much. For a whole month she lay between life and death, her husband tending her, and then once more she was able to walk. Piquillo had left the house on the night of his lady's attack.

Upon the very day that she was in the drawing-room for the first time after her illness she found a paper on the floor upon which these words were written:

"If you wish to see me alive come before midnight to the Villa Reale, or at that hour, in my despair I shall destroy myself. BASILA."

Can it be wondered at that Ethel showed that paper to the good doctor "Ha!" he said; "if she is here I can divine all."

"Take me to her," cried Ethel. "I will ask her, on my knees, to wait yet a little longer-implore her not to take him from me until I am dead." The doctor trembled, then said, 'We will go together to her-oh, we shall be early enough. She does not mean to kill herself; she only wants to frighten Trevillian." That same night, at ten, Basila was waving a couple of bank notes before her brother Piquillo's eyes. "See," she said, holding toward him a dagger, "half these notes are yours if you will kill her. The boat for Algera starts in an hour, and you will be safe from pursuit '' "Take the money away, Basila," he said.

"No-look at it! Half shall be yours for killing her." "Fool!" he cried, seizing the dagger, "why should I kill her, a good

"I thought it was my husband," she whispered to the doctor, as she knelt to pray for the dead woman.

The reader now knows all. The attempt to poison Ethel with arsenic by her rival had resulted in curing her; and her melancholy—the result of her belief that the would-be murderer was Sir Carolus himselfbeing removed by the proof of his innocence, her happiness was as secured as her life was safe. For her a new and joyous existence began. As for Piquillo, he anticipated the law by strangling himself while awaiting his trial.

Diseases of the Throat.

Hundreds throughout the country are suffering from various affections of the throat. Some are only disturbed during the changeable weather of winter and spring, while others are troubled, more or less, most of the time. In some instances an affection of the throat will exist for a long time without getting in upon the lungs. Notwithstanding the slow progress in some cases, I do not believe there is one case out of ten that will not, if left alone, gradually grow worse, eventually reach the lungs, and end in consumption After a disease of the throat has existed until the lungs have become implicated, and all the aggravating symptoms present, but few cases, with the most scientific treatment, can be saved, the restoration under such cirumstances, is in the nature of a miracle. As life is desirable, the importance of an early attention to the clear as usual, a slight irritation, or tick-less dryness, giving rise to a hacking, hemming, or an endeavor to clear the throat. On attempting to speak there will be an inability to produce a proper sound, until the throat has first been cleared.

Loud or long talking, or reading, produces cough, irritation, or dryness of the throat. In the first stages there is no ex-pectoration. Passing from a warm to a cold atmosphere, or room, produces diffisymptoms follow an exposure to dust or when walking against the wind. In cold or damp weather the symptoms are generally more aggravated, the person liable to take cold from the slightest exposure.

Sometimes the symptoms disappear entirely, but return again on contracting a cold.

It may thus go on disappearing and returning, the patient meanwhile being in comparatively comfortable health, until the disease has made considerable progress.

There is often a tired feeling about the throat towards evening. Sometimes the individual will be able to speak a sentence in an audible tone, while the next will be in a whisper, or the audible articulation may be cut off in the midst of a single word. When, however, it is entirely confined to the mucous follicles, without involving the muscular structure of the voice organs, the voice will be much less affected: most generally the muscular structure becomes involved and the voice is changed.

of wool was sticking in the throat, or an aching of the neck towards the ear. A

Thus the disease may go on for some time, but gradually the symptoms increase, the general health, if not previously affected, becomes impaired. Digestion is imperfect, the appetite changeable, the bowels irregular, the kidneys become implica-ted, the pulse frequent and week, the skin dry and harsh, the feet are cold, and often a clamy state of the hands. The cough at length becomes severe and troublesome.

There is soon a gradual wasting of the flesh and general debility, and at last the patient is hurried out of life with all the symptoms of quick Consumption. Young or old, who have any trouble about the throat, should not allow it to progress for it is indeed an ailment of a most insiduous character, often making serious inroads upon the general health, as well as the parts involved before the person is aware

This disease is more dangerous among those disposed to a scrofulous disease of the blood. It is not reasonable to suppose that those physicians who treat all diseases could become proficient in the treatment of this or any other chronic ailment. The course adopted by many physicians for the curing of this disease is a mistaken one.

Burning the throat with Nitrate of Silver in order to destroy its sensibility for the cure of this complaint. I consider it wrong! and more calculated to aggravate the complaint than to subjugate it. How ong would it be ere a disease of the throat could be produced in that individual most free from it, by the application of Nitrate of Silver to the throat? If you deprive the whole throat or strength, as you do in burning with constic, are you not more likely to invite disease to the part by rendering it weak? As for Medicated inhalation it has done much more harm than good in this complaint, by diseasing the blood, weakening the lungs, and debilitating the patient. The majority of our best physicians do not deem it worthy of notice, for they know it to be an exploded theory, revived with alleged improvements by ignorant medical speculators to impose upon the credulous as a means of subsistence and pecuniary gain. Medicated air is diseased air, there is no air so pure as the free air of Heaven. The cause of the disease must first be removed, or a cure is impossible. By the application of Nitrate of Silver, or by medicated inhalation the patient may for a short time experience some relief, but the cause not being removed, the trouble soon returns, the same treatment is again resorted to, the patient deceived into hopes that can never be realized; more efficient means he is prevented from using, time is lost, and eventually

