St. Joseph County, Ind., Has Handy System Of Naming To Rural Roads

System Is Convenient And Economical, Say County Officials

It is well known, to all Michiganders at least, that Michigan has one of the finest and best-kept highway systems in the United States—and that means in the world.

And here in Berrien county we know that our county has the best managed and kept roads in Michigan. So you see where that puts us.

But there's just one thing where St. Joseph county, Indiana has us ahead—that's on their system of naming their roads. They told us in the St. Joe county courthouse in South Bend that the system was initiated by a Mr. W. E. Hepler, who lived near Mishawaka, and was then on the board of county commissioners. Once upon a time Hepler got disgusted with the business of trying to tell people how to get places on a tangle of unknown roads.

If it were in Nebraska, or Kansas, or Colorado it would be different—all roads are on section lines and you merely say "so many miles this way, so many miles that way, and such a house on such a side of the road."

Mr. Hepler was the kind of man that did something about things that disgusted him. In this case he turned up at a meeting of the county commissioners one day with a whole road-naming system all worked out. Nobody seemed to know in the court house how long ago that was—the surveyor thought it was at least 25 years ago. Nobody there even knew who the commissioner was—that we found in the local history files in the city library. There it did not give any date, or whether Mr. Hepler is yet in the land of the living. If not, we'll wager he got passed through the pearly gates without a hitch because of the time and temper of other people he had saved by that saintly road-naming act.

The road-naming system was revamped in 1933 when a commissioner, by the name of Charles J. Roy, also of Mishawaka (at all the brains of St. Joseph county in Mishawaka), reorganized it. Mr. Roy spent many days in the South Bend and Mishawaka libraries hunting up names, and made a lot of changes. For instance of the 60 east and west roads, 32 were renamed.

As a result the roads are now named the following way: All north and south roads are named after trees, shrubs, flowers, plants, with the names coming in alphabetical order, starting from the eastern of Elkhart county side. For example, the first roads named from the east are as follows: Ash road (on the county line), then Apple, Beech, Birch, Basswood, Bittersweet, Blackberry, Cedar, Dogwood, and so on.

The east and west roads, starting from the Michigan line on the north, are named after presidents of the United States, Governors, and statesmen and authors of Indiana. These names are also arranged in alphabetical order from the north, as Adams Road, Anderson, Aulen, Brick, etc. That Brick Road—for instance—we always thought that was a brick-paved road, but we find it was named after a Senator Brick of Indiana.

These are the main east and west roads. Short intermediary roads are given selected titles in alphabetical order, perhaps from pioneer residents—we're just guessing about that.

Diagonal roads are called highways or "trails." The highways are the longer diagonal avenues, as Crumstown highway, Liberty highway, etc. The shorter diagonals are usually named as trails, as Osborne Trail, Place Trail, Keim Trail, etc.

The roads are also numbered. The north and south roads are numbered from 100 to 196, starting from the east side. The east and west roads are numbered from 212 to 288, starting at the southern border.

In 1938 the blue signs with white letterings installed in 1933 were changed to black lettering on yellow. A total of 1,654 yellow and black road markers were installed at 750 road intersections. The signs themselves were of steel made for St. Joseph county by prison labor at Michigan City, Ind. at a cost of 35 or 40 cents each. At that time the county invested $3,920 on signs and all materials, and the work was done as a WPA project.

County highway superintendent Benny Otolski says that the upkeep of the sign system does not cost much, probably not to exceed $1,000 annually.

It is emphasized that the results reported by Dr. Hall are for one year. Seasons in which different climatic conditions, such as late fall, occur may modify the results.

Get Better Corn Yields By Omitting Harrow After Plow

The possibility of eliminating some labor in growing the Michigan corn crop is indicated in preliminary results of a soil science experiment conducted at Michigan State college.

These results showed that it was not necessary to do any intermediate fitting of the soil between plowing and planting, such as harrowing or cult-packing. Not only was the corn easier to cultivate but out-yielded the corn planted after the usual fitting by four to eight bushels per acre. The ground at harvest time was not so hard as that which had been fitted in the usual way.

In this experiment the field was plowed in the usual way, with the exception that the furrows were undercut but not an inch to give good coverage. Then the tractor wheels were set in so that the planter shots trailed in the wheel tracks, and the field was planted as soon after plowing as possible. The research man in charge of the experiment, Dr. Nathan Hall, of the oil science staff, believes that it is important to make sure that the surface material is well covered.

Dr. Hall believes that harrowing and the usual operations of intermediate fitting tend to bring up weed seeds that might otherwise not sprout and grow. Thus, omitting the intermediate fitting helped in weed control.

