Performance Clark Products in World War II Builds Export Trade

To Hold Program Thursday Night

Now Here's the Proposition

The prices aren't really so high. The fur coat they advertised on the radio a few years back as only $99 is now only $219.99

Buchanan Is Deer Country. Added evidence of a drift of deer into Berrien county was furnished when another deer, the kind in Berrien county this autumn, was struck and fatally injured by a car driven by Ray Weaver about 30 miles west of the Boscawen school on Wagner road Saturday night.

Weaver was driving to his home near Glendora about 10:30 p. m. Saturday. A deer was seen in the light of his headlights at the side of the road ahead. As he drew parallel to the animal, probably blinded by the lights, jumped suddenly across in front of the car.

The impact fractured one fore and one hind leg, and threw the animal to one side. It crawled into the brush along the fence, raised in an attempt to leap over the fence, and collapsed and remained there.

Weaver returned to Buchanan and got Chester Shepherd, night foreman, who returned with him. The deer was still lying. Shepherd shot the deer and brought it back to Buchanan, and then notified Mr. Vandecroft, warden, a representative of the Michigan Conservation department. Vandecroft instructed Shepherd to turn the animal over to the Berrien County infirmary at Buchanan center, in conformance with the state law requiring that in such incidents the venison go to some charitable institution.

The animal was a buck half-grown fawn, weighing about 75 pounds. Its spine was protruded only about one-half inch. Deer were killed in the past summer in the same manner near New Buffalo and Berrien Center. The deer killed by Weaver was on his farm west of the Wagner school near the Oak Grove school. Leigh Schwartz flushed two deer in the woods on the Schwartz farm some time ago. Last summer Roy Burke of Union street, Buchanan, started up two deer while picking berries on the Schwartz farm last summer. Cornelius Callaghan saw two deer recently eating apples in his orchard in the Wagner district. Meritt Pinkerton saw deer this past summer, on his farm west of the Wagner road near the Oak Grove school. Gene Shepherd saw deer on his farm near Clear Lake Horseback riders saw a fawn last summer near one of the Leland paths on the Morse estate.

Why Not Boom Baiterton? We read in some of the neighboring papers which carry Mr. Babson's column that the sage of Babson Park thinks that practically all of the nations participating in the alleged Peace conference are playing power politics with a vengeance and that unless the nations represented there "rule out selfish motives and get behind a honest-to-goodness movement for a world government, unless a real spiritual awakening develops—the groundwork for World War III is being laid at Paris."

Representatives From Many Lands Negotiate Here

Tram Technicians Here To Set Up And Run Plants In Other Lands

Representatives of nations in all parts of the world are now negotiating "trading" at the Clark Equipment Company to negotiate for the production of its "Kerosene" as the result of the fine advertising that production received through its effective service in many theatres of action during World War II.

As a result of that first-hand acquaintance, according to an official of the Clark Equipment company, that firm has received a number of orders for its products from countries. The first products were for Brazil, Australia, Turkey, Mexico, Brazil, France, Sweden, Belgium, The Netherlands, the Dutch East Indies, and Russia.

Before World War II the Clark Equipment had comparatively little foreign business. The present growth of interest lies in the fact that representatives of the above countries saw now these products served in war and visualized how they could serve in peace. In the case of Sweden the present business is a re-impement of pre-war business. Volvo, the only Swedish automobile plant, at Gothenburg, Sweden, had been buying Clark equipment for several years before the war.

The most visible Clark-made products were those dominating the Clark truck trucks and the Clark tractors. These were the only items of equipment in the war theatres entirely made by Clark Equipment. The wheels, axles, bearings, transmissions, and other parts supplied to truck manufacturers were hidden in the equipment bearing the name of other companies. But those little trucks carried the name of the Clark Equipment company to the great war theatres, to the sea, to the great war ports, to the beachheads where there were no docks, and many were borne on planes to advanced positions to help create new installations or rebuild captured installations. To the men of the lands less industrially advanced the way in which these trucks sped the work and saved human muscles seemed almost miraculous, as indeed it was.

Spectacular in their achievement and photogenic in their operations, they made the name of the Clark Equipment known wherever they operated. "Get through this company," "Get through in the door of world trade," as never before. This product has so far taken first position in foreign interest in Clark-made equipment. E. W. Clark, vice president of the company and in charge of the truck action plant at Battle Creek, is now on a trip to England, Belgium, and Sweden negotiating Clark truck business. W. P. Baranowski, export manager for Clark Equipment, is now on a trip to South America for the purpose of engaging distributors to handle the product in the Latin countries of that continent.

