On Ignorance

by Ruth Taylor

Ignorance is a contagious disease, particularly when it is hatched up to an unwillingness to learn. I read this the other day and it is so good I'm passing it in to you. Ignorance is the school of prejudice and provincialism. It is its tutor. Its memory is stored with lies and its mind is warped by emotionalism. Pride is its book and snobbery is its pen. All the hatreds and fears, all the cruelties and prejudices of childhood are perpetuated by it. It blinds the intellect and it hardens the heart. Its wisdom is wonderful and fearful; for it never learns what is true, and it never forgets what is false.

The only cure for ignorance is knowledge. "Men will be brutals so long as they believe absurdities," Voltaire said.

The ignorance of the other man is not our personal problem. It is our own ignorance that must be met and mastered. We can be so big, we mustn't be tiny—we can be so big, we neither look up nor down at other people—but at night ahead at eye level with our fellow men. That is the mark of the educated man.

We must know not only our own side of this case, but we must study the other fellow's side. As we learn to know each other, we think more clearly, prejudice is broken down and attitudes change. But it requires a willingness to learn and to understand.

There are many different yardsticks for understanding, but none has ever surpassed the Golden Rule. If we would use this, we would never allow the jealousy or envy that is ignorance to stifle and deaden our better impulses.

Aged Cow In Straub Herd Has Yielded 245,567 Lbs. Of Milk

The Michigan State College extension service publicity department has the following to say of a famous cow in a famous herd south of Galien.

The value of keeping dairy records has been proved once more, this time by none other than a grandmother cow.

She is Crestlyn Maple Crest Johanna, who has a history almost as long as her name. Without daily records the remarkable value of this cow would never have been realized.

To begin with she was born November 14, 1923, and only occasionally does a cow live to be more than 17 years old.

Known as Marie, the pride of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Straub of Galien, Mich., the 17-year-old cow is still milking in the Straub herd and is due to freshen again in the spring, reports A. C. Baltzer, extension dairy specialist at Michigan State college.

Through the amazing lifetime production total to date of 245,567 pounds of milk, with 9,147 pounds of fat and an average test of 3.72. For five years she continuously produced well over 700 pounds of fat each year. Only in one year has she made less than 400 pounds of fat.

Marie's contributions to better dairy industry in Michigan has been eight bull calves and seven heifer calves. Two of her daughters have milked over 100,000 pounds of milk. Her bull calves have been used to improve several Michigan herds during recent years. One of the sons of this cow is in the bull stud of the Michigan Artificial Breeders' Cooperative at Michigan State college.

Through the assistance of the local cow club, Arthur Hensgen, and the M. S. C. Extension Service, several calves from this cow have been placed in Michigan herds, and are producing valuable offspring.

Is there a Michigan snake that attains a length of more than 5 feet? Ed Kozelski, of Detroit, asked the question. You will find authoritative information in "The Herpetology of Michigan", published by the University of Michigan Museum of Zoology.

Blue racers grow to about 6 feet, pilot snakes, black snakes to about 8 feet, fox or pine snakes 5 feet. None of these is poisonous. Michigan's only poisonous snake, the Massasauga or swamp rattler, does not become more than 3 feet long. — Van Couvering in Free Press.

What Are Pickeral?
"Why is it," asked Glen Smith, of Iona, "the Michigan fish laws do not list pickeral?" Probably because "pickeral" does not designate the same fish throughout the state. On Lake St. Clair and the Detroit River, "pickeral" are walleyes.

In some areas of the state "pickeral" are northern pike. There is a fish that seldom becomes larger than 14 inches—that is accurately called a mud pickeral.

Detroit Unit Of Alcoholics Anonymous Now Has 800 Members

Maintain 24-Hour Telephone Service To Help Members

Six years ago this January three men sat down in a Detroit room to plot a path back from the Michigan avenue missions to useful lives for local alcoholics.

It was the first meeting of a Detroit unit of Alcoholics Anonymous. It took the three men six months to get their first confirmed non-member. Today, the local group have more than 800 members.

In Michigan alone, one of the original three estimates, there are more than 1,200 members. Every city of considerable size has a unit. There are 20 groups in Detroit alone.

The organization, made up entirely of cash-strapped tosspots who gave liquor a mighty wailing around before admitting defeat, takes on only the worst cases. Their first requirement is that the alcoholic admit liquor has him licked and that he wants help and wants it badly.

