains the Bell Telephone Laboratories, where a large group of scientists devote all their time to developing "a better thing or a better way". That research is an important factor in enabling the Michigan Bell Company to provide high quality telephone service at low cost to the users.

Much Bell Telephone Laboratories research today is directly associated with the Army and Navy War Program and in the development of alternate substances to permit the saving of valuable materials needed for war.

Report Big Loss Of Farm Soils in Spring Rain Runoff

The St. Joseph and Paw Paw rivers have been high and muddy since the first of March. This condition was caused by heavy spring rains and melting snow in the water sheds of the two rivers and their contributing streams according to E A Myers of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture Soil Conservation service.

An automatic recording rain gage located near Eau Claire recorded 2.06 inches of rain in a twelve hour period on March 11. One half inch of this rain fell in a little over five minutes. This severe storm caused large soil losses in the vicinity of Eau Claire and in Pipestone township.

The runoff from this rain caused Pipestone Creek and the St Joe river to run over their banks and flood many lowland fields.

Figures from Runoff and Soil loss demonstration plots maintained by the directors of the St Joseph River Soil Conservation district at the Wern Waman farm near Coloma, indicate that most of the muddy water came from open unprotected sloping land.

From Dec 13, 1941, until April 1st, 1942, corn land, rowed up and down a 14% slope of Hillsdale Loam lost 35% of the moisture which fell on the plot. This plot was left without an over-winter cover crop. Where an over-winter cover crop was used and the rows were planted on the contour, the runoff was only half as much (it pays to use cover-crop whenever possible) and, where sod was used, the runoff was only one-sixth as much for the same period on the same soil and slope conditions.

These results show definitely the value of protecting sloping crop land during the winter as well as during the summer-months. Water held on the land reduces the loss of top soil, which is also needed by plants and trees.