On coming to what he called his right mind, this unfortunate man resolved to escape the consequences of his folly by committing self-destruction. Thus resolved, he had his razor aimed at his jugular vein, when word came that his flancee had eloped with a younger and handsomer man. Here was unexpected deliverance; but now mark the vagaries of a perturbed mind. Jealousy of his rival succeeded to horror of his betrothed, and after writing a plain statement of his grievances, the bachelor resumed his razor and cut his throat. Circuit Court Commissioner, Berrien County, Mich SLAYING THE ROOSTER. Listen, my boy, and you shall know A thing that happened a long time ago, When I was a boy not as large as you, And the youngest of all the children, too. I laugh of it now as I think of it o'er. And the more I think, I laugh the more. Twas the chilly eve of an autumn day, We were all in the kitchen, cheery and guy The fire burned bright on the old brick hearth, And its cheerful light gave zest to its mirth. My oldest sister, addressing me, "To-morrow's Thanksgiving, you know," said she, "We must kill the chickens to-night, you see; Now light the lantern and come with me; I will wring their necks until they are dead, And have them all dressed ere we go to bed." So the huge old lantern, made of tin, Punched full of holes and a candle within, Put in its appearance in shorter time We started off, and the way I led,

Than it takes to make the jingling rhyme. For a raid on chickens under the shed. A pile of roots filled the open space, Thus making a splendid roosting place; And a motley tribe of domestic fowls Sat perched there as grave and demure as owle. My sister, unused to sights of blood, And pale with excitment, trembling stood; But, summoning courage, she laid her plans, And seized the old rooster with both her hands, And with triumph written all over her face, Her victim bore to the open space. Then she wrung and wrung with might and main, DROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan, County of Berrien, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Berrien, holden at the Probate office in the village of Berrien, on Thursday, the 4th day of January, in the year one thousand eight hundred and soventy-two. Present, Daniel Chapman, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of John W. Gemeinder, deceased. And wrung, and twisted, and wrung again; I ill sure that the spark of life had fled,

She threw him down on the ground for dead. But the rooster would not consent to die, And be made up into chicken pic, So he sprang away with cackle and bound, Almost as soon as he touched the ground; And hiding away from the candle's light, Escaped the slaughter of that dark night. My sister, thus brought to a sudden stand, And looking at what she held in her hand, Soon saw why the rooster was not dead— She had wrung off his tail instead of head.

TREVILLIAN.

[CONCLUDED.] It has been said that Mrs. Cannidy was a capable woman, and she never showed her capacity better than in conceiving of a plan for enabling Sir Carolus to comply with the conditions of the will, and at the same time enabling her to obtain him ultimately for a husband. Had she been a true woman she would have told him to abandon the property, and wait till she was freed from her self-destroying husband. But she was a greedy, selfish creature, and she conceived the idea of Sir Carolus marrying a girl dying of consumption, and so saving his for. tune, while the death of the poor wife

From his long experience, and his studions regard to taste and fashion, he flatters himself that he can smooth the rough edgrs of nature, and provide for almost any faults of form resulting from her freaks. "You amaze me." cried Basila. "As I myself was amazed," replied the doctor. "Hear what occurred. When I proposed the match to the father and mother, the daughter being absent, and explained the whole of the facts, their indignation was beyond their expression, and their reproaches were heart-rending, even after I had pointed out that the marriage would soften the last days of their daughter. They insisted upon their daughter hearing the proposal, that I might witness her indignant refusal. Before leaving town with the Lady Trevillian he wrote to Basila to the effect that they must see each other no more until Lady Trevillian was dead. Already Sir Carolus respected the wife so strangely wedded to him. By the end of a month the wife had gained the husband's heart. She was so different from the half Spanish woman. She was so gentle, so pleasant, so thoroughly English. "I will run up to town," he said to before Basila Cannidy came to the house, her head and chest covered with the graceful black mantilla which had first attracted the attention of Sir. Carolus. He met her coldly. "Why have you come here?" "To see you."

"Go! I keep my word, Basila. While poor Ethel lives I am her devoted husband!" "But-" Without rising from his chair he rang the bell for a footman to show her out.

"Outrage—outrage!" she cried, stretching her hands before her and beating her way from the room. She neither wrote nor called again, and when the air of the south of Spain had been recommended to Lady Trevillian, and Sir Carolus wrote to Basila to say he was about to leave England, he received no answer. The doctor takes the cotton wool away, and when he returns he says, "Lady Trevillian, do not use that scent any more. I found arsenic in the cotton wool." Lady Trevillian fainted.

That same night Piquillo met a veiled woman at the bottom of the garden. "Piquillo." "Yes, Basila."

"Will she never die?" "Heaven saves her, sister Basila. She has taken enough arsenic to poison any healthy woman a dozen times over, and yet she lives." "Finish your work, Piquillo, to-

Another case almost the reverse of the above, occurred in Paris. A man bent on suicide climed upon the parapet of a bridge over the Seine, and was about to jump in the river when a sentry pointed his musket at him and threatened to shoot him dead unless he immediately came down. Singularly enough, the man at once came down, instead of staying on the parapet and achieving death at the hands of the sentry without committing suicide. Was that man in his right

THE ALABAMA CLAIMS. THE ENG-LISH AND AMERICAN PRESS.

