Written for the Berrien County Record, SPRING.

BY M. A. N. Sweet Spring has come, the welcome Spring, With balmy breeze, and gentle showers; And bright-winged birds now joyous sing; And hasten to their native bowers.

All Nature wears a happy look,
Each blade of grass, each budding tree,
The river grand—and habbling brook, All say, sweet Spring, we welcome thee.

I love the youthful Spring the best Of all the monarchs of the year, For she brings peace and quiet rest, And lulls the storms of Winter drear, She is, to me, an emblem, too,
Of life's bright joyous, fleeting Spring.
Now robed in light, now bathed with dew,

But still forever on the wing. Ah! yes, she sways the sceptre now, And wears the royal diadem. But Summer comes, with heated brow,

To claim and prove her claim to them Sweet Spring will meekly set the crown. On royal Summer's regal brow, And yield, without a sigh, or frown, When Summer says, I'm monarch now.

Twill fill thy tender heart with woe, Methinks, to lay thy sceptre down. Oh! no, she said, still north I'll go, I follow Winter everywhere To melt his chains of ice and snow,

And deck the throne for Summer there.

WOMAN'S CHOICE.

BY EBEN E. REXFORD. Catherine Warfield walked slowly down the orchard path, thinking. The vellow leaves whirled softly down about her as the breeze blew from the valley, sweet with the scent of late blossoming clover and ripening ferns. Now and then she heard the sound of apples falling from the branches among the dry and rustling grass. Overhead the sky was soft and tender, and full of languid haze. You would have known at the first glimpse of her handsome face that her thoughts were perplexing ones. "If I only knew what to do," she said to herself, as she walked slowly down the lane. "It is so hard to choose between the man I love, who is poor, and the man I do not love, who is rich. So hard! All my life I have been used to luxury, and I don't believe I could content myself with country life and ways of living. If father was rich, so that he could give me a handsome dowry, I might marry Robert Moore. But he isn't, had she asked herself the question. and the other girls must have a chance to see the world as I have, and that is horribly expensive. John Marsh is horribly expensive. John Marsh he had been sitting. Miss Warfield is rich, and can give me all I want felt that he meant he had been mistathat riches can buy. He is as old as father is, but then, that doesn't amount to much in these days. Wealth and position count for far more than love. I love Robert Moore as well as I ever could love any man, but I think I care more for the ease and luxury and position that wealth could buy. If Robert could have John Marsh's gold, then I should not hesitate a moment in making my choice. But things are | me some pain and disappointment; never as they ought to be in this world. I think I will accept John Marsh with his sixty years, and his gold, rather than Robert Moore with his handsome afternoon, Miss Warfield."

"Good afternoon," called out a pleasant voice, and a young man sprang over the orchard wall and came to-

"Oh! it is you, is it?" she said with a little start. "Good afternoon, Mr. Moore. A very pleasant day.' "Yes, a beautiful day," he answered slowly. He had a manly, handsome face, though sun and wind had bronzed it like an Italian's. Looking in his eyes you could read that this young man had many dreams of the possibilities held out before him in life; and some day, may be, those dreams would, some of them, be realized, for there were lines of earnest purpose and strong perseverance in his face. She sat down upon a little knoll over which the leaves had woven a yellow russet carpet, and he sat down upon a mossy stone near by.

"I think I shall go back to the city in a week or two," she said, presently. "It is time pleasure seekers like myself should begin to think of something else." There was another interval of silence. She sat looking at the purple mists along the far away mountain summits, and listened to the pattering leaves among the grass, thinking how pleasant it would be if this man sitting near her, and whom she had learned to love, could have wealth at his command. Love and wealth together would be all she could ask for. But they could not go together, and she must choose between them.

He sat and watched her face, think-and evident gayety. Society was out to do its best, and I think it was pering how pleasant life would be if it might be shared with such a woman. feetly satisfied with itself. . At length he broke the silence: Catherine Warfield-Mrs. Marsh "I want to tell you what I think now-was there, more handsome than you know already, that I love you. knew what might happen? She saw him come in with a woman on his arm. A tender-eyed woman, with soft, brown hair, in which some pure valley-lillies nestled among their own green leaves, looking hardly less pure and beautiful than her truthful, winsome face.

