Written for the Berrien County Record. THE JUST RETRIBUTION. BY M. C.

The mansion of Mr. George Arnold stood on the shore of a beautiful lake in the western part of Michigan, in a handsome grove of maples and evergreens. The lawn, and walks, and everything in connection showed the good taste of their owner. No pains had been spared in making his home beautiful. It would be difficult for one to look upon this house, with all its surroundings, and then inspect its comfortable and well arranged suits of rooms, commanding as they did the presence of liberal furnishings and contents, having that valued appurten-ance, a well cultivated farm, with its richly stored barn and well filled granaries, its well selected garden, its herds, flocks; and poultry, and orna-mented with what was better than a "thread of silver," a serpentine brook of pure water, fringed with shrubbery, interlaced with flowering vines, and flowing from a noble spring surrounded by a grove of maples, in the rear of the house; without saying, "This is truly a beautiful home." Such was the home of Mr. Arnold.

One pleasant afternoon in the month of May, Mr. Arnold was sitting on the piaza reading, when a man came up the gravel walk toward the house and approached him with, "Good afternoon, sir; can you tell me how far it is to A----?"

"It is about fifteen miles. Please take a seat. Where do you hail from?"

"I came from Ohio. My name is James Hulbert, and I am trying, at present, to find employment as a farm hand."

"If that is what you desire I can give you employment. I am in need of a hand at present. What is your price?"

"Twenty dollars per month." "Pa, tea is ready," and a handsome young girl approached as: she spoke. "Well. Mr. Hulbert, will you walk in to tea. After tea we will finish our bargain."

"Thank you; if you please, I will." answered Mr. Hulbert, with a low

Mr. Arnold is a man of about fifty-five, tall, and well proportioned, with hair silvered with gray, a broad, manly brow, a Roman nose, clear blue eyes, and altogether a very handsome man of his years. Mr. Hulbert is a man of about thirty, medium size, black hair, high forhead, gray eyes, and a very handsome face shaded by a jet black moustache. Ater tea they took their seats on the piaza and resumed their conversation, and it was settled that Mr. Arnold should hire Mr. Hulbert.

A long pause ensued, till Mr. Hulbert broke the silence by saying, "Do you have preaching here very often?" "Once in two weeks: Mr. Thornton, of D—, preaches for us."
A troubled look overspread the face of Mr. Hulbert for a moment as he heard the name of Mr. Thornton, the reason we will know by and by. "Why I asked the question is, I am a christian, and I love to be in christian society. To what church does the society here belong?" "They belong to the Methodist."

After talking a while longer, Mr. Arnold said: "Anna, what time isit?" "It is half past eight." "Well, Mr. Hulbert, if you wish I will call a servant to show you to your the servants, "show Mr. Hulbert to his room," and with a low bow and a "good night, sir," Mr. Hulbert re-

The first few weeks passed by with no very uncommon occurences. Mr. Hulbert seemed to be very intelligent and quite agreeable, always talkative and social, until he had nearly won the heart of Anna away from her lover, Charles Harwood. In fact she thought him to be the handsomest and most agreeable man she ever saw. He would read to her hour after hour, and she would listen like one enchanted. This pleased Mr. Hulbert, and, thought he to himself, "if I could win her it would be a beutiful prize. Little does she know who and what. I am.

One Sunday morning, as Mr. Hulbert and Anna were preparing for a ride, her father said, "Anna, if I were you I would not ride Spitfire this morning. I am afraid something will happen. You know she is always afraid to go down the shore road." "O, pa, I fear no harm. I can nanage her easily enough." So off they started for the lake, Spitfire prancing quite uneasily, but Anna heeded it not, thinking there was no danger, when suddenly she gave a leap, throwing Anna violently to the ground. Mr. Hulbert sprang from his horse and hastened to her side, and lifting her up, said, "Are you hurt much, Miss Arnold?" "I think not very badly;" answered

Anna. "Sit here," said he, "till I get a carriage for you," and so saying, he started off, and soon returned with her father. They helped her in and drove home.

