THE GREAT SUIT VS. THE UNION PACIFIC RAILWAY AND THE CREDIT MOBILIER.

THE LONG-TALKED-OF SUIT OF THE UNITED STATES AGAINST THE UNION PACIFIC RAILWAY CO. AND THE CREDIT MOBILIER.

The long-talked-of suit of the United States against the Union Pacific Railway Co. and the Credit Mobilier has at last been commenced.

The papers in the case were filed at Hartford, Conn., on the 26th inst. It is hoped that Attorney General Williams will press these cases to the utmost, and not allow the interests of the Government to be defeated.

That he will do this there can be no doubt. The Union Pacific has refused to pay even the interest on the bonds issued by Government in its behalf.

This interest, on Jan. 1, 1873, amounted to over six millions of dollars, making the total liability of the Government on these bonds nearly thirty-three and a half millions of dollars.

It is the design of the Union Pacific, the Credit Mobilier, and all others interested in the fraudulent speculations connected with that Railroad, to evade the payment, not only of the interest of these bonds, but the principal also.

This object to defraud the United States could be accomplished by selling the road under a mortgage and deed of trust, which would effectually cut off the Government claim.

Thus the Credit Mobilier and Union Pacific managers would place into their own pockets the neat little sum, from the Government, of nearly thirty-three and a half millions of dollars, besides, as a matter of course, defrauding bonafide stockholders and the Government, and becoming the final owners of the road.

The whole scheme was a wily arranged plan to defraud the Government, cheat stockholders, put vast sums of money into the pockets of a few, and finally own the entire Union Pacific Railway. This little game, it is now hoped, is up, and that the rights of Government and of bonafide stockholders may yet be protected.

FRANCE.

A change in the Presidency in France took place on Saturday. President Thiers being defeated in his policy was virtually compelled to resign.

In doing so the radical republicans met a great defeat in the Assembly. They counted on seven-sevenths majority in the Assembly, but the vote stood 880 against the policy of Thiers to 844 in favor of it.

The Thiers policy was to definitely establish the Republic, which of course was not in harmony with the Monarchists and Imperialists.

When Thiers tendered his resignation his supporters moved that it be not accepted, which was defeated by a vote of 368 to 339.

The opponents of Thiers, after his resignation offered the election of a President of the Republic immediately in place of Thiers, while the Radical Republicans opposed the move.

The opposition triumphed and proceeded to elect a successor to Thiers. Marshal McMahon was then chosen by a vote of 390, the Radicals abstaining from voting.

McMahon duly accepted the Presidency, and declared in his acceptance as follows:

"I will obey the will of the Assembly, the depository of the national sovereignty. It is a heavy responsibility, but with God's aid and the devotion of the army I will continue the work of liberating the territory and restoring order and will maintain the tranquility and the principles of which society rests. To this I pledge my word as an honest man and a soldier."

What the result of this change may be it is difficult to determine. McMahon, however, declares in a circular that he will make no attacks on the laws and institutions of the country.

It is well known that McMahon is not a Republican at heart, but a Bonapartist, and it looks to us, that the prospects of the Republic of France is anything but flattering.

Now that the control of affairs is in the hands of a President, elected virtually in opposition to the declaring of the Republic as the permanent government of France, and the army at his control, it needs no stretch of imagination to see how a general election might be held to declare in favor of a Monarchy or Imperialism.

The clouds and prospects over country look gloomy enough. One thing, however, is a trifle encouraging, and that is, that the present change has been made under riot or bloodshed, while perfect order is said to prevail.

The people have had many sad lessons in revolution and bloodshed, and now perhaps a sober, considerate condition of mind will pervade the masses. Time only, however, can determine the future government of France with any certainty.

FEARFUL STORM.

One of the most fearful storms passed over Iowa last Thursday. The devastation has seldom if ever been equaled by a tornado. The list of killed, as far as reported, numbers seventeen, and the wounded many more.

The principal damage was done in Washington and Keokuk counties. The loss of property was immense, amounting to one or two hundred thousand dollars. In one locality a School House, with teacher and scholars, was whirled in the storm.

In another place a flock of 1,500 sheep were completely mangled and mangled. Houses, and everything in the track of the tornado, was utterly laid waste.

A Saginaw merchant was victimized the other day by a green looking chap who lounged about his store, for some time, and finally broke a show-case. Ten dollars was demanded for the damage, to which gawky demurred saying that he had but four dollars, but on opening his pocket book a $100 note was displayed. He still protested, but finally turned his $100 note over and got $90 in change. The bill proved to be a counterfeit, and the merchant concluded that gawky was not so green as he had appeared.

What is a Promissory Note?

