Tattlers.

Every community is cursed by the presence of a class of people who make it their business to attend to everybody's affairs but their own. Such people are the poorest specimens of humanity which exist upon this blighted earth. It is well known that almost every person is sometimes disposed to speak evil of others, and tattling is a sin from which very few can claim to be entirely exempt. But the object of this present article is to speak of that distinct class of tattlers who make tale-bearing the constant business of their lives. They pry into the private affairs of every family in the neighborhood; they know the exact feelings of one neighbor toward another; they understand everybody's faults, and no little blunder, no misdemeanor ever escapes their watchfulness. They are well posted upon everything connected with courtship and matrimony, and know who are going to marry whom, and can guess the exact time by every movement of the parties suspected of matrimonial intentions, and, if there is the slightest chance to make a disturbance, excite jealousy, or "break up" a match, they take advantage of it and do all in their power to keep people in a state of constant vexation. They glide quietly from gentleman to lady, from mother to daughter, from father to son, and in the ears of all they pour their bitter whispers of slander and abuse, and, at the same time, pretend to be the most sincere friends to the one they are talking to. Their nauseous pills of slander are sugar-coated

- Tattlers are confined to no particular class, and they operate in all. We find them among the rich and poorthe "upper ten" and the "lower million," in the church and out of it. They are people who have no higher ambition than to be well informed in regard to other people's private business, to retail scandal to their neighbors, and to exult in fiendish triumph over the wounded feelings and bruised

When I used to tend store at Syracuse, the old man came around one day, and says he: "Boys, the one that sells the most between now and Christmas gets a vest pattern as a present." May be we did not work for that vest pattern! I tell you there were some tall stories told in praise of goods just about that time; but the tallest talker, and the one that had the most cheek of any of us, was a certain Jonah Squires, who roomed with me. He could take a dollar out of a man's pocket when he only intended to spend a sixpense; and the women, Lord bless you, they just handed over their pocket-books to him, and let him lav out what he liked for them. One night Jonah woke up with, "By Jo, old fellow; if you think that ere's gct cotton in it, I'll bring down the sheep that it was cut from, and make him own his own wool. 'Twont wear out, either: I wore a pair of pants of that stuff for five years, and they are as good now as when I first put them on. Take it at thirty cents and I'll say you don't owe me anything. Eh, too dear? Well call it twenty-eight cents. What d've say? Shall I tear it? All right, it's a bargain.'' I could feel Jonah's hand playing about the bed clothes for an instant, then rip, tear went something or other, and I hid my head under the blankets, perfectly convulsed with laughter, and sure that Jonah had torn the best sheet from top to bottom. When I awoke the next morning I found that the back of my

George Halstead's thoughts went swiftly back through the last five weeks, and he told himself, bitterly, that he had cared for her in her selftorture about as a cross bear might have done. "Come and sit by me, Emma."
"Yes, if you will promise not to look at me. But I want to look at you, in your man up stairs, who had been searcheyes, at least." She did as requested, but with the ing in vain for the missing garments. Worthy of her sacred love. Somnambulism in Steubenville. On Thursday night a singular case of somnambulism occurred in this city, the victim being a young lady of eighteen, of good family and preposessing appearance. She had the habit of getting up in her sleep and going about the house at night after all had retired, always returning to her room, however, without disturbing the family. On the evening mentioned the fair sleep-walker arose about midnight, and with lighted lamp commenced to explore the house. In one room was a young man, a friend of her father's, who had arrived that evening, and among the chambers visited was his apartment. The door leading into the room being unlocked, the unconscious young lady, with a lamp in her hand, entered the room, and while the visitor was in the arms of Morpheus, gathered his clothes, coat, pants, vest and boots, even to hale as soon as I-allowed the first one his hat-not leaving a garment to to be drawn. This decided me, and I clothe his frame, and deposited them determined to have them removed all in the kitchen, turning the dishpan over the duds. Her father, hearing the noise made by handling the pan, discovered the somnambulist and witnessed the singular proceeding, and without being detected, followed the sleeping girl back to her room, saw her put out the light, lock the door and retire. Comprehending the situation at once, he, without notifying his wife, went to bed. The young man was called to breakfast next morning. He answered the summons from the closed door, but the family waited until the breakfast got cold, impatient at the length of time it took the young man to make his toilet. Mr. - enjoyed the joke, and seeing the unconscious cause quietly seated in the dining room, could keep in no longer. Going into the kitchen he lifted up the dish-pan and exhibited the wardrobe of the tardy guest. It is unnecessary to say that an explanation had to he made to the clotheless young

"Well, to make my little girl happy, I'll say a year." "Oh! that would be nice! But wouldn't it be about as easy to say always? Then we would have money every year, and your lips would be so mush sweeter when you kiss me."

Good Nature Analyzed.

