STATEMENT RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES Of the County of Berrien, State of Michigan, for the year ending December 31, A. D. 1871.

EXPENDITURES To Whom Paid, Service, etc. Amount Claimed, Amount Allowed.

Austin Blair. "If the people of the State can longer place confidence in the political soundness of Austin Blair, and in his honor as a man, I cannot say this was the last sentence of the last political letter ever written by Senator Howard, Michigan's great statesman. In republishing that letter, Saturday morning, the words, 'the political soundness of' were omitted by the compositor, the error being what printers denominate 'an out.' When Senator Howard thus warned the people of Michigan that he had no faith in the political soundness of Austin Blair," he knew Mr. Blair thoroughly, from long association in Congress, and he understood fully the weakness and treachery of his character. Mr. Howard was, when that letter was written, in the prime of his intellectual power, and of ripe experience in political life. His warning was a prophecy, which the people of the State he loved so well and served so illustriously now see fulfilled. Nobody now has any confidence in the political soundness of Austin Blair," but all now agree with Senator Howard. Many of his new allies even distrust him. He will be true to them no longer than his interest and insatiable ambition bind him. Whenever he has an opportunity and a temptation, he will betray them just as shamefully as he betrayed the Republicans who placed confidence in his 'political soundness, and in his honor as a man.' -Detroit Post.

What is Sure to Follow. Democratic Liberalities grow eloquent over the results which will follow the defeat of President Grant. "The South will embrace the North, and peace and good-will reign everywhere." By what means this "peace and good-will" are to be brought about in the South may be judged by the means employed in the past. The Presidential election of 1858 in the State of Louisiana afforded an opportunity on this subject. The Democrats wanted to carry the election. As they could not outvote the Republicans they determined to kill them off. How well they succeeded may be learned from the report of the committee appointed to investigate the affair. We quote: "The testimony shows that two thousand persons were killed, wounded and otherwise injured in that State, within a few weeks prior to the Presidential election; that half of the State was overrun by violence; that midnight raids, secret murders, and open riots kept the people in constant terror until the Republicans surrendered all claims and then the election was carried by the Democracy."

It is says of the riot at the parish of St. Landry: "Have occurred one of the bloodiest riots on record, in which the Klukux killed and wounded over two hundred Republicans in two days. A pile of twenty-five bodies of the victims was found half buried in the woods. The Klukux captured the masses, marked them with badges of red flannel, enrolled them in clubs, marched them to the polls, and made them vote the Democrat ticket."

This is not fiction, but words of truth from an impartial report. This is "the peace and good-will" which would follow the defeat of President Grant; these are the "Liberal" rights which would be allowed the loyal citizens of these terrible regions are in favor of Horace Greely. This one fact should open the eyes of the people to the full meaning of this desperate combination of "anything to beat Grant." Defeat Grant, and the loyal people of the South are once more at the mercy of the rebel bloodhounds; who only need his defeat to finish their work of blood. Defeat Grant, and universal gloom will settle over the South, and obscure forever the sunshine of liberty which is just beginning to light up its once desolate fields. Defeat Grant, and civilization is retarded at least a century.

One of the most prominent Democratic leaders in Wisconsin, when twitted upon being compelled to support Greeley this fall, said: "I will support Greeley if I can save my skin, and if I cannot save my skin, I will support Grant." This is the rank and file understanding that they can always depend upon the RECORD and its columns to expose political trickery and defend the right. The RECORD has always, and will continue in the same line of duty, to advocate the rights of any and all parts of the County—to advocate a fair distribution of public offices, and the nomination and election to office of the best men in the party. If this will not Farmers will commence having next week—harvesting will commence in three weeks.—Bay City Journal, July 18.

There is a cherry tree in a yard, down by the lake, heavily laden with luscious ripe cherries, and also covered with blossoms preparatory to a new crop.—Cassopolis Vigilant.

A young infant some 4 or 5 weeks old, was left at a house just west of our village a few days since by a young unloving female, she taking advantage of the lady of the house absence for a minute in another room, passed out, and absconded, leaving the little mortal bundle behind. We understand that the infant is being cared for by the superintendents of the county poor.—Howell Republican.

One of our garden men has picked off a bush and two quarts and a pint of huffs from a little patch of potatoes forty feet square. He hopes to double the yield before the season is over, and he says he'll be cussed if he don't have some potatoes to boot.—Port Huron Commercial.

