THE WIDOW'S WAGER BY EBEN E. RENFORD.

Widow Deanc sat at the front win dow of her little parlor one morning husy with some kind of fancy work which sliowed off her plump, well shaped hands, with the wedding ring sparkfing on her left one, to the best 'mlvantige. She was a very pretty widow, and no one was better "aware of the fact than she was. Her snug-'fitting dress set off as plump and frim a figure as any in Downsborough, and irowhere in the whole neighborhood could you find a brighter pair of brown eyes, or a more kissable, charming fice: I wonder why young widows their husbands "go the way of all fliesh," straightway after that event "black dresses and the other etceteras of a mourning toilet, they are voted bewitching and so pretty! It is strange that such should be the case, but it seems to be the effect, which widowhood has on them. I Widow Deane heard steps coming down the road; and leaned out to see who was going by just as a man came opposite her gate. List that you, Mr. Fields ?" she called our cheerily. "Good morning. Pleasant weather; isn't it, after the shower last night?".

"Beautiful," stammered Mr. Fields, blushing up as delightfully as a woman. could have done, and appearing as dwkward as an overgrown schoolboy on list first morning at school.

"Won't you come in?" asked the widow, smiling very sweetly, as she in the most charming confusion as she leaned out of the window. mored Mr. Fields "Td like to " with a look full of bushful admiration into the widow's pretty face, "but I'm in something of ta hurry, you see."

"Come in this evening, then," urged the widow, "can't you? It's real lone some. I wish you would, now, really "Mr. Fields." "I—I will!" answered Mr. Fields

"I—I will" answered Mr. Fields
"I'll bring my chess board and men along, if you we no objections, Mrs. Deane.
"I should be delighted to have you," answered the widow, smilingly. "I'm sure I can beat you, Mr. Fields."
"I shouldn't wonder," answered Mr. Fields. "I—I'm no match for women, he added with a very rosy face, and wondering how he was ever bold enough to say it.
"Oh, you naughty man! cried the widow. "I shall beat you, just to pay you for that See if I don't!"
"I dare say responded Mr. Fields as he bowed good morning. What a charming creature she is, he thought as he passed on. I'd be perfectly happy if she was Mrs. Fields." Here

Mr. Fields sighed too. He got lonesome sometimes in his bachelor quarters, but he wouldn't have dared to say so for the world, with the wid- her hand in a decidedly lover-like way, ow's bright eyes looking square into and the widow didn't seem to object his face.

Mr. Fields happened to be admiring her brown curls as she looked up, and the fact that she detected him in the act with the rebellion, relates an incident so disconcerted him that he knocked over the chess-men she had arran and then he had to help her set them again, and their hands came in contact on the board; somehow the touch of the widow's plump white hand made him thrill all over with a delightful sensation, and he wondered, if the accidental touch of her fingers affected him so delightfully, what it must be to hold that hand in his? Poor Mr. Fields! He was very deeply in love; but he didn't dare to say so. 'At

-but I'm afraid you'll beat ! "Why, then you'll have to kiss me, that's all;" laughed the widow. "If you beat I'd just as lief kiss you as not. As likely as not you'll beat me.' "Well, I-I'll take the wager," answered Mr. Fields in desperation. And so the game commenced. If "ever he played to win, it was then. There was something very fascinating about the idea of kissing the widow, but he didn't believe he could muster up courage to do it, if she won the support the family. Legality isn't game. He much preferred that she should kiss him. He could stand it with considerable fortitude to be kissed but to kiss was rather more than he could think of with composure . > dent: In Georgia I heard an incident connection with Lieutenant General Sheridan, which Little Phil-will read with some little surprise, and lay down the paper with some grateful feelings toward the gallant soldier; who saved his life. The night previous to the surrender of Lee at Appomator, Gen John B. Gordon, who commanded Stonewall Jackson's old corps, Gen eral Fitzhugh Lee, commanding the cavalry, and General Longstreet, held a consultation with Gen. R. E. Lee At this consultation it was agreed that General Gordon should try the Federal strength on the following day Sheridan was in command opposite Gordon. In accordance with the pro gramme, Gordon made his demonstra tion the next day and was met by Sheridan's cavalry, which he gallantly repulsed, but finding Sheridan sup ported by large numbers of infantry fell back and sent this intelligence to General R. E. Lee: Upon its receip Gen. Lee ordered the firing to cease and displayed the white flag, unde which the surrender was subsequently made. During the essation of hos tilities, and while Generals Grant and Lee were in consultation, General Sheridan, with a large retinue of offi cers and men about one hundred in all-was seen approaching General Gordon's lines. Of course, this cave alcade, as it came dashing across the plain, challenged the attention of Gor don's entire force. Chancing to turn his head, General Gordon saw a long ʻlank Mississippian within a few yard of him deliberately training his coc ed rifle on the approaching horsemen Gordon dashed at 'the marksman and rode him down, with an exclamatio more emphatic than refined. "Whe more emphatic than refined: "What do you mean, sir?" thundered the trate Gordon, "don't you know firing has ceased by my order?" "I know, General," replied Mississippi, as he gathered himself up, "but I thought it were a ridgment a comin agin us and I jist sighted that short-legged fellar than, and if you hadn't come up I don't etched him from what has contained as fetched him from what has contained to the second contained contained to the second contained contained