He would go to meeting any time when Mr. Thornton did not preach, and he was very forward. This excited the suspicions of some. Others thought him to be a good man. Charley Harwood thought him to be a perfect villain. One evening, as he was visiting Anna, he said: "Well, thought he. But when they arrived at the church, Mr. Thornton was standing in the door-way, and as they Anna, what do you think of Mr. Hul-

"I think he is a very good man, from what I know of him thus far." "A good man," said Charlie, almost with a sneer; "I believe that man is a villain, and I have thought so ever since he came here.'

"I think you are very much mistaken, Mr. Harwood, concerning Mr. Hulbert's character, and I see no reason why you should think so of him," replied Anna, angrily. me, but you do not."

"Ah, ha! I don't, eh? Do I?"
said Mr. Thornton.

"I have very good reasons for thinking so," replied Charley. "Why is it that he acts so concerning Mr. Thornton? He seems to be annoyed whenever any one speaks of him, and he has shunned him ever since he came here, never once coming in contact with him. There is some reason for that, and I believe it is for fear of some terrible disclosure that makes him act so."

"I think it is no such thing." said Anna, "and I think you are very unjust in judging so harshly of him. I see nothing in him out of the way; and concerning Mr. Thornton, I don't think he is obliged to go and hear him if he does not choose to."

"Well, Anna, it may be that I am mistaken, and I will say no more about it, if you will not go with him so much. I can't help it, but I have my forebodings about him."

our minister has misrepresented things as he has. He has told a great many "I will go with him all I have a mind to, and I do not think you have things that were untrue. It has been known for a long time that this lake existed near Indepenhim to be a villian of the blackest This aroused the suspicions of some dence Rock, and in old times—as long ago as I849 and 1850—it was visited by sevmore than ever; but he was not to be eral parties of emigrants while on their way to Salt Lake City and California. It is even said that the emigrants themselves eager to go to church, for he thought he might evade, "in a measure," a good deal of suspicion by so doing. used this alkali for the purpose of making bread. Several persons have within the last few years attempted to find the lake, but all have failed, until the gentlemen named above took hold of the enterprise, seat close to the minister, and when and there own efforts have, it is said, been crowned with success. The indians were too numerous in that direction, and this cappier than I am now. Two weeks cause alone deterred small parties from venturing into those wilds. The precise pier man than I have been, but for locality cannot now be given, as it would one drawback: I am very sorry that be unfair to the discoverers, and might lead people to go there who would be unwelcome. Now, whether this lake contains borate of soda (borax,) or carbonate of soda, no one can as yet tell with absolute certainty, as the place has been too recently opened to answer this question satisfactorily. But the discovery which has been made is certainly one or the other of the above-mentioned salts of soda, and in any event, is a most important one to this young Territory, and a most fortunate one for the energetic discoverers. They have gone out from Rawlins with a considerable number of laborers and explorers, and are prepared to go to work at once to develop this new found source of riches. These gentlemen can control abundant means, being backed by no less a dignified corporation than the Bank of California. A wagon road will be made at once from Rawlins to the new found lake, and the salt will be brought thence to this place for shipment east or west over the Pacific Railroad. This road can be made with very little difficulty, and it is said that 50 miles of the distance is over so level a country that steam wagons can be run without any trouble. Truly, this will be an exceedingly nice locality, and Carbon county, can, with its coal mines, borax lake and silver mines, make a fair showing with its more favored sister counties farther

In 1850, we visited this same lake, near Independence Rock, situated only about a half mile from the old Emigrant road. The quantity of Carbonate of Soda (for such it evidently is) was very extensive. We used of it in making bread, and it operated as well as any saleratus or soda we had with us. Many of the Emigrants used it for the same purpose. We now have in our possession a small bottle full of this same Carbonate of Soda which we obtained from this same lake, in 1850, which

