The great busy West has inducements.

But wealth is not made in a day, boys, Don't be in a hurry to start! The bankers and brokers are wealthy, They take in their thousand or so,

Ah I think of fraud and deceptions,

Don't be in a hurry to go ! The farm is the safest and surest,
The orchards are loaded-to-day;

Come boys, I have something to tell you,

Come near, I would whisper it low-

But think of the vices and sins;

You talk of the mines of Australia,

When once in the vortex of fashion, How soon the course down ward begins.

They're wealthy in gold without doubt; But all I there is gold on the farm boys, If only you'll shovel it out.

Don't be in a hurry to go! The city has many attractions,

You're free as the air of the mountains And "monarch of all you survey." Better stay on the farm a while longer. Though profits come in rather slow; Remember, you've nothing to risk, boys-Don't be in a hurry to go.

> Story. DEBBY.

BY MRS. E. P. C.

She was such a funny-looking little creature you felt like laughing every time you looked at her. She was so short and round, and had such a comical way of saying and doing every-thing. Everbody loved Debby, she wes so good-natured and affectionate. Her mother said the only fault she had was carelessness. She went rolling and bumping heedlessly along through the world, much to the detriment of many things with which she came in contact. But even her mother, who scolded, threatened and whipped her almost constantly, adored her -at least she said she did-and I believe her, for if Debby's fault was carelessness, her mother's was lack of patience. The day was a cold, blustering one in midwinter, and Debby, who was on her best behavior, had been admitted into the parlor, and was tiptoeing around the room so as not to wake Uncle Lu, who lay on the sofa, only pretending to be asleep, yet watching her. Uncle Lu was nice, Debby said. He lived in New York, but he came twice a year for a visit, and Debby was a great pet and favorite with him: Uncle Lu was an old bach, but, unlike what they are generally supposed to be, he was fond of children, especially this one. Her mother was his only sister, and his heart was full of tender memories of their early childhood, his thought reverting to those bygone days when he, too, unheeded the cares which now beset his path, and wondering if this little girl would ever develope into a great lady as her mother now was. Suddenly he was aroused. Crash went something, and he started up in time to see the centre-table,

"Debby, Debby Hastings, what have you done, you careless, good-fornothing girl? What do you mean by tearing the house up in this fashion Adnoh, my beautiful new yase all broken to pieces? You deserve a good whipping. Take that, and that, and that, suiting the action to the word, and each "that" bringing with it a blow from Mrs. Hastings' hand upon the little curly head, ... "You're the torment of my life; always destroying something, always in mischief. Go straight to your room, you naughty, bad, girl.' Poor little six-year-old Debby standing by crying piteously, paid but little attention until whipping was commenced, then she cried louder than ever, and began to explain that 'she just got on the table for a book, and didn't push it over at all; it just felled over its own self." But her mother was too much yexed to do more than push her out of the room with blows, and a command "not to come into the parlor again till she was a good girl, and could keep out of mischief." So Debby, with her apron to her eyes, took her departure. Uncle Lu, too wise to interfere while Debby was by, now remonstrated with his sister, and Debby's practiced ear catching her uncle's voice, she paused at the keyhole, totally oblivious of the old saying that listeners never hear any good of themselves. "I say, Mag," he began, "you are too strict with that little blunderbuss. It's a shame to beat a child that way just for an accident."

scolding:" Dolly was Debby's geartest comfort on all occasions like the present. Direful were the threats against mamma, which were to be put in execution when she (Debby) got big, that were poured into dolly's sympathizing ears, and, unlike most confidential friends, she kept the secrets faithfully.

