MY FIRST CIGAR. Twas out behind the wood pile, One glorious summer day,

I sat upon the saw-buck And made my first essay At smoking "penny grabs" which I
Had bought with rags at par;
And I felt mighty tickled Over my first cigar!

The gentle breezes blew the smoke Into my nose and eyes, And made me cough and sneeze, alas! Like a puppy eating flies; And a sort of streak of qualmishness Commenced my bliss to mar.

And, with a feeling of disgust, I dropped my first cigar. I've felt the pangs of too much beer I know what 'tis to be

"Don't be gone long, Katev."

"No, mother." "Come, Cæsar, we will give our-selves just an hour to go to the village and back." An easy task for the great, shining, black creature, over which the sunshine played, and who looked back at his mistress' flowing robe with an eye of soft fire. He walked in stately fashion up the long hill, but there broke into the easy canter which made him incomparable for the saddle.

The sun rose over the hills, and one robin was challenging the world. The May wind blew freshly, lifting Katey's curls from her neck, and shaking the shining mass like a banner over her shoulders. She drew in the rein suddenly at the bank of the river, for the bridge was gone. Her rosy face was reflected in the water as she peeped

N. A. HAMILTON, "Why, Casar, what shall we do?" It was three miles to the bridge beow. Deep river had not many crossings, and was too swift to ford. She paused perplexed, all her plans arrested, for if she could not cross the river she could not get to the village, and the medicine necessary for her little brother could not be obtained.

She waited for several moments lost in meditation. Suddenly a hand was stretched towards her horse's head. and a voice spoke her name. She started, and her heart bounded violently as she recognized the man who addressed her.

"Mr. Leroux!" she said. "Would you like to cross the river?" he asked, keeping his hand on her horse's bridle, and fixing his strange eyes steadfastly on her face. "Very much. My brother is ill, and I have been sent to see the doc-

Katey made no reply. She hardly knew what to say. She wanted to get to Swampville, but she was rather perplexed by Leroux's appearance. A year ago he had rather intimidated and annoyed her by his professions of regard. She had not seen him of

"Then the ford must be covered. "Perhaps not; but if it is, the bridge is just beyond." . As he spoke he moved forward, and her horse began following. Katey but half consented to this arrangement, but she did not speak. "At any rate," she thought, "I do not know what else to do." Little Tom's fever had run high that morning, and he must have the medicine. So she sat quietly in the saddle, looking with disfavour at Leroux's black curls .. They hung, unkempt, upon his shoulders. He was dressed in a suit of coarse gray cloth, much stained by exposure to the weather. He had a generally neglected and reckless look that Katey could not but take notice of: His gray felt. hat was stained with mud, as though it had fallen from his head, or been slept in upon the ground. He had some kind of a gaudy ring upon the hand which held her horse's bridle. Once or twice she speke to him. He answered without turning round. She soon perceived that they iwere going into the woods. She made an attempt to check her horse.

The one entrance was guarded by the great dog, who lay with his black muzzle between his fore paws, and his blood shot eye fixed upon her. Her heart died within her; but she turned proudly upon the villain.

"How long do you intend to detain me here, sir?"

"As long as I am obliged to stay here. You see," seating himself coolly upon a log, "I also am confined here against my will. 'Misery loves company, you know; and you happen to be the girl I choose, anyhow.' "Do you mean that you have done such a monstrous thing as to bring me here to live with you?"

here, now!" He rose and struck a light. The light revealed a small cavity in the side of the cave which Leroux-evidently used as a cupboard, as he proceeded to draw forth food and dishes. After a moment he brought her a, plate of fine wheat-bread and honey, and water in a silver goblet. She made a feint of eating. Meanwhile she examined the goblet curiously. It was of solid silver, richly en-chased, and marked by the monogram of the Marlowes, the wealthiest family in the village—people of taste and culture, whose names were now ringing throughout the country, on account of a tragedy enacted in their so, he had gone home and alarmed her house. the "Dolly vardens. If husbands are to be mistaken in "Dolly Varden" dresses, as was an unfortunate husband in Philadelphia, the sooner the fashion is squelched the better will it be for the peace of society. The husband in question one night missed from the supper table his wife Matildia, and inquired of his little boy whither had she gone, and just at that moment the dining-room door opened and a lady entered. The husband ob served a wild look in the eye, and also noticed that she was attired in an outlandish style, having on as he says,a dress with sunflowers, and cabbages, and pumpkins worked all over it and a lot of snakes squirming round for a background.

