HOW DR. JONES GOT HIS PIGS.

A STORY OF DOWN SOUTH.

Pork is one of the essentials of a plantation, and generally the planter desires some especially for his own table. Now, Dr. Smith having a litter of very fine pigs, Dr. Jones was desirous of obtaining two of them for his family pen. Writing a note to the proprietor of the infant swine, desiring that he would send him that number of pigs, he despatched it by a jolly old darkey who was duly supplied with a bag for the transportation of the pork. The old man at once set off, and traveled very diligently till he came to the cross-roads, where stood a grocery, which in that region, like Elder Bascom's, made famous by the Rev. Elder Nasby, means whisky, etc. Old Peter began to be fatigued with his walk as soon as he came in sight of said grocery, and stepped in

The whisky soon loosed his tongue. and being naturally garrulous, the loungers at the grocery soon learned all the particulars of his journey up | are a mind to," and trembling in every the road. Arriving in due time at Dr. Smith's he presented the note, and a couple of nice brown pigs were immediately selected, which Uncle Pete put in his bag and at once started for home. Considering the weight of the load and the heat of the day, it was not surprising that he again stopped for refreshments at the grocery. While he was doing so, one of the young men kept him busy answering questions, while another was employed in substituting for the pigs in the bag, two nice brown pups that chanced providentially to be in a shed adjacent. Unconscious of the change effected in his cargo, Uncle Pete shouldered the bag, and trudging

A Boy's Advice to Old Men. I cannot pick up a newspaper without "Advice to Boys" stares me in the face. Old men write it I 'spose. Nobody else is capable to give advice to boys, of course not! They know all about us, they do, 'cause they have been there. Advice is a good thing to have, no doubt, and no family should be without it, but a feller don't want to be crammed with it all the time to the exclusion of all other diet:

Now, old men need advice occasionally, but in looking through the newspapers I don't see that they get it. So I just thought I would write a little "Advice to Old Men" myself, if I am not presuming too much, (as Aunt Chloe says) and I presume I

In the first place you older chaps ought to get over telling how much smarter boys you were when you were boys than boys are now. You believe it yourselves, of course, 'cause you've told it so many times, but we boys can't see it. We have a notion that boys are boys, pretty much, (except some that are girls,) and one generation of them don't lay over another generation to any alarming extent.

"De Lord God Almighty," he cried, Only let you tell it, and you could his wool bristling in affright. After giving us boys sage advice about our conduct, and how to behave, you old men ought to be careful how you get to relating your boyish scrapes to each other and laughing over them before we are out of earshot. The other day grandfather read me a long lecture about the rights of property, temperance and Sabbath breaking. That night an old croney of his'n came to visit him, and they had a glass of punch together. They thought I was asleep on the sofa, and the way they run on about the fun they had when they were boys together. They told all about robbing Captain Ly-man's melon patch, and it turned out it was a Sunday night, too! When I went to bed they had their third glass of punch, and I don't know how many they had after that. I know grandfather's rheumatism was a great deal worse the next day, and he complained about his liver. Old men ought to be careful about taking too much punch.

I know old men hate to give in that they can't stand so much as they used to, or as young men can. They get mad if a feller like me hints that they can't. But what is the use of fooling yourselves? We have all got to play out some day, and when a man feels he is losing his grip, why not come down and acknowledge the corn? Now, in the above remarks we don't mean any disrespect. I like old men in their place, but I don't want much of their advice. Give the

Home Amusement.

Many very pretty chemical experiments may be made by the young people, which will amuse and astonish those around them. As for instance. with so simple an article as red cabbage, a very beautiful effect can be rendered in the following manner: Gut three leaves of cabbage into small pieces, and after placing them in a basin, pour a pint of boiling water color. Then take four wine glasses; into one put six drops of strong vin-

By adding a little vinegar to the green, it will immediately change to The Unknown People.

It makes one homesick in this world to think that there are so many rare people he can never know; and so many excellent people that scarcely any one will know, in fact. One discovers a friend by chance, and cannot but feel regret that twenty, or thirty years of life may be, have been spent without the least knowledge of him. When he is once known, through him opening is made into another little world, into a circle of culture and loving hearts, and enthusiasm in a dozen congenial pursuits, and prejudices, perhaps. How instantly and easily the bachelor doubles his world when he marries. and enters into the unknown fellowship of the, to him, continually increasing company which is known in popular language as "all his wife's relation."