Catherine Marsh started: Could it be that he had forgotten her! She was conscious of a feeling of jealous envy toward the pure-faced woman clinging to Robert Moore's arm. "I see that Senator Moore has arrived," she said to a friend, near "Who is that with him?" "I think some one said he brought his cousin with him," was the reply. "Or was it a sister? I think it was a sister, instead of a cousin. I believe I can see some resemblance between them. Come to think of it, I am sure she is his sister, because I heard some one call her Miss Moore, yesterday, as I passed them in the street." Catherine Marsh gave a sigh of relief. She had not known, until now, how much she had hoped would result from meeting Robert Moore again. She watched him as he moved about Peanuts. It almost seems that peanuts are an important and indispensable adjunct of American civilization. There can be no enjoyment of theatrical exhibitions without the assistance of peanuts. The most tremendous oratorical rampage is nothing without the stimulus of peanuts, and we are not sure that the evangelism of our preachers would prove more effective if peanuts were admitted into our churches. But whatever may occasion the extraordinary demand for them there can be no question of their value in a commercial sense. The annual consumption of them in this country amounts to eight hundred thousand bushels, and their retail value is estimated at about three millions of dollars. But this extraordinary consumption is in full concord with the extraordinary phenomenon of present production. It is a botanical wonder, having no parallel in the vegetable kingdom. The blossom matures above the earth, and, at the proper moment, gently and gracefully bends down and buries itself in the ground, where it becomes perfected as the peanut of commerce and the solace of worshipers of the drama. An American Girl Makes an English Duke Stand Around.

A French letter says: "There is one thing men do in Europe which an American gentleman never does. When riding in a carriage with wife, sister, ladylove, they will allow her to climb over their feet, get out with the aid of a footman, not getting out themselves to assist her. When this first attracted my attention I thought it ill-breeding, but found it was only a custom, growing, perhaps, out of there generally being a footman in attendance, whose place it is to assist the lady. I still think it very bad taste, but I see American girls, who would be utterly indignant at such rudeness at home, bear it patiently and meekly here, all but Miss C-She quietly waited, and then ordered the Duke B—to get out and assist her, and he obeyed willingly, as a man obeys the whim of a Spartan beauty."

Have You Got a Cigar?

A night or two ago, among the prisoners at the West Side Station, was a well-dressed and highly-educated shoplifter of the female persuasion. Coroner Stevens sympathized deeply with her, and expressed his regrets at seeing a woman of apparent culture in such a disgraceful condition. She replied that it was the first time in her life that she had gone astray, wept, or pretended to weep, bitterly, interlarded her sobs with deeply religious and pious sentiments, and imploringly begged the Coroner to resist al evil temptations which might beset him. Her stock of Bible and tractoratory having run out and the wellspring of her tears having dried up, she suddenly turned to the Coroner and exclaimed, "You haven't got a cigar about have you? If not, get us one." "Good night," said the Coroner, and that obliging and gentlemanly official stumped from the bars of the cell to an adjoining room to hold an inquest and meditate on the strange

A Woman as a Wooer. Some years ago MissAyers, a wealthy and cultivated lady of Philadelphia fell in love with Col. Downing, Chief of the Cherokee nation. The colonel was then married, but she became so deeply interested in him and his people that she removed to Tahloquah and devoted herself to the ducation of the nation. Shortly after she adopted Lewis Downing, son of the chief, a bright and promising boy, and has since watched over his training and education with more than motherly care. A year ago she built, ostensibly for him, an elegant residence, overlooking the beautiful village, and furnished it with artistic taste. A few months since occurred the death of Mrs. Downing, a full blooded Cherokee. And now at the proper time, the chief leads to the altar his longtime admirer.

ARMS SALE INVESTIGATION.

It is evident that Senator Sumner. Schurz & Co. have made a most signal failure of their attempt to bring into disrepute the administration of Grant relative to the sale of Arms to France during the war with Germany. The Sumner resolution demanding investigation was but a thrust at Grant, and the people so understand it. Instead of the opposition to Grant gaining by these efforts to cast odium on his administration, they have lost ground. The people begin to look upon the movers in these dishenorable efforts to injure the President as beneath high minded patriots and politicians.

The course of Sumner, Schurz, Trumbull & Co. has made Gen. Grant more friends than he would otherwise had. Many Republicans, who, before the efforts made by Sumner and others to defeat the re-nomination of Grant, would gladly have seen some other man chosen as the standard-bearer of the Republican party, now east their entire strength and energy to the work of securing his re-nomination at the Philadelphia Convention.

There is no objection to any one opposing the re-nomination of Grant. provided they do it in a becoming manner and without stooping to low, that has attached a stigma to the hitherto fair names of Sumner, Schurz and Trumbull, and this stigma too will follow them long years yet to come. The Arms Investigation hatched by these opponents to Grant show to what accomplish and carry out a personal spite. Sumner knew as well before the investigation as the people know after it, that there was no occasion for the expense incurred thereby. He knew that the investigation, if persisted in, would result as it has done in the complete vindication of the President and Secretary of War. His investigation, was undoubtedly to place the friends of Administration in the light of opposing a strict scrutiny in-to the acts of the President and his subordinates, and thus make capital out of such seeming opposition. He has however signally failed, as the fol-lowing, taken from the Report of the Committee on Expenditures in the War Department made in the House on Monday fully demonstrates:

"Mr. Williams, of Indiana, Chairman of the Committee on Expenditures in the War Department, made a report with testimony taken on the investigation into the sale of arms and ordnance stores during the Fran-co Prussian war. Ordered printed, together with the views of the minority.