Meanwhile, Uncle Lu, (Mr. Nelson perhaps I ought to call him, for that was his other name.) was preparing to go back to his home and business in the city. He left on the evening train, and amid the confusion consequent upon his departure, no one noiced or thought but what little Debby was asleen in her own room. Mamma had sent her supper up by the girl, and Uncle Lu had been up to bid her good-bye. She had not seemed very sorry at parting with him but more intent upon dressing her doll. So he kissed her again and again, and the supper table, and -Mrs. Hastings entertained her husband with an account of Debby's carelessness and Lu's queer notions about her. Their one servant-girl was busily employed in the kitchen just then. So they were none to hear the softly-whispered good-bye to dolly. "Now, dolly, I'm going off to live with Uncle Lu. I've fixed you up nice, and you mustn't ever tear or break anyfing, then mamma'll love you. I can't helpit, and Uncle Lu likes little girls what breaks fings. So goodbye, dolly, good-bye." No one saw her don her little cloak and hood, creep softly down stairs, out the front door, and down the street through the wind and storm, after Uncle Lu, whose dim form she that night were too intent upon their own affairs to pay any attention to depot nearly as quickly as her uncle did. They were just in time to catch the train, and while Uncle Lu, with satchel in hand, entered one end of a car, a gentleman standing by, with a strong arm and kind heart helped Debby to do the same, only at the opposite door, and then amid the confusion, she for the first time lost sight of her uncle. Although in the same car, he was as much lost to her as though inhabiting another planet. She was pushed this way and that by the crowd, and when all but herself was seated, she was left standing alone in the aisle. It was too dark for her to see anyone distinctly, and with a strong inclination to scream out at the top of her voice, and a great feeling of homesickness stealing over her, she determined to be brave, and refraining from her first impulse, resolved she would go through the car, and ask-everybody she saw if they knew Debby, although a child, realized that she was thrown upon her own resources, and with her to plan was to act. She started, alas! so did the cars; and she poor child, lost her balance and fell upon the floor, where her tears mingled with the tobaccojuice and filth with with which such places geneaally abound. Then her courage gave way, and she lay sobbing as if her heart would break. Oh, how sho would have wel- that she jerked her head in again, comed her paps or her mamma just shut the door in their faces, and there then I and even dolly, who lay at home fast asleep in Debby's own bed (with her eyes wide open,) would have been more of a comfort than ever before. Alone, uncared for, it seemed as if she almost hated Uncle Lu himself, who, all uncoscious of her proximity, was at that moment making "You don't know anything about himself comfortable for the night, it, sir. him.' Another flood of tears.

Puzzled at the child's dress and appearance, which betokened wealth on the part of her parents, and wondering how she came there alone, it was with much difficulty she was made to understand that Debby had really ran away from home, and that both her uncle and mother were unconscious of her present whereabouts. She was greatly alarmed for the child, and hardly knew what to do. Debby was positive that her uncle lived in New York, and that was where they were going. It was dark now, and most of the passengers were asleep. Miss Grey [that was the lady's name] knew they would not reach the city until after seven in the morning, and she trusted that when it was light enough, Debby would recognize her uncle. She could not go around among so many strange gentlemen, wake them up, and iuquire if they were Uncle Lu. She was kind-hearted, and anxious for the child thrown upon her care, but she was also traveling alone, was young and pretty, and, it must be admitted, extremely bashful. So she cuddled the little curly head on her shoulder, and together they awaited the morning light. Debby sat in her lap, so no fare was demanded for the child, for which Miss Grey felt truly thankful, as her slender purse was barely sufficient for her own wants. She, too, was leaving home ed they would be at home about her. "It will be a lesson for Mag," he kept saying to himself. Debby was in high glee, and before they reached the city, they were all her. So unmolested she reached the on the best of terms. "Indeed, it is mutual," said Miss Grey, kindly. I cannot bear to think of parting with her."

Debby was content. She nestled close to her protector, and whispered: "Do you whip little girls that breaks fings?"

Just then the cars stopped, and Uncle Lu thought he would go with them to Miss Grey's future home. He miles in length. What an army of was in no hurry about sending the victims! "Debby is all right, I wonder what See the great army her mother would give to know what has become of the torment of her life."

Miss Grey gave the street and number, Uncle Lu got a carriage, and they all three went together. But here a terrible disappointment awaited Miss Grey. In answer to the summons of the bell, a tall lady jerked her head out of the door, informed them that she had got a governess for her children at a smaller salary than that stipulated by Miss Grey-in short, the vacancy was filled. With was nothing left Miss Grey but to return home. It was done so quickly and so ludicrous withal, that Uncle Lu was only restrained from laughing by sight of Miss Grey's white, disabout as badly off as Debby had been the night before. Mr.: Nelson gave the coachman orders to drive to a hotel, then turning to her, he said: "If I ever believed that everything is ordered for our own good, I certhree months in the house with that as well as sending for her father. I will pay you for the trouble; and in further proof of my friendship for your kindness to this little one, I will endeavor to find you a situation, and will write you to that effect if I succeed."

· So after breakfast he took them to the depot, arranged everything for their comfort, bought tickets for both, and bid them good-day, Debby quite happy at the prospect of meeting papa and mama again, and Miss Grey feeling as if parting with one of her best friends instead of an acquaintance of a few hours. He also sent a telegram to relieve the anxious hearts at home. and then, for the first time that day, felt free to go about his business. Miss Grey and Debby found Mr. and Mrs. Hasting's at the depot to receive them. And when Debby had told her story, nothing would do but Miss Grey must go with them to spend the night. They made a great fuss over Debby; she was the heroine of the hour, her mother kissing and crying over her half the time, calling her "Dear darling, precious little girl," and loving her so much that Debby confidentially told Dolly "she guessed her mother had 'formed."

