KATE WEAVER'S THANKSQIVING

DAY.

The sun was setting amidst the warmth of the golden Indian Summer, and little Kate Weaver walked through the rich light, with a basket of chestnuts on her arm. She had been gath-

A Monster of Cruelty.

During the reign of Duke Phillippe le Bon, there lived in Burgundy a man known as the Batard de Vannes, who seems to have taken a fiendish delight in tormenting all who unfortunately came within his clutches. His habit was to seize poor peasants in the open country, tie their hands behind their backs, and drag them, attached to his stirrup, to his strong hold. where he kept them prisoners, until he received a heavy ransom. But as this was often not forthcoming, he hanged them on a tree, which from the number of wretches who had died on it, was called Vannes' gallows. One day he captured a youth, who was engaged in the peaceful occupa order to extract a large ransom from him. The peasant, who had not long been married, contrived to inform his wife of the fearful calamity which had befallen him, and of the sum demanded for his ransom. The latter, though daily expecting her confinement, determined immediately on going to Nannes, hoping that by an interview with him, she should soften his heart. But she little knew the nature of the monster with whom she had to deal. Neither her entreaties, her tears, nor the condition in which she was, had the slightest effect was quite over. Nothing could ever on Vannes, who declared that the only come to her but woe. Even the hum- | means of saving her husband's life was to bring the stated ransome; and moreover. that if this was not forthcoming immed latey, her husband's life would be forfeited. The poor wife, finding that no words could cause Vannes to relent, did all in with weeping, she crept into the and, at length, by using the greatest exertions, she succeeded. But eight days ertions, she succeeded. But eight days elapsed before she was enabled to place it becoming a mother, she had barely strength to drag herself to the place appointed by Vannes for meeting her. "Pay the ransom," he said, "and you shall then see your husband." She produced the money; it was eagerly seized on by Van-nes, who told the poor wife that, on going to a neighboring tree, she would see her husband suspended from it—the payment

> The wretched wife, driven to madness and desperation by this avowal, uttered piercing shrieks and reproaches. Vannes bade her be silent. But as his commands had no effect on the poor woman, Vannes ordered that she should be beaten and bound to the toot of the tree from the branches of which her husband, with many others, were suspended. Her cries, though they availed not to move the heart of the tyrant, attracted the wolves to this scence of torture, who quickly put an end to the poor victim's misery. A lawyer of more than local repute, G-, by name, dwelling and practicing his profession in a city not very far west, had for a long time suffered the annovance of an intolerable bore. Old A-was known to every one as a gab. bling, meddlesome creature, without grace or modesty, who invaded the sanctity of every office in the place, peered into private papers, always gave his opinion un-asked, whoever might be present, and, in brief made a chronic nuisance of himself. From a Correspondent in the Northvill, Wayne Co. Record. Some years since a well, on the premises of Mr. John McFarlan, of this place. that had, for thirty years or more, furnish ed a full supply of water, for the use of the family, became suddenly and entirely dry. The singular manner in which the unfailing supply disappeared, impressed the owner with the idea that a new subterranian water-course had been formed, that had effectually ruined the old well. Some time after the above event, Mr. McFarlan, in passing a ravine on his farm through which a small stream runs, had his attention attracted to a spot near him by a rushing sound of water. On going to the place indicated by the noise, he found that a stream had forced its way to the surface and was discharging its waters into the ravine through an orifice some six inches in diameter. Upon this discovery, the owner at once conceived the idea of accomplishing a three-fold object namely, to place a dam across the ravine. of sufficient heighth to raise the water about fifteen feet, and use the power ob tained for the purpose of driving machinery. The poul created by the dam would cover about half of an acre and was to be stocked with fish; also a snpply of water was to be forced back into the old family well.

In accomplishing these objects the owner was entirely successful. The surplus water furnished all the power necessary for a first class cider mill. The well was again made to minister to the wants of the family, the water having been raised in it to the depth of over four feet. Then the owner, at a considerable expenditure of money, patience and time, succeeded in stocking the pond with, perhaps the finest collection of fish to be found in any similar establishment in the Srate.

The clear sparkling waters of the pond, with its myriads of finny occupants, and its bountiful surroundings form a nicture that cannot fail to interest, and fill with admiration every beholder. Another result in this connection remains to be told, and that will be, perhaps, the most interesting part to the scientific readers of the RECORD. The water is drawn from the well with an old fashioned windlass and bucket. Five or six months since it was observed that some obstruction prevented the bucket from filling readily, and upon examination it was found that the water was literally alive with fish. The supposition is that they had followed the underground water course from the fish-pond which lies some 80 rods distant, and this being the first breathing place, they had availed themselves of it. They must be continually passing back and forth, for while they are caught almost daily with hook and line from the well in sufficient quantities to supply the wants of a large famliy, there is no apparent decrease in their numbers. The above would seem to be an expla nation of the theory of underground communication between different bodies of water, and shows the manner in which fish have found their way into lakes and ponds having no apparent in-let or out-let.

