WHITTIER'S POEM ON CHICAGO. Men said at vespers: All is well! In one wild night the city fell; Fell shrines of prayer and marts of gain Before the fiery huricane.

On threescore spires had sunset shone, Where ghastly sunrise looked on none; Men clasped each other's hands, and said: The City of the West is dead!

Brave hearts wholfought, in slow retreat, The fiends of fire from street to street, Turned, powerless, to the blinding glare, The dumb defiance of despair. A sudden impulse thrilled each wire

That signaled round that sea of fire ;-

Swift words of cheer, warm heart-throbs came. In tears of pity died the flame! From East, from West, from South and North The messages of hope shot forth, And, underneath the severing wave, The world, full-handed, reached to save.

Fair seemed the old; but fairer still The new the dreary void shall fill, With dearer homes than those o'erthrown, For love shall lay each corner-stone.

Rise, stricken city! from thee throw The ashen sackcloth of thy woe; And build, as Thebes to Amphion's strain, To songs of cheer thy walls again ! How shriveled in thy hot distress

The primal sin of selfishness!

How instant rose, to take thy part, The angel in the human heart! Ah! not in vain the flames that tossed Above thy dreadful holocaust; The Christ again has preached through thee The Gospel of Humanity!

Then lift once more the towers on high, And fret with spires the western sky, To tell that God is yet with us, And love is still miraculous!

Atlantic Monthly, December.

[From the Cincipnatti Times and Chronicle.] BEHIND THE SCENES.

BY PHILIP GLENN.

It was evening at Lake View Institute. It was also evening at the great city that lay glittering in the moonbeams, two miles south, and considerably below the eminence upon which Lake View Institute was situated. Whether it was evening at any other place at that time, it matters not. Lake View Institute was strictly a sectarian institution, to which fond mammas and indulgent papas of a certain denominational belief, with great joy and thanksgiving, consigned their wayward charges, when they had to consider themselves superior to parental training and instruction. Within one of the many rooms in the third story of the boarding hall sat two young men, one of whom was evidently just emerging from the tadpole age, judging from the promise of future manliness exhibited in the form of a young and tender moustache. Add to this attraction light blue eyes, and hair that curled like any Sambo's, with a corresponding complexion, and you have a slight conception, of the personnel of Horace Morton, who was noted for possessing the longest head for mathematics in school. My other hero was somewhat plain in appearance, there being nothing remarkable about him but his nose. Whether it was the unusual length of this appendage that rendered Fred Gibson a prime favorite among the ladies, is Upon this particular evening they were both seated, the one apparently deeply absorbed in the contents of a geometry, the other in that of Cicero's Orations. "Fred," said Horace, suddenly looking up from his figures; but Fred only murmured absently, "O, immortal Gods! where-" "Never mind those old heathens," said Horace impatiently, "listen to-"There are in our midst, O Conscript Fathers—"

"Fred, in the name of all that is patient, keep still while I propose"" "Going to propose, are you really? Must Iblush and look down, Horace?" "If you are through now, young impudence, I will make my speech. You remember there is to be an excursion from the city to the Islands, to-morrow?" "Well, yes, I do remember some thing about it," responded Fred, "but I fail to see how it affects us any." "Don't you? Well now I have about arrived at the conclusion that our brains are being overtaxed, and that we need a holiday to save us from the possibilities of a premature grave."

rence? You know we cannot tell him the girls peremptory orders to retire the truth." "Oh, I'll arrange that; you know I am something of a favorite of his."

Horace, whom are we to take?" "Take! Why we are going together, of course." "No, thank you, Horace; as much as I prize your charming society, still I think I should prefer that of Miss

You know we per the same to get off together. would all be expelled instanter if it swering that note a tion, young gentleman, as the Doctor says.

"Wellanowigulest said lots with says."

While Horate Morton is imparting free reveal monster, let me fell you his scheme to free Gipson, I will ask the reader to descend a short distance with me to a room on the second floor, immediately beneath the son and Nellie Howard. The apart son and Nellie Howard. The apart last bader each other good on gibt.

In the containing a few twinges from the scheme to a room on the second floor, immediately beneath the son of May Glear son and Nellie Howard. The apart last bader each other good on gibt.

At the descendance of the nose of the nose fall in and with the gist aring the breath the room of May Glear and the regist a bed; Julia and Lottie, two bosom dim twilight through the long hall, companions of the young ladies, are and knocked loudly at the door of the established, the one on the top of a | preceptress' room. Presently a plainthuge trunk, the other on the floor, making a somewhat poor show of within, asked brokenly for camphor, studying botany, while May Gleason and then began an explanation in before the glass is expatiating upon | which were the words "such dreadful the uncertain merits of curl papers.