It was, indeed, as Uncle Lu had predicted, "a lesson for Mag." Those hours of agony and fear for her child's safety were not in vain; they taught her patience and gentleness with the little one intrusted to her care-lessons which lasted her whole life. The acquaintance thus begun with Miss

Grey proved lasting also. . Uncle Lu, good as his word, succeeded in finding her a situation in the city, but it was as misstress in happy to say she fills satisfactorily.

There is sufficient quantity of fermented and distilled liquors used in the United States in one year to fill a canal four feet deep, fourteen feet wide, and one hundred and twenty miles in length. The places where intoxicating drinks are made and sold in this country, if placed in rows in direct line, would make a street one hundred miles in length. If the victims of the rum traffic were there also, we should see a suicide at every mile, and a thousand funerals every day. CALDWELL.

The case of Senator Caldwell came to an abrupt termination on Monday. His was a peculiar case, not one of uese in which money was used to procare votes for his election, but one in which money-was used to hire an oppoment not to run against him. The ase had been pretty thoroughly discussed, and the Senate was about coming to a vote, when Caldwell presented his resignation as Senator. The Governor of Kansas being in Washington, his letter acknowledging the reexipt of Caldwell's resignation was anly laid before the Senate. On the reception of his resignation the resolution of expulsion became dead. Of course the Senate could not expel a man who was no Senator.

It is doubtful if the necessary twothirds vote could have been secured for the resolution of expulsion, yet it was pretty certain that a majority vote would have been given for the reso-lution. Senator Caldwell proposes to leave the matter now with the people of Kansas. He will be a candidate for re-election, no doubt. What Kansas will do in the case is not known, but it is believed that she will in no event send Caldwell back again.

FOSTER.

On Friday of last week, Foster, the car-hook murderer, paid the penalty of his crime with his life. His execution will be a warning to the other murderers under sentence of death in New York, that the due course of the law will not be interfered with by the Governor. One striking sentence worthy such a mind as Gen. Dix posesses is contained in his letter declining to interfere in behalf of Foster. The Governor says, "Every man who strikes a murderous blow at the life of his fellow must be made to feel that his own is in certain peril." This declaration is equal to the one which, at the dawn of the Rebellion, gave Gen. Dix such wide notoriety, viz: "If any man attempts to haul down the American flag, shoot him on the spot."

In the case of Foster, money, friends and influence had gone so far that even seven of the jurymen, who convicted him, declared under oath that he could believed the Governor would refuse to commute his sentence. Under this pressure Gov. Dix remained firm, and used, in refusing to interfere, the language we have quoted above, "Every man who strikes a murderous blow at the life of his fellow must be made to feel his own is in certain peril." Let this sentiment be carried out by the Executive of every State, by our criminal courts, and soon, we believe, the frequency of murders will materially decrease.

For his firmness in this case Governor Dix has won to himself great esteem. He deserves the thanks of a grateful and order-loving people. Let the assassin feel, that if he strikes the murderous blow, justice will fol low him until he is overtaken and the penalty due his crimes fully inflicted.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTIONS ON CONGRESSIONAL INCREASE OF

The following resolution passed the Senate of our State Legislature, only one member voting in the negative: "Resolved, (the Senate and House concurring), That we, as representatives of the people of Michigan, hereby express our condemnation of the action of the majority of the late Congress in voting to its members an increase of their pay during the expiring hours of the session, at a time and in a manner to prevent any remonstrance from the people against their action. We applaud the votes of all who opposed the measure, and only regret that they did not refuse to take from the people's treasury the amount of extra pay so voted. Such legislation and action is not what the tax-payers and people of the country demanded or expected, and leads to distrust and dissatisfaction, as a departure from that strict personal and political integrity the people, without respect to party, have a right to expect and demand of their representatives in the National Congress." The following is the House resolution in regard to the same subject: "Resolved, (the Senate concurring), That the Legislature of Michigan recognizes with satisfaction and pleasure the fact that both of its Senators and two-thirds of its Representatives in Congress voted against the measure whereby the 42d Congress, against the public sense of propriety and right, increased the salaries of its members at the end of their term of I suppose we will have to submit for

On motion of W. S. Farmer, E. L. Kingsland was unanimously nominated by acclammation, as candidate for County Superintendent of Schools.

Considerable talk was had relative to the unfairness of the present apportionment in several Townships, caused by the light vote for Presidential Electors at the last election. Motion by D. A. Wagner, That the County Committee, in apportioning delegates to the several Townships, allow each Township whose number of delegates has been decreased by the apportionment based on the Electoral vote of 1872, the same number of delegates as they had uner the apportionment based on the Townships or Wards whose number of delegates have been increased by the apportionment based on the vote of 1872, the same number of delegates as they now severally have under such apportionment of 1872. The motion was unanimously adopted.

