"Taxpayer suit unlikely"; Tax Secretary

The possibility of a disgruntled taxpayer launching a successful suit against the City of Buchanan because Assessor Ray Pease was not certified at the proper level is "as unlikely as someone finding impurities in Ivory soap," State Tax Commission Secretary Edward Kane said Tuesday, referring to the age-old ad for the soap that is supposedly 99 and 44-100 per cent pure

Kane's comment came in response to reports published last week that Pease was not authorized to sign Buchanan's tax rolls when he did so on March 16 of this year Kane said that while the unauthorized signature could result in a court challenge, both the challenge itself and its chances for success are unlikely

"It's an unlikely possibility," Kane said "It would be extremely difficult trying to prove that some harm came to a taxpayer because of (Pease's) lack of proper certification"

According to a state law which came into effect in 1972, every assessor in the state must be certified at one of four levels Based on a formula that includes each governmental unit's state equalized valuation and amount of industrial and commercial property, the law requires Buchanan to have a Level III assessor Pease is certified only up to Level II

The city's previous assessor, Richard Bell, was also certified at Level II while he worked in Buchanan. Bell was given a six month conditional Level III rating in order to sign Buchanan's tax rolls Bell has since become a Level III assessor and has moved to Lincoln Township

City Manager Robert Faulhaber said Pease inquired about getting a conditional Level III rating this year but was told not to bother to apply because the state wasn't giving provisional ratings to anybody this year

Edward LaRose, executive secretary of the state assessors board, said the state no longer gives provisional ratings above Level II LaRose said the state is trying to force cities to appoint qualified assessors Most cities are rated at Levels III and IV while townships are usually rated at Levels I and II

LaRose said that 22 cities and townships in Michigan had assessors who rated below the levels required this year

Of Pease, who formerly worked in the Niles assessor's and building inspector's offices, Faulhaber said, "He was the most capable man I could find in my applications He has a lifetime of experience in building I have complete confidence in Ray Pease's capability and proficiency"

Though Pease has not yet passed the test for Level III, Faulhaber said Pease is currently taking an assessing course in Kalamazoo "His passing the test is imminent," said Faulhaber

Faulhaber also said he didn't expect any court challenges He said that 95.8 per cent of the city's taxes for this year have already been collected

Faulhaber also said he doubted that any of the city's taxpayers were surprised or upset by last week's disclosures "We have worked hand in hand with our taxpayers on this all along," he said

LaRose said that it is possible for the state tax commission to take over a city's assessment duties in cases such as Buchanan's Kane, however, said his department doesn't have the facilities to take over assessment duties in every community where an assessor is not qualified

Township OK's Broceus Road work

The Buchanan Township Board approved improvements totalling $38,500 for dusty Broceus School Road Tuesday night The improvements included widening, grading and gravelling the road and clearing and seeding the area adjacent to the road on each side The improvements would bring the road up to the level where it could eventually be primed and sealed

Residents who live on the road have complained about its general poor condition, citing specific examples of dustiness, narrowness, poor drainage and difficulty in snow removal

The $38,500 bid, submitted by the Berrien County Road Commission, was the subject of some reservations by Supervisor Kenneth Jones and Trustee Dale Nelson They were particularly unhappy with a proposed $2,250 charge for grass seed However, the motion to accept the bid passed unanimously, as all present agreed on the need for improvement

Jones explained that if the township wants a road improved, only the County Road Commission can bid on the job The road commission can contract the work out, but the township doesn't have that option. Another factor in the board's reasoning was, as Jones said, "The same improvements will probably cost $4,000 or $5,000 more if we wait until next year"

Jones said the work would be paid for out of the township's treasury

The board sent a letter to residents of the road requesting that they come to the meeting and present their opinions on the proposed improvements All of the residents who attended were in favor of the improvements, although many were unhappy about losing the trees that will be cleared for the road's widening

Lowell Dunham, who lives on Broceus School Road, requested that the board look into lowering the speed limit on the road Jones said it was unlikely that the speed limit could be lowered, since the road commission would not consider lowering the limit on Chamberlain Road, which has many more residents

In other business, Jones expressed approval with the work that has been done so far on North Main Road and the board declined an invitation to participate in the Four Flags Apple Festival Parade

The board defended its proposed future plan use map and new zoning ordinance, saying that if the township didn't take action on land use the state would step in and the township would lose all control in the matter Donna Newsom read from an article in Michigan Township News that described a proposed state land use bill Mrs Newsom said the article supported the board's point of view.