"The Committee reports the followFirst that the act ing conclusions: Eirst that the act of Congress of July 20, 1867, authorizing the sale of unsuitable arms. gave, by a fair interpretation of its letter and spirit, full authority to the Secretary of War to sell and dispose of the arms and ordnance stores in question, and that, in doing so, he violated neither the letter nor spirit of the law. Second, that the proceeds. of the sales were promptly paid into the Treasury. Third, that no sales were made to any known agent of either belligerent Governments, and that no act was done by the Secretary of War, or any of his subordinates, that was calculated to impair or violate any international obligation. Fourth, That no official of the United States Government was pecuniarily benefitted in connection with the sales. Fifth, That the only party benefited was the Government of the United States, in having disposed of unsuitable arms, at the highest market price, to an amount of nearly ten million dollars."

UNIFORM RAILROAD FREIGHTS.

Congress is just beginning to act as if there were some matter of interest to be looked after. The move in the House recently by Scofield, of Pa., introducing a bill to prohibit railroad companies discriminating among shippers in shipping facilities and freightage, is a matter of interest to all the country as well as is the establishment of uniform rates for freight. The time has come when the government should look after these things, and see that the vast railroad interests of the nation do not override every other interest, and instead of railroads being a benefit to the people and country become curses and unbearable monoplies. We have no disposition in any way to abridge what is just and right to any railroad corporation, but at this same time the government should not allow these corporations, made rich by her munificences, to deal 'uniquistly or oppressively by the people, whom she should protect. Let Congress dock after these matters more closely in the future than in the past, and the whole country work.

The above case is without a protein to the people and country become curses and unbearable monoplies. We have no disposition in any way to abridge what is just and right to any railroad corporation, but at this same time the government should not allow these corporations, made rich by the manifecences, to deal 'uniquistly or oppressively by the people, whom she should protect. Let Congress dock after these matters more closely in the future than in the past, and the whole country will look on and approve such time has come when the government.

THE IMPEACHMENT CASE.

The Senate met at Lansing on the 11th inst., and organized as a court to try the Impeachment of Charles A. Edmonds, Commissioner of the State Land Office, for "corrupt conduct in office, and criminal misdemean-The articles of impeachment were presented, and consist of eleven articles, the first seven of which relate to corrupt conduct in office, and the four last to immoral conduct unbecoming the high position of a public officer. The last four articles charge him with publishing and mailing an obscene print, drunkenness and adul-

The Senate elected two reporters, G. F. Hitchcock, of Kalamazoo, and Henry F. Walsh, of Grand Rapids, to make a correct report of the proceedings of the Court of Impenchment. These preliminaries consumed the first day.

On Friday the counsel for the defense moved for an adjournment till May 15th, in order to prepare their case. The Court, however, refused to grant so much time, as it appeared wholly unnecessary. The 30th of April was finally fixed on as the day to which the Senate would adjourn as a Court, when the trial of the Commissioner would commence.

Everything seems to indicate that the defense is determined to make a long and strong fight. There is every probability that the articles of impeachment will be fought persistently at every step, and that the case will consume several weeks. This, however seems wholly unnecessary, as there certainly exists no need of much delay, as the witnesses are not widely scattered. The expenses to the State will be no small sum, yet if the articles, or even a share of them, are sustained beyond controversy, the people will feel that their money has been well expended. The day has arrived when corrupt practices in high officers should be hunted out and duly punished. The people demand an honest and faithful administration on the part of all officers entrusted with public affiairs, and those who set at defiance this demand should be made to feel the just consequences thereof.

POSTAL CARDS.

A bill has been brought before the House of Representatives looking to an improvement in the Postal arrangemean, political demagoguery and trick- ment. This bill provides for the furery. It is this dishonorable course | nishing of a kind of Postal card for correspondence, the cost of which, including postage, is to be but one cent. One side of these cards is to be used for the address only, while the other can be used for any short correspondence. This is an open correspondence depths men in high stations will go to | and will, in numerous cases, answer all the purposes of a letter of the usual style. Anything vulgar or obscene on these cards is to exclude them from the mails, and the sender of such matter subjects himself to fine and imprisonment. It is to be hoped that the bill will pass Congress and become a law, as it undoubtedly is a move looking to the cheapening of Postage motive, in persistently demanding the | and hence will meet the hearty approval of the people.