The tone of the English press, for a few days, has been more moderate than it was on first ascertaining the American case, as presented before the Geneva Conference, Some of the leading English journals counsel moderation on the part of the Government, and manifest no desire to precipitate a further misunderstanding between England and the United States.

The excitement, however, over the Alabama claims seems in no respect to abate. To our mind, however, the action of the Government, relative to the Treaty of Washington, in so arranging it as to allow the United States to present claims for indirect damages, is being used by the English press and people for political purposes. That there is any serious designs, on the part of England, to withdraw from the arbitration, we do not believe. It is evidently not to her interest to do so. She can have no desire to have the Alabama question remain longer unsettled. She cannot afford to let the present opportunity pass by for a complete and amicable adjustment of all questions and difficulties between the two Governments. The United States can afford to let the matter rest, as there is nothing threatening to either the peace or prosperity of the American Government by an unsettled condition of these claims against England. They have been standing for years, not as a thorn in America, but a constant menace to England in case she should become involved in war with some other nation.

If England should now, after the Treaty of Washington has been ratified by the respective Governments, withdraw from the arbitration and refuse to submit to the decision of the Geneva Conference, the menace of these claims would be redoubled. Under certain contingencies it would be impossible for the Government of the United States to withstand the pressure of the American people for their collection. If, after the solemn agreement to settle the matter by arbitration had failed, in consequence of fication that we note signs of an ap-England's withdrawal from the Conference, it is not at all probable that the demands of the United States would in the least be reduced. Moreover the feeling, which now exists to a certain extent, among the people, viz: that they would prefer that the Alabama claims would remain an open question, would become greatly extended and strengthened. So much so, we opine, this would be the case, that in the event of England becoming involved in war with some other nation, the united voice of an outraged American people would then demand and force a most fearful retaliation upon her, for the treatment we of the great rebellion. With all these facts and probabilities staring England's wisest statesmen in the face, we cannot, for one moment, bring ourselves seriously to would be brought to feel that he was her population numbers but 4,630. believe she contemplates the repudiation of the Treaty of Washington. The bluster of the English press we regard, therefore, as only for effect, and for political purposes. The tone of the American press has contrasted very remarkably with that of England, in that the latter has been all bluster and excitement, while the former has manifested the greatest possible cool-While the ness and moderation. American press has been temperate in its expressions, there has not been the least disposition manifest to desert the Government or Administration in the positions assumed on the Alabama claims. There never has been, perhaps, a more unanimous expression by the American press in its defence and support of the Government, than in this very Alabama question. This unanimity in the voice of the press of in harmony with our views, and wor-America has undoubtedly had something to do with the modification of the British press since its first outburst of indignation.

With all the data, in the premises, thus far before us, our deliberate conclusion is, whether England recedes from the Treaty or not, there will, at present, be no war with that Government, as the United States is in no such hurry for the collection of her deeds to the respective families of such claims—she can afford to let the matter rest till a more favorable season. And further, we conclude England will not recede from the Treaty, as her interest is to secure the settlement of all questions of difficulties between that Government and the United States without any further unnessary delay.

The views published in these columns years ago are now being agitated, in and out of Congress, to such an extent as makes it morally certain that the day of a different plan of dealing with the Indians is at hand. We have maintained for years that the Government should cease dealing with the different tribes of Indians as received at her hands during the days | if they were foreigners, and that some plan should be adopted whereby the Indian should be used in governing the Indian, under a kind of a Military-Territorial Government, where he a part and parcel of the nation. The movement now before Congress to organize a kind of Territorial Government in the Indian Territory, we trust, will be fully consummated, and that the new plan will be set in motion. The experience of dealing with our Government, has proved that plan a miserable and expensive failure. Let something else be tried.

The Chicago Tribune, in an editorial in a late issue, in speaking of the Indian question, makes the following important suggestions, which is fully thy the consideration of America's wisest Statesmen:

"Let us, therefore, organize the Indian Territory, having due regard to the rights, the education, the future prosperity of the present occupants. "It is not true that a large propor tion of the funds charged in the report of the Superintendents of the Poor in Niles are funds expended in this city for the poor of other townships, or, for services rendered to the poor of other towns. Every town has its own Supervisor, every Supervisor has his own account, and every bill charged by the Superintendents of the Poor to Niles has its proper youcher duly signed by the proper Supervisor in Niles, who has no authority to grant aid to any resident of any other township, and violates the law by so doing. If the Republican has proved anything, it has proved that the Niles City Supervisors (the charge does not lie against Niles township) have excceded their authority, have expended money without authority, have been imposed upon by stragglers from other towns who have failed to secure aid at home, have had too tender sensibilities and have not jealously guarded the public money entrusted to their care."