"We maintain a Detroit telephone call service which operates day and night," explained the AA spokesman who seven years ago was walking on his heels towards the free soup kitchens.

"That doesn't mean we'll come at any hour of the day or night. Quitting drinking isn't that much of an emergency. If the caller is sincere and invites us, we'll be there the next day. We don't invite ourselves into anyone's life."

Entirely on their own resources AA members have established space in a local nursing home where extreme cases needing medical supervision can be "dried out." Admissions there are strictly on the basis of necessity.

"We used to think we could do all of this without the doctors," the AA spokesman said. "Now doctors are helping us—and we are helping them. In fact, we have a half dozen doctors who are members."

"Our greatest outside help is the publicity given us," he continued. "Until we got that we couldn't reach the people we wanted to help."

"We'd be perfectly justified in saying radio programs over WJL The Detroit News on time contributed by the station have been instrumental in sending 300 persons to us who have joined our movement and become useful citizens."

The organization has members from all professions and from industry and labor. There are lawyers, doctors, mechanics, businessmen, dentists, engineers and day laborers. "Now it is holding Tuesday morning meetings for those members who work nights."

"We don't care who the fellow is who wants to quit drinking," the AA veteran said. "All we ask is that he admit liquor is bigger than he is."

The question most often asked, "What made you sick, Eddie?"

"I PLAYED WASHINGTON CROSSING THE DELAWARE AND THE ICE BUSTED, THE DOCTOR SENT A PRESCRIPTION TO GNOTTKE CUT RATE DRUG STORE."

along the same path. AA members have a philosophy by which they live from day to day, they explain. It is that if all their effort over the intervening 10 years had saved but one person from the helpless and hopeless condition in which he was found all of it would have been worth while.

Probate News

Judge Malcolm J. ... transacted the following matters: Wills and the Petitions for the probate of the last will and testament were filed in the estates of Peter M. Wilkie; Julius Kurland, Mary Christensen, Francis Lowry, J. ...

At Christmas time this year there were homes in Detroit where people were happy and kids had plenty for the first time in many years. If we were looking for rewards, that would be enough.

"Our biggest fear right now is that some kindly philanthropist will wish a chunk of money on us. We are afraid of that. Now we're supported entirely by our own sweat and blood—resources of members. If we had money—and I hope we never do—we might get so interested in hiring people and building offices we would forget our business is saving drunks."

The National organization grew from the meeting of two alcoholics in Algon in 1935. It took them a year to organize 10 men. By 1935 they had only 50 members. Now the organization has over 400 units and more than 20,000 members.

There are no salaried officers. Its national office pays wages to a secretary and wages to five stenographers who answer over 12,000 queries a year. AA prints its own newspaper, meets its own bills. It now has a group in Honolulu, Canada, Rio de Janeiro and Mexico City.

As outlined by an original member of the program roughly is: Each applicant must admit he is an alcoholic, unable to control his drinking.

He must admit there is some power greater than himself (one member says it can be God or a totem pole) and be willing to give that power a chance to run his life.

He must evaluate himself anew and face his friends and creditors to admit his errors.

He must agree if successful in the first three steps, to help others.

300 Michigan Towns To Get Air-Markers

Colonel Floyd E. Evans, director, state department of aeronautics, announced today that within a short time an aerial survey would begin to determine the most advantageous town designation locations in Michigan.

Colonel Evans stated that at least 300 towns in Michigan should be marked at an early time so as to make flying less hazardous for the pilots of the private plane. He stated that the air-marker is undoubtedly the least complex, and the most inexpensive of aids to air navigation. He pointed out, however, that it is still one of the most effective and necessary navigation aids to the contact flyer. Colonel Evans asserted that it is possible for flyers to become lost in almost any locality, and he added because of that fact every city, town and village in the state of Michigan should ultimately be air-marked.

Inasmuch as there are many types of recommended air-markers, the State Department of Aeronautics will be pleased to lend expert assistance to any community in the State in order to determine the best type of air-marker for use in that community. Representatives of the State Department of Aeronautics are in a position to advise officials of a community in which a "town air marking program" is planned, regarding some of the important considerations involved in this program. Items which should be subjected to close analysis before the air marking program is completed are roof selection, color combinations, accuracy of direction, market layout, choice of paint and paint application, and of course in the event of contemplated illuminated markers, even more involved problems would be confronted.

Colonel Evans concluded by stating that no time should be lost in inaugurating a town air marking program. He included the fact that it would prove advantageous to industrialists to mark their plants giving the name of the plant and its location.