Michigan, Thursday,

effections of the Liver, Kidneys and Lungs are incredible; and by far the greatest Wheat, red, perbushel..... Wheat, white, perbushel.... CloverSeed..... Timothy Seed.... majority of them scarcely have a suspicion that such a difficulty exists in the slightest degree. Although they seldom feel well, they are loth to believe that anything serious may arise from it. Diseases of the liver produce a great variety of symptoms-and-these-symptoms are all considered as separate and distinct diseases and treated as such by doctors; because ignorant Nosologists have done so before them. This treating symptoms of a discusse is productive of great evil, as the pain or distress is by these means transferred from one place to another for some length of time, thus deceiving the patient and inducing him to believe that he is better, whilst the really diseased organ which is the cause of all these local difficulties, remains undisturbed until it becomes a mass of irrecoverable obstruction. The situation and office of the Liver render it more exposed to the action of disease, and more liable to become so than any other organ of the human body. The symptoms characterizing a diseased liver are numerous. A sensation of fullness across the chest, in consequence of viscid blood accumulating in the liver, causing it to enlarge or swell, which would press upon the diaphragh, thus lessening the capacity of the chest, that the lungs would not have room to expand, and difficulty of breath ing, or shortness of breath would follow, giving rise to phthisic os asthma, and after the upper surface of the liver becomes diseased, extends its influence to the lungs, producing consumption, which doubtless is one of the most frequent causes in this climate for producing this disease. When the blood is retained too long in the liver it becomes acrid and creates inflamation, and ulceration in the liver in time would take place. The viscid state of the blood often produces a thick and viscid state of biliary calculi, gall stones, gravel, etc., producing great distress, as they pass through the bile duct. This acrid bile will produce fever, inflamation, dysentery, and when conveyed into the small intestines will inflame and irritate them, and the patient will feel a fainting, or an indiscribable weakness just below the pit of the stomach, attended with flatulence, acidity, and often a burning sensation, vomiting, spitting up the food, or spasm, which by medical men is usually termed Dyspepsia food would distress them so much as to the bile, giving rise to the formation of cause them to live on a very spare diet, the digestive organs would become so much deranged that both digestion and assimulation would be imperfectly performed, and much emaciation of the body would follow; others would say "that they could eat anything, nothing hurts them;" and although they eat much, it is not attended with an increase of flesh : they still remain poor, showing that the digestive and assimulating organs have become so impaired as to render them incapable of performing their office. The bile when thin and acrid, is capable of being absorbed into the whole system, giving rise to yellowness, yellow jaundice, and dark or sallow spots on parts of the body of many individuals. The acrid bile being absorbed into the blood, renders it likewise acrid, and diseases it; and hence -B. B. Brown, the inventor of the eruptions, humors and even ulcers make adding machine, died at his residence their appearance. Piles are produced from an acrid condition of the bile. In consequence of ile absorption of bile into the blood, the viscidity of the blood is increased-the blood which was thick before is thus rendered thicker still. The office of the heart is to propel the blood through the system; when therefore the blood becomes thick the labor of the heart is increased-which weakens its powersrenders it incapable of throwing the blood to the extremities—hence deficient circulation, cold hands, feet, chilliness, and palpitations and pains over the region of the heart, and which in many instances, if allowed to continue, disease of the heart itself will be the result. Rheumatism, palsy, or paralysis, numbness of the limbs, aches and pains of one description or another, are frequently complained of. From whence do they arise but from this viscid state of the blood and debility of the heart? Nervousness, debility, etc.; are all produced by the deficient support which the nerves receive from the blood. Even derangement of the human intellect are produced in this way. Pain, dizziness of the head, ringing of the ears, fullness of the head, great heat in the top of the head, sometimes coldness and other distresses of the head are often experienced. Why is it so? The blood being thick and viscid, its motion through the veins is slow, the heat throws the blood through the arteries to the head faster than it re> in the head, press upon the brain and produce all the difficulties above named, even falling fits and apoplexy are produced in this way. When the upper surface of the Liver becomes diseased, it frequently extends its influence to the kidneys, and pains are experienced across the small of the back, producing much distress by diseasing neighoring organs." It is under, such circumstances that dropsies, diabetes, diseases of the urinary organs, bladder, etc., difficulty, pain and often a smarting sensation in the passage of urine, which is milky or high colored, with a cloudy or brick like sedi-ment. The patient will frequently seel a disposition to pass urine, but the quantity will be small, sometimes merely pass by turns by the veins back again to the heart,

hence accumulations of blood take place drops, at other times it will pass in large quantities at once. Often an infection of the Liver extends its influence to the spleen, causing an enlargement of that organ—impaired condition of the bowels, either obstinate costiveness, or lasting and exhausting diarrhea, as witnessed in those soldiers or persons subject to a southern climatepain in the shoulder, between the shoulders, under the shoulder blade, in the breast, etc. The patient often irritable, fretful, drowsy or sleepy, eyes become inflamed, sight impaired. Illustrations of diseases of the liver might be far more extended. It is doubtful whether any disease of a chronic harveter aviets in which ease of a chronic character exists in which the liver does not perform a prominent part or is not more or less concerned; and Leventure to affirm that health, can in no instance be maintained where transacfect. *How often is it that a patient tries one advertised medicine, then another in til his patience and money are exhausted; and he abandons everything of the kind posed to have been done while the decased was in a fit of despondency.—

II. R. Stryens, Esq.:

Dear Sir,—I have heard from very many sources of the great success of Veoleting in cases of Scrofula, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint, Catarrii, and other discusses of kindred anthre. I make no healthing in saying that I know tha Veoleting to be the most reliable remody for Catarrii and General Debility.