"Girls," said Julia, from the trunk, in a break in the conversation, "talk guishable. The door was soon openlower, will you? I am sure I heard | ed, and thereupon began a piteous the Raven."

It will perhaps be necessary to state that the "Raven" was no less a personage than Miss Leavenworth, the preceptress, whose duty it was to it was so dark they were not apparwatch carefully over the morals and general deportment of the young ladies under her charge, and also to instruct them in French, drawing and elocution. In the latter branch she considered herself particularly proficient in the rendering of Poe's Raven. This, together with the fact that in person she was tall and angular, with black hair, and piercing black eyes, was considered by the girls to be a capital excuse for the appellation. "You are mistaken," said May, pausing at the thirty-first curl paper; "tis the wind, and nothing more." "Girls," interrupted Lottie, looking fixedly at her botany, "I have been thinking "

"Pshaw! you don't say so?" said Julia. "First time, wasn't it, Lot?" chimed in Nellie. "Yes," replied Lottie, not at all discomposed, "I have thought of the nicest way to play off a joke on the Doctor.

"I supposed the result of your mental effort would be something of that sort," retorted Julia. "Trouble her not!" said May majestically. "What is it, Lottie? Tell us, do. "Well, you know," she began, but stopped suddenly. "There is that noise again. I am sure the Raven is said Nellie. prowling around somewhere. She will report us sure, if she finds Julia and me here again, after she has just sent us to our rooms."

"No, I think it is at the window," exclaimed May. "Listen!" In the sudden hush that followed there was distinctly heard a gentle rap at the window. In the general rush that was made, Lottie reached the window first, and pushing away the curtains, revealed a huge golden orange and a white note attached to one end of a small cord, which evidently proceeded from the third story Hastily untying the contraband articles, and opening the note, Lottie read:

"MISSES HOWARD AND GLEASON: Messrs: Morton and Gipson send compliments, and beg you to accept a few oranges, and also request the pleasure of your company to the Islands to-morrow. F. G. AND H. M. "P. S.: Please reply by this postoffice line, and pull the string if anything happens."

Before there was any time for comments, there came a loud rap at the door, as if the knocker was getting impatient.

"Gracious! girls, she has been there all the time," said Julia making a dive behind the trunk. Lottie as suddenly disappeared. May taking her position before the glass, coolly proceeded with her hair-dressing, while Nellie, snatching a book from the table quickly unlocked the door. "Young ladies," said Miss Leavenworth, entering the room, "I thought Lheard loud laughing and talking in this room."

"In this room!" said May in a surprised tone. "It must have been you, Nellie, reading so loudly."

"May I see the book you have, Miss Howard?" and Miss Leavenworth took the book from Nellie's trembling hand. "Elements of Moral Science. Very good. A highly instructive and -bless me, what is that?" and the Raven stopped short in her exclamation. "It seems to be at the window, and the preceptress made a hasty movement toward it. But May was before her, and pushing aside the curtein, gave the string outside such a jerk that it snapped, and the fruit tumbled ignominiously to the ground. "That little bird again," said May sweetly, turning to the preceptress. "It comes to the window so often, attracted by the light, I suppose. Why last week it flew right into the room, and staid several minutes.

Just at this juncture the ten o'clock "Splendid, old fellow," replied bell began ringing, and Miss Leaven-Fred; "that would be jolly, but how worth, apparently satisfied with May's are we to get permission of Dr. Law-solution of the mystery, after giving at once, hurried away to finish her nightly rounds.

"Oh, May, how could you lie so?" "Well, that is settled; but now; said Nellie reproachfully, after the coast was again clear: "Lie? Why, you little innocent, I didn't tell anything but the truth. I did not say that I saw the bird to-night, did I?"

May Gleason on this occasion:

"Well that is cool. But not to be stie, emerging from under the bed outdone, if you take May I will take her room-mate, Nellie Howard. But jewel with the low what, girls, we will what if they do not consent, Fred?" A have to stay here now until the Raven would all be expelled instanter if it were found out."

"Yes, I know Fred, but let me think. Oh, now I have it! Attention, young gentleman, as the Doctor says."