There be many persons who suppose that good nature is kindness. It has not one attribute of it, necessarily. Half the time good nature is good digestion, that is all. Half the time good nature is nerves well sheathed in adipose matter. Many men do not feel, and are not irritated; and why should they not be kind and easy-going? Why, I can show you hundreds of sweet-cheeked, sunny-faced, plumpbodied men who go through the world kindly. I do not undervalue them. east of Pineville, McDonald County; the entrance is on Sugar Creek, in a ravine bearing the suggestive title of "Bar Hollar." You make your entrance into the bowels of the earth through a volcanic fissure seven feet wide by twenty feet in length, you soon lose sight of daylight and find yourself in a long entrance hall fully one hundred yards in length, which terminates in the bat room, so named by the explorers from the thousands of bats that swarmed within its dark and hidden recesses; they flew about in swarms, making a terrible noise in the arched roof above. This room has three sides, each with an aperture opening into smaller caverns or side rooms. The dimensions of the room were taken by Mr. Carpenter, and found to be 50x130 feet, the ceiling about twenty feet above the floor. Passing from this room, a walk of about 400 yards, through a spacious hall, and we find ourselves in Barnum's Museum, so-called from the number of strangely-shaped stalactites found there. This room is in the shape of a horse-shoe. Nature most certainly intended this room for a church, since the roof is arched in purely gothic style, with dome and columns, and to finish off and make it complete, a pulpit in the centre. The walls of this magnificent cavern are 100 feet high, but one of the most remarkable features about it is a fountain of pure water four feet in diameter. Turning northward we find a room sixty feet wide, and filled almost full of a glistening formations of stalactites, which hangin curiously formed pendants from the roof. To the south of this is a room which should be named the bottomless pit, since it apparently has neither bottom, sides nor roof. darkness within this place is appalling. a number of passages leading off in various directions, none of which have been explored. Proceeding on their way, the explorers found a river of running water, coming no one knows from where. It is about fifty feet wide and three feet deep. The party followed its course down stream to the falls, where the water goes roaring over a precipice into the darkness below. The party retraced their way to the Mammoth Hall, crossed the river, and proceeded on their way. They passed room after room of endless shapes and full of natural curiosities. Miles of caverns were passed through, each having outlets in others and all dark, but all full of beauty when lighted up with torches or lamps. A lake of pure water was soon reached, which was at first supposed to be a river. Here a rude boat or dug-out had been brought by a fugitive during the late war. He had explored the lake during the war, and went north-ward until he thought he was coming to a waterfall, when he returned. Further explorations on the lake developed the fact that the noise was made by a huge waterfall, where the water came pouring from above. The water falls a distance of 60 feet. The lake is circular in shape, and has no visible outlet for water. It is about one hundred acres in extent. There were eight or ten dark passages found upon the banks of the lake, leading in all directions, but the guide accompanying the exploring party lost his courage and refused to go further. The party were then about eight or ten miles from their starting point. They were in the cave forty-three hours. Mr. Carpenter says that there is another entrance to the cave thirty

It is said to be a difficult thing for woman to get ready to go anywhere. And yet there is nothing she dislikes more than an intimation that she may possibly miss the train. PHURSDAY MORNING, DEC. 21, 1871. RETRENCHMENT AND INVESTIGA-

The action of the Senate in defeat ing the motion of Senator Trumbull to have a Committee appointed to investigate every department of the civil service of the covernment, with a view of devising measures of reform and retrenchment, and that it should be clothed with plenary powers, so as to ricke such an examination more than a superficial and formal performance, is meeting with much condemnation. A Committee of Investigation was, Lowever, appointed to take cognizance of all such matters of investigation as the Senate might refer thereto, the same as any other Senate Committee. We are sorry, however, that Senator Trumbull's latitude was not given to the Committee, not because we believe the Administration guilty, or the civil service worse than any former Administration, but because we do believe the Administration as honest, and the civil service as well conducted and as capable of a rigid investigation as any preceding Administration. We are sorry, because the opposition, by Republican Senators, to Trumbull's extensive powers to be given the Committee, has been tortured by the opposition to the Administration into a seeming acknowledgement that it will not bear investigation. This, undoubtedly, is the very result that those favoring Trumbull's Committee knew would follow the rejection of his plan, and the acceptance of the one adopted. True, there were good arguments urged against the Trumbull Investigation Committee as to its wide latitude, its expensiveness and slowness, but we have serious impressions that the day is already passed, in American history, when the civil service can be maintained in purity, without some such Committee to look

There never was a time in the history of our nation when public feeling ran so high on the question of political honesty, and a demand for a scrupulous investigation into every measure of public interest, and searching out and exposing everything that may savor of corruption. The Republican party claims to make no attempt to conceal, palliate or deny anything that it has done, and has always courted the most thorough and rigid investigation into its public acts, believing that "its strength resides largely in the fact that it is able and willing to purify and purge itself." Vigilant in detecting and exposing the corruptions of its antagonists, with an assurance that the beam was first out of its own eye, the Republican party has lately taken a wider and deeper hold on the confidence of the people who rallied to its support at the recent elections. It is not now going to confess that it has been guilty of frauds and corruptions by refusing to permit a most rigid scrutiny into its past record. This party that has been so active and efficient in exposing corruptions will not now refuse to subject itself to the same test it has applied to others. The party whose watchword is "Reform" will never be thus represented and a lie given to its pretentions.

