ONE WAS TAKENSONE WAS LEFT." Two harvesters walked through the rows of corn

High rose the sun o'er the golden plain, And the binders rested by the grain, And the binders rested by the grain,
And sitting there, neath a friendly shade,
Each quenched the thirst that his labor made;
But one drank from the water jug,

Binding the she west of the yellow grain.

On sped the reaper, to and from Slaying the whost with a cruel blow,
Leaving it slaughtered, rank on rank,
And again the binders paysed and drank.

As the sun shone down with its scorching-heat.

Slower—still slower, one youth goes round,
He falls—he lieth upon the ground
A cry for help, and the workmen come

She was of a gentle, affectionate nature, and thought it no harm to show her love for her betrothed husband. She was just the woman to make a faithful, loving wife, to be a comfort and joy to the man she loved through all the troubles and disappointment. disappointments of life. But she was not without pride, and now she said to herself:

"I will say nothing to him. He is ashamed of me and admires cousin Belle because she is so lady-like and dignified. I am always offending them both though I try hard not to do so. Belle is more capable of making him happy than I am;" and choking back a great sob, she caught up a little blue scarf, and throwing it over her golden curls, ran out among the flowers, looking more like an angel, than an earthly being, trying the while to sing a gay tune, but failing mires her elegant appearance, but his love, Jessie, must surely be yours.

Ernest Linwood was a noble man, and an accomplished scholar. He was much older than Jessie, and she had always looked up to him, and given him her confidence as though he were an elder brother. She did not know how much he loved her and honor and ask her to give him the love he much coveted. Half an hour later they sat togeth er within a rustic arbor, talking qui-

She had accomplished her purpose. She was poor and proud, while Herbert was rich, and could make her a queen in society.

Jessie neither wept nor fainted, but became cold and rigid as marble. When they could pass out without being observed, Ernest conducted her to the house, and then returned home, with a sorrowful heart. But he was shut out the great joy which mingled with his sorrow, for he cherished the shadow of a hope that Jessie might yet be his.

Herbert and Isabelle went away the next morning without any explanation, little thinking that Jessie knew all, and, a month later, they were mar-loving, affectionate wife; and he has learned, by bitter experience, that elegance and beauty alone cannot render home a Paradise. And a thought of all that he has lost by his own perfidy is to him an ever-present anguish.

After months of sorrow, and many a bitter heart-struggle Tessie succeeded in crushing out her love for Herbert Livingstone.

She is now the happy and cherished wife of Ernest Linwood, the gifted pastor of an aristocratic church in the city of O ; and when memory reverts to the past, she fully realizes that her present happiness is one of the results of Isabelle's Triumph.

Miscellaneous.

BE A WOMAN. Oft I've heard of a gentle mother,

As the willight hours began,
Pleading with a son on duty,
Urging him to be a man.
But unto her blue-eyed daughter,
Though with love's words quite as ready,
Points the out the other divy. Points she out the other duty "Strive; my dear, to be a lady."

What's a lady? It is something; Made of boops; and silks; and aira; Used to decorate the parlor,! Like the fancy rugs and chairs? Is it one that wastes on novels Every feeling that is human? If 'tis this to be a lady, 'Tis not this to be a woman.

Mother, then, unto your daughter, Speak of something higher far, Than to be mere fightion's lady— "Woman" is the brighter star. If ye, in your strong affection, Urge your son to be a wie man, Urge your daughter no less strongly To arise and be a woman. Yes, a woman! brightest model

Yes, a woman! brightest mode!
Of that high and perfect beauty,
Where the mind, and soul, and body
Blend to work out life's great duty.
Be a woman, naught is higher
On the gilded light of fame;
On the catalogue of virtue.
There's no brighter, holler name.

Be a woman hon to duty: Raise the world from all that's low, Place high in the social heaven Virtue's fair and radiant bow. Lend thy influence to each effort ... That shall raise our nature human; Be not fashion's gilded lady— Be a brave, whole souled, true woman.

Kissing.

If there be anything of which the human race is fond, it is kissing. No doubt our lady readers will be shocked, and toss their pretty head disdainfully at this assertion of but we maintain it nevertheless and whatever they may be to others, to themselves they will be compelled to conless the truth. We do not mean; that they like to kiss everybody, only some particular lucky - or unlucky - fellow. Philosophers and learned men may talk about the attractions of gravitation and cohesioù; but there is no attraction in na ture as powerful and irresistible as tha which lies in a pair of ripe, rosy lips. In all ages, it has been potent to draw the strongest man from his duty or his prejudice. Even philosophers, with all their boasted coldness, have been powerless to resist the force of this strange attraction; which even the most abstruse science cannot account for.

Who invented kissing is not known but we shrewdly suspect that if mother Eve was half so fair as John Milton had yet," Isabelle was saying. "A few pictured her, it must have been the first to find so lovely a creature beside him. Certainly, if he was able to resist the attraction, he must have been an icicle. The Hebrews had a decided weakness for the institution; and if we may judge from the Songs of Solomon, the wisest man that ever lived was not proof against it. The old Greeks, who were as cold as their faultless marble, seem to have had no knowledge of the attraction, for their poets, until the days of Theocritus, say nothing about it. Theocritus was a traveled man, and had seen the Egyptian women and kissed them, too, we suppose; but for all that, he was exceedingly moderate in his doings, for he tells us of his sweetheart— "Lshould have been contented With a kiss from your sweet mouth." We should have been very discontented with such a small allowance.

The Romans were a long time in learning the art. At first they used it very formally. Virgil makes Jupiter kiss Venus to encourage her—a lesson, by the way, upon which Madame Venus improved in an amazingly short time. Even Horace, who was a "broth of a boy," and who was much of a lady's man, says nothing about kissing, if we remember aright. But Catullas, though a predecessor of Horace, was a wiser man, and a fellow after our own heart. Hear what he says to his sweetheart, when she asked him how many kisses he wants?

"Do you ask, Lesbia, how many kisses of thine can be enough? As many as are the sands of the African desert, or as many as are the stars that behold the secret loves of mortals when the night is

That was a sensible fellow, and very naturally he was popular with the ladies in his day. At present one must be very proper in the practice of the art. If he be wise, he will never try to kiss a girl against her will, nor to make much fuss in doing so; a quiet, easy, gentlemanly way of going about it is almost sure to win. Many a bright eyed, demure lass, who woulln't for the world be kissed in the presence of a third party, will not have to say "no" to a good-looking fellow, "when there's no-body near to see." A wise man will also limit the number of those he tries to kiss, for promiscuous kissing is worse than none at all—isn't it, ladies? How to go about the business is something that each one must decide for himself. A sensible fellow, who was not a puppy, will rarely fail to perceive the right moment; if he behaves himself, he will always find his fair one ready to supply the deficiencies of his education, in this respect, for the art' comes naturally to women.

Hints About Public Speaking

To a young man who wanted hints bout public speaking, Wendell Phillips wrote: "I think practice with all kinds of audiences the best teacher you can have. Think out your subjects carefully, read all you can relative to them, fill your mind, and then talk simply and naturally to an audience. Forget altogether that you are going to make a speech or that you are making one. Absorb yourself into the adea that you are to strike a blow, carry. out a purpose, effect an object, impress an idea, recommend a plan; then having forgotten yourself you will be likelier to do your best for that purpose. Remember to talk up to your audience and not down to it; the commonest audience can felish the best thing you can say if you know how to say it properly were it will be the war trecinci. Consumption of Tobacco.