After many arguments and pleadings, Miss Leavenworth was induced to grant permission for the poor sufferer, accompanied by Nellie Howard, to proceed at once to the city, in order that the dreadful tooth might be drawn immediately. Highly delighted at the success of their scheme, the two young ladies were soon on their way. It might have disturbed the peace of mind of the unconscious precentress had she observed that soon after the departure of her charges they were overtaken by a double carriage, drawn by a pair of handsome black horses, the private property of Fred Gipson, who was seated within the carriage with his boon campanion, Horace. "Good morning, ladies," said Fred, with his sweetest smile, reining in his horses. "Could we afford you the pleasure of a ride to the city?" "Thank you, yes, we will ride, although I am not sure but walking would be pleasanter," answered May. "Come, Miss Gleason, let us have peace to-day," said Fred, assisting the ladies to a seat where they could not be easily observed from the street. "Yes, let us have peace to-day, so that we may gather together our forc-

"Drive, Fred! drive as you never drove before! The Doctor is after us.' But after a few minutes' hard driving they outdistanced the carriage, and began to think that retribution was not coming in that form after all.

Our young friends pursued the even tenor of their way without molestation for a short time. Arrived at the city, they hastened to the boat just in time to see it start without them. "How blessings brighten as they

"Light, indeed! I consider it very heavy. But to lessen its weight a little, what do you say to a ride in a sail-boat. The lake is very smooth to-day?"

"Agreed," replied May, and the rest assented thereto. After some difficulty and delay, the boys secured a boat, and a couple of men to manage it. In this they embarked, and, for a time "all was merry as a marriage bell." But the lake was fickle in its moods, and towards noon grew rough, so that after they had been out a short time, the white caps began to leap and dance, and the ladies proposed returning to shore. in high glee, and blissfully unconscious of the fate that awaited them. The whole company, however, were breakers rolled more and more heavily, until there was a sudden dash, and our brave party was treated to a bath of lake-water. The scene that ensued was past description; the boat was half filled with water, the ladies were choking and sneezing, the gentlemen were endeavoring to wring the water from their clothes; and thus dripping, and shivering, and scolding, they landed, and making the best of their way to a hotel, they met upon the street, face to face, with-Doctor Lawrence. Catarrh-What it Really is. DR. V. CLARENCE PRICE.

There is no ailment so common in its mild form, especially in changeable and moist climates, and in its aggravated form so disastrous, as Catarrh. Few persons know but little as to the cause of the disoften comes when and where we least exease, and much less as to the means to pect it. I have devoted my entire enereffect permanent cures. The seat of the gies to the treatment of chronic diseases disease is supposed to be in the head, assuch as diseases of the lungs, heart, throat, the symptoms that occur in its commenceliver, stomach, kidneys and blood for ment, are mostly experienced in that quaryears, and during the time that I have been engaged in the speciality, I have ter. But do these means, however powerful in their nature, or thoroughly they are used, ever effect lasting cures in any case where the disease has taken its chronic form? Many persons who have thoroughly tried such means, know from experience that no durable good has come from their use, while those who will fairly investigate the matter, will At Laporte, Merrill House, 24th and readily see, that although a palliative in-25th Dec. The lining membrane of the nostrils is very delicate; in fact so sensitive that nature has placed hairs in the nose to prevent the entrance of foreign substances that might irritate or injure it. I have known cases where the sense of smell and at other times come on suddenly, last a deafness is often produced, the eyes be becomes very great, in fact, one cold is hardly over before another is contracted.

The mostrils are stuffed up most of the time, the nose is made sore, the membrane so irritated as to occasion sneezing. In some cases the mucous, by heat in the part, becomes dry and there is no discharge from the nose but large scales or scabs are blown out. This is termed dry Catarrh,

. There is nothing more puzzling to ordinary minds than "bookkeeping by double entry," and it is advisable that no one should ever attempt to keep his accounts on this system unless he fully understands it. A well-meaning public accountant in India has, it appears, lately come to trouble owing to misunderstanding the nature of this simple process. A certain gentleman, says a Lahore paper, was recently appointed to a station not a thousand miles from the capital of the Punjab. After a short time he submitted his accounts, according to rule, to the head office. The various bills of receipts and expenditures were being rapidly passed, when a clerk of unusual brilliance pounced on a bill in which 20,000 brick were charged for twice over. The question was at once lay the foundation for consumption does not sent to the gentleman whether he had got altogether 40,000 bricks on such a date, and if so, why he had divided the item into two? "Oh, dear, no," sense of smell and taste is partially if not wholly destroyed. The matter often accountiates in the hollow bones of the head he said, "I only got 20,000 bricks; but you told me to put everything down by double entry, and so I put sent it through the bank through coming thicker the mucous which should the bricks down twice. All the other this bank; don't you remember I came be thrown from the surface, remains in the bricks down twice. All the other charges are the same." only the bones of the nose diseased, but ulceration had gone on in the throat until the soft palate, uvula, and portions of the roof of the mouth had been eaten away. Now, as all of these difficulties have their origin from a diseased state of the blood, a superabundance of a certain substance loading the blood and constantly being deposited as the blood goes its rounds of circulation in the parts affected, is it reasonable to suppose that local treatment alone can effect cures? To those who do not understand the subject, it certainly would appear that medicines applied to the parts where the most trouble is experienced would produce the most good. But it should be remembered that the cause of disease is not where the most trouble or pain is felt. One may stick a nail in the foot and die of lockjaw. We strike our elbow and it tingles to our finger ends. No effects take place without a cause, and no effect will cease until the cause is removed. That proper local treatment is a great assistance to constitutional treatment we do not deny. But the local treatment alone is sufficient to remove the cause of the disease after it has become chronic is simply absurd. This disease in its chronic form at its commencement by appropriate treatment can certainly be permanently cured. And even in cases of many years standing, where there was but little grounds for hope, I have succeeded in establishing healthy action. No one should despair of a recovery. Although the case may appear past hope, it may not be too late. Try, good chronic diseases a special treatment, must be better prepared to successfully handle them; than one who devotes their time to local or acute maladies. I will be for consultation upon all diseases of the lungs, throat, heart, nerves, blood, etc., on my next visit in person at the Reading House, Niles, during Sunday and Monday, 7th and Sth January.