On motion, the Convention adjourned sine die.

Lansing Correspondence. March 24th, 1873. EDITORS RECORD: - The time of the final adjournment of the Legislature is drawing near, and the matter is exciting considerable interest here. If all the bills in the hands of the different committees and otherwise before the two Houses should be acted upon, it will be impossible to get through before the first of May. House had before them one evening last week, a proposition to adjourn on the fifth of April, until the first of January next. It was, however, after discussion defeated largely. I suppose they will continue work for three or four weeks yet and then "shove out" for home leaving many of the is usually the case. The only remedy for this is an absolute refusal to act on any purely local bills or to have annual sessions. Among the many devices resorted to this session to raise the salaries of the Judges was a bill to authorize the appointment of a "commissioner of statistics" in each Judicial Circuit in the State at a salary of $1,000 each. It was admitted that the intention was to get the Judge of each circuit appointed. Great credit is due Mr. West, of your county for drawing "the cat from under the meal," and exposing the clerks at a cost to the State of less than $1,000 whereas this bill if passed would amount to $20,000. There is a bill in the Senate which I think will pass to give each Judge a clerk at a salary of $1,000 per year. The House last week refused to pass the Senate bill to prevent the challenge of jurors in criminal cases on account of their having read the papers. So two years more at least, to the old heathenish and fogy practice of selecting ignorant men to serve as jurors. One of the most gigantic swindles to my mind ever perpetrated in the bill to give to any railroad company Straits of Mackinaw to Marquette, very nearly a million acres of the swamp lands in the Upper Peninsula, or about one half of all the lands belonging to the State in that Peninsula; and this, too, in the face of the platform of principles adopted by both political parties only last year, and with the full knowledge of the fact that at. least two roads are now pushing on with all possible energy of building their road on this same route. Two Senators who had spoken bitterly against the measure voted finally for t, and thus secured its passage by one more than the requsite number. -A fatal accident happened at the Babcock mill, at Maple Valley on Thursday last. A Mr.—was endeavoring to clean up some saw dust from under the edger, when the saw struck one of his arms and severed it from his body, and then, by some means the saw twisted him around and struck him in the side, and mutilated his body in such a manner as to cause instant death.—Service Brothers, & Riley, killed an ox on Tuesday last that dressed 1,145 pounds. This was the largest beef critter ever killed in this city. It was purchased of Mr. Mark Miner of Bloomer.—. Greenville Democrat.

-Last Saturday evening, at a little before seven o'clock, during the high wind, as our fellow citizen, Lute Morris, was going from Saginaw street to the livery office, about a dozen bricks from a dilapidated chimmney came thundering down beside the building, which is occupied by Wm. Rosea, one of them striking him on the top of the head, cutting a gash of about three inches into the skull. The wound is a very serious one, but the present indications are that he will recover. Thursday,

Michigan,

-About 12: 15, Thursday morning, a beautiful, and rare sight was witnessed by a few persons who, fortunately, happened to be out at the hour, in the form of a ball of fire, falling from the heavens. It was, apparently, about 14 inches in diameter. In the short space of about three seconds it presented six distinct colors, respectively: blue, yellow, white, green, red, and brown; and, although the moon was shining bright, the light of the fire-ball was much brighter. When about 40 feet from the ground, it exploded, having the sound of a cannon shot in the distance. It was, we believe, the finest sight we ever witnessed, and one that is seldom seen. Those who were not out missed a rare sight. -Saginaw Republican.

-Mrs. M. G. Smith, of Cascade, Kent County, Michigan, a sister of Mr. Park Allen, of Quincy was sitting alone by the table on Monday night, March 10th sewing, her husband and son of 15 years being in bed, when a kerosene lrmp exploded, enveloping her in flames. With a shriek of terror which awakened her husband, she ran out of the house, followed by Mr. Smith, whose efforts to quench or disengage her from the burning flame from her clothing were ineffectual until many parts of her body were burned to a crisp. Mr. Smith was so badly burned that he will be a cripple for life. He will be totally blind. During the mellee the house and the boy, were forgotten; and when Mr. Smith's attention was diverted from his wife, he discovered his house enveloped in flames: The boy was probably asleep or so smothered by smoke as to have become unconscious - Quincy Times, 22d.

-Saturday night we had such a gale of wind as very seldom visits this latitude. It raged with a fierceness that was startling. Signs were blown down, shutters broken, side walks upheaved, and the ruined walls of the school building looked the next morning as though there had been a bombardment, as indeed there had.-Port Huron Commercial.