Street Car To Stage Come-Back In Bigger Cities

Autos Have No Place In City "Downtowns" Say Traffic Engineers

Since the Clark Equipment company's in the streetcar business has been for about eight years, news that the streetcar seems definitely staged for a comeback should be greeted with some cheerfulness here.

The Clark Equipment company went into the streetcar business on invitation, when an association of streetcar company executives invited the company to make an experimental undercarriage. The Clark concern was selected from among American construction companies mainly because of its experience and success in the use of light-alloys in manufacture. Also we add, for a fine reputation for advanced experimental engineering.

As a result an undercarriage was built, cushioned with rubber to reduce noise which was approved by the streetcar men and considerable sales were made to American and Canadian cities before World War II opened. The Clark Equipment company casts the parts of the undercarriage at the local foundry and the assembly is made at the Battle-Creek plant. The car bodies are made by a St. Louis firm. The noiseless cars of the Madison street loop, Chicago, run on Clark-made undercarriages.

The following explains the reasons for a probable streetcar comeback.

Apparently the poor old streetcar—or its modern child, the trolley-coach—is due to come back as a 40-in. 11-ft. 6-in. trolley-coach grandchild.

The streetcar companies went to pieces in the 1920's—financially because they did not take account of obsolescence, technologically because their managements did not reckon with the gasoline bug.

But apparently the automobile is going to have to give way to the streetcar and to the trolley-coach in the crowded confines, and narrow canyons of the downtown areas of American cities in the next 10 years on so for the simple reason that there isn't space any more for the automobile and that the only way in which downtown areas can be adequately served or reached in the future without intolerable traffic congestion is by means of public—not private—conveyances.

Electrical engineers and city traffic engineers combine to point out that the modern automobile, carrying a peacetime average of only 1 1/2 passengers a car, is hopelessly wasteful of the rigidly limited available street space in the center of American cities.

At this rate the average private automobile rider requires nearly 500 square feet of space as he rides downtown. On foot he needs only 10. In a public utility vehicle, he needs only 370. One modern trolley-coach line will carry as many passengers as three repeat 3-lane repeat 4-lane "freeways" for private automobiles. If Fifth Avenue in New York were widened sufficiently to take care of as many people as can be conveniently handled by the near-by 6th Avenue subway, it would have to be 2,000 feet wide.

None of these figures include a count for the parking space for the private automobiles that congest the downtown streets of America. Or the two available solutions to the acute and still-growing traffic problem of United States cities, the solution of widening streets is virtually impossible, and the solution of forcing traffic into public utility vehicles seems the only one possible.

The congestion in Manhattan traffic has already, since V-J Day, become almost intolerable. At certain hours of the day the press of traffic on Fifth Avenue is so heavy, and the delays so immense, that it is often quicker to get out and walk than to keep on riding—and that goes even if one is in a taxicab—rather than a bus or streetcar. The situation has reached the point where city authorities realize that something must be done.

Practically speaking, the modern private automobile has become a solecism in the modern downtown business area. The latter is being strangled. The American Hotel Association is concerned about the inability of motorists to reach hotels, and the prospect of their turning aside at the new motels or motor courts.

Department stores and the owners of downtown real estate are concerned at the congestion. Either the private automobile or downtown real estate values and business hopes must give way, and the problem is due to become even more aggravated when the present strikes end and the new automobiles begin to roll into consumers' hands.

Traffic engineers argue that people will have to give up their idea of having their own private transit system for downtown travel purposes for the same reason that city dwellers have given up their ideas of having their own private wells on their property. At the traffic-clogged rate of less than two passengers a car, and with the spacing requirements for cars at the most economical rate "skyscraper help need nearly as much—and by some calculations even more—space for their cars as they do for themselves during working hours. The situation is rapidly growing intolerable in New York, and is reported becoming extremely difficult in smaller cities.

The solution appears to be but one thing—the public conveyance. Rubber-tired or on steel rails, it can apparently handle vastly more traffic, whether figured per hour, per traffic lane, or per vehicle. Local authorities are having to give up figuring how to move vehicles, and to change to how to move people.

Modern trolley-cars bear the same relation to the old four-wheel hunky-dinks as modern autos do to the old Pope-Hartfords, Isotta-Fraschini's and the like. They are fast—and even if they weren't, they are still faster than a fast auto in a modern downtown traffic jam.

Fisher Body Corp. Gives $1,700,000 To Detroit Youth

Detroit's youth organizations are getting a $1,700,000 trust fund which originated accidentally during World War I.

Circuit Court Judge I. A. W. J. approved a plan advanced by Edward P. Fisher, one of the founders of the Fisher Body Corp., to distribute the money for the mental, moral and physical improvement of youth in Detroit and surrounding territory.