"The Weaker Sex."

A late writer boldly disputes the proverbial phrase which describes woman as "the weaker sex." Heperhaps it is she—says the weaker sex is man. Who ever heard of a woman giving herself up to drink on account of reverse in fortune? But how many men become confirmed drunkards from no better cause? One of the excuses of man's drinking is, taste had been destroyed for months by powerful irritants used in the nostrils, and that he cannot resist temptation. Wowhere the discharges had been suddenly men have sometimes the same tempta-

THE NEW APPORTIONMENT.

We regard the action of the present ongress as a direct swindle upon the liest, in that it neglects to, at once, gus an apportionment bill allowing the West her just representation in Longress immediately. The West being entitled to an increase in Representation, there is not the slightest justice in delaying the allowing this rightful claim. There cannot be offered a reasonable excuse for longer reventing the West from her due share and influence in Congress. Western members, who favor this delay, will be looked upon as having an "axe to grind," and the people will carefully note them. There is not a Isingle Western interest that demands regarded by the whole Western portion of our country as being a move in the interest of the East. Let justice be done though the heavens fall. Let Congress give us the Representation to which we are entitled, and that, too, without delay.

The apportionment bill now before Congress provides that after March 3. 1875, the House of Representatives shall consist of 281 members, apportioned as follows:

GOVERNMENT AND THE TELE-GRAPH.

We can see no good reason why the Government should go into the general telegraph business: We cannot see as it will be of any material benefit to the great mass of the people. It will, in our minds, add much to the expense of the Government without bringing adequate returns. Economy should and must be the watchword with the great Republican party if it | the Secretary of War to Chicago sufferwould continue to receive the support and respect of the people. No wild speculations by Congress, to add expenses to the Government, without the greatest prospect of good results therefrom, will, for a moment be tolerated by the people or looked upon with the least degree of allowance. The postal service already accommodates the business of the country as far as Government is under obligations. This service is indispensable, but where the interests demand it the telegraph can and will be supplied by private enterprise. We commend the following from the Chicago Tribune on this

"It is urged as a reason why the United States should go into the gencral telegraph business, that private enterprise will not build telegraph lines except where the business will pay, and that the government has money enough to do so. The same unprofitable business. There are many such cases. There is not a county in all the United States that would not like to have one or two railroads built through it; private enterprise will not build them, and, unless the government taxes the whole people to pay for them, they will not be built. There are many poor newspapers in the country because private enterprise will not establish better ones; there are a great many places which have no newspapers at all, for the same reason. Tea and coffee are not raised in the United States, because the time has not come when private enterprise will engage in that line of production: but these pressing wants of essentials of life do not justify the government engaging in the business. The fact that the business will not pay is a sufficient reason for not attempting it and that it is not needed. Whenever the wants of any community require a line of telegraph, private enterprise will promptly discover the

PRINCE OF WALES.

The severe illness of the Prince of Wales has caused great alarm throughout England. From the last dispatches, the prospects of his recovery seem very doubtful. She at once proceeded to a neighbor's house, where the child was cared for. One of its legs was badly burned and will, if it lives, be a cripple for life. Other parts of the body was burned; and its life despaired of. The fire in the house was promptly put out .- Hastings Journal.

-The Methodist Society of this village have the honor to raise the frame of the first House of Worship in Ludington. The house is situated on the corner of Loomis and Harrison streets, and is 36x60 feet, with 18 feet ceiling.—Ludington Record.