In the Circuit Court last week, Judge Brown made a ruling in regard to a promissory note, and as our mercantile community is largely interested in such matters, we have been at some pains to obtain the facts from the stenographer. The paper which was claimed as a promissory note was as follows:

NILES, April 25, 1871.
On or before the fifth day of October next, we promise to pay to or order twelve hundred dollars. If paid in thirty days, no interest on note; if not paid in thirty days, the note to draw ten per cent. interest from June 1st 1871.

—K—
—B—

The Judge said—The question is, is this a promissory note? The law presumes that promissory notes and bills of exchange are founded upon a valuable consideration. But as there is no other presumption in favor of other unsealed instruments, the plaintiff must show that the consideration upon and for which he claims to recover.

A promissory note is a written promise to pay money at a certain time; and this promise must be absolute and unconditional, unless it depend upon some event that must happen.

It is claimed by the defense that as to the payment of a portion, viz., the interest on the instrument, is uncertain and dependent on a contingency, which might or might not occur. The paper was, by its terms, due in a little over five months from its date—or rather it was payable at the option of the maker, "On or before the fifth day of October, 1871," and if the maker should pay the note in ninety days from its date, no interest was to be charged, and if not paid then, it was to draw interest at ten per cent. from June 1st, 1871. It has been held that to constitute a promissory note, it must not only be for the payment of money, but it must be payable absolutely, and without any kind of condition or contingency, either with regard to event, or the fund from which payment is to be made. While I am not prepared to say that this is too broad a statement of the rule, I may say that there may be contingencies and uncertainties in relation to the payment which would deprive the paper of the peculiar characteristics essential to a promissory note. For instance, a note of $700, with current exchange on New York, was held to be a promissory note, notwithstanding the amount to be paid for exchange was uncertain and that the fluctuations of exchange was not such a contingency or uncertainty as was intended to be guarded against. This is the law as laid down in Smith vs. Kendall, 9 Mich., 241, and refers to and approves the case of Pallard vs. Harris, 3 Bos. & Pul., 885.

I think a fair and reasonable construction of the instrument is, that the makers were bound absolutely to pay $1200 dollars in five months and ten days, together with interest at ten per cent. from June 1st 1871, or to pay the principal sum of $1200 only, in ninety days from date, but they do not promise to pay either sum at all events.—The instrument is to draw interest from June 1st, if not paid by July 25th following. It therefore follows that on the 24th of July the paper would be worth but $1,200, but on the 26th, if not paid, its value with the accrued interest would be about $1,218.

In other words the makers had in their power to pay $1200 one minute before the expiration of the ninety days, to relieve themselves of the payment of over $18.00 of accrued interest for which they would be liable if they should make payment immediately after the expiration of the ninety days.

A condition like this in an instrument for the payment of money, strips it of that element of certainty so essential to the existence and validity of a promissory note. I am therefore of the opinion that the instrument is not a promissory note, and is not of itself evidence of indebtedness.

Plants in Sleeping Rooms.

SENATE CHAMBER.
Lansing, Mich. April 14, 1873.
Dr. R. C. KEDZIE:

Dear Sir—What is your opinion as to the worth of the theory advanced in the newspaper article herewith enclosed? It is a question of considerable importance, and if true, people should understand the matter.

Yours truly,
HENRY H. HOLZ.

PLANTS IN SLEEPING ROOMS.—Sad consequences have followed from sleeping in close apartments in which potted plants were kept. Very many in warm family rooms, not very frequently ventilated, have suffered from the deleterious organization, especially those predisposed to pulmonary affections or bronchial irritability.

All vegetables through the day, but that function is suspended during the night. While exhaling oxygen from one side of the leaf, the other side, which is toward the soil, which is prejudicial to life, and the solid part of stock, stem, and wood are formed from it; but while sleeping, the whole vegetable kingdom dies, during the night, the absorption of that deleterious gas is partially suspended, though it collects about them by virtue of a law not very well understood. It is that accumulation in a room, the inhalation of which into the human lungs is so injurious. Therefore it is always on the safe side not to keep flowering or any other pot plants either in dormitories or close family drawing-rooms.

STATE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.
April 17, 1873.
Hon. H. H. Holz:

Dear Sir—Your favor of the 14th inst. was received, calling my attention to the influence of living plants on the health of persons occupying such rooms as a dormitory. I thank you for the interest you take in what ever concerns the welfare of the community. It augurs well for our State when its chief officers turn their attention to conditions affecting the health of the people.

The well-known deleterious influence of carbonic acid on health, and the fact that plants not only decompose carbonic acid in the presence of sunlight, but also exhale the same gas in darkness, have very naturally given rise to the suspicion that plants in any confined space, e.g., a sleeping room, will prove injurious to the health of persons occupying said rooms, especially as the body seems to be less capable of withstanding any depressing influence during sleep than during hours of wakefulness.