Rising the man said, "Madam. whom do you wish to see?" and then said aside, "Poor thing, she's crazy." This last remark settled the business for thim, as the weird female made a bolt and tightly grasped his Adam's apple; and choked him until his face assumed the color of a banner of the Commune. After she had enjoyed a surfeit of choking her husband she flopped into a chair, and with tears coursing each other down her cheeks, exclaimed:"That I should ever live to hear my husband say that I was crazy!" This amused the husband, and elevating himself to his full proportions, said: "You can't blame me, madam, for supposing you an insane woman, and now that I know you are really the mother of these interesting children, will you have the kindness to retire peel yourself off that piece of furniture chintz or window curtain, or what ever it is you, call it?" Wife Lost.

Yesterday, Mr. Alfred Nellis, of

From the St. Joseph (Mo) Herald.

Cincinnati, a large wholesale dealer there, was in this city looking for an absconding wife, who took with her $10,000 in United States bonds. Notlis was accompanied by a detective from Porkopolis, and from them we learn the following particulars of the elopement: On the 19th of April Mr. Nellis, who had been to New York to purchase his spring and summer stock, returned to his home to find it desolate, and in charge of a trusty servant, who informed him that her mistress had fled the evening previous with a clerk in the Nellis establishment, and had gone north. A search of the house revealed the absence of ten $1,000 bonds, and Mr. Nellis at once came to the conclusion that his wife and the clerk were in some way connected with the missing property. He secured the services of a detective, and the two left Cincinnati on the evening of the 22d of April, determined to find the fugitives. They were tracked to Kansas City, but there they seem to have slid out of all recognition, and the visit to this city was made in hopes of again striking the trail. The clerk's name, who is supposed to be a partner in Mrs. Nellis' flight, is Henry Wildhauer, a German by birth, but a most engaging person, and one likely to strike the fancy of a vain woman. He is represented to be 25 years old, of slim build, about medium height, dresses well, with auburn hair parted in the middle, side whiskers : no moustache, but a goatee. He lisps slightly in his talk and apes the New York swell. Mrs. Nellis is a woman past 30, but has the appearance of not being over 22. She is engaging in her manners, has a profusion of dark hair, dark eyes, and a scar on the right side of her neck.

children, one a girl four and a half years old and a boy of only 18 months. The cause of her defection is unknown to her husband, who is troubled over it, and is determined to find out the reason why. Wildhauer was the chief clerk in Nellis' store, but so far as Mr. Nellis knows never spoke to his wife previous to his going to New York.

The detective left for Omaha last evening, while Mr, Nellis returns to Kansas City to pick up the trail there

The Story of a Life. From the Kansas City Journal. Yesterday about noon a respectably attired woman, named Ruth Donald about 50 years of age, made applica tion to Mayor Hunt for a pass to

Louis. The story of her life is, indeed sad one. Twenty-four years ago, the city of New York, she met an married a gentleman who was connect ed with one of the Methodist Episco pal churches there as pastor, an shortly after their marriage he accept ed a position as missionary to India whither she accompanied him. Afte several years of labor at the mission ary station, her husband died, sh having meantime become the mothe of four children, all boys. Being lef almost desolate in a strange land, an having some relations living in Chicagi she and family moved there, where he father died. She subsequently re married and her new husband came t reside with herself and mother. Mean time the children by her first marriag had almost grown to man's estate, an had gone to the far West to seek the fortunes. By her second marriag she had three children, who were r siding with her at the time of the great fire. In that conflagration sl barely escaped with her life and he young family, losing her aged moth and husband in the flames. Helple and alonce one more in the world, sl looks like a circus dress; and the idea started to discover the whereabouts her four boys, who were at Lone Pin

California, employed as public teacers. With them she found a tempo ary home, together with the young members of her family. She was Lone Pine at the time of the rece terrific earthquake. Here she lost h four boys, and for the third time w friendless and alone. She made h cared for them. She has some frien at St. Louis, and is making her wa thither.