Near at hand daily, no doubt, are those worth knowing intimately, if one had the time and the opportunity. And when one travels he sees what a vast material there is for society and friendship, of which he can never avail himself. Car load after car load of summer travel goes by one at any railway station, out of which he is sure he could choose a score of lifelong friends if the conductor would introduce him. There are faces of refinement, of quick wit, of sympathetic kindness, interesting people, traveled people, entertaining people, as you would say in Boston "nice people, you would admire to know." whom you constantly meet without a sign of recognition, many of whom are no doubt your long-lost brothers and sisters.

You can see that they also have their worlds and their interests, and they probably know a great many "nice" people. The matter of personal liking and attachments is a good deal due to the mere fortune of association. More fast friendships and acquaintanceships are formed on the Atlantic steamships between those who would have been only indifferent acquaintances elsewhere, than one would think possible on a voyage which naturally makes one as selfish as he is indifferent to his personal appearance. The Atlantic is the only power on earth I know, that can make a woman indifferent to her personal appearance. - Scribner's Magazine.

Don't allow them to study too much, and especially keep them from reading the exciting light literature which so much abounds in our book stores and circulating libraries. In addition to securing exercise for the children as above, change their diet somewhat: especially if they have been eating fine flour, change to coarse or graham flour.

Sickness is the most expensive thing on the globe. There may be instances where it makes people better, but generally makes them selfish, sad, misanthrope, nervous, mean and miserable. The best way to make children happy and good is to keep them well. -Boston Journal of Chemistry.

Evils of Gossip.

I have known a country society which withered away all to nothing under the dry-rot of gossip only. Friendships once as firm as granite dissolved to jelly, and then ran away to water, only because of this; love that promised a future as enduring as heaven, and as stable as truth, evaporated into a morning mist that turned to a day's long tears, only because of this. A father and a son were set foot to foot with the fiery breath of anger that would never cool again between them, only because of this; and a husband and his young wife, each straining at the hated leah, which, in the beginning had been the golden bondage of a God-blessed love, sat mournfully by the side of the grave where all their love and joy lay buried, and only because of this. I have seen faith transformed to mean doubt. hope give place to grim despair, and charity take on itself the features of black benevolence, all because of the spell words of scandal, and the magic mutterings of gossip.

Great crimes work great wrongs, and the deeper tragedies of life spring from its larger passions; but woful and most melancholy are the uncatalouged tragedies that issue from gossip over them, letting them stand an and detraction; most mournful the hour; then pour off the liquid into a shipwreek often made of noble natures decanter. Twins, by Jove!-A Railroad Episode. [From the Ohio Sentinel.]

The Pacific Express train on the Pan-Handle Railroad left the Columbus depot on Friday evening last, under the charge of Conductor Drurv. Nothing transpired to disturb the monotony of the conductor's call on drowsy passengers for "tickets, gen-tlemen," until the train was between Dennison and Steubenville. Then he was notified that a lady passenger desired his presence. He found the lady evidently in some trouble and embarrassment. To his affirmative response to the query whether he was married, the lady stated that she was on her way from Cincinnati to meet her husband in New York, and that a crisis was impending, involving the

This startled the conductor, of course, but with a heart big as an elephant he sets to work to make the lady comfortable. All the passengers are hastily shuffled into another car, and such female assistance as could be procured on the train was brought into requisition. In a brief time the little stranger—a fine bouncing girl is the phrase-put in an appearance, and the conductor congratulated himself on his happy escape from a dilemma. With a heart overwhelming with sympathy, he arranged an impromptu wardrobe for the very young lady from his own underclothing. It was not exactly in the style of those "infant outfits" advertised in the New York papers, yet it served a good pur-

The twins certainly commenced life under extraordinary circumstances. Born on a fast-going Pacific train, the one in Ohio and the other in West Virginia, it is safe to promise that they will be reasonably fast young people. An Odd Proposal of Marriage.