Alfred Flenar Describes Changes In 21 Years Of School Maintenance

Hand-Operated Pump-In-Back Yard, Outdoor Toilets, Kerosene Lamps Served Needs

You might be surprised to hear all the changes that have taken place in the physical equipment of the Buchanan schools during 21 years and 3 months, according to Alfred Flenar, who hured out to take charge of maintenance on July 1, 1925, and returned from the work Oct. 1, 1946.

When Flenar took up the work Benjamin Eggert was superintendent, and the old high school built in 1870 served in place of the present structure. Flenar and his family lived in the basement of the old building, of which the first story still remains as the present school and heating plant quarters. The two upper stories were torn down following the erection of the present building in 1922.

The physical assets of that time included kerosene lamps, outdoor toilets, and a pump in the backyard which was the only water supply.

It may seem strange that the school was still lit by kerosene lamps and that when electric lights had been installed in the building in 1880 it was as shabby as in view of the fact that electric lights had even been placed in the janitor's apartment in the basement. But the general assembly was lit by twelve kerosene lamps, arranged in equal numbers on the long sides of the room. Every time a night meeting was to be held there, it was Flenar's job to see that the lamps were lit and the wicks trimmed. In 1918 lights were finally installed in the school rooms via wires that ran around the outside of the interior walls and ceilings of the rooms.

In the rear on the south side of the building was a 60-foot well which supplied all water. The water had to be pumped by hand power. Every pupil had his or her own tin cup. The need for water was limited by the fact that there were no interior lavatories or toilets.

Outside there were two fairly large comfort stations. The effects of these structures on the sensibilities of the more refined were mitigated in summer by profuse trailing merrillories which grew in the water. They stood unadorned and uncamouflaged. Later inside toilets and lavatories were installed, but so inadequate were the heating facilities that in cold weather Flenar had to keep small kerosene stoves burning to prevent the water from freezing. The old hot air furnaces had to be constantly stoked to keep the heat up, and whenever the fires were banked the heat went down rapidly in the school. The roof of the old three-story structure was capped by a tower, which was constantly being struck by lightning. Once the lightning hit it and followed to take up to connect with the water pipes, burning off all the chains which controlled the turning on and snuffing off of water in the lavatories.

Each school room had an old eight-day clock, and the winding of these clocks was Flenar's responsibility. He also rang the big bell at the beginning of each session of school, once for three minutes, starting five minutes before school was taken up. When he rang it one tap for school to take up, he was occasionally taken to task by Stup Eggert because he would hold the last tap as a late student sprinted for the school house. When the two-minute interval was up and the last tap was due, Flenar would look out for late students within a short distance and wave his arms in sign language for them to run for it.

duce the most pounds of fish per acre.

Thirty-eight ponds of more than 100 acres altogether at the Wolf Lake, Alma, Hillsdale, Drayton Plains and Fenton stations are occupied with this warm-water fish study.

Ponds are being stocked with 25,000 to 150,000 bluegill fry per acre, until top carrying capacity is reached and the fish stop growing—the stunting effect of overcrowding noted in many lakes.

Introduction then of black bass (largemouth and smallmouth) and pike (both walleyes and northern) will reduce the panfish populations enough to permit further growth to catchable sizes.

All possible combinations will be tried to find the one that will provide the most pounds of fish per acre for the angler.

Boys from the second annual boys conservation camp at Higgins Lake, training school made this discovery when they went out to make a deer census drive on a marked square mile of woods and found Michigan state troops from Grayling had been using that area for maneuvers until daybreak of the same day.

After some debate the drive was made at 10 a. m. as scheduled, in spite of the disturbance. To the surprise of both boys and their leaders they counted 10 deer where the week before, with the area undisturbed, the section produced only 22.

I. H. Bartlett, who directed the drive, recalled with some satisfaction his defense of census drives in CCC days, when local hunters sometimes protested the "disturbing" of the deer with census drives a month in advance of the season.

The junior conservation club sponsored by the East and West Presque Isle sportsmen's clubs, the first boys' group to use the new group camp at Okequooc Lake counted eight deer in a half-section, in the season's first drive in that district.

Refrigerators should never be kept in a damp cellar, it is ruinous to them.

Noise Doesn't Drive Deer From Home

Michigan deer can "take it" like GI veterans. Small arms fire and the noise of truck halftracks and jeeps carrying troops on night maneuvers disturb them a little, but do not keep them from home for long.