About cight 'years' ago Mr. Geo Kittelbueger, a gruin and flour mer chant on Randolph street, near Gra tiot, purchased a farm of 160 acres o land in Gratiot County, Wisconsin, within a mile of the Wisconsin River. The land was the whole of a plateau on the summit of a bluff about 400 feet high, and was intended by Mr Kettelbueger for raising grain for hi business. The land was in the midst of a large mineral district, and was surrounded by lead mines, the ore of which yielded from forty-six to fifty one per cent. of pure lead. Early last spring Mr. Kettelbeuger's manager discovered that his agricultural

Mrs. Brooks seized a gun, and hurrying to her assistance, shot the snake, which on being measured, proved to be nearly six feet long. gifted. He was in the city not long since, and went to hear the Rev. E. H. Chapin speak and lecture somewhere up town. The clergyman was eloquent, as usual; his discourse, in-terlarded with high-wrought passages of rhetoric, closed with a stirring poetical quotation, so well delivered that the Quaker bard applauded with the rest. Some one sitting next to him inquired; "Do you know, Mr. Whittier, who is the author of that extract?" "No, I do not. It sounds familiar, and I like the sentiment." "Why, the lines are yours, Mr. Whittier. You must remember them. They are from your famous anti-slavery odes." "So they are," said Whittier, after a little reflection, and blushing like a school girl caught reading her first love letter. "I really did not recall them. Indeed, they sounded so much better than they cver sounded before, that it is not strange I failed to recognize them." The poet, thoroughly sincere, did not recover for some time from the embarrassment of outwardly acclaiming his own composition, but has now come to regard it as so good a joke that he tells it of himself.

.It is sometimes difficult to remove stains from mourning dresses, but this may be done by using a decoction of fig leaves. To make this, boil a large thandful of fig leaves in two quarts of water until it is reduced to a pint, remove the leaves and bottle the liquor. With a sponge dipped in the liquor nub the crape or cloth and the stains will disappear. Fig trees grow readily from cuttings, and are as easy of culture as oleanders. Crape may be made over new by a simple process. It should be first thoroughly shaken and brushed to remove all dust from it, then held over a steaming kettle, or laid on the grass in the dew. Then it must be folded and laid between the lids of a large book or newspaper-file, and a heavy weight placed over it un-til it is dry. When by any mischance one is caught in a shower, and has a crape veil or other covering wet, if it is removed as soon as taken from the person, folded and dried under a heavy weight, it will look as well as new. Mourning calicoes may be wash-ed repeatedly without losing color, if they are first, placed in boiling hot suds, left there until the water is lukewarm, and then washed in the usual way. Starch used in stiffening them should be mixed with an infusion of coffee rather than of clear water, and like other calicoes, they should be ironed on the wrong side.

B. A. WAGNER. Editors. THURSDAY MORNING, JULY 24, 1878.

RECKLESSNESS OF HUMAN LIFE We seem to live in an age and at a time when the most fearful recklessness of human life appears to pervade every department of human action. In no place is this more manifest than in the means and direction of public travel and transportation. This is true of the means of water transit as of land travel. To the former we direct our thought. The two recent wrecks, that of the Atlantic, in which so many perished, and the more recent one of the steamship Washington on the 5th of July, off the coast of Nova Scotia, teach us that an unpardonable recklessness pervades the actions of those in charge of those ocean steamers freighted with precious life. In the case of the Washington it was only good luck or an accident that the 500 passengers aboard were saved. Had the vessel ran ashore in a little different location the same fate would have resulted to the passengers as in the case of the Atlantic.