"She Works for a Living.". We don't know who wrote the following lines, nor how often they have been published or republished, but they contain so many good points that they are worthy to be started anew on the sea of literature once or twice a year: Commend us to the girl of whom it is sneeringly said, "she works for a living;" in her we're always sure to find the ele ments of a true woman—a real lady.

True, we are not prepared for a mincing step; a haughty lip, a fashionable dress, or to hear a string of splendid nonsense about the balls and young men, the new novels and the next party-no, no; but we are prepared to hear the sound of words of good sense, language becoming women, a neat dress, a mild bow, and to witness movements that would not disgrace an an-

You who are looking for wives and com panions, turn from the fashionable, lazy and haughty girls, and select one from those who work for a living, and neverour word for it will you repent your choice. You want a substantial friend, and not a doll; a helpmate, and not a help eat; a counselor, and not a simpleton.— You may not be able to carry a piano into your house, but you can buy a spinning wheel or a set of knitting needles. If you cannot purchase a new novel, you may be able to take some valuable paper; if you cannot buy a ticket for a ball, you can visit some afflicted neighbor.

Be careful, then when you look for companions, and when you choose. We know many a foolish man, who, instead of choosing an industrious and prudent wo man for a wife, took one of the fashiona ble stock, and is now lamenting his folly in dust and ashes. He ran into the fire with his eyes wide open, and who but him self is to blame?

The time was when ladies went visiting and took their work with them. This is the reason why we had such excellent mothers. How singular would a gay wo-man look in a fashionable circle darning her father's stockings, or carding wool to spin. Would not her companions laugh at her? And yet such a woman would be a prize to somebody. Blessed is the man who chooses for his wife among despised girls "who work for a living:"

Curious Streak of Luck.

The New Orleans Times of the 10th ist., is responsible for the following story: "Several months ago it was discovered by the managers of the Louisiana State Lottery that the $10,000 prize had been sold, but week by week rolled by and no claimant appeared with the fortunate ticket. -For some time past the managers have been congratulating themselves upon the fact of its being lost or destroyed, and had almost ceased to look for its appearance under any circumstances. Day before yesterday it appeared at the counter, having been torwarded for collection from Chicago, and, of course, was paid immediately upon presentation. An inquiry into its delay revealed the fact that a recent sale of unclaimed packages took place in the express office in Chicago, where numerous trunks, boxes, and bundles sold at ridiculous prices, both above and below their rates, as afterward discovered. A boy among the crowd purchased a rather dilapidated package that was offered, for $1.35, and upon investigating its contents, found them to consist of a bundle of song books and a Louisiana lottery ticket. Dis gusted with his ill-luck, he immediately sold the lot to an old darkey standing near, who carried it to his employer, a large corn factor, for investigation. The payment of the $10,000 over the counter is the result of that investigation, and makes a fitting moral to the story."

Varieties of Diet. The Shetland Islanders will not ent crabs or lobsters; the Italians eat cock chafers; gypsies eat hedgehogs, and French whalers, whales; Australian na tives eat frogs, snakes, moths and grubs, but they will not touch oysters; South Sea Islanders will not drink goat's or cow's milk, but they will eat dogs and cats; the Chinese eat dogs, rats, earthworms, small live crabs and sea-slugs: South American Creoles and Indian would not, at one time, eat turtle; the ancient Romans ate asses' flesh and snails; Tartars eat horseflesh; Jews and Mohammedans will not eat pork, nor Hindoo's beef; Vienesse eat live wood ants; the West Indians eat iguan, and the Africans and South Americans eat monkeys and alligators; snails are eaten in Southern Europe; the New Zealanders steep maize in water until it is putrid, and make it into porridge, and then eat it.

Entertaining a Guest. Brilliant men are said to be fond of marying unintellectual wives. Madame de Calleyrand was no exception to the rule She was very pretty, but by no means clever. A certain Sir George Robinson, who had traveled in the East, being invited to dine at the minister's house, Talleyrand said to his wife: "I will leave a book for you, my dear, on my study table: please to read it, and then you will be able to talk to Sir George when he comes to dine." Talleyrand forgot to leave out the intended book; but his wife, anxious to comply with his instructions, hunted about the study and finding the "Adventures of Robinson Crusoe," at once jump ed to: the conclusion that the author was their expected guest : (The French usually drop the word "Crusoe" and speak o "Robinson."). She read the book diligent-ly, and astonished Sir George on his en-tering the drawing room, by instantly questioning him about "that darling Fri-The second of the

A Royal Romance.

Souci to Potsdam, when she saw an old oldier, who had lost one eye and one arm, sitting by the wayside. The old man looked very sad, and the Queen stopped in order to enquire what was the matter with him. "Oh, madame," said the veteran, who evidently did not know who the ladv was. "I am in the deepest distress. I have but one child-a daughter-a young girl, who, until recently, was employed as chambermaid at the Royal Palace in Potsdam. She received good wages; but the other day, one of the girls who hated her for some reason or another, charged her with having stolen some articles of value, and, although my dear girl strenu-ously protested her innocence, she was discharged. Now she cannot find another situation, so I am deprived of my only support, for my scanty pension is not sufficience to buy bread enough for us." "I believe I can help you, my friend." said the Queen. The veteran looked at her increduously. The Queen, however, took down his name and that of his daughter, and, after giving the old man some money, continued her walk. The Berlin correspondent of the Baltic Gazette, who relates the above, adds that the Queen, after examining the case of the veteran's daugh-

Ruskin says:-An educated man ought to know three things: First, where he is -that is to say, what kind of a world he has got into; how large it is, what kind of creatures live in it, and how; what it is made of, and what may be made of it. Secondly, where is he going—that is to say, what chances or reports there are of any other world beside this; what seems to be the nature of that other world. Thirdly, what he had best do under the circumstances; what are the present state and wants of mankind; what are the readiest means in his power of attaining happiness and diffusing it. The man who knows these things, and who has his will so subdued that he is ready to do what he knows he ought, is an educated man; and the man who knows them not, is uneducated, although he could talk all the tongues of

A Charleston paper has found a match for the story about the dog whose tail was cut off, a new tail growing in its place, while a dog grew to the decapitated memper. The statement is that in the upper part of South Carolina there is a young ex-confederate soldier whose leg was amputated, during the war, near the thigh. After amputation the wound rapidly healed and he was sent home. About a year aferwards a fleshy protuberance was seen to grow out of the flesh, which, in the course of a few months, took the shape of a foot, and since that time it has been growing finely, until now the man has a perfectly formed new foot and leg growing from his high, which, in a year or so, promises to supply the loss of his leg in the first in-

THE FENIAN SCARE. At no time since the Fenian move ment, has the alarm been much greater in Canada than at the present time. There seems to be a general apprehension in the Dominion of an invasion of their soil by the Feniens. And that such a movement has been or is being contemplated, there is but little doubt Could the Fenians have the assurance that the Government of the United States would not interfere with their plans, we doubt not but that only a very brief period would clapse before a part of Canada would be in their possession. The feelings of the great mass of the people, toward England and Canada, for the part played by them in the rebellion, would say, let the Fenians alone-let them take Canada. But shall our government forget the principles of honor, because the British government pursued so unjust a course toward us? We think the seber second thought of the people will respond in the negative. Yet, however, if Canada or England shall attempt an expedition against the Red River country, we doubt not out very material aid will be rendered to the people of that region. The final result of such a movement will, according to our idea, result in the loss of both the Red River country and even Canada herself. It appears that if Canada or England should move against the people of that region, that our Government will become involved, which will result, no doubt, in a great Canadian loss.