Conservation Dept. Studies Maximum Fish Crop Per Acre

Using ponds with facilities for control that earlier investigations would have envied, fisheries men at five state hatcheries and fish rearing stations, under direction of W. F. Carbine of the conservation department's institute for fisheries research, are searching for the right combination of bluegills, bass and pike that will produce the most pounds of fish per acre.

After some debate the drive was made at 10 a. m. as scheduled, in Government by Imbeciles Must End. The above is the caption of an editorial by a former supporter of the New Deal. Unfortunately while over the years, as you Congressman was exposing and opposing the New Deal fallacies and the Communists' program, too many, swayed by their emotions, supported the New Deal and with spurs and quirt, when their help was needed, rode me rather consistently, leaving some scars on my tough old hide. But that was all right. I knew they meant well. Now, ALL in the Administration are NOT "imbeciles". Some are incompetent. Some are foolish. Some are ambitious. Some are crooks. Some are loyal old doing a good job. Others are "do-gooders" who think a law will cure every evil. They never count the cost. But back of it all are the Communists, raising hell, seeking to destroy free enterprise, overthrow our form of government—the best in the world for the common man. As the editorial points out, we have: Meat markets without meat. Groceries without soap. Auto dealers without autos. Clothing stores without clothing. Contractors without building materials. This is the spectacle of the U. S. A. today. It is the logical result of a country, trying to get along on a half free and half communistic economy. Thank the good Lord many who supported the Administration have seen the light. Now let's all get together and put an end to the New Deal; clean up on the Communists and all the long-haired, woolly-eyed, crazy, dreaming left-wingers in authority, get back to work and thrift and common sense. You can personally help do this by giving me an overwhelming majority on November 5. That kind of a majority will encourage other Congressmen to aid me. You know I will vote right and so will an overwhelming majority of Congress IF they think that is what the people want. Sincerely, CLARE E. HOFFMAN, Your Representative.

They're Continuing Nightly Revivals. 7:30 P. M. Nightly Except Mondays in the BETHEL TEMPLE Pentecostal Church 113 East Chicago Street. Elder Thomas Holmes of Columbus, Ohio, speaks each evening. Do you know that God is still filling people with the Holy Ghost, with the same evidence as in the day of Pentecost? Do you know that in Brazil there is one church alone with three thousand members that has received the Holy Ghost with the evidence of speaking in other tongues as the Spirit gives the utterance and that there have been more than thirteen million people in the world who have received this same experience? So come and let us reason together in God's word of His plan of salvation. We will be glad to explain and expound to you the word of God in a way you can understand it. Special singing each night and prayer will be offered for the sick. For Further Information Call Tel. 314-M Elder W. Ruff, Pastor.

Representatives From Many Lands Here

(Continued from Page 1) also approached the local company which will be able to establish manufacturing plants in their own countries rather than buy the finished product. The French commission here is negotiating for engineering assistance in manufacturing axles and transmissions for farm tractors. The Australian firm wishes to be licensed to manufacture a number of automotive parts in their own country.

All of these countries wishing to export products rather than produce are attempting to circumvent the penalties of outright bans that are prohibitive to product importation. In the case of Russia an American firm can deal only with the government since there is no private manufacturing in the sense as we have it here.

All of these countries also have at least some amount of technical knowledge of making Clark products but to set up Clark-designed and engineered production lines they require special information that embodies the results of decades of experimentation and development by the local company. This information includes all those devices that expedite the making of special products, as the required tooling, limits, sequence of processes, and the like in the countries that honor international patent rights, and the right to manufacture in their own lands.

As in all international trading, these special arrangements must be cleared through the American state department. All of these contacts and agreements are the normal course of peacetime international trade, in which all companies sell any product or idea wherever there is a market, and during which refusal to do business may be regarded as approaching an unfriendly act.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Want a Vacation from Marriage?

Alvin Blake went south on his vacation, for some fishing, and left his Missus to enjoy a vacation from the corn-cob pipe, clothes in a heap, and solos on the harmonica.

First, few days, Martha enjoyed it—house neat and quiet, top back on the toothpaste, no morning mess from Alvin's midnight snacks (Alvin's partial to a bit of cheese and beer at bedtime).

Come the end of the week, she began to fidget, couldn't even read the Clarion, it looked so unmissed; didn't have any appetite with nobody to cook for. She was about to wire Al, when he barges home a week ahead of time, and she almost cries for gratitude. ("Felt the same way myself," says Al.)

From where I sit, those differences of habit and opinion—whether they have to do with corn-cob pipes, a glass of beer, or playing the harmonica, seem mighty trivial when you're separated. And they are, too!