PROF. WINCHELL, of the University ty, has published a statement of the geological position and prospects of the artes ian well at Ann Arbor, which contains some facts of more than local interest. The well has reached a depth of four hundred and sixty nine feet, and has passed succossively through thirty feet of gravel, one hundred and one feet of blue clay, twentyeight feet of light shale rock, four feet of partially cemented sand, one hundred and fifty-six leet of shale, six feet of cavity, from which issued inflamable gas, four feet of black shale, ninty-seven feet of porous rock belonging to the Hamilton Group, and containing brine, and finally thirteen feet more of shale, the same continuing. Below this the Professor thinks the boring will have to be continued a distance of two hundred and ten feet before the Salina Group is reached, or that from which the sult manufacturers in the State draw their supply. Fifty feet through this salt group will give a total depth to the well of about seven hundred feet. The work thus far has established at least two important facts, the extraordinary thickness of the superficial materials in the lower peninsula as compared with those of the upper, and the existence of large quantities of brine in the Hamilton Group of rocks. At a depth of four hundred feet the brine is as strong as that obtained at the Onondago wells, and much stronger than that of Kanawha. It is from twice to three times as strong as that from which salt was for several years manufact ured at Grand Rapids. That brine of such a quality should be found in this particular group of rocks is said to be some thing entirely new in this State, and should it prove to be as exhaustless in quantity as it appears to be, Ann Arbor and neighboring cities may soon have a new branch of industry. Whether the boring is to be stopped until this question is tested, or is to be continued until some magnetic or sulphuric humbug is reached, is not stated. - Detroit Post.

removal all the five bodies were laid out at the under-taker's rooms. They were all encased in resewood caskets, and the lids were kept open during a part of thee day, so that the public mourners could walk in and view the solemn picture. Here was an entire family who had all perished at one fell stroke, leaving not a single one to come after when grief had brought deapair and despair had changed to death. The father and mother lay side by side, beautifulty enshrouded, but their disfigured faces wrapped in white linen and shut out from view. Near by were two smaller caskets, one containing the son, and the other the eldest daughter. The first was a fair-haired boy, aged about twelve years. He was not mutilated in the least, and the expression on his face was remarkable, It did not resemble that of a corpse, or of a person asleep. He appeared as if he had closed his eyes, simply feiginng sleep, and so life-like was the whole expression that the beholder was almost constrained to believe that the eyes would presently open and the natural lips would part in a playful smile. His sister, a girl two years younger than the boy, was discolered on the whole right side of the head and face. The rest of her body had been protected from the fire, all except the thumb and forefinger of the right hand. The arms were folded across her breast, and the playful hands were white as snow, save the two fingers that were burned to a black crisp. On one finger of the left hand, she wore a tiny gold ring, which she carried to her grave. On the other side of the parents was the haby laid out in a small casket, and enshrouded in snowy white. The musical critic of the St. Louis Republican, passes this opinion on Nilsson. A single moment of keen attention reveals the secret of Nilsson's greatness. She is not remarkable in vocal ornements. tion-Carlotta Patti is her equal there; she is not remarkable in the depth and volume of sound-Parepa is her superior there; she is not remarkable for the delicate trickery of manner which frequently wins applause for mediocre talent-Kellogg is her superior there; but she has what none of these can boast-an absolately perfect voice. This perfection is manifest not merely in compass, though that embraces a note and a half more than Jenny Lind, but what we must call texture. There is a liquid softness, a silvery clearness, a freshness and brilliancy of vibration in Nilsson's voice which, so far as our experience goes, have no rival. Nor is this exquisitely tempored organ deficient in power, for apparently without an effort it filled the hall last night to the very brim, and transformed the atmosphere into a swelling tide of harmony. From the lowest whisper to the highest note we could detect no flaw-strength and peerless in its melody; and it is those qualities, natural and not artificial, which have won for Christiana Nilsson the laurals she wears.

Prof. James E. Johnson, of Scotland, says that half the saline matter of the blood (57 per cent.) consists of common salt, and as this partly dissolved every day through the skin and kidneys, the necessity of continued supplies of it to the healthy body is sufficiently obvious. The bile also contains soda (one of the ingredients of salt) as a special and indispensible constituent, and so do all the cartilages of the body. Stint the supply of salt, and neither will the bile be able properly to assist digestion, cartilages to be built up again as fast as they naturally waste. It is better to place salt where stock can have free access to it, than to give it occasionally in small quantities. They will help themselves to what they need, if allowed to do so at pleasure, otherwise when they become salt hungry, they may take more than is wholesome.

Remedy for Earache.

There is scarcely any ache to which children are subject to so bad to bear and so difficult to cure as the earache; but there is a remedy never known to fail: Take a bit of cotton batting, put upon it a pinch of black pepper, gather it up and tie it, dip it in swest oil and insert in the ear. Put a flannel bandage over the head to keep it warm. It will give immediate relief.

How to Act in Case of Poisoning. The Journal of Health says: Whatever is done must be done quickly; The instant a person is known to have swallow. ed poison by design or accident, give water to drink, cold or warm, as fast as possible, a gallon or more at a time, and as last at vomited, drink more; tepid water is beet, as it opens the pores of the skin and promotes vomiting, and thus gives the speediest cure to the poisonous article. If pains begin to be felt in the bowels, it -shows at least that part of the poison has passed downward; then large and repeated injections of tepid water should be given, the object in both cases being to dilute the poison as quickly and as largely as possi-ble. Do not wait for warm, water—take that which is nearest at hand; cold or warm, for every second of time saved is of immense importance; at the same time

It is not with the expectation of pleasing our readers, therefore, that we call attention to the condition of a portion of our people who claim the title of citizenship, and ask what remedy, if any, does our government afford? If none, if our government is unable to give ample and substantial protection to its loyal citizens, against the undisguised abuses and open hostilities of those whose hatred to that government prompts them in their deeds of crime and infamy, is it not time to pronounce our government a failure? A government that might afford such protection, but neglects or refuses to do so, is equally unworthy of the name.