Matters have recently come to light which show that an investigation into the different departments of our civil service would be wise and expedient. The recent defalcations of Postmaster Hodge in nearly one-half million of the public funds, causes every one to enquire, how is it possible that he could do this amount of stealing? The people have a right to know whose fault it was that he had this opportunity offered him, and what changes in the law or regulations are necessary to protect the people against such frauds in the future. Then take the case of Thomas Callender, Bank Examiner in New York city. It seems that this rascal has concealed the condition of worthless banking institutions in New York City, which it was his duty to expose, in consideration of their lending him large sums of money. In this way the Government has been cheated out of millions of money. We have reasons to presume that there are other rascals—some already detected, others of whom there are, as yet, no suspicions, who have perpetrated kindred robberies.

It has been wisely said that the truth of any party in power is not half so damaging to it as the suspicions of its adversaries. Let the Republican party then be the first to overtake these rascals and bring them to justice. If everything that has been done wrong is ferreted out and proper remedies proposed to prevent their recurrence in the future, such a course could result in no damage to the party, but would be applauded by every honest, upright citizen. No party can live that will not make a clean breast of all of its proceedings, and that possesses within itself the means to purge and purify itself from all species of dishonesty and corruption. Had the Democratic party of New York last winter been able and willing to "purge" and "purify" itself it would not now be prostrate and hopeless. No party was more strongly entrenched in power. Yet in a few months we see its strength transformed to weakness, and its glory depart forever. This was caused, not so much from opposition without as from corruption within. Shall the Republican party heed the lesson?

Let there be no reluctance and unwillingness on the part of Congress to cause an examination and inspection into the workings of the Administration, as such unwillingness will arouse the suspicions of the public that there "is something rotten in Denmark," and the greater the oppo- insurrectionary State during the war sition manifested to such a thorough investigation, the more emphatic and earnestly will the public demand it. We trust then that Congress will yet adopt some measure, before its adjournment, similar to that contained in the motion of Senator Trumbull. If something be not done, it will, doubtless, result in great damage to that party whose record, thus far, has withstood the test of the severest scrutiny.

GENERAL AMNESTY.

The Berrien County Record The time has arrived when a general amnesty is recommended on grounds that are regarded by many of our wisest statesmen to be sufficient to secure such a measure.

Many of the leaders in the late Rebellion have not been dealt with as the high crime which they commended would fully justify, but under the present circumstances there is hardly any one who will not now favor a sweeping clause that will banish forever all pretence for further agitation on this subject. It would be very difficult to discriminate fairly and justly in any plan of amnesty. If any exceptions were made they would likely be Jefferson Davis and some of the leading officers in the Confederate army. There are thousands of others who were effective disunionists and who are just as guilty as they. If a partial amnesty be adopted as a security to the government, then it should include every man who went into the southern army, and many people now in the north, who are equally disabled from holding office on account of their disloyalty and hatred to our Government. We have no reason to-day to fear Jefferson Davis any more than Andrew Johnson, and many others whom we could mention.

If partial amnesty then be imposed merely as a stigma, we say that the men who have shown their disloyalty, have been spotted, and spotted for all coming time. Public opinion has fixed an odium upon those arch traitors that they will never out-live. The very ones who would be excepted in a partial amnesty, are those whose disloyalty is so notorious that they are less to be feared than many others whose purposes are just as wicked, but whose positions have rendered them less distinguished. Therefore, we advise universal amnesty.

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

It is singular that the late critical condition of the Prince of Wales did not seem to elicit more anxiety and uneasiness in regard to the course the Government will pursue in the event of the death of the Heir Apparent. The criticisms which were directed at the Prince in regard to his mental ability and moral habits have doubtless a foundation, in fact, and it is not certain if he should live, as now seems beyond a doubt, and in a few years hence the question come up before the public of intrusting the guardianship of the royal orphans, and the charge of the crown to this young gentleman in accordance with former traditions, or to arrange the matter in some way more suited to modern times that the course would be taken that would follow established presidents. We see to-day the beginning of on agitation that threatens to shake the Constitution to its foundation. If in its progress the throne should become vacant, it is difficult to tell whether the public would favor a long regency or a change of the succession. The dynasty principle is losing ground in England, and the death of Albert Edward, at the present time, would give additional uncertainties to the problems of the future.

PRESIDENTIAL.