Pitts was a sharp business man, and when Pitts goes into a store to trade he always gets the lowest cash price, and then says, "Well, I'll look about, and if I don't find anything that suits

Now quite lately Pitts said to himself, "I'm getting rather along in years, and I guess I'll get married." His business qualities wont let him wait, so off he travels, and calling upon a lady friend opened the conversation remarking that he would like to know what she thought about his get-

The Squire's Indigestion.

Old Squire H--- was a very successful and substantial farmer in an interior town in Massachusetts, and a more amazing eater never lived in any town anywhere. And especially much did he eat when fresh pork was to be his nourishment. Well, at a certain time, one of his hogs had been killed. The next morning there was fresh pork for breakfast, and the old man ate most wondrously. In the course of the forenoon he ate his luncheon, consisting of bread and butter, mince pie and cheese. At noon his dinner consisted of fresh pork, pickles, mince pie and the usual accompaniments. His afternoon luncheon was like that of the forenoon. When he came home to supper, his favorite dish had not been prepared as part of that meal. The old man fretted and scolded till fresh pork was added to the substantials. In the evening he toasted some cheese, buttered and ate 1t. Just before going to bed he roasted a couple of apples and ate them. In the night he was taken with a severe colic. The doctor was with him till the morning, and nearly wrought a miracle in saving the old man's life. The next day Bolles W—, one of his neighbors, went in to condole with the Squire on his illness. CHICAGO Was reached and presented an examile of the most indomitable energy and perseverance ever exhibited by ery people. In many places it would be difficult, even now, only a little over a year since the great fire, to discover the ravages of the destroying c'ement of Oct. Sth and 9th, 1871. If it were not for the fragments of a fallen wall here, and a blackened tree there, one would scarcely recognize the fell destruction that cast such a gloom over the country when the telegraph said, "Chicago, the glory of the West, is in ashes." The energy and devotion of the Chicagoeans are wenthy the highest praise, and this energy is building New Chicago more livious and grand than the Old. Ero

The country from Chicago to Galesburg is mostly level, with occasional rolling prairie. The soil is of the richest quality. It is also the eastern terminus of the Burlington & Missouri River railroad, running to Omaha, Nebraska City and Kansas City. From this point there are railroad communications to all parts of Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Western and Northern Missouri. The Mississippi at this point is spanned by one of those grand iron railroad bridges, which of itself is an item of no small interest to the traveler, especially as he slowly passes from the Illinois side to the Iowa side of the Great River, and from the car window watches the current as it courses its way to the Gulf. Burlington has now a population of more than 15,000, and is certainly one of the pleasantest cities of the Mississippi. The streets are regularly laid out and ornamented with this road to fruit, shade and ornamental trees, and this place well deserves the name it has won as the "Orchard city." > HOPKINS We find ourselves in Missouri, and surrounded with a fine and delightful country. Here we begin to notice occasionally a field of winter wheat. It looks rather pale and small, does not appear to be in as healthy and vigor-ous condition as our Michigan fields. Hopkins is a place of perhaps 800 inhabitants, and is the southern terminus of the B. & M. R. R., and the northern terminus of Marysville branch of Kansas City, St. Joseph & Council Bluffs R. R. After leaving Hopkins, and as we neared St. Joseph, Mo., the fields of winter wheat became more frequent, and presented a healthier appearance. Also, the farms and general appearance of the face of the country indicated that this region had been longer under cultivation. ST. JOSEPH.

Here we first come in sight of the Missouri river, that muddy, crooked and uninviting sheet of water, on whose opposite banks we could see the abodes of Kansasiseans. Here we noticed the changes that years have produced. Our first visit to St. Joseph was in March, 1850, when the city was but a small village compared with its present proportions. At that time not a civilized residence was on the opposite side of the river, but only wild, uninhabited Kansas lay beyond. Again, in 1859 we visited St. Joseph, and found that nine years had wrought great changes. Now, in 1872, we behold the place again, with its over 20,000 inhabitants, a prosperous city, substantially built, and containing some as fine residences and business buildings as can be found in almost any city. The country around St. Joseph is of the best quality of soil, well improved, with fine farm houses, orchards, and all that goes to make up pleasant and prosperous country. Leaving this city we hurry rapidly down the Missouri river, the railroad following the Missouri bottoms, sometimes in sight of the river and sometimes miles away, owing to the width of the bottom lands. Here we begin, more forcibly than anywhere else, to see the remains of the peculiar institution. Here and anon is a large plantation, with the negro huts still standing. The lack of that enterprise characterizing the North becomes more marked as we pass plantation after plantation, and see the old and apparently lifeless Missouri towns. The general productions here are stock, corn and hemp. Large fields of hemp are to be seen, with the shocks as east of Burlington and 165 miles thick as in a Northern corn field. Winter wheat is still raised here. We on this route, but we can only pause