GOOD WORK.

The House of Representatives have at last revised, perfected and passed the now Tariff and Tax bill. It will be gratifying to the people, all except Liberal Republicans and Democrats, to know that this bill removes 343,633,769 from the burdens of taxation. This of course will be sad news to Greelevites and all who oppose the present administration. They had hoped that the tariff and taxes would: not be reduced, in order that they might have some show of opposition and prospects of success. The people understand that it is the fixed determination of the Republican party to reduce taxation and the tariff, just as fast and as much as the well-being, afety and prosperity of the country will admit of. Faster than this no true patriot desires Congress to reduce taxation or the tariff.

ADJOURNMENT OF CONGRESS. The House of Representatives on Monday concurred in the Senate resolution for the final adjournment of Congress on the 29th of May. There, however, appears to be too much work before the Senate to possibly get through by that time. The probabilities therefore are that the resolution will yet be rescinded, and the session prolonged a few days. It is only quite recently that Congress began to work, the former part of the session having been spent in inaugurating the Liberal Republican move, and such other matters as pertained to President making. It is hoped now that the few, days that remain of the present session will be devoted to the interests of the country, and not to politics. We have had fully enough political wirepulling for one session of Congress, and the people are wholly disgusted with the general manner of doing things in Washington, since the assembling of Congress in December. All well understand that, had it not been for Sumner, Trumbull, Schurz and a few others the present session of Congress would have been one of great advantage to the nation. These dissatisfied spirits were however determined that nothing should be done, except they could at every step throw distrust on the present administration. Their day for retarding the necessary legislation is about over, and the people rejoice to know that it is so.

CONGRESSIONAL QUESTION.

For the purpose of answering the question proposed by the friends of some of the Congressional aspirants, we write this article. They ask us, "Why does the RECORD advocate the nomination of Capt. Burrows, of Kalamazoo?" We might respond by asking, "Why do you advocate the nomination of some one else?" We preefer, however, as journalists, whose duty it is to watch carefully for the interests of the people, so far as we are able to do so, to give plain and unequivocal answers to the question propounded. We advocate the nonination of Mr.

Burrows,

Ist, Because we believe him to be a man of strict integrity.

*2d, ·Because he is a moral, Christian gentleman and a Temperance man. 3d, Because he is well qualified to represent this District with credit to himself and honor to his constituency. 4th, Because he is a man of the people-emphatically a people's man, and as such commands the respect and esteem not only of his own party, but of his political opponents.

5th, Because we are confident that no Republican, in the District, can poll so large a vote as Mr. Burrows, and hence no nomination will be so popular with the people.

6th, Because he is one of the best orators in the State, and hence can and will command and hold the attention of his auditors more thoroughly than any man in the District. And hence, at this peculiar juncture, is just such a man as the people need to represent them in Congress.

7th and last, but by no means least, he commands the respect, esteem and confidence of his own neighbors, whether of his political faith or not, in Kalamazoo, his home. For these, and sundry other reasons that might be enumerated. we advocate the nomination of Mr. Burrows, believing that his election will secure the greatest good to the greatest number. The Republican party has no votes to throw away, in the coming contest, in this District, and hence we believe in making the best and most popular nomination that can be made. This is not saying that we have no other men who will make good and true Congressmen, for such is not the case. We have simply indicated our preference and given some of our reasons therefor, as any other Republican has the undoubted right to do. And, if the coming Congressional Convention, in its assembled wisdom, shall select some other candidate. worthy the suffrages of the party, no paper in the District shall be a warmer advocate of his election than the

The following resolutions were adopted by the convention:

Resolved, 1. That the unexampled prosperity of the country, the universal feeling of stability which encourages enterprises of all kinds, the steady diminution of the National debt, the large reduction of taxation, the rapid extension of every right to every citizen, and the visible dissolution of the Democrat party, so long hostile to justice and equal rights, are the satisfactory proofs of National confidence in a Republican Administration of the Government.