During seven days before the striking of the ship no observation had been taken, owing to the state of the atmosphere, fog or cloudiness of the weather. Yet it must have been known to the master of the vessel, if he was competent to have charge of such a craft, that they must be nearing land. Notwithstanding this, no effort was made to obtain soundings, but the vessel was allowed to proceed madly on her course at a speed of nine knots an hour. Had soundings been had every half hour, as ought to have been done under the circumstances, the vessel would not have been wreck-

The greatest farce however, is the sentence of the Master of the Washington, by the court of investigation, to one year's suspension of his certificate. After that year is out he can again take charge of another ship freighted with human life to meet sadder fate than did the Washington. Such men should forever be disqualified from the control of any passenger vessel sailing from any nation on the face of the earth. The public should carefully avoid patronizing steamship lines that keep such careless masters to run their vessels. It will be well for Americans to avoid such lines till greater caution shall mark the management of their steamships. Let that care be taken on these merchant ships that characterize the naval vessels, and such catastrophies as the Atlantic and the Washington will be

The signs of the times in the political horizon are peculiarly encouraging to the producer and consumer of American products. The Republican Conventions held in Ohio, Maine, Minnesota and Iowa have declared unequivocally their determination to stand firmly by the interests of the people, and shall demand railroad reform. The battle is opened and the great question is being discussed. The people are being aroused, and the inevitable result will be, that the mighty monopolies of this nation "must down. The shallow pretense of many railroads that their present earnings are not paying ten per cent. on their capital, is being exposed. While they have a real million of dollars invested they have watered their stock by increased issue till the million dollars is swelled to two millions. Thus to pay ten per cent. on their fictious stock these roads must make twenty per cent. on the real investment.

Railroad reform! Railroad reform! must be inscribed on the political banner that will triumph in the next great contest. It will no longer do for our public servants to cater to the interests of the great and wealthy corporations of the day. As soon as they do their doom is sealed, and their political funeral knell sounded. The people have been burdened enough and robbed by extortionate railroad charges for transportation, till their patience is well-nigh exhausted. They will make political aspirants and public servants feel that the voice of the people is the power behind the throne.

Let the people everywhere demand of their Congressmen relief from the present railway monopoly and oppression and it will come. Let them demand of Congress that a great through freight railway be chartered, constructed and operated in the interests of the people and it will be done. Such a work is a national one, and the people have a right to demand it. The great majority of the nation is interested in such a work, and soon or late it must be accomplished. The people will it, and woe be to that Senator or Congressman who dares to stand up in the coming Congress and oppose the measure. Political condemnation a thousand fold more fearful will rest upon that man than hangs upon the skirts of the prime movers in the back salary steal. Coming events cast their shadows before. and wise will be that public servant who timely espouses the people's cause.

CHOLERA.

The freaks of the cholera the present season have been remarkably strange. In its former visits it seemed to make its progress from east to west, and the larger cities were considered the only places that were particularly dangerous. Not so this Summer. The dread disease appears in small villages as well as some of the larger places, while all the great cities have escaped thus far. Just now it is committing its worse ravages at Mount Vernon, Indiana, a village of some 3,000 inhabitants. It came upon the people there suddenly, and spread consternation throughout their | He most emphatically declares that he borders. Many of the population | believes in a frank and cordial conces- | ing madness, as we are advised there | not furnished as per contract, he shall | such year. fled as from the destroyer. A short sion to the colored man of absolute are good grounds for the arrest of the call a special meeting of the board, in time since the scourge nearly depopulated Greenville, Tennessee, a village of a little over 1,000 inhabitants. So that thus far the freaks of this dread disease seem inexplicable. Places where it would not be expected, seem to be the very points at which its fury is let loose. It is, therefore, of the greatest importance to every town and every precautionary measure,

CONGRESSIONAL ACTION.