The condition of the Southern people, as we learn from the statements that come to us from all parts of the South, and which are corroborated by the recent report of the select com mittee to investigate the alleged Southern outrages, demands at our hands the most careful and candid considerstion. That men are daily killed throughout most of the Southern States, because they are Republicans and dare assert their principles, is just as true as the fact that there ever existed, in those States, an enemy of our government during the terrible and bloody war of the rebellion.

Since Gen. Grant's election, no less than five thousand negroes have been killed in the South on account of their color and politics, and not in a single instance has any one been punished for such murder. Accounts that are given of the infamous workings of s combination of disloyal men in the South, are so numerous that they would fill volumes if collected, and so aring and cruel character, that their statements, if coming from any other than a source we all know to be perfectly reliable, would not be credited or believed by the most credulous.

As a specimen of these outrages, to which hundreds might be added, let us present the statement of the expelled Mayor Sturges, of Meridian, Miss., as to the murder of Judge Bramlette. which is as follows:

"The Ku-Klux will endeavor to make the people of the North believe that Judge Bramlette was killed by a negro. They may make some believe it: but I do not believe that any of the arrested negroes had any weapon other than a pocket-knife, as I was present at the trial for some time, and sat close to the accused, and saw none. But in a direct line from the Sheriff's office door to the main hall, there sat one of those negroes; and I believe, although I saw not the shooting, that one or many of the Ku-Klux, in carrying out their design, shot Judge Bramlette. After the negro was shot, he jumped out of the two-story window, after which he was killed. Gen. Dennis, colored, was shot in the Court-room, after which he was thrown from the two-story window on to the brick pavement below, and, as that did not kill him they then cut his throat. After they had killed J. A. Moore, they went and burned his house, and so they continued their hellish barbarities. They surrounded my prother's house. They were all armed with double-barreled shot-guns, and, as I was told, 200 in number. Many good citizens of Meridian pleaded for me, as well as many in the Ku-Klux columns, who were in them not from choice, but from necessity. They appointed committee after committee to wait upon me, and to inform me that I must leave by 10 o'clock next day. Their principal com-manders visited me. I wanted to know the whys and wherefores, but they said they came not to argue any question of right—the verdict had been rendered. They treated me respectfully, but said that their ultimatum was that I must take a Northern-bound train. I yielded. At sbout 12 1-2 o'clock at night, perhaps 300 came and escorted me to the care."

They intend to undo every line of legislation which has been accomplished for the restoration of peace, murder every earnest loyal man, hang every negro who becomes conspicuous. burn dwellings, rob and steal, keep the courts in their own hands, and shoot on the bench any Judge who dares to disobey their will. Every man who loves liberty and freedom, and who desires the good and welfare of our government, unite as of one voice in declaring that these exhibitions of violence and lawlessness must cease. If by no other means, a sufficient military force must be kept in the South to give back-bone to the civil law, and furnish a moral force to certain disloyal localities. Troops are not to be used as legislators, but as conservators of legislation. The sooner the people of the South learn that there must be peace and security, the better it will be for them and the country. If there is one thing more than any other that Northern men are resolved upon, it is to maintain their rights to travel wherever they pleare in these United States, to setthe in any State they may choose, and enjoy any honors which the people may see fit to bestow upon them. A n man in Georgia or Mississippi, white or black, must enjoy the same security of person and property that is secured to him in the North. A Northerner must enjoy the same liberty of speech in the South as is enjoyed by a Southerner in the North,

This is a fair and just demand. The government should see to it that this condition of affairs shall exist at an early day, and that these infamous or-of the public, the general mass of the people, that our laws have to be so hastily hurried through the Legislature. As the Legislature meets but once in two years, matters demanding the attention of that body greatly accumulate. And with the course usually pursued of sending our Senators and Representatives but one term, the first forty days of each session are virtually thrown away. It takes that ength of time to begin to understand egislation; and by the time the Legslature is ready to act understandingly, the members connected with agricultural pursuits begin to think of returning to their homes. The result is, that bills are put through legislation with a perfect rush-without that consideration which their importance demands. Furthermore, there are so many private bills and private interests, and these are looked after, and their attention constantly urged by parties at the heels of the members, so that more general and important legislation is neglected. We can, under the present Constitution, suggest but one remedy, viz: Let the Legislature adjourn from about the first of April to the first of December. The same members will then return, and at the same time understand their business. After three days the Legislature can be in readiness to go to work in earnest. Our agricultural members can then devote their attention to the interests of the State, without a constant thought that their business needs their personal supervision. Bills then, can be properly weighed, discussed and acted upon as their importance demands, and not; as is now the case, hurried through without consideration, or left unattend

If the present session of the Liegisature should adjourn before the middle of May, which it will, of course, do, and make no provisions for an adjourned session, much of the Legislation of importance must be left undone or very imperfectly passed.

We trust, therefore, in the interest of the great mass of the people, that the present Legislature will make provisions for a next winter adjourned session of that body.

THE SPRING ELECTION.