This exhalation of carbonic acid is so great as to endanger the health, it is time, as you suggest, that the people should understand the matter, but if plants are not injurious, it is equally important that this should be known.

All vegetable physiologists agree that plants do throw off carbonic acid in darkness, but it becomes important to know how rapidly this exhalation of carbonic acid takes place in order to determine whether it is injurious.

"The quantity of carbonic acid absorbed by day in direct light is vastly greater than that exhaled during the night. According to Cornwinder's experiments, 15 to 20 minutes of direct sunlight enable colza, the pea, the raspberry, the bean, and sunflower to absorb as much carbonic acid as they exhale during a whole night."

"Boussingault found, as the average of a number of experiments, that a square metre of oleander leaves decomposes in sunlight 1.108 litres of carbonic acid per hour; in the dark, the same surface of leaf exhales .07 litre (each litre is equal to about 2.15 pints) of this gas."—[Prof. Johnson's How Crops Grow, page 45.]

In this last case, therefore, the plant absorbed nearly 16 times as much carbonic acid in the daylight as it evolved in the same time during the night; while the most active plants would decompose more carbonic acid in half an hour of direct sunlight than they would exhale during a whole night. The simple fact, therefore, that plants do exhale carbonic acid by night does not prove that they will be injurious, on the whole, either in living rooms or in sleeping chambers.

The balance may be in favor of their healthfulness, instead of their being injurious. During the day they are constantly giving off oxygen as well as absorbing carbonic acid, and the small exhalation of carbonic acid during the night may still leave a large margin on the side of health.

Not to leave this matter in the condition of mere conjecture, I have gathered and analyzed specimens of air from a room where the influence of growing plants would be exhibited in a greatly exaggerated form. Thus, instead of taking the air from a room containing a few plants, I gathered it from the College green-house, where more than 6,000 plants are growing. I gathered the air before sunrise on the mornings of April 16th and 17th; the room had been closed for more than twelve hours, and if the plants exhaled carbonic acid to an injurious extent, the analysis of air from such a room would certainly disclose this fact. The three specimens of air gathered on the morning of April 16th, from different parts of the room, gave 4.11, 4.00 parts of carbonic acid in 10,000 of air, or an average of .408 in 10,000. The two specimens of air gathered April 17th gave 3.80 and 3.80 parts of carbonic acid in 10,000, or an average on the whole of .394 parts of carbonic acid in 10,000 of air; while the outdoor air contains 4 parts in 10,000. It will thus be seen that the air in the green-house was better than "pure country air." This deficiency of carbonic acid was doubtless due to the absorption of carbonic acid and consequent accumulation of oxygen during daylight, since the windows of the green-house were closed day and night on account of the cool weather.

To ascertain whether the air of the green-house had more carbonic acid by night than by day, I gathered two specimens of air in different parts of the house, at two o'clock p. m., April 17th. These gave 1.40 and 1.38 parts of carbonic acid in 10,000, or an average of 1.39 parts, showing that the night air contained more carbonic acid than did the day air.

Now, if a room in which were more than 6,000 plants, while containing more carbonic acid by night than by day, contains less carbonic acid than any sleeping-room on this continent, we may safely conclude that one or two dozen plants in a room will not exhale enough carbonic acid by night to injure the sleepers.

It is so easy to be deceived by a name! I lately saw an article showing the beneficial and curative influences of flowers in the sick room. Instances were related where persons were cured by the sight and smell of flowers, and without question their influence is good. Yet flowers exhale this same carbonic acid, both by day and by night! The flowers, by their agreeable odor and delicate perfume, impart an air of cheerfulness to the sick chamber which will assist in the recovery from lingering diseases, notwithstanding the small amount of carbonic acid which they constantly exhale.

The presence or absence of carbonic acid is not the only question in regard to the healthfulness of plants in a room. The state of moisture in the air of the room may become an important factor, especially in the case of persons afflicted with rheumatism or pulmonary complaints. But I will not take up that subject.

Very respectfully your obedient servant,
B. C. KEDZIE.

EDITORS RECORD, Dear Sirs:—This morning at about 8 o'clock we were visited by a very severe and violent wind and rain storm. The new M. E. Church, which was erected January last, was almost completely demolished. The estimated damages are from $1,000 to $1,200. Roofing torn from the Church was carried by the wind a distance of seventy-five yards where it struck and entered through the side of a building. When discovered this morning at about 8 o'clock, the building was in a state of ruin. The grocers store of Z. B. Williams to the tune of $50.—[Lansing Tribune.]