Resolved, 2: That in our Judgement Gen. Grant has been as faithful and patriotic in the Cabinet as he was in the field, and that, relying upon his honest heart and pure purpose, his renomination to the Presidency is earnestly desired by the great mass of the Republican party.

Below we give an article fron Monday's Detroit Free Press. The article is full of sensible statements and conclusions, and the figurings in Greeley's favor are very fair. The Free Press is rabid in its opposition to Greeley, but the Baltimore convention may change | ling emphasis to the declaration, "in its tone. Its conclusions that Greeley | the midst of life we are in death." will be defeated, even if the Democracy should endorse him, are unboubtedly correct. They only show however for any Democratic success is for the Baltimore convention to endorse Greeley, and we incline to the belief it will do so, notwithstanding the opposition of the Free Press and other Democratic papers. The article referred to is as follows, and is headed "Statistics and Statements on the New

"It is incomprehensible that men of any political judgment and opinon can figure out under existing circumstances the probable or even possible success of this Greeley movement. There is scarcely a Republican paper in the United States that has given it support or sympathy. The New York Tribune is Greeley's own paper. The Chicago Tribune has been a Free Trade, anti-Grant paper before Greeley was dreamed of. The New York Sun has been a sneaking, libelous enemy of General Grant ever since he snubbed its editor, Charles A. Dana, as is also Wilkes of the Spirit of the Times. That is all there is of it on that side. Purely personal and without influence in the Republican party; those jour-nals are not worth considering in view of the unamimous expression of sentiment in the Republican party through its organs, its conventions, public meetings of all kinds, and through the journals to the number of a thousand that prefer Republican to Democratic principle. Not a prominent man, in national point of views, in the Reublican party attended the Cincinnati Convention, and took part in it except Carl Schurz, who went home disgusted and Gratz Brown who was nominated. for Vice-Psesident, and not a prominent man in the Republican party but Trumbull and Fenton, both soreheads, that have endorsed litesince. Under these circumstances what would be its chances in its party if left; to that? extend around the entire lake, a distance of fifteen miles. merely a difference of opinion in the Democratic party as to the support Democratic party as to the support Greeley could, under any circumstances, get from it. On the one sideand we give to meet the argument the extremes—do not they claim that scarcely a tenth of the party could be brought to his active supportwhile on the other side it is claimed he would be supported by the majority? Let us look at this by the light of figures. In 1868 the Republican vote was 3,300,000, and the Demo-cratic vote 3,000,000. The Republican vote has since been increased by 400,000 negro votes, making a strength so far as now known, of 3,700,000. Other figures may be guessed at, but these are the round numbers from official sources. There has, been a percentage of increase on both sides in the four years, but how divided can It is the general opinion that there only be guessed at. Now, if Mr. Greeley could get a half a million of votes from the Republican party, it would leave Grant's vote 3,200,000, and if he could get in addition three-quarters instead of a majority, or a tenth, of the Democratic vote, it would add 2,250,000 to his vote—altogether

2,750,000, or, in other words, leave him in a minority of 450,000. Surely this is most extravagantly figured in Greeley's favor. We do not believe he would get a half or a third of the vote we have assumed; and yet, as an.