The fund consists of 15,000 shares of General Motors common stock and $600,000 in cash.

Fisher said the cash would be distributed primarily among existing organizations. These include the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, YMCA, YWCA, and other youth groups.

He said distribution would begin as soon as further red-tape is cleared.

Fisher said the money represents profit from operation of employee's commissaries in Fisher plants, a practice which began during World War I.

Then, Fisher said, food was sold in plants where Government planes were being made, to keep employees from leaving the plants, a Government request.

He said profits accumulated until, in 1924, it totaled $69,000. This was set up as a welfare fund for Fisher workers.

The money was invested in GM stock in 1931, and continued to accumulate. In 1940, the company eliminated its plant commissary. Another welfare program had been adopted.

Trustees of the fund, now called the Youth Welfare Fund, are Fisher, Lewis D. Crusoe, Henry S. Hulbert former juvenile court judge, Howard B. Bloomer an attorney, and George Haggerty, attorney for Fisher.

Fisher pointed out that the money is not a Fisher donation. He said the decision to give the money to the cause of youth was reached "because no other cause had more merit."

Gambling Threat To Integrity Of City Of Pontiac

Citizens Call For Inquiry Into Gaming Rackets

Declaring that the "integrity of certain branches of local government" in Oakland county is in doubt because of gambling conditions, the Oakland Citizens League, Inc., urged today that a grand jury be called to investigate suspicious of officials' relations with policy game operators.

Copies of a resolution passed by the league's directors were sent to Circuit Judges George B. Martrick, Frank L. Doty and H. R. Holland, and to Arthur J. Law, mayor of Pontiac.

The judges already have asked Atty.-Gen. John R. Dethmers to investigate a gambling case in which Prosecutor Donald C. Noggle refused to issue warrants against 23 persons who were arrested Jan. 12 in raids by Pontiac police.

Dethmers said he would go to Pontiac to confer with the judges. The Oakland Citizens League resolution, signed by Henry S. Booth, secretary, and W. E. Kalwitz, president, declares that the gambling racket, including numbers and policy games, "appears to be growing in Oakland county with attendant threats to good government."

It says that efforts of law enforcement agencies appear to have been thwarted by "tipoffs" to gambling places when raids are planned. A complete investigation is needed to "allay unjust suspicions and rumors and fix responsibility in order that public confidence in local government may be restored," the resolution says.

Special Session Of Legislature Passes 30 Laws

Constitutional Amendment To Broaden State Power To Develop Airfields Is Prepared

The Legislature's special session ended shortly after 4 p. m. last Thursday, with 30 new statutes having been placed on the books.

One constitutional amendment also was prepared for the November ballot to broaden the State's power to develop airfields.

In the final day Wayne University won its fight for $2,700,000 to expand facilities for thousands of returning veterans.

Retractive homestead tax exemption benefits that might reach $4,000,000 also were voted for veterans who failed to claim them during five years of hostilities.

Authorization to release businesses of veterans may add 500 sales-by-the-glass liquor permits in Detroit, which already has three times its previously designated quota.

The municipal finance board was given supervision of all revenue bond issues, with a 4% interest ceiling order for self liquidating bond proposals.

The appropriations voted add up to approximately $37,000,000 or $10,000,000 above the $27,000,000 surplus expected by July 1, 1947. Even this spending does not tell the whole story. It does not include the homestead tax rebates, nor any provision for mounting welfare loads which may require $2,000,000 before January.

Among the emergencies which took precedence over aid to cities were a doubling of the capacity of the $25,000 bulb an at State College and $100,000 to develop the Forcupine Mountain recreation center.

Conferences eliminated controversial appropriations for denominational schools which had been attached as riders on the Wayne appropriation. Western Michigan College at Kalamazoo was granted $325,000 for expansion.

Michigan Fruit Industry Needs More Hives-Bees

For the first time the United States Department of Agriculture has asked for a definite increase in the number of colonies of honeybees.

An increase of 8% in the number of colonies is proposed. According to Charles Figy, director of the State Department of Agriculture, based on the State's 1945-bee colony population, this increase would add 15,840 colonies of bees, giving Michigan a total of 213,840 colonies.

The need for more honeybees has become increasingly evident during recent years. A report from Don E. Barrett, chief apiarist, shows this need is not primarily for the production by bees of honey and beeswax, important though they are, but for the activity of bees as pollinating agents, having a pollinating value conservatively estimated at ten to twenty times the value of the honey and wax—they produce. Though Michigan's honeybees produce in excess of ten million pounds of honey annually, their principal role is in the pollination of the State's many agricultural crops for the production of seed and fruit.