The complications between the German Empire and Great Britian are beginning to thicken, if the dispatch from Berlin to the New York Herald, published among our Foreign news, can be relied upon. It seems that England has the little Island Heligoland near the German coast, so situated as to make its acquisition by Germany important. So much so that Bismarck is represented as saying, "the acquisition was necessary for the protection of the German coast, and that it was the immunity from attack that the French fleet enjoyed these that enabled it to blockade Hamburg, and paralyze the commerce of the German coast." If this state-ment be correct, and it doubtless is not far from the case, Germany will not be satisfied till she has acquired Heligoland to secure her own protection and that of the commerce of her own coast.

The history of the island is as fol lows: It is a small island, containing less territory than one of our American sections of land. But it is situated in the German Ocean, only thirty-five miles directly off the mouth of the Elbe, the principal German river, and only one hundred miles from Hamburg, the principal German seaport. As long ago as the time of the Roman Empire, Tacitus mentions the island as a place where the German goddess Hertha was worshiped. In 1714, it was captured from the Duke of Schleswig-Holstein by the Danes. In 1807, it was captured by the English, who have since retained it. Part of the island is a high rock, easily fortified, and very strong naturally. Hence its military value. This history shows that, although the island may never have technically been under the rule of Germany, nevertheless it always has been, and is now, in everything but its government, a German island, with German inhabitants, language, dress, manners and customs.

The part England took in Franco-German contest was enough to stir up, in the Germans, no pleasant feelings towards her, and now that she possesses an Island so near the German coast, and which caused Germany so much inconvenience during the war with France, it does not appear strange that Bismarck should set his wits to work to obtain the coveted territory. It appears that Earl Granville however, refuses to part with Heligoland and will entertain no proposition looking to its cession to Germany. England will only consider her own interest in the matter, and claims the These gentlemen are both extra stump Germans have no right whatever, to obtain the Island as it was never under German rule. This may all be true, yet where a government like Germany has suffered, as she claims she did do. by the facilities afforded to an enemy in consequence of the near proximity of a neutral's territory, is not likely to relinquish readily the idea of acquiring of a sufficient amount of such neutral's territory as is deemed necessary to her own protection. This would be especially the case when such neutral territory was a small Island like Heligoland. We imagine therefore that if England persists in refusing to part with the coveted Island on any consideration, that her complications with Germany will become deeper and deeper till open hostilities between these governments will be the result.

With the strength of Germany it is not at all likely that she will consent to long suffer a standing menace by the possession of Heligoland by any foreign power. If Bismarck has his heart on its possession, Germany will have it if war is the result. In fact the indications are that Germany and Russia would be highly pleased at the humiliation of England, and it would not be strange, if the late visit of the Czar of Russia to the Emperor of Germany, had something to do with In speaking of Stephens, Davis, the matter. At least we shall not be Toombs and the Democracy, the Desurprised to see the greatness and glory of England as the first maratine power of the world depart in a contest with Germany, while Russia looks on approvingly and settles to her own liking the Eastern question. Russia and Germany will yet control Europe notwithstanding the protests of England.

HARMONY.