The next Congress meeting in December will be required to right some of the wrongs of the last Congress. Among the things that need action and correction is the law requiring the different Departments of the Government to pay postage on their business transacted through the mails. Nothing is made by this foolish requirement, but much time and labor are lost. It needs no argument to demonstrate the truthfulness of this assertion. It is self-evident to any reflecting mind. The extra stamps that have to be furnished the Departments, the extra labor of attaching them all costs time and money to no purpose whatever.

The blow that enraged Congressmen struck at the country press, endorsed by the great journals of the cities, must be righted. The blow is aimed at the very life and liberties of the people. Everything tending to diminish the number and efficiency of the country press, is calculated to aid the city journals of large proportions, and must inevitably tell on the liberties of the people. The country press in every little town and village throughout the length and breadth of our fair land, are so many sentinels set to watch the liberties of the people. It is the country press that stands identified with the great labor interest of this nation, and hence must be sustained, or the liberties of the people must be surrendered. Let the next session of Congress do justice to the country press, and restore the free circulation thereof through the mails in the county where published. This is a right the people have, and a right that we imagine Congress will be quick to restore. It is a fact patent to the most casual observer, that the carrying county papers through the mails in the county where published, does not add one penny to the expense of the service. The contract price for each route in the county is not a penny more, whether the weekly county newspapers shall pass through the mails or not. Why then this discrimination, against the local press? It must be righted, and the fullest means accorded whereby the rights and intelligence of the people shall be maintained.

FRANCE AND HER PROSPECTS.

To the penetrating and thoughtful mind the condition of French affairs are ominous, and that the days of the Republic are numbered is the forced conclusion of many of the wisest heads both in the new and old world. The defeat of President Thiers was a triumph for the monarchists and imperialists. The elevation of McMahon by the Assembly to the chief position in the nation, augured no good to the perpetuity of Republican principles in France. With the army unr the control of a Bonapartist at heart, and the co-operation of the Monarchists secured, assisted by the intrigues of the priesthood, there seems to us to be but little hope left for the final triumph of a French Republic. The influence of the priesthood was lately exhibited in the burial of a Republican member of the Assembly, whose wish was to be buried without religious offices. He was denied the usual honors of his station at his funeral. The Vice President and two of the Secretaries of the Assembly would not accompany the remains to the cemetery, and the usual military escort was not allowed. All this simply because the deceased member did not desire the offices of a priest at his burial. This shows to what extent Catholicism controls to-day in the boasted French Republic. The very spirit of Rome is opposed to freedom. In Lyons it has been decreed that no funeral without a priest shall be allowed to pass through the city after eight o'clock A. M. in Winter and seven o'clock A. M. in Summer.

a fair way to be easily swallowed up by the united co-operation of the Conarchists, Imperialists and the priesthood. President Thiers was only defeated in the Assembly by fourteen votes a short time ago, when Marshal McMa-hon succeeded him. Yet, his power and his policy of a Republic has been waning. So great has been the declension of Republican ideas, that the other day, in the Assembly, after a vigorous speech of Jules Favre, attacking the alliance between the Monarchists and Bonapartists, a resolution of confidence in the government of McMahon was passed by a vote of 400 ayes to 270 noes, a majority of 130. This is a very great contrast with a few short months ago, when the same principles triumphed in the same As-

Thus that religious freedom so essen-

on the public mind, the Republic is in sembly by a majority of only fourteen. This vote has great significance, occurring as it does just before the recess, which will leave the entire control of affairs in the hands of a known Bonapartist at heart, Marshal McMahon. And with such a strong vote endersing his policy, who then shall be able to say in what condition affairs of State will be at the meeting of the next Assembly?

FAVORABLE INDICATIONS IN THE

The recent address to the people of the ex rebel General Beauregard of Louisiana, has created no small interest throughout the entire country. He advocates the recognition of the political equality, and the co-operation of the white and colored races, for the purpose of securing good government. He maintains that in that State, where the whites and blacks are about equal, that no prosperity, peace or good government can be expected to exist without such co-operation. and practical civil as well as political | entire party upon charges which will | the same manner as is above prescribequality, and that such concession would remove the last barrier which opposes the political co-operation of all good men, of whatever color, for the regeneration of the State. "I am persuaded that the natural celation between the white and colored people is that of friendship. I am persuaded that their interests are dentical; that their destinies, in this State where the two races are equally divided, are linked together, and that there is no prosperity for Louisiana which must not be the result of their co-operation.