amendments. The amendment agreed to is that the bill shall not abridge the power of Congress to interfere with granting bounty lands. The other amendments offered and agreed to were as follows: Requiring distribution to be made on the oasis of the school age of the population; requiring a distribution on the basis of ilhteracy; against requiring mixed schools; providing that the bill shall not effect existing laws and regulations in regard to the adjustment and payment to States upon their admission into the Union of 5 per that the act shall not repeal, impair or suspead any Pre-emption or Homestead law, The House adjourned pending that quesservice on the Chinese route with a double subsidy; the bill passed authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to redeem three millions per month of three per cent. certificates. A bill was reported giving the Secretary of War full control over the navigation of the channels and course of excavation across bars, &c. Also a bill to eatablish the Territory of Ozibaway, with an amendment changing the name of the proposed territory to Pembina. The bill to restore the records of the United States Courts in the Northern District of Illinois was passed. motion was made to reconsider the vote on the Chicago Relief bill. The Amnesy bill was taken up. Mr. Sumner with drew his consent, given yesterday, to the striking out of the seventh section, repealing or annulling all laws discriminating against any person on the ground of color. The pending motion to strike out this section was lost. Mr. Frelinghuysen moved to strike out all reference to churches, which was adopted.

HOUSE, FEB. S .- The Penusylvania case of Cessna against Myers, that Myers was entitled to a seat, was reported and ordered printed. The Senate bill refunding a 2 12 per cent. dividend tax on banks, insurance companies, etc., during the last five months was tabled on account of the Constitutional question involved in the Senate's originating such a measure. Consideration of the Educational bill was referred. After several votes, the motion to reconsider the vote rejecting the Burchard substitute was tabled-yeas, 111; nays, 96. All other pending substitutes were also rejected, and the bill, as amended, passed—yeas, 115; nays, 98. The members proceeded to draw for seats, after which the House adjourned.

SENATE, FEB. 9.—The Vice President submitted a letter from District Attorney Fisher, of the District of Columbia, stating that an indictment against the New York Tribune's correspondents, who refused to tell how they obtained a copy of the Treaty of Washington, has been quashed for want of jurisdiction. It was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary. The Legislative, Executive, and Judicial Approprtation bill, with amendments was reported. A bill striking out the word "Leavenworth" from Section 31 of the National Cemetery act, passed. Bills were introduced appropriating the act of the Dakota Territorial Legislature authorizing the people to vote for railroals; to reimburse soldiers for clothing lost in the Chicago fire; Mr. Edmunds called up the resolution asking the President for information respecting the alleged intention of Great Britain to revoke the Treaty of Washington. The resolution finally went over and the consideration of the Amnesty bill. The question was then taken on Mr. Samper's amendment, the Supplementary Civil Rights bill, and it was adopted by a vote of 28 to 28. The Vice President appounced that it was a tie, and said while he did not approve of all the provisions in the amendment, he would vote in the affirmative. After a long discussion on the Amnesty bill as amended, with Sumner's Civil Rights amendment, it was lost by a vote of $3 for it and 19 against, two-thirds not voting for it.

HOUSE, FEB. 9.—The Secretary of the Treasury was authorized to abate the tax on Tobacco in the town of Louisiana, Mo., destroyed by fire. Also a bill to issue to Benjamin Vanneman, of Green Co., Ohio, two 10-40 bonds in place of two other bonds destroyed by rats, passed. The Arkansas contested election case of Boles against Elwards was then taken up. Mr. Boles was admitted to the seat and sworn in. Passed a bill referring to the Court of Claims the claims of the heirs and legal representatives of Colonel Frazer Vigo, deceased, of Terre Haute, Ind., for money and supplies furnished to troops in 1778, during the Revolutionary war. The bili for the Relief of the College of William and Mary, in Virginia, was reported, but without disposing of the bill the House adjourned, the Session to-morrow being for general debate only.

SENATE, FEB. 12 .- A bill was introduced to place colored soldiers on the same footing with the whites as to bounties and pensions. The expediency of passing a joint resolution authorizing the President to communicate to the Govern ment of Spain the protest of the United States against the acts of the authorities of Cuba toward the Chinese laborers in that island, was ordered to be considered. Bills were introduced and referred for the relief of settlers on the Cherokee lands, Kansas; authorizing terms of the United States District Court to be held at Fort Gibson, Indian Territory; extending the Swamp Land act to Nebraska; authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Missouri River at Brownsville, Neb. The motion to reconsider the vote by which the Chicago Relief Bill passed was taken up.

HOUSE, FEB. 22.—Bills were introduced and referred as follows; For the construction of ten first-class iron steam ships for postal, naval, and other purposes; to extend the powers of the Southern Claims Commission; for the payment for cotton taken by the Government; also for the payment of Odd Fellows' Lodges destroyed during the war: to amend the National Banking act; for publishing the Congressional debates; relative to the release of the commerce of the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers from the tax levied at the Louisville Canal; for negotiations with Indians, and to commute all annuities payable in lands; for an appropriation for the improvement of the harbors in Michigan : for the improvement of Monongahela River; for the relief of settlers on the Cherokee lands in Kansas; for the survey of the northern boundary line of Nebraska: for artesian wells in Nevada: granting the right of way to railroad companies in Wyoming; also for a military wagon road and artesian wells in Wyoming; allowing respondents in criminal cases in United States Courts to testify in their own behalf, which was passed-yeas, 146; nays, 43; a resolution that the Forty-Second Congress should not close its second session until it shall have matuerd was adopted: Resolved, That the Com | and enacted a law to enforce a reform of mittee of Investigation and Retrenchment | the Civil Service. This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits.