We believe it is agreed even by the leaders of the Democratic party that the Republicans succeeded in getting the reigns of the government into their hands, and keeping them there-achieving victory after victory—accomplishing so much that they have undertaken to perform, by a united effort, and working harmoniously together. Save the Sumner difficulty, the annexation of San Domingo, and other questions upon which there was a difference of opinions entertained by both Democrats and Republicans, there has never been any political policy or question advocated when there could be found any division in the ranks of the Republican party. True, there has not been, at all times, an entire agreement as to the best remedy for existing evils which they have all recognized, but there has been a willinguess to adopt some plan as an experiment, and never doubting but that the party contained within itself the means for extinguishing all evils and corruptions as they became exposed. This fact is a little remarkable when we consider that the party embraces the men of progressive ideas in this country, intelligent men governed by principles, devoted to ideas, and yet heartily agreed upon all essential points of doctrine, and representing such liberality in respect to the conduct of all public affairs. And what has this great party done for the country? It has been wisely and truthfully said that if the administra- Muskegon, Newaygo, Oceana, Osceola tion of our government were now to and Ottawa. She was first seen on Friday night, acting suspiciously, and early on Saturday morning a party of four white and two colored men went in search of her. They found her sitting on the bank beside the railroad track, and one Joseph Legue, who was armed with a shot gun, fired, the charge taking effect in her forehead, killing her instantly. NEW YORK, June 25.—A special dispatch to the Herald, from Berlin, says: 'Serious complications have arisen between Germany and England, and severe dispatches are passing between Bismarck and Granville. The Government observes an impenetrable silence on the subject of the present difficulty, but I am informed that Bismarck has addressed a note to the German representative in London, informing him that the Imperial Government desired to acquire Heligoland, and empow ering him to make a proposition to the British Government for the purchase of the Islend. Earl Granville replied in the same manner, saying England will not part with Heligoland, and that the British Government could entertain no proposition looking to the cession of that island, upon which Bismarck again addressed the British Government through Count Bernstorff, declaring that the acquisition of Heligoland was necessary for the protection of the German coast, reciting, as an in stance, the facilities for coaling and the immunity from attack which the French fleet enjoyed at Heligoland, by which it was enabled to blockade Hamburg, and paralze the commerce of the German coast. He looked upon Heligoland, on account of its close proximity, as German Territory, and its possession by any foreign power as a standing menace to Germany. Earl Granville again replied that England was only bound to consider her own interest-that the wish of the German Government to acquire Heligoland did not constitute her right to it, as the island had nev-

Newspapers.

The newspaper is every year increasing in circulation, as it increases in importance, not only as a moral power, but as a political power allied to morality, to a degree that those who conduct it do not suspect. Newspapers are to the body politic what arteries are to the human body, their function being to carry blood and sustenance to every part of the body. Multiply them, and give them wider circulation. Would to God that those who conduct them might realize the full measure of their responsibility. Would to God that they had a true sense of patriotism, and a genuine love of intelligence and morality.-H. W. Beecher.

Michigan,

-A man by the name of Hubbard died horrible death in the Macomb County Poor House, a few days ago. The deceased was a farmer, and owned a good farm worth $1,200 situated a short, distance from Mt. Clemens. His besetting sin was an insatiate love for strong drink. The proprietor of a small groggery, standing near the outskirts of the village, marked his failing and set deliberately to work to make a victim of Hubbard and swindle him:out of his farm. The liberality on the part of the saloon keeper in furnishing Hubbard with free drinks was astonishing. After thoroughly soaking Hubbard with cheap whisky, the groggery man commenced to make overtures for a trade. He represented to his victim that the saloon business was one of the easiest and best paying occupations going, and if well attended to would make a man rich and respected in a very brief time. The concoctor of inebriating drinks said he had been offered $1,000 for his shanty and fixtures which amount he could get any time he saw fit to say the word. In truth, it was worth about $200. The transfer was finally accomplished, and Hubbard finally installed behind the bar, its sole proprietor and best customer. He drank constantly and was drunk from morning till night. The vile liquor he drank crazed his brain, bloated him up to twice his natural size, and made of him a complete human wreck. A short time since, he was taken to the county poor house, raying with delirium tremens, where, after suffering the torments of the damned for few days, he died a miserable death.-

-The following account of a sudden death we take from the Hastings Banner : Mr. Boltwood, an old and respected citizen of our city and of the firm of Boltwood & Coy, in the furniture business, on Monlay afternoon, a short time after working n his garden, complained of a pain in his head and laid down. Everything was done to relieve him of his suffering but he died in a very short time. Mr. B. had but previously made the remark to Rev. Mr. Marsh that he believed he would not remove an oak tree near the house, because he would probably be taken away before a maple or other tree would have attained the same size. In one hour after the remark, he was dead.