Except in fruit areas, beekeepers are rarely compensated for the pollinating value of their colonies, but must depend upon the sale of honey and beeswax, the present demand for these crops is sufficient to make the yields of these products from the added colonies a profitable investment.

In view of the acute shortage of legume seed crops, an increase in Michigan's honeybees would no doubt result in increased seed yields of clover, alfalfa and other legume seeds.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

HENRY: "I've heard that same thing several times lately... that alcoholics are really sick people. It was news to me. Do you agree with that statement, Judge?"

OLD JUDGE: "Yes, it's true, Henry. It's no notion of mine... it's a statement made by scientists who have studied the subject."

HENRY: "What did they find out, Judge?"

OLD JUDGE: "Well, as a result of their medical research, they found out that approximately 95% of the people who drink, drink sensibly. 5% do so unwisely, at times. Included in that 5% is the small percentage known as alcoholics."

HENRY: "But why are they called sick people?"

OLD JUDGE: "Because it has been discovered that, in many cases, excessive drinking is a symptom of some physical or emotional maladjustment... not the cause of it."

HENRY: "Now I understand it, Judge. I am glad to hear of the modern approach to this problem and that so much is really being done to help these folks."

"YOU'LL BE ABLE TO CALL MORE PEOPLE"

YOUR own telephone becomes more valuable to you as more folks you know have telephones installed. And that's just what's happening today. Michigan Bell's $13,500,000 5-year rural expansion-and-improvement program is now under way.

We had started a rural program long before the war. At the suggestion of the Michigan Rural Communications Committee, a group of agricultural leaders, we included in that program in 1940 a plan providing a liberal amount of free line-construction, with small monthly payments where construction charges are involved. But during the war, the entire program had to be curtailed because telephone manufacturers were busy supplying our armed forces.

Now we are beginning to get the materials to resume the job. Even so, the job will take time, because there is a tremendous amount of new construction to be done, and a lot of that construction is slow, painstaking hand work.

The goal of our program is not only to provide more folks with telephones. We will build more rural lines, so that there will be fewer parties per line. We will provide more of our rural customers with dial service. In short, we will make rural telephone service more valuable to more people.

Michigan Survey Endorses Aid To Wayne University

Says Legislature Should Establish It As A State College

Wayne University was included in the list of colleges and universities in need of financial assistance which Governor Kelly submitted to the legislature for consideration during the 1946 extra session. Many Michigan citizens, especially outside the Detroit metropolitan area, may be inclined to ask why the state should consider giving money to this school; a municipal university developed and controlled by the Detroit Board of Education.

When he included the needs of Wayne, the Governor pointed out that the state has thus far provided centers of higher education in all sections of the state except the Detroit area, and that the state has been derelict in its duty in failing to provide Michigan's greatest metropolitan area with facilities at least the equal of those already existing in other sections when the need for them in Detroit first became evident long ago. In Governor Kelly's own words, the most pertinent single answer to the question is that "We can make no distinction between veterans because of their residence. We plan to provide financial assistance to all the State schools serving veterans; by the same token, we should, and must, provide financial assistance to Wayne University, to which such a large number of Detroit veterans will turn their only hope of obtaining a college education."

Wayne University is the direct outgrowth of Detroit Board of Education efforts, over a long period of time, to meet the constantly increasing demands for publicly supported institutions of higher learning in that area. Although the origins of some units in the university can be traced to much earlier dates, the beginning of this institution is commonly set at 1923, when two existing schools were re-organized as four-year colleges. By 1933, there were six separate colleges under the Board of Education. In that year these schools were drawn together to form Wayne University. Today, this municipally supported school has an over-all enrollment of nearly 20,000 full-time and part-time students coming primarily from Detroit and that immediate area. 97% of these are residents of Michigan, and nearly 96% remain in this state after they graduate. For example, Wayne provides almost as many of Michigan's physicians as does the state university. Almost 13,000 of this student body would be unable to attend any other tax-supported college or university. Nearly all of them live at home, and three out of every four must work at least part-time while continuing their education.

Until now, Wayne University has been operated almost without benefit of state aid. Relatively small sums have been received from the state and the county, but the major portion of the load has fallen on the Detroit School District. Restricted as it is by the 15-mill tax limitation, this agency has reached the point where it can no longer provide adequate financial support for Wayne if it is to meet the demand for primary and secondary education that is its basic responsibility.