The discussion on zoning, the reading into the minutes of Fred Hankins' unsuccessful court case to force Jones to issue him a gun permit, and [illegible] to read into the minutes the text of a petition circulated by Hankins concerning Township Assessor Ivan Price's certification, sparked an outburst by Hankins that resulted in Constable Galen Weaver removing him from the meeting

Ag in Action

Hamburger and insulin

Some sociologists and nutritionists have accused beef of being a wasteful luxury in a hungry world Figures of "eight pounds of grain to make one pound of beef" were commonly tossed around a few years ago Such figures have been contested in several research projects.

Cattlemen groups have shown, for instance, that the majority of gain for beef takes place from grazing And much of this grazing takes place on land where grain crops could never be economically produced

And--there's one fact that is often overlooked when the value of feeding cattle for food is discussed That is the by-products that come from these animals after slaughter for food Al Best, director of research at Sperry New Holland, a manufacturer of farm machinery for the cattle and grain industry, says the benefits from beef by-products go far beyond food

"Most people would never even think of beef animals as a source of life-saving pharmaceuticals," says Best "However, it takes the pancreas glands from about 45 million cattle to keep the diabetics in America supplied with insulin "

There are an estimated five million diabetics in the U S and about one-fourth of them require daily insulin treatments Some cattle industry people believe there may eventually be a federal requirement calling for mandatory salvaging of pancreas glands by all beef slaughterers regardless of economic returns for the industry

Another medical by-product comes from ox bile from the animal's liver. This is used to manufacture the drug cortisone From lungs come extracts to be used in production of Heparin, used for blood control during operations. Heparin is also used for treatment in preventing gangrene and as a burn treatment

The small intestines are used in manufacture of surgical sutures Spinal cords are the beginning of sex hormone formulas Pituitary glands from cattle produce growth hormones for humans

There are non-medical by-products as well -- strings for musical instruments, lubricants from fats gelatin from bones All come from beef animals But it is the pharmaceuticals that really count "More than 100 life-saving, life-improving drugs in current use can be derived from a beef animal " says Best And that's not a "wasteful luxury"'

Annual Bill Knutson Day

Dear Editor:

In honor of a man who, when he was alive, gave his all to aid and assist crippled children, we are again having our Shrine Blood Drive Saturday, September 17, 1977 at the South Bend Elks Club, 3535 McKinley Avenue, South Bend, Indiana (Rt. 20)

It was Bill Knutson who was responsible for the promotion of the famous football stags, for which we would get some Notre Dame players to go with him to our Chicago hospital to visit these children, see what was being done, then come home and participate in these stag parties, which raised funds to help us operate the hospitals, pay transportation, etc

It was he, with the help of a good many nice people of this area, who got blood donors to make a trip to Chicago to give blood, A project that supplied all the blood needed in that hospital, in those days Now things have changed, not only are we using more blood, because we are operating on more children than we used to, but the expense is too high and the people do not have the time to go to Chicago for this project

So as we did last year, we are bringing all the equipment and the experts from the Michael Reese Blood Center of Chicago, to do this job Every drop of blood given that day, goes directly to our crippled children's hospital in Chicago, where we have taken many children from this area, at absolutely no cost to the patient or their family We treat all children who qualify ages 1 month to 15 years, regardless of race, sex or creed.

We are now operating 19 orthopedic hospitals and 3 burn centers, all of which are at no cost to the patient or family The cost of operation of these is now about $39,000,000 00 per year This money is raised by Shrine Circuses, wills, endowments and all Shriners have a portion of their dues that are directly for this purpose

As stated before we are doing more operations than ever before, so we do need more blood Can you help these little people, by giving us blood, so we may make them run and walk, like we lucky ones?