The Hardware store of Rose & Bruegel was entered by burglars last night and about $250 worth of cutlery taken from the show-case. They affected an entrance by boring a hole in the back door through which they inserted their hand and shoved the bolt which fastened the door. We learn that they also entered the saloon below, but did not take anything. The money-drawer of the store was undisturbed. No clue to the burglars have been found. - Marshal Ex-

> -Mr. E. H. Sheldon, of this village, met with a serious accident, on Tuesday afternoon last. He was engaged drawing wood across the mill pond, passing under the railroad bridge. As he came along with a load, a train of cars at the station backed up toward or upon the bridge, and frightened his team which started suddenly forward, and before he could get off the load, as had been his custom, drew him under the bridge. His head came in contact with the timbers of the bridge. A gash 101 inches in length was cut across his forehead and temples, and the scalp pushed back. He managed to retain his hold upon the lines, and drove home, a distance of 80 rods, when he fainted from loss of blood.—Constantine Mercury, Feb.

Deposit of Public Money.

There is a bill before the Legisla ture to provide in each, of the large and rich counties for depositing the public moneys which go into the hands of the county treasurer in that bank which will pay the county the largest rate of interest thereon, the bank to give ample security for payment of checks drawn by the treasurer on demand. The bill makes it the duty of the county treasurer to deposit the public money, so that they will draw interest for the benefit of the county. as fast as they are received by him; but it allows him to keep in his office, in any county but Wayne, a sum of ready money not exceeding One thousand dollars, and, in Wayne, Two Thousand dollars, for the payment of small bills and expenses, which it is inconvenient to pay by checks on the bank. This system may be adopted in any county where the Board of Supervisors may see fit to adopt it. It is not obligatory; but it gives the Board of Supervisors power to adopt it. for the benefit of the tax-payers, wherever the people demand it. The bill also provides for quarterly examinations of the books and accounts of the county treasurers, by the Supervisors of other counties, and by the County Auditors of Wayne, in case this system is adopted, to see that all is safe and correct; and power is given to withdraw the funds from the bank designated as a depository in case of danger. We hope the Legislature will carefully and candidly consider this bill, perfect and pass it. . We believe it s based upon a principle of great value to the tax-payers, and that will t found, on trial, to save to this and found, on trial, to save to this and other rich counties quite a large sum annually which now goes into the priknown regions of the globe. These regions are mainly four; the Antartic

region, the extent of which is about seventy-five times that of Great' Britain ; the Artic region, Central Africa. and Western Australia. That which lies around the south pole is almost conterminous with the Antartic circle. and can be traced out by the furthest points reached by the voyagers Cook, Bellinghousen, Weddell, Biscoe, Kemp, Bellany d'Urville, Wilkes, Ross, and Moore, 1772, to 1845. That part of its boundary of barrier ice which lies pearest the south pole, in latitude 78 degrees 10 seconds south of New Zeas land, was attained by Ross in February, 1842. The unknown region of the Arctic pole is also more or less circular in form, except where it stretches southward to the vast inland ice-fields of Greenland. In the long list of "furthest points" which constitutes its margin the inroads -made on the previously unknown by Gillis, Wrangel, Parry, Collinson, Maclintock, Kane, Roges, Hayes, Payor and Mack, from 1707 till 1871, remain perhaps the most notable. No one has as yet approached nearer the north pole than Parry, who reached the latitude of 81° 45' over the ice to northward of Spitzbergen, in July of 1827. The unexplored African area of tropical forests and great population, the most interesting of all because it is the most promising in useful results, stretches from the furthest points explored by the Portugeese travelers of 1806, of the Hungarian Ladislaus Magyer in 1850, and of Livingstone in later years, on the south, to the points nearest the equator by Barth in 1855, on the north. Eastward its outline is given by points on the routes of Speke in 1862, Baker in 1864, Schweinfurth in 1870, and Livinstone in 1870-72. On the the west the limits of unknown Africa approach very closely to the coast, and, near the equator, have only been driven inland at the extremities of Du Challu's journeys of 1865 and 1866, and by the high point on the Ogowai River, attained by Walker in 1806. The settled parts off the coastland of Angola gave the boundary on the southwest. If successful, the "Livingstone-Congo" expedition, under Lieutenan Grandy will penetrate to the very heart of the unknown space. In Australia the great unknown desert region lies west of the track explored from south to north by Stuart in 1861-62, which now marks the line of tele-graphic communication across the con-tinent. On the south it extends almost to the steep shores of the great Australian Bight, on the horth, the greatest inroad on its domain was made by A. Of Gregory in 1856; westward its outline is formed by the turning points of the journey made by Roe, A. C. Gregory and Forrest from, 1846 to the present time. The areas of these unknown regoins are approximately as follows: South Polar area..... North Polar area..........2,900,000

Central Africa area1,050,000 Most controversies would soon be ended if those engaged in them would accurately define their terms and then rigidly adhere to their definitions—

We are glad to e able to note so favorable a showing for the first year's operations, when eyerything had to be done. The building had to be made ready, the magchinery purchased and set up, lumber bought, and in fact all the disadvantages of starting a new establishment had to be undergone. Taking all these things into consideration it would not have been surprising if there had been no gain shown in the first year's operation. The stockholders, we imagine, will feel well satisfied with an increase of ten per cent.