CHICAGO RELIEF BILL AGAIN.

of the Chicago Relief bill came up before the Senate on It is now to be hoped that our wise men in the Senate have had full time to consider the injustice that the bill is destined to inflict on many home interests, and especially on Wisconsin and Michigan localities, which have suffered even more, if possible, than Chicago. If relief is rendered to Chicago, let it be done by appropriabear equally the burden, and not as the Relief bill would do, cast the burden on a few, and that too on those who have suffered as much or more than Chicago. Let justice and right be dono, and not a few sacrificed by throwing upon their shoulders greater burdens than they are able to bear. Chicago will be rebuilt, and that too in a style that will surpass her former magnificence, whether such relief, as the bill before the Senate proposes, is granted or not. Millions of dollars bill to become a law.

"We can only state that quite a number of propositions have been and will be urged upon the Governor's attention, from different parts of the State, some of which are, certainly, of importance. An amendment of the law under which the State Capitol building is to be commenced, so as to allow the entire building to be let in one contract, is recommended by the doubt that such a course will save the State many thousands of dollars' expense. Legislation to permit a re-assessment and an abatement of taxation for the year 1871, in the towns of Holland, Manistee, and other burned villages, and in the cases of isolated settlers, hamlets, etc., destroyed by fire—the property upon which said taxes were assessed having been partially destroyed-is urged. Also, from the same localities we hear many complaints as to the action of some insurance companies, in striving to adjust and settle their losses by inducing or compelling the unfortunate burned out settler to accept a less sum than his policy calls for ; and legislation is asked for to stop this practice. Several cities, desirous of establishing water works, fire organizations, etc., find themselves hampered, by restrictive charters, and ask immediate relief. The Legislature, in case the Chicago Relief bill is still pending in Congress, may inquire into the injury its passage will inflict upon Michigan, and certify to Congress, by proper resolutions, the remonstrance portance spoken of in connection with the special session, from which the Governor will select such as he thinks demand immediate action, and lay them before the Legislature. Enough, no doubt, will be found necessary to keep the Legislature together for fifteen or twenty days." NILES CITY AND THE POOR FUND. The Niles papers have not in the least satisfactorily explained, to the tax payers of Berrien County, why that city should use $2,575.48 of the county money for assistance rendered her poor during the year 1871, while and while Buchanan, with her 2,837 used only $507.79, and St. Joseph with her 2,600 expended only $455.23

Township, showing that there was a greater difference between the amounts expended in these places and in that Township, than between them and Niles City, cannot surely be a serious argument on the part of that paper. Surely the Republican understands itself the Indians by treaty stipulations and | better than to think people will look agreements, ever since the formation at the cases as parallel. The people know that there are always more poor needing assistance, proportionately in the village-townships than in the rural ones. Moreover, too,. they know that in Berrien township, the immediate vicinity of the County House, that calls for aid to the poor, or applications made by poor people in that vicinity for assistance, simply means, "Go to the Poor House." The people know that under such circumstances the applications would be much fewer than under other circumstances.

Persons who would readily accept aid without such surroundings, would go to work and make their own living rather than be sent to the Poor House. Herein, many people think, lies the business or profession that would be benefitted, to look out for just such cases as would receive an order for Yet these same persons, if they were not thus importuned, would make their

The Tariff.

Secretary Boutwell declares plainly against any material reduction of the steadily pay off the National debt. By ed, does not object to a rearrangement of the tariff; he only objects to making t yield much less to the Treasury. It is in the rearrangement of the tariff that any abuses, or mistakes, in it are to be rectified. That is to say, it needs to be so arranged as to bear with reasonable equality upon all classes of consumers of imported goods, and to protect with reasonable equality, acthat it only needs to be stated in order to command the assent of all protectionists, because it is reasonable ed strongly the principle of protection There is another notable point in connection with the tariff—a point decidedly novel, moreover. Large numbers of Democratic Irishmen, living in the very strongholds of Democratic free trade, are now petitioning Congress not to reduce the taxes on English goods. This they do because they begin to perceive that England's wealth and power is centered in her manufactures, and that the vulnerable point through which the "Saxon op-pressor" of Ireland may be wounded is in England's manufacturing supremacy. To protect American industry is necessarily to cripple the wealth and power of England. Cut off England's markets for her iron, steel, cotton, and other goods in the United States, and England will not have so much money to expend in ships and soldiers, wherewith to hold Ireland in bondage. THERE is a good prospect for business during 1872. Those who wish to do the business will resort to proper means to secure it. Don't advertise if you don't want it.

TRADE with those who invite customers through your local paper. It is unmistakable evidence of business qualifications, liberal enterprising spir-it, and they will be enabled to offer you the best bargains.

DONATIONS.—The following definition credited to the Detroit Post, is often practically illustrated: "Now is the time to rally to a festive donation party. A donation party is a cheerful gathering where a poor clergyman's flock overwhelm him with bead watch-pockets, and eat up $112 worth of his winter's provisions.

Buy your envelopes at the RECORD office, already printed.

COTTEN is closing out his Winter goods at low prices for cash.