Remember it will take very little time to do this, so volunteer, sign a donor card soon Cards may be had by calling 294-7185 Elkhart, 533-1908 Goshen, 267-6111 Warsaw or write or call South Bend Shrine Club, 126 W Marion St., South Bend, Indiana 46601, telephone 234-4085, Howard B Voorhees, President Shriners Valley of Promise Foundation for Crippled Children Inc , 209 E. 4th St , Mishawaka, Indiana 46544, telephone 255-1969 Niles, Michigan 683-1451

Michigan Air Clean -- Except...

The air you breathe in Michigan meets federal health standards for four of five pollutants. But it's still heavy with photochemical oxidants -- caused mainly by auto emissions -- that state officials say are a problem nationwide

Monitors of air quality scattered throughout the state gave Michigan air generally good marks in 1976 for levels of suspended particulates like soot and ashes, sulfur dioxide, a product of coal-burning, and for nitrogen dioxide and carbon monoxide, produced by autos

There were scattered violations of those standards Eight counties for example violated federal standards for suspended particles They were Alpena Calhoun Delta Ingham, Genesee Monroe Saginaw and Wayne

A few also showed too-high levels of sulfur dioxide and carbon monoxide but state air quality officials say most of those problems have been or will soon be solved

But one problem far from being solved is that created by photo-chemical oxidants, mainly ozone, produced when auto emissions combine with sunlight The oxidants can be very irritating to people with respiratory problems, although they do not exist heavily enough here to bother healthy persons

The problem is so widespread that monitors on Lake Superior, in a rather desolate area of the Upper Peninsula, also showed excessively high levels of the oxidants

State officials say the only way to get rid of the problem is under a national program to eradicate the oxidants

Traffic Signs Can Go Clock-Less

No traffic signs that prohibit turns during certain hours of the day need not carry clocks to aid motorists without watches

That's the opinion of Michigan Atty Gen Frank Kelley who was asked if it's okay for such signs to exist without clocks.

It all started when an Ann Arbor man who had driven for 40 years without a ticket got one -- for turning at the wrong time. He argued the signs should be torn down, because they require him to wear his watch all day.

He complained to his state legislator, who asked Kelley to rule on the matter

Kelley said even drivers without watches are usually cognizant of the time To put clocks on all the such traffic signs in the state would be expensive and exasperating, since the clocks would have to be kept accurate, he said

Welfare More Efficient

Nine months ago, the state's welfare boss hinted he'd quit if he couldn't shape up the welfare program

Today John Dempsey is still on the job and says he s been successful He says fewer people are getting money they're not entitled to, more fraud is being prosecuted, and the state is saving money

The rate of those getting more money than they should -- or money when they shouldn't -- has been cut by a third in Wayne County over the past 30 months and by more than a half in the rest of the state

Still, however more than 20 per cent of welfare cases are costing the state more money than they should be Part of that is due to caseworker error the rest to fraud or mistakes by recipients Dempsey says

Wary pink salmon should provide bonus fall fishing in Michigan

The wary pink salmon should provide bonus fall fishing for the more than 500,000 salmon addicts concentrating on two million coho and chinook schooling off 35 Michigan rivers, bays and lakes according to Automobile Club of Michigan

The pink, or humpback, spawns every two years and is returning to tributaries of Lakes Superior, Michigan and Huron

Many of those fish, plus more than a million coho ranging up to 25 pounds and chinook averaging 30 pounds, should be taken at rivers, lakes and bays listed on Auto Club's 1977 salmon fishing guide

Runs of at least three-year-old silvery salmon already are converging on spawning streams and should provide optimum Great Lakes and stream angling through mid-November

State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) officials also are hopeful of a strong salmon fishery in Southeast Michigan, especially in the Detroit River where chinook runs were disappointing the past two seasons

DNR officials are hopeful that a new chemical used to imprint salmon smolts and to be released into the river off Belle Isle will help mature chinook home in "

The new imprint chemcial along with increased fishing pressure may help avoid the problem encountered last year, when the fish were near death by the time salmon schools were located, Auto Club stated.