The New York World, the leading Democratic organ, recently contained an editoral which is provoking the comments and crticisms of the press generally. During the Presidential campaign, every Democratic paper, and every Democratic orator throughout the country, was loud in denouncing what they termed "Centralization of power in the National Government." It was nothing else than the old doctrine of State Rights; the non-interference on the part of the general government with State legislation. The World now surprises everybody in proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, so as to allow the people to elect the President and Vice President by a direct vote. It not only recommends that National elections be put under-the absolute control of the general government, but that the Constitution should require that the National and State elections should all be held on the same day. Now, if there is any State right which should be held sacred from National interference, it is the right of each State to control its own elections in any manner it may choose to adopt. The proposed amendment would have a tendency to centralize power in the hands of the National government to an extent that would be most bitterly opposed by the most rabid Republicans. The World says: "The State elections of the Presidential year are mere tests of the strength of Presidential candidates, enabling the Federal Administration to concentrate its influence on those States, and over-ride the public judgment by fastidious local successes. If all State elections were held on the same day, and the Presidential election on the selfsame day, citizens would vote according to their own convictions, and not according to their estimate of the success of this or that candidate as indicated in the preliminary State elections, which are easily controlled by Federal influence. The Federal Administration can concentrate all its power to carry Maine in September and Pennsylvania in October, and thereby give such a false impression of its strength as to discourage all opposition." It is not so much the object mentioned with which we disagree, as the means proposed for accomplishing that object. In the form of a recommendation to Congress and the Legislatures of the various States, the above would not be so objectionable, but that the control of State elections should be given to Congress, or the rights of the States in this particular in any wise abridged by an amendment to the Federal Constitution, is a matter entirely inconsistent with the first principles of our Republican form of government, and one to which the people of the different States would never

ol over the National elections pass many places of historic interest | if it saw fit, might order them at the same time of the State election. Ox the other hand, the election of State officers and county officers should be left exclusively to the management and control of the people of each State. If the people of any State say that the State election shall be on the day fixed by the government for the election of President, Congressmen, etc., and subject to the same regulations, the matter should be left entirely to their decision. It is our belief that the National and State elections would better be separated, instead of being bound more closely together. Their being together leads to a centralization of power, and the infring-ment of the rights of the States. The claim could not be made that National issues carry the State elections, if the latter were held separate and alone, and managed as the needs and necessities of each State might the great Southwest what Chicago is require. The administration would then have no interest in the State the magnificent iron bridge of the issues directly at stake, and the Gov-Hannibal & St. Jo. R. R. Co. The Directors of the Northern Pacific Railroad have appointed Hon-Wm. A. Howard, of this State, Land Commissioner and President of the road. The selection is a good one, as Mr. Howard is a good financier, possessing business qualifications second to none in the western country.

There has recently been a very interesting law case at Ottawa, Ill., entitled Griffin vs. Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company. The plaintiff claimed that he paid his fair from Mendota to Earle. The defendant's attorney attempted to disprove the testimony of the plaintiff by producing the day's sales and tickets in court, and requested the Court to instruct the jury that a passenger, when once expelled from a train loses his right to ride on that train, whether he subsequently offers to pay his fare or not. The Judge refused to give the instructions. The plaintiff's attorney appealed to the jury to protect the public against such outrages, and asked the Court to instruct the jury, which was given, to the effect that it was the duty of the conductor to give Griffin a check when he took his ticket, or in some other way guard himself against the possibility of committing a mistake. The jury were absent about three hours, and returned with a verdict finding the defendant guilty, and assessed the plaintiff's damages at $1,500. A motion for a new trial was entered by the defendant's counsel, and the motion overruled by the Court. The case now goes to the Supreme Court, and its decision will be looked for with considerable interest.