Manistee Enterprise.

-The Saginaw Republican says: Last Saturday morning, at about two o'clock the house of Thos. Smith, in this city was entered by burglars, whose presence awakened one of the inmates, who was told to keep quiet and all would be right otherwise they would give him a dose of cold lead. A large pocket-book, filled principally with papers and a small sum of money, was taken.

-The following we clip from the Cass County Republican: Last Wednesday, Messrs, H. Michael and Dr. Morse visited the Crane Rookery, near Tietsort, and in three hours shot 22 cranes. The next day, Elias Pardee, Thaddeus Hampton, James Atwood and A. Makyes tried their hands at the same amusement, and disposed of 75 more.

tato bug upon which innumerable insects of some kind had fastened, and soon reduced it to a perfect 'dry shell-seemingly sucking all the juices out of its body in a very short time. These little insects looked to the naked eye to be about as large as the head of a pin, under a microscrope they look to be ferocious monsters as large as the potato bug itself. What sort of an insect they are, or to-what species they belong, we are not naturalist enough to tell. They are evidently "death on the bugs," and it is to be regretted that there is not enough of them to exterminate the race.

-We notice the following from the Livingston Republican: Quite a number of cases of sunstroke have been reported along the line of the railroad, near this village, during the past week. We have heard of none proving fatal, except one that occurred in the cut in the Stedman Hill. A Swede, who had only been at work on the road a few days, was so overpowered with the heat that he crawled off for a time into the shade. He then went to his boarding house, and shortly after arriving there breathed his last. We do not learn that he has any relatives in this country. This should be a caution to men working in the deep cuts, to work earlier and later, and keep out of them during the middle of the day.

-A case of thieving, a little out of the regular line, happened at Traverse City. ast week. One Andrew Brubacker, getting short of stamps, conceived the idea of replenishing his dilapidated pocketbook without resorting to work, so he imagined himself a hunter on the plains, and lassoed a cow on third night of his rambles, and sold her to a butcher for twenty-five dollars. Now it so happened that Mr. P. Allyn's little ones were sorely distressed at the non-appearance of the motherly animal, and their cries urged Mr. Allyn to make a thorough search for the strayed or stolen. At last, he was advised to visit the butcher shop, and on his arrival there asked to see the hides of the cattle slaughtered lately. The butcher, mistrusting what was up, aided him in every way, and while going through the yard, a gleam of light shot across the face of the farmer as his eyes rested on the lost animal. Matters were soon explained and ar ranged, but the thief had departed. He has since been seen in Chicago, where Sheriff Morgan has gone to visit him.-Traverse Bay Eagle.

—The following is from the Cass. Co. Republican: On Wednesday night of last week, the residence of Joel Smith was entered and a valuable gold watch and chain was taken from his vest pocket and about $25 in money, from a pocket book in his pantaloons pocket. They then proceeded to the room where his son was sleeping, and in like manner relieved him of a silver watch and what money they found in his pocket. Mr. Smith offers a reward of $50 for the recovery of the stolen propertyand $75 for the arrest and conviction of the thief.

On the same night the house of Mr. J. M. Thompson was entered and a silver watch stolen from the room in which he was sleeping. The neat manner in which the work was performed, affords pretty conclusive evidence that it was done by experienced burglars. -Conrad Mosier and Chas. Shultz were drowned while bathing in the river at this point, on Sunday last. Mosier was about 23 years old and Shultz 12. Mosier upon jumping into water went under immediately and never came to the surface again. The body was recovered about an hour and a hall afterward. some forty feet below where he went in. He was a sober, industrious young man, and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. A large concourse of friends, and acquaintances were in attendance at the funeral, which took place in the afternoon. - Saginaw Re-

Died of Staryation. On Tuesday, of last week, Mr. and Mrs. Metzgar, Russians, came to this village and rented a vacant house of Mr. Hobert, on Portage Street. Mr. Metzgar obtained work upon the new school-house building, leaving his home in the morning, locking the house, and without providing anything scarcely for his wife to eat. Occasionally, he went to one of the neighbors to get some hot water to make tea.