The Pontiac Bill Poster gives an account of a terrible and fatal accident at that village on the 11th. Mrs. Jas. A. Moore was carrying a lamp and a basket with her, and while carrying the contents ignited fired her clothes. She was so badly burned that she died in a few hours.

Owing to a want of rain, the quantity of logs in this section is getting rather low, and unless a change occurs soon, many of the mills will be compelled to shut down. Should they be compelled to do this, it will throw several hundred men out of employment who are entirely dependent upon their support.—Grand Haven Union.

Just as we go to press, the news comes, that Mr. J. D. Ballou, of Hart, committed suicide about three weeks ago by drowning himself in the mill pond, and was found between two and three o'clock on Monday last, about twenty feet above the dam. It seems that Mr. B. was a good, and quiet citizen, but himself and wife could not get along very well together, which is the probable cause of his departure.—Oscoda Times.

The village of Buchanan and vicinity, was visited by a severe hail storm to-day about one o'clock, destroying corn, oats and all other standing grain, and breaking the window glass in the houses and all other buildings. Mr. G. Gardiner informs us that he has been damaged about $500, and that others are in the same condition in proportion to their amount of standing grain. The hail stones were about the size of black walnuts. We have not heard the full extent of the storm.—Albion Mirror.

The wheat harvesting in this vicinity, is now pretty much finished. The weather has been extremely favorable for the farmers to secure their crop, and the time has been improved to the best advantage, the wheat having been secured in the best condition. The farmers are feeling jubilant as the yield is very much better than was expected, and the quality of the berry is first class.—St. Jo. Co. Rep.

Wm. Arnold of Dexter fell from the roof of his barn, on Wednesday, a distance of twenty feet, breaking his arm and injuring him severely. It is feared his injuries will prove fatal.—Ann Arbor Courier.

Rabe, the seceding Shaker of Lebanon, N. Y., writes that his objections to the shaker life are on the account of his habit of kissing and hand-shaking which he considers highly necessary and proper. He objects to the bigotry of the sect, the despotism of its leaders, its selfishness and extreme sectarianism, and other illiberal notions.

The Trouble with Unhappy People. We wish to be happy; but we set about it wrongly, and the false happiness which our generation pursues with mad desperation covers naught but profound wretchedness.

The True Method of Religious Inquiry. The true method of inquiry is the converse of that which men of science in our day commonly follow. Instead of beginning with the outward world of matter and seeking God primarily in the phenomena of nature, in the laws of electricity and gravitation, and in the mysteries of the first cause, we well said of the great collateral doctrine of a future life, we do not believe it because we have proved it, but we forever seek to prove it because we believe it.

A Good Father. The power of a holy mother is often charmingly recalled, but the power of a holy father is seldom mentioned. Of all inheritances the one in which I most rejoice is the memory of a wise, gentle father: I can see him now, best of all, as he used to kneel in family prayer.

"Phungrams" The Doctors Away. The healthiest town I ever knew was out in Illinois; one summer, when the doctors went East not to return for several months. The doctors found when they returned their patients had all recovered, the drug store had bustled, nurses had opened dancing schools, the cemetery was cut up into building lots, the undertaker had gone to making fiddles, and the village hearse had been gaudily painted and sold for a circus wagon.

A ludicrous accident occurred on a San Francisco horse-railroad recently. An elderly and very portly lady passenger signaled for the car to stop at a certain street, but of course the rear platform went a little beyond the dry crossing, and as a consequence the step was just over the mud, which was very deep. The old lady growled a great deal, and the conductor stepped off the car and offered his hands to guide her to the crossing, when, forgetting her expediting weight, she sank bodily into his outstretched arms, and, as a consequence, the conductor sat quietly down in the mud, and the passenger fell over his head.

A citizen of North Stonington, Connecticut, buried his first wife, and inscribed upon her tomb: "An Angel on Earth - A Saint in Heaven," which was all right. But when he buried his second along side his first, the marble dealer inscribed on her tomb: "Another Angel on Earth - Another Saint in Heaven;" and the neighbors want to know how long this thing is going to last?

A Quaker once hearing a person tell how much he had felt for another who was in distress, and needed assistance, dryly asked him: "Friend, hast thou felt in thy pocket for him?"

A gentleman was introduced to a young lady recently, and addressed her as follows: "Where do you live when at home?" To which she promptly replied: "When I'm at home I live there."