-The Union school house of this city was burned to the ground on Tuesday evening of this week. A portion of the books, maps and charts, were saved; also three stoves. It is but mere conjecture as to how the fire originated; some asserting that the fire was caused from a defective chimney and others from the stove. It was insured in the Hartford for $3,000.— Hastings Journal.

-On Monday night a little after 12 o'clock, the alarm of fire was sounded, but so feebly that but few of our citizens heard it. By some means fire had communicated to the partition of the "dungeon" cell in the county jail, and had made considerable progress before the Sheriff, Mr. Richfield, was awakened. Mr. R. immediately went up stairs where the prisoners were confined, and found them nearly suffocated, and crying lustily to get out. The Sheriff intended to place handcuffs upon them after opening the every direction.—Hilledale Democrat, pose by some of the prisoners—a hazardous experiment as the facts prove. The damages are estimated at $50 to -Mr. Samuel Green, a farmer live the county, insured. Mr. Richfield's

-On Wednesday evening Porter Harrington, an inhabitant of Sandstone township, and an old resident of this county, met with an accident which resulted in instant death. Mr. Harrington left this place about 3 o'clock, and was somewhat under the influence of liquor. Toward evening his team arrived at his farm, about seven miles west of Jackson, but was without a driver. Search was made for Mr. Harrington, and he was found lying dead in the middle of the road, about one mile east of his home. It is believed that he fell from his wagon, striking on his head, breaking his neck, and killing him instantly .-Jackson Citizen.

-The small pox has entirely terminated in this city. It has been confined entirely to one house and never been so extensive as reported .- Cold-

-A very sad affair occurred at Parshallville, last Tuesday, resulting fatally. An aged lady, Mrs. Eth-ridge, wife of Nathaniel Ethridge of this village, was engaged in preparing supper when by some means her clothes caught fire, and before the finmes could be extinguished she was so badly burned that after lingering several hours, in great agony, she died the next morning.—Hartland Cor., Livingston Republican.

—A most distressing casualty oc-curred in the town of Sheridan, on Sunday last, attended with tatal result. Mr. George Lancaster, who lives about four miles north; and two west of this village, started with his wife and little boy eight years old, for Marshall, in a buggy. His team consisted of a mare and a young colt They had not proceeded more than half a mile or so, when, for some reason, the mare began to kick. At this the colt took fright and soon both ran with all speed. Mrs. Lancaster and the boy were thrown out with such violence that the latter was taken up insensible and a portion of the mother's scalp and eye brow was torn off, and she was otherwise seriously, though it is thought not dangerously, injured. Mr. L. was also thrown out, and more or less bruised, but received no very severe injuries. We are pained to add that the little boy never recovered consciousness, but lingered till eight o'clock Tuesday evening, when he died.—Albion Recorder, Dec. 8th.

-Deer appear to be unusually plenty this fall, or hunters are making unusual efforts to capture them. They are brought into Alma and other vil lages by sleigh loads, and sold, in the hide, for about 7 cents per pound to parties who ship them East. - Gratiot Journal.

-California peas have been sold at the green grocer shops here during the last few days .- The three sewing in the town of Greenfield near Detroit | machine agencies having agents last Friday night by a burglar who here sell about ninety machines per had broken into the house of a man month.—The scarcity of men to work named Dennison Miller, for the purpose of robbing him. News of the Week.

Jacob Thorp, the oldest Methodist in Peoria County, Ill., died at Lancaster on the 1st inst., at the advanced age of 99. Small-pox has made its appearance in Chenoa, El Paso, Secor, Pontiac and Wenona, Ill.

A portion of the new railroad bridge at Davenport, Iowa, was carried away by the ice on the 5th inst., involving a loss of $5,000 to the contractors.

The Rev. M. C. Kempsey, late pastor of the Baptist church at Monticello, has been appointed Financial Agent of the Cedar Valley Seminary, located at Osage, Iowa.

A handsome woman named Garst has created a sensation near Osceola, Iowa, by leaving her farmer-husband and children, and eloping with a dashing young man. Dubuque, Iowa, has nine packing houses in operation at the present time.

The hog crop of Iowa for 1871 is esti-mated at 1,003,571 hogs—an increase of 40 per cent over that of 1870.

The Waukesha, (Wis.) Freeman says the small-pox seems to have nearly, if not quite, disappeared in that county.