"I am equally convinced that the evils anticipated by some from the practical enforcement of equal rights, are most imaginary, and that the re-lations of the races in the exercise of these rights will speedily adjust themsolves to the satisfaction of all.

"I take it that nothing but malice or stupidity could find anything either in the letter or spirit of the unification resolution which contemplates any interference or dictation in . the private social relations of the people. These lie entirely outside the domain of legislation and politics.

"I surrender no principle, nor do I separate from any friends. I unite with those who, upon a candid consideration of the circumstances they do not control, have to extract from them the greatest amount of good that they

But it is very clear to my mind that the strength of a State consists in the harmonious cordial, contented union of all good men of the community in honest efforts for the improvement and progress of the whole. It is equally clear that strife, discord, disunion, and distracted efforts and pursuits will produce nothing but weakness and disappointment. The base, selfish, unscrupulous, and mercenary always profit from confusion, disorder, and the disintegration of society.'

A Dirty Trick-But it Wouldn't Work -The Plotters Lose their Grip and Run Away the First Deal.

Buchanan has been putting on airs at an astonishing rate of late, just because a fourth rate circus saw fit to spread its canvass there. Buchanan gaped at the golden chariot, stared at the hump on the camel's back, wondered if the beautiful lady riders were really human, roared when Pete Jenkins tumbled into the ring, drank circus lemonade, and gathering wisdom from experience, determined to have a little circus of their own. They had heard nothing about the recent license law in Niles, and, as Buchanan people in general rather expect when they die to come to Niles, if they are good, this party | tract made in pursuance of such nodetermined to try their fortunes here | tice. nent down town hotel, which has come in for rather more than its proportion of sensations of late, was selected as the theatre of operations. The original motive power was a suit for divorce in one of the prominent fami-lies of our neighboring village, and from present appearances, we should infer an over anxiety for testimony, and an utter unscrupulousness as to the manner of obtaining it, was the immediate cause of disturbing the slumbers of the one hundred good men and women, who, on Thursday morning, were sleeping the sleep of the virtuous, and dreaming of their good deeds of the day before.

A certain professional who, we learn, has acquired some little local notoriety by his connection with one or two scan mags in Buchanan, might be without prejudice to the interests of any of his assistants, denominated at once clown and ring master. Because he was not more of a success was owing rather to his lack of ability than to his lack of cussedness. He was prepared to play his part and for one of his limited calibre, he played it well. He denounced his wife as a woman who heeded not the seventh commandment and was pre-pared to make oath that he was right there when the thing happened. It is smart and quite the thing now-aday's to doubt a woman's chastity, and sneer at any pretensions to virtue -to prate of "man's inhumanity to man' and sometimes woman's falsity, but not to mention man's inhumanity to woman. For this reason, probably more than any other, this Doctor had much the best of the argument at the send off, and when his wife, half frightened from her wits, leaped from the window to an adjoining roof and thence to the ground, it only strengthened people in the belief that she must be bad. So she was arrested on the charge of adultery, preferred by the noble Doctor. The case was called for examination Thursday at four o'clock, and then continued until Tuesday next. We know nothing of the merits of the case, and can only say from present indications we should judge the whole affair to be a put up job to rob a woman of her good name, and damn her character for all time to come. The public will not be slow to estimate the character of a man who would thus assail any woman, and more especially when that woman is his wife. What will the public then think of those others who wittingly lent or sold themselves for a price to such a scheme? The impression has very rapidly gained ground hereabouts that it was a very dirty piece of business from the first, and it is more clearly demonstrated from the fact that the gentlemanly husband, of irreproachable morals, who feigns monstrous indignation at his wife's infidelity in the morning, fails in the afternoon to put in an appearance to substantiate the charges which he has made under oath. Neither do any of his amateur detectives attempt to relieve him. - There may, however, be reasons in his seemconsign them to closer confinement ed for calling regular meetings. even than the circuit of a country physician's practice.

Bill to Establish a Uniformity of Text Books in the Schools of Berrien County.

SECTION 1. The People of the State f Michigan enact, That the persons hereinafter mentioned shall be, and the same are hereby constituted a Board for the establishment of the uniformity of text books in the public schools of Berrien county. The persons constituting such board shall be the county superintendent of common schools, and one school inspector or other person, from each township: such inspector or other person to be elected by the inspectors of such township, who shall give the person so cleated a certificate of such election, which certificate shall be filed with the county clerk of such county at or before the meeting of such board.