Sportsmen looking for an early salmon fishery should be ready to go after the pinks in early September Auto Club advised

The small but powerful pinks were planted inadvertently into Lake Superior by Canada in 1956 Now they are established firmly as the world's only naturally reproducing freshwater pink salmon The state record is just over two pounds

Humpback schools are expanding southward each year and at least one good Lower Peninsula run is expected in Lake Huron's Ocqueoc River Other significant runs should appear in Upper Michigan's Presque Isle, Huron and Laughing Whitefish rivers along Lake Superior, and possibly in the Carp River on Lake Huron and in the Ford and Manistique rivers and Thompson Creek along Lake Michigan

Most pinks are taken in streams, where flies or small spoons and spinners can provoke strikes from spawners Stealth is required These fish are disturbed easily but once caught filleted and cooked, many anglers agree pinks are tastier table fare than either coho or chinook salmon.

Plans to weir off portions of several rivers from spawning coho and chinook salmon will not affect runs of pink salmon

Weirs to help control snagging and salmon straying from other streams are planned in West Michigan for the Pere Marquette and Jordan rivers and Bear Creek DNR egg-taking weirs will be operated this year on the lower Platte and Little Manistee rivers as well East Michigan's Van Etten Creek, an Au Sable River tributary near Oscoda, also will be barred to spawning salmon

River anglers are expected to be out in droves along 11 other streams, plus a portion of the Pere Marquette below the planned weir

East Michigan's best salmon stream should be the Au Sable, where returns from plants of 200 000 coho and 400,000 chinook salmon should soon be jamming the river mouth near Oscoda Fish will run to Foote Dam in large numbers in September

Large chinook runs also are expected in Harrisville Harbor, the Au Gres River and the Ocqueoc River-Nagle Creek area north of Rogers City A good run of coho and bonuses of steelhead, lake and brown trout are expected again in Tawas Bay off two Thumb-area streams -- Diamond Creek near Port Hope and Elk Creek at Sanilac State Park in Sanilac County

Large chinook and coho runs are expected in the St Joseph, Kalamazoo Grand and Muskegon rivers and in tributaries along Lake Michigan The lower Pere Marquette and the Big Sable River near Ludington also are good bets

Anglers in small boats should try for coho in the sheltered waters of Portage Lake north of Manistee as well as in Manistee, White and Muskegon lakes

Lake Superior's best bets for both coho and chinook include the Black Presque Isle, Huron and Dead rivers. The Presque Isle and Huron also should have good runs of pink salmon

Sections of certain streams are open again this year to "liberalized" fishing regulations allowing anglers to keep foul-hooked Pacific salmon from September 1 to December 31

Fisherman are restricted to using unweighted double or treble hooks no more than three-eights inch from point to shank or single hooks no more than one-half inch from point to shank For dates and sections open on each stream contact any DNR office

Anglers planning to charter a boat can write for a free copy of the Michigan Charter Boat Directory from the Michigan Travel Commission, Lansing, Michigan 48913.

Buchanan High School football starts Friday with Niles

The 1977 high school football season starts Friday night, and if you think it comes early this year, you're right. The season starts one week earlier this year to accommodate the addition of four teams in each class to the state championship tournament at the end of the season Rather than extend the season another week in the cold weather of November, the Michigan High School Athletic Association has decided to start it one week earlier in the warm weather of September

Regardless of the weather forecast, things will be warm at Memorial Field Friday night if the Niles millage passes and Buchanan is allowed to open the season against the archrival Vikings

Despite the uncertainty of the millage situation and the cancellation of two games by opponents unwilling to wait for the outcome, Niles has been practicing since August 15 with a varsity of 33 athletes. Coach Neil McLaughlin's Vikings promise to be as tough as usual

"Due to the millage situation, we didn't encourage our boys to come out for football this year. We wanted to make sure it was their idea," said McLaughlin "As a result, the boys who came out are very dedicated We feel we have the kids we need to win"

Like most McLaughlin coached teams, the Vikings will be ground oriented this year They return five letterman running backs, including speedster tailbacks Leonard Fowler and Tyrrence Spencer Fowler gained 107 yards in last year's 49-0 thrashing of Buchanan

"Speed is our big asset," said McLaughlin "We have two good backfields." Other returning backs are Steve Scafaria, John Webb, Tim Baker, and Trace Plummer Bill Wolverton, who quarterbacked the Niles jayvees to a 6-2 record a year ago, will direct the offense.