Herald, in regard to Buchanan, conuncorrected, may create some false impressions in relation to the business importance of our village. One would infer from that article that we had but one saw mill, while in fact we have ago by a stock company, and capable of turning out 3,500 bedsteads per annum. Besides Herald makes mention, we have a mill and stave factory, and a washing machine and clothes wringer factory, each run by steam and doing a large, business. We have nine factories and institutions, including the Record office, using steam power, and will soon have ten, besides the three flour-ing mills, a furniture factory, and one saw mill using water power. We advise the Herald man to be a little more place, and to be careful to write such he proposes to do. Look out for his description for publication, if he attempts any, that will do the place jus-

THE FILE PROBLEM OF NEW TROY.

NEW TROY, March 21, 1873.

Epirons Record—Sirs — Yester-day morning J. Boyce, a resident of this town, in attempting to split a block of wood through the centre, struck his axe upon something hard, like iron, that obstructed its progress. Upon examination he found a steel file 14 inches long and 13 inches up straight for many feet, when it divided into two parts. The trunk and would one have suspected that there was a portion within its heart as cold and as hard as steel. The tree was alive until four years ago, when it was girdled. The file must have been hidden there many years ago, and many are the theories that have been engage in it at the same time. The suggested as to its mode of deposit or insertion. We all agree, however, that if the man who placed it there will return—even though he stole it and tell its history, he shall be our hero for many days, and his bowl shall overflow, though his capacity for "the cold annihilator," rum, be equal to that of any man in town. The problem is, how could the file have been deposited in the centre of the tree so that its length runs parallel to the heart of the tree, and yet leave no visible sign of its mode of introduction? I leave the reader to theorize upon the subject at his leisure. D.

THE NILES Republican says: Alf. Howard, a violinist of very considerable talent, and generally known as the "Old Bull of America," died from the effects of intemperance, at Prophetstown, Illinois, one day last week. Mr. Howard was formerly a printer here, and commenced learning to play the violin in this office.-Daniel Terriere a citizen of Buchanan, and one of the oldest residents of this county, died yesterday very suddenly. Mr. T. ate his breakfast in apparent good health, but was soon attacked with a stroke of apoplexy, and died in less than an hour. Mr. Terriere was formerly Clerk of this county, and was this spring elected Justice of the Peace at Buchanan. He has always been highly esteemed for his personal worth, and was a man of influence where ever known.-Mayor Muzzy wants us to let the people know that he is not a candidate for renomination. But the trouble is the people would not believe us if we made such a statement. They have invested in that kind of calico before, and know it wont hold its colors. By the way, a delegate to the Democratic City Convention last spring tells a good one as to how he and his fellow delegates were sold out. This delegate says that when they went into convention, it was understood that Muzzy only wanted an indorsement, and that as soon as nominated he was to decline. But the old fox was too much for them. When the count showed that he was nominated, Muzzy was not there to decline, as was the arrangement, and nobody was authorized to speak for him. And so they were in for it; sold without reserve.-An iron railroad bridge across the river at this place is talked of, and it is believed that the Central will order work to begin very soon.—Quite a revival has been in progress for some time past in the Harry Gephart neighborhood, northeast of the city, and frequent meetings have been held at the new Sunday Reading.

Leem the Sunday Magazine. · PILGRIM SOUL. BY CEBALD MASSEY.

Slowly step by step, day after day, I journey on my homeward way: And darkly dream the land of light 1s dawning near, night after night, Where I shall reach my rest at last, And smile at all the perils past.

Sometimes I sing, sometimes I sigh, Sometimes I lift the longing eye, Sometimes my heart laughs heath its load To think of that anguish abode Where I shall reach my rest at last, And smile at all the perils past.

Line pour mortality of mine ... In ill seat put on its dress Divine, Io meet with the blest above, Who gave His life to gain our love; And rich will be my feast at last, When all the poverty is past, He will be near, my life, my hope, When at the gloomy gate I grope, And take my hand and reach for me

The fruit of immortality; And I shall know my rest at last, And triumph in the trials past. In t one more thorn raised from His crown his sorrous, I will east me down; And my last tears shall run to meet Min ! pour my full heart at His feet; And I shall reach my rest at last, To smile at all the troubles past.