SEC. 2. The county superintend ent shall preside at the meetings of such board, and in all cases of a tie shall give the casting vote. In the absence of the county superintendent, such board may elect one of their number to preside. The county clerk shall be the clerk thereof, but shall not be entitled to a vote, and shall keep a record of the proceedings of county superintendent, or other person presiding in his absence.

SEC. 3. It shall be the duty the county clerk to cause to be published, at the expense of the State, in at least two of the leading weekly newspapers of the State, for a period of four weeks next preceding the 1st day of July, A. D. 1873, and every five years thereafter, a notice stating that the county clerk of said county will receive, until the first day of August next ensuing, samples of text books designed for instruction and use in the public schools in the following branches, to-wit: Spelling, reading, writing, geography, arithmetic, grammar, book keeping, philosophy, history, science of government, and algebra; also, sealed proposals stating the price and terms upon which the parties sending any sample will furnish and keep for sale, for the ensuing five years, at such places as the board may designate, a supply of such bocks for the use of the public schools of such county, and that ample security will be required for the faithful performance of each and every con-rom the Benton Harbor Palladium County Papers.

We agree with the Buchanan Record that there is no doubt that the imposition of postage upon country papers was done in revenge for their very general advocacy of the repeal of the franking privilege. That is, it was largely due to that; but it was largely due to the influence and intrigues of the city press. The newspapers of all the large cities have for years left nothing undone to cripple the country press. There are many reasons for this course on their part, all of which we need not enumeratebut among them, perhaps most promisuch board in a book provided for that | nent, is the jealousy of the influence purpose, the daily proceedings of such board to be signed by himself and the try paper can command the talent or try paper can command the talent or possess the resources or influence of a great city establishment; but where we have one large city paper we have two hundred or so country journals, whose aggregate circulation, ability and influence far overshadows those of their city rival. These journals are the exponents of the interest and largely of the opinion of their several localities, and are able to advocate them with great vigor and ability, but they cannot be bought or controlled in the interests of stock jobbers and speculators.

> There is scarcely a great newspaper in the land that is not under the control of some self-seeking "ring" of politicians or speculators, who find in it an eflicient aid, or deem it necessary to buy its silence.

Consequently the city presses are ready to clap their hands at every blow struck at the smaller press of the country, and endeavor to persuade the public that it is all right. They are especially delighted now over the fact that the same postage is charged upon a copy of the Palladium for instance, which is printed in this place and delivered through our post-office, never costing the government a cent, as a ried from that city to San Francisco, and the conveyance of which costs the government probably double the sum received for postage. That suits them, and those who don't like it are stigmatised as "dead beats" and advised in a patronizing way to pay their own way.

The proposition to compel publishers to pay the postage on all newspa-pers was another blow which they attempted to induce Congress to strike at the country press-thinking it would drive many of them into bank-ruptcy, and so cripple the remainder that large concerns that could afford to lose money for a year or two for the sake of monopolizing the business, could well afford the outlay.

We propose to our brethren of the country press that we make common cause of this matter, and endeavor to wake the public up to a full appreciation of the real state of the case. The fact is that the people of the United States could far better afford to do without the city than the country papers. The former are usually the organs of the monopolists and speculators, while the latter are "of the people and for the people."

The New Dog Law in Force.

SEC. 1. The people of the State of Michigan enact, That every person who shall own or keep a dog, shall procure a license therefor, from the clerk of the township or city in which he may reside, for which he shall pay to such clerk as follows: For a male dog one dollar; for a female dog three dollars; which license shall run and be in force from the day of its date to the 1st day of April next thereafter. He shall cause the dog to wear around its neck, during the life of the license, and no longer, a collar distinctly marked with its owner's name and registered number.