erably gloomy prospect is the best that can be held out." By the great law of supply and demand, which regulates the prices of staple commodities, iron now is high, the demand exceeding the supply. It is high because enough is not made both in Europe and America to supply the demand. Cost has comparatively nothing to do with the price in the present state of the market. The duty of $7 per ton paid on foreign iron is part of the cost. The Commercial says that nobody will deny that the price of the domestic product is enhanced to the consumer to a least the amount of the duty, when the truth is nobody in his right senses believes it. The city of Storm Lake is located on the I. C. R. R., 245 miles west of Dubuque. The town site is bounded on the south by the lake after which the town is named: It contains at present about five hundred inhabitants, and dates its commencement Aug. 11, 1870. The town plat is the finest we ever saw, and the proprietor, Hon. John P. Blair, has shown great taste in laying it out. Lake Avenue runs north and south and is one hundred and twenty feet wide; other streets are one hundred, and others still are eighty. On each side of these streets have been planted a row of forest trees, numbering, in all, fifteen thousand, and hundreds more are being planted this spring. Eds. Record — Seeing that the pen of J. Your humble servant has looked over considerable of North Missouri, and is satisfied that it is a much, better State for stock raising and fruit growing than Michigan, and "also for corn, but Michigan will beat it for small grain. 'This country is natural for grass. We raise good corn, pota toes, fruit of all kinds, and tobacco will be more tobacco raised the coming season than has been for several the public domain; concerning the land years. This is owing to the rayages. of the chintz bug last season. Tobacco pays better than any other crop, I am told, as it is ready sale and brings a fair price.—The winter was long and cold, but little snow. The wheat winter killed very badly; and there are prospects for a slim wheat crop in North Missouri this year. Oats are looking well. We sowed oats in March this year when you were having sleighing up in the Pc-ninsula State. There are large crops of corn being planted this spring. Corn planting commenced about the 22d of April. Notwithstanding the backwardness of the Spring, farmers have hurried their work along as fast as possible. The prospect is good for an abundant fruit crop, this year.— The weather has been splended for the past two weeks, and farmers have improved the time in planting. Grass has a much heavier growth than it had at this time last year, and the clover is now beginning to head. We are having heavy showers, to-day, and they don't come amiss. We notice that considerable building is going on in our flourishing town this Spring, as well as other improvements. The well as other improvements. Hannibal & St. Joseph R. R. Yet these even are scarce enough, and very high. But the advance in gold will, at an inopportunate moment, tend to make matters worse for the manufacturing intrest. Very soon all the manufac turers will be obliged through necessi ty to enter the market for supplies and it is much to be feared that high prices will prevail. Manufactures may bolt after the lapse of a couple of months, by refusing to pay the high prices which farmers now ask for their wool. They will then be in a condition to stop their mills for some time if they choose, but this can only stem the current for a while. Woolen machinery enough will be run in this country. in any event to use up all the availasupplies of wool that can be procured from all quarters in the year 1872 and at high prices.

LOCATED. - Ferguson Bros. have concluded to locate their Washing Machine manufactory in this village. For several weeks they have been undecided whether to remain here or go some place where other inducements have been held out to them. Their machinery is in the rink building on the Park, and will at once be fitted up and ready to commence business:

Resolutions of Buchanan Lodge No. 75, I. O. O. F., on the Death of William Chambers. Whereas. It has pleased the Divine

Ruler of the Universe to call from among us our worthy Brother, William Chambers. Resolved, That while we, the members of the fraternity of which he was a mem ber, as well as his friends and kindred, most sincerely feel his loss from among us, yet we calmly submit to the mandate of Him who says, "Come." Resolved, Tunt our deceased Brother, in all business relations, was ever found to be honest and upright; in his social relation courteous and gentlemanly.

Resolved, That to his bereaved wife and children we would, in this their hour of sadness and mourning, tender our most heartfelt sympathies, and we would point them, in this their great affliction, to one who has promised to be the widow's God and the father of her fatherless children. Resolved, That a copy of the above preamble and resolutions be sent to the family of our deceased Brother; that they be published in the Berrien County Record, and a page of the Lodge Record be devoted to the minutes of the above.

Editors Record:—The following is the report of the school held in Niles Township, district No. 5, for the mouth ending May 17th: Number of pupils enrolled, twenty-five. Average attendance, eighteen. Average days of attendance of each pupil, thirteen and one-half. John Mead and Elmer Starr have received the greatest number of head marks in their respective spelling classes. The following have a perfect record in punctuality and attendance:

Janie Harding, Hattie Sandford, Rhoda Calvin, Annie Bliss, Dan Beattie. The deportment of the pupils is improving. I sincerely hope that another month will not pass without our school-room being cheered by the presence of parents and friends. LYDA A. HAMLIN, Teacher.