The progressive not only are intent upon matrimony, but they scorn the invitation of the old fogies to evacuate, persisting in claiming both an abiding place and a share in the property which their hands have assisted in accumulating. The plea of the progressive is that the extension of the old fogy doctrine into a universal religion would eventunte in the extermination of the species, a result neither theoretically a religious

An Address by the United States Centennial Commission.

To the People of the United States: The Congress of the United States has enacted that the completion of the One Hundredth Year of American Independence shall be celebrated by an International Exhibition of the Arts, Manufactures, and Products of the soil and mine, to be held at Philadelphia, in 1876, and has appointed a Commission, consisting of representatives from each State and Territory, to conduct the celebration.

Originating under the auspices of the National Legislature, controlled by a National Commission, and designed as it is to "Commemorate the first Century of our existence, by an Exhibition of the Natural resources of the Country and their development, and of our progress in those Arts which benefit mankind, in comparison with those of older Nations." it is to the people at large that the Commission look for the aid which is necessary to make the Centennial Celebration the grandest anniversary the world has ever seen.

That the completion of the first century of our existence should be marked by some imposing demonstration is, we believe, the patriotic wish of the people of the whole country. The Congress of the United States has wisely decided that the Birth-day of the Great Republic can be most fittingly celebrated by the universal collection and display of all the trophies of its progress. It is designthe fire at Galva, Henry Co., Ill., ed to bring together, within a build-which occurred on the 20th of this ing covering fifty acres, not only the month, destroying two-thirds of the varied productions of our mines and business portion of that town, with a of the soil, but types of all the intelloss estimated at $300,000, the dailies | lectual triumphs of our citizens, speciand county papers contain numerous mens of every thing that America accounts of great conflagrations in can furnish, whether from the brains different parts of the country. People or the hands of her children, and thus should learn a lesson by these reports, make evident to the world the advancement of which a self governed people is capable.

In this "Celebration" all nations will be invited to participate; its character being International. Europe will display her arts and manufactures, India her curious fabrics, while newly opened China and Japan will lay bare the treasures which for centuries their ingenious people have been perfecting. Each land will compete in generous rivalry for the palm of superior excellence. To this grand gathering every zone will contribute its fruits and cereals. No mineral shall be wanting; for what the East lacks the West will supply. Under one root will the South display in rich luxuriance her growing cotton, and the North in miniature, the ceaseless machinery of her mills converting that cotton into cloth. Each section of the globe will send its best offerings to this exhibitien; and each State of the Union, as a member of one united body politic, will show to her sister States and to the world, how much she can add to the greatness of the nation of which she is a harmonious part.

To make the Centennial such a suc cess as the patriotism and the pride of every American demands will require the co-operation of the people of the whole country. The United States Centennial Commission has received no Government aid, such as England extended to her World's Fair, and France to her Universal Exposition, yet the labor and responsibility imposed upon the Commission is as great as in either of those undertakings It is estimated that ten millions of dollars will be required, and this sum Congress has provided shall be raised by stock subscription, and that the people shall have the opportunity of subscribing insproportion to the population of their respective States and Territories; 2000 112 1000

The Commission looks to the unfail ing patriotism of the people of every section to see that each contributes its share to the expenses, and receives its share of the benefits of an enterprise in which all are so deeply interested. It would further earnestly urge the formation in each State and Territory of a centennial organization, which shall in time see that county associations are formed, so that when the nations are gathered in 1876, each Commonwealth can view made to the national glory.

-On Sunday last, a young man upposed to be from Capac, St., Clair County, was accidentaly shot to death in Watertown. It seems he had been standing on a stump watching the runaway, leaning on the muzzle of the gun, one hand over it. The top of the stump was coaled, the butt of the gun resting near the edge, the coal broke away, the gun slipped down striking the hammer and both barrels were discharged in the abdomen.—Sanilac Teffersonian.

-The Coldwater Republican says: The contractor, Mr. Canfield, Com-missioner Barber and Surveyor Bonnet have been busy several days, past in locating the State Public School buildings. The central building will be situated on the brow of the bill, facing Morse street, and the other buildings arranged in a semi-circle around it. This location gives a mag-nificent view of the whole city and surrounding country. Mr. Canfield's bid was $63,000, which does not include heating apparatus gas fixtures,

-We clip the following from the Lawton Tribune: A man got into a quarrel with his wife the other mornin, left the house in a terrible rage, scized his axe, and chopped two cords of wood before he stopped.