PLEA OF INSANITY.

Insanity seems to be the plea upon which the murderer, in many cases, hopes to escape the just penalty of the law. It seems to be quite fashionable to set up this plea, and there is no doubt that many a guilty murderer has escaped the just deserts of his crime by this plea, when the act was cool and premeditated. In some cases, there is undoubted evidence of insanity, as in the case of the woman in Baltimore-who, a few days since: cut the throats of her four children and her own mother. She was discouraged, having been thrown out of employment, and could not support her family. Starvation stared them in the face. When she had killed them, she rejoiced that they were happy in Heaven. In this case, all the maternal feelings were outraged, and the very brutal manner in which she carried out her purpose reveals to community everywhere, that the woman was insane.

This case, however, is very different from many cases that arise throughout the country, where this plea is set up to clear the cold-blooded murderer from the just reward of his crime. On this subject and the case above referred to, the Detroit Post justly re-

"Such a case as this brings into intenser contrast the absurdity and wickedness of permitting the plea of insanity to acquit so many cool-head ed and calculating villians, who lay claim to momentary frenzy; who, like those wonderful beggars that appeal to charity by imitating the most frightful convulsions and disorders, cry for mercy, by simulating spasms of lunacy and work themselves into a pretended mental disorganization.

Between the woman who cut the throats of her children, and the man Cole, who, finding his wife defiled, lost his balance long enough to shoot -not her-but her paramour, what a gulf of guilt! Yet both are pronounc-

MEETING OF BOARD OF SUPERVI-

The Board of Supervisors met in Berrien, on Wednesday of last week. J. H., Marvin, of Watervliet, was elected Chairman. All the members elect were present at the organization of the Board, except A. Sherwood, of Weesaw, J. Fisher, of Sodus, and Capt. Peck, of Berrien. The Board, as represented at its organization, stood ten Republicans and nine Democrats, the three absent Su-pervisors being Republicans.

The principal business of the Board seemed to be the auditing and allowing of accounts against the county, a considerable sum of which was passed upon. We notice, however, the Board was disposed to scrutinize the accounts very closely. This was par-ticularly manifest in the large account presented by Justice Chipman, of Niles. This account the Board refused to allow, and a motion made, to reconsider the vote rejecting his account, was also lost. We learn that the Board has had considerable trouble with the same Justice's bills before. We were somewhat amused at the efforts of the said Justice to log-roll his bill through, and the consequent speeches that were brought out. The worthy dispenser of Justice plead earnestly for his bill, even promising if it was not legal, that hereafter, i. e., on the next bill, the amount might be deducted therefrom, if he could not satisfy the Board of the justness of his charges. It was no go-the Board was inexorable. Our Niles Justice evidently left in disgust, being rather unfavorably impressed with the new Board of Supervisors. The following are the standing committees, as announced by the Chairman:

Assessments - E. L. Kingsland, Thos. R. Martin, Alonzo Sherwood. On County Buildings-Amos Clark, John M. K. Hilton and Josephus Fisher.

On Towns and Villages - Geo. Weimer, Isaac Hathaway and John

On Roads and Bridges-R. K. Charles, R. Peckham, Henry Ashoff. On County Poor-George Partridge, W. J. Edwards and Leroy W. Archer.

On Finance—James F. Haskins, J. W. Howe and T. J. West. On Claims-Wm. Hazlett, S. Jackson and C. Boughton. The Board adjourned on Friday.

Paying the National Debt.

From the Chicago Tribune. The Secretary of the Treasury, in reponse to an inquiry from the House of Representatives, sends in a detailed statement of the bonds he has purchased on account of the sinking fund, and also of those purchased in reduction of the debt. from July 1, 1869, to March 16, 1870, with the prices paid in currency. For the sinking fund, the amount of the bonds purchased is $20,806,500 - their cost in greenbacks, $23,829,800,98. In payment of the debt, apart from the sinking fund, $73,-825,550 of bonds have been purchased, at a cost in greenbacks of $85,446,639.16. Total of bonds purchased, $94,632,050, at a cost in currency of $109,276,440 14.

This aggregate of taxation and payment for eight months and twenty days is at the rate of $149,834,079, .or, in round numbers, one hundred and fifty millions a year of bonds paid, and about one hundred and seventy millions a year of currency paid for them. Some of the advocates of high taxes, will, perhaps, have the verdancy to assume and say that this is a saving to the national tax-payers to the amount of the annual interest on the portion of the debt paid, being nine millions a year. But a moment's reflection must satisfy every intelligent mind that the payment of a national debt is not the creation of so much wealth, but only a transfer of it from the tax-payers to the bondholders, and that the amount saved in the process is the amount by which the money will produce more in the hands of the bondsolders than it would have produced in those of the tax-payers, or, to state the same fact differently, the economy of the payment of a national debt is represented by the excess of interest paid by the government over the average rates earned by the use of the same money by

But when we look for saving in this direction, the facts, figures and common knowledge of mankind, are all arrayed against the theory that there is any saving whatever. No increase of production or diminution of interest is obtained by taking money from the tax payers and paying it over to the bondholders. Bondholders feel it as a loss because, safety and all things considered, their loan to the tax payers, in the aggregate, though at a lower rate of interest than would be asked of individuals, is the most advantageous one they can make. The tax-payers feel it as a loss, because every dollar of taxes they pay takes more from their capital than is paid to the bond-holder. Many of them are using small capitals in conjunction with much labor, and so are enabled to obtain, on labor and capital combined, 10, 20, 50, or even a higher per cent. per annum. Thus a retail grocer, butcher, or peddler, with a cash capital of $1,000, turning it every month, will sell $12,000 worth of goods a year, and make s profit of 20 per cent. on his sales, or $2,400 a year, which, counting his own salary at $1,500, leaves him a profit of 90 per cent. It is because of the large amount of the capital of the country which is in the hands of small capitalists, poor men, who combine a good deal of work with the use of a very moderate amount of money, that the census of 1860 returns the average earnings of the whole property of the country at 27 per cent. per annum, the property being less than $17,000,000,000, and the annual earnings more than $4,000,000,000. Here money to the tax-payers, viz., its value in production. The rates of interest represent merely the value of the money of large capitalists er with a few suggestive questions, to seeking employment. They are the price which serve mere as guides for the teacher. the man who can employ more capital than he The subject-matter of the lessons owns, can afford to pay (and to secure the payment of.) for the use of money, to the man who has more money than he can employ. Of course, employed capital of every kind may be assumed to be earning several times the ordinary rates of interest, i. e., the rates asked for money seeking employment. Have we no proofs that, under our present. burdens of taxation, a cessation and stoppage of production is going on? The agricultural reports of Ohio show that the State has fewer cattle and hogs to feed a larger population than in 1860. She is killing her stock to pay her taxes, most of which being "indirect" appear in the form of "living expenses," but are taxes only. Again, notice the decline in the export of a few of our leading manufactures from 1860 to 1868, as shown in the following table:

Iron, and manufactures of......