My wife has been troubled with Catarrii for many years and at times very badly. She has theroughly tried every supposed remedy that we could hear of, and for all this she has for several years been gradually growing worse, and the discharge from the head was excessive and very offensive.

She was in this condition when the commenced to take and the discharge from the head was excessive and very offensive.

She was in this condition when she commenced to take Yearing. I could see that she was improving on the second bottle. She continued taking Yearing until she had used from twelve to fifteen bottles. Tam new happy to inform you and the public, (if you choose to make it public), that she is entirely cured, and Yearing accomplished the cure after nothing else would. Hence I feel justified in saying Yearing is the most reliable remedy, and would advise all suffering humanity to try it, for I believe it to be a good, honest vegetable medicine, and I shall not hesitate to recommend it.

HOW VEGETINE ACTS ON THE BLOOD Our food furnishes material for the growth and nourishment of the body by absorption and assimilation. In like manner Vecetine acts in the cure of disease. When swallowed it is absorbed, taken up by the veins, and circulated through the system with the blood, reaching the most lidden and remote parts. It is evident, by this di-roct action, that the whole system must feel the effects of Valuable Information.

Genilemen.—My only object in giving you this testimonial is to spread valuable information. Having been badly afflicted with Salt Rheum, and the whole surface of my skin being covered with pimples and eruptions, many of which caused me great pain and annoyance, and knowing it to be a blood disease, I took many of the advertised blood preparations, among which was any quanty of Sarsaparilla, without obtaining any benefit, until I commenced taking the Vroeting; and before I had completed the first bottle I saw that I had got the right medicine. Consequently I followed on with it, until I had taken seven bottles, when I was pronounced a well man; and my skin is smooth, and entirely free from pimples and cruptions. I have never enjoyed so, good health before, and I attribute it all to the use of Vroetine. To benefit those afflicted with Rheumatism, I will make mountion also of the Vroeting's, wonderful power of curing me of this acute complaint, of which I have entired so intensely.

H. R. Stevens:

This is to certify that I have used your "Blood Preparation," (VEGETINE) in my family for several, years, and think that, for Scrofula or Cankerous Humors or Rheumetic affections, it cannot be excelled; and as a blood purifier and spring medicine, it is the best thing. I have ever used; and I have used almost everything. To an cheerfully recommend it to any one in need of such a medicine.

ANYTHING you want at Fox's:

PURCHASE REAL ESTATE.—Every person should aim to purchase some real estate. There are those in our village who have the means to purchase, improve and beautify a home, and yet they do not seem to have any desire in that direction. How many, too, of our day laborers, who, with the amount they pay for rent each year, with a little retrenchment, would be able to make a handsome payment towards buying a house and lot. Real estate at present is certainly a safe investment in our village, and should be encouraged. When a person owns some real estate his location is more permanently fixed, and he becomes more interested in the welfare of the place where he lives—his position will be more commanding, and his character more stable and reliable.

Meeting of the Board of Trustees. At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the village of Buchman, held April 16. 1872, there were present Wm. Pears, President, Messrs. Day, Binns, Black, Ross and Osborn, Trustees. Messrs. Day and Black Committee appointed to examine as to the propriety: of building a calaboose for the village, reported that they deemed it expedient to build a calaboose and engine house combined. Their report was on motion accepted and adopted, and Mr, Binns added to the committee. The committee was then directed by the Board to draw up plans and specifications for an engine house and calaboose combined, and to advertise for proposals to build the same. The committees to examine the reports of the Marshal and Treasurer, made their reports which were on motion accepted, the committees discharged, and the reports of Treasurer and Marshal ordered printed in the RECORD. A petition was presented to the Board to order a sidewalk to be built three feet in width, commencing at the south-west corner of Day's Avenue, and South 4th street at the corner of John Buckles' lot, and running thence east to east side of Portage street. On motion the sidewalk was ordered to be built in accordance with the prayer of the potitioners. The following accounts were presented and on motion allowed, and the Clerk instructed to draw orders on the Treasurer for the amounts respectively:

B. E. Binns, serving as judge of election one day, $1.50; H. J. Howe, serving one day as judge of election, $1.50; John Williams, 4 1-2 days work, $7.87; Robert Graham, 1-2 days work, 57.51; Robert Graham, 1-2 days work, 75 ets.; Charles Gardner, 4-10 days work, 70 ets.; David Comely, 11 1 2 hours $1.83; W. THE ASSETS of the late Judge Chamberlain, of Cattaraugus County, N. Y., were $350,000. The estate is now settled but it has taken $125,000 to pay off the lawyers and debts growing out of the lawsuits involved. Of the balance, the

lege each received $48,250, and the heirs

the remainder. We clip the foregoing item from the Chicago Tribune of a late date. We were for many years acquainted with Simon Chamberlain, who lived south of the village, a brother of the Judge Chamberlain above referred to. All the old residents of Buchanan were acquainted with the unfortunate condition of Simon Chamberlain for years before his death. The family always had the sympathies of the community, and it is with regret that we learn an effort is being made, by parties in the East, to prevent, if possible, the family here receiving their just por-tion of Judge Chamberlain's estate, which amounts, according to the above statement, to $19,300.

FARMERS' CLUBS.—Farmers' Clubs have been organized, and in operation in various parts of the State during the past winter. Many of our State papers contain reports of their proceedings, and they show that great good results from farmers coming together to relate their experience to each other, and to discuss matters pertaining to the farm. It seems that farmers should unite upon some plan for raising different crops and have more of uniformity in the yield. In every neighborhood there is generally to be found one man who succeeds better than any around him raising wheat, or corn, or stock, or who gets a better price for what he markets. Such a man should be patterned after by his neighbors, they should plow as he plows, sow when he sows, cultivate as he cultivates, &c., &c. Every year's experience of farmers has its lessons, and the closer they observe their own work and give heed to the advice of their co-workers, the more they will 'know about farming," and each year there will be an improvement in their work over the year preceding.

WE take the following from the Postal Record, which should be a sufficient warning to all to use care in mailing their letters:

"During the last year there were sent to the Dead Letter Office nearly 3,000,000 letters; 68,000 of these letters could not be forwarded owing to the carelessness of the writer in omitting to give the county and State, 400,000 failed to be sent because the writers forgot to put on stamps, and over 3,000 letters were put in the postoffice without any address whatever. In the letters above named was found over $92,000 in cash, drafts, checks, etc., etc., to the value of $3,-000,000. There were 89,029 photographs contained in the above letters. Of course nearly all the valuables were returned to the owners, but much needless delay, many charges of dis-honesty, etc., might have been saved if the writers of the letters could have been a little more careful, and taken the precaution to see that their letters were in mailable condition before depositing them in the postoffice. It is more than probable that ninetenths of all the complaints, losses and delays which are laid to the Post Office Department, are in reality due to the carelessness of the writers."

"How To Go West." Forty years ago, Illinois was as far West as most people wished to go, and journeys were made in the legendary Prairie Schooner," but in these days of Progress and Improvement, the word West, has come to mean Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, California and the Territories, and the traveler reaches almost any point therein by a splendid Line of

This Line of Railroad is the BURLING-TON ROUTE, which starts from Chicago by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, and, running through BURLINGTON, reaches Omaha, Lincoln, Nebraska City, Saint Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth and Kansas City, connecting with the Union Pacific, Kansas Pacific, and other Railroads running from those cities. People going to Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, California, or any point in the Territories, will study, their own interests by going "By way of Burlington," for the rates of that Line are always as low as any other, and it is the best Route in the West, therefore, you are more sure of your safety and comfort.

The Burlington Route has admirably answered the question "How to go West?" by the publication of an excellent Pamphlet, containing a large, truthful map of the Great West, and much interesting and valuable information, which can be obtained, free of charge, by addressing General Passenger Agent B. & M. R. R., Burling-

GENERAL DEBILITY .- In this complaint the good effects of the VEGETINE are realized immediately after commencing to take it; as debility denotes deficiency of the blood, and VEGETINE acts directly upon the blood. There is no remedy that will restore the health from debility like the VECETIME. It is nourishing and strengthening, purifies the blood, regulates, the bowels, quiets the nervous system, has never failed in this complaint.

DEAD MIN TELL NOTALES: if they did, anathemies against the depleting lancet, the drastic purge, and the terrible salivants of the materia medica, would arise from every graveyard. The motto of modern medical science is "Treseve and Regulate, not destroy," and no remedy of our day is so entirely in harmony—with this philanthropic logic as DR. WALKER'S VEGETABLE VINEGAR BITTERS. In this powerful, yet harmless restorative, dyspepsia, billous complaints, and all diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels, and nerves, encounter an irresistible antidote. April 11th, 1872, EDITORS RECORD:—I noticed in your paper last week a very interesting letter from Pond Valley, in which L. C. I. undertakes to give some ideas of the time one of those porkers can make when in trotting trim. I have often heard it remarked that a lean, long-nosed porker (such as could eat shelled corn out of a jug,) was hard to beat on the run, but trotting them so as to keep pace with those "half dozen shingles" in their "wild flight" before the gale, is truly wonderful, and they the porkers) are certainly worth their weight in—soap-grease. I should advise the Ingleright Bros. to keep such fast stock out of the reach of that "little blue-eyed girl," for, if she had no pigeon, she might capture it, "wrap it in her apron and call it her baby." If I was that "good man" I would get "little blue-eyes" a basswood baby that I might occasionally have a pigeon for dinner. Would not that be a good plan, Mr. Editor?