—Alexander Monatte, of Carrollton, tried to blow up a stump yesterday. He bored a hole in it, put in a quantity of powder, plugged it up, and then tried to set fire to it with a match. The wind blew out the match, and it fell into the train of powder. Monatte turned round to light another match, and just then the blast exploded. Monatte was thrown heels over head, several feet, and when he was picked up it was found that his left arm was broken in four places. He received other minor hurts, but with good luck he will live to blow up other stumps.—[Saginaw Enterprise.]

—The project for building a steam grist mill here, spoken of last week, is assuming favorable shape. Mr. Lacy has since been to Buffalo to consult with parties there whom he expected to put some capital in the enterprise, and brings a favorable report. There was no court held in St. Jo. County this week on account of the illness of the Judge.—[Cassopolis Democrat.]

—A young girl at Caseville, a few days since, had Justice McKay go through with the marriage ceremony and make pretend to marry her to a young man. It was such fun, you know. The surprise of the couple was great when informed that they were legally husband and wife, and that if the fun was to be undone it would have to be by decree of Court! At last accounts they were solemnly considering whether it would not be well to accept the situation and make the best of it, with prospects good for their arriving at that conclusion.—[Huron Co. —Tuesday morning, a boy was found in Jim Montross' wagon shed, at the Avenue House. The youngster is about three months old, a bright looking lad, and when found was warmly wrapped up and apparently quite comfortable. The supposed mother of the young one was seen around Montross' Monday night, and it is thought she remained with it all night to keep it quiet. She was tracked down toward Fort Gratiot village, and they heard that she had been noticed about 9 o'clock Tuesday morning in the village; but further search proved fruitless, and Mr. Saph, Supt. of the poor, is constrained to provide quarters for this young offspring.—[Port Huron Commercial.]

—A young man named Geo. D. Kane of Hulton, while assisting in the erection of a new barn belonging to Parker Merrill of that town, on Friday afternoon of last week, accidentally fell a distance of about fifteen feet, striking his head against a sill, and rendering him entirely unconscious. OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE COUNTY.

THURSDAY MORNING, MAY 29, 1873.

To Advertisers.—The "Record" is the best Advertising Medium in South-western Michigan, having double the circulation of any other paper in this part of the State.

Agents.

Geo. P. Russell & Co., 41 Park Row, N. Y., and S. M. Pettigill, 37 Park Row, N. Y., are our authorized agents to contract for advertising at our lowest rates, for the columns of the Berrien County Record.

Value of Advertising.

"Without advertising I should be a poor man to-day."—H. T. Hildbrand.

"Advertising has furnished me with a competence."—Amos Lawrence.

"A man who is liberal in advertising is liberal in trade, and such a man succeeds, while his neighbor, with just as good goods, fails and drops out of market."—Homer Greeley.

"He who invests one dollar in business, should invest one dollar in advertising."—A. T. Stewart.

"Constant and persistent advertising is a sure prelude to wealth."—Stephen Girard.

P. T. Barnum, the noted exhibitor, ascribes his success in accumulating a million of dollars in ten years to the unlimited use of printer's ink.

Fire Insurance.

No man should be without insurance on his building and his goods. The undersigned is Agent for Buchanan and vicinity, for three of the best and most reliable Fire Insurance Companies in the United States, the Union, Hartford, the Insurance Co. of North America, of Philadelphia, and the Underwriters Agency, of New York, representing a capital, in the aggregate, of over millions of dollars. Office, first floor of the Record brick, Front Street, Buchanan, Mich. D. A. WAGNER.

INSURANCE.—To all parties interested in sound Insurance Companies, we would say, that the Union, of Hartford, the Old North America, of Philadelphia. The Underwriters Agency of New York and the Imperial of London, have all come out of the Boston fire triumphant, and fully able and willing to pay the last dollar of their losses, as they did in the Chicago fire. These Companies offer reliable indemnity to all who desire to insure their property.

D. A. WAGNER, Agt., Buchanan.

RETURNED.—Mr. Henry Vito, of Bertrand, returned a few days since from a trip to Nebraska. He went some twenty miles west of Lincoln, and pronounces the country delightful.

Get your hats and caps of Noble. Latest styles and cheap for cash.

REFRIGERATOR CARS.—The M. C. R. R. have completed arrangements whereby Refrigerator Cars will be run from Chicago to Boston.

One of these cars will be dispatched from Michigan City east for Detroit every Thursday, and will take butter or eggs for Detroit or east at all stations. This will supply a want greatly felt by our shippers and dealers in such products as need a cool shipping car for their transportation.

NEW MUSIC.—We have received from the Publisher, C. J. Whitney, Detroit, Mich., a new piece of music, by S. W. Straub, entitled "Strew the Flowers." Price 30 cts. It is beautiful, and just the thing for Decoration Day, when the flowers are strewn in memory of our fallen heroes.

Go to Redden & Graham's and see the largest stock of goods in Berrien County. They have largely increased their stock of carpets and wall paper.