The Spring election rarely attracts but little attention. This spring it has been especially overshadowed by the recent interesting and important events in national politics. There are full sets of Township officers to elect in many places, and also certain County officers. Aside from these there will be to elect, a Justice of the Sueme Court and two Regents of the State University, and these affect two of the most important interest of the State, as bearing upon our educational system and the judiciary.

For Justice of the Supreme Court the Republicans have nominated Hon. James V. Campbell, at present a memof the Supreme Bench, and who has been connected with it ever since its organization. Twelve years ago he oft a large and lucrative practice, and in addition to his superior intellect, extensive legal learning, and unspotted integrity, as qualifications for the position, is this experience of years in which to cultivate a judicial frame of mind. So general was his fitness for the important position conceded, that the Democrats hesitated in putting a man in nomination to oppose him and many of the leading Democratic papers throughout the State acknowledge that the party made a mistake when they nominated Mr. Hughes as a candidate against Judge Campbell. Although decidedly a Republican in his convictions, Judge Campbell has always refrained from a participation in partisan politics, and has admirably maintained the high dignity of his office. Having attended the Department of our University, of which Judge Campbell officiates as a member of the faculty, we are the better able to speak as to his virtues and excellence as a gentleman, and as to his possessing an intellect of no common order, it must be acknowledged that his opinions, and especially those relating to the intricate and complex branch of equity jurisprudence, carry as much weight with them as those of any Judge in the western country.

The County and Township offices to be filled at the coming election, are of peculiar interest in this County at the present time. Let the Republicans use care and judgment in the selection of candidates, and on next Monday poll the largest vote ever heretofore recorded at a spring election.

EDITORS RECORD :- The bill to enlarge the corporate limits of the vilage of Buchanan passed the third reading in the Senate. The joint resolution in relation to R. R. bonds passed the Senate by 23 yeas to 6 nays, with a fair prospect of its passing through the House. The Senate joint resolution, proposing an amendment to the constitution relative to Judicial circuits and increase of salaries of Judges and State officers, passed the Senate by 28 yeas to 2 nays. The Homeopathy bill passed the House by a majority of three, establishing two Professors in Homeopathy in the Ann Arbor Institute, and is made the special order, in the Senate for Wednesday of this week. A large lobby is here for and against it. It will probably pass the Senate on a close vote. The resolution of the Senator from Berrien County, to adjourn on Friday of this week, was tabled in the Senate by a vote of 23 to 5. The House is so far behind that the time of adjournment depends wholly upon them. The bill of Senator Alexander, to amend the County Superintendent law, leaving it to the Boards of Supervisors to appoint when they deem necessary, and to change it in other respects, was killed in Committee of the Whole in the Senate, by a vote of 19 to 7. The citizens of Lansing, in view of the passage of the appropriation bill for the new Capitol, which is now a fixed fact, are preparing a public reception and banquet to come off Tuesnight 28th inst. at the Lansing House. Rumor says $1.500 has been raised among the citizens to get up the supper. A grand time is antici-Yours.

KANSAS CORRESPONDENCE.

HOWARD CITY, HOWARD Co., 1

KAN., March 20, 1871. MESSES. EDITORS:—I am here again, and all right. I had a very pleasant trip from Buchanan to this city. Everything passed off quietly, except while in St. Louis. I happened there during that tornado. It passed over East St. Louis, causing great havoc in its path, tearing down depots, and blowing engines and whole trains off the track; also unroofing the large elevators; in fact, unroof ing, upsetting and tearing down almost everything in its path. But before this reaches you it will be an old story to you all. From the time I left St. Louis till I reached Howard City, nothing of consequence transpired. I left the railroad at Humbolt, going in a south-westerly direction through Allen, Woodson and Willson counties, going through a good country. It lays a little rolling, just enough to make it a good farming country. Going through Willson county, looking to the southeast, over a beautifu prairie, I could see, at a distance of four miles, the beautiful village of Fredonia. It is sixteen months old, with about 1,200 inhabitants. That is the way towns grow in this part of the world. From thence we went on our road rejoicing, till we reached Fall River, which is seven miles from Fredonia. The Fall River country is as good country as the sun ever shone on. From thence I came on my way to the City of Howard. There I was welcomed by our worthy townsman, John Perrott. He had grown so fat I scarcely knew him, but he being a partner of mine I soon made his acquaintance. He has been driving our hotel as fast as possible. It will be ready to accommodate our patrons about the 15th of April. Our town is in a bustle of excitement over the prospect of a railroad from Fort Scott by the way of Fredonia. Lots are advancing in price every week. There are nine business houses in course of construction, besides the dwelling houses. Howard City is situated on a rise of ground between Rock Creek and Paw Paw River, with Elk River on the south, and a rich prairie soil to farm. The soil is a black sandy loam, about 20 inches in depth, with plenty of building stone of the best kind. Also, plenty of stone coal, and plenty of timber along the streams. The timber consists of black walnut, oak, hackberry, elm, cotton wood, ash, and some other varieties. Our timber is not such as you have in Michigan. Lumber is worth from $25 to $30 for native lumber. We have three saw mills in our vicinity, which make it guite handy for our settles. There are plenty of good prairie claims

EUITORS BERRIEN COUNTY RECORD:

PUTNEY, March 18, 1871

From Vermont:

A few lines from your fellow cownsman, while in the New England States, may not be wholly uninteresting to you. Leaving home on the evening of the 12th, per M. C. R. R., at $130, for four extra dollars I secured a berth and seat in one of those magnificent sleeping coaches to Rochester, to the rear of which was attached one of those Pullman Palace Hotel Cars, wherein a breakfast and dinner was served equal to any in the best hotels. Arriving at Rochester, at 5 p. m., I found the table at the Bracket House equal to the best in any city. And stopping over a train at Syracuse and Pittsfield reached Boston, via Springfield, the following day, at 4 p. m. Leaving thence for Providence, night found me at my old California friend's, B. C. Allen, in the village of Centerville, R. I. Here I spent the most of my time in 1852-3. Leaving Centerville and reaching Providence on Friday, St. Patrick's Day, I found the multitude, men, women and children, natives and decondants of the Emerald Isle, gathering to honor the memory of St. Patrick. Passing through Boston and Lawrence, I found the day generally observed by the Irish population. On Saturday, I reached this, Putney, Vt., my native town. Here were my young and happy Jaya spent. Here were once a kind father and loving mother, affectiousie brothers and sisters, all happy. Alas! what changes a few years bring about! My father, after years of suffering, died in I866, aged 75, and my mother, help and hearty, ever faithful and true to her children, willing to deny herself that she might add to the comfort of the family or those around her, lived to the age of eighty-one; and on the evening shortly before her death, was well and cheerful as usual. I have just visited the graves of those dear departed ones. And now, a few more calls, and a day or two will find me ready to leave this, once, to me, the pleasantest spot on earth. A weak or two, health and life spared, will return to my home in the pleasant valley of Buchanan. Having traveled in twenty-nine or thirty of the States of the Union, I have found no pleasanter place than Buchanan; east nor west. The only objection to the place is a few meddlesome gossippers-who try to meddle and manage other people's business to the neglect of their own. As I have received a double dose from that quarter, and it has reached here, there being two or three here that are nursing it privately. I don't blame them from wanting to get their sins from their own shoulders, yet I do not like to have them heaped on an innocent party through me. Neither do I feel inclined to go around and say nothing, until those have helped they know there was no truth, accomplish their objects. If I am not man enough to kill all such gossip, and bury it so deep that they cannot resurrect it. I might as well hang on a "sour apple tree," and conclude I am mistaken in my calling. But enough of this.—The weather is very roads mostly settled—quite in uncommon thing for this country. Very little snow or sleighing this winter—less, the old settlers say, than ever was before known. Yours, &c., mild and pleasant. No snow, and the

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE-MAR. 21ST. . The Committee on Military Affairs reported with amendment a bill placing $350,000 at the disposition of the Secretary of War to enable him to enlarge the military depot at Fort Leavenworth, A memorial was presented from John C. Bryaht, a leading Republican elector of Georgia, protesting against the admission of Foster Blodgett, as Senator from that State, and making grave charges affecting that gentleman's personal integrity.-Ordered printed. A bill was presented to aid in the construction and maintenance of twenty or more first-class iron steamships, and to secure to the Government the use of the same for postal, naval, and other purposes. Mr. Anthony's resolution specifying the legislation of the present session was then taken up and after a lengthy discussion it was agreed to vote upon it on to-morrow, (Wednesday.)

HOUSE-MARCH 21ST The whole time was spent in considering the bill for the consolidation of navy yards. SENATE-MARCH 22D. Mr. Authony's resolution was so smended as to include the abolition of the duty on coal, salt, ten and coffee. Motion was made to include the income tax which was lost-yeas, 27; nays, 28. The Vice Passident voting in the negative. The resolution was then agreed to in the following form: Resolved, That the Senate will consider at the present session only the Deficiency Appropriation bill, the concurrent resolution for a joint committee for investigation upon the South, and the resolution now pending instructing the Committee on Judiciary to report a bill or bills that will enable the President and the courts of the United States to execute the laws in said States, and the report that may be made by the Commit tee on Judiciary on the subject. The motion for final adjournment on the 30th was tabled.

HOUSE—MARCH 22D.
The credentials of Messrs. Bell, Hibbard, and Parker, members elect of the House, were presented, and, on motion, they were sworn in The crodentials of the members were read, when the Specker desired Messrs. Ball, Hibbard and Parker to present themselves in front of the Clerk's desk. They then came forward, took the regular oath, and retired to their scata The Committee on Elections reported a resolution declaring that the election of the members of Congress from Tennessee was held on a day fixed by law, and that the election was not void. It was stated that the resolution would. be called up at an early day. The same committee reported that John H. Edwards was entitled to be sworn in as member from the Third District of Arkaneas. The resolution was agreed to, and Mr. Edwards was eworn in.

SENATE-MARCH 23D. A series of resolutions were read protesting against the President employing the navy on the Dominican coast, in order to prevent any opposition to the annexation scheme. Mr. Scott then addressed the Senate for several hours on the Ku-Klux, and almost the whole of the remainder of the session was consumed in debate. A special message from the President was received, read, and ordered to be laid on the table and printed.