-The Tuscola Pioneer of Nov. 24th contains the following: J. R. Livingston, on a recent hunt near here, shot a huge wild cat. It measured over four feet from its nose to the extremity of its tail, and was judged to be an old one. Mr. L. will have the skin

-The following we notice in the Pontiac Jacksonian of Nov. 21st: On Saturday evening last, at about half past seven o'clock, a fire broke out in the flouring mill at Auburn, three and a half miles southeast of Pontiac, totally destroying the building and its contents. The property was owned by R. C. Hamlin & Sons, of this city, and valued at $15,000. The mill was insured for $7,000 and the stock for $3,000.

The following is from the Lansing Republican of Nov. 21st: Last Thursday night, about half past 6 o'clock, the dead body of a man named George W. Lee was found just over the fence at the corner of Lenawee street and Capitol avenue. He was an old bachelor, about 60 years of age, and had a brother living in Portland and a sister in De Witt. He resided in a small red house on Pine street, near Hillsdale, in this city, and professed to be a doctor by means of manipulation or "laying on of hands."

-Last week we noticed the death Mrs. George Beamer of this city and that eight of her sons acted as pall bearers, giving it as an incident almost without parallel. A cousin of her husbanb, John Beamer, died in Canada last week, and six of his sons were present and acted as pall bearers at his funeral.—Lansing Republican.

Having a nice Wood.-Parties who have promis- all right and proper, but what good ting it out not available? Fires are occurring in villages and cities in our State nearly every day. We can't escape entirely. Sooner or later the alarm of fire will be heard in Buchanan, and it may come when we are not prepared, as we should be, to oppose the devouring element, and our village be entirely destroyed, and on account of negligence which may be called, in such cases, criminal.

> FIRE.—The baggage car on the Night Express, East, was discovered to be on fire, when about one mile east of night of this week. The fire was discovered barely in time to save the life of the baggage master, who, it appears, was asleep in the car. The train was detatched and the baggage car was entirely consumed, and most of its contents. There was evidently a great amount of watches and jewelry on the Express, according to the claims presented for damages, and judging also from the character of the debris and ruins some of which is said to be of considerable value. The saddest feature of all is, that there was a corpse on the train, which was burnt, the head and limbs being entirely consumed. What remained of the body was taken in charge by Mr. Treat, the Agent at this station, who, in accordance with instructions, shipped the same to Detroit. We can give no estimate of the damages of this fire, but if reports are reliable they must exceed

THE JUBILEE of the NEW YORK OB-SERVER is to be celebrated by the issue of a valuable illustrated JUBILEE YEAR-BOOK, which the publishers propose to send free to every subscriber. The OBSERVER has completed its 50th year, and bids fair, judging from the great success that attends its publication, to lead the Religious Press for another fifty years. We can safely say a good word for the New York Observer as a family newspaper of the first class, and one that, while in it will be found entertainment and instruction for every member of the household, will always tend to promote those principles that make valuable neighbors and good citizens. We advise our friends to subscribe for it, and secure the Jubilee Year-Book, gratis. $3 a year. Sidney E. Morse & Co., 37 Park Row, New York.

MANY of those who have taken every precaution to have their horses among the equine race, have not succeeded in their attempts. The disease is more of an epidemic than a contagion, and is likely to reach every horse in the country. At least, the chances for escape do not appear to be greater when stabled all the time than when they are used. It is well to use horses with care so as to have 218-201 white boys and 17 colored them in a good condition when attack-

THE ST. Jo. PAPERS are severe on the business men of that place, for giving orders for job printing to the amount of $500, to a runner of some foreign printing office. The papers of that village are filled every week with news that tends directly to the building up the interests of the place, to the benefit of these men. They explain in detail the advantage offered in that vicinity for business, the desirableness of the soil and climate for fruit culture, and elegant houses for those who wish to retire from an active business life. They spent their time and money to gain for the fruits and products of that country a reputation as wide as the Universe itself; they labor continually to encourage the settlement and improvement of that particular section of countrythe investments of capital in the various business enterprises; and then, to have the very men who should stand by them, and aid them in every way in this work, give their patronage to a fereign office, because they expect thereby to save a few pennies, is, to say the least, very poor consolation indeed. It is simply one of the meanest and most contemptible things con-

Still he seems to have had good luck among some poor parties who would hardly be guilty of patron-izing a local establishment or of cursing any one who went out of town to buy anything in their line. Of course such a thing as reciprocity is not to be thought of, but if a poor devil of a printer went away to buy a garment or a bill of groceries he would be published among those people as an ene

In the matter of the estate of Catharine Rephart, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Jacob Rephart, praying, among other things, for the probate of an instrument in writing purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, and that administration on said estate may be granted to himself.