—As the weather is remarkably pleasant the farmers here are all very busy plowing for their spring crops, and have not time to feel blue or look blue. But I should think that that timid schoolmaster near Goose Creek, or of District No. 4, Buchanan Township, would have felt blue about the time his coat came off, and that young man who stood by and saw his teacher thus roughly handled; I should have thought his wandering imagination would have Bad Habits. Understand clearly the reasons nd all the reasons, why any habit is njurious. Study the subject till there is no lingering doubt in your mind.

Avoid the places, the persons, and the thoughts that lead to the temptation. Frequent the places, associate with the persons, indulge the thoughts, that lead away from temptation. Keep busy; illeness is the strength of bad habits. Do not give up the struggle when you have broken your resolution once, twice, ten times, or a thousand times. That shows how much need there is for you to strive. When you have broken your resolution, just think the matter over, and endeavor to understand why it was that you failed, so that you may be upon your guard against a recurrence of the same circumstances. Do not think it a little or an easy thing that you have un-dertaken. It is folly to expect to break off bad habits in a day, which have been gathering strength in you for years.

A ship had been wrecked off an Island in the South seas. To the horror of the sailors, they found it was the same island where a ship's crew had been killed and eaten by the natives. Weary with the struggle in the storm, their clothes drenched, they hid themselves as best they could, with the scanty stores, in caves along the shore. When they could endure no longer, they crept stealthily up the hill between them and the town. Every crackling limb and rustling leaf was a fearful tell-tale to their minds, and when they reached the summit, the terrors of death came over them, and they dared not go on. But one of their number, more hardy than the rest, kept on, and at the very point where they expected his courage to fail, and that returning he would bring upon them the meneaters, just then he rose from his knees and swung his hat and shouted,

"Safe, safe, all safe!" He had not seen a band of soldiers from a Christian land, nor a troop of his own countrymen, nor even a single living soul; but he had seen a little church spure, which rose from the village and among their rude homes was pointing toward heaven. The Christian missionary had been there, and God's work among the people was the pledge of safety to all the world; and so the words came true, "The beloved of the Lord shall dwell in safety by Him."-American Mes-

Thus Far But No Farther.

It is well for Bible class teachers to remember that there are limits to human inquiry and human thought. "A Deity understood," says Sir William Hamilton, "would be no Deity at all." It is the highest effort of unaided human reason to give us a firm ground for belief in the existence of God, and we must be satisfied with such a knowledge of him as he chooses to make known to us. We may not push our inquiries into the hidden mysteries of his being. We can think in all directions beyond the boundaries of the finite, and can obtain a conviction—a certain knowledge that the infinite exists beyond, though we cannot measure it. All that is necessary for our salvation, and our perfection in holiness God makes known unto us, and this should restrain our curiosity. It is perfectly safe here to take the Bible as a guide, and to stop our questionings and dis-cussions upon mysteries about which it is silent. "The secret things belong unto the Lord our God; but those revealed, unto us and to our children."—E. W. Rice.

A good laugh is an excellent thing, and the most of us firmly credit it is enjoyed in its perfection by the best men and women in the world. We can set our seals to the description of such sick rooms as George Wilson's where the good and patient lie not only in an attitude of meekness and resignation, but spread around them a clear, sunny atmosphere of humor and fun. Who should be happy but those who are at peace with God and man?—Sarah Titler.

Christians.

The true Christian is like the living spring which is not impoverished. by sending forth its grateful waters. He is not afraid to freely bestow of He is not afraid to freely bestow of that which he has freely received, and the more he gives the more abundantly does God supply him; but there are too many like stagnant pools, withholding, that which tends to poverty. Like the servant with the one talent, they are afraid to use their possessions for God's glory.

The Glorious Gospel. Preach the Gospel to. every creature; that is, go tell every man, without exception, whatsoever his sins be, whatsoever his rebellions be go and tell him these glad tidings, that if he will come in, Jesus will accept him, his sins shall be forgiven him, and he shall be saved. The Gospel method of salvation resembles a well-drawn picture, which seems to look every person in the room in the face. In like manner Gospel truth has something in it suitable to every one's case that reads or hears it, and that as particularly as if it spoke to every Gospel hearer by name. -Annold.