Buchanan,

Last Saturday, the neighbors thinking that all was not right, went to the house, effected an entrance through a window, and found the woman in the destitute condition described. All the household furniture there was in the house, was a worn quilt, and a little tin pail and a tin can. The woman was taken to the residence of Mr. Hobert, and Dr. Dodd sent for, but when he arrived, she was suffering with a severe attack of fever superinduced by exhaustion, exposure and starvation. Her entire system was so worn out that medicine and means were of no avail. She and her husband had walked from Cincinnati to St. Louis, thence to Chicago and thence to this place. She wearing no shoes, and sleeping of night in the woods. When in this dying condition, her brutish husband left her and did not return until Sunday morning. He then went away ostensibly to get his breakfast, and has not been seen since. The woman died Sunday between 1 and 2 o'clock. Her dying words were, "My man, my man." She appeared to be about 22 or 23 years of age, fair and intelligent. The body was taken in charge by Supervisor Clark and duly buried. This is another case of hardship resulting in death, the particulars of which will undoubtedly remain covered by the vail of mystery.

These gentlemen are too well known to the public to need any recommend, having lived in Buchanan and vicinity many years past. While they shall endeavor to retain the custom, and sustain the reputation the mill has already gained, it is also their intention to make improvements that will greatly enlarge its capacity for grinding, and increase their business by adding constantly to their already numerous customers. We heartily wish the new firm abundant success.

JOKINA-There are many people who enjoy a good joke, and the way resorted to to perpetrate them are about as numerous. To make a joke appre-ciative the means employed should be harmless, lawful, and the matter carried just far enough, and no farther. Many times on account of a violation of this rule it "ceases to be a joke." Many persons do not know how to joke and should never attempt it. To them Saxe has given this wholesome advice.

But try to wear a sober phir,

Be candid if you can,
It is a very serious thing,
To be a funny man. The papers are filled with accounts of accidents and frequently deaths In reply to the question, who can beat that result from indiscretion that is used in an intended joke. These cases have occurred so frequently, that the legislature of this State, and of other States have passed a law punishing any careless use of fire arms. It may be a weakness in us, but when we think of these facts, the tenacity with which we naturally cling to life, makes us experience a timidity and White sow that has raised three litters | fear, whenever in the presence of these who are fooling with, or careless-ly handling dangerous weapons of any kind. AS IT SHOULD BE.—The business men should not get discouraged, if there is a falling off in their trade. Farmers are busy securing their grain with which they will obtain money SALT—Constantly on hand at Smith trade will be made better than ever, because the people will then have the means to pay. In this part of the county, every business depends for support directly or indirectly on the success of the farmers. Let crops fail and there is a general depression and stagnation in other branches of business; but when the agricultural products are plentiful and the demand for them reasonable, it sustains and gives life to every department of industry. Looking at it in this light we have everything to encourage us excellence.

Corn and outs are looking well. The fruit crop will be a little better than last year. Good this year, and can well afford a short dull season when we know the farmers are doing the necessary work to produce better times.

How to Stop a Paper. In our issue, of June 15th, we failed to conclude our article, "How to Stop a Paper," in consequence of the confusion incident to moving the RECORD office. Last week we were so busy "fixing up" things generally that we wholly forgot, "How to Stop a Paper." . This week we hasten to conclude the "story." Well, if you want your paper stopped, just pay the Editor all arrearages and one year in advance, ordering the paper discontinned at the expiration of the year. Be sure and state that, if he does not stop it at the expiration of the specified time you will not pay him therefor. If the publisher continues to send it, after the year has expired for which you paid in advance, wait three months, and then remind him of the bargain, and tell him you will now pay another year in advance, but not a cent for the three months you have already thad the paper, and if it is sent longer than it is paid for, you will not pay anything therefor. Of course, the Editor will have to accept your proposition; and you can then rest assured that when the year expires for which you then pay, the paper will stop till such time as you see fit to renew your subscription. The publishers will not be caught a second time napping. Try it and see, and you will surely say, "I know now, by experience, how to stop a Paper.