SEC. 2. The clerk, on proper appli cation and payment as herein provided, shall issue such license. It shall be dated, shall contain the name of the person to whom, and a description of the dog for which issued, the sum paid for it, and a statement of the time when it shall run out. All licenses for any one year, commencing the first day of April, shall be num-bered consecutively in the order in which issued, commencing with No. 1. Another injustice comes to light in the operation of the new postal law as applied to newspapers. The postage is no more on a heavy metropolitan journal which comes up to the limit of four ounces, than it is upon a light country journal which weighs perhaps less than two ounces. The majority of city newspapers will weigh more than country newspapers, for they are almost always larger. The effect of this law is to tax a light country newspaper the same for carriage two or three miles and delivery at the postoffice that is charged for a heavy city journal two or three thousand miles. The provisions of this act seem in-geniously devised to build up the city press and crush out the country press. If the country editors are foolish enough to praise those members of the last Congress who supported so unjust a law, they deserve to die of starvation.—Lansing Republican.

Incendiarism.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters, at their late meeting in the City of New York, resolved to raise a fund of $100,000 for the detection, conviction and punishment of parties engaged in the nefarious business of incendiarism and arson. The Executive Committee of that Board, at their meeting on May 14th, 1873, carried out the resolution and opened the subscription.

We hail this movement in the right direction, and commend the action as one not only likely to benefit Underwriters, but also to protect the public from wholesale loss. This action is the more important when it is remembered that the experience of the large companies transacting the business of fire insurance in the United States shows that the proportion of loss to be attributed to the above causes is least twenty-five millions of dollars per annum. - Evening Bulletin.

Any man or woman who deliberately impugns the chastity of any woman, without the most positive assurance of guilt, is unworthy the respect of all good citizen, and should be hootocrat and the rest of his burghers, while viewing the golden chariot, the hump on the camel's back, the beautiful have had too much of this mean, low, ful lady riders and Pete Jenkins, the and the time has come when it is to be hoped a stop may be speedily put to a part of it. The recent attempt made to blacken the character of a respectable lady, formerly of Buchanan, to which the article from the Niles Democrat refers, was one of the most damnable outrages that has been concocted in the history of our quiet village. If other parties were made tools of, they deserve no better treatment than the principal mover in this disgraceful affair. We hope that our villagers will yet awake to a realizing sense of the blackness of that heart that would ruin the character of any woman by their damnable slanders, conspiracies and combinations to accomplish their hellish purposes. Again, it is for the best interest of the scholars themselves. In many cases the parents cannot spare the time of the child to attend school more than three or four months in the year. This time should be spent with a view to the very best practical results in the after life of the pupil. If this is done, there remains no question but several of the studies, taught in the regular course at the public schools would have to be abandoned. We mean this only with respect to the pupils whose time for attending school is limited to only three or four months in the year. Such as can attend school all the time by all mons should take the regular course, but such as cannot ought not to be kept back in the more practical studbecause of those studies of less portance. And in the public schools it will not do to show partiality, or

Of all the world over there's light for us all,
Then into our lives let us take it;
The world, though brimful of the glorious light,
Can be dark, if we choose so to make it.