(1) The plan must be practical and simple. readily expandable. drastic improvements in storage facilities as attics and basements dwindle.

(2) There is a 50-50 split on the question of one or two-story houses. One-story houses are the favorites in the West and South. Two-story homes get the vote in the East.

The architectural style arouses the greatest interest and the voters are divided into three classes: (a) The sentimentalists (the rose-coveled-cottage-with-green-shutters group) who seldom get down to specific details.

(b) The practical realists who are not taken in by the fancy window dressing of the traditional home. Their chief concern is the house that works. They want the "modern" compact, streamlined, economical house built of fresh ideas.

(c) In between these two extremes. They are older and are not so concerned with style and basic principles. They have put up with so many uncomfortable hard-to-please houses they are ready for a new deal in housing in any form. This is their vote on architectural styles.

Joe Killian To Run In Primary For County Atty.

St. Joseph Lawyer, Recently Out Of Navy, First Of Candidates To Announce

Attorney Joseph E Killian of St. Joseph today became the first veteran of World War II to announce his candidacy for a Berrien county office.

"Joe", as he is familiarly known to a legion of friends throughout the county, said he would be a candidate for Prosecuting Attorney in the Republican primaries next summer.

Petitions qualifying him as a candidate for the prosecutor's job will be circulated soon in all sections of the county, Attorney Killian added.

Incidentally, the St. Joseph lawyer is the first bonafide candidate for any county office in this year's elections.

Attorney Killian served twenty-seven months in the U S Navy. He was discharged December 5, last, and reopened his law offices in St. Joseph January 1.

Twenty months of Killian's service were spent in the Pacific war theater aboard the aircraft carriers Altamaha and Suwannee as a fighter-director. He saw active service in New Guinea, Manus Island of the Admiralty group, the Philippines, Okinawa and Japan in the Okinawa engagement, his ship operated eighty-six consecutive days against the Japanese forces.

Attorney Killian has been practicing law in St. Joseph for the past thirteen years, coming here directly from George Washington University, Washington, D. C., following his graduation from law school there in 1933. He is 36.

HOLLYWOOD

Thursday-Friday-Saturday, February 21-22-23, finds another "Show Of The Month" double feature at the Hollywood. Once each month the management picks an outstanding double feature, and calls it the "Show Of The Month".

You are always assured that this show is outstanding motion picture entertainment. The first feature is "Snafu" with Robert Benchley and Vera Vague. It's the story of a returned boy hero whose family still thinks he's a baby.

It's the 1946 model comedy with lots of new modern features. The title is taken from the GI's colorful slang and means "situation normal, all fouled up".

The companion feature on the bill is "Rollover That Woman" with Nancy Kelly and William Gargan. It's a fast and funny who-dun-it, with the accent on thrills.

A color cartoon and serial will round out this outstanding program.

Sunday and Monday, Feb 24-25, the pulchrit story of George Gershwin's "Rhapsody In Blue" with Joan Leslie, Robert Alca and Oscar Levant, will be shown at the Hollywood. Walter Winchell said "George Gershwin went to Heaven, but he left a melodic Paradise on earth".

His magnificent biographical, "Rhapsody In Blue", is a musical Utopia. It is one of the outstanding features of the year, and one that everyone will enjoy. Tuesday and Wednesday, Feb 26-27, "And Then There Were None" with Barry Fitzgerald, Louis Hayward and Walter Huston will be the feature attraction. It is the spine-chilling finalization of Agatha Christie's world-famous masterpiece of mystery, "Ten Little Indians".

Michigan, leading all states, will get $150,000 for wildlife restoration in the fiscal year beginning next July 1 if Congress approves a budgeted $3,000,000 for the purpose.

The $150,000 will be part of a fund which has been built up through a federal tax on sporting arms and ammunition and which is prorated among states and territories on the basis of land area and hunting licenses sold. Michigan uses its share, supplemented by conservation department contributions of 25% of the sums disbursed annually from the fund, to purchase land in downstate counties where game management activity is carried on.

Fifteen of these Pittman-Robertson projects (taking their name from the congressman who wrote the Federal Aid in Wildlife Restoration Act) are now being managed by the department's game division. They total approximately 55,000 acres.

Michigan has collected $617,108 in Pittman-Robertson funds since 1939 when the first allocation was made, its share having been largest in every distribution period. The law limits allocations of funds to states to a $150,000 maximum. Budget recommendations frequently are reduced by congress.