We should be exporting of all these things, according to our population, 70 per cent. more. But, instead, we export 66 per cent. less. From 1865 to 1870 we have been taxed $450,000,000 a year, which is equal to one-tenth the whole annual earnings of all the capital and labor of the country. The State and local taxes are about 21 per cent. on the principal, and if we suppose the principal to earn 25 per cent. per annum, these amount to another tenth of our. annual earnings. The national and local taxes combined, amount to one-fifth of our annual earnings. He who works ten hours a day, works eight hours for himself and two hours for the government. Every laboring man works seventy-two days in the year to pay taxes. This cannot be done without depression, exhaustion, a drying-up of the sources of wealth, a paralysis of industry. We have said nothing of the taxes that work unequally. We consider now merely the vast amount, too great to be adequately imagined without an effort. Taxation is heaving like an earthquake underneath the whole substratum of our industry. It is the great disorganizer, the disturbing force which lets nothing rest or prosper. There are modes of taxation which are worse than others, but the fundamental truth which needs to be thundered in the ears of our legislators is that all taxation for the payment of the principal of the national debt, in the present circumstances of the country, is a gigantic blunder. Let production go on unchecked by taxes other than those required to pay the current expenses of the government, economically administered, and the interest on the debt. Then, if any producer thinks it cheaper to pay the principal of the national debt than his share of the interest, he has only to buy the amount of bonds which represents the share of the debt on which he pays interest. He will then receive in his left hand exactly the amount of interest he pays with his right, and will stand, in all respects, as if the debt were paid, except the cost of collection and disbursement, which is about 8 per cent, on the amount of interest collected and disbursed, or 1 per cent. on the principal. If he cannot afford to buy and hold the bonds on which he pays interest, it is because his capital is worth more to him in other ways. But that which it would not pay for him to do on his own account it does not pay for the Secretary of the Treasury to do for him. The rapid ex-themselves in order to save the interest on them, they cannot afford that the Secretary of the Treasury should do this for them. Lef our production go on unchecked by impirical interference of government, and its officers, and just as soon as the time comes when the taxpayers can afford to invest their papital in the purchase of the principal of the debt, they will do so, each on his own account, without the interposition of the Sometary of the Treasury. Educational Matters, Original and Selected: By H., A. Ford, County Superintendent.

Reading-No. 1.

The first thing taught a beginner, in the common schools, is READING. Under a better organization, the pupil's attention will be primarily directed to objects more interesting to him than printed words. His knowledge of familiar things will be enlarged, his observing powers cultivated, his preceptions made-more accurate, and his vocabulary more copious. He will accumulate a sufficient stock of soundwords, with their meanings, before he is permitted to encounter form-words. Reading is not a subdivision of science, or any great branch of human learning. Intellectually, it is rather the principal gateway to all learning. Emotionally, it is an important aid to usefulness and happiness. Mechanically (vocal reading), it is a valuable art and accomplishment. It is at the foundation of all book-education.

The thorough acquirement of it should strengthen, train, and inform all the mental and moral faculties .-The mere recognition and naming of words and letters (of which the general instruction in reading mainly consists just now) educates the perceptive powers and memory: while there is no other faculty of the soul which may not be reached through the contents -that is, the meaning-of the words. A liberal education could be imparted by the drill of reading classes.

The means of instruction in reading are, almost exclusively, books. Some aparatus—as frames for holding letters and words printed on blocks or cards, "sentence-makers," and charts -has been devised, and is very useful. The blackboard and slate are indispensable in primary instruction. It is to be hoped that the note-book, composition-book, and Index Rerum will soon be equally in demand for advanced classes. The requisites of a good reading book are many. It should be clearly and handsomely printed, elegantly bound, and copiously illustrated with graphic and artistic pictures—in all external respects well calculated to educate the pupil in an appreciation of the beautiful and the rudiments of fine art. It should have a sufficient introduction to serve as a manual for teachers, comprising specific directions for using the book in hand, the brincipal rules of reading as a vocal exercise, an intellectual effort, and a means of culture, with a statement of their reasons, an exposition of elementary sounds and some of the simpler matters of clocution, and an abundant supply of exercises in articulation and correction of popular errors. Each lesson should be preceded by a table of words for pro- each; a petition was presented of ninety-four nouncing, and an outline or analysis | men of Cleveland against the passage of the of the contents; and followed by Funding bill; joint resolutions were passed to some definitions and explanatory notes, procure an appropriate burial place for the resome definitions and explanatory notes, in language plain and explicit, togetheducate every mental and moral power. In books for pupils in different stages of development, the contents would be variously proportioned .-Systematic instruction in any branch of learning should not be attempted. Nature educates the child miscellaneously-giving now a little of this, and presently something of that; similarly should the Reader. The grand rules should be: Interest the child; give him nothing that will be an element of bad education; and let the topics be a little above the ordinary range of the average pupil, but not out of his reach. The last rule will exclude most of the sublime masterpieces of thought and language, which none except philosophers can read well, but upon which so many of our children are constantly and uselessly expending their energies. The lessons should not be divided into para-

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE-APRIL 19TH. Bills were introduced: Disapproving certain acts of the Idaho Legislature; for the improvement of water communication between the Mississippi River and Lake Michigan, by the Wisconsin and other Rivers; fixing the time for holding terms of the Circuit Court in West Virginia: to establish certain post roads in oyage in the arctic regions, under government auspices; the Georgia bill was discussed at length, numerous amendments were offered and rejected. Mr. Pomeroy's proposition was inserted in place of the Bingham clause, by a vote of 87 to 24. It declares the present government of Georgia provisional, and provides for a new election and new beginning, so far as the Legislature is concerned, next November. Pomeroy moved to strike out all of the bill except the sections put in on his motion, and this was carried by fifteen majority, all the Democrats going for this as for his original

SENATE—APRIL 25TH.

The calendar was then taken up and only those bills to which no objection was made were passed. They included a bill extending three years time for consolidating the statues of the United States, being a substitute for the House bill; also, a bill giving priority in the courts of the United States to cases to which a State is party, or where the execution of the revenue laws of a State may be stayed by Judicial order or process.

A bill was reported covering the subject of the enforcement of the Fifteenth Amendment; a bill passed amending the law for the disposal of coal lands, &c., on the public domain; the bill specifying regulations for the foreign and coasting trade on the Northern, Northeastern and Northwestern frontiers, was passed; several private bills were also passed.

. . HOUSE-APRIL 25TH. A large number of bills were introduced, including one to charter the American & Holland Ocean Cable Company; also, granting lands for a railroad from Ontonagon, to the Michigan State line; for a railroad from Lake Superior to Vermillion Lake, and for the Omaha & Northwestern Railroad; also, for a survey of the Mississippi River, from the Missouri to the Maramac; for the relief of the people of the United States by reducing taxation, providing that on the 30th of June next there shall be a reduction of 15 per cent. on internal taxes, and 10 per cent. on import duties, except on spirits, tobacco, and eigars; that no income derived after December 31, 1869, shall be taxable, and abolishing all special licenses, except on distillers, brewers, and manufacturers of tobacco, snuff, and cigars.

The House went into Committee on the Tariff bill.

The Discussion on Senator Chandler's Winnepeg Resolution.

The Senate then took up Mr. Chandler's resolution, directing the President of the United States to appoint commissioners to open negotiations for the annexation of the Winnepeg district as a Territory or State.

Mr. Chandler said he had offered the resolution in the interest of peace and good will, and proceeded to show the reasons upon which negotiations should be commenced. First, That the government had shown its rights to recognition by maintaining itself for some time against all attempts for its suppression. Second, Our own free republic, which had invited the whole world to come in and occupy the entire continent, could not countenance the theory of a dominion on our borders; that any part of this continent belonged to the Crown. Third, That the injury inflicted upon us in the haste of the British Government to acknowledge the rebels as belligerents upon the breaking out of the rebellion, and her spoilations on our commerce during the war, must now be repaired and made good.