John Walker, a two-way starter at end last year, leads linemen. Brian Poehlman, Mike Dickeson and Kevin Leonard are other returning starters

Buchanan Coach Mike Young looks upon the annual grudge match as "a heck of a challenge"

"We consider it a fine opportunity to be able to play a team of Niles' level. We play a tough schedule, but you don't get better playing teams that are smaller and weaker than you"

The Bucks haven't beaten Niles since the 1966 team, in the last year of a 32 game winning streak, took a 13-7 decision But they have given the Class A school several close calls in recent years, carrying the Vikings into overtime before losing in both 1974 and 1975

Young reports that the Bucks should be at nearly full strength for Friday's game despite an uncanny rash of muscle pulls and turned ankles in practice Only junior running back Robert Tutson, who suffered a hyperextended knee, appears doubtful at this time.

Buchanan-Niles is the kind of a series where anything can happen, and don't bet against the Bucks pulling some surprises Friday night, if the game is played

The first steam engine was patented in 1698 by Thomas Saverey It was improved by James Watt in 1769

Smith Street 'Gut Grinder' will help Buchanan Cross Country team

Buchanan high school cross country coach Mike Rouse says the "gut grinder" will make his team one of the best in the Blossomland conference this fall

The "gut grinder" is the Smith Street hill across from Memorial Field and it's part of Buchanan's cross country course Buchanan will be the site of this year's Blossomland Conference cross country meet and, according to Rouse, no other conference team has a course anything like it In addition to the conference meet, Buchanan has six home meets a

're awfully tough on our own course," Rouse says "Our se is hilly and it's the most lt in Southwestern Michi- e make up a lot of ground on the hills."

The Bucks lose only school c older Rod Snow from th top five runners of a year ago which is another reason for Rouse's optimism John Dougherty, last year's number two runner, returns along with Mark Entenman, Eric Mollberg and Tom Lear, who were numbers three through five last year Dougherty and Lear are seniors and Mollberg and Entenman are juniors

Rouse says Entenman, Mollberg and Lear can stay with Dougherty through the first mile of the Buchanan course, until they reach the hills

"After the hills John is 150 yards ahead," says Rouse

Cross country meets are decided by the placings of each team's top five runners, but up to seven runners on each team may affect the score by finishing ahead of some or all of the opposition's top five

Buchanan doesn't have a definite fifth man yet Rouse feels he may come from a group of three sophomores and one junior The sophomores are Dennis Decker, Van Taylor and Rick Bollock, a transfer from Bridgman The junior, Jeff Christie, has been hampered this fall by shin splints

Another top runner for Buchanan is Sue Trull, who finished fourth in the girls' state meet last year Sue holds all the girls' distance records at Buchanan and, according to Rouse, "does everything that the boys do except run in their state meet"

What Sue and the rest of the team do in practice is work very hard Rouse says the team runs at Warren Dunes every Friday during pre-season practice, running up and down the dunes and 10 miles on the beach. They also work with weights and wear weighted vests while running the Buchanan course

Rouse says, "Both legs and upper body have to be strong for cross country We probably work more with weights than any Buchanan athletic team"

Buchanan will face its toughest challenge of the year in the first meet on September 12, when defending conference champion Edwardsburg visits Edwardsburg nearly won the Class C state championship last year and is a top heavy favorite to repeat in the Blossomland The Eddies return seven runners who finished ahead of Buchanan's first runner when the teams met last year

Still, Rouse expects his team to improve on last year's 8-5, fourth place finish "If we lose more than one meet I'll be disappointed," he says

Spectators can see the entire three-mile race at Buchanan's course The races start in centerfield of the Memorial Field baseball diamond, cross Smith Street and return to Memorial to finish at the 50 yard line of the football field Fans can see the start and finish from the football stands and watch the middle of the race from the bridge across McCoy's Creek.