Moral Excellence. Believe that in every relation of itle, with given endowment, other things being equal, a man's whole suc-cess, first and last, will be the ratio and proportion of his moral excellence. We do not mean that a man who is good, and not smart in any other way will succeed as well as a man that is smart from worldly aptitudes, and de-prayed. But with given endowment, a man will be more prosperous, in a long run, by being good than by being bad, other things being equal. A man with a certain amount of intelligence, of common sense, and of tact in worldly matters, united to high moral manhood—such a man unquestionably has a hundred chances of prosperity to another man's fifty, who has the same intelligence, common sense and tact, but who, also, is corrupt and vicious.

Christian Love.

Jesus sums up all the commandments is the one little word love-supreme love to God; and love to our neighbor as to ourselves. Were His blessed law thus obeyed, what a happy world this would be! Of the early Christians it was often said, "See how these men love one another." They obeyed and followed their Lord in this, and we are equally bound to do so. We are taught to count all men as our neighbors, and as such to love and seek their good, but especially to love as brethren the believing people of Christ if we are true Christians. We are children of the same family, travelers on the same journey, loborers in the same vineyard, soldiers in the same army. We hope to dwell forever in the same blessed home.

Cundor.

There is nothing sheds so fine a light upon the human mind as candor. It was called whiteness by the ancients to denote its purity; and it has always won the esteem due to the most admirable virtues. The man whose opinions make the deepest impression upon his fellow man, whose influence is most lasting and efficient, whose friendship instinctively sought where all others have proved faithless, is not the man of brilliant parts; or flattering tongue, or splendid genius, but he whose lucid candor and ingenius truth transmit the heart's real feeling, pure and without refraction. There are no other traits that have a higher place in the worlds code of honor, but none wear better or gather less tarnish by use, or claims deeper homage in that silent reverence which mind pays to virtue.—Methodist.

The love of the world cannot be expunged by a mere demonstration of the world's worthlessness; but may it. not be supplanted by the love of that which is more worthy than itself? The heart cannot be prevailed to part with the world by a simple act of res-Ignation. But may not the heart be prevailed upon to partly admit into its preference another, who shall subordinate the world, and bring it down from its wonted ascendency? If the throne which is placed there must have an occupier, and the tyrant that now reigns has occupied it wrongfully, he may not leave a bosom which would rather detain him, than be left in desolation. But may he not give way to the lawful sovereign, appearing with every charm that can secure his willing admittance, and taking unto himself his great power to subdue the nature of man, and reign of it? In a word, if the way to disengage the heart from positive love of one great and ascendant object, is to fasten it in postive love to another, then it is not by exposing the worthlessness of the former, but by addressing to the mental eye the worth and excellence of the latter, that all old things are to be done away, and all things are to become new.—T. Chal-

We do not make enough of the beauty which God has placed all around and above us. We do not study so gladly as we ought the charm of the tiny crystal, the anatomy of the oak. We turn away from the glory in the grass, and the granduer in the flower, to gaze instead with curious admiration on some idle gaud of human artifice, and thus pervert our taste, and some sort of joy provided for us in the great festival of beauty presented by the generous hands of returning spring.

Admitting what is called philanthropy, when adopted to a profession, to be often useful by its energetic impulses to society at large, it is perilous to the individual whose ruling passion, in one exclusive channel, it thus becomes. It ruins, or is fearfully apt to ruin, the heart, the rich juices of which God never meant should be pressed violently out and distilled into alcoholic liquor by an unnatural process, but should render life sweet, bland, gentle and beneficent and insensibly influence other hearts and other lives to the same blessed end.

The worst Sabbath-breaker of all is the ingrate who is not thankful when the Sabbath comes round. He may go to church three times a day, and be austere in all outward observances. but he breaks the Sabbath in his heart if he rejoices when it is over .- Anon. | address 6-35if

Just published, a nowedition of Dr. Cul-verwell's Celebroted Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of Sperma Deferred, or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary [Seminal Losses, University] Medical and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also Gossaukfrios, Epitlasskand, Birs, Indiced by self-indul-gence or sexual extravagance.

Vinegar Bitters are not a vile Fancy Drink, made of Poor Rum, Whisky Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., alias lead the tippler on to drunk, emiss and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the native roots and herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants, They are the Great Blood Purifier and a Life giving, Principle, by Perfect Renovator and invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition, enriching it, refreshing, and invigorating both mind and body. They are easy of administration, prompt in their action, certain in their results, saic and reliable in all forms of disease."