The Last Great Day. One leading feature of the great day of reckoning-the one, perhaps; more than any other pressed upon our regard in Holy Writ-shall be its suddenness, its unexpectedness, the on as usual. Over one-half the globe its inhabitants shall be cating and drinking, buying and selling, marrying and given in marriage; the merpouring over the ancient page; the churchyard a group shall have gathered round the last grave, the coffin shall have been lowered down into it, and the grave-digger have grasped his shovel to cover up the dead. Over dreaming there of the gains that to-world's unpreparedness for it. It is to come as a thief in the night. It is to take the would by surprise. One cannot help often fancying to what a sharp, abrupt, and awful close the busy movements of the busy world shall then be brought. The day before its last shall see them all going chant in the market-place calculating his gains; the scholar at his desk reapers in the field plying their harvest task. And there in the quiet the other half of the globe the inhabi-tants shall have laid themselves down to rest; and the merchant shall be morrow's sales are to realize; and the politician shall be dreaming of the measures that to-morrow, in the senate-house, he is to propose, of the oration that to morrow he is to deliver and bright visions of many happy days to come shall be haunting many a youthful slumberer's fancy; and the ball-room and the banquet-room shall have hung out their glittering lights, and spread their inviting tables, and the smile, and the dance, the ringing laugh, and the jovial song, shall all be there. Just then, without a herald sent, or note of warning the Son of man shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and the trump of God. That trumpet call of heaven shall span at once the globe, and be heard the same moment at either pole. At its summons the million sleepers of the earth shall all rise up from their last repose, their dreamings of earthly tomorrows all cut short. A shivering terror, like that which filled Belshazzar's hall, shall run through the ballroom and the banquet-ocom, and the jest half uttered, the song half sung, they shall stare upon one another-there in pale affright. In the busy market-place the buyer shall forget the price he offered—the seller the price he asked. At his desk the pen shall drop from the writer's hand. The reapers shall fling the gathered sheaves from their hands. And in that quiet churchyard that group around the grave shall be convulsed with wonder, as the coffin bursts and the dead man springs to life and stands up by their side. For that trumpet call of heaven shall do more than waken all the sleeping and arrest all of the living inhabitants of the globe. It shall go where sound never went before—it shall do what sound never did. I shall pierce the stony monument; it shall penetrate the grassy moundfar down through many a fathom of the ebbing waters shall it make its way-over the deep bed of ocean shall it roll—and the sea shall give up at once the dead that are in it, and the earth the dead that are here. And all the dead, small and great, shall arise. And in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, by the forthgoing of one flat of the Omnipotent, over all the vast congregation of the living with which that still vaster congregation of the dead is to mingle-over all the bodies of the living a change shall pass that shall make them like to those new bodies of the raised. And all shall be caught up together in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air, temporarily uplifted above those fires by which the world that now is, and all these its present works are to be burnt up: And the vast company as it rises from the earth shall meet another, perhaps vaster company descending from the skies. For he who shall that day come in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory, shall come with all his holy angels. with him; and there too shall be those angels that lost their first estate, and who had been reserved in everlasting chains under darkness unto the judgment of the great day; heaven, earth, hell—coming thus for once together—that out of that intervening earth, heaven and hell might gather all that each could claim as its own, and then with a contrast heightened by that one meeting part forever.—Dr. Hanna, in Sunday Magazine.

Feed Yourself. . An "Old Divine," writing to ministers, gives them this good advice: "Let the scriptures teach you; and not you the scriptures. One day he was endeavoring to trade an old gold watch for a horse, when the party of whom he proposed to get the weather-guage, asked him how many karats fine the watch case was. Bob, thinking to enhance the value, said he believed it was 75. "That can't be," replied the man, "for 24 karats is the standard for gold." "Well, mebbe there ain't," said Bob, "but the watch has all the karats they is!"

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womalhood, or the turn of life, these Tonig Bitters display so decided an influence that a marked improvement is soon perceptible.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rhettmatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Eidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Viliated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs. They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion of Indiammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs and in Billous Diseases.

For Sirin Diseases. Fruptions, Tetter, Saft Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Phuples, Pustales, Bolls, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Oskin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and stuggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. Says a distinguished physiologist: There is scarcely an individual on the face of the earth whose body is exempt from the presence of worms. It is not upon the healthy clements of the body that worms exist, but upon the diseased humors and slimy deposits that breed these living monsters of disease. No system of medicine, no vermitinges, no anthelminities will free the system from words. Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc., etc. In these as in all other constitutional Diseases, Walkeris Vinegar Bitters have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

Dr. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters act on all these cases in a similar manner. By puritying the Biood they remove the cause, and by resolving away the effects of the inflammation (the tuberoular deposits) the affected parts receive health, and a permanent cure is effected.

The properties of Dr. Walkers Vinegar Bitters are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritions, Laxative, Diurctic, Sedative, Counter-tritant, Sudoride, Alterative, and Antl-Bilious.

The Aperient and mild Laxative properties of Dr. Walkers's Vinegar Bitters are the best safe-guard in cases of cruptions and miligiant fovers. Their balsamic, healing, and soothing properties protect the humors of the fances. Their Sedative properties allay pain in the nervous system, stomach, and bowels, from inflammation, wind, coile, cramps, etc.

Their Counter-tritant influence extends throughout the system. Their Anti-Bilious properties stimulate the liver, in the secretion of bile, and its discharges through the billiary ducts, and are superior to all remedial agents, for the cure of Bilious Fever, Fever and Ague, etc.

Fortify the body figuinst, disease by purifying all its fluids with Vincoar Briters. No opildemic can take hold of system thus fore-armed. The liver, the stomach, the bowels, the kidneys, and the nerves are rendered disease-proof by this great invigorant.