We take the following from the Detroit Advertiser and Tribune. If the Allegan Journal or any other paper favors any person as a candidate for President in 1872, it has the unquestionable right to publish the fact. but it has no right to speak for the whole State of Michigan this early in the season: "The Allegan Journal having complacently assumed 'that it is indefinitely ascertained who is the choice of the Republican party of Michigan for the next Presidency, and that there is no opposition to Gen. Grant, the Marshall Statesman administers a very thorough castigation to the impudence that speaks thus authoritatively in the absence of any expression on the part of any Republican convention of any sort, and when two-thirds of the Republican papers of the State have expressed no preference whatever. The Statesman proposes to discuss this very important question, taking into comsideration questions of public policy and the merits of other tried and trusted Republican leaders, and arrive at an intelligent conclusion, and not take a ready-made article."

San Francisco, Dec. 17.—Authentive advices from Yeddo, received just as the steamer sailed, say the Embassy which sails from Yokahama to-day, due here January 18, to be the most important that ever left the Oriental nation for America or Europe. It is sent out by order of the Japanese Parliament and Yeddo, that the ruling classes may study for themselves Western civilization, and not depend on reports of inferiors as hitherto. It is said that there will be Jowkura, late Minister of foreign Affairs, the new Prince Minister, assisted by Kido, chief of the Emperor's Privy Council, who, with the Chief Minister of Public Works. Chief Minister of Finance, and Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs, compose the Embassy proper. These will be accompanied by eight secretaries, twenty-one officers of the second rank, and twenty-one young noblemen traveling for information. They will proceed to Washington overland, visit the principal cities of America, thence to Europe, and around the world. Minister DeLong will accompany them to Washington. Charles Walcott Brooks, the Japanese Consul at San Francisco, will accompany them around the world. All the officials will retain their positions while absent from the empire.

ounty Record, Buchanan, Michigan, Thursday, The New York Tribune for 1872.

The consolidation of Italy, so long fragmentary and impotent, into one powerful State, with Rome as its capital; the humiliation of with Rome as its capital; the humiliation of France through a series of crushing defeats, ending with the siege and capitulation of her proud and gay metropolis; the expulsion of the Bourbons from the Spanish throne, and the substitution for them of a scion of the most liberal among royal houses; the virtual absorption of the kingdoms of Saxony, Wurtemberg, Bayaria, with Baden, Hesse, the Hanse Towns, ac, under the headship of Prussia, into the riumphant and powerful empire of Germany and the arming of Russia to reassert her pre prosecute her often postponed but never relin quished designs on the great city founded by Constantine and the vast but decaying and auarchical dominion of the Sultan, all combine to invest with profound interest the ever-changing phases of our tidings from the Old World. The TRIBUNE, through trusted correspondents sta-tioned at all points in Europe where great movements are in progress or imminent, aims to present a complete and instructive panorama of events on that continent, and to mirror the prolonged struggle between middle-age Feudulism and Ecclesiasticism on the one hand and Ninetcenth-Century skepticism and secularism on the other. Recognizing a Divine Providence in all that proceeds and is, it looks hopefully on the great conflict as destined (like our own recent convulsion) to evolve from strife, disaster, and seeming chaos, a fairer and hap-pier future for the toiling masses of mankind. In our own country, a war upon corruption rascality in office has been inaugurated in our Oity, whereby the government of our State has been revolutionized through an initial triumph of Reform which surpasses the most sanguine anticipations. It is morally certain that the movement thus inaugurated cannot, in its progress, be circumsoribed to any locality or party, but that its purifying influence is destined to be felt in every part of the Union, rebuking venality, exposing robbery, wresting power from politicians by trade, and confiding it in those worthiest and fittest to wield it. To this benificent and vitally needed Reform, THE TRIBUNE will devote its best energies, re-gardless of personal interests or party predilections, esteeming the choice of honest and faithful men to office as of all New Departures the most essential and auspicious.

The virtual surrender by the Democratic party of its hostility to Equal Rights regardless of Color, has divested our current politics of half their bygone intensity. However parties may henceforth rise or fall, it is clear that the fundamental principles which have hitherto hon-orably distinguished the Republicans are henceforth to be regarded as practically accepted by the whole country. The right of every man to his own limbs and sinews—the equality of all citizens before the law—the inability of a State to enslave any portion of its people-the duty of the Union to guarantee to every citizen the full enjoyment of his liberty until he forfeits it by crime—such are the broad and firm foundations of our National edifice; and palsied be the hand which shall seek to displace them I Though not yet twenty years old the Republican party has completed the noble fabric of emancipation, and may fairly invoke thereon the sternest judgment of Man and the benignant smile of God.

Henceforth, the mission of our Republic is one of Peaceful Progress. To protect the weak and the humble from violence and oppression-to extend the boundaries and diffuse the blessings of Civilization-to stimulate Ingenuity to the production of new inventions for economizing Labor and thus enlarging Production—to draw nearer to each other the producers of Food and of Fabrics, of Grains and of Metals, and thus enhance the gains of Industry by reducing the cost of transportation and exchanges between farmers and artisanssuch is the inspiring task to which this Nation now addresses itself, and by which it would fain contribute to the progress, enlightenment, and happiness of our race. To this great and good work, The Tribune contributes its zealous, permistent efforts.