The department has carried on a number of research projects financed with Pittman-Robertson money, most of which it was forced to hold in abeyance during the war because of a shortage of technically-trained men. Its research will be expanded as additional funds become available and as men return from service.

OUR AIM is to provide the kind of telephone service you want.

We have no choice but to grow as the demand for our service grows. That's our public responsibility—and we like it that way.

Right now, the demand for telephone service is at an all-time high. To meet it and prepare for future growth, we have a 5-year post-war program under way that will cost $120,000,000.

Money to finance that program must come from thrifty people who are willing to invest in Bell System securities. If our prospects for future earnings are less attractive than those of other companies, folks will invest their money elsewhere.

In recent years, the rate of Telephone Company earnings has been declining until at the end of the war it was far below the average of other industries.

So it boils down to this: Too long a continuation of a rate of earnings substantially below that of other industries would weaken our ability to raise the money required to meet expected telephone needs.

The future quality of your telephone service depends on telephone rates that will produce earnings attractive to investors.

We believe our customers want good telephone service, even if it costs a trifle more than inferior service.

Technical improvements in the past brought rates for good service down and have kept them down in the face of rising costs. As rapidly as future improvements will permit, we expect and want our rates to come down still further. For Michigan Bell wants rates no higher—and no lower—than necessary to insure good telephone service.

"Living Fences" To Replace Barb Wire For Farms Shrub, Tree Field Divisions Check Erosion And Offer Bird Havens American agriculture is outgrowing its fence-row traditions. Wire fences and clean farming, once considered badges of frugality, are giving way to woody fences, former signs of a lazy farmer. New emphasis on soil saving and water conservation, growing interest in landscape beauty and wildlife combined to form the new attitude. Farmers have discovered that a wire fence which permits plowing within two feet, also permits the wind to sweep across the fields without resistance to blow away the topsoil in clouds of dust. Agriculturalists found that wire fences offer little room for woodchucks or insect pests, but offer little hiding place for beneficial insects and songbirds. Renewed interest in living fences is of special significance to sportsmen and others interested in wildlife. Woody borders along contour lines contribute to soil and water conservation. They help wildlife, too. Objection to woody plants in field borders is of long standing in American agriculture. Farm management specialists for years have cautioned against the amount of land made unutilizable by fence rows. Only recently have fence rows been considered of any value to maintain a healthy relationship between injurious and beneficial types of animals. Prof Charles A. Dambach, assistant director of the wildlife research unit at Ohio State University, recently reported on an extensive study in which he sought to determine the biologic and economic aspects of field border management in Ohio. He found the minimum width of fenced field borders to be four feet, but that woody fences were often 35 feet wide. When fence-row growth was over six feet, he found adjacent crops affected adversely. Prof. Dambach found that herbaceous plants supported a much greater percentage of injurious insects than woody plants. He noted that clean-tilled, sod and weedy or herbaceous types of field borders were more important as sources of grain and forage crop pests than woody borders, but that the converse was true of truck and most orchard crops. Prof. Dambach found more mammals in the field borders than in the fields themselves. This might be expected, he again noted. The greatest destructive population, consisting of mice and moles. Beneficial mammals, such as short-tailed shrews, were most abundant along woody, weedy and mixed seed shrub borders. He also noted the value of brushy field borders for nesting and escape cover for game and song birds. —Van Coevering in Free Press

MSC Specialist Sings Praises Of Oatmeal Breakfast "Where has the old fashioned breakfast gone?" asks Edna Deo, county home demonstration agent. In the old days most every one in the family ate a steaming bowlful of oatmeal every morning, all winter long. That was before the days of coffee and sweet roll breakfasts. As a cereal oatmeal has many unexcelled merits. It is cheap and at the same time furnishes more than half the protein contained in the average serving of meat and it has a good amount of iron and vitamins. No danger either for those who are trying to keep their weight down, for one cup of oatmeal, or any other 100 calories. Here's another advantage of oatmeal, or any other cereal. It gives a good excuse for using lots of