MESSRS. EDITORS:-Your correspondent D. A. E. of New Troy, seems to have totally failed to appreciate the nature of the problem I presented a few weeks ago. In order that he may better understand it, and to guide him to its solution, (for I trust he will give it another trial, and not yield so readily to discouragement) I will give the mode of proceeding in a particular case of the problem. Suppose an equation of any degree to have two roots-and only two-whose sum is equal to zero; -that is, two roots which are numerically equal, but with opposite signs. Transform this equation into another, by changing the signs of its alternate terms, and then find the greatest common divisor of these two equations. This common divisor, when made equal to zero, will form an equation of the second degree, whose roots will be the two roots whose sum is zero. Let D. A. E. test, and demonstrate if he can, the correctness of this process, and he will have a clue which may lead to a solution to the general problem.

To conclude, I hope, unless your correspondent finds this process described in the writings of the celebrated mathematicians, whose names, at least, seem quite familiar to him, that he will not allude so witheringly to my originality. He appears to resent my claim to originality, for the singu-lar reason that he has never heard or read of the process required by the problem under consideration. I confess to a little curiosity on the subject of his ideas of originality. Isuppose if he finds that I have been anticipated by some one else, my claim to originality will be fully established so far as he is concerned. J. S.

So you see Galien is not dead yet; and if there was less selfishness shown by the inhabitants, and the welfare of the town looked after a little more, we might have a thriving village, that would not be vetoed by any Governor. The morals of the people have been looked after with earnestness by the several societies. The Advents came up from Bu-chanan, and Mrs. Mansfield spoke several times, and generally had a full attendance. The Good Templars organized a lodge, last Spring, and now numbers a goodly company. They have done some good already. The Sabbath School turned out last Thursday, and went over to Hamilton to attend the pic-nic held there. The little folks and the big folks all had a good time, and, I believe, came home, more zealous for the good work. There was a larger attendance yesterday than there has been for a long time. Thus moves this part of the world. I fail to note anything more of interest, only I believe our ladies have all got new hats. Two millinery shops supplied them-improvements I forgot to speak of, although I am reminded of them every time I go on the street. Well, as H. W. Beecher said, "When a Wo-Man is made they look better dressed up." Yours, &c.,

MILLIONS Bear Testimony to the Wonderful Curative Effects of Vinegar Bitters are not avile Fancy Drink. Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweet-ened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetiz-ers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and A LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of report.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also, the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of wo-manhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have advisers and the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Bructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the wijole system. imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt;

Ror Skin Diseases, Euptions, Tetter, Saite. Rheum, Blotches Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbincles, Ring-Worms, Scald-Head, Sore. Eyes, Erisipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effect.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores, cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the vehics; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

FIN, TAPE, and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French and Spanish.

Thou art bending o'er the hearth, my friend,
Where love-fires never glow,
And the sparks of Hope are smothered
'Neath the ashes of thy woe.
The winds of Desolation shake
The roof-tree of thy Care,
And beside the chilly hearthstone
Sits frozen-limbed Despair. Thy heart has had no home, my friend,

Since thy first youth was past;
Thou lookest for peace but in the grave,
To which thou'rt going fast.
But we have a Father's house, dear friend,
Where warmth and light are free, And in that many-mansioned home, There's room for thee and me.

That home stands on a living Rock,
Where no rude waves can rise;
No clouds can dim, no lightnings pierce
Its ever-smiling skies.
And sweet will be our rest, dear friend,
When that bright home we win,
For Jesus at the portal stands,
To welcome pilgrims in.