Mr. Chandler continued at some length in the enforcement of his propositions, closing as follows: Referring to the existence of the Canadian Dominion as antagonistic to our institutions, he said that i the British Government designed to continue indefinitely her sway there she must be prepared to maintain it by such force as would withstand the Government of the United States.- He hoped, in the interest of humanity, that the rumor of the setting out of an armed force to suppress the Red River insurrection would not prove true; as their ultimate destruction would certainly follow. An army less than 100,000 British regulars would be utterly futile, and if the American people should protest, even these would not be better than a force of 100. He then referred to the tacility with which American volunteers were disciplined and inured to the hardships of war as compared with soldiers of other nations, claiming that the United States was the strongest military power on Church society are seriously cearth, and only needed to manifest its a new organ for their church. strength to secure a layorable hearing by foreign governments.

Mr. Ramsey inquired of the Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, Sumner) what disposition has been made the one now pending. He thought the subject would ere long prove of great importance. The action of the British authorities in organizing the Canadian militia, in sending over British regulars, and in calling on Indians between the west coast of Lake Superior and the Red River, would require the attention of the American Government.

Mr. Howard desired to know whether the Canadian Government, were enlisting Indians in their service.

Mr. Ramsey replied that there was no doubt of the fact, and that the coming conflict threatened to involve other Indians on our frontier. He also called attention to the report that the proposed expedition was to proceed by way of the Sault-St. Marie Canal, in the State of Michigan. He read from a private letter in corroboration of his statement, to show the difficulty of transportation for an expedition in any chartered for the purpose.

Mr. Howard expressed the assurance that the Michigan State authorities would; not permit the use of the St. Marie Canal, in furthering any military operations by Britain had no right to ask any such lifounded. That it was not contemplated by the British Government to use the canal referred to. He stated that the resolution previously offered by Mr. Ramsey on the same subject was pending before the Committee on Foreign Relations, awaiting official information, upon which the committee might base its action.

The discussion terminated by the reference of the resolution, on motion of Mr. -Ohandler, to the Committee on Roreign Relations.

From the New York Tribune. The New Congressional Apportion meat,

We assume that the Senate will not seriously,—or, at least, not successfully—attempt to overrule the decision of the House that, for the next decade, the number of Representatives in Congress shall be 275, with such additions only as the admission of new States may, from time to time involve. These will hardly exceed five in all, of one each for Utah, Montana, Idaho, Wyoming and Dakota, as they shall severally be admitted. (We assume that New-Mexico will be admitted at this session, so that her member will be one of the 275.)

In the following table we present, I The total population of each State, as returned by the census of 1860: 2. The estimated population of such State, according to the census about to be taken; 3. The number of its present Representatives in Congress: 4. The number to which it will probably be entitled under the new census. From Three Oaks. April 25, 1870.

Mr. Editor, —Sir:—I have very little news to write you to-day. We have had a very quiet, peaceable time, for the last two months, and our new Marshal is repairing the side walks, and keeps his eye on those who try to step on every spike on the side-walk. We now have a new and substantial calaboose. The Town Hall is being painted, and many other buildings are receiving coats of paint outside and whitewash and paper inside. Business is improving, and the Gas and Water Pipe Factory still keep making pipe in large quantities.—A friend of mine and myself took a trip over the Chicago & Michigan Lake Shore Railroad, a few days since. Bought tickets for New Buffalo, stepped on board the train and had a very smooth and pleasant ride of 7 miles, over the Michigan Central Rail-road. Strolled around the depot and corners about two hours, before taking train over the C. & M. L. S. Rail-road. In that two hours, walked to the Democratic pole, on Wilkerson's Corners, something less than sixteen times; thought over my past history and the history of the Democratic party for the last thirty years or more. We went on the train passed over the famous Conoly Bridge.-Nothing of note transpired over the route, except to say it was somewhat rough, and that Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton was in the car. I thought that I would like to say something to her about woman's rights, but did not know how to introduce myself and the subject. For if I had introduced myself as Jo. Baker, perhaps, she would have said she never heard of me before. My friend said he would like to ask her a few questions about woman's rights. "Well," said I, "why don't you ask them?" "How shall I commence," he replied, "ask her how Lady Colfax and young Schuyler are doing about now."

We finally concluded not to broach the subject.—As we neared St. Joseph, going down the blaff, the limbs of a tree raked the windows of the car, which started the passengers to the opposite side of the car. Some one said we were about to pass over a bad piece of track, and that the tree had been placed there to cause the passengers to move to the other side—to keep the car level .- We left the cars, visited Benton Harbor, saw many buildings going up; think they will have a lively business place there. Visited the fruit orchards; met a man shaking with the ague, was on his way to town for medicine. Fair prospect for a large crop the coming season .-Passed back to the picturesque city of St. Joseph, put up at one of the hotels; didnot register Jo. Baker: The next morning after the Elizabeth Cady Stanton Lecture, we took passage on board a fine, new car. Soon after being seated, Mrs. E. C. Stanton came in, with a gentlemanly citizen of St. Joseph. She said she thought he was not an earnest worker in the cause of woman's rights. He said that when the majority of the women asked for woman suffrage, he was willing, for one, to grant it; but the majority had not asked for the right. Mrs. Stanton said the niggers had not asked for it, but you men have given them the right of suffrage. She said the nigger was contented to have his hoe cake, and a jackass to drive, and had not asked for suffrage; but you granted it, and are not willing that the intelligent women of America should be allowed the same rights. Mrs. Stanton believes in every human being having an equal advantage, in the affairs of human existence or human life. And if she had said, it, although . I am not a democrat, I would have proposed three cheers for the speaker .- We soon arrived at Stevenson station, eight miles from St. Joseph, where they expect to build a city soon. There is now standing in the grubs, a cabin Sx10, the only building, where beer, etc., is sold. They expect to make a town, by selling out the lots at a high price. My friend asked one of the proprietors, what inducements they would offer to have certain business started there? "Just what you can make out of your business," he replied. This was encouraging, to one who expected a lease of some land for nothing. The fruit orchards reach nearly to this station. People who want to buy fruit land, think that they must go to St. Joseph, or in that vicinity I think there is just as good fruit soil farther south, in Lake and Chikaming, and a much stronger soil for apple orchards; and I own none of it, either. At Morris sta-tion, Mr. Morrison intends having a town; I do not know what inducements he offers, to get people to locate there. At Bridg. man's, I understand Mr. Bridgman offers good inducements, to those who wish to settle there, especially to manufacturers and business men; and gives away some lots to those who will build on them. Troy station is a good point, for a nice town. I will not speak of the other stations, at present.—We soon arrived at New Buffalo; walked into the passenger room; very little fire in the stove; two men smoking rusty pipes; my friend took the poker to punch the fire; a man smoked in the lady's face; lady stepped back against the poker, bruising my friend's. At many of the stations, many persons who have no business there, make it their business to smoke an old pipe, and puff the smoke in the pussons ... Yours, truly, Jo. BAKER. the smoke in the passengers' eyes, eyes, ARRESTED-FINED.-Monday evening whisky got into a row, and the person of Charles Ross suffered somewhat in cuts and bruises about the face, 'administered by Wm. Jones, who was duly moved by the inspiration of bad whisky. Jones, on a pressing invitation from officer Evans, ppeared before Justice Ballengee. His honor, after duly hearing the narative in the case, suggested to Jones the propriety of making a deposit of $14.40 to cover expenses and damages, whereupon the suggestion was carried out by Jones. He, no doubt, thought that the next time, when thirst began to increase, that good whisky would be preferable to the pugilistic kind, besides being, in the end, much cheaper.