No Personi can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by "mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

Dyziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Billous Attacks, Palpitation of the Henry, Indammation of the Lungs, Palh in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspelsia. In these complaints it has no equal, and, one bottle will prove a better guarantee of its innerits athan, at lengthy advertisement.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married, or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an innuence that a marked improvement is soon perceptible.

Apontalmmatory and Chronic Rheumantism and Good, which is generally Produced by dernagement of the Diagestive Organs. They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in releving Congestion or Indammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs and Englands Dispasses.

For Skin Diseases, Friptions, Tetter, Salt, Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustues, Bolls, a Tonic, possessing also the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs and In Billous Diseases.

For Skir Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustoles, Bolis, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Eryspelas, Itch, Scarts, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in suph cases will convince the most incredulous of their Gurative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiatedi Blood Whenever, you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores Toleanse it when you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores Toleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Grateful Thousands proclaim Vinegar Bratist he most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking, in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed, and removed. Says, a distinguished physiologist; There is scarcely an individual on the face of the earth whose body is exempt from the presence of worms. It is not upon the healthy elements of the body that worms exist, but upon the diseased humors and slimy deposits that breed these living monsters of disease. No system of modicine, no verminges, no anthelminities will recital spaces, and alliners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINGAR BUTTERS twice a week.

Billous, Remittent, and Intermittent Pevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippl, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennesse, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Baccos, Rio Grande, Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goltre, Scrofulors Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc., etc. In these as in all other constitutional Diseases, Walker's Yiregar Bitters have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

Dr. Walker's Galifornia Vinegar Bitters act on all these cases in a similar manner. By purifying the Blood they remove the cause, and by resolving away the effects of the inflammation (the tubercular deposits) the affected parts receive health, and a permanent cure is effected.

The properties of Dr. Walker's Vinegar Brittens are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Billous.

The Aperient and mild Laxative properties of Dr. Walker's Vinegar Brittens are the best safe-guard in cases of eruptions and malignant fevers. Their balsamic, healing, and soothing properties, protect the humors of the fances. Their Sedative properties allay pain in the nervous system, stomach, and bowels, from inflammation, wind, colic, cramps, etc.

Their Counter-Irritant influence extends throughout the system. Their Anti-Billous properties simulate the liver, in the secretion of bile, and its discharges, through the billiary ducts, and are superior to all remedial agents, for the cure of Bilious fever, Fever and Ague, etc.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with Vinegar Bitters. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed The liver, the stomach, the bowels, the kidney, and the nerves are rendered disease-proof by this great invigorant.

nid the nerves are rendered disease-proof by this great invigorant.

Directions.—Take of the Bitters on going to bed at hight from a half to one and one-had trine-plassful.. Eat good nourishing food, such as beefsteak, mutton chop, venison, roast beef, and vegetables, and take out-door exercise. They are composed of purely vegetable ingredients, and contain no spirit.

One can be married cheap in New Hampshire. A clergyman of that State, having performed the interesting ceremony, was, asked his price by the bridegroom. On replyng that the law gave him two dollars, the newly married man promptly handed him fifty cents, remarking, "Well, that will make up $2.50 for you," and disappeared with his bride.

A good story is told of an Irish hostler who was sent to the stable to bring forth a traveler's horse. Not knowing which of the two strange horses in the stable belonged to the traveler, and wishing to avoid the appearance of ignorance in his business, he saddled both animals and brought them to the door. The traveler pointed out his own horse saying. "That is my nag." "Certainly, yer honor, I knew that, but I didn't know which one o' them was the other gintleman's." structed Southerner read in a paper the other day that "to go to bed with cold feet is to undermine the -constitution." And now this misguided man stunds in the snow a few minutes every hight before retiring, and his wife wants, a divorce. He thinks a constitution that birds if the negrous is right to vote should thing been unliked midel long ago.

A friend of ours in very muderate circumstances got rich in less than five minutes, judging from his expression, for he put some spirits of hartshorn on his handkerchief in an apothecary's store thinking it cologue, then dancing round the room with tears in his eyes, swore he didn't want another (scent.

A Michigan clergyman wrote to a lottery agent: "I do not approve of lotteries; I regard them as no bet-ter than gambling schemes. My son bought ticket No. 5 in your drawing, but if it drew anything don't send the money to him soud it to me. The clergyman will probably feel relieved to know that the ticket didn't draw anything, Lord Shaftsbury on one coccasion was examining a girl's school, and just as he was about to take leave he addressed a girl somewhat older than the rest, and among ether things inquired: "Who made your vile body?" "Please, my lord," said the girl, "Betsy Jones made my body, but I made the skirt myself."