Farmers score major victory

Michigan farmers scored what they described as a major victory August 19 over the system which develops and enforces safety regulations for agriculture In an invited presentation before the Occupational Safety Standards Commission in Detroit, Donald Shepard, operations manager of the Michigan Agricultural Services Association (MASA), an affiliate of the Michigan Farm Bureau, requested -- and received -- a number of concessions which the organization believes will lead to more "intelligent" development of MI-OSHA safety standards for agriculture

Recommendations made by the MASA spokesman which were acted upon by the Commission included withdrawal of OSSC approval of three proposed standards and non-consideration of four more proposed standards to which they were scheduled to give their first approval All seven of these standards were sent back to the Agricultural Advisory Committee for reconsideration

The lack of representation of farm employers and employees on the Agricultural Advisory Committee was another concern of MASA, and the OSSC rectified that "oversight" by directing the Department of Labor to include such representation They further instructed the Department to include the committee professional resource people to help assemble facts which would lead to proper identification of hazardous areas on the farm and "intelligent" development of MI-OSHA standards to correct those hazards

Two other concessions for Michigan agriculture which were granted by the Commission were agreement that public hearings on proposed standards should be held at times which do not conflict with heavy work seasons for farmers, and publication of the hearing dates in farm publications which reach the state's rural community

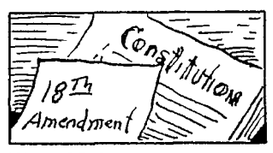
The Commission, concerned about the unusually large turnout of farmers to testify at a public hearing last September on proposed MI-OSHA standards, plus recent communications from farmers regarding the current proposed standards, were receptive to MASA's recommendations They agreed with farmers who have been saying, since the initiation of MI-OSHA "There must be a better way" of developing feasible safety regulations for agriculture

Shepard described the Commission members as "people who are deeply concerned and want to perform their responsibilities as outlined by law to the best of their ability

"They want to provide safety standards which will be effective and good for both the farm family and the employee Finally their feelings have been put into action," he said "I believe our presentation was simply the item that tipped the scales in favor of agriculture"

Since the initiation of MI-OSHA, under Act 154, MASA and its parent organization, the Michigan Farm Bureau, have assured the Commission that farmers do not oppose safety regulations that will constructively improve the work environment for agriculture However, they believe those regulations should be "feasible, enforceable, and apply to an area where a hazard exists and correct that hazard"

One recommendation made by MASA, which was not acted upon -- and evidently will not be needed -- was that the Commission demand an investigation, conducted by the Attorney General's office, to verify that Act 154 (which sets up MI-OSHA) has been followed "to the letter" in the promulgation of current agricultural safety standards



The 18th amendment, prohibition, was the only one to be repealed

CETA program makes significant impact on county's unemployment

The Berrien County Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) program has made a significant impact on the county's unemployment rate, according to CETA's Planning and Evaluation Coordinator, Ron Weber

"The influence of the CETA program in Berrien County may be reducing the county's unemployment rate by a full percentage point," Weber said.

His conclusion is based on an analysis of the Michigan Employment Security Commission's (MESC) July unemployment rate, Berrien County's civilian labor force and the performance of the CETA program for the same time period.

MESC estimates the July unemployment rate at 8 0 per cent and a total county labor force of 77,900 with 6,200 residents unemployed Weber indicated that the employment and training programs offered by CETA have made an impact by providing increased employment opportunities for Berrien County residents

Through July CETA has placed 835 participants in jobs These job placements have helped to maintain the number of unemployed well below the potential level of 7,035 At that level, the county would be facing an unemployment rate of 9.0 per cent instead of the current 8.0 per cent

CETA is a federally funded program equipped with a staff to assist the unemployed, underemployed and economically disadvantaged residents of the county in finding jobs and training

Offense will be one of Galien's strong points says Coach Yonto

"Football is a sport to be enjoyed," says Galien's first-year coach, Tony Yonto, and the Gaels, who return 15 players with varsity experience, figure they might enjoy the game a little more this year than last, when they lost eight times in nine games

Yonto, whose father Joe is the defensive coordinator at Notre Dame, was previously an assistant coach at Elgin (Ill.) St. Edward's and a graduate assistant at Milton (Wis) College. His ideas on the sport are refreshing, especially considering the popular image of Notre Dame and big time football

"Football, especially high school football, should be fun," he says "I've been involved with both big time and small time football, and I feel perspective has been lost at all levels It's become too business-like "

Yonto and the Gaels have been working mostly on offense in pre-season practice, and offense will be one of their strong points, with four players returning who saw a lot of action in the offensive backfield last year.