NEW JAIL,-While in Berrien few days since we were shown through the new jail by our courteous Sheriff Maj. Warner, who is now personally looking after the interests of the County, in his special department. The arrangement of the new jail is all that could be desired for the safety of the prisoners. Everything is arranged convenient and tasty, so that the Jail of Berrien County is no longer a disgrace to one among the first Counties in the State in population. In the future, we opine, little fears need be entertained of the escape of persons placed there for safe keeping. There are two tiers of cells, the lower one containing sixteen, and the upper one eight cells. The manner, security and taste with which the new Jail is constructed reflects great credit on all concerned.

Why is it that Fox & Co. sell cheaper than any one else? Simply because they pay cash for goods and are willing to sell at small profits.

CIRCUIT COURT .- The April term of the Circuit Court for Berrien County, commenced its session on Tuesday of last week, Judge Blackman presiding, and it was expected an adjournment would take place yesterday. There were on the docket eighty cases, six criminal, four chancery and seventy civil cases. Some twenty-five of the civil cases were disposed of, and all of the criminal cases. Benjamin Ehle plead guilty to the charge of stealing $90,00 from his room mate in Niles, and was sentenced three years in the State Prison; Frank Williams and Ross Brown, plead guilty to stealing a wagon and team, sentenced one year each in State Prison; Holly Homestead tried on charge of assault with intent to kill, and was sentenced one year; Erasmus Shedd, charged with assault with intent to kill, plead guilty on charge of assault, and was sentenced to thirty days in the County Jail.

LECTURE.-We publish in another place in this issue the notice, by the President and Secretary, of the first Lecture under the auspices of the Young Men's Literary Association, recently organized in our village. We hope our citizens will take that interest in the matter, that its importance demands. There is no one thing that our village has so much needed as an organization of this kind. Now that a good beginning has been made, we trust every effort may be put forth by our citizenship to make it a complete

The lecture to be delivered on Tuesday evening, by Rev. J. R. Berry, will, without doubt, be entertaining as well as instructive. We hope to see a large audience in attendance, such an one as shall make all feel that the movement for a Literary Association, in Buchanan, is no failure. Much depends on every citizen taking an interest in the matter, as the objects of the association are worthy of the consideration of every man, woman and young lady in our midst. If the Association is duly encouraged through the Summer, as we have reasons to hope it will be, then next fall and winter we may enjoy lectures from the best talent in the nation. This will truly be a desideratum for Buchanan—one we have long desired to see accomplished. Come out then, on Tuesday evening, and lend your presence and the small admission fee to assist the worthy objects of the Association, as well as enjoy the interesting lecture from one of our esteem-

Literary Association. The first lecture under the auspices of the Young Men's Literary Association, in this place, will be delivered by Rev. J. R. Berry, Pastor of the M. E. Church, on Tuesday evening, May 8d, 1870, at the Advent-Christian Chapel, on Oak Street.

The Association having thoroughly perfected its organization, is now in good working condition, and proposes to have a course of lectures during the Summer, preparatory to a more extended course during the coming Winter. The Association have been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Berry, who will deliver the opening lecture of the course. Subject-"You Hit Me."

We hope no one will dodge this lecture for fear of being hit. Let all turn out, hit or no hit. We can assure you a rich and spicy lecture from the Elder.

It is the purpose of the Association to have a public lecture on the first Tuesday evening of each month during the summer and fall, by our home talent. The Pastors of the several Churches, and literary ladies and gentlemen in the place, old and young, will be invited to take a part in these lectures from time. In view of the importance of promptly meeting the expenses of the Association, for hall rents, &c., it is necessary that we should charge an admission fee to the lectures. The fee for the lectures during the summer season is fixed at fifteen cents, a very small amount for each to pay. This organization is one we have long needed, and for the want of it we have been deprived of many important literary lectures from the noted ecturers of the country. It is an organization in the success of which all the citizens of the village and surrounding country have a common interest. Its only object is the moral, iterary and intellectual advancement of our young men and young women. It is confidently hoped and expected that all will take an interest in it, and lend the helping hand. The organization, although less than six weeks old, now numbers over one hundred members, and rapidly increasing. L. P. ALEXANDER, Pres. S. P. BARRETT, Sec.

. County Teachers' Association. CHAPEL UNION SCHOOL HOUSE, NILES, April 15, 1870.

The first semi-annual meeting of the Berrien County Teachers' Association met pursuant to adjournment. The meeting was called to order at 2 o'clock r. M. by the President, Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Geo. S. Hicks, of New Buffalo. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The Constitution was also read and presented to the Teachers for signatures. Profs. G. F. Edwards, Niles, G. E. Stillwell, St. Joseph, and Mr. Pullen, of Oronoko, were appointed a committee to decide time and place of next meeting.

Prof. Webb addressed the Association upon the subject of "Teaching." The prominent idea in his address was, that Teachers are sllently, but effectually, exerting an influence upon the minds of those taught, which would be as enduring as eternity. If an angel dwells in the heart of a teacher, it will shine forth and reflect upon the scholar, and an untold influence for good will be exerted; if a demon lurks there, it will come forth from its hiding place, and pernicious results will follow .--Though these impressions may remain dormant in the mind for a time, yet, in after years they will appear in the lives of the individuals, and may be traced back to their originator.

After a few moments' intermission, an interesting and brief essay was read by Miss Emily Hale, of Laketon. Subject: "Aims and Re-

Supt. Ford presented the subject of "Education and Culture." The reading of some weekly newspaper and professional magazine, keeping a note-book and books for reference in the teaching of any subject, were considered extremely necessary for this kind of work. Rev. G. S. Hicks, of New Buffalo, read an earnest and carefully prepared article on "The Bible in Schools." At the close of the essay, a spirited discussion took place.. The committee on time and place reported as follows: St. Joseph place of meeting, and time Friday and Saturday of the first week in October.

A vote of thanks was extended to the speakers and essayists. A motion to adjourn was moved and carried. The attendance was large, and the exercises were listened to with very good attention, although the teachers had become weary in consequence of the Institute which preceded the Association. 'The exercises were interspersed with music by a few scholars from the High School department, to whom the thanks of the Association were tendered. . J. N. HOSTER, Pres. NELLIE E. COOLIDGE, Sec. Meeting of the Board of Trustees.

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the village of Buchanan, held April 1st, 1870, there were present, Charles Clark, President; Messrs, Roe, Howe, Binns, Richards, Pears and DeMont, Trustees.

A motion was made and carried, that one day's work to each $700 of assessment be levied as highway tax.

A petition praying for the extension of Third Street west, through land owned by A. Dunbar, was presented, and; on motion, it was laid on the table. A petition praying for the opening of First Street, Day's addition, west, to connect with Roe Street, was presented, and, on motion, a committee consisting of Messrs. Roe and Howe was appointed to confer with parties in reference thereto.