HOUSE-MARCH 23D. -A number of important bills were introduced and tabled: Further business was interrupted by the announcement of a message from the President, recommending such legislation as in the judgment of Congress, shall effectually secure the, life, liberty-and-property, and the enforcement of law in all parts of the United States. The message having been read, -it was moved that it beweferred to a select committeo of nine, to be appointed by the Speaker. igan.: Corn, in this county, is mostly. It was proposed that, by unanimous consent, tween the two parties equitably. After lengthy debate, the motion was agreed to when the Speaker announced as the special committee the following named gentlemen: Seellabarger, of Ohio Butler, of Massachuetts; Schofield, of Pennsylvania; Dawes, of Massachusetts; Blair, of Michigan; Thomas, of North Carolina; Morgan, of Ohio; Kerr, of Indiana, and Withrow, of Tennessee. The House then adjourned till Monday.

SENATE-MARCH 24TH.

Michigan. Thursday,

The Vice President laid before the Senate the resolution received from the House for the final adjournment of that body with the concurrence of the Senate on Monday next. On motion, the resolution was tabled by a viva voce vote. The Vice President stated that under bis interpretation of the order prescribing the business of the present Senate, memorials and petitions which might be presented, could not be referred to committees, but must be placed on file. Mr. Sumner made a statement that he was prevented from delivering his prepared speech on San Domingo during last session by indisposition, and that he would address the Senate on the subject in connection with the pending resolution on Southern Outrages, on Monday next.

BENATE-MARCH 25TH. A resolution was offered directing the Secretary of the Navy to communicate to the Senate the amount of expenditures incurred in the support and navigation of the several ships already reported to the Senate by the Secretary as employed on the coast of St. Domingo since the beginning of the negotiations for the acquisition of a part of that island, set. ting forth the expenditure on account of each ship, and the sum total taken from the annual naval appropriations on account of all these ships. The resolution was laid aside. The time was occupied in considering the Deficiency Appropriation bill. The bill, after various mendments, passed.

Foreign.-Latest Dispatches.

LONDON, March 24.-The London Times' special dispatch from Versailles says the Montmartreists have stopped a train en route, with prisoners, to Versailles. The released prisoners of the Sixty-ninth Regiment of Lan resisted all efforts to induce them to join the insurgents, and upon their arrival at Versailles were received enthusiastically by the authorities, the people, and the troops. Their officers were at once promoted. Gen. Schlottem, Prussian commander of St. Denis, has sent a dispatch to the commander of Paris, to the effect that the Germans occupying the forts on the north and northwestern sides of the city will maintain a passive and friendly attitude while nothing hostile is done, but if the conditions of the proclamation of peace are overstopped, Paris will be treated as an enemy. The delegate Minister of Foreign Affairs replied that the revolutionary proceedings are purely as to municipal affairs, and can in no sense, be regarded as aggressive toward Germany. The delegate adds that he has no jurisdiction, and cannot discuss the matters in reference to the preliminaries of peace which were voted by the Assembly at Bordeaux.

Paris, March 26 .- The Central Republican Committee have released Gens. Chan zy and Longorean.

The Official Jonrnal of the Central Committee asserts that numerous Bonapartists and Orleanist agents are making attempts to bribe the supporters of the Committee, and says that all persons rendering themselves liable to suspicion in this connection will be immediately arrested and delivered to the Committee for trial.

The Montmartreists and Garibaldians, with two guns, invaded Place de la Bourse at 5 o'clock on Friday afternoon, and making a charge upon the guns in the hands of the loyal Nationals, demanded their surrender. They met both a refusal and

The Committee has received information that delegates from Marsailles, Lyons and Bordeaux, who were recently here, have returned to their homes and will quickly give the signal for a movement among the workmen in those cities analogous to that in progress in Paris. Favre-has received two additional dis-oatches from the German Government, declaring it to be the duty of the Versailles Government to conquer the sedition. The withdrawal of the German troops from France has been stopped. Additional and cruel exactions have been levied by them upon the people of the departments. Paris, March 25, 1 p. m.—All is quiet and the city is resuming its normal appearance. Barricades still remain in the streets, but the cannon mounted upon them have been withdrawn or turned inward. Voting immenced this morning and is now quiety going on. There are few voters. and will be succeeded by Clermbault, a returned prisoner from Germany. It is generally thought that the Government is lefunct, and a rumor is current that Thiers will be forced to resign, and be succeeded by the Duc d' Aumale. Thiers is crédited with a remark to his friends that when the Government has 100,000 troops on which it can depend, an attack will be made on Paris. It is believed that the capital will be removed to Tours. . The reports of the apreading of the insurrection in Algeria are confirmed. LONDON: March 27 .- Fx . Kimperor Napoleon visited Windsor Castle to day, and remained an hour with Queen Victoria and her family. The organization is named Kingsbury Chapter, in honor of our townsman, Asa Kingsbury Esq.

-Forty years ago, Mr. Harris Hibbard, says the Flint Globe, now living at Burton, in that county, then but a mere boy, was in a saw mill with some other boys, one of whom had, as a plaything, a bow and some arrows. While practicing the art of archery with these, he discharged one of the arrows into the right eye of young Hibbard, injuring it so severely that total blindness, as to that organ, ensued. One day last week, forty years after the first accident, another occurred. He was chopping wood, when a chip flew np and hit this same eye, cutting away the film that had gathered over the sight, shutting out the light for so many years. After wiping away the blood that the slight wound had caused, and with it unconsciously, the film, what was his joy to observe that the eye performed again its natural function of vision, and the light of day gladdened his long sightless orb. We do not remember ever to have heard of so remarkable a case, of restoration of sight, after so long a period of blindness.—Sag inaw Enterprise.