Taxes.—People are beginning to feel relieved from the pressure of paying taxes. Money is becoming more plenty and business is improving.

THINK OF IT.—We take the following from an exchange:
"A letter received from one of our patrons, says: 'That cussed little yellow slip on my paper is a weekly dun. Change date! change date! Enclosed please find three dollars."

We say to some of our patrons, "Go and do likewise." There are many who should have their dun changed to a receipt.

DEDICATION .- Vice President Colfax is to deliver the oration at La-Porte on the dedication of the Odd Fellows Hall February 22d.

A SAGINAW man furnishes the market with fresh eggs by taking his hens to town with him and they lay eggs in his wagon bed while on the way.

CELLARS FREEZING.—There is a great complaint this winter about cellars freezing. It is but little trouble to warm a cellar by a bucket of coals so as to prevent its freezing. Those who have fruit to preserve should at are false. That it will do all that is weather.

THE PAPER. - With this issue closes the fifth volume of the RECORD. As to its management in the past nothing more need be said than that its circulation at present is 1,536 copies, and in appearance it compares favorably with any weekly paper in the State. In commencing the new volume we made to furnish the best paper in the County, and we earnestly ask our many friends to continue to assist us in our labor by their money and in-

THE physicians report a number of cases of throat and lung diseases. People should use extra efforts at this season of the year to prevent contracting colds.

IMPROVING.—The friends of Lewis Hahn will be glad to learn that he is improving and that reasonable hopes are entertained of his recovery.

EGGS.—Eggs continue to sell at high prices. Those having hens will find it profitable business now to take exercise in running their chickens up hill a good share of their time.

MASONIC.—A Stated Communication of Summit Lodge No. 192, F. & A. M., will be held at Masonic Hall, Buchanan, on Monday evening, Feb. 19th. THINK OF IT. - Many of our subscribers send a copy of the RECORD to friends they have abroad. This is a cheap, convenient and satisfactory way of communicating to your friends every week the home news and matters of interest that transpire within the county. Sometimes parties about to leave the County discontinue the paper, but before they are absent many weeks they write us to forward the RECORD to them as they need it more than they did before they moved away. The paper is the most welcomed and read with the deepest interest week after week by those residing at a distance. If you have any friends who formerly lived in the County, you could not do them a greater favor at such a trifling cost to yourself than by sending them your Coun-

CROPS OF 1871.—From the Monthy Report of the Department of Agriculture for January, 1872, we collect the following statistics showing yield and price of different grain in the State during the past year. Corn, average yield per acre, 32 2-5 bushels, average price per bushel, 59 cents. Wheat, average yield per acre, 14 bushels, average yield per acre, 14 bushels, average price per bushel, $1.82. Oats, average yield 34 1-5, average price per bushel, 41 cents. Average yield of potatoes, 68 bushels, average price per bushel 83 cents. Average yield of hay per acre, 1.12 tons, average price per ton $17.33. Average yield per acre of sorgham, 70 gallons, average price per gallon, 81 cents. Iowa shows the largest average yield per acre of corn, being 421 bushels, and Oregon shows the largest average yield of wheat per acre, being 19 1-5 bushels.

Union Farmers' Club.

Union Farmers' Club met Saturday, Feb. 10, at 2 o'clock P. M. Called to order by the President. Proceedings of last meeting read and approved by correcting the same so as to make Dr. Roe say that the slug was feeding on the aphis instead of bark lice, and that the enemy of the bark louse was an unknown mite. The reports of the members as to the number and kinds of apples to plant in an orchard of 100 trees were read, and putting the reports together make an average as follows: Early Harvest 1, Red Astra-chan 1, Maiden Blush 2, Fall Pippin 2, Wagner 7, Baldwin 20, Red Canada 18, Burrus 16, King 10, Seek-nofurther 7, R. I. Greening 6, Ben Davis 1, Bell Flower 1, Golden Russet 1.

Mr. Hudson spoke at length on the subject of small fruits. Stated that the Wilson was the best strawberry with him, and believes that the best way to raise strawberries is to cultivate in hills. He also thinks that raspberries are profitable, and should be mulched each year with straw, and the plants replaced every three or four years. As to raising blackberries he thinks it will not pay as they are too liable to winter kill. Mr. Burrus spoke briefly on grape culture. His plan is to grow in rows, and tie to stakes. Has no general plan of pruning, but cuts back the canes to 3 or 4 in a place, and to the length to suit himself, sometimes longer and sometimes shorter. He raised last year three tons on 3 of an acre. Has not had a failure in S years. Concord is the only reliable grape.

Dr. Roe continued the subject and said that for garden culture his plan is to allow but two canes to a root, and let them run 20 or 40 feet, then in the fall cut back the shoots on each arm to two or three buds, then lay down and not cover with anything, in the spring tie up to a treilis, and the fruit, if not killed by frost when in blossom, will be abundant. In about 3 years he would cut the arms out entirely, previously allowing others to grow, virtually renewing the wood evble. He also spoke on strawberry culture, advocating good culture the first year, then allowing the vines to cover the ground the second year, the third year after the fruit is gathered, plowing up and resetting.