A petition, for the opening of Alexander Street east, through land owned by David Weaver, to connect with Third Street, in Day's addition, was presented, and a committee consisting of Messrs. Roe and Pears was appointed to confer with Mr. Weaver, in relation to open ing said road.
On motion, the Board adjourned. N. H. MERRILL, Clerk

EDITOR RECORD: — The present warm "spell" of weather makes one "sigh for summer clothing" in earnest. Now and then, a linen coat or straw hat is visible on our streets.-By order of Marshal Chambers, our streets are undergoing a thorough cleaning. A laudable work.—Our city can at last boast of a Brass Band, much to the pleasure of our musicloving citizens, and which is a credit to the place. Many attemps have been made to organize a band, and as many times failed, until those who did and would offer assistance became disgusted and discouraged; but at last, through the indefatigable energy of a few individuals, we have a band that plays all the popular airs, and is not frightened to death if playing on the street surrounded by a large crowd.—Work has been commenced on the E. & B. H. R. R., which will be joyful news to those living between St. Joseph and Berrien.—This morning, about 10 o'clock, a race came off at the City Race Course, between some trotting stock owned by Mr. Bumbery and Mr. Warner. The latter gentleman's "nag" winning the stakes—$25. Occasional. stakes—$25.

Mr. EDITOR :- As you have kindly noticed my communication I will begin where I lest off and finish my conversation with Mr. Jock Eye. and also describe the great men of Three Oaks, as near as may be, from the description of Mr. Cock Eye.

rise men are ?" "Well, Stranger, there is Jo. Baker and Peter Craig, more particular than all the rest. Jo. Baker is a square got up kind of construct. ion, and you must beware of him, for if he finds you out, he will write something about you and have it put in the paper; yet, he is a better kind of critter than Wolverine. Then advise you to 'keep your eye skinned' on Peter Craig. Peter is very wisely put up, and eems to know some things, and some things he don't know. And he is a great prophetprophesying some things that don't come to pass, and some that do. He prophesied that there would be a rail-road built through these town, Three Oaks." "Well, Mr. Cock Eye, this is the rail-road I heard about at St. Jo., that the little mug of a hunch nose chap told me there was a fight about, down this way some where, and tell you, Mr. Cock Eye, I used to be some in a fight parts, and that it would come to that mighty when I was on a rail-road down east." Then Mr. Cock Eye told me to go to that smashing town, One-oak-and-a-half, and enquire for Peter Craig, the wise man and prophet, and he would get me into the fight. So I started right off, and Mr. Cock Eye says: "See here, Stranger, I want you to keep quiet about all these things. Don't say anything, but if you see any of our good, honest R. Commist sioners, give them my respects, and tell them I am nearly ready for them, and I want them to reasonable, and, partly on time, if de- have the stamps ready for this piece of ground sired. For further particulars, call I have been stealing, that is, if they haven't cheap. Don't buy ungot to steal them from the Township; and you had better go on as fast as possible, and don't stop to gas with Wolverine, nor Charley, nor Jo. Baker, but go straight to Peter Craig."

So I went my way, and as I passed the Wolverine office I saw the thing they called Wolverine. I did not say anything to him, for I thought the thing looked as though it had a gas pipe in it, and if it had the pipe was very short, for I did not think there was much of him but wind. I got by as soon as possible and on I went, and pretty soon I hove in sight of the Fountain of Wisdom. Just before I got into town I met a sanctimonious looking chap, and tried to get by him, but he stopped me and asked if I was a stranger in these parts. I asked him why? when he told me that he had a meeting, and would like to have me go. But I said no, and went on, and soon met a boy, and asked him who that man was, and he said that was Charley. I soon entered Three Oaks, that mighty town of the latest style, and the first man I met was a tall, queer looking chap. He had the longest pair of arms hung to him that ever I saw hung to one chap, and seemed to be hung for reaching a great ways behind, but not very far ahead. Says I to him: "Mister, can you tell me where I can find Peter Craig, the wise man and prophet?" [Balance next week.—Ep.]

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rhoumatism, and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittant and Intermittant Fevers, Discuses of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bluers have been most successful. Such diseases are caused by vitiated blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs. Cleanse the Vitiated Blood wherever you find its impurities burs ing through the skin in Pimples, Eraptions or Seres; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and slurgish in the veins: cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. moved.
In Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, these In billous, hemivent, and theranticht revers, these litters have no equal. For full directions read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French and Spanish.

PATENT STRETCHED BELTING, Rubber Belting and METALIC TIPPED LACING,

There are domes where the stars are never dim Where the moon forever gleams, And the music breath of the radiant hills Sweeps o'er the crystal streams; For often I've caught in the time of sleep, A gorgeous glimpse of this hidden deep, Away in the land of dreams.

When night lets down her pall of mist On slender cords of air, And the purple shadows of dying day Are teeming everywhere; White unseen fairies chant a lay In the lilly's crimson cells,
And the solemn voice of the harmless winds Breaks up the dreary fells; I know by the cry of my soul within,
There's a place where they shut the gates of sin
And the Gop of glory dwells.

The wail of the wind, the river's voice, The arch of western hill.

The beauty spread o'er the living earth,
In slumbrous twilight stills

The yearning of each human heart,

For a holier, better clime—
A higher life than this mortal course,
Bearing the seal divine! Ali, sure there must be a beautiful land, Where the white robed millions ransomed stand Chanting their songs sublime.

Criticism.

I wish people who criticise would use their hearts as much as their heads, and re member that just criticism implies praise as well as blame, and that the latter is of ten less needed than the former. Honest, merited praise, and kind recognition o work well done, is not flattery; it is only encouragement. Yet in every relation o life there are excellent people who consider it a duty to correct blunders, reprove errors, and make you painfully conscious of your inefficiencies, dehciencies and depravities, who would be mortally afraid to praise you to your face, even for the most hereic toil and unselfish sacrifice in good work. The consequence is, that some of the most modest and beautiful natures struggle through years of doubt and dis-couragement, with but little hope of suc-cess, and that, too, when doubt and depression are not needed, are in no way a condition of healthful development, but are a hindrance to it.

But say you, our best triends tell us of our faults. So they do; but if they are wise they tell us of our redeeming traits, too, so that we may have courage to battle with our own weakness, and faith to beheve that we shall overcome them. Let your criticism be keen and bright, and as true to its aim as a Damascus sword. But let it te manly and just, and be not afraid to praise as heartily and more gladly then to disapprove.

So when our minister preaches a grand good sermon, I manage to make him feel that it was good. I sometimes take him warmly by the hand, and looking into his honest eyes, tell him that I shall be better and truer for having known him. And schen my wife does a particularly good or charming thing, I tell her she is one of the best and dearest little women in the werld. I am sure that more young ministers, yearg writers and weary women, and worll-tollers everywhere are injured by stern recognition of their faults and failings than by pleasant recognition of merits and successes .- Herald of Gospel

The Christian Spirit.