Quarterback Matt Koziel returns, along with running backs Jerry Woodrick, Jerry Sears and Eric Germinder Yonto, however, plans to move the speedy Woodrick to quarterback and make Koziel (6' 1" and 190 lbs) a fullback

"I'm looking for a T-formation, option type quarterback and Jerry has the speed we need," Yonto says. "We will use Matt at quarterback sometimes, but Woodrick will be number one. With Matt's size and power, he'll make a good fullback."

On the line, Yonto expects to start Richard Bailey and his 6-0, 200 lb brother, Dale, at the tackles Don Koziel will play center, with Rick Hein at one guard and Bob Brewer the probable starter at the other guard spot.

Jeff James and Marty Koziel are tight end candidates, and James Chase and Alex Henderson lead the split ends.

Yonto will use a 5-3 defense, with most of the experience returning in the secondary and at linebacker "Our weakest links will be in the defensive line," he says.

Kicking will be a definite strong point for the Gaels this year. Matt Koziel did all the kicking last year and Randy VanLew, a transfer from Baton Rouge, La , has been impressive in practice. VanLew kicked a 30 yard field goal in practice last week

Yonto has been impresed with his young (five of the 25 varsity members are sophomores) Gaels so far "We've been working on mental conditioning, physical conditioning and execution The kids all have good heads on their shoulders and they're good stickers, fantastic hitters," he says Galien opens its season with a home game against Covert Friday night

Michigan United Conservation Clubs ask DNR to remove phosphate detergents

The Department of Natural Resources has been asked by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs to take immediate action to remove from markets all household detergents containing more than 8 7 per cent phosphorus in violation of state law

Pointing out that at least three powdered dishwashing compounds now being sold in Michigan exceed the statutory limit for phosphorus, the state's largest conservation organization called on the DNR director to enforce provisions of Act 226 of 1971 which established the maximum phosphorus level

Two of the three compounds contain 13 per cent phosphorus and are manufactured by Procter & Gamble and Lever Bros The third contains 15 per cent phosphorus and is produced by Economics Laboratory MUCC said tests by the DNR have confirmed that the three compounds contain levels of phosphates "in blatant violation of the law "

At the same time, MUCC asked the Federal Trade Commission and the Michigan attorney general's office to conduct a formal review of claims made by the soap and detergent industry in its fight against a ban on phosphates in household laundry detergents. MUCC accused the industry of "playing games with the people of Michigan" by making conflicting claims on the impacts of a phosphate ban on consumers.

"We believe the industry is either guilty of false and deceptive advertising or guilty of false and misleading testimony in hearings and documentation sent to the Legislature and the DNR," Wayne Schmidt, MUCC staff ecologist, said in filing the request for a review.

He cited numerous examples of advertising that promoted the use of non-phosphate detergents and contrasted these with statements by industry spokesmen opposing a phosphate ban

"On the one hand, they are telling us that non-phosphates ruin washing machines, require extra hot water and don't clean as well," Schmidt said "On the other hand, their marketing of non-phosphates gives not a hint of these real or imagined problems.

"The fact is that all name brand laundry detergents are being marketed in Michigan in both phosphate and powdered non-phosphate formulations For example, in Lansing the Eberhard chain carries all non-phosphates and the Kroger chain carries all phosphates Prices are essentially identical for the two product lines "

MUCC, the organization that last year spearheaded the successful campaign to ban throw-away bottles and cans in Michigan, supports the phosphate ban as a means of improving water quality Phosphates discharged into the Great Lakes and inland lakes promote the rapid growth of algae, depleting the oxygen content of the water and causing premature aging of the lakes

The soap and detergent industry contends that water damage from household detergents is minimal and that a ban on phosphates would work a hardship on housewives

The state Natural Resources Commission last Friday voted unanimously to adopt an administrative rule banning the sale of household laundry detergents containing phosphates, effective October 1

However, the soap and detergent industry immediately filed suit to invalidate the action, maintaining that only the Legislature has authority to institute such a ban The suit noted that it was the Legislature that enacted Act 226 A bill to reduce the allowable phosphate content to 0 5 per cent in household laundry detergents presently is bottled up in the House Conservation Committee

On the national level, a bill calling for a similar ban in every state bordering the Great Lakes is being considered by a conference committee in Congress.