Agriculture will continue to be more especially elucidated in its Weekly and Semi-Weekly editions, to which some of the ablest and most successful tillers of the soil will steadily contribute. No farmer who sells $300 worth Thursday morning of last week of produce per annum can afford to do without our Market Reports, or others equally lucid and comprehensive. If he should read nothing corinth (Codey's Mills) was entirely rewards we believe that no farmer who can read at all can afford to do without such a journal as THE TRIBUNE. And we aspire to make it equally valuable to those engaged in other departments of Productive Labor. We spend more and more money on our columns each year, as our countrymen's generous patronage enables us to do; and we are resolved that our issues of former years shall be exceeded in varied excellence and interest by those of 1872. Friends in every State! help us to make our journal better and better, by sending in your subscriptions and increasing your Clubs for the year just before us!

PROSPECTUS FOR 1872.

FIFTH YEAR. A. Representative and Champion of American Art.

THE ALDINE:

An Illustrated Monthly Journal slatmed to be the hand som est Paper in the World. "Give my love to the artist workmen of THE ALDINE who are striving to make their profession worthy of admiration for beauty, at it has always been for usefulness."

—Henry Ward Becoter.

THE ALDINE is a unique and original conception—since a unique and original conception—since a unique and original conception—since and unanappropriate and property without convection.

alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of the volume just completed cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes The labor of getting THE ALDINE ready on the press is so great that reprinting is out of the question. With the exception of a small number specially reserved for binding, the edition of 1871 is already exhausted, and it is new a scarce as well as valuable book.

NEW FEATURES FOR 1872.

NEW FEATURES FOR 1872.

ART DEPARTMENT.

The enthusiastic support so readily accorded to their exterprise, whorever it has been introduced, has convinced the publishers of THE ALDINE of the soundness of their theory that the American public would recognize and heartily support any sincerce effort to elevate the tone and standard of illustrated publications. As a guarantee of the excellence of this department, the publishers would beg to announce during the coming year, specimens from the following eminent American artists.

W.T. Richards, Granville Perkins, James Smiley, Wm. Hart, F. O. O. Darley, R. E. Piguet, Wm. Beard, Victor Nehlig, Frank Beard, George Smiley, Wm. H. Wilcox, Paul Dixon, Aug. Will, James H. Beard, J. Hows.

It is the determination of the publishers that THE ALDINE shall be a successful vindication of American tests in sempolition with any existing publication in the world.

Literary Department.

Literary Department. . The editorial management of THE ALDINE has been intrusted to Ma. RIOHARD HENRY STODDARD, who has received assurances of assistance from a host of the most popular writers and poots of the country.

THE VOLUME FOR 1872

will contain nearly 200 pages, and about 250 fine engravings. Commending with the number for January, every third number will contain a beautiful tinted picture on plate paper, inserted as a frontispiece.

The Ohristman number for 1872, will be a splendid volume in itself, containing fifty engravings, (four in tint) and, although retailed at $1, will be sent without extra charge to all yearly subscribers.

A Chromo to Every Subscriber

Was a very popular feature last year, and will be repeated with the present volume. The publishers have purchased and reproduced, at great expense, the beautiful oil painting by $ns. satisfied "Dame Natures's School." The chromo is 11x13 inches, and is an exact fac-simile, in size and appearance, of the original picture. No American chromo, which will at all compare with it, has yet been offered a tretail for less than the price asked for THE ALDINE and it together. It will be delivered free, with the January number, to every subscriber who pays for year in advance." TERMS FOR 1872.

UNIVERSITY OF N. C., CHAPEL HILL, Nov. 10, 1881.

MESARS. G. & C. MERRIAM:—

DEAR SIRS:—I have taken great pleasure in the examination of your new illustrated edition of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary. I consider it as superior to anything of its kind heretofore published.

The Etymologies exhibit the greatest care, research and accuracy. The citations of illustrative passages, and the pictorial illustrations with which it abounds, also greatly add to its interest. The improvements in the matter of synonyms, with the almost saultless definitions, orthography and promunciation, and the numerous additions in the body of the work, render it a production of the trarest excellence and an invaluable aid to every student of the English language. No student or literary man in our country, at the present day, can afford to be without a copy.