An Answer to Boy and Apple, Problem Berrien Springs, March 26 1871. MESSRS EDITORS :- The following is a solution of the arithmetical problem proposed by T. Y. of New Trog, in your issue dated March 23rd. Let the mouths of the two boys be con nected by a straight line, and a perpendicular line drawn from that line to the hook in the ceiling, and also let the mouth of each boy be connected with the hook by a straight line, then we shall have two right angle triangles. The hypothenuse of each right angle triangle will be 4 feet, the length of the string attached to the apple, and as the hook is 7 feet above the floor and the mouth of each boy 41-2 feet above the floor, the perpendicular will be 21-2 fees. Then to find the base of one of the right-angle triangles, we subtract the square of the perpendicular from the square of the hypothenuse, and extract the square root of the remainder, which gives 3.1225 feet, which is one half the distance between the boys, and that multiplied by 2 gives 6.245 feet, the distance the boys must stand apart. Yours Truly,

THE SPY OF SHILOH.—The military all to extract from each of the true, select fruits and legory entitled "The Spy of Shiloh," was played at Buchanan four evenings of last place in the market a class of Flavorings of the battle of the true of the true, select fruits and aromatics, all of its characteristic flavor, and place in the market a class of Flavorings of week by the author, Mr. FRANK HOWARD assisted by about fifty ladies and gentlemen of that place. The plot is a most excellent one, and, taking into account the lack of stage advantages and aurroudings, it was presented most creditably the evening we had the pleasure of witnessing its performance. The different -vents-drilling war malitia, the mare, the picket guard, the bivouac, the skirmish, the fierce battle, the inevitable "contraband," the filthy prison pen, and a number of most beautiful tableau scenes, were presented and acted by amatuers in a manner to shield them from unjust criticism. The play revives both pleasant and sad memories of the veteran soldier, and gives to the uninitiated as good an idea of soldier life and dangers as they can have without updergoing the fiery ordeal.-Niles Republi,

BE CARRETUL-In these days, when tight hats, hot hir, and sedentary occupations, cause the hair to fall out, it is a matter of no little importance to know which of the hair preparations are of any value. The majority, as has been frequently proved by the first dermatologists, or hair doctors, possess little or no merit. Such being the fact, it is consoling to those who are afflicted to know there is really one good article, which is recommended and used by the first medical authority, and has stood every test many years. This preparation is Hall's VEGETABLE SIGILIAN HAIR RENEWER,—a truly scientific compound, which s unquestionably the best preparation of the kind ever before the American public. It will restore to gray hair its original color, cleaned the head thoroughly, cure all eruption of the scalp; and will always restore the hair so long as any germs remain, as they almost invariably do, until extreme old age has destroyed the roots. comparison between the sentiment that infuses my mind at the present writing, and instigates me to the execution of the same, and the flery thirst for fame that licked up with its white heat even the sweet waters of Conjugal and parental love in the soul of Willis' imaginary artist. Not a thirst for fame is my impet us, but an ardent yearning of the spirit to wing its way, in a temporary flight, from the dusty streets of time, and bathe its wings in the ethereal waves of the ocean of dreamland This weaving together a few thoughts for the perusal of other minds, releases my mind of weariness, as does physical exercise the body after too long confinement in one position. Then, according to the advised manner of correspondence, first comes the news of the day: Since my last writing, the house of W. Barber, situated on the south side of the veritable Pond, accidentally caught fire and burned to the ground. E. Wilson, the unlucky landlord, stood, on the morning of the fire, at a safe distance from the consuming elements, with his hands in his pockets and nose slightly elevated, regretting, no doubt, the soug little pile of greenbacks thus unceremoniously melting from between his fingers. The incident called to mind a nursery tale of the three little pigs, viz: One built a house of straw, another of wood, and the third of iron. In the sequel, the iron house alone was fire-proof. So, oh ! ye landlords learn a lesson of the pigs. Speaking of pigs brings to mind reminesences of the past winter. Some musical, and others potent with the fumes of lard, etc. To explain, Ingleright Brothers bought and shipped ruite a large number of hogs during the past winter. As the pretty creatures were delivered here on the premises, you may believe the echoes of the Valley played a merry tat-too to the squeal of the porkers. Well, my stipulated time is at an end, for little torn frock lies tacitly reproaching me with its gapping rend, and I must needs substitute the needle for the pen.

- Woman's Journal.

The Temptation in the Wilderness. This temptation was a vision of power and glory—all the kingdoms of this world. And these were offered to the tempted man on one condition—that he would take men as he found them and manage them, being conformed to their crooked ways, or as the tempter phrases it, "Bend your knee and worship me, the prince of this world, in order to gain power and thereby usefulness."

To which Jesus replied, "There is but one right way. I will serve the Lord my God. Him alone will I worship, whether I gain power or lose it. I will never intentionally do evil, by much or by little, that good may come. I will never compromise my highest, holiest thoughts under the delusive plea of gaining influence and controlling men."

I suppose that there have been out very few meeting houses built, but that the building committee or the subscription committee or the pastor or the priest have done something to get money, which they would rather not speak of in prayer-meeting—which they would not really justify as Christians. But they will laugh and say, one man's money is as good as another's. We took men as we found them and it does them good to give, you know, and if they won't give for one reason, why we get 'em to give for another.