To Pathmasters. GENTS :- Owing to the death of our Supervisor, the assesment of this township has not been taken so that you can get your road warrents in time to work the roads. It is the right time now to do this work, and as the war-rents will not be out for a long time yet, I would suggest that you procure the last year's warrent, and invite the people to come out and work according to them. The Commissioners wil probably assess the same amount of work this year as last. By this means farmers can put road work in now when it will do the most good on the highway, and when it will be most convenient to them. Don't let us neglect our roads because we have had the misfortune to lose our Supervisor and can't get the D. Fisk.

Unconscious Influence.

It is not they alone who are trying purposely to convert or corrupt others who exert an influence. The doors of your soul are open on others' and that is well-nigh transparent, and what you are within you are ever showing yourself to be without, by signs that you have no ambiguous expression.
If you had the seeds of pestilence in your body, you would not have a more active contagion than you have in your tempers, tastes and principles. Simply to be in this world, whatever you are, is to exert an influence, an influence compared to which mere language and persuasion are feeble. Is your example harmless? Is if ever on the side of God and duty? You cannot doubt that you must answer for these impressions. If the influence you exert is unconsciously exerted, then it is only the most sincere, the truest expression of your character. Do not deceive yourself in the thought that you are, at least do-ing no injury, and are therefore living without responsibility. By a mere look or glance, not unlikely, you are conveying the influence that shall turn the scale of some one's immortality. Dismiss therefore, the thought that you are living without responsibility; that is impossible. The true philosophy of doing good is, first of all and principally to be good—to have a character that will of itself communicate good. There must and will be active effort where there is goodness of principle; but the latter we should hold to be the principal thing, the root and life of all .- Horace Bushnell.

We are touching our fellow-beings on all sides. They are affected for good or for evil by what we are, by what we say or do, even by what we think and feel. May flowers in the parlor breath their fragrance through the atmosphere. We are each of us saturating the atmosphere about us with the subtle aroma of our character. In the family circle, besides and beyond all the teaching, the daily life of each parent and child mysteriously modifies the life of every person of the household. The process on a wider scale is going on through the community. No man liveth to himself and no man dieth to himself. Others are built up and straightened by our unconscious deeds, and others may be wrenched out of their places, and thrown by our unconscious influ-

A Time of Action. Brethren, no time of seeming inactivity is laid upon you by God without any just reason. It is God calling upon you to do his business by ripening in quiet all your powers for some higher sphere of activity which is about to be opened to you. The time is coming when you shall be called again to the front of battle. Let that solemn thought of dread, yet kindling expectency, fill the cup of your life with the inner work of self-development which will make you ready and prepared when your name is called. The eighteen years at Nazareth, what was their result? A few years of act ion concentrated, intense, infinité; not one word, not one deed, which did not tell, and which will not tell upon the universe forever.—Stopford A Brooke.

Beyond Law.

We have already passed beyond the reach of some legal enactments. There are laws against stealing, but what do you care for them? The law of honesty, to this extent at least, is written in your mind and breast. There are laws against perjury and highway robbery; and if these statutes should, to-morrow, by the legislative power of the State, be made a hundred fold more stringent. it would be nothing to you. For you have been educated into the virtues which prevent these crimes. And to this extent you have passed from bondage into liberty—the freedom of virtue. Thus it is that he is the freeman whom Christ makes free by the inner life.—Rev. C. D. W. J. life.—Rev. C. D. Helmer.

Dying Rich. What an awful thing it is to die rich! Imagine the Master auditing the account of a servant who has left behind half a million. If that poor wretch who had but one talent was cast into outer darkness because he laid it up instead of using it in the Master's service, what will be the doom of those who, with their half millions and millions, (while giving, it may be, a few thousands for decency's sake,) have year after year hoarded up countless treasures which they could never use. Think of the poor saints pinched with cold and hunger! Think of the Redeemer's cause languishing for the want of the filthy lucre which they hold with close-fisted selfishness!

SPEAK kindly in the morning, it lightens the cares of the day, making household and other affairs move along more smoothly. Speak kindly at night, for it maybe that before the dawn some loved one may finish his or her span of life for this world, and it will be too late to ask forgiveness.