Yours very respectfully, on the Michigan Central, on Friday morning of last week, about 10 A. M.. and four engines and about fifteen cars were wrecked. The trains were the way freight east, and the Michigan City freight west. The collision was caused by criminal negligence of the person in charge of the train east having disobeyed his orders to wait at New Buffalo. Charles Young, the engineer on the "Bloomingdale," was killed, and his body consumed with the wreck, which caught fire. Watson, engineer of the "Tradewind," and Neal, of the "Racer," were injured, but not seriously. The engineer of the "Porpoise" escaped unharmed. Four of the persons on the train were seriously injured, and were taken to Three Oaks, and physicians from Michigan City and Niles sent for immediately. Three of the unfortunates were sent in the evening to their homes at Marshal, and one was left at Three Oaks, the physicians thinking it unsafe to move him. His condition is very critical. We were in Three Oaks when the news of the collision reached the village, and lost no opportunity in going to the place of the accident, which occurred 43 miles west of Three Oaks, 65 rods west of the bridge. The engines and cars were piled up in a pyramid, and we could hardly distinguish one from the other. The trains came together with such force that the entire mass was one promiscuous pile of fragments and splinters. The train coming east was not loaded, and was running at a rate of about ten miles an hour. The western bound train consisted of 45 cars heavily loaded, and running down a steep grade at the rate of 20 miles an hour. There is a sharp curve in the road at the place where the accident occurred, and the engines did not have time to whistle down brakes when in sight of each other. Some of the cars were loaded with lard, and that with the kerosene and oil, made a very hot fire. A fire engine was soon on the ground from Michigan City, but could not control the flames. The destruction of property was fearful. The "Bloomingdale" was considered the largest and most powerful engine on the road. We have seen no estimate of the loss, but it must have been nearly $150,000. It is the biggest smash up that has happened on the road for years. Accident.-On Wednesday afternoon of last week, Mortimer Howlett, a conductor on the Middle Division of the Central Railroad, had his left hand badly smashed while engaged in coup-

Explanation.

Luther & Son are now selling the Chicago Tribune in addition to their former list, and a ticket in the drawing. The reason why we have issued numbers above 37,000 is that we cannot save all of our tickets, some agents will burn or destroy them, others will not sell or return them, but the number to be sold is limited to 37,000, and it should make no difference to the ticket holder what number he has so long as he has a duplicate in the wheel, and there is not over the proper number of tickets in the wheel, and this matter the Committee will see to at the time of drawing.

[From the Editor Waupun, (Wis.) Times.] Dr. V. Clarence Price, the noted ana lytical physician, who has made regular visits to this place for the last twelve years, is so well known that his name has become as familiar as a household word to our readers. Some raise the objection that he is a traveling physician, but it is hardly just to call him such. It is true he does not remain at his home, in Waukegan, all the time, but it is because he makes chronic diseases a speciality, and there is not sufficient practice at one place to furnish him employment, so he has established offices at various places, which he visits with never-failing regularity. We have been asked, "do you think Dr. Price can do me any good ?" and we have replied, and would say to all afflicted with the diseases he treats, that we think he can, and if he does not think so he will tell you honestly and candidly. On Sunday and Monday the 7th and 5th January, Dr. Price will be at Niles, Reading House, in person. Laporte, Merrill House, 24th and 25th December.

Four Evils.—Whoever habitually uses any alcoholic preparations as an "appetizer" will be likely to suffer from four evils, viz: an overplus of food in the stomach, impaired ability to digest it, the pangs of dyspepsia, and a doctor's bill. Dr. Walkers's Vegerable Vinedar Bitters the great Testotal Restorative of the ago, without over stimulating the palate or irritating the stomach, imparts a healthful appetite, promotes digestion, regulates the liver and bowels, purifies the blood, and thus, instead of entailing four evils, confers four inestimable benefits.

It is said that if a pull of air were to be blown into a voin of an animal, death would instantaneously follow, because eliculation would be stopped. The blood makes the entire circuit of the human body every seven minutes, and whenever this circulation is impeded or any of its channels are clogged by impurities which ought to be carried off, disease follows—fever or a disorder of liver or kidneys, or sorofula, or dyspepsia. To get at and remove the source of the difficulty, use the old and infallible blood puriser, Dr. Walker's California Yinggar Bitters.

To any person producing any Medicine able to show one-third as many living, permanent cures as Dr. Fitter's Yegetable Rheumatic library and a further reward of $100 for any case of Chronic or Inflammatory Rheumatism, Neuralgia Rheumatic Ague, Sciatica, and Rheumatism of the Richays it will not cure. This Rheumatic syrup is used inwardly only, pleasant to the taste, and guaranteed free from injurious Drugs. It is not a Quack Medicine, but the scientific prescription of Jos. P. Fifter, M. D., Professor of Toxicology and Chemistry, graduate of the celebrated University of Pennsylvania, A. D. 1833, whose entire professional life has been devoted specially to this disease. This preparation under solemn oath is conscientiously believed to be the only positive, reliable, infallible specific ever discovered. The proof that no other specific exists is found in every community in persons afflicted for many years past and still suffering. If physicians could cure it, if a specific did exist, this would not be so,—a fact that must be universally admitted. The oft deceived sufferer may wisely ask, what security or evidence has he that Dr. Fitler's Rheumatic Syrup will cure his case. The protection offered to patients against imposition is in a legally signed contrant which will be forwarded without charge to any sufferer sending by letter a description of affliction; this guarantee will state the exact number of bottles warranted to cure, and in case of failure the money paid will be returned to the patient. No other remedy has ever been offered on such liberal and honorable terms. Medical advice, with certificates from prominent Physicians, Clergymen, &c., who have been cured after all other treatments failed, sent by letter, gratis. Afflicted cordially invited to write for advice to the principal office, 45 South Fourth street, Philadelphia, Pa. Dr. Fitler's Rheumatic Syrup is sold by Druggists.