COURT.—Circuit Court convened again on Tuesday at Berrien Springs. It is to be hoped that the Calendar will be cleared as nearly as possible.

THANKS to Mr. A. C. Day for those excellent and of value cakes, placed on our table, from his Bakery. They were splendid, as all attest who have tried the product of his bakery.

THE BEE HIVE is no where. The customers are more plenty at Redden & Graham's than bees can be around the hive.

NEVER has vegetation grown more rapidly than for a week past. The foliage on the forest and ornamental trees, and the verdure on the hill sides around our beautiful village, demonstrate the goodness and loveliness of Nature.

NOTICE.—Any body wishing to purchase a new Cabinet Organ will do well by calling at this office. tf

IF YOU WANT good fresh Cove Oysters, good dried beef, good bread, good pies and cakes, or the first quality of groceries of all kinds, at the lowest prices for cash, just go to A. C. Day's Grocery and Bakery. He keeps the best.

We understand that Mr. R. W. Monroes of the firm of Smith & Monroes, Galien, has completed arrangements whereby Refrigerator Cars will be run from Chicago to Boston. One of these cars will be dispatched from Michigan City east for Detroit every Thursday, and will take butter or eggs for Detroit or east at all stations. This will supply a want greatly felt by our shippers and dealers in such products as need a cool shipping car for their transportation.

ANNUAL HORSE FAIR.—The fourth annual fair of the Horse-Breeders' Association will be held at Jackson, Mich., on June 17, 18, 19 and 20. Premiums are offered to the amount of $12,000.

WAGON FACTORY.—The Buchanan

Wagon Manufacturing Company are turning out some splendid work in the shape of buggies, light and heavy wagons. As to the quality of the work, it is enough to know that it is done under the immediate supervision of the Messrs. Beardsleys to know that it is all that could be desired. This company is determined to use only the best material and to do the best possible work in the construction of their wagons and buggies, so that every vehicle turned out of their establishment shall be unsurpassed by those of any other institution in the country. At a meeting of the Directors of the Company held last week it was voted to increase the capital stock to $50,000. From the showing of the Company for the few months that work has been in progress, it is evident that the capitalists, or the farmer, or any other man who has the means to invest, can find no better place than to take this additional stock.

THE TAX.—Some of our fault-finding citizens, with whom nothing is right except they do it themselves, say considerable, "if not more," relative to the amount of tax voted to be raised by the Common Council at its last meeting. Now, it appears to us to come with an ill grace, especially from any one who has been instrumental in saddling upon the Village a goodly share of its present indebtedness, and especially that part which has been no benefit to the Village. To blow the members of the Common Council for doing what they were compelled to do, viz: raise enough tax to pay that part of the principal of the Village debt which must be paid, and to pay the interest and defray running expenses, appears to us to be all wrong, and will be so regarded by all thoughtful citizens who have respect to the interests of the Village. No thinking man in Buchanan, for a moment can be made to believe that such men as Messrs. A. C. Day and John Buckles would consent to the raising of unnecessary tax. In fact, all told, the taxes are low, for Village purposes, only being 6 and 9-16 mills on the dollar.

COTTON has now on hand a fine line of boots and shoes, of Rochester make, both men and women's, for the spring trade; also other Eastern work in great variety, which he sells at very low figures, for cash.

If your friends' names, who are visiting you from other localities, escape the Editors' notice you must not blame them, if you cannot even give yourself the trouble to let the "news-paper man know."

PERMIT me to call attention to the Steinway Piano purchased by Mr. D. A. Wagner. The tone is brilliant, beautiful and charming. It is one of Mr. Steinway's latest styles, upright, and is well worth the price, seven hundred dollars. It is far superior to any Piano in this vicinity, as any person having the least knowledge of music must confess on hearing it. Any one desiring to purchase the best Piano manufactured in the world and who is willing to pay the price asked therefor, as they cannot be had at the discount at which other Pianos are sold, will do well to call and see the one at Mr. Wagner's before purchasing. Pianos of other first class manufacturers also furnished as low as can be had from any one in the country. J. J. Roe, Agent.

GRADUATED.—We noticed the name of Rev. A. M. Collins in the list of graduates at the Eclectic Medical Institution in Cincinnati, last week. J. HARTMAN, Auctioneer.

This found in every nation

And spoken in every tongue;

'Twas the last of all creation

When mother earth was young.

It flashes with the diamond,

'Tis in the roughest stone;

And the fanny tribes that roam

The depth of grand old ocean;

And now I'll tell you plain

That it ever comes from cloudland

In the gently falling rain.

It is laughing in the sunbeams,

It is laughing in the dew,

But in the moonlight evening time

It comes to us anew.