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 28d day of December next, at 110 clock in the forencon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs atlaw of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the village of Berrien Springs, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted. And it is further ordered, that said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Berrien County Record, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County of Berrien, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

> The Two Grades. Louis Ran, Epich?

The up grade in life requires the exercise of temperance, patience, carefal study, constant watchfulness, untiring industry, persistent labor,—but it leads to a serone plain on which could the temple of truth. Those who attain thereunto have achieved a great success. The down grade is easily made. It requires no effort to pass over it. The drinking saloon, the gumbler's den, the chambers of infinity are way stations. Idlers, vulgar and profune persons, tipplers, the mebanehee and the wanton, are comranions on the way. Trains run over this route by their own gravity, and with accelerated volocity. Its end is destruction, which is quickly reached. And there are numerous short curves lands, from which travelers are often Larled to speedy and awful death, Young man! if on the down grade

The Test of Small Things. In small things lie the crucibles and touchstones. Any hypocrite will come to the Sabbath worship, but it is not every hypocrite that will attend prayer meetings, or read the Bible in secret, or speak privately of the things of God to the Saints. You shall find the same true in other things. A man who is no Ohristian, will very likely not tell you a downright lie by saying that black is white, but he will not hesitate to declare that whitish-brown is white—he will go that length. Now, the Christian will not go half-way to falsehood—nay, he scorns to go an inch on that road. He will no more cheat you out of twopence farthing, than he would out of two thousand pounds. He will not rob you of an ell. Even a Pharisee will ask Christ to his house to sit at meat with him—he is willing to entertain a great religious leader at his table; but it is not every one who will stoop down and unloose His shoes, for that very Pharisee who made the feast, neither brought him water to wash his feet, nor gave Him the kiss of welcome; he proved the insincerity of his hospitality by forgetting the little things. I will be bound to say Martha and Mary never forgot to unlose His shoe-latchets, and that Lazarus never failed to see that his feet were washed. Look then, I pray you, as Christians, to the service of Christ in the obscure things, in the things that are not recognized by men, in the matters which have no honor attached to them, for by this shall your love be tried.—Spurgeon.

Power in the Heart. The zeal that God excites within us is often the means of effecting the purpose which we desire. After all, God does not give conversions to eloquence, but to heart. The power in the hand of God's Spirit for conversions is heart coming in contact with heart. Truth from the heart goes to the heart. This is God's battle-axe and weapon of war in His crusade. He is pleased to use the yearnings, longings, and sympathies of Christian men as the means of compelling the careless to think, constraining the hardened to feel, and driving the unbelieving to consider. I have little confidence in elaborate speech and polished sentences as the means to reach mens' hearts, but I have great faith in that simple-minded Christian woman who must have souls converted, or she will weep her eyes out over them, and in that humble Christian who prays day and night in secret, and then avails himself of every opportunity to address a loving word to sinners. The emotion we feel and the affection we bear are the most powerful implements of soul-winning. God, the Holy Ghost usually breaks hard hearts by tenderness.—C. H. Spur-

The need of our Times.