Written for the Berrien County Record, OVER THE MOUNTAINS.

BY REV. A. M. COLLINS. Over the mountains beyond the plane, There is a real of beauty so fair, That they need not the sun's bright flame, For the face of the Saviour is there,

Over the mountains so steep and high, Beyond the valley of grief, There's a place where the saints never sigh; 'Fis the land of blessed relief.

Over the mountains so cold and chill, Which lie in the rath of the good, There's a place whese beauties shall thrill The hearts of the children of God. Over the mountains so dreary and sad, That encompass the valley of life, There's a place where the saints shall be glad, When freed from this wearysome strife.

Over these mountains we surely must go, To enter that land of delight; Then shall our spirits with rapture o'erflow, While we gaze with cestatic delight.

Sunday Religion.

Men-write on their store door, "Businessis business," and over the Church door, "Religion is religion;" and they say to religion, "Never come in here," and to business, "Never go in there." Let us have no secular things in the pulpit. They say we get enough of them through the week. Here we want repose, and sedatives and healing balms; we want to hear of heaven and Calvary, sing the hymns of Zion. In short, we want the pure Gospel, without any worldly intermixture. And so they wish to spend a quiet, pious Sabbath, full of pleasant imagining and peaceful reflections; but when the day is gone all is laid aside. They will take by the throat the first debtor they meet and exclaim, "Pay me what

It is Monday. God's law is not permitted to go into the week. If a merchant spies it in his store, he throws it over the counter. If the clerk sees it in the bank, he kicks it out of the door. If it is found in the street the multitude pursue it, peltinge It with stones, as if it were a wolf escaping from a menagarie, and shouting, "Back with you, you have got out of Sun-

When Thou Prayest.

Spread all thy sins and thy folly be-fore God, and humbly invite the scrutiny of his eye, and the bestowment of grace according to his knowledge of thy deep and manifold corruptions. De not afraid, O thou timid, unbelieving soul, to stretch out thy desire for vast blessings. Thou needest them; he has faithfully promised them. Grapple resolutely with his everlasting promises, and fix thy steadfast gaze on thy compassionate Redeemer, through whose merits an ample avenue has been open for the bestowment of grace beyond all thou canst ask or think. Northink selfishly, O, my soul, that the hedges of thy prosperity will be broken down by overleaping in thy pleadings thy own particular and necessitous easo. Thou art doing well for thyself when thou takest into thy bosom the necessities of sinners all around thee, -the necessities of God's precious Zion. Hark! it is thy Lord that speaks:- "Pray for the peace of Jerusalem: they shall prosper that love thee.—C. D. Mallary.

Cheerfulnese. One has thought deeply and well upon the sources of human happiness, says there is no greater every day virtue than cheerfulness. This quality of man among men, is like sunshine to the day, or gentle, renewing moist-ure on parched herbs. The light of a cheerful race diffuses itself, and com-municates, the happy spirit that in-spires its. The sourcest temper must sweeten in the atmosphere of continuous good humor. As well might fog, and cloud, and vapor, hope to cling to the sun illumined landscape, as the blues and moroseness to combat jovial speech and exhilerating laughter. Be cheerful, always. There is no path but will be easier traveled, no load but will be lighter, no shadow on heart or brain but will lift in presence of a determined cheerfulness.

All Beauty is of God.

The Golden Gates of Day opening on the balmy East; The Nights pale Regent, and the countless stars; the fruits of the earth, the flowers of the field; the valley, the mountain, the streamlet and the ocean love the truth of God, for they are beautiful in their purity and immutability! Music is of God, for to its sacred voice sang the Morning Stars when they hymned his glory and his praise! Wisdom is of God, for it is beauty intellectual; and Virtue, for it is beauty moral. Penitence is of God, for it is the portal of heaven! Conscience, the soul's monitor; Sorrow, its chastener; Hope, its comforter, and Peace, its reward, are of God, for they are beautiful in their fidelity, patience, constancy, and celestial quictude! Justice and Mercy are of God, for they are the Beauty of Holiness, is of God Himself in his

What a reproof in these words! Will not all the little boys and girls think of that when they are tempted to take what is not theirs? Remember although your father and mother may not see you, God sees you.

A True Christian. The true Christian is like the living spring which is not impoverished by sending forth its grateful waters. He is not afraid to freely bestow of that which he has freely received, and the more he gives, the more abundantly does God supply him; but there are too many like stagnant pools, withholding that which tends to poverty. Like the servant with one talent, they, are, afraid to use their possessions for God's glory.