The Fear of Death. Men fear death, as children fear to go in the dark; and as that natural tear in children is increased with tales, so is the other. Certainly the con-templation of death as the wages of sin and the passage to another world, is holy and religious; but the fear of it, as a tribute due unto nature, is weak. Yet, in religious meditations, there is sometimes a mixture of vani ity and of superstition. You shall read in some of the friars' books of mortification, that a man should think with himself, what the pain is, if he have but his fingers' ends pressed or tortured, and thereby imagine what the pains of death are when the whole body is corrupted and dissolved; when many times death passeth with less pain than the torture of a limb: for the most vital parts are not the quick-est sense. And by him that spake only as a philosopher, and natural man, it was well said, "The pomp of death is more feared than death itself." Groans and convulsions, and a discolored face, and friends weeping

like, show death terribly.

It is worthy the observing, that there is no passion in the mind of man so weak, but it mates and masters the fear of death; and therefore death is no such terrible enemy, when a man hath so many attendants about that can win the combat of him. Revenge triumphs over death; love slights it; honor aspireth to it; grief flieth to it; fear pre-occupieth it; nay, we read, after Otho the Emperor had slain himself, pity, which is the ten-derest of affections, provoked many to die, out of mere compassion to their sovereign, and as the truest sort of followers. It is as natural to die as to be born: and to a little infant, perhaps, the one is as painful as the pursuit, is like one that is wounded in hot blood; who, for the time, scarce feels the hurt; and therefore a mind fixed and bent upon somewhat that is good doth avert the dolors of death: but above all, believe it, the sweetest canticle is, "Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace."—Lord

it. But men of intelligence rely upon the same as between themselves and But obedience can never cancel dis obedience. We have only done our duty when we obey in every act. If we fail in one act, obedience ever after will not change the fact nor obliterate the guilt. That will stand forever a blot, a shame upon the soul, and shut it out of heaven, unless washed away by the blood of Christ. A sin can never be recalled, never be changed, never be made anything else than a sin, and its guilt must stand so long as the sin exists. Our Creator and Redeemer alone has the power to relieve us from this guilt, and He does it only on condition of repentance and faith.—Morning Star.

Work for Christ.

Work for Christ! This is the best cure for a spiritual invalid in the Church. Work develops a man's spiritual proportions. Work makes a Christian sinewy to carry burdens. broad-shouldered to bear responsibilities, strong-voiced to sing God's praise, quick-footed to do good, and healthful in the pulse-beat of his piety. I seldom have known of a good worker giving his pastor the heartache or making trouble in the Church. I never knew a warm hearted worker to freeze up a prayer-meeting. I am never afraid to offer such a man a subscription paper. It is the lazy professors, the people who ride on the cushioned seats of the church-car, and mistake that orthodox luxury for a personal advance in grace—these are the people who are the trouble and torment of themselves and of their minister. It is easier to be the a living and growing church. It is not what we do, but what we fail to do that wears us out.—Rev. T. L. Cuyler. Hearing a Will Read. A gentleman once said to Rowland Hill: "It is sixty-five years since I first heard you preach, and the sermon was well worth while remembering. You remarked that some people are very squeamish about the manner of a clergyman in preaching, but you then added: 'Suppose one was hearing a will read, expecting to receive a legacy, would you employ the time in criticising the lawyer's manner while reading it? No; you would give all your interest to ascertain if any thing were left to yourself, and how much. Let that, then, be the way in which you listen TINCETTES TOWNS Jacob Messinger to the Gospel.'"

Brave Men.

There are men brave enough to storm a fort who are not brave enough not to tell a lie. There are heroes who can smile when a doctor cuts off their legs, who can not break a miserable little habit of petu-lance or profanity. How many public men are brave enough to say what they think? They will vote by rising, when they will not by yeas and nays. They are not afraid of doing the thing, but of having it known.—Harper's Bazar.