Meanwhile, the soap and detergent industry's suit in Michigan may postpone indefinitely the commission's October 1 deadline for the phosphorus ban

What's Cooking in Michigan

By Carl Olson
Michigan Department of Agriculture

As one of the preliminary judges in this year's Beef Cook-off, sponsored by the Michigan Beef Industry Commission, I had an opportunity to look over a great number of excellent recipes using inexpensive meat cuts.

When the seven finalists were chosen, there was one recipe that looked great but wasn't one of the seven Gary Marx of Lansing submitted the recipe and he has given me permission to pass it on to you

Combine two pounds lean ground beef, four finely chopped Ida Red or McIntosh apples, two slightly beaten eggs, one-half teaspoon tarragon, and salt and pepper to taste Shape this mixture into one-inch meatballs and brown in eight tablespoons of oil along with one-half cup chopped onion

For the sauce, combine four eight-ounce cans of tomato sauce, one and one-half cups dry red wine, one-half cup cider, and one teaspoon each of basil and rosemary

Pour the sauce over the meatballs, cover and simmer for one hour. The meatballs and sauce may be served over noodles or rice

It has no doubt already come to your notice that there are a goodly number of Michigan products in this recipe.

The Michigan Department of Agriculture is always ready to remind people that agriculture is an important industry. In fact, agriculture is Michigan's second largest industry with cash receipts to farmers totalling $1 68 billion in 1976 With added costs of processing, transportation and marketing, the agricultural industry was worth approximately $8 3 billion.

CAR MAKERS ARE AFTER US. BUT STILL BEHIND US.

Auto manufacturers are working hard on rustproofing New primers New application processes

But no factory rustproofing is as effective as Ziebart rustproofing.

Because Ziebart rustproofs where the factory can't. In the hidden, boxed-in areas created on the assembly line In places where bolts and welds break the pre-applied primer coat. In the places where rust can get started

And our unique sealant covers your car's rust-prone metal It even penetrates welded seams And it fights rust for years

We use our patented Ziebart spray tools to get it inside every hidden section the car makers can't reach

Come to Ziebart for real rustproofing. We will finish the job the factory started

IT'S US OR RUST.

One group of teachers toured the school farm, another went to Camp Madron and a third took a historical tour of the Buchanan area

Teachers who went to the school farm toured the farm with high school vocational agriculture teacher Howard Lahring They were also introduced to the farm's animals by Casey, and given a tour of the elementary school gardens Instruction in pioneer crafts such as cider making and making apple head and corn husk dolls was given

The teachers who went to Camp Madron participated in activities such as kayaking, canoeing, naturewalks and archery.

The historical tour bus visited the Buchanan library, Oak Ridge Cemetery, Spafford Woods and various spots along McCoy's Creek that were sites of the city's old mills

Farmers crop acreage reports due September 15

September 15, 1977, is the final date by which farmers should report their 1977 crop acreages This notice was released by Vernon L. Kretzschmer, Chairman of the Michigan State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. Acreage reports should be filed at local county ASCS offices

Kretzschmer noted that the new farm bill proposes many changes which are dependent upon producers reporting their crop acreages The new act makes major changes in set-aside authority for wheat and feed grains We will no longer be dealing with acreage allotments for major crops

Any payments, either disaster or deficiency, will be based on what the farmer actually planted. Loan eligibility will be based on planted acreage. Any set-aside will be a percentage of what was actually planted

Farmers who do not report their 1977 crop acreages by September 15, 1977, will not qualify for payments under the Farm Act now being considered in Congress