Recognizing that the responsibility for raising funds never should be divorced from the responsibility for spending them, the Detroit Board of Education has offered to surrender all control of Wayne if the state wishes to take it over and run it as a second state university. The Board neither asks nor desires that the state give Wayne money with restrictions of controls on how it shall be spent. In the past few months, it has given ample evidence that its primary concern is for the future growth and welfare of Wayne University—that it is ready and willing to do anything and everything in its power to gain that end. Every possible local resource has been exhausted in the effort to keep Wayne University in operation. The present appeal to the state for assistance was made only as a last resort—without reservation or qualification, except the request that in whatever solution the state might propose, the identity of Wayne as a separate school be maintained.

Present proposals for aid to Wayne already have received the unreserved approval of educational authorities in other Michigan institutions of higher learning as one means of meeting the state's obligations to her veterans and citizens. They are agreed that the development of Wayne's facilities will not duplicate or compete with the facilities provided by other tax-supported schools. In his February 4 message, Governor Kelly said, "This situation (Wayne's need for state assistance) serves to reaffirm the principle, of which we often lose sight, that a citizen of Michigan is a citizen of Michigan, no matter where, within this state, he may live, and his education and well-being are the concerns of his state government."

In simple justice to thousands of Michigan veterans, and nearly half the total state population, the urgent needs of Wayne University should be entitled to the full and thoughtful consideration of all Michigan citizens. It may well be that the best answer to the problem lies in state assumption of responsibility for the institution. Is this not the time for the Michigan legislature to pass an act establishing and regulating Wayne University as a state institution of higher learning?—Michigan Survey

Soviets Advocate Tunnel Connecting Alaska, Siberia

A tunnel under the Bering Straits linking the Soviet Union and United States is forecast in an article by Vassil Bratov, Soviet transport expert. Forecasting a network of rail-ways to the Soviet Far East and North, Mr. Bratov said, a rail road tunnel to the United States would be a development of the scheme.

G. I. Seniority Rights In Industry Are Tested In Court

The Federal Government has ordered an appeal from a ruling of Judge Arthur F. Lederle that war veterans returning to former employment may not displace other union members with greater seniority.

Morris Zwerding, assistant United States attorney who conducted the case of George A. Drost, of Westphalia, Mich., vs the Nash-Kelvinator Corp., said that Attorney General Tom Clark has instructed him to institute the appeal.

Lederle dismissed the suit in which Drost sought to collect $600, he claimed due him in alleged violation of the re-employment provisions of the Selective Service Act. This was the first "superseniority" case in Michigan.

Both the UAW (CIO) and the Wayne County Council of Veterans of Foreign Wars intervened, the union supported the corporation, with which it has a contract. The VFW supported Drost.

Testimony showed Drost was working on Nov. 30, 1943, as a camber grinder at the rate of $1.39 an hour with a 5-cent night differential.

His classification seniority dated from July 19, 1943, and his plant-wide seniority from May 5, 1943. Discharged from the Army Nov. 2, 1944, he returned to his position as camber grinder on Nov. 30, 1944, and remained at the job until Jan. 15, 1945, when layoffs occurred.

He was offered another job with less pay on the basis of his (greater) plant-wide seniority, but was granted leave of absence. On Jan. 27, 1945, he accepted the lower paid job on the basis of his plant-wide seniority, and continued to work in various classifications until May 28, 1945, when he resigned.

Recalled by the corporation July 25, 1945, he worked as a camber grinder at $1.39 an hour until Aug. 17, 1945, when the plant closed. Drost contended the act entitled him to employment as a camber grinder at $1.39 an hour so long as the company employed any camber grinders, except other veterans of World War II with greater seniority.

A really good lunch will bring forth exclamations of delight from the children—and mother will be happy. So, Miss Roberta Hershey, extension nutrition specialist at Michigan State college, makes these suggestions:

If the hot dish is not supplied at school, send one from home in a jar to be heated in a hot-water bath at school. And for that hot dish here are a few tips: creamed mixed vegetables with sliced egg, liver and tomato with spaghetti, corn chowder, creamed almond and peas, lima beans and tomatoes with bacon, cracked wheat crowder with vegetables, split pea soup with cured pork, or peanut butter-tomato soup.

Be sure that something crisp and succulent is included such as strips of raw carrot, beet, turnip, green pepper, celery, cabbage, wedges, or an apple—Cole slaw, canned fruit, puddings, or custards may be carried in small screw-top jars.

Milk in some form should be a necessity for the school lunch. If it is not included in the hot-dish-plain milk or a surprise milk drink should be sent along. Usually children like pruned. Just mix 1/3 cup of prune juice, or strained prunes, with 2/3 cups of milk. It may be sweetened to taste.