The small-pox has been brought to Menominee, Wis., by a Canadian. There is hope of the recovery of both the Park girls, the victims of the Clark County, Ind., massacre. A. New Albany, (Ind.,) man, named Creamer, has been arrested for the abduction of a girl named Hodge, who has been missing for over a month. Mr. Sumner has declined the appointment of Chairman of the committee of Privileges and Elections. The number of deaths by small-pox in Philadelphia last week was 198, a decrease of 34 from the previous week. Dr. J. A. Williams, a well-known physician of Memphis, while conversing with his wife, on Saturday evening, fell from his chair a corpse, from heart disease. The first pier of the railroad and wagon bridge over the Missouri River at St. Joseph was successfully landed on the bed rock on Thursday morning, and the sink ing of the second pier will be commenced at once. It is expected that a pier will be sunk each month until the entire four piers are based on the solid rock. NEW YORK, Dec. 10.-The Bible war at Hunter's Point has ended in a compromise between the Catholic committee and the Commissioners. All expelled will be taken back. PROSPECTUS FOR 1872. FIFTH YEAR.

A Representative and Champion of American Art. THE ALDINE:

An Mustrated Monthly Journal claimed to be the hand som est Puper in the World.

"Give my love to the artist workmen of THE ALDINE who are striving to make their profession worthy of admiration for beauty, as it has always been for usefulness."

—Henry Ward Beecher.

THE ALDINE is a unique and original conception—
slone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of the volume just completed cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for let itner its cost.

The lubon of getting THE ALDINE ready on the press is so great that reprinting is out of the question. With the exception of a smell number specially reserved for binding; the edition of 1871 is already exhausted, and it is now a scarce as well as valuable book.

NEW FEATURES FOR 1872.

The enthusiastic support so readily accorded to their enterprise, wherever it has been introduced, has convinced the publishers of THE ALDINE of the soundness of their theory that the American public would recognize and heartily support any sincere effort to elevate the tone and standard of illustrated publications. As a the tone and standard of illustrated publications. As a gwarantoe of the excellence of this department, the publishers would bog to announce during the coming year, specimens from the following ominent American artists W. T. Richards, Granville Perkins, James Smilley, Wm. Hart, F. O. O. Darley, R. E. Piguet, Wm. Beard, Victor Nehlig, Frank Beard, George Smiley, Wm. H. Wilcox, Paul Dixon, Aug. Will, James H. Beard, J. Hows.

It is the determination of the publishers that THE ALDINE shall be a successful windication of American teste in competition with any existing publication in the world.

Literary Department. The editorial management of THE ALDINE has been intrusted to Mr. RICHARD HENRY STODDARD, who has received assurances of assistance from a host of the most popular writers and posts of the country.

TRE VOLUME FOR 1872 will contain nearly 300 pages, and about 250 fine engravings. Commencing with the number for January, every third number will contain a bountful tinted picture on plate paper, inserted as a frontispiece.

The Christmas number for 1872, will be a splendid volume in itself, containing fifty engravings, (four in tint) and, although retailed at $1, will be sent without extracharge to all yearly subscribers

A Chromo to Every Subscriber.

A Chrome to Every Subscriber was a very popular feature last year, and will be repeated with the present volume "The publishers have purch sed aid reproduced, at great expense, the beautiful oil painting by Siris, entitled "Pave Nature's School." The chrome is Tixis inches, and is an exact facsimile, in size and appearance, of the original picture. No American chrome, which will at all compare with it has yet been offered atroud for less than the price asked for THE ALDINE and it together. It will be delivered free, with the January number, to every subscriber who pays for your reason.

The Cheapest and Best Published Anywhere. WHY THE PEOPLE TAKE "THE TIMES."

FIRST—Because it is, in EVERY sense of the term, "a live paper."

SECOND—Because it is, in the broadest sense, fair and independent on all political questions, while it is distinctly Republican in principle.

THEM—Because its editors talk to the point, and do not fill their columns with long and prosy essays, devoid of interest as well as principle.

FURNT—Because it is opposed to all land monopolies, and the wholesale appropriation of the public domain to rellroad and other speculative corporations.

FIFTH—Because it gathers the news from all quarters of the world, by telegraph and through its own special correspondents and reporters, and condenses it into such brief shape as to present a reliable mirror of all that is going on in this and other countries.

SEXTH—Because its Market Reports of Live Stock, Grain, Groceries, Dry Goods, etc., of this and other leading commercial cities of the Union, have always proved most reliable, and because its 'spicultural Department is conducted with ability and an earnest desire to benefit the farmer.

SEVENTI—Because it is a paper for the Homo Circle—always having something for the Young Folks, as well as for the Old Folks; something for the Humorous, as well as for the Gentiemen; in fact, something suited for all tastes.