It sparkles in the fountains,

And 'tis mirrored in the moon;

It is roaming o'er the mountains

And returns again full soon;

'Tis silent in our evening hymns

But ever heard in song.

Now I wish you'd guess this puzzle.

But do not guess it wrong.

P.

Farmers' Club.

Met at their usual place May 24th. As many of the members had not got their planting done the attendance was small, and after an informal meeting they adjourned till Saturday, the 31st inst. It is desirable to have a general attendance next Saturday as it is proposed to discuss the subject of our annual picnic and initiate proceedings therefor. Remember, at Rose's Hall, Saturday, May 31, two o'clock P. M. D. Fisk, Pres.

P. S.—And now, Mr. Editors, it has always been understood that "figures wouldn't lie," but I believe your devil can make them do so, for in my last communication I said the Club would meet the 24th and the pesky fellow made the figures say the 14th. You must look to him a little. D. F. BUCHANAN, May 27, 1873.

FROM FORESTVILLE.

EDITORS RECORD.—If that fellow in Galien knows everything that he thinks he knows the same as he knows that "that chap in Forestville" is a Democrat, he don't know anything. He made quite a mistake, in short, he's missed, so next. He told what he thought, now let me tell what I think. Well, I think—he's a know-nothing.

Respectfully yours, A. G.

DR. WILSON'S GREAT CHILL MEDICINE.—A certain, safe and speedy cure for all diseases of miasmatic origin. It cures, in a few days, without danger or inconvenience, Chills and Fever, Bilious Fever, Dumb Chills, Pernicious Fever, Congestive Chills, San Pains, and all diseases of similar character. Enlarged Spleens are reduced as if by magic, and San Pains are conquered with marvelous rapidity. It requires no other medicine to assist it except in cases of habitual constipation, where a mild purgative is indicated before the Ankle Periodic is taken. Thousands can testify to the truth of all that is said in its favor.

The County Press.

THE NILES Republican says: We take it back. The South Bend Iron Bridge is not of the fatal Truesdell pattern. We were mistaken. So says the Register.—Some thief on Saturday night last removed the door of Walter Walster's granary, six miles north of here, and stole twenty-seven bushels of his wheat—all he had.—Wm. A. Campbell, who was some time since arrested as an accomplice in the late City Treasurer defalcation, has been acquitted for want of evidence.—The South Bend papers complain that the business men of that place want to do more advertising than the papers can accommodate them with. No wonder South Bend prospers.—The City Council last night raised the Saloon license to $100. This is sensible, and would have been more so had the sum been twice as large. Heavy licenses will do more than any other one thing to drive out of existence a number of the lowest groggeries in the City.

THE NILES Democrat says:

Wm. H. Marston of this city, has been appointed to a clerkship in the Auditor General's office, at Lansing. He received the appointment through the influence of Gov. Bagley.—A young lady who patronizes shows, after waiting quite a while to see the animals in a ticket wagon on Main street, Wednesday, was much disappointed to see nothing but a man when the cage was opened.—The chief canvas man of the Great Eastern Circus, accidentally shot himself in the left knee, last Wednesday, inflicting a very painful wound. Dr. Bonner rendered the necessary medical attention.—The team supposed to have been stolen from D. E. Bunbury's livery stable, in St. Joseph, last week, was recovered in this city, on Sunday. The man having it in charge had stopped at the Reading House. He was arrested, and placed in the calaboose, but subsequent examination lead to the belief that his mind was somewhat deranged and he was released.

THE St. Joe Herald says:

Joe Hagar caught a sturgeon at the pier with a strip of board and an old nail.—The Sky Lark was launched Tuesday afternoon, having been thoroughly repaired, and was towed to Morrison dock where she will take in her boiler and machinery.—What can be done to protect our school house in case of fire. How perfectly helpless the people and the fire company for lack of water! Oh for a cistern to hold 10,000 barrels of water.—The young men of St. Joseph have taken hold of the celebration of the 4th, 1873, nearly for the sake of obtaining a good speaker. A meeting is to be held this Saturday evening, and every lover of St. Joseph and home, of the great national holiday should be present.—At the St. Charles Hotel, from a farm in Bainbridge, Charles Krieger has on exhibition a curious stone, which evidently is a meteorite; it is of no particular form or shape, is seven inches one way and five another, and weighs more than eleven pounds. The metal resembles ferromagnetic iron, mixed with copper and silver.—John Manion was arrested by the Marshal on Monday night, charged with gross cruelty to his "little son and daughter in a most unbecoming" manner, whereby their backs were badly lacerated. We are told that Manion claims he was punishing his children for running away from school. The examination will be before J. W. Brewer, Esq., to-day, Saturday, 24th.