"HOW TO SAVE MONEY ON YOUR ELECTRIC BILL"

by
Phineas Q. Twitch, Eminent Economist

Dr. Twitch

- 1 Disconnect your electric door-bell. What if your friends and neighbors do bruise their knuckles knocking? You'll save a penny a month. Naturally, a penny saved is a penny earned. In only eleven years (at compound interest) you'll earn enough to buy another door-bell for the back door so you can save TWICE as much by not using it!
- 2 Sell your vacuum cleaner and beat your rugs by hand. The money you get for your old machine will buy several sturdy beaters and an ample supply of liniment. Then, every time you beat ten large rugs, you'll save a whole penny. You can easily do ten rugs in a couple of days, after you get used to it. The exercise will build you up, even if it does break down the rugs. And the more you beat 'em the more you save!
- 3 Turn off your radio during "The Electric Hour" on Sunday afternoon. Of course, you'll miss Nelson Eddy and his guest stars and Robert Armstrong's Orchestra, but you'll save a sixth of a penny every time you do it. In a year, that's nearly 9c. And there's no music so pleasant as those coppers clinking in your pocket!

Waldo Phillips, Decatur farmer and president of the Association of Farmers Co-operatives in Michigan, was the speaker at the annual business meeting of the Buchanan Co-ops, Inc., at the high school auditorium Thursday afternoon, his subject being "The National Tax Equalization Association."

Spanish Classes Present Program

Phillips stated that it will be necessary for the stockholders of farm co-operatives to be alert in their knowledge and performance of the responsibilities as members of farm co-operatives if they are to defend the present status of their organizations against forces which are interested in attacking them.

Spanish Classes Present Program

He stated that the representatives of the National Tax Equalization Association do not fully report the status of the farm co-operatives as tax payers. The co-operatives, he stated, pay all real estate and property taxes that other business enterprises have to meet, and also pay income taxes on such of their income as is not redistributed to members in dividends. In this respect he said, they have no legal privileges that any individual business man cannot have if he is willing to meet the requirements.

Tucker Torpedo Is Designed For Speed 130 M.P.H. Car To Be Built In Former Chrysler Engine Plant, Chicago. Plans to produce a revolutionary automobile in the former Chrysler engine plant in Chicago were announced by a new corporation headed by Preston Tucker, of Ypsilanti, designer of the front-drive Cord automobile. Tucker made public a list of veteran Detroit automobile men who will be associated with him. They include Ray Rausch, former director and assistant to the vice president in charge of manufacture for the Ford Motor Co. Tucker is a former associate of Harry Miller, the Indianapolis builder of Miller racers. He built racers from 1928 until the war. He worked also for Cadillac, Ford and Studebaker. He holds patents on power-operated, machine-gun turrets used in Army planes and tanks. Tucker said negotiations with the Reconstruction Finance Corp. for the $200,000,000 Chicago plant were under way. He said his company would start producing cars six months after it got possession of the plant. The new car will be known as the Tucker Torpedo. It will have the engine in the rear and will sell in the $1,000 to $1,300 class. It will have a six-cylinder, 150-horsepower engine of Tucker's design. H. F. Costello, of Detroit, will be sales manager of the new company. He has been with the Easy Washing Machine Corp. for 40 years. Joseph D. Burke, of Detroit and West Palm Beach, Fla., will be vice president in charge of sales. He has been with the Packard, Hudson, Graham-Paige, Dodge and Chrysler and for the last two years with the Army Engineering Corps. Joseph H. Bush, of Detroit, will be superintendent. He is a former superintendent of the Kansas City and St. Louis Ford assembly plants. Maj. Mark J. Mourne, of LaGrange, Ill., is secretary. He is a member of a Chicago law firm. Eugene L. Reason, of Detroit, will be vice president in charge of purchasing. He was in charge of purchasing for Chrysler until last year. George S. Lawson, of Detroit, will be director of style, art and color. He is formerly of General Motors, where he handled body styling for eight years. While the Torpedo was designed to be driven from the center of the front seat, first models will have the conventional left-hand drive because of legal restrictions in some states. The car will be capable of 130 miles an hour, Tucker said. Front fenders and headlights will turn with the wheels.

T/5 Maurice Nelson is now in office work at the headquarters of the Army Officers' Mess, about four miles out of Honolulu. He writes that he likes the Hawaiian Islands and has some free time during which he has been able to enjoy the climate and the beautiful scenery of the country. A favorite form of recreation there is miniature golf, similar to that which had a vogue in this country during the early 1930's.

Jack Green CM3, USNR, of 120 W. Alexander, Buchanan, is one of many veterans returning to the States aboard the USS Renville, a Navy transport. This ship left Okinawa, Feb. 4, and is scheduled to arrive in San Francisco about Feb. 23. The USS Renville is one of the Navy's many attack transports which supported the seizure of stepping-stone bases to Japan by carrying thousands of fighting men and their equipment to invasion beachheads.