THE WEEKLY TIMES is the most popular Family Newspaper issued in the West, as is demonstrated by its immense circulation, (nearly 100,000) which is greater than that of any other newspaper publishek outside of New York City.

MESSRS. G. & C. MERRIAN:—
DEAR SIRS:—I have taken great pleasure in the examination of your new illustrated edition of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary. I consider it far superior to anything of its kind heretofore published.

The Etymologies exhibit the greatest care, research and accuracy. The citations of illustrative passages, and the pictorial illustrations with which it abounds, also greatly add to its interest. The imprevenents in the matter of synonyms with the almost aultiless definitions, orthography and pronunciation, and the numerous additions in the body of the work, render it a production of the arrest excellence and an invaluable aid to every student of the English language. No student or literary man in our country, at the present day, can afford to be without a copy.

To any person producing any Medicine able to show one-third as many living, permanent cures as Dr. Fitler's Vegetable Rheematic Remedy; and a further reward of S100 for any case of Chronic or Inflammatory Rheematism, Neuralgia Rheematic Ague, Sciatica, and Rheematism of the Ridneys it will not cure. This Rheematic syrup is used inv ardly only, pleasant to the taste, and guaranteed free from injurious Drugs. It is not a Quack Medicine, but the scientific prescription of Jos. P. Fitler, M. D., Professor of Toxicology and Chemistry, graduate of the celebrated University of Pennsylvania, A. D. 1833, whose entire professional life has been devoted specially to this disease. This preparation under solemn cath is conscientiously believed to be the only positive, reliable, infallible specific ever discovered. The proof that no other specific exists is found in every community in persons afflicted for many years past and still suffering. If physicians could cure it, if a specific did exist, this would not be so,—a fact that must be universally admitted. The of deceived sufferer may wisely ask, what security or evidence has he that Dr. Fitler's Rheumatic Syrup will cure his case. The protection offered to patients against imposition is in a legally signed contract which will be forwarded without charge to any sufforer sending by letter a description of affliction; this guarantee will state the exact number of bottless warranted to cure, and in case of failure the money paid will be returned to the patient. No other remedy has over been offered on such liberal and honorable terms. Medical advice, with certificates from prominent Physicians, Clergymen, &c., who have been cured after all olive treatments failed, sent by lotter, grafis. from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants, They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and A LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

They are a Centle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also, the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or inflammation of the Liver, and all the Viscoral Organs.

FOIL FEMIALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rhenmatism and Gout, Dyspensia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or missmatic

Mo one remedy is louder called for by the necessities of the American people than a sure and safe ours for Fever and Ague. Such we are now enabled to offer, with a perfect certainty that it will eradicate the disease, and with assurance, founded on proof, that no harm can arise from its use in any quantity.

That which protects from or prevents this disorder must be of immense service in the communities where it prevails. Prevention is better than cure, for the patient escapes the risk which he must run in volent attacks of this baleful distemper. This "Gune" expels the minsmatic poison of Feven And Ague from the system, and prevents the development of the disease, if taken on the first approach of its premonitory symptoms. It is not only the best femely everyet discovered for this class of complaints, but also the cheapest. The large quantity we supply for a dollar brings it within the reach of everybody; and in bilious districts, where Feven And Ague prevails, everybody should have it, and use it freely, both for cure and protection. It is hoped this price will place it within the reach of all—the poor as well as the rich. A great superiority of this remedy over any other ever discovered for the speedy and certain cure of Intermittents is, that it contains no Quinism or other injurious effects whatever upon the constitution. Those cured by it are left as healthy as if they had never had the disease.

Fever and Ague is not alone the consequence of the missmatic poison. A great variety of disorders arise from its irritation, among which are Neuralgia, lihoumatism; Gout, Headache, Blindness, Toothache, Earache, Catarrh, Asthma, Palpitation, Painful Affection of the Spleen, Hysferies, Pain in the Bowels, Colie, Paralysis, and derangement of the Stomach, all of which, when originating in the scause, put on the intermittent type, or become periodical. This "Conte" expels the poison from the blood, and consequently cures them all alike. It is an invaluable protection to immigrants and persons travelling or temporary

"Phunygrams,"

A Misunderstanding,

The following anecdote is told of the famous marshal Wrangel, a former hero of the Prussian army: "All persons of any distinction were desirous of calling upon bim, and it devolved upon his adjutant to give him some information about his visitors, as some of them were even princes. One day a poet, named Putlitz, was announced, and the adjutant hastily whispered in the marshals ear the title of the poet's most celebrated work, 'What the Woods Tell Us.' The old General, was not much given to literature, had never heard of the book, and must have understood the words as, 'what wood sells at,' for he turned to his visitor with the inquiry, 'How long have you been in the lumber business, Mr.