THE BENTON HARBOR Palladium says:

The ball at the opening of the new factory of the Phoenix Packing Company on Tuesday evening last was a success—a large party having gathered to enjoy the festivities. What is unusual in so large a party, there was plenty of room and that added much to the enjoyment of the occasion.

FROM NEW TROY.

May 22, 1873.

EDITORS RECORD.—Again your paper has reached us with its columns of news and "phunnygrams." Like the Good Samaritan, it brings light and joy to the wounded mind. New Troy flourishes elegantly, business being lively notwithstanding the backwardness of Spring. Farmers are busy planting their grain, and vegetable begins to appear in downright earnestness, and we might well exclaim with the poet, "Well, Spring, you've come at last, hey you!"

The Leavitt Family gave us an interesting entertainment at Herce's Hall on Friday evening last. The brilliant Harry Bades, star of the Company, with his comic songs and ugly faces, was enough to awaken and rouse the spirits of every one. Yesterday closed the Spring term of the Grammar Department of the New Troy Union School. This department has been under the supervision of Prof. J. F. Smith, of Benton Harbor, for the past seven months. The exercises of the day consisted in examinations, declamations, recitals, essays, &c., after which came the presentation of presents. To those pupils who attended the Winter and Spring terms was presented a Certificate of Honor neatly framed. Those pupils who attended the Spring term only was presented the Certificate without the frame, which came the farewell address of Prof. Smith, earnestly entreating his pupils to still keep an eye on the good and try to remember the precepts he had taught them; remembering that it is not what we learn but what we remember that makes us wise. Prof. Smith is a true teacher, he does not believe in corporal punishment. Not only does he say this, but it has been clearly proven and demonstrated by the great respect shown him by his pupils. Prof. Smith leaves New Troy as one of the best teachers we have had for some time and it is hoped for another year. The Intermediate Department, taught by Miss Ely, of your place, continues yet a month, and then our school closes till September. New Troy is called by some an out-of-the-way place, yet we can boast of one of the finest schools and school buildings in the county.

More anon, A. CITIZEN.

FROM GALIEN.

May 25, 1873.

EDITORS RECORD.—In your paper two weeks ago you published an account of several young men getting hurt by the hand car wheels breaking as they were going fishing on Sunday. One of the young men, Sevel Havens by name, was pretty severely injured. In fact, he has entirely lost the sight of his right eye, but he has come to more grief still. The particulars are as follows: On last Friday night he came home about midnight pretty well set up with bad whisky. His little boy, a child about two years old, was in bed with his mother, but as soon as Mr. Havens came in, if being afraid at death of his father, began to cry to get into its own bed, whereupon the father beat, bruised and maltreated the child in a most shocking manner. In fact, from its waist to its knees it was literally pounded to a pulp, and on one side of its face the whole print or marks of the brute's hand can be seen now where he struck it, and the lower part of one ear is literally torn loose from its head. The next morning (Saturday) he was arrested and brought before Justice Davis, found guilty and sentenced to ninety days in the Work House at Detroit, and fined ten dollars. He was left in charge of Frank Simpson, constable, but succeeded in getting loose and started on the run for Indiana. He intended to make a short cut through a marsh a short distance out of town, but got stuck and was again taken by the officer and handcuffed, but the handcuffs being too large the officer was obliged to secure him with a long chain made fast around the ankle with a padlock. On Saturday evening he was taken to Niles on the accommodation to catch the night express bound east for Detroit, and by this time he is where he ought to have been some time ago for this is not the first time he has brutally beaten the child. His wife has gone to some of her folks. Report says she is a very nice woman, altogether too good for such as he.

Respectfully,

PORTER CHURCHILL.

ITEMS FROM GALIEN.

Smith & Monroes have been repairing their engine and commenced running again on Thursday. They say they are receiving orders much faster than they can fill them. On the 12th of the present month they shipped direct to San Francisco one hundred dozen barley forks.—Business is very dull here at present, farmers busy planting.—Oats, when they first came up, looked black, but the color is much better now. Prospects are good for a fair crop.—There is great complaint about the corn being poor. Farmers say last year's corn will not grow.—A fair resident of this place was taking the RECORD some time ago but stopped it and took the Niles Republican, but has concluded that the RECORD is the best and has stopped the Niles paper and is now taking the RECORD—says it is the best in the county.—Sunday morning early two young men were found fast asleep in the middle of the road. Cause, bad whisky.—Feed for stock is very scarce, money will hardly buy it.—Geo. A. Blakeslee has been repairing his engine and clearing up about the mill. Looks much better.

A lot of railroad hands had quite a lively time in front of Niles Saltsbury's saloon knocking a cannon off the end of a stick for two cents a shot. "Lots of fun."—Ingles & Brother have their new building for a pump factory nearly completed.—Galien is quite a musical town, you can hear it almost any time, night or day. The principal musician is Butler's Jack. Opera music nowhere.—A blacksmith from Buchanan has taken Mr. Larkin's place in John Swen's carriage shop.—The new tin shop is "chuck full" of business.