Fuhsenfeldbruck, Germany. Pvt Donald J Voorhees, son of Mr and Mrs Arthur Voorhees, 413 Moccasin, has arrived at the European Theatre Army Air Forces Reinforcement Depot, and will soon be assigned to a permanent station somewhere in Germany.

While he is at this post, situated near Bamach on the picturesque wooded slope of the German Alpine range, Pvt Voorhees will have an opportunity to enjoy the scenic beauties of southern Bavaria which made the region popular among pre-war tourists.

Formerly a prominent Luftwaffe training school, the Army Air Forces Reinforcement Depot is one of the most attractive fields in Europe. At the present time several thousand soldiers each month are processed and given orientation in their occupational duties at this station.

Before entering the service in September 1945, he attended Buchanan high school and was later employed as a garage service man by Phillips 66, Buchanan—Army Public Relations Office.

Allen-Clements, now in the Navy, left San Diego in his ship on Feb 13 en route via the Panama Canal to the Atlantic coast, expecting to be home in about two weeks. He will have about a month leave at the home of his parents, Mr and Mrs Gay Clements, Redbud Trail.

Wendall Hall, QM 1/C, son of Mr and Mrs Fred Hall, received his discharge from Navy service at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station Thursday of last week and arrived at his home here that evening. He had served for three years in the Navy, in both Atlantic and Pacific service.

His brother, Fred Hall, Jr., M-

M 1/C, received a medical discharge Feb. 8 at Jacksonville, Fla. He is staying for a time at Daytona Beach, Fla., where he is receiving instruction in refrigeration. He would have been in the Navy seven years next July having entered the regular Navy service before World War II began.

Nicholas Scaandari was discharged about two weeks ago from the U S Merchant Marine service and is now visiting and resting at the home of his mother, Mrs Lucy Di Giacomo, 111 W Chicago street. He entered the Merchant Marine service in 1942. Previous to that he had been a sailor on the Great Lakes.

Cpl Marne W Trapp, son of Mrs Martha Trapp, 183 South Detroit, arrived home from Great Lakes, Ill, Feb. 18, after receiving his discharge from the U. S. Marines.

Enlisting Oct. 5, 1943, he went overseas with the 1st Marine division June 24, 1944, serving on Palau and Okinawa and later with the occupational force in Japan. He holds the American Theatre Ribbon, Asiatic-Pacific Theatre Ribbon, Presidential Unit Citation, Navy Unit Citation and Victory Medal.

Order Certified Potato Seed New, Says County Agent

Berrien county potato growers setting greater acre-yields and better quality should consider planting Michigan-certified seed, suggests L A Zellman, county agricultural agent.

Because the supply of such certified seed is limited, growers should place their orders with local Farm Bureau stores and seed dealers as soon as possible. By buying the seed locally, the orders can be pooled and the seed delivered in truck or carload lots at a saving to the grower. A list of sources of Michigan-certified seed potatoes can be obtained from the county extension office or the Farm Crops department, Michigan State college, East Lansing.

According to H C Moore, potato specialist, many growers have seed potatoes seriously affected with late blight which usually results in poor stands and low yields. Michigan-certified seed, which is grown in 40 counties throughout the state under the inspection of the Michigan Crop Improvement association, is relatively free from disease and comes from healthy, vigorous fields that were planted from hill-selected stock.

Russet Rural is the variety most generally grown in Michigan. It is a very satisfactory late variety for most sections of the state. The variety withstands heat and drought, has excellent keeping qualities, and is often preferred by manufacturers of potato chips. Other late varieties are White Rural, Sebago, Menominee, and Green Mountain. Except for its white skin, the White Rural is similar to Russet Rural. Sebago and Menominee are white skin varieties that have much resistance to scab and late blight. The Menominee is a relatively new variety introduced by the Michigan State College Agricultural Experiment Station. It is proving popular with growers whose soils are badly infested with potato scab. The Green Mountain is an old variety of excellent quality and is extensively grown in the Lake Superior region.

The Chippewa, a medium early sort, has excellent market qualities and is becoming a leading variety in Michigan. Pontiac is another red potato of medium lateness. Many growers like it for its quick, vigorous growth, high yield, and generally satisfactory market qualities.

New Plant Hormone Rids Lawn Of Weeds At Cost $1 Per Year

American homeowners now keep their lawns free of weeds at an average cost of $1 a season as a result of a new development in 2, 4-D, a weed-killing plant hormone, scientists at the Ohio State Agricultural Experiment Station revealed.