Not eloquence in the pulpit nor wealth in the news, but the reviving influence of the Holy Spirit. Spur-geon says—"The Holy Spirit is able to make the Word as successful now as in the days of the apostles. He can bring in by hundreds and thousands as easily as by ones and twos. The reason why we are not more prosperous is that we have not the Holy Spirit within us in might and power as in early times. If we had the Spirit sealing our ministry with power, it would signify very little about our talent. Men might be poor and uneducated; their words might be broken and ungrammatical; there might be none of the polished periods of Hall or glorious thunders of Chalmers; but if the might of the Spirit attended them, the humblest evangelist would be more successful than the most eloquent of preachers. It is extraordinary grace, not talent, that wins the day. It is extraordinary spiritual power we need. Mental power fills a chapel but spiritual power fills, the Church. O, we know some before whom we shrink into nothing as to talent, but who have no spiritual power, and when they speak they have | not the Holy Spirit with them; but we know others—simple-hearted, worthy men, who speak their country dialect, and who stand up to preach in their country with power. Hearts are broken, souls are saved and sinners are born again. O; Spirit of the living God, we want thee! Thou art the life, the soul, the source of thy. people's success. Without thee they can do nothing; with thee they can do every thing.

This wonderful vegetable restoraive is the sheet anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and corand switches tended by unfriendly dial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachies. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, t is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits.

IAGAN'S MAGNOLIA BALM gives to the Complexion the Freshness of Youth. HAGAN'S MAGNOLIA BALM overcomes the lu shed appearance caused by heat, fatigue and excitement. It makes the lady of forty appear but twenty, and so natural and perfect that no person can detect its application. By its use the roughest skin is made to rival the pure radiant texture of youthful beauty. It removes redness, blotches, and pimples. It contains nothing that will injure the skin

MAGNOLIA BALM is used by all fashionable adies in New York, London and Paris. It costs only 75 cents per Bottle, and is sold by all Druggists and Perfumers. [45y1e8w1

That has given such Universal Satisfaction Thousands that have Used them since their introduction in April, 1870. Having, in every instance, produced a perfect eure la the worse cases of sore neck. The medicinal and cooling properties, with the advantage of always having a perfect, smooth surface, is a guarantee against chang; and will in all cases cure the most irritated sore necks, as hundreds will resulf that have given them a trial. All we ask of the most scrupulous is to give our Zinc Collar Pad a fair trial; as we feel confident in warranting them to do all we claim, and give satisfaction.

WHAT WE CLAIM... First. Is the chemical action of the Zinc, with the acid and satine constituents of moist sores, resulting in an astringent, acting speedily on the edges of the wound, and by its smooth surface and cooling stendency, quickly produces a cure.

Scond. It prevents, in all cases, the hame strap coming in contact with the neck, or the hames from contracting the top of the collar, and thereby pinching, the cords of the neck, and is the only Pad made that will not wear the hair on the neck.

Third. With the use of them you can work arwnecked horse every day, and cure the worst cases in from six to ten days, as has been done in many cases during the last season.

FOURTH. It is the most durable Pad ever made.

We deem it unnecessary to add other advantages, or even to add the numerous testimonials we have received during the short use of our Zinc Pad, and only last that it may have a tait trial; feeling full confidence in the success of the goods. coss of the good.

The reputation Dr. Price has acquired by candid, honcest dealing; and years of successful practice, has induced unprincipled persons to copy; and imitate him as far as they dare, in order to deceive. Lat it be remembered that no person in the west its treating Obronic Diseases similar to Dr. Price—that his practice is not one of experiments, but founded, on the laws of Natura with years tof, experience and evidence to suistain it. That, it does not tear down to build up—make sick, to make well—no harsh treatment, but furfaing, bu fintering. We know the cause and the remedy needed, no guess work, but knowledge gained by years of experience. In the treatment does not remember these diseases exclusively; no encouragement without aprospect. Candid in our opinion, reasonable in our charger, claim not to know everything, or so cure everybody, but do claim to reason and common some. Well, that's what our parson said. Now I'll tell you what I said to my missus, as us was walkin' through the lower meadows; says I: Don't hold wi' the parson; it isn't reasonable that we should burn forever and ever —no constitution could stand it." May the other day, I saw a young man leaning over the railing of the upper deck; and with considerable violence giving to the winds and the sea the contents of his stomach. Just at this juncture one of the boat officials, walking briskly by, asked in a patrenizing manner, "sick, sir ?"

"You don't suppose I'm doing this for fun, do you?" said the poor fellow, indignantly, as soon as could recover his breath.

At a certain school in Green county, Iowa, the scholars caught a skunk and put it in the schoolmarm's desk, thinking she would smell something and give them a holiday. She wasn't one of that kind. She took a spring clothes pin, fastened it on her nose, went on with the exercises, and let the scholars enjoy the perfume.