SCANDAL.

"A whisper soft broke the air—
A soft, light tone and low,
Yet barred with shame and woe,
New might it perch upon these,
Nor further—"

"Ah, me, a quick and eager ear
Caught up the little murmuring sound,
Another voice had breathed it clear,
And so it wandered round
From ear to ear, from lip to ear,
Until it reached a gentle heart,
And that it broke."

"Can't Serve God Alone."

When John Wesley first became a Christian he was inclined to morbid and mysterious views, and spent much of his time in solitude. He longed to be a recluse and cultivate a contemplative piety. An humble disciple, by wise fidelity, saved him from this great peril, and gave the Christian world one of the most energetic workers it has ever known. This man said to Wesley, "Sir, you wish to serve God and go to heaven. Remember, you cannot serve him alone; you must, therefore, find companions or make them. The Bible knows nothing of solitary religion. That reproach openeth the eyes of the young Christian. It leads him to search the Bible to learn what were the fruits of genuine piety. It made him a life-long laborer, with a kindred zeal to that of the great apostle, willing to be all things to all men, if by any means he might save some. Instead of shutting himself in a cell, thinking only of self and heedless of a lost world, he traveled through England, and Scotland, and Ireland, and America, striving to win souls to Christ. What a different spirit would prevail in the Christian world if every Christian convert were animated by the spirit of that humble disciple whose words aroused Wesley to action! Remember, you cannot serve God alone; you must, therefore, find companions or make them. The Bible knows nothing of solitary religion."

Religion in Business.

The North British Review says: "The pressing need of our faith is not simply faithful evangelists to proclaim their doctrines, but legions of men consecrating their worldly vocations, witnessing to that truth on which much skepticism prevails, that Christianity, so received as to become an integral part of man, is omnipotent to keep him from the evil, not by taking him out of the world, but by making him victorious over it. He is a most worthy disciple of Christ who, like Paul, or Buxton, or Budgett, or Perkins, exhibits religion as the right use of ones own self—as the one thing which gives dignity and nobility to what is in itself sordid and earthly—as the mainspring of earnest and successful strivings after loftier ends and a purer life—as the power, outside of and within man, which, lifting up conduct in the individual, raises the community—and not as a state of mind mystical, and in active life unattainable, high up among things intangible, separated from contact with work-a-day life, appropriate to Sabbath days and special hours, to leisure, old age, and death-beds. Every man who is diligent in business, serving the Lord, is a sermon brimful of the energies of life and truth, a witness to the comprehensiveness and adaptability of Christ's religion, a preacher of righteousness in scenes where none can preach so effectively or so well."

An Evil.

"He is a good fellow; you will find but few like him," or, "he is one of the worst men in the neighborhood—he is a rascal." Such are the exclamations we frequently hear. They grow out of a man's impulses rather than his judgment, and are as hurtful. Too much praise is bad as well as too much blame. We should tell the truth, and that only when necessary. The truth is often suppressed than expressed. The man who is railing and fault-finding, is pretty sure, on the other hand, to praise too much. The two extremes generally go together. It is not right; it is wrong. It is hurtful to the person of whom it is spoken because it misrepresents him—it gives a false reputation to him. The truthful solid man, whom you can always rely on—he is the man. When he speaks good of a man, that man is good. If he shakes his head, that is enough. It has more effect than the loud-mouthed cry of the impulsive man.

Morality.

Most men are not so dead to moral principles, but what they feel a spontaneous glow of admiration for the man who does right, no matter if he does not mean to be by it. Some few men say he is a fool, a lunatic, not to make the most of his advantage, right or wrong, but the heart of man is loyal to rectitude. We look admire and praise. We cannot help it. He who is a selfish, covetous, greedy, when all men are fighting and scrambling for money, stands up strong in his integrity, and modestly does the thing—not that is legal, not that is expected, that is customary, not that is as others do, or as many preach, but does the thing that is right—such a man is worthy of all imitation. If the heavenly minded are few in the world, are not the righteous few, likewise?

Enjoying Life.

I must pity that man who, with a little fire of dress and reckless manner, with passions all degenerated upon his face, goes wandering through the streets, driving an animal much nobler in his conduct than himself, and who swaggers into some haunts of shame, and calls it "enjoying life!" He thinks he is astonishing the world; and he is astonishing the thinking part of it, who are astonished and impudently, and say if on this earth there is anything more pitiable. He knows anything of the true joy of life? As well say that the beauty and immensity of the universe were all enclosed in the field where the providential lay among the husks and sprigs.—Dr. Chapin.