Explanation of High Numbers

The number of tickets to be sold is limited to 37,000, still, we have a great many tickets of higher numbers out. As we were unfortunate in the Chicago fire, and some of our agents do not report, or return our tickets, and we cannot have two tickets of one number, therefore have to commence numbering above 37,000. The first 37,000 tickets sold to be put in the wheel.

and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

No one remedy is louder of alled for by the necessities of the American people than a sure and safe cure for Fever the disease, and, with a perfect certainty that it will eradicate the disease, and, with a perfect for in the form its use in any quantity.

That which protects from or prevents this disorder must be of immense service in the communities where it prevalls. Prevention is better than cure, for the patient escapes the risk which he must run in violent attacks of this baleful distemper. This "CURE" expels the miasmatic poison of Fever and Ague from the system, and prevents the development of the disease, if taken on the first approach of its premonitory symptoms. It is not only the best remedy every to discovered for this class of complaints, but also the cheapest. The large quantity we supply for a dollar brings it within the reach; of everybody; and, in billous districts, where Fever and Ague; freely, both for cure and protection. It is hoped this price will place it within the reach; of all—the poor as well as the rich. A great superfority of this remedy over any other ever discovered for the speedy and certain cure of intermittents is, that it contains no Quinime or mineral; consequently its produces no quinime or other injurious effects whatever upon the constitution. Those cured by it are lot as healthy, as if they had never had the disease, if Fever, and Ague is not alone the consequence of the miasmatic poison, a greaty ariety of disarchers. Finance of the miasmatic poison, a greaty ariety of the poison drom the consequent of the stomach, all of which when originating in this cause, put on the intermitive type, or become periodical. This consequently cures them all allke. It is an invalidation of the system; and cannot Although searching, they are mild, and operate without disturbance to the constitution, or diet, or occupation.

Full directions are given on the wripper to each box, how to use them as a Family Physic, and for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:

For Dyspepsia or Endigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite; they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stome ach, and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Billious Headache, Sick Headache, Jundice or Green Sickness, Billious Colte and Billous Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Districes, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Bheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in this side, Hack and Toins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system; With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dysperssion, all large dose, should be taken, as it produces the destred effect by sympathy.

An accisional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite and invigorates the system; Hence it is often advantageous, where no serious, derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well often finds that a dose of these pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleaning and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

A guest at a hotel in Belfast, Me, on being told that dinner was read; stripped off his coat, and, accompan-ied by his wife, entered the dining-room in his shirt sleeves. A waiter brought him a bill of fare, which he egarded curiously, and then laid it down. Pretty soon another bill of fare was placed in his plater. Then he arose in his wrath, and exclaiming, "I didn't come here to read show bills! I came after some dinner!" called to his wife, and the swain departed.

The Divinity Hedging About a King. When Archille Murat settled down on a plantation in Jefferson county, Florida, it was said that one morning, while, with coat off, he was washing his face on the piazza, plantation fashion, a "cracker" rode up on a mule and accosted him with, "Stranger, they say thar's a king living about here somewhar, and I've cum ten miles jsst a purpose to see him. Whar mought he be?" "Why," says the prince, "I must be the manithey mean." "What! you a king?" exclaimed the cracker; "a gol darned purty looking king you ar! Why, stranger, I could rough a better: looking king out'n a pine stump, with a club axe;" and so saying he moved off in disgust.

Col. Samuel Colt was in lis life time disposed sometimes to be rather pompous. When he was building dwelling houses for the workmen employed in his great pistol factory, he one day encountered a boy picking up chips on his grounds.

"What are you doing here?" he sked, gruffly. "Picking up chips, sir," replied the youngster, evidently unawed by the great presence.

"Perhaps," exclaimed the Colonel, drawing himself up with swelling dignity, "you don't know who I am. I'm Colonel Samuel Colt, and I live in that big house up yonder."
The boy straightened up and swelled and answered: "Perhaps you don't know who I am. I'm Patrick Murphy, and I live in that little shanty down yonder," pointing in the direc-

"Sonny," said the Colonel, blandly, patting the boy on the head, "go on and pick up all the chips you want, and when you get out come back for

A young lady in a neighboring town has taken up dentistry for a living. All the gentlemen patronize her. When she puts her arm around the neck of a patient, and caresses his jaw for the offending member, the sensation is about as nice as they make em. The minister hadn't the necessary swivel nature to flop from the grave to the gay so suddenly, and de-

Jones, a kind-hearted man, thinking his landlady had difficulty in making both ends meet, surprised her on a Saturday night by raising the price of his board. What was his amazement, at the end of the next week, when his grateful hostess in-formed him that she had concluded to raise his board yet again—for she thought she had as good a right to raise it as he ! A darkey returning from church was asked to give an account of the sermon. "Well, sah, de sernoniwas upon de miracle ob de loaves and de fishes."