The cardinal beauty of the Christian spirit is its broad and underlying love for humanity, its tenderness, its gentleness, its depth of friendship. The pealing church bell invites weary, way-worn hearts to rest, by every tone that ripples upon the air. The open portals stand like notes of constant urging, bidding those who are tired of the cold blasts and the darkness without, to enter and find rest and comfort. Every pew is an anchorage ground of hope. Every pew is an anchorage ground of hope, and every pulpit from which the Bread of Life is rightly broken, a beacon-point of promise. For these are but material indices of the majestic facts which lie behind—of the long continued mercy and unchanging goodness of our Almighty Father; of the sufferings, the death and the present meditation of our blessed Savior; of the mission of the Holy Spirit, who sweetly leads the feet of the believing up the winding steps that end at the Beauti-

Two-sided Beings,

We are two-sided beings. We have natures with doubled capacities, which are very dissimilar in form and working. The same man who cuts a throat, might, had proper direction been given to faculties that lie unexercised and unappreciated somewhere in the recesses of his ruined being, have found his congenial and absorbing occupation in relieving misery, helping the indigent and founding hospitals for the sick. The mission of religion, which is divine, is to turn the angel part of us out-ward. The devil in us will still have beward. The devil in us will still have being, but a subdued and restricted being. We may be overcome by temptation, or carried away by the reviving force of inborn depravities—but we will not deliberately and from choice cast ourselves on the side of evil. When a question is presented which calls upon us to decide between Cod and the world, and when the Holm God and the world, and when the Holy Spirit warns us to decide aright, we will let the world go, even though it does strain every nerve and fibre of our strength to

We Love Christ.

If Christ had only been good, we should have admired him. Had be displayed merely his superhuman energy, and accom-panied his exhibition with denunciations of sin, we should have feared him But because, while incomprehensively holy and immeasurably powerful, he was also unutterably gentle and tender, therefore we must, when we understand his character, must, when we understand his character, love him. Sympathy which begets a willingness to suffer for those who have no power of recompense, being purely unselfish, transcends in beauty and glory every emotion growing out of desire for appreciation and reward; and little as we can understand the outworkings of the divine mind, we have our glimmering perceptions of this truth.

God Gives the Best.

A man may pray for money to pay his debts, for healing of the sickness which incapacitates him for labor of good work, for just judgment in the eyes of his fellow. men, with an altogether different confidence from that with which he could pray for wealth, or for bodily might to surpass his fellows, or for vengeance upon those whose judgments differed from his own; although even then the divine soul will B. BLAKE, Proprietor, with his Savior say, "If it be possible; not my will but thine." For he will know Cash Paid for Wheat, Corn, &c. that God gives only the best .- McDonald.

Vice and Virtue.

An hour of vice is as long as an hour of virtue; but the difference which follows upon good actions is infinite from that of ill ones. The good, though it diminishes our time here, yet it lays up a pleasure for eternity, and will recompense what it taketh away with a plentiful return at last. When we trade with virtue, we do but buy pleasure with expense of time; so it is not so much a consuming of time at an exchange, Hair Restorer & Zylobalsamum Are so uniformly grateful and beneficial, that they are with justice called the natural strengtheners of the human hair. They are two entirely separate and distinct preparations, not to be used together at one time.

Mrs. Allen's Hair Ecstorer Never fails to satisfy the most refined and cultivated. A guarantee goes with every bottle, that it will quickly restore gray or white hair to its original youthful beauty, gloss and color; after its use a few times the hair will grow thicker and stronger. It will stop its falling and induce a healthy and luxu-riant growth. It is an exquisite hair dressing, agreeable, harmless and healthy. Entirely different from most other preparations for the hair, its com-position and ingredients are nourishing, giving life and vigor to the Roots.

Mrs. Allen's Zylobalsamum This exquisite preparation is free from any sediment, and is a toilet treasure. The urgent want of a simple Hair Dressing, for the youth of both sexes, first induced the manufacture of the Zylobalsamum, and the sale of it is perfectly immense, not only in this country, but in Europe.

EXTRACTS FROM A FEW LETTERS. EXTRACTS FROM A FEW LETTERS.

"Your Zylobalsamum is used by every member, young and old, of our family, and we consider it invaluable. Should any gray hairs appear, we shall try your Hair Restorer, which we hear very highly spoken of."

"Father and mother use your Hair Restorer, and are delighted with it. It soon restored their gray locks to their youthful color, but daughters and son still find in the Zylobalsamum all their hair requires."

From the Principal of one of our large Female Seminaries. "Your Zylobalsamum has been used for many years by myself and family, and is the favorite among our young ladies."

Sweet Quining Versus Bitter.

For the following REASONS Sieee Quining should replace the old form or Bitter Quining. Seveel Quinine is WARRANTED mylicinally identical in effect with Bitter Quarine. Sweet animine has NONE of the interes and persistent bitterness of common Orinine. Sweet Quinine is made from P rayian Bar only, the source of Bitter Q inine.

In Sweet Quinine the bitterness is rerroctly concealed, but may be instantly developed if desired. Aulnine will not sicken as very Sweet Quinine is readily taken, and with-ou the least hesitation, by old and young. Sweet Quinine entirely obviates that un-converable distincy which children have to B. ter Quinine. Sweet Quinine requires no elaborate pro-paration to take, is ready for instances.

Sweet tulnine, in its agreeabilit and product efficacy, disabuses the public mind of much prejudice against Colinine, and aids the efforts of the intelligent Physician in its administration. Sweet Quining costs no more than the Bitter Quining.

Sweet Julning can be had at the Stor's in two forms, viz: finia, for convenience of families and the general pulle, and redder, for use of Physicals

SHRINER'S BALSAMIC COUGH SYRUP

Will cure the ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, BLOOD SPITTING, DIFFICULTY OF BREATHING, PAIN and WEAKNESS IN THE CHEST, TROUBLESOME COUGHING AT NIGHT, &c. It will effectually remove the Cough that frequently follows Measles, and any affection of the respiratory organs, no matter of how long standing, or whatever the age of the persons. It acts as a specific, is purely regetable, and is pleasant to the taste. Its effect is soothing, allaying the violence of the cough, facilitating expectoration, quieting the nerves and exhilirating the system. Mothers, Save Your Children No child need die of CROUP, if this Syrup is used in time: this is a fact demonstrated by experience. No family should be without this Syrup, as that fatal disease, CROUP, comes like a thief in the night, to steal away your little ones, when regular medical aid cannot be obtained.

For all the purposes of a Laxative Medicine.

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally can a cathartic, nor was ever nay before so universally can a cathartic, nor was ever nay before so universally adopted into use, in overy country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill. The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any, other. Those who have not, know that it cured them: those who have not, know that it cured them: those who have not, know that it cured them: those who have not, know that it cured them: those who have not, know that it cured them: those who have not, know that it cured them: those who have not, know that it such cures are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity. They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purity the blood and stimulate it into healthy action — remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs, of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:

For Myapepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its yarrious symptoms, Fillious Keadackie, Sick Headackie, For Bysentery or Biarracea, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Broney and Bronescal Swellings, they should be taken in largo and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Broney and Bronescal Swellings, they shoul vantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a doso of these PHIs makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus. DR. J. C. A German in our town, who had not paid much attention to learning English, had a horse stolen from his barn the other night; whereupon he advertised as follows:

"Yon nite, de oder day, ven I was bin awake in my sleep, I heare someting vat I tinks vas not yust right in my barn, and I yust out shumps to bed and runs mit de barn out; and ven I vas dere coom, I seez dat my pig gray, iron mare, he vas bin tide loose and run mit de stable off; an' ever whoo vill him back bring, I yust so much pay him as vat bin kushtomary." - Western Rural.

A DIZZY RIDE IN AN ELEVATOR.-Night before last, a couple of individuals, temporarily stopping at the Astor House, indulged in a heavy spree. About eleven o'clock they concluded to go to their rooms, and took their places, as they supposed, in the elevator, though by a mistake, very natural for drunken men, they seated themselves on the steps of the main staircase. At the end of five minutes one of them remarked that the motion made him dizzy, and he wished the machine would stop.