A wit being told that an acquaintance was married, exclaimed, "I am glad to hear it." But reflecting a moment, he added, in a tone of compassion and forgiveness. "And yet I don't know why I should be, he never did me any harm."

Putlitz?"

A lady recently made a call and on returning home one of her little ones asked her what she had been doing? She replied that she had been singing. He asked again what she sang? She said, she sang alto and the other lady sang air. The next morning when the children awak, they sang together, "There is a Happy Land," and the little boy said, "Mamma, did you hear that?" "Yes! "I sang alto and sister sang why?"

When a Judge passed sentence of death upon a convicted prisoner, the incorrigible criminal nonchalantly remarked, "All right old fellow.— Nature's done the same for you. It's merely a question of time. Goodbye; I shall expect you along soon!"

A Michigander presented him-self to the sheriff, weeping, and said he could not tell a lie; he killed his wife and child with his little hatchet. The sheriff told him he was too good to live much longer, and the chances are that he will not.

Sheridan's solicitor, calling one day, found his wife alone and walking about in a state of violent excitement. He asked what was the matter. Her only reply was that "her husban i was a villain." After some time she added, with some hesitation, "Why, I have discovered that all the love letters he sent me were the very same as those he sent to his first wife."

A countryman came to one of our hotels and wrote after his name: "P. O. P. S. F. C." Here was a title which none but himself understood. 'Pray, my dear sir," asked the barkeeper, "what do all these letters stand for ?" "Stand for! Why, that's my title," "Yes, sir, but what is your title?" "Why, sir, Professor of Psalmody and Schoolmaster from Connecticut."

An old lady as far down the decline of life as 79, like people generally about her age, was constantly worrying about something or other. She lost her spectacles on one occasion. These were replaced by a new pair, out of which one of the glasses soon followed the former missing pair. while the latter were being repaired, the other pair were found. Finally both pair came home, and her indulgent son on the same day presented her with a pair of gold bows. On receiving the whole three pairs of specs in good-looking order, the old lady in a subdued voice exclaimed, with a long drawn sigh, "Oh, dear, what have I got to worry about now?"

A prison chaplain was lamenting the want of success attending his ministry. Of one man, who had been condemned to death, he said he had great hopes, the prisoner having been most assiduous in the study of a Bible he had given him. The chaplain after great exertion, obtained a commutation of the sentence. "I called to inform him of my success. His grati-tude knew no bounds; he said I was his preserver, his deliverer. 'And here,' he added, as he grasped my hand in parting, 'here is your Bible. I may as well return it to you, for I hope that I shall never want it again.'"

A Connecticut lady who could not persuade her husband to get her a patent clothes-dryer, took the pole out from her old-fashioned line the other evening, and crouching down by the fence screamed "murder!" In an instant her lord came flying out of the house, was caught across the throat by the clothes line, and before he could recover himself it had nearly sawed his head off. The next morning a sombre looking chap, with his neck all done up, was seen putting up a patent clothes-dryer in that yard.

A man from one of the rural districts recently went to Washington te see the sights. A member of the House, whose constituent, he was, said: "Come up to-morrow, and I will give you a seat on the floor of the House." "No, you don't!" replied Jonathan; "I always manage to have a cheer to set on at home, and I bet I hain't come to Wash'n'ton to set on the floor! Injuns may do that when they come, if they like, but I, that am civilized, don't do it,' Impressions. The coming and going of the thoughts of the mind, the mysterious manner in which they sometimes break in upon us, fill us with inquiring wonder. But when we ascend to the spiritual, how greatly is that wonder increased; "Often deep spiritual impressions come most unexpectedly: It is night, the trials of the day are over, and the man has retired to rest. All is dark, lonely, and silent around him; the doors are fastened, and, with conscious security he sinks into repose. But, see a vision approaches; it halts right before his eyes; it illumines midnight with its brightness; use; and every family should have them on band for their protection and relief, when required. Long experience has proved them to be the safest, surest, and best of all the PUIs with which the market abounds. By their occasional use, the blood is purified, the corruptions of the system expelled, obstructions removed, and the whole machinery of life restored to its healthy activity. Internal organs which become clogged and sluggish are cleaned by Ayer's PIUs, and stimulated into action. Thus inciplent disease is changed into health, the value of which change, when reckoned on the vast multitudes, who enjoy it, can hardly be computed. Their sugar coating makes them pleasant to take, and preserves their virtues unimpaired for any length of time, so that they are ever fresh, and perfectly reliable, Although searching, they are mild, and opening without disturbance to the constitution, or dict or occupation.