Mr. Broadhurst said that he had seen a kind of gooseberry that produced splendid crops without culture. but with culture they would fail; that he was going to get some of the same kind, as such fruit growing just suited him, and he believed that it would suit most of the members, judging from the manner in which most of their small fruit orchards looked. Mr. Chamberlain spoke briefly on the peach and other fruits, that are considered tender, and of the keeping Mr. Burrus stated that he now has some excellent grapes that he keeps by simply packing in small boxes. Mr. Harding said that in raising strawberries he would select land that had previously been well cultivatedhe would manure highly on sandy land, then set in rows 4 feet and about 18 inches apart in the rows, then thoroughly cultivate, allowing the plants to run together in the rows. In this way he has picked, 4 years after planting, 20 bushels a day to the acre. He also made remarks on grape growing, mainly stating the same mode of culture as previous speakers. Several members made remarks giving their experience in moving old trees by leaving a ball of frozen earth to the roots, from which it was shown in nearly every instance that the tree

Feb. 12th, 1872. EDITORS RECORD : -I wish through the RECORD to thank Minne-wa'wa for her frankness. She says that the little Wolverine went to the wigwam of | to be a virtue. When the Ex B. feelthe Old Chief to treat for peace, admitting that he is the only one that little of the "Fighting Lager," found can give the much desired boon. She in the "Little saloon on the corner," says that the Old Chief has beaten and afterward proceeded to lay down Wolverine in every battle. We admit | the law, to the Dr. which went very it. (The devil controls the majority of the people in this township.) If Minne-wa'wa has given the RECORD a true copy of the treaty I think the Wolverine has made concessions enough. He is to give up the copy of the roll which "he had the audacity to take last spring." (Is the Old Chief satisfied with the assessment referred to?) One of the principal things in the treaty is that the Chief and his warriors shall turn out and render all the assistance in their power to return to the clerk's office the stolen records and papers. You will see that the treaty was to be shown to the Chief, when, if he approved of it, he was to | to suit the people very much, as they sign it under Wolverine's name, and have A. L. Drew acknowledge it, he being a Justice of the Peace. Now I say to you that the Old Chief positively refused to sign, as you will see by reference to a copy in the RECORD place, so they need not be disappointof last week, for the reason that he and his tribe were compelled to do all in their power to return the records. He said that he knew that his tribe would beat the Wolverine; they could steal him blind. They had been stealing from the township for some time, and they meant to continue it if they could control the Wolverine. The Old Chief gave another excuse why they would not sign the treaty. He said Wolverine had promised him a Red Beech cane, and he knew he could not find it as his tribe had the last stick in the bridges. I should truly be glad to take an acknowledgment of a treaty that would secure the assistance of | by the use of a desert spoonful of the fathe tribe in our behalf, as I am sure | mous Halford Leicestershire Table Sause, us successfully and accomplish the return of the township property. FROM "BEND OF THERIVER." Feb. 11, 1872. EDITORS RECORD ;-A very sad affair occurred in this neighborhood this (Sunday) morning, resulting in the death, at his own hands, of Mr. Geo. Vosburg, a young man aged about 24 or 25 years. Mr. Vosburg came to this neighborhood a few years ago, since which time he has worked by the month for different parties, and had acquired the reputation of a good, industrious young man, and with the exception of occasional fits of intemperance, he was a young man every. way worthy. He was engaged to be married to a young lady of this neighborhood some time during this week, On Saturday he went to Niles and hired a team and came back and took his girl out riding. During the ride he told the girl he had taken medicine to kill himself. The girl becoming alarmed, he took her home and went immediately to his boarding place, and swallowed, as he afterwards said, two ounces of laudanum. This failing to accomplish the object, (he afterward vomited it up) he this morning, about four o'clock, procured a knife, and in the absence of watchers, cut four different gashes in his left arm, one of which went to the bone, severing an artery, from the effects of which he died about 5 o'clock. No cause can be assigned by his most intimate friends why he committed the act.

---FROM WEESAW.—SCHOOL REPORT. EDITORS RECORD:-The following is the report of the school held in District No. 5, Weesaw township, for the month ending February 2d: Number of pupils enrolled at the close of the month, 42. Average attendance, 31. Average number of days attendance of each pupil, 15.

Lizzie Henderson, Lillie Westfall and Helen Westfall have a perfect record in punctuality and attendance. The average deportment of the pupils has been good, though I am sorry to say that three of the largest have given more annoyance than their age would lead one to suspect. The majority of the pupils evince a decided interest in their studies, quite a number are studying in advance of their classes.

In the second spelling class Adin Gauntt has received the greatest number of head marks, and in the first reader class, Aleck Lamb.

The number of visitors has been 7. Among them the County Superintendent, Mr. Kingsland. We hope that many of the parents will be able to visit us during the coming month. LYDA A. HAMLIN, Teacher.

FROM LAKETON.

FEB. 12, 1872. EDITORS RECORD :- It has been so long since you have heard from this town, I thought I would drop you a line, letting you and your know that Laketon is still alive and frisky. We are just at the present time having a "thawness," as Josh Billings would say. The mercury standing from 48 to 50 above zero. During the cold snap the mercury dropped to 24 below zero for a short time. How high is that for Crawfords? rather low, I guess. Am afraid we are not in the "belt."