The testimony of our best citizens, of all classes, establishes the fact, that Chirary Pecconat will and does relieve and cure the afflicting disorders of the Throat and Eurgs beyond any other medicine. The most dangerous affections of the Pulmonary Organs yield to its power; and cases of Consumption, cured by this preparation, are publicly known, so remarkable as hardly to be believed, were they not proven beyond dispute. As a remedy it is adequate, on which the public may rely for full protection: By curing Conglis, the forerunners of more serious disease, it saves unnumbered lives, and an amount of suffering not to be computed. It challenges trial, and couvinces, the most sceptical Every family should keep it on hand as a protection against the early and unperceived attack of Pulmonary Affections, which are easily met at first, but which become incurable, and too often fatal, if neglected. Tender lungs need this defence; and it is unwise, to be without it. As a safeguard to children, amid the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of childhood, Citenary Pecconat, is invaluable; for, by its timely use, multitudes are rescued from premature graves, and saved to the love and affection centred on them. It acts speedily and surely against ordinary colds, securing sound and health-restoring sleep: No one will suffer troublesome Influenza and painful Bronchitis, when they know how easily they can be cured.

A Practical Lover. The effects of the Chicago fire are far-reaching. Even the love affairs of the Garden City have felt its baneful influence. Here is an incident, related by the Chicago Tribune:

"A gentleman on the West side last. evening undertook to visit his girl, but for the same reason—probably that the fire had materially changed his condition in life—she received and treated him coolly. He remained in the parlor a few moments, but finally moved toward the door, remarking that he guessed he would go.' 'Oh!' said she, starting from a beautiful state of unconsciousness, 'won't you take a chair?' 'Well, I don't care if I do,' was the reply, and he took the chair, thanking her kindly, and carried it home. He says it is a good chair, made of walnut, with stuffing and green cover—just what he wanted. But he is down on that girl, and de-clares that he wouldn't marry her not if her father owned a brewery."

In a case of assault and battery, where a stone had been thrown by the defendant, the following clear and conclusive evidence was drawn out of a Yorkshireman: "Did you see the defendant throw a stone?" "I saw a stone, and I's pretty sure the defendant throwed it." "Was the stone a large one?" "I should say it wur a largish stone." "What was its size?" "I should say a sizeable stone." "Can you answer definitely how large it was?" "I should say it were a stone of some bigness." "Can you give the jury some idea of the stone?" "Why, as near as I recollect, it was something of a stone." "Can't you compare it to some other object?" "Why, if I were to compare it, so as to give some notion of the stone, I should say it wur as large as a lump of chalk."

A certain gentleman, who was involved in domestic troubles, met with a genuine "Job's comforter" the other morning. Meeting an old friend who was a widower, he related his troubles to him, and told him he expected to be broken up, as his wife had commenced suit against him for the sum of three thousand dollars alimony. "Well," says the widower, "I'll wait and see how she comes out, and if she succeeds I'll go for her."

A VERY MEAN FELLOW.—The following advertisement appears in the Port Jervis Gazette:

JOHN STRADER wants four shirts made. Is willing to pay a reasonable price. Mrs. Strader has two in family besides herself, and says she has no time to make them. Address John STRADER, Port Jervis, November 21,

A learned clergyman was accosted in the following manner by an illiterate preacher who despised education: "Sir, you have been to college, I suppose?" "Yes sir," was the reply. "I am thankful," rejoined the former, "that the Lord opened my mouth without any learning." "A similar event," retorted the clergyman, "took place in Balam's time; but such things are rare occurrences at the present day."

A little Waterbury shaver was sitting near his mother, who was picking over raisins, when she was called out of the room, and as she left, said, "Now, sonny, don't touch any of these raisins when I am gone." Presently mother returned and inquired, "Well, Charlie, did you take my raisins?"
"No, mamma." "You know if you did, God saw you." "Yes, I know he did, but he won't tell." A little boy was being instructed in morals by his grandmather. The old lady told him that all such terms as "by golly," "by jingo," "by thunder," &c., were only little oaths, and but little better than other profanities. In fact, she said, he could tell a profane oath by the prefix "by." All such were oaths. "Well, then, grandmother," said the little hopeful, "is 'by telegraph' which I see in the news papers, swearing?" 'No," said the ld lady, "that is only lying," A cleanly-shaved gentleman inquired of a fair demoiselle, the other day, "whether or no she admired mustaches." "Oh," replied the charmer, with arch look, "I invariably set my face against them." Very shortly afterward his upper lip betrayed symptoms of careful cultivation.

A clergyman down East, opposed to the introduction of instrumental music in the church, but overruled by the congregation, gave; out the next Sunday morning at the commencement of the service, "we will now fidlle and sing the following hymn."

Rev. Moses Clampit, an eccentric preacher, was holding forth at Santa Clara Valley. A young man rose to go out, when the preacher said: "Young man, if you'd rather go to perdition than hear me preach, you may." The sinner stopped, and reflected a moment, then, saying, "Well, I believe I would," went off.

which . is: at once agreeable healthy, and effectual for preserving the restores .. faded. or gray, hair color, with the

and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application; and stimu-lated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the formation of dandruff, which is often so uncleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious, substances, which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable.