This preparation under solemn oath is conscientiously believed to be the only positive; reliable, infallible specific over discovered. The proof that no other specific exists is found in every community in persons afflicted for many years past and still suffering. If physicians could cure it; if a specific did exist, this would not be so.—1 a fact that must be universally admitted. The off decoived, auferer may wisely ask, what security or evidence has he that Dr. Filler's Rheumatic Syrup will dure, his case. The protection offered to patients against imposition is in a legally signed contract which will be forwarded without charge to any sufferer sonding by letter a description of affliction; this guarantee will state the exact number of bottles warranted to cure, and in case of failure the money paid will be returned to the patient. No other remedy has ever been offered on such liberal and honorable terms. Medical advice, with certificates from prominent Physicians, Clergmen, &c., who have been cured after all other treatments failed, sent by letter, gratis. Afflicted cordially invited to write for advice to the principal office, 45 South Fourth street, Philadelphia, Pa., Dr. Filler's Rheumatic Syrup is sold by Druggists.

> ty of this valuable Hair Preparation; which is due to merit alone. We can assure our old patrons that it is kept fully up to its high standard; and it is the only reliable and perfected preparation for restoring GRAY OR FADED HAIR to its youthful color, making it soft, lustrous, and silken. The scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean. It removes all eruptions and dandruff, and, by its tonic properties, prevents the hair from falling out, as it stimulates and nourishes the hair-glands. By its use, the hair grows thicker and stronger. In baldness, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, and will create a new growth, except in extreme old age. It is the most economical HAIR DRESSING ever used, as it requires fewer applications, and gives the hair a splendid, glossy appearance. A. A. as one of the most effectual remedies ever discovered for cleansing the sys-tem and purifying the blood. It has stood the test, of years, with a con-stantly growing rep-utation, based on its. intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic, contamination. Impurities, or diseases that have lurked in the system or diseases that have lurked in the system for years, soon yield to this powerful anti-dote; and disappear. Hence its wonderful cuites, many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases. Ulcers, Eruptions, and cruptive discretes of the skin, Tumors, Blotches, Bolls, Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or, Erysipe-las, Tetter, Salt, Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ulerations-of-the-Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures, other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepalisia; Fits! Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Eemale, Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhea, when they are manifestations of the scrottlops poisons.

terred a subject on a cold winter's night, and having dressed it, placed it, sitting upright, on the seat of a covered wagon, and started for home. Coming to a tavern, and seeing the bar-room lighted up, they left the wagon and went in for a drink. The ostler observing a man sitting in the cold wagon, attempted some conversation; but, receiving no answer, he discovered how the affair stood, and instantly resolved to have a little fun of his own on the occasion. So taking the corpse to the stable, he dress-ed himself in its clothes, and seated himself in the wagon. The students soon returned and took their seats by the side of the supposed dead man, when one of them in merriment gave him a slap on the face, "How would you like some flip, old fellow?" then remarked tremulously to his companion, "He is warm, by heavens!" "So would you be," replied the corpse, "if you had been stolen from h-l as I have." Both students bolted, and never returned to inquire for the horse and wagon.

A market girl sold a gentleman a fine fat goose, warranted to be young. It turned out to be unmanageably tough. The next day the gentleman said to the market girl: "That goose you sold me for a young one was very old."

"Certainly not," said the young girl; "don't you call me young?" "Yes." "Well, I am but nineteen, and I heard mother say often that that goose was just six weeks younger than me." A close-fisted old fellow, in treating a friend to some liquor, poured out a very small drink. The latter, taking the glass and holding it above his head, remarked, very skeptically: 'You say this is forty years old?'

"Yes," replied the host. "Then," replied our friend, "all I have to say is, it is very small for its age."

An editor relates how a colored barber made a dead-head of him. He offered him the usual dime for shaving, when the fellow drew himself up with considerable pomposity,

"I understand that you is an editor." "Well, what of it?" said we.

"We neber charge editors nuffin!" "But, my wooly friend," we continued, "there are a good many editors traveling nowadays, and such liberality on your part will prove ruinous