Last week there was a festival at Travers Hall, gotten up by the members of the M. E. Church, the proceeds to apply on the salary of Rev. J. W. Carlisle. They realized about $40. This manner of paying our minister is getting to be quite popular with us, and although some think it not quite the proper way, still it is preferred by many to the manner sometimes adopted by us, of appointing some one to "go round" in meeting and solicit subscriptions. This mode is very interesting to all con-cerned, as each knows what the rest give and sometimes considerable competition is manifested, and that is where we "get 'em." "Nuf ced." Last night a couple of our citizens, indulged in a little wee fracas. The parties were an Ex Blacksmith and an M. D. "The facts of the case are these," as near as we can learn. The parties reside in different parts of the same domicile, and it appears that the Dr's. swine had invaded the premises of the Ex B. until forbearance ceased ing the need of some assistant, took a well until the Dr. got some slaps in the face. When he, being of a fiery temper, "went for" the Ex B. and was not restrained until the wife of the aforesaid Ex B. took him by the whiskers and hair of his head, and gently lifted him off from her worser half. When-but why proceed. We will draw a veil over the rest.

The present topic of excitement is the Grand Gift Concert of Dr's. Herman & Maudlin, which comes off at New Troy, Feb. 22d. A Reautiful Woman. The perceptive faculty of women is usually keener than the same phrenological organ in men. Women know that beauty rather than genius is worshipped by the sterner sex. A man may talk of the latter to his lady love, but the keenness of the woman knows that he is thinking of the former. Women are fond of admiration; hence one of their longings is to be beautiful. The grandsecret of female beauty is health, the power to eat, digest and assimilate a proper quantity of wholesome food. Take Vinegar Bitters. It will cleause the stomach, tone the vital organs, give a perfect digestion, purify the blood, clear up the complexion and produce a state of mental and physical electricity, which gives symmetry of form, bright eyes, white skin, glossy hair and a genuine type of female loveliness, which no cosmetic can produce Yours truly, A. I would rather walk with Him by faith, than walk alone by sight.

My heart shrinks back from trials which the Future may disclose, Yet I never had a sorrow but what the dear Lord chose; So I send the coming tears back with the whispered word, "He knows."

Earnestness.

The present age is characterized them into great activity. Business, pleasure, the learned professions, literature, and all the arts of life, bear witness to our hurried earnestness. We bend the bow to the breaking point. Our hearts pant because of the rapidity of the race. This intensity of life has its first and deepest cause in our spiritual wants, in the thirst and hunger of the soul. When evening is come, and the child is tired, he desires this thing, then another, after that some other toy; and having received them all, he weeps for something else. But it is rest and sleep that he wants rather than the toys for which he shed so many tears. So of men; there is an inquietude in their minds, the cause of which they do not understand. They suppose that if they could possess riches, or command the pleasures of the world, or obtain the knowledge, the office, the social position, or the fame for which they long, all would be well with them. But they are in error; for their restlessness has its origin in their spiritual instincts. It is "the peace which passeth understanding," the rest which he shall not speak in vain: "Come "What is truth?" and then pass on to "hear some new thing;" and Festus will deliver his judgment by telling the preacher, "Thou art beside thyself." But sincere, humble, burdoned souls, moved by the spirit of God, will receive Christ, and go on their way rejoicing.

You inspire to them—intend to have more than a common measure. Look well then to your line of effort. Expect nothing from wire-pulling, or giving up your manhood, from noise and This embraces the whole of it predetermined and announced, less sure to follow? Are not his sover-eignty and laws as fixed and certain here as in the natural world? To deny this is to rob him of all perfection, and drift away into practical atheism. You say, I will honor God. And have your whole spirit and life in acsay, it is necessary that I should have the favor of this or that man, or acceptance; the grand element in your spirit being love toward God and man, and your life being mainly the outgoing of this love.

The result of such a line of action is moral and spiritual growth—the developement of our character in all forms of beauty and excellency. There is moral soundness that inspires confidence in you in all with whom you are brought in contact—a loveliness which draws the hearts of those who can appreciate moral worth—a noble manhood which awakens respect and admiration. And every act in obedience to the above mentioned rule. is aiding and carrying forward, such a developement.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills, serious sickness and suffering is preventiled by their timely use; and every family should have them on hand for their protection and relief, when required. Long experience has proved them to be the safest, surest, and best of all the Pills with which the market abounds. By their occasional use, the blood is purified, the corruptions of the system expelled, obstructions removed, and the whole machinery of life restored to its healthy activity. Internal organs which become clogged and sluggish are cleansed by Ayer's Pills, and stimulated into action. Thus incipient disease is changed into health, the value of which change, when reckoned on the vast multitudes who enjoy it, can hardly be computed. Their sugar coating makes them pleasant to take, and preserves their virtues unimpaired for any length of time, so that they are ever fresh, and perfectly reliable. Although searching, they are mild, and operate without disturbance to the constitution, or diet, or occupation.

without disturbance to the constitution, or diet, or occupation.

Full directions are given on the wrapper to each box, how to use them as a Family Physic, and for the following complaints, which these Fills rapidly cure:

For Hyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach, and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

cause it.

For Pyscatery or Diarrhoea, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumintism: Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Meart. Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Bropsy and Bropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression, a large dose should be taken, as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.