USS Berrien Was Troop Carrier In Uncle Sam's Navy 28 Vessels Named For Mich. Cities, Counties And Rivers Served In War When historians record the Naval feats of World War II, ships named for Michigan landmarks will be found to have played a prominent role. Led by a pair of fighting light cruisers, the veteran USS Detroit and the sleek, new USS Flint, 28 vessels named for Michigan cities, counties, rivers, islands, and straits, carried her banners to battle in both oceans. The 23-year-old Detroit was one of the few warships to survive the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor. Older than many of the bluejackets who sailed her, the venerable "four-stacker" fought her way through the heat of the Attu-Iwo Jima, and Okinawa campaigns to be present in Tokyo Bay for the surrender ceremonies. The Flint, mighty war baby still only a year old, was commissioned in August, 1944. She joined the Pacific fleet and learned to travel fast in company with the carrier task forces that razed Okinawa and battered the home islands of Japan. Not only the large ships, but the auxiliaries of the fleet as well, brought glory to their Michigan namesakes. One of the best action records was compiled by the transport USS Wayne, still bringing veterans home from overseas after a year and a half of front line duty. She landed troops from close off-shore at the invasions of Kwajalein, Guam, Peleliu, Leyte, Lingayen Gulf, and Okinawa. Other active attack transports named for Michigan counties were the USS Berrien, Clinton, Aienae, and Lenawee. Following the Japanese surrender, the transports of the Pacific Fleet were called upon for "Mackinac" duty, the job of bringing veterans home from overseas. Among 10 cargo ships supplying ships and bases in the Pacific with food and equipment was the USS Charlevoix. Routing orders have taken her to such ports as Balboa, Manus, Hollandia, Subic, New Britain's Jacquot Bay, Finschaven, Lae, Guanan in Samar, Guam, and Pearl Harbor. Her ship's company was one of the youngest at sea, averaging 23 years. The other cargo vessels were the USS Alcona, Antrim, Midland, Washtenaw, Wexford, Livingston, Allegan, Marquette, and Ottawa. "Mighty Mack" was the nickname of the seaplane tender Mackinac, a veteran of the entire war. As a floating haven for the Navy's big patrol planes, she followed close on the heels of invasions from the Solomons to Okinawa. At Saipan she came into Tanapag Harbor where the transportation was still in the assault stage. The Mackinac saw plenty of action, but one of her most interesting cruises was taken in 1942 when she carried Rear Admiral Richard E Byrd and his inspection party on a tour that included Palmyra Island, Pago-Pago, Tutila, American Samoa, Apia, Upolu, British Samoa, Wallis Island, Tongatabu Island, Suva, Vei Levu Island, Fiji, Fila, Efate, New Hebrides Islands, Noumea, New Caledonia, Auckland, New Zealand. Also active in the war against the Japs were three patrol frigates—the USS Muskegon, Grand Rapids, and Dearborn, four gas tankers, the USS Kalamazoo, Ontonagon, Pinnegog, and Michigamee, a destroyer tender, the USS Isle Royal and an auxiliary cargo ship, the USS Belle Isle.

Winter Is Time To Check Farm Barns For Hazard Points An item that deserves being on every farmer's list of winter chores is a thorough check of the barn for hazards, says L A. Zullman, county agricultural agent. It's a good time, while field work is slack, to spot the danger points and take definite steps to eliminate them. Now is the time to repair barn floors that are cracked, to repair stalls, ladders, haymows, and other parts of the barn that may have broken down during the previous season's work. Attention to ladders and stairways is especially important since the National Safety Council so frequently reports them to be the cause of accidents. They should be kept in good repair and free from hay or other refuse. The loft doors and the feed and hay chutes need to be well protected and guarded. Adequate light is an important safety feature in the barn. Dangerous corners and work areas should receive extra lighting and the whole building should be light enough so there is no danger of bumping or tripping over objects. A careful check of the barn will uncover many other dangers. The importance of making the barn safe for the coming planting season cannot be overstressed, with a large part of the farm work and chores carried on in that building.