I have never known a great denomina tion anywhere come to honor and glory that its leaders would not often bend the knee to Satan to preserve the good name of "our church." They would suppres the truth as to the sister churches. They would fail to confess scandalous offenses in their own church. They gained the power, but grieved away the Holy Spirit and became churches of anti-Christ. I have never known a great philan-thropic movement of any kind, like temper-ance or anti-slavery, that did not, by and by, for the sake of quickening a waning enthusiasm, bend the knee somewhat to Satan, and ere many months or years had passed, find itself the rival, if not the declared enemy, of Christ and Christian

Thave never known a political party that came to greatness and power in the service of God's own justice, that did not fall into this temptation and bend the knee to Satan, hoping by guile and expediency to keep its kingdom, when the spirit of truth and justice had long since departed from its councils.

Wherever you find competitions, emulations and strifes, between men, who shall be the greatest, the most genteel and leaders, there is the knee bent to Satan. Whenever two churches enter upon an undeclared strife, whose steeple shall be higher, and bell louder, and organ larger, and preacher more attractive, there the knee is bent again to Satan. Let nothing be done through strife or vain glory. Competition may be the life of trade, but it is the death of piety. The brilliancy of modern civilization may in-deed outshine all that the ages have be-held, but it is the flush of an acute fever. Fire many generations its eye shall grow dim, and its cheek pale, and the fashion of this world shall pass away. Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love this world the love of the Father is not in him. For this cause the wrath of God cometh upon the children of disobedience. Therefore, whenever, by much or by little, the temptation assails you for the sake of useful ness to yield one hairs breadth of your deepest spiritual truth, which you received by the indwelling of the Holy Spirit, resist, I beseech you, the temptation, and yield nothing of all these things; but hold fast the one faith that can brings; but not fast the one faith that can bring you peace while living, and courage in the hour of death, and divine company hereafter. Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God and Him only shalt thou serve.—Rev. T. Beecher.

Recalling Man. The dispensation of God and our Savior towards man is but the recalling of him from the Fall, and his return into the friendship of that God, from the alienation which sin has caused. This was the end of Christ's coming in the flesh, of his life and conversation described in the Gospel, of his passion, cross, burial and resurrection, that man who is saved by the invitation of Christ might regain that ancient adoption.—We are called in the sanctification of the Spirit, as the apostle teacheth. This (Spirit) renews us, and makes us again the image of God; and by the lever of reconstration and the renewing of layer of regeneration and the ronewing of the Holy Ghost, we are adopted to the Lord, and the new creature again partakes of the spirit, of which being deprived, it had waxed old- And thus man becomes again the image of God, who had fallen from the Divine similitude, and was become like the beasts that perish.—St. Basil.

Treachery. Injury may wound, and be forgiven intult may sting, and be forgotten; but treachery bewilders and chills us, and we know, even while we struggle to pardon, that for that there is no oblivion. A brightness and a melody lins gone from our lives, when once we feel we have been betrayed

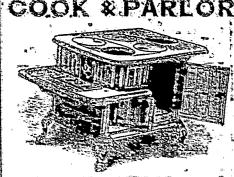

It is a sad thing when Christains, horrow spectacles to behold their weak brethren's weaknesses, and refuse looking glasses; perein they may see their weak brethren's graces.

The originator of this wonderful medicine, claims to have discovered and combined in harmony more of Nature's most sovereign medical properties than was even before combined in one medicine. The evidence of this fact is found in the great variety of most obstinate diseases which it has been found to conquer. In the cure of Bronchetis, Severe Coughs, and the early stages of Consumption, it has astonished the medical faculty, and hundreds of the best physicians pronounce it the greatest medical discovery of the age. While it cures the severest coughs, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood. By its great and thorough blood purifying properties, it cures all Humors from the worst Scrofula to a common Blotch, Pimple or Eruption, Mercurial Diseases, Mineral Poisons, Syphilitic and Venerial Diseases, and their effects are eradicated and regorous health and a sound constitution established. Erustpelas, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Fever Sores, Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all the numerous diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. For "Liner Complaint," Bilious Disorders, and Habitual Constitution, it has produced hundreds of perfect and permanent cures where other medicines had falled.

The proprietor offers $1,000 reward for a medicine that will equal it in the cure of all the diseases for which it is recommended. Boware of counterfeits and worthes timitations. See that my private Government Stamp which is a positive guarantee of Genuineness, is upon the outside wrapper. This medicine is Sold by Druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Prepared by R. V. PIERCE, M. The captain running to the edge of the roof, asked: Why dont you heave the lead and sing out how much water there "The lead is heaved, your honor, and the mate's gone down to see how much water there is," responded Pat. From Rockwood. Ill., we have word that Roley B., a ready-witted Irishman, still lives, and is able to get outside of his regular liquids. The other day, one of the boys, thinking to have a little fun out of him, said: "Roley, have you heard the news?" "No; what news?"

"Why, the devil is dead." Not a word said Roley, but putting his hand in his pocket and pulling out a ren cent shinplaster, handed it to his questioner, who asked him what it was for. "Why," answered Roley, "in the ould country, where I came from, it is the custom to give the children something when their parents die."

The following words actually formed the peroration of the counsel's plea for his client in an assault and battery case in Athens, Ala.: "Let the humble ass crop the thistle of the valley! Let the sagacious goat browse upon the mountain's brow, but, gentlemen, of the jury, I say Jehn Gundle is not guilty."