Developed from an ester of 2, 4-dichlorophenoxyacetic acid, this chemical which has been named Weed-No-More kills most broad-leaf weeds but is harmless to common lawn grasses. Instead of back-breaking digging every summer the average householder can now merely spray on this chemical and enjoy a smooth and weed-free lawn. Weed-No-More is manufactured by the Sherwin-Williams Co., world's largest makers of paints and insecticides.

The preparation is particularly effective against dandelions, chickweed, bindweed, poison ivy, plantain, thistle, and many other weeds, the scientist said. It will not injure the soil and is harmless to humans and animals when used according to directions. It is odorless and non-staining.

The action of the chemical is such that weeds literally strangle themselves to death because 2, 4-D is a plant hormone which affects the growth factor of broad-leaf plants and can be used to destroy them, as well as stimulate them.

Mollis Desfrigate

From writing the United States Army's leader manual and designing a new nose for the Navy's K-ships, Henry C Carney, young engineer, has returned to civilian affairs with the blueprints of a "transportable" house that is bringing representatives of the British and Norwegian governments to his doos.

Made of corrugated plywood, the Carney house is said to be one fourth as heavy as the average structure and many times lighter than the conventional frame house. Yet its all-corrugated plywood walls, Mr Carney explained, can stand 1,260 pounds of pressure to the square inch, which is as much pressure as steel can withstand. Thus, one does not have to have a heavy house to feel secure, he said. And he can erect one in 24 hours, complete with everything from a sun lamp to a built-in radio, when his merchandising and construction plans are completed.

How much will it cost? About $4,000 to $5,000, and still give the buyer a wide choice of design and floor plans. Mass production and sound, centralized management, Mr Carney gives as the reasons for low costs.

The model developed by Mr Carney represents a four-room house 24 by 30 feet to be assembled from four prefabricated sections. Each section is transportable in a truck, complete with built-in beds, bathroom, heating unit, and other furnishings required for that part of the house.

The sections are joined by a special locking device, and the house is bolted to eight concrete piers set in "stabilized" soil to discourage termites and vermin.

Designed for a firm building homes for industrial workers, the house can be set up or dismantled by 12 or 15 men in one working day.

It is said to be speedily adapted to the needs of bituminous coal miners, who are buying homes on a scale unprecedented in history. England and Norway are interested from the standpoint of emergency homes for war-devastated areas.

Mr. Carney, still in his early twenties, formed his own engineering company last year. With only seven men on his pay roll, he secured contracts with the Higgins Company of New Orleans which soon totaled $1,535,000. He turned out not only a new nose for Navy blimps, but drafted new machinery for a wing tip that enabled the B-26 to land at speeds of 110 to 155 miles an hour, instead of 190-220 m p h.

Evening Grosbeaks Invading Southern Mich. From North

Evening grosbeaks have joined snowy owls in a winter invasion of southern Michigan.

These chunky yellowish-colored birds with extremely large whitish bills have been reported seen in a dozen different places in downy state counties; sometimes traveling in flocks of a hundred or more.

The evening grosbeak's usual range is in wooded regions of interior Canada and in winter it visits northern Michigan and the northeastern states but it is seldom seen in southern Michigan. The male is largely yellow, with black and white wings, suggesting an overgrown goldfinch. It is nearly as large as the starling.

Evening grosbeaks are seed eaters and a flock that has visited the conservation department's Rose Lake experiment station for the first time this winter has littered the ground beneath hard maple trees with the hulls of maple fruits.

It is said to be speedily adapted to the needs of bituminous coal miners, who are buying homes on a scale unprecedented in history. England and Norway are interested from the standpoint of emergency homes for war-devastated areas.

Mistaken Notions

Mistaken is the notion that green apples cause stomach aches. It is not the unripeness but the insufficient chewing of hard, unpalatable fruit which torments youthful tummies. Nor is there anything to the tale that abdominal twinges result from mixtures of certain foods.

Lobster and ice cream, pickles and milk, fish and celery, are dangerous only in an old wife's dream world.

Our Policy on NEW CAR ORDERS in accordance with fair procedure. We are now accepting orders for earliest possible delivery of new cars. However, as you know, there are not enough new cars for all who want them. Therefore, we want to make a clear statement of our policy so that everyone will know exactly how we are handling orders for and delivery of new cars during the current shortage period. We intend to fill orders for new cars in the order in which they are received. There are two exceptions to this basic rule. 1. We will definitely reserve a percentage of our cars for those who have served in the Armed Forces. We feel sure that all our customers will agree with the justice of this exception. 2. If definite need for a new car is a factor, we will, in the public interest, determine such cases on the basis of the now abolished, but publicly accepted, OPA priority lists. This policy is in your interest. We are following it because we want to serve you fairly and well today as in the past.