USS Berrien Was Troop Carrier In Uncle Sam's Navy

28 Vessels Named For Mich. Cities, Counties And Rivers Served In War

When historians record the Naval feats of World War II, ships named for Michigan landmarks will be found to have played a prominent role. Led by a pair of fighting light cruisers, the veteran USS Detroit and the sleek, new USS Flint, 28 vessels named for Michigan cities, counties, rivers, islands, and straits, carried her banners to battle in both oceans. The 23-year-old Detroit was one of the few warships to survive the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor. Older than many of the bluejackets who sailed her, the venerable "four-stacker" fought her way through the heat of the Attu-Iwo Jima, and Okinawa campaigns to be present in Tokyo Bay for the surrender ceremonies. The Flint, mighty war baby still only a year old, was commissioned in August, 1944. She joined the Pacific fleet and learned to travel fast in company with the carrier task forces that razed Okinawa and battered the home islands of Japan. Not only the large ships, but the auxiliaries of the fleet as well, brought glory to their Michigan namesakes. One of the best action records was compiled by the transport USS Wayne, still bringing veterans home from overseas after a year and a half of front line duty. She landed troops from close off-shore at the invasions of Kwajalein, Guam, Peleliu, Leyte, Lingayen Gulf, and Okinawa. Other active attack transports named for Michigan counties were the USS Berrien, Clinton, Aienae, and Lenawee. Following the Japanese surrender, the transports of the Pacific Fleet were called upon for "Mackinac" duty, the job of bringing veterans home from overseas. Among 10 cargo ships supplying ships and bases in the Pacific with food and equipment was the USS Charlevoix. Routing orders have taken her to such ports as Balboa, Manus, Hollandia, Subic, New Britain's Jacquot Bay, Finschaven, Lae, Guanan in Samar, Guam, and Pearl Harbor. Her ship's company was one of the youngest at sea, averaging 23 years. The other cargo vessels were the USS Alcona, Antrim, Midland, Washtenaw, Wexford, Livingston, Allegan, Marquette, and Ottawa. "Mighty Mack" was the nickname of the seaplane tender Mackinac, a veteran of the entire war. As a floating haven for the Navy's big patrol planes, she followed close on the heels of invasions from the Solomons to Okinawa. At Saipan she came into Tanapag Harbor where the transportation was still in the assault stage. The Mackinac saw plenty of action, but one of her most interesting cruises was taken in 1942 when she carried Rear Admiral Richard E Byrd and his inspection party on a tour that included Palmyra Island, Pago-Pago, Tutila, American Samoa, Apia, Upolu, British Samoa, Wallis Island, Tongatabu Island, Suva, Vei Levu Island, Fiji, Fila, Efate, New Hebrides Islands, Noumea, New Caledonia, Auckland, New Zealand. Also active in the war against the Japs were three patrol frigates—the USS Muskegon, Grand Rapids, and Dearborn, four gas tankers, the USS Kalamazoo, Ontonagon, Pinnegog, and Michigamee, a destroyer tender, the USS Isle Royal and an auxiliary cargo ship, the USS Belle Isle.

Famous thrills! 1930, Sept. 27, Ardmore, Pa. History was made here today as BOBBY JONES overwholted his opponent to win the United States Amateur Golf Championship. S. Open, and the U.S. Amateur. Jones' "grand slam" of golf climaxed eight consecutive years of competition in which he had always annexed one of these titles, and twice had taken two of them. 1946, anywhere in the Midwest, another great thrill! Split-second starting with Standard Red Crown or Standard White Crown Gasoline, now stepped-up with aviation fuel ingredients. Yes, there's a thrill you'll appreciate these cold days. Dayton News

Bob Porlick, who is stationed at the present time at Navy Pier, was a week-end visitor at the Dybus home here.

Word was received here last Friday of the death of Mrs. Lizzie Lauer in Buchanan. Mrs. Lauer was well-known here by the older ones and was a sister of Mrs. Ernest Ecker here. The Johnson family, of which these were several children, formerly lived south-west of here many years ago.

Once more, death has visited our neighborhood and taken away from us another friend of many, many years, Charlie Foster, whom we refer to, was very well known. His parents years ago lived first south of the Mt. Zion cemetery. He was an old friend of our village. Had he lived one more day he would have been a member of the Dayton Odd Fellows lodge 39 years. Charlie reached the nice old age of 87 years. Once more we must say, "Gathering Home One By One".

Philip Rotzleh was a week-end visitor here at his mother's home. He has recently received his discharge papers.

Ask Government To Match Funds To Construct Airfields Farmers will use airplanes for flying baby chicks to market, crop dusting, herding and locating cattle, hunting and fishing and for "just flying", according to a survey of newspaper editors in towns of less than 10,000 population. Predicting their betimes upon a wide availability of landing fields, 91% of the editors reported that either an airport already was available within 10 miles of their town or plans for one were underway. Three-quarters of the farmers plan to use the planes chiefly for "family transportation and pleasure", 66% for farm business purposes and 22 for farm use. On an airport financing 71% of the rural editors believe the Federal Government should at least share the burden of providing funds. Most believed that the community airports should be shared 50-50 by private and government funds.
